NEW COMMISSIONERS HAVE AGREED UPON THE ASSIGNMENT OF DUTIES

Hicken Will Be Head of the Public Safety Department.

Mayor-Elect Prince Slated for Department of Public Affairs.

Leonidas Merritt for the Department of Public Utilities.

MAYOR W. I. PRINCE—Division of Public Affairs.
COMMISSIONER F. J. VOSS—Division of Finance.
COMMISSIONER LEONIDAS MERRITT—Division of Public Utilities.
COMMISSIONER RODERICK MURCHISON—Division of Public Works.
COMMISSIONER W. A. HICKEN—Division of Public Safety.

The distribution of duties, so far as the general divisions provided by the charter is concerned, have been practically decided upon by the members of the city commission.

After several days of jockeying for position, it appears that all doubts of the assignment of commissioners to divisions have been dispelled. It was expected that Commissioner Voss would be assigned to the finance division and Commissioner Murchison to the public works division, but there was some question as to the distribution of the other three divisions.

Leonidas Merritt, who was a member of the old park board and was thought to have a preference for the division of public affairs, is said to have come out for the division of public utilities, and he will be assigned to that division. The division of public affairs will thus go to Mayor Prince, as originally predicted, and W. A. Hicken will take the division of public safety, for which he has expressed a preference.

The commissioners will hold an informal meeting in advance of their taking office next Monday and will decide by decide on the distribution of duties, and on other questions that will come before them immediately after they take office. The classification of the departments so as to conform with the divisions prescribed by the charter will offer some vexatious problems, and the commissioners will attempt to

PUSHED THE WORK FARM BILL THROUGH HOUSE

Senator Calls Dunn Road Bill Rank Piece of Injustice.

St. Louis County Girls' Industrial Home Bill Passed By Senate.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Some parts of this bill constitute as rank a piece of injustice as I ever saw," said Senator Ole O. Sageng of Dalton in the senate yesterday afternoon, speaking of the Robert C. Dunn road bill, which was up for re-passage after it had been amended by Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth to take care of a local situation.

"The principal of distribution of the money raised by a state tax for road purposes," continued Senator Sageng, "violates every sense of fairness. I vote 'no,' and I wish I had a thousand votes to cast against this bill."

The bill passed the senate last week, and after it had gone through it was discovered that the provision for a compulsory township tax of 1 mill for

DETROIT WOULD OWN STREET RAILWAYS

Vote in Michigan City Overwhelmingly in Favor—Woman Suffrage Beaten.

Detroit, Mich., April 8.—With yesterday's election returns far from complete this forenoon woman suffrage seems to have been decisively beaten. Nearly all of the counties which voted against it last fall, when it lost out by a margin of 720 votes, were reporting an increasing vote against it and several counties which favored it in the fall election were turning in greatly reduced majorities. It was not thought the complete vote would be available before late tonight or tomorrow.

The city of Detroit voted overwhelmingly in favor of municipal ownership of street railways according to this morning's count from 134 of the 177 precincts. It was generally conceded today that the question would carry by at least a 4 to 1 vote.

The Republican state ticket seemed to have been elected with but one possible exception, the supreme justices. For the latter two offices the Republicans and Democrats were running close. The Progressive candidates, judging from last night's returns, were beaten in every instance. They captured several municipal offices throughout the state, however.

The constitutional amendments providing initiative and referendum on both constitutional and legislative measures, the recall of state officers with the exception of judges of court of record and the firemen's pension all carried easily, according to the indications this morning.

Part returns from 10 of the 12 counties voting on the local option question, showed an even break between the saloon and the anti-saloon forces.

POWER COMPANIES IN CONTEST OVER VALUES.

Washington, April 8.—Electric power companies at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., today engaged in a final contest with the government before the supreme court over the value of the property the government is condemning at the St. Mary's falls for additional locks to accommodate increased traffic on the Great Lakes.

IMPORTANT BILLS ARE ADVANCED

Workingmen's Compensation Special Order in House on Friday.

All Public Utilities Bills to Be Decided This Week.

House Passes Bill for Women's State Fair Auxiliary Board.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The two most important bills remaining before the legislature, workingmen's compensation and state regulation of public utilities, both gained important advances today when they were made special orders for this week. The workingmen's compensation, which passed the senate unanimously, was made a special order in the house for Friday afternoon. The public utility bill of the house committee on general legislation was made a special order in the house for Friday morning, and the several pending public utility bills before the senate were made a special order for Thursday afternoon.

The senate special order includes the Wallace bill, amended so as to correspond with the house bill, the Murray bill based on the New Jersey law, and the house bill applying only to telephones. There was no fight on the motion in the senate, but there was in the house on both bills.

Representative John B. Sanborn, chairman of the house committee on workingmen's compensation, first had the senate bill substituted for the house bill and then moved that the matter be made a special order for Friday afternoon.

Representative H. H. Dunn opposed the motion, first by a point of order which was not sustained, and then by appealing to the members not to let this bill be given an advantage over their measures. The motion to make the bill a special order carried, however, 66 to 33. This means that it will

ZIONISTS IN CLASH WITH AUTHORITIES

Zion City, Ill., April 8.—Zionists clashed with the authorities again today over the enforcement of the ordinance prohibiting parades and street meetings and as a result three persons were assaulted and later locked up.

The Zionists gathered at Zion House at 8 o'clock this morning and forming into two lines attempted to parade. City Marshal Hoover and ten deputies promptly stopped both columns and in driving the marchers back to Zion House, Mrs. H. G. Reed, Mrs. Annis Wirtenlaf and Ralph Wagner were assaulted and arrested. Mrs. Reed was struck over the head with a club and rendered unconscious for several minutes and when Ralph Wagner went to her rescue he was knocked down by deputy marshals.

POPE PIUS HAS SEVERE RELAPSE

Physicians Insist Pontiff Must Have Complete Repose.

Rome, April 8.—Pope Pius suffered a severe relapse in the course of last night. He was very feverish, his temperature rising to 100 deg. Prof. Ettore Marchiafava was with him for an hour.

After a thorough examination the physician insisted that the pontiff should take complete repose and forbade him even to receive the usual daily report on Vatican affairs.

Although the pope's temperature had diminished somewhat during the forenoon his feebleness remained in bed, the doctors in attendance insisting that he must not rise today.

The only persons besides the physicians who were permitted to see the pope were Cardinal Merry Del Val, the papal secretary of state and the sisters and a niece of the pontiff.

No official bulletin has been issued today concerning his condition, but a report is in circulation that the relapse he suffered last night was due to an affection of the kidneys.

In connection with the relapse suffered by the pope it is reported here that in consequence of the two lengthy receptions of pilgrims given by him yesterday he was overcome by extreme fatigue. The two receptions obliged the pontiff to remain for several hours without moving.

In the course of the evening, he suffered a slight fainting fit. After a few minutes the pope recovered consciousness and spoke to those surrounding him.

PLANNING COURSE OF TARIFF BILL

How to Steer Measure Through Congress the Great Question.

Washington, April 8.—How to steer the new tariff bill through congress to the statute books is the question now confronting Democratic leaders of the administration.

Early today the Democrats met in caucus but immediately adjourned to await the message of President Wilson. After providing for working committees of the extra session they will consider the tariff bill as introduced by the ways and means committee.

The principal problem confronting the house leaders who are listening to members of the senate for the sake of harmony, is whether the bill should be reported in the house in its entirety or schedule by schedule. Democratic senators who oppose the sugar schedule with its provision for free sugar in three years, object to consideration of the tariff bill as one bill.

Though no decision has been reached there was a probability today that the house caucus might determine finally to segregate the sugar schedule, taking up all the other schedules and the income tax as one bill. It also was probable that the question of the method of consideration might be not determined by the caucus but be taken up on the floor of the house after the bill had been reported from the ways and means committee.

Chairman Underwood has stated that the question need not be determined at once, as the bill could be separated into sections at any time the house deemed it expedient to take such action.

PRESIDENT URGES NEED OF MODERATE, WELL-CONSIDERED THOROUGH TARIFF REVISION

Washington, April 8.—Following is the full text of the message which President Wilson read to congress in joint session today:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: I am very glad indeed to have this opportunity to address the two houses directly and to verify for myself the impression that the president of the United States is a person, not a mere department of the government, hailing congress from some isolated island of jealous power, sending message, not speaking naturally and with his own voice; that he is a human being trying to co-operate with other human beings in a common service. After this pleasant experience, I shall feel quite normal in all our dealings with one another.

I have called the congress together in extraordinary session because a duty was laid upon the party now in power at the recent elections which it ought to perform promptly, in order that the burden carried by the people under existing law may be lightened as soon as possible and in order, also, that the business interests of the country may not be kept too long in suspense as to what the fiscal changes are to be to which they will be required to adjust themselves.

: It is clear that the whole :
: country expects the tariff :
: duties to be altered. They :

DELIVERS MESSAGE BY WORD OF MOUTH

PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON.

DOCUMENT IS BRIEF AND TO THE POINT

Refrains From Urging Any Other Legislation for the Present.

Galleries of House Packed With People of National Prominence.

Washington, April 8.—President Wilson stood on the speaker's rostrum in the hall of the house today and personally read his first message to congress, the first president since John Adams, to avail himself of that prerogative.

The renewal of a custom a century abandoned, and now surrounded by such wide differences of opinion among members of congress itself, attracted to the capitol an assemblage necessarily less in numbers, but certainly no less distinguished than the company which attended the president's inauguration.

Galleries were packed with national figures, Mrs. Wilson and her three daughters, and the women of the cabinet circle prominent among them. The diplomatic gallery probably contained a representative of every nation with an envoy in the foreign corps here.

Moving Picture Taken.

Distinguished public men who have received the thanks of congress and therefore were entitled to be on the floor of the house, availed themselves of the right, conspicuous among them Admiral Dewey. A moving picture machine was installed to preserve a record of the historic event for the great archives.

President Wilson left the White House quietly after the cabinet meeting, accompanied only by his secretary and one secret service man, and upon arriving at the capitol was escorted to the rostrum in the house, where Speaker Clark sat at one side and Vice President Marshall at the other. The president, speaking with his usual clarity of tone and notable diction, read his message while the company, actually packed into the chamber, gave the closest attention.

Dealt Solely With Tariff.

It was an unusually brief message, dealing exclusively with the need of

POPULAR VOTE FOR SENATORS

Proposed Amendment to Federal Constitution Is Ratified.

Connecticut Approves, Making the Necessary Three-Fourths of States.

Washington, April 8.—By the ratification of the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution, providing for the popular election of United States senators by the state of Connecticut today, in the future members of the senate will be elected directly by the people. The vote of the Connecticut legislature gives the three-fourths vote of the states of the Union necessary to adopt the amendment. The Connecticut house approved the amendment by a vote of 177 to 50 and it passed the senate unanimously.

The Seventeenth Amendment.

The new amendment to the Constitution, for the popular election of United States senators, is the seventeenth to be adopted. It reads:

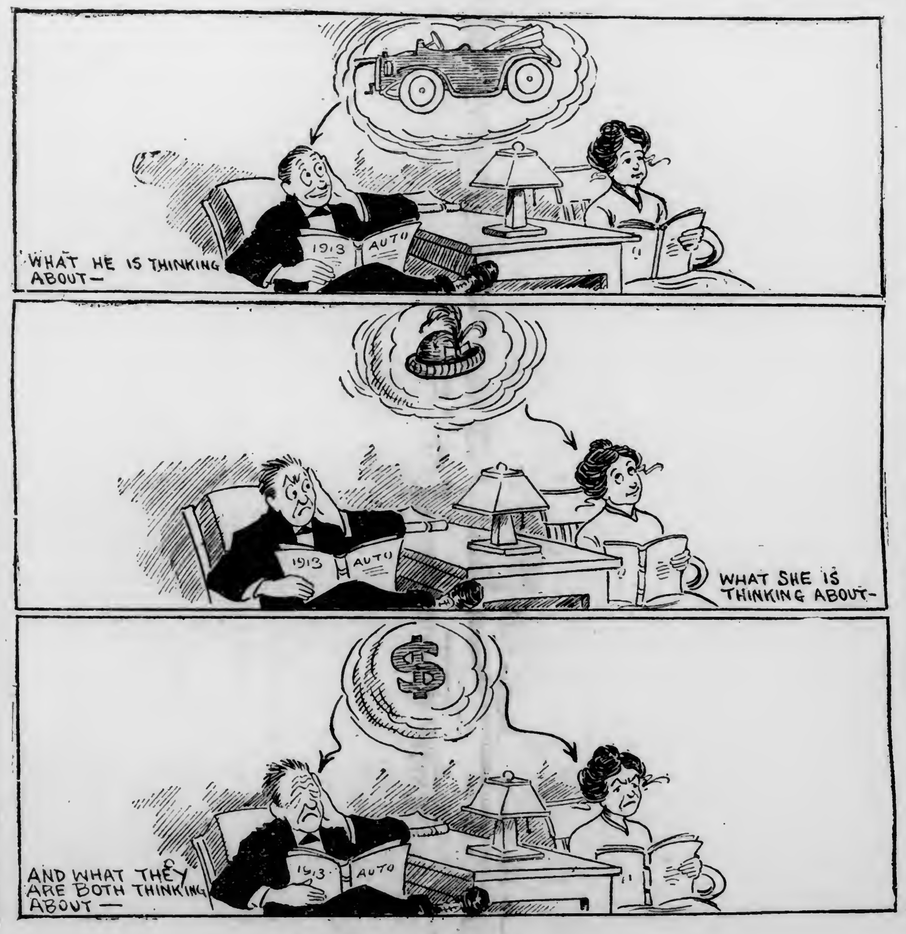

"The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

"When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the senate, the executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies, provided that the legislature of any state may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct."

The amendment primarily transfers the power of electing senators from the state legislatures to the people at the polls. To effect this change it

ARCTIC EXPLORERS DIE OF EXPOSURE

Failure Believed to Have Overtaken Schroeder-Stranz Expedition.

Christiania, Norway, April 8.—Failure has overtaken the German arctic expedition under Lieut. Schroeder-Stranz. Most of the members are believed to have died from exposure or scurvy and the commander-in-chief is missing.

Four of the men have succeeded in returning to Advent Bay, Spitzbergen, and two others probably are safe at Treurenburg Bay.

The aviator and cook died from starvation. Nothing has been heard from Lieut. Schroeder-Stranz since he started on a sledge expedition alone in August last year.

Capt. Ritschel brought the first news of the fate of the expedition in January when he returned to Advent Bay in a deplorable condition and was thought to be the only survivor. A dispatch today from Spitzbergen has revived hopes that a few others may be alive.

Among the party besides the officers were several German scientists, including a geologist, a botanist and an oceanographer.

Experience of polar work was almost entirely lacking and the equipment was said to be very poor.

The intention of the party was to pave the way for a more important expedition under Lieut. Schroeder-Stranz which was to endeavor to make the Northeast passage later this year.

NORFOLKS

Some years ago the NORFOLK was designed merely as a pleated and belted coat affair, had its limitations in but one style, and its adoption confined chiefly to youths and "little chaps."

Its popularity grew rapidly, however, influenced a number of diversions of the orthodox mode and made a strong bid for the choice of men — and young men—and today is in the zenith of favor.

Three of the world's master tailors contribute to our variety of the vogue, and you will therefore see "NORFOLKS" here at their very best.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Martin Murphy thought that he could take a drink whenever he felt as though he needed one or two—just to brace him up.

Martin Murphy used to think so. He doesn't any more. He died in the police station a few hours after he had been arrested with a charge of drunkenness booked against him on the police blotter. Martin Murphy passed away in a stupor caused by overindulgence in strong drink. That he didn't anticipate the end and didn't know where he was proved a blessing in disguise—a blessing because to be thrown into jail can seldom be designated by that term.

Nobody thought that Murphy was going to die, least of all himself. He was a strong, able-bodied man. He had to be to follow his vocation in life. He was a switchman and the outdoor work, the excitement, the strain and the ever-present possibility of fatal injury developed a naturally strong constitution. He was a large upstanding man with a handsome physique and muscles like iron. To look at him anybody would have said that he would live to a ripe old age. He was the picture of health and strength. That his appearance was deceiving is evidenced by his fate. The shell was nearly perfect, but booze had sapped the vitality. The alcoholic stuff had so warped him that he was tottering on the verge of the last journey and did not know it any more than his appearance showed it. But John Barleycorn got him before he was 40 years old.

When Murphy died his body was removed to the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan at 24 East First street. The police did not know anything about him further than that he had been on a spree for several weeks. He had been hanging about the Bowery and had been arrested. Efforts were made to locate his relatives.

Incidentally, the inquiries sent out demonstrate the superiority of the system of Uncle Sam and that of a telegraph company. The undertaking firm sent a message to an address obtained from the poor farm. It was stated that he had been at the institution and that the address was that of his father. A message sent to the number was returned with the information that no one of that name could be found at that address. A letter was written at the same time. This morning a wire was received containing instructions for the forwarding of the body to Chicago. It was signed by his father. Uncle Sam obtained results where the messenger probably did not take the trouble to make a second inquiry.

Further inquiry developed that Murphy came from a wealthy family. His folks are claimed to be high in the society of his home city. The body of Martin Murphy was forwarded today from the undertaking rooms to Chicago.

Murphy didn't have to follow the switchman's life for a livelihood, but his faith in the idea that he could handle alcoholics led him to it. Then the poison destroyed his usefulness there. For in his pocket was found an application for a job in Minneapolis. It had been returned. He was addicted to the booze and the railroad company didn't care to trust him.

Bert L. Warren, arrested on a charge of having stolen a pair of shoes, was found not guilty after a trial in police court yesterday afternoon. Before he was released the judge warned him that he should so conduct himself in the future that his actions would not be open to any question.

Charles Waineskis and Peter Ramanaltis "hoisted" a few too many high ones yesterday afternoon. The high ones evidently had an argumentative effect upon them and wordy passages led to blows. Both were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct. In police court this morning both entered pleas of guilty. No one had been hurt and the court let them down with the minimum, $3 or three days, each.

Joe Williams is evidently a simple sort of a guy. Yesterday afternoon he let one Mike Woicinas hornswoggle him into a bunco game with easy-mark written all over it. Joe lost $2, two silver cartwheels of the good and lawful medium of exchange of the U. S. Joe wasn't without his suspicions, however, and after he had been deprived of his wealth he called in Patrolman Montgomery. The officer appreciated the situation in a minute and jugged Mike for petty larceny. In police court this morning Mike was convicted of the charge and given $50 and costs or thirty days in the county jail.

"They say that the hand can deceive the eye, but it is remarkable how perfectly the hand obeys the instinct," said Patrolman George Wood today.

Officer Wood is the traffic cop stationed at the corner of Third avenue west and Superior street. It's a busy corner or no one would be there. And being a busy corner the bluecoat has ample opportunity for observation.

This morning he was commenting upon wind and hats. Patrolman Wood isn't a blower, but the wind in that vicinity is some puffer. A few hats were whiffing in this direction and that. Some of them became subjects for the cleaner and some for the discard.

But it wasn't upon that that the policeman commented. He remarked about the surprisingly large number of persons who saved their headgear from dirt or destruction. "Just notice that bunch coming along there now," he said. "Keep your eye on them. You'll notice that out of the crowd one will ose his hat. The rest will just manage to grab theirs before they go kiting away. How they do it is more than I can understand, but they do, just the same. Where one hat gets away a dozen are caught just as they are flying out of reach. They eye and the mind may both be quick, but I don't credit either with saving the hats. It's just instinct and nothing else. There's no other explanation that'll explain it."

JONATHAN BOURNE.

Portland, Or., April 8.—Mrs. Lillian Elizabeth Bourne filed suit for divorce in this county yesterday against Former United States Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., alleging cruel and inhuman treatment as her general grounds.

Specifically Mrs. Bourne describes the inhuman treatment as consisting of applying epithets to her, deciing to join her in entertaining guests, and refusing to talk to her. Although they occupied the same apartments in Washington, she says her husband has, to all intents and purposes, lived apart from her.

GREAT NORTHERN'S BIG POWER PLANS

To Develop Power in Washington to Operate Tunnel Trains.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—The construction of a dam and power plant on the Chelan river in Washington, to cost more than $10,000,000, is being planned by the Great Northern road.

President Carl Gray, Vice President J. M. Gruber, General Manager Emerson, General Superintendent Bell and Superintendent of Motive Power Hawkins, left St. Paul Monday to inspect the territory adjacent to the Chelan river. Upon return of the officials, actual construction work is expected to start.

This undertaking is the culmination of the Great Northern's scheme to propel its trains over the Cascades by electricity. The power plant and dam will be constructed on the Chelan river, a small neck of water connecting Lake Chelan and the Columbia river.

Railroads

SAFETY MOVEMENT ASSURED SUCCESS

Northwestern Official Defends Plan to Reduce Accidents on Road.

"Safety First" is the slogan on a lot of railroads just now, and especially on the Northwestern. Recently at a meeting of the Western Railway club in Chicago it was intimated that the "safety first" movement would prove a failure. R. C. Richards of the Northwestern replied immediately as follows:

"I am very much surprised to hear one of the gentlemen who preceded me, or anybody else, talking about the safety movement failing. There is not one chance in 10,000,000 of it failing. It cannot fail, Mr. President, because the safety movement is right and nothing that was right ever failed.

"The safety movement appeals to the men, because it prevents their getting hurt. It appeals to their families, because it saves them from poverty and suffering and destitution. It appeals to the practical everyday man who runs the railroad and the shop, because it increases the efficiency of the organization and makes it more economical and profitable to him. It appeals to the man of imagination, because anything that is human, that tends to the conservation of human life, appeals to any man that has imagination, and we all have some imagination. There is no movement in the annals of railroad history that has ever spread so fast and so far in the same time as the safety movement. In two short years it has gone from the Atlantic to the Pacific; it has gone from the Gulf to the Great Lakes, and it has reached over and touched Japan, because over there in Japan even they have copied the Northwestern safety organization, and they have copied it because the vice president of the Imperial Government Railway of Japan says the Northwestern men have accomplished such miraculous results that they want to adopt it in Japan.

Men Made It Success.

"Just as soon the Northwestern men understood it was they who got hurt and not the officers of the road; that it was they who leave widows and orphans and not the stockholders or directors; when they understood that every time one of them was killed or injured and taken out of service it increased the risk of the rest of them because a green man had to be put in his place—an inexperienced man. Just the minute that that thing got under their belts, the Northwestern men, who are the best lot of railroad men in the world, took hold of it and made it the success that it has been made. It was the Northwestern men, it was not the officers. The officers have not done it; they have assisted, but 95 per cent of all the men on the safety committee of the Northwestern railroad are the men who do the work. Not the bosses —we do not want the bosses on the committee. We want the men, because it is they who are getting hurt. The men who are doing the work, and you know and I know and we all know that it is the men on the railroads, not the officers, that run the railroad, and just as soon as we can get them to understand that—and they are understanding it on the Northwestern—just so soon will the first safety movement be more successful, be stronger and better than it ever has been before. Today, with an increase in the business on the Northwestern railroad of 15 to 20 per cent, we show a decrease of 10 per cent in accidents over what we had a year ago. That is what the Northwestern men are doing, and they have learned that they want to get rid of the chance-taker, because the chance-taker is the man who makes cripples; he is the man who makes widows and orphans; he is the man who supports the undertaker and the doctor and the artificial limb maker, and we are getting rid of him on the Northwestern railroad."

SPUR MAY BE PART OF THE MAIN LINE

Soo Extension From Cuyuna May Be Continued to the West.

It is announced that the Soo road's extension of about seven miles from Cuyuna to the property of the Iron Mountain Mining company, will be finished by June 15. This extension it is claimed will tap some rich territory and will ultimately form a part of the main line, which it is planned will be a part of the Montana extension that is now being built.

Work at the property of the Iron Mountain company has been resumed and new pumps and additional mining equipment will soon be installed. Shipments will begin as soon as the Soo extension is completed.

BOARD OF VIEWERS FOR NEW ROAD

W. B. Getchell of West Duluth, Henry Johnson of Floodwood, and Thomas McArthur of the town of Industrial were this afternoon appointed by the county board to view the construction of the Duluth-St. Vincent highway and the course taken by the drainage project in connection with the building of County Ditch, No. 1.

In both instances, the board of viewers will determine the benefits to property owners and report their findings to the county board. This is done in order that the county auditor may assess the benefits against the property.

The Duluth-St. Vincent road will be built under the Elwell law. In St. Louis county it will be constructed from the western limits of the city of Duluth to the Itasca county line.

TO MAKE CHANGES IN RULES OF THE SENATE.

Washington, April 8.—Changes in the rules of the senate, advanced by the Democratic leaders of that body as designed to make the senate more thoroughly "Democratic in fact" were subjects of consideration for a caucus of party members called for late today.

The changes, as prepared by Senator Kern, the Democratic leader, are expected to divest committee chairmen of much of their power of control over legislation and to give to the majority party in the senate general control over the selections of committee members.

It is proposed to adopt the new principles as representing the sentiment of the Democratic majority by which the senate leaders will be guided, even though the provisions should not be incorporated in the rules of the senate.

MAXIMUM SENTENCE FOR EX-CONGRESSMEN

Harry Coudrey and Harry Gardner Given Four and Half Years.

St. Louis, Mo., April 8.—Former Congressman Harry M. Coudrey and Harry B. Gardner were sentenced to imprisonment of four and a half years in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, and each was fined $1,500 in the Federal district court here this afternoon.

The sentence imposed was the maximum allowed under the law, which permits a penalty of eighteen months' imprisonment and $500 fine to be imposed for each of three of the seven counts on which the men were convicted.

The two men were convicted of using the mails to defraud in the promotion of what were known as the "twin insurance companies," the Continental Life Assurance company and the International Fire Assurance company.

Before Judge Dyer passed sentence, he heard arguments on a motion for a new trial filed by attorneys for the convicted men. He overruled the motion and fixed the appeals bonds of the prisoners at $10,000 each, an increase of $4,000 each over the trial bonds.

Gardner's wife and daughter were in the courtroom when sentence was passed.

SUFFRAGETTES DESTROY MAIL

London, April 8.—Another campaign of destruction was started by the militant suffragettes of London against the mail boxes today. Hundreds of boxes were rendered useless and much mail was destroyed by the use of acids, ink and burning rags.

Attempt to Blow Up Castle.

Dudley, Eng., April 8.—Militant suffragettes early today attempted to blow up the ruins of historic Dudley castle, parts of which date back to the eighth century.

The inhabitants of the town were awakened by a loud explosion coming from the direction of the castle. A large force of police was dispatched there and on searching the surrounding grounds found some chemicals and blasting power. Most of the powder had failed to explode and the damage done was not serious.

Two old siege guns weighing a ton each were thrown out of the embrazures of the castle by the explosion.

Many of the windows of a group of none of the inmates were injured. adjacent cottages were broken but "Votes for Women and Damn the Consequences" was painted on one of the old cannon and "In Honor of Mrs. Pankhurst" on another. A quantity of suffrage literature was scattered about. The police found no clew to the perpetrators.

One account of the explosion says that the suffragettes loaded and fired one of the big guns which was a relic of the Crimean war. It was a Russian cannon captured at the siege of Sebastopol.

STREET CAR JUMPS BRIDGE INTO RIVER

Boy Killed and Sixteen Persons Injured in Baltimore Accident.

Baltimore, Md., April 8.—August Hohman, 16 years old, was killed, and sixteen persons injured when a car of the Light Street line jumped from the tracks on the long bridge over the Patapsco river today and plunged into seven feet of water.

The draw near the Baltimore end of the bridge had been passed and the car was regaining speed on its last 100 yards on the structure when it slid diagonally across the east rail and disappeared over the edge with its load of screaming and struggling humanity.

Windows were broken in the struggle and while persons nearby who had been attracted by the crash ran to their assistance, the penned in passengers fought their way to freedom. Rescuers laid planks from the bridge to the roof of the car which was about half submerged. Over these the wet and bleeding passengers were assisted and those requiring medical treatment were taken to the hospital.

DULUTHIANS VINDICATED

Charges Against Cromwell, Scott and Le Tourneau Not Proven.

Judge Cant Takes Case From Jury and Dismisses It.

J. L. Cromwell, J. Allyn Scott and J. J. LeTourneau have been vindicated of the charges of fraud and conspiracy which was brought against them in a district court lawsuit by C. J. Petruschke, West Duluth box manufacturer.

Judge Cant dismissed the case after testimony had been presented at a trial which dragged over six days. The court granted the motion of Edwin & Baldwin, attorneys to dismiss on the grounds the case had not been substantiated. The court granted the motion and refused to let the jury take the case.

The court, in granting defendants' motion, stated that there had been no evidence introduced during the whole trial which would in any way point to fraud or conspiracy on the part of Messrs. Cromwell, Scott or Le Tourneau.

Petruschke claimed that he had been induced to go into an enterprise into which he had lost his property. He asked for a judgment of $142,000. The case was brought under the fraud and conspiracy statute. His attorney was John B. Arnold.

RECOGNITION OF NEW REPUBLIC

What World Powers Will Do Regarding China Is Problematical.

Washington, April 8.—Recognition of the new Chinese republic by the United States and other world powers still was problematical today with the meeting of the Chinese constitutional assembly scheduled for this afternoon. No official word was forthcoming at the White House or the state department early today as to what the United States proposed to do. It was taken as settled that neither Great Britian nor Japan would recognize Yuan Shi Kai's government at this time and there was some doubt if other powers would do so before evidences of a stable republican government had been given.

When Secretary Bryan, more than a week ago, formally notified all the diplomatic representatives in Washington that the United States intended to recognize the new republic today, he suggested that all other governments do likewise. It became apparent soon, however, that there would be no concerted recognition and all attention today was turned upon the action of the United States.

Chicago, Ill., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Gibbons yesterday entered a decree annuling the marriage of Harold McDonald to Evelyn Marie McDonald, an actress, whose mother lives in Duluth. Crosby, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Failing in their demands for an eight-hour work day instead of ten the men employed at the Kennedy mine of the Rogers-Brown company and the Armour mine went on a strike Monday. Up to noon today a settlement had not been effected. About 200 men are involved.

JAPS IRONICAL.

Newspaper Refers to Hollowness of Americans and Makes Threats.

Tokio, Japan, April 8.—The hollowness of American advocacy of equality is the subject of an ironical editorial in the Asahi, the leading newspaper of Japan, which says that Californians propose to treat their neighbors across the Pacific worse than negroes. The article continues:

"This anti-Japanese agitation will impress us with a keen sense of humiliation, which will require many years to efface. Americans must be prepared for a cool reception when they visit or settle in Japan."

The Asahi says that in the event of the passage and signature of the bill, Japan must immediately withdraw her support from the Panama-Pacific exposition and deny to Americans the rights of ownership in Japan.

Champion INTERCHANGEABLE GAS, COAL & WOOD Range TWO-IN-ONE

Just As Good

Many merchants not handling the Champion Interchangeable will tell you they are selling one just as good. Why do they say "Just as good?" That is because they know every woman using a Champion is perfectly satisfied with her range. Don't be fooled into taking one of those just as good ranges; imitations are never as good as the original and the Champion is the one they are trying to copy. But they will never get very close to it, for the special features are thoroughly covered by 14 patents.

The Life of a Range

You know the ordinary gas ranges do not last very long, they soon rust out. No wonder, they only weigh 125 to 150 pounds. The Champion Ranges weigh from 485 to 550 pounds, quite a difference, isn't it? There is that much difference in the life of them, too. You see, they make the Champion Interchangeable Ranges just as heavy as our regular coal ranges are made. They will last you a life time with fair use.

Traveling Man's Remarkable Statement.

Several years ago I was troubled with Bright's Disease, which worried me a great deal as my father who had doctored a long time with the best doctors of Kendalville, Ind., without relief or cure, died of that dreadful disease. Having been around my father most of the time during his illness, I became familiar with the symptoms of Bright's Disease.

When I had my first attack my face became swollen and all grew black before my eyes and I felt as though there was little hope for me. After having several of these attacks, I began taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which my wife recommended to me and noticing some improvement continued its use for one year, never missing one day but taking same as regular as though a physician was prescribing for me.

It is now two years that I discontinued the use of Swamp-Root as I consider myself absolutely cured of any trouble, having had no use for a doctor or any other medicine and have been able to resume my position on the road.

I fully believe that had my father taken Swamp-Root in time, he would have been alive to-day and we would have been saved many a big doctor bill.

I believe that if people afflicted with any kind of kidney or bladder disease would take Swamp-Root in time and use it regular, they would cure themselves and save much suffering as well as big doctor bills.

I feel very grateful towards your medicine and never fail to tell what Swamp-Root did for me.

You are at liberty to use this testimony at any time.

Citizens Carry Bessemer.

Bessemer, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two tickets were placed in the field and while the contest was not as strenuous as other years there was quite a little excitement. Andy Byrne, the Citizens' candidate, was elected mayor by about 100 majority over the Tax Reform ticket candidate, Iver Hagen. City Clerk William Guyer, having been nominated by both parties, was elected without opposition.

Indigestion Causes Many Ills

The hurry and hustle of modern life in cities and villages and in the busy seasons on farms leads many people to indigestion. Impaired digestion lies at the bottom of most human ills, because lack of proper nourishment reduces the natural disease resisting powers of the body.

Poor digestion affects all relations in life, including earning power. Impoverished blood follows if food is not thoroughly digested and poor blood results in physical weakness and reduced nervous energy. There is no reserve store of energy and strength which is required to push ahead and accomplish the things desired. Success depends upon good health.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey when taken just before meals stimulates the secretion of saliva for the digestion of starches and the secretion of gastric juice for the digestion of other foods, thereby improving the digestion and assimilation of the food and giving to the system its full proportion of nourishment. This action upon the digestive process is of great importance as it brings to all the tissues and organs of the body the nutriment necessary to their sustenance and indirectly to the whole system strength and vigor.

STATE ROAD AUTHORIZED

Highway Will Follow the Bank of Judicial Ditch No. 3.

Residents of Floodwood and vicinity today received favorable action from the county board on their petition for a state rural highway to be built from Floodwood to the Aitkin county line. The county commissioners approved the general plan by adopting a resolution which directed E. K. Coe, county road engineer to make a survey of the highway in accordance with the plans suggested by the petitioners.

Floodwood people interested in the project were represented at the county board meeting by W. A. Watts, a local attorney, who appeared before the commissioners with the petition and a number of maps, estimates and other data which evidenced the good faith of the petitioners in the matter.

The proposed highway runs in a due westerly course from Floodwood to the Aitkin county line, where it is proposed to have it connect with a similar highway in Aitkin county, the preliminary plans for which are now under way. The road from Floodwood to the county line, it is planned, will be built on the waste bank of Judicial Ditch No. 3, now under construction. Floodwood residents claim that if this is done, the cost could be kept down to the minimum. The road completed would furnish a highway from Hill City to Floodwood.

County Road Engineer Coe was also directed by resolution to make a survey of the proposed improvement of deepening and dredging the Burnside river between Shagewa and Burnside Lake, near the city of Ely. The engineer is requested to present estimates and other data relative to the cost of construction. This action was urged by the Commercial club of Ely.

A survey and estimate of the cost of dredging the East Two Rivers from its mouth in Lake Vermilion to the Duluth & Iron Range railroad station at Tower, was also requested from the road engineer in a resolution which was adopted today. This improvement was sought by the citizens and Commercial club of Tower.

Seeks New Trial.

Annie Nelson, guardian for Lawrence Nelson, her young son, is seeking a new trial in the personal injury action against the M. M. Gasser company which was decided adversely to her at this term of the district court. The plaintiff asked $15,000 damages for the boy who claimed to have been crippled for life as a result of being run over by a delivery wagon belonging to defendant. The jury found in favor of the defendant.

Wants $15,000 Damages.

A personal injury action in which John Pajonen, aged 45, wants the Oliver Iron Mining company to pay him $15,000 for injuries claimed to have been received through an employer's negligence at the Norman mine on Nov. 26, last, was brought on for trial this morning in district court before Judge Fesler and a jury. Pajonen claims that while cleaning a chute, a load of ore was dumped upon him, resulting in serious and permanent injuries to his head, body and limbs.

Ranges Prosperous.

Charles Murphy, an attorney of Aurora, who is registered at the Spalding, declares that not for several years has the foundation for the prosperity of the northern part of Minnesota been so firmly established as it is at the present time, and that in the event of the tariff tinkering not seriously upsetting present business conditions, the summer and fall months should see a decided increase in both business and population.

Leaves for Range.

Thomas F. Clark, who for a number of years has been engaged in the money order department of the postoffice, left yesterday for Virginia, where he has taken a position with an advertising firm of Duluth, which extends its business on the ranges. Mr. Clark came to Duluth with his parents when he was 3 years of age and has resided here ever since. He resigned recently from the postoffice. He was banqueted Saturday night at the Commercial club by a number of friends, and was toasted by men much older than he. He was presented with a beautiful Masonic seal ring.

Flowers for Hospitals.

Patients in the wards at St. Luke's and St. Mary's hospitals yesterday received many bouquets of flowers which were sent to the funeral of David Hill, which was held yesterday. The relatives felt that they might be enjoyed by those who were ill, and after the funeral services they were sent to the hospital instead of being left at the cemetery to be frozen.

Verdict Is Directed.

Judge Bert Fesler yesterday directed a verdict for the defendantt in the case of L. A. Larsen against School District No. 35. The action is one in which Larsen, mechanical engineer, sought to recover about $1,700 as a commission for the supervision of the construction of a school building.

TO PROPERTY OWNERS AND TAXPAYERS:

McDONNELL'S PROPOSITION ON BITULITHIC

Referring to the proposition submitted to the Council of the city of Duluth by P. McDonnell, in which he offers to construct a "standard bitulithic pavement two inches on a five-inch concrete foundation according to plans and specifications of the City Engineer for the sum of not more than $1.60 a square yard," provided the city of Duluth will protect him in the payment of royalty to Warren Brothers Company.

McDonnell's proposition is not made in good faith.

Two pavements have been constructed in Duluth under the patents and methods of Warren Brothers Company—First Avenue West in 1902 and Nineteenth Avenue East in 1903.

The city officials at the time these pavements were laid realized their merit, but objected to the fact that they were patented, and in their proper efforts to save money to the taxpayers and the city, adopted a form of construction known as "Tar Macadam" or "Donnellite" pavements. Large areas of these pavements were laid between the years 1904 and 1911. Their failure is a matter of history and deep regret to those who paid and are paying their good money for the imitation substitute for bitulithic.

The real bitulithic pavements on First Avenue West and Nineteenth Avenue East speak for themselves and we refer to them with pride. That they are in good condition and have given full value and satisfaction is demonstrated by the fact that last year Warren Brothers Company made an offer to the Board of Public Works to put a new surface on the streets which would restore the original rough grit surface and fill up all holes which had been made in the installation of sewers, for the sum of EIGHT CENTS per square yard, and the Board of Public Works did not accept this low offer because they felt that the pavements were in such good condition after approximately ten years' wear that the expense of even this small sum was not warranted.

The difference in the wearing qualities of the real bitulithic and the imitation pavements under actual use in the city of Duluth convinced the taxpayers and officials of the uselessness of attempting to secure the "real thing" by substituting a cheaper article, and by resolution of the Common Council approved March 1, 1911, the Mayor was authorized to, and did sign a contract with Warren Brothers Company under which by the payment of a royalty the city of Duluth could either with its own plant or by contract construct the real Bitulithic Pavement under the methods and supervision of Warren Brothers Company. As stated above after expensive and useless experiments the officials realized that the interests of the taxpayers and the city at large demanded that they discontinue the use of the substitute imitation which had failed and secure the real bitulithic pavement which had proven its durability and merit. Since the agreement was made the city has discontinued the advertising for bids on the so-called "Tar Macadam" and "Donnellite" failures and has required bidders to bid on real bitulithic pavement constructed under the processes and methods of Warren Brothers Company.

McDonnell had full knowledge of this contract under which he had absolute protection against the payment of any royalty because the city of Duluth had by written contract agreed to assume the payment of royalty for the benefit of any and all contractors.

If McDonnell's proposition is made in good faith, why was it not made at the proper time, i. e., when bids were received on April 4 on the various streets now under consideration, and not at a later date when he knew that his proposition could not be accepted or even considered legally.

In their proper efforts to protect the taxpayers from a duplication of the wasteful expenditure of money for worthless imitations, the City Council, after an extended trial and full experimentation procured full protection for McDonnell and every other contractor and McDonnell knew that he had this protection and refused to take advantage of it at a time when his proposition could have been legally considered.

McDonnell's proposition is not made in good faith but is an attempt to confuse the actual facts and to persuade the taxpayers that they should return to the laying of imitations and substitutes for bitulithic, which have failed and which have caused the wasteful expenditure of large sums of the property owners' money to the detriment of the city. Do you as a taxpayer want the street in front of your property for which you must pay your good money paved with an "as good as" imitation of bitulithic pavement in view of the condition of the imitation laid by McDonnell on East Superior street and other streets in the city of Duluth.

Propositions similar to that submitted by McDonnell and with the same motive have been made by the same interests with which McDonnell is now co-operating, (the Creosoted Wood Block artificial monopoly) in various cities and have always been rejected because the officials and taxpayers would not be hoodwinked by this attempt of a competitor to construct an inferior pavement. Is it to your interest as a taxpayer that the paving of your street should be done under the supervision of those interested and whose business existence depends upon scuring proper construction, or shall it be paved by those whose financial interests require them to lay an inferior pavement with a view to bringing condemnation upon an established meritorious pavement. At Miles City, Mont., a similar fictitious offer to that made by McDonnell in Duluth, was made in the interest of the Creosoted Wood Block Monopoly, and was promptly and emphatically rejected because the officials realized its iniquity, and after a responsible contractor had made the statement in open council meeting that if the creosoted wood block interests would give him the same price for wood blocks which they had quoted him at Billings, Mont., he would agree to construct wood block pavements in Miles City for 50 cents per square yard less than the price quoted for creosoted blocks, notwithstanding the difference in freight rates from the point of manufacture to Billings and to Miles City, which is a very considerable amount.

BITULITHIC MONOPOLY

The cry is made that Bitulithic is a monopoly because it is patented. Bitulithic is patented and the patents have been declared to be valid by the United States courts. But of what value is the patent unless the pavement can be sold, and to be sold it must be offered at a price which is reasonable and consistent with the actual proven value of the pavement. No city or property owner can be compelled to purchase bitulithic, and will not do so, unless the price is satisfactory. The patent in itself has no productive value if the public won't buy bitulithic, but the public has appreciated its real value and reasonable price because Bitulithic pavements to the value of over sixty millions of dollars have been sold in over two hundred and fifty cities during the past twelve years. The city of Duluth has protected its citizens against any "hold-up" by securing not only an agreement under which the city or any contractor can construct bitulithic, but has also secured a binding contract from Warren Brothers Company that it will furnish the wearing surface mixture at a stipulated price to any and all contractors, and further the contract states the price at which the material will be furnished for making repairs at any time in the future, so that any "hold-up" would be impossible. No such agreement as to price of material is offered by the Creosoted Wood Block interests and other material concerns.

LARGE DIFFERENCE IN BIDS

The statement has been made that there is a difference of $12,000 between the price bid for Bitulithic and the price bid by McDonnell on some other material. This information could not be authentic because inquiry at the city hall on Monday morning after the above statement had been made to taxpayers on Fourth street was met with the statement that the bids had not been tabulated and no information was obtainable by the representative of an interested taxpayer. Rough calculations based on figures taken down at the time the bids were read on April 4, show the following comparisons:

McDonnell's bid for asphalt such as he laid on East Fourth street, approximately	26,750
A difference of only	$ 1,750

The above figures on all three classes of pavement are based on all items bid upon, except the curb and curb and gutter. The selection of the kind of curb or curb and gutter has not been made and cannot be considered in comparing the relative prices of the pavement.

The estimate of quantities and bidding blanks prepared by the city required contractors to bid on two classes of curb and gutter in connection with all three forms of pavement above mentioned. These two classes of curb and gutter are widely different in the amount of material to be used in their construction and the labor necessary to do the work. One form of curb and gutter requires 12½ per cent more material to the lineal foot than the other, and the forms for one class cost from 35 per cent to 40 per cent more than the forms for the other. Notwithstanding these wide differences in cost, contractors were required to bid one price on both classes of construction, without information as to the quantity of either class which would be used. An honest contractor, without "inside" information as to what and how much would be required, and whose profit would depend on legitimate compliance with the requirements of the specifications and not on what he could secure through "extras," "swollen" estimates and favorable changes in the specifications, can base his bid on but one condition under such indefiniteness, and that is that he will be required to use the most expensive form of construction. Following its usual policy of operating with local contractors of acknowledged ability and integrity in bidding on the bitulithic pavement, Warren Brothers Company secured from George R. King complete prices for all items except the actual construction of the pavement proper, and we believe that Mr. King's reputation for ability and integrity in the city of Duluth needs no laudation at our hands.

AKELEY WILL SEE BOXING AND WRESTLING

Akeley, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Akeley Athletic club, which has recently equipped a fine building and organized with a combined membership of 150 young men and women, will give an athletic entertainment Wednesday evening with Cyclone Johnny Thompson of Sycamore, Ill., who met Young Mahoney at Superior, Monday evening, in a ten-round contest, and Dixie Sims, his sparring partner, as the principals. Cyclone Johnny Thompson will also give an exhibition of bag punching and rope skipping. Sailor Jack of Duluth will appear in a wrestling exhibition with the "Terrible Swede of Akeley" a promising youngster. Two women members of the club will spar four rounds. The Akeley Athletic club was organized by Rev. R. G. Green of the Methodist church, who has made a special study of the best methods of strengthening the moral and physical character of young men and women and determined that clean, strenuous athletic sports under most favorable environments, would go a long way toward the solution of the problem.

The Akeley Athletic club will indorse the bill now before the senate legalizing six-round contests.

Some Sensible Advice On Womanly Beauty

(From Martyn's Drug Journal.)

Healthy hair adds much to womanly beauty. It is such an easy matter to have a glorious mass of lovely hair that the dull, "stringy" kind is inexcusable. A canthrox shampoo (which can be mixed at home and costs very little at any druggist's) removes every particle of dust, dandruff and excess oil and, after rinsing, the hair dries quickly. It makes the head feel good and leaves the hair soft, fluffy and easy to do up.

Keep the skin clear, velvety and attractive and remove tan and freckles by daily applying a lotion easily prepared at home by stirring two teaspoonfuls of glycerine into one-half pint witch hazel (or hot water), then adding four ounces spurmax, which costs little at any druggist's. This lotion, which is used instead of face powder, seems part of the skin which it tones to a beautiful, natural color while overcoming the oily, shiny appearance of the face, so often due to perspiration.

Sporting Notes.

"Schoolmaster" Fisher, the New York pitcher, has discarded his spitter and in the future will depend upon speed and a fast-breaking curve.

When Cy Barger, the former Superba pitcher, now with Newark, read that Ban Johnson had put the crusher on ball players writing baseball articles for newspapers, he let a roar out of him that could be heard across the state of Georgia. "Ball players are slaves," piped Cy, "and take it from me there will be one grand fight some day and then we will all be free to do as we please."

It appears now as if Shafer will supplant Fletcher as the regular shortstop of the Giants and that Burns will take Devore's place in the outfield.

Lexington and Maysville, Ky., formerly of the Blue Grass league, have been admitted to the Ohio State league, making an eight-club circuit for the O. S. L.

PREPARING TO CONTEST

Necessary Papers Will Be Filed in Court at Once.

Recounting of Municipal Election Ballots May Take a Month.

Election contests will appear in the district court this afternoon or tomorrow, and the recount of the votes for contesting and contested candidates for the city commission will be begun next Monday at the latest on which day the candidates declared elected by the city council after the canvass last night, will take their seats.

W. E. McEwen, Marcus L. Fay and their attorneys were in conference this morning. This afternoon or tomorrow papers instituting contests on behalf of Mr. McEwen and Mr. Fay against the election of W. I. Prince as mayor will be filed with the district court.

Bernard Silberstein, whose vote was officially reported as twenty-six behind that of W. I. Prince, said this morning that as soon as his attorney, J. B. Richards, can prepare the papers, his contest will be submitted to the court.

On account of the wide ground to be covered by Bert Farrell's contest, the starting of his action against W. A. Hicken and Roderick Murchison will be delayed probably, but it will be started this week.

Unless an agreement between the candidates is reached four separate inspections of the ballots will be necessary. The law does not provide for any two or more candidates combining in a contest, but undoubtedly some stipulation will be made so that the result of one recount will be accepted by all the candidates for the purposes of their contests.

A commission of three will probably be selected, mutually satisfactory to all candidates, to recount the votes, each candidate to be represented at the recount by his attorney. It is expected that the recount will start next Monday, at the latest, and three weeks or a month will be required for the inspection of the ballots.

It is thought that a final determination of the contests will take at least three months, and it may be late before the whole question is settled. In the case of the mayor, the court will be asked to pass on the question as to whether the charter requires the whole ballot to be void in case four first choice votes are not marked, or whether the provision applies only to that part of the ballot affecting commissioners.

In the Farrell contest it is understood the whole question of the preferential system will be tested. Farrell led the two successful candidates in first choice votes and that fact will very likely be set up as one of his claims to the office. It is probable that he will also plead the unconstitutionality of the provision requiring four first choice votes for commissioner.

So many questions are involved that the final determination of the case may have revolutionary results. In the meantime the commissioners declared elected by the council will take office and will serve at least until the courts pass on the validity of their election.

PRESIDENT URGES NEED OF WELL-CONSIDERED TARIFF REVISION

ules have remained what they were before the change began, or have moved in the direction they were given when no large circumstance of our industrial development was what it is today. Our task is to square them with the actual facts. The sooner that is done the sooner we shall escape from suffering from the facts and the sooner our men of business will be free to thrive by the law of nature (the nature of free business) instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement.

We have seen tariff legislation wander very far afield in our day—very far indeed from the field in which our prosperity might have had a normal growth and stimulation. No one who looks the facts squarely in the face or knows anything that lies beneath the surface of action can fail to perceive the principles upon which recent tariff legislation has been based. We long ago passed beyond the modest notion of "protecting" the industries of the country and moved boldly forward to the idea that they were entitled to the direct patronage of the government. For a long time—a time so long that the men now active in public policy hardly remember the conditions that preceded it—we have sought in our tariff schedules to give each group of manufacturers or producers what they themselves thought that they needed in order to maintain a practically exclusive market as against the rest of the world.

: Consciously or unconsciously, we have built up a set of privileges and exemptions from competition behind which it was easy by any, even the crudest, forms of combination to organize monopoly; until at last nothing is normal, nothing is obliged to stand the tests of efficiency and economy, in our world of big business, but everything thrives by concerted arrangement.

Only new principles of action will save us from a final hard crystallization of monopoly and a complete loss of the influences that quicken enterprise and keep independent energy alive.

It is plain what those principles must be. We must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege or of any kind of artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical, and enterprising, masters of competitive supremacy, better workers and merchants than any in the world. Aside from the duties laid upon articles which we do not, and probably can not, produce, therefore, and the duties laid upon luxuries and merely for the sake of the revenues they yield, the object of the tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition, the whetting of American wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world.

It would be unwise to move toward the end headlong, with reckless haste, or with strokes that cut at the very roots of what has grown up amongst us by long process and at our own invitation. It does not alter a thing to upset it and break it and deprive it of a chance to change. It destroys it.

: We must make changes in our fiscal laws, in our fiscal system, whose object is development, a more free and wholesome development, not revolution or upset or confusion. We must build up trade, especially foreign trade. We need the outlet and the enlarged field of energy more than we ever did before. We must build up industry as well, and must adopt freedom in the place of artificial stimulation only so far as it will build, not pull down.

In dealing with the tariff the method by which this may be done will be a matter of judgment, exercised item by item. To some not accustomed to the excitements and responsibilities of greater freedom our methods may in some respects and at some points seem heroic, but remedies may be heroic and yet be remedies. It is our business to make sure that they are genuine remedies. Our object is clear. If our motive is above just challenge and only an occasional error of judgment is chargeable against us, we shall be fortunate.

We are called upon to render the country a great service in more matters than one. Our responsibility should be met and our methods should be thorough, as thorough as moderate and well considered, based upon the facts as they are, and not worked out as if we were beginners. We are to deal with the facts of our own day, with the facts of no other, and to make laws which square with those facts. It is best, indeed it is necessary, to begin with the tariff. I will urge nothing upon you now at the opening of your session which can obscure that first object or divert our energies from that clearly defined duty. At a later time I may take the liberty of calling your attention to reforms which should press close upon the heels of the tariff changes, if not accompany them, of which the chief is the reform of our banking and currency laws; but just now I refrain. For the present, I put these matters on one side and think only of this one thing—of the changes in our fiscal system which may best serve to open once more the free channels of prosperity to a great people whom we would serve to the utmost and throughout both rank and file.

a thorough, moderate and well-considered revision of the tariff. The president drew attention to the necessity for an early reform in the banking and currency laws but refrained, he said, from urging, for the present, any other legislation that might divert the energies of congress "from its clearly defined duty" toward the tariff question.

The message referred to no particular schedule, mentioned no rates, and included no statistics. It was an enunciation of the president's principles on tariff revision. His specific views and ideas as to rates and duties, it has been generally accepted, will be contained in the tariff bill itself, which he is now considering in detail. The president's decision to put the weight of the adminstration's influence behind the bill with its various schedules as drawn by the house ways and means committee, caused him to omit specific reference to tariff rates until the measure was finally agreed upon in the opening days of the present session.

The message urged that special privilege and exemptions from competition be cut out of the nation's tariff system and that the revision be made "to square with the facts as they are." At the outset, the president called attention to the party's pledge for tariff reduction.

Had Two Motives.

Two motives influenced Mr. Wilson to decide to read in person his first communication to congress—the perfunctory way in which presidential messages usually were received, accompanied as they have been by the drone of a clerk's voice and empty seats, and Mr. Wilson's desire that every member should hear his appeal for a thorough revision of the tariff, the sole purpose for which congress was called into extraordinary session.

Official Washington prepared for the event with a feeling more of curiosity than of criticism. Sentiment as to the political wisdom of the move had hardly crystallized as the procedure of the early days was only a historical record so far as the modern legislator was concerned. Senators and representatives acknowledged the constitutional right of the president to read his own message in the halls of congress and by concurrent resolution arranged to gather in the house chamber at 1 o'clock. The president's message was about 1,200 words long when he first prepared it, but in view of the changed circumstances he has added a preface.

The president had several engagements and a cabinet meeting to occupy him before his departure for the capitol.

Cabinet Members Present.

Secretaries Lane, McAdoo, Daniels and Garrison took seats in the executive gallery of the house for themselves and families to hear the president read his message. Secretary Bryan said he had another engagement for the same hour and could not go. Mrs. Wilson and her three daughters took seats in the executive gallery.

The cabinet was in session today at the regular hour but it was ready to adjourn to permit the president to leave the White House for the capitol at 12:30 o'clock.

The house galleries were packed with the wives, families and friends of senators and representatives two hours before the president was scheduled to appear.

Dewey on Floor.

Admiral Dewey was escorted to a seat on the floor of the house, taking advantage for the first time of the privilege extended him by congress, when he returned triumphant from Manila, in 1898. He was cheered as he entered the chamber.

Members of the diplomatic corps filled the private gallery allotted to them. Three-fourths of the privileged thousands in the galleries were women.

Speaker Clark had among his guests in the speaker's gallery, Mrs. William F. McCombs, Mrs. Victor Murdock, wife of the new Progressive leader in the house; Mrs. A. M. Palmer and Mrs. Pitser, sister of Mrs. Clark and her daughter.

So unusual was the event that Supt. Woods of the capitol installed a moving picture camera to take moving pictures of the extraordinary scene. The films will be preserved as a historic record of the day's proceedings.

Received By Committee.

After the house had been called to order Speaker Clark announced that the president would be received by a committee of three and would enter the house chamber by the rear door at the left of the speaker's table. He appointed Representatives Underwood, Palmer and Mann.

"The chair would admonish the members," said Speaker Clark, "that unless otherwise indicated by the president, to keep their seats during the delivery of his message and until he has departed."

The hour for the joint session was set for 12:30 o'clock and about that time the senate moved over to the house chamber and occupied the front row of seats. About the same time the cabinet meeting at the White House adjourned and the president got ready to go to the capitol.

Before the senate could join the house, however, it had to turn back its clock twenty minutes to permit a large number of bills and petitions to be presented.

President Wilson started from the White House at 12:46 o'clock. At 12:50 o'clock the vice president and the members of the senate were seated in the house chamber. President Wilson reached the speaker's office at 12:55 o'clock.

Appointments.

The subject of appointments will very likely go over until after the commissioners take office. There are several candidates for almost every place at the disposal of the commission as a whole and the individual commissioners, and the men elected are disposed to move cautiously.

Only four appointments are required of the commission by the charter. They are a clerk, an auditor, an assessor and an attorney. The charter also allows the commission to employ a purchasing agent. There are several appointive offices in each division, and there will be a scramble for the places.

City Clerk Charles S. Palmer is the favorite for city clerk and his friends expect his reappointment without much of a struggle. Mr. Palmer is opposed by John Connolly, a former deputy in the city clerk's office and later private secretary to Mayor M. B. Cullum.

For city attorney five prospective candidates have appeared. They are H. A. Carmichael, the present city attorney, H. H. Phelps, C. L. Lewis, J. B. Richards and E. M. Morgan. Mr. Morgan was formerly assistant city attorney when C. S. Wilson was city attorney. For several months he has been a professor in the law school of the University of Minnesota. Mr. Phelps and Mr. Richards are both old residents of Duluth. Judge Lewis was formerly a member of the Minnesota supreme court. Mr. Carmichael has been city attorney for the last year and has strong support for reappointment.

It is understood that Comptroller W. S. McCormick, defeated candidate for long term commissioner, will be a candidate for auditor. He will be opposed by E. J. Campbell, who has been connected with the comptroller's office for some years. Both will have strong support and the contest for the office may be one of the most interesting before the commission.

The retention of City Assessor J. C. Myron, at least for the present, is expected. The personal property assessment will begin May 1 and Mr. Myron has made preparations for it. It is unlikely that any contest will be made over assessor until that assessment is out of the way.

The City's Engineers.

The city engineer under the new system will be appointed by the commissioner of public works. It is expected that the two engineering departments now maintained by the city, one at the city hall and the other in connection with the water and light department, will be combined under one engineer. City Engineer John Wilson and Assistant Manager E. W. Kelly of the water and light department will undoubtedly both be considered for the place. Other applicants may appear before the appointment is made.

The retention of C. H. Troyer as chief of the police department and J. W. Randall as chief of the fire department is unquestioned, if the division of public safety goes to Commissioner Hicken. The appointment of a health commissioner will open room for speculation. Dr. E. W. Fahey, the present health commissioner, will be a candidate for reappointment, and he will be opposed at least by Dr. I. J. Murphy, former assistant commissioner. There are rumors that the health department will be reorganized so as to require the full time of the commissioner.

In the division of public utilities, the appointment of a manager of the water and light department is the only one of importance that does not come under the civil service rules. Manager S. R. Hatch will very likely be reappointed.

The question of the abolishment of the boards which were maintained under the old charter is one that will undoubtedly be settled soon after the commissioners take office. Under the new charter all boards were abolished except the civil service commission, but the commissioners are given the authority to reconstruct any boards they may see fit.

The board of public works, board of fire commissioners, board of park commissioners and library board are almost certain to be abolished. The board of water and light commissioners may be re-established, but that also is considered unlikely, as the commissioner of public utilities will have charge of that department. The board of public welfare may be re-established also, but the welfare work will come directly under the supervision of the commissioner of public affairs and he may decide to attend to those duties without the assistance of a board.

come up for final vote Friday afternoon.

There was even a harder fight on Representative Knapp's motion, which followed immediately, to make the public utility bill a special order for tomorrow afternoon which by request he changed to 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Representative Minette, author of the house bill now before the senate, providing only for the regulation of telephone companies, opposed the motion and the bill on the ground that its passage might jeopardize the passage in the senate of the telephone bill. He was backed by other friends of this measure, though its provisions are covered in the Knapp bill applying to all public utilities.

Those who are against all special orders also opposed the motion because they did not want to see any bill given an advantage over the rest. And there were some who were directly in opposition to the state control of public utilities.

After a hard fight, Representative Knapp's motion prevailed, 63 to 39, and the bill was made a special order for Friday morning. The indications favor the passage of both bills rather easily, in spite of the fight made against the special orders.

Women's Auxiliary Board.

The legislature made quick work this morning of a new bill by Representative D. P. O'Neill of Thief River Falls, the bill going through both bodies within an hour and a half of its introduction in the house. It creates a women's auxiliary board to have charge under the state fair board of state fair matters pertaining to women and children. It is to be composed of three women to be appointed by the governor, one from the Twin Cities, and one each from Northern and Southern Minnesota.

State Expense Probe.

Governor Eberhart has not yet given his permission to the house committee on public accounts and expenditures to introduce in the house organization's bill providing for a legislative commission to investigate state expenses. He has had the bill since Friday. The governor is opposed to a legislative commission, and is understood to favor a commission composed in part at least of members outside the official ranks of the state government.

Municipal Ice Plant.

The house this morning, under suspension of the rules, passed a new bill introduced by Representatives Orr and Fuchs of St. Paul, authorizing that city to issue $250,000 bonds and create a municipal ice plant. The bill is applicable to Duluth if Duluth should ever wish to take advantage of it. Representative Orr in asking the passage of the bill, explained that the "ice trust" in St. Paul has bought up all the independent plants and boosted prices, and that the city wants the bill as a club over the trust.

The house judiciary committee killed a bill by Representative Nimocks proposing a constitutional amendment prohibiting any judge from running for another office while holding his official position.

Fishermen Protest.

W. D. Tomlin and Martin Christenson of Duluth are here to look out for the interests of the Lake Superior fisheries in connection with pending legislation. Because of the opposition that arose, the committee in charge of this legislation has decided not to have its bill provide for an increase in the size of the herring net mesh, but to leave it where it is, at 2¾ inches.

POPULAR VOTE FOR SENATOR

For more than sixty years proposals have been made to change the Constitution so as to provide for the direct election of senators. It was not, however, until June 24, 1911, that the senate was induced for the first time in its history to give consent to the change. On that day it voted to submit to the states the proposed amendment. The resolution to submit had already passed the house in a somewhat different form. Before adjournment of the session both houses agreed to the language to be employed, and the resolution was deposited with the secretary of state May 16, 1912, for distribution among the states.

The State as a Unit.

The original theory in establishing the choice of senators was that they represented the states, whereas the members of the house represented the people of their districts. It was because of this theory of the state as a unit that all states, large and small, were given equal representation in the senate, Rhode Island having the same number as New York or Pennsylvania. In the theory of the Constitution framers this entity of the state was thus made more distinct under the Federal system, and the state legislature was regarded as the suitable medium for expressing this state entity. Later it was contended that state entity would still be preserved if the people of the entire state, instead of the legislature, chose the senators, and this view has now been accepted as the basis of the new system.

In 1826 the first action was taken in congress looking to a change. In that years Representative Storrs of New York introduced a resolution making senators elective by the people. Another resolution of similar import was introduced by Representative Wright of Ohio in 1829. In 1850 Senator Clemens of Alabama introduced the first senatorial direct election resolution in the senate. Nothing resulted from these movements.

It was Andrew Johnson who revived congressional agitation for the direct election of senators. As a member of the house of representatives, he introduced two resolutions for the change, and in 1860 renewed the agitation as a member of the senate. In 1868, as president, he sent a special message to congress advocating the measure, and then repeated his recommendations in his annual message.

The subject was revived in 1873, 1876, 1886 and 1888, but without success. In 1893 the house agreed to the proposition, as it did in the succeeding congress, and still again in 1898, 1900 and 1902. The proposed change on none of these occasions won a favorable report from committees in the senate.

Revived By Bristow.

With the house thus arrayed year after year in favor of the change, the senate became the battleground. Senator Bristow of Kansas, took the lead in advocacy of amending the constitution along this line. In December, 1909, he introduced his first resolution. A year later he obtained a report from the committee, but a feature had been tacked onto his proposal which brought on a fight in the senate, threatened to kill the entire proposition. This interposed feature was to amend other provisions of the constitution so as to deprive the Federal government of power to supervise the state regulations as to the time and manner of election. The votes of Southern senators threatened to defeat the main proposition if the Federal government was given this power. Senator Root made a speech, in which he criticised the method employed by Southern states in depriving negroes of the right of suffrage. Senator Bacon replied that the Federal government was being given the power once more to enact "force bills" and send armies and marshals into Southern states to intimidate voters. On February 28, just before the end of the session, the resolution was defeated by four votes.

Senator Bristow reintroduced the resolution in the special session immediately following. The fight of the preceding session was refought, but this time the friends of the resolution won by a vote of 64 to 24, or five more than the required two-thirds.

The house had passed a resolution which made it clear the Federal government was not to interfere with senatorial elections in the states. For weeks the measure was in conference. Finally the house conferees receded and the house agreed to the senate measure by a vote of 237 to 39.

Action By the States.

Previous to this time, the several states had taken the bit in their teeth by enacting laws which in effect did not wait for a constitutional amendment on the subject. Probably the most successful of these was adopted in Oregon. It virtually directed the members of the legislature to elect the person who received the majority vote at the regular election, when the placing of the name of a candidate for United States senator upon the tickets was authorized.

The control of legislatures by great corporations was assigned by Senator Bristow as one of the main reasons for the demanded change. "With the development during recent times of the great corporate interests of the country," said he, "and the increased importance of legislation relating to their affairs, they have tenaciously sought to control the election of senators friendly to their interests. The power of these great financial and industrial institutions can be very effectively used in the election of senators by legislators, and they have many times during recent years used that power in a most reprehensible and scandalous manner. They have spent enormous amounts of money in corrupting legislatures to elect to the senate men of their own choosing."

One of the first speeches made in the senate during the twenty-year crusade for the change in favor of the direct election was by Senator Turple of Indiana. He declared on that occasion that the election of senators by legislatures was the one blemish on the democracy which was embedied in the American government.

One of the most notable speeches ever made in opposition to the change was that of Senator Hoar of Massachusetts in 1893. He stated the object of the election of senators by legislatures instead of by the people had been to remove one of the two bodies of legislation "from the operation of the fleeting passions of the hour, to lay its foundations below the frost, and to remove the appointment of the men who are to compose it, as far as may be, from the temporary excitements which so often move the people to their own harm."

Did Not Trust the People.

"I am not afraid to say to the American people that it is dangerous to trust any great power of government to their direct or inconsiderate control," he added. "I am not afraid to tell them not only that their sober second thought is better than their hasty action, but that a government which is exposed to the hasty action of a people is the worst and not the best government on earth."

No legislation by congress will be necessary to put the change into effect. It will be incumbent upon the various states to see to it that proper provision is made by the names of senators going on the regular ballots. Should any state fail to do so, it has been suggested that congress might exercise its power of supervising that state's voting regulations so as to require the name to be placed on the ballots.

The first senators to be elected by the new method will be those who take their seats for the term beginning March 4, 1915. They will be elected at the November elections of 1914.

The first thirty-three states to ratify the amendment were: Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

"Fever."

That body temperature is one of the best indicators of sickness or health is recognized by physician and layman alike. This is so because it is known that any serious disturbance of the internal organs is invariably reflected through the nerves to the centers in the medulla, some of which preside over the circulation, while others regulate the heart's action and movements of respiration. It is, therefore, the nervous mechanism which is affected when fever supervenes, for when this is working normally, the excess of heat is easily dissipated by the aid of the skin; and, as poisons circulating in the blood are responsible for most fever, it may be readily seen that body temperature is a good index to the extent of the injury being done to the vital centers by the poisons of disease.

It is not to be understood from this, however, that all poisons cause fever, of that fever may not be caused by other factors than from poisons circulating in the blood. Nevertheless, it is known that many of the disease germs make poisons which act directly on the heat centers, causing a rise in temperature, and that other germ poisons, such as the ptomaines, cause fever, is also well known. Aside from fevers produced from poison, we have those produced by severe nervous disturbance, such as hysterical fever and that following attacks of apoplexy; and then, many fevers are only the expression of the reaction between the poisons of disease and the resisting forces of the body. The fever of pneumonia is a good example of this last, for when the bodily resistance is strong, and therefore the chance of recovery good, the fever may run extremely high, while with weak resistance the fever may be quite moderate and yet the patient be unable to overcome the disease.

So, it is not the height of the fever that counts in disease, so much as the correct interpretation. From the time of Hippocrates until the eighteenth century, physicians were compelled to rely on the pulse as an indicator of temperature, but early in the eighteenth century thermometers began to be used, and by 1860 their advantage over the old method was pretty well established. That the readings from these instruments were frequently misinterpreted during the succeeding twenty-five years, was only to be expected, but for the last quarter century, with accurate instruments, physicians have derived a mass of knowledge concerning the inner conditions in disease, by carefully studying temperature charts. So popular has the clinical thermometer become, and so widespread the knowledge of the importance of even slight fever, that it is now not uncommon to find one of these instruments in the home, where an intelligent mother has the care of several children; and their use in this way is to be commended, provided no attempt is made to interpret the findings without consulting one trained in both physiology and diseased conditions. That nervous persons may do themselves injury, and even produce fever by worrying over their condition, has been amply proven by those treating nervous disorders, and it has been claimed that such people should never be trusted with a clinical thermometer, because more harm than good would be sure to result from the misinterpretation of the findings. The thermometer, however, only tells facts; and if these are referred to the physician for interpretation, there can be little harm done to the nervous patient. In fact, a more widespread and intelligent use of this little instrument would quiet many fears, and, by preventing worry, benefit the nervous patient. As an early indicator of oncoming disease its use in the nursery is to be recommended; for slight fever in a child is a warning that, when heeded, frequently prevents serious trouble.

The treatment of fever, aside from removing its cause, lies in clearing the bowels and absorbing heat from the skin by cool bathing. And the use of antipyretic drugs to reduce fever only adds insult to injury, and will further derange the nerve centers which control the balance of bodily heat; therefore, must be condemned. The cause of the fever should be discovered by the physician and an attempt made at its removal, but in first aid treatment, which every mother should know something of, the above advice is all that is necessary.

The practical points worth remembering are:

1. Fever, although a valuable symptom in disease, must be correctly interpreted, or it may be very misleading.

2. A clinical thermometer in the nursery, where there is an intelligent mother, is a useful instrument, but the final interpretation of its readings should always be left to the family physician.

3. The control of fever should be by the removal of its cause, not by the giving of fever medicine. Clear the bowels to assist elimination of poisons and bathe the skin with cool water; these are the "first aid" procedures in all fever, and the physician will decide further treatment.

Questions and Answers.

Temperature of Sick Room.

B. S. writes: What is the correct temperature for a sick room in a case of typhoid fever? In pneumonia?

REPLY.

1. 68 to 70 deg. Fahrenheit and a realtive humidity of 40 to 50 per cent.

2. In pneumonia the temperature should be low, not higher than 35 deg. Fahrenheit during the stage of high fever. After the crisis is past the temperature may be raised to 68 or 70 and the relative humidity also increased to nearly 60 per cent.

Climate and Nervousness.

J. M. writes: Anent your articles on temperature, climate, etc., in their relation to health, also your "talks" on mental hygiene, in which I am much interested, I submit the following queries for answer:

1. For a man of 30, of nervous temperament, what climate is most agreeable—warm or cool, wet or dry, and what altitude, high or low? 2. If about to change location anyway, what locality or state would you advise, where mental and nervous system alone needs treatment? 3. What kind of work ought to be best for such a person? 4. To what cause do you attribute the high percentage of suicides in the Pacific coast states? Is is due to climate dryness, excessive sunshine, or to the conditions and hardships that attend life in a new country? 5. Is percentage of insanity as great in southern as in northern states?

REPLY.

1. A warm, moist climate, at or about sea level, would be the most agreeable to such a person as you mention; but it would not be the climate most conducive to mental or physical health.

2. A bracing climate such as that afforded by British Columbia, Washington or Oregon. A man of 30 has no right to pamper his nerves, he should be able to control them, as well as all feelings, sentiments and emotions.

3. Any occupation where the time is spent largely outdoors. It is not the character of work which counts, so much as the interest which is taken in it. Fruit or poultry farming, if taken up scientifically, would be ideal. However, whatever you may choose to do, see that it is of interest, or can be made interesting by application.

4. It has not been proven that climate has much to do with the incidence of suicide, although it is recognized that over stimulation by sunlight, when too continuous, might upset mental balance in one predisposed through heredity.

5. Yes, probably greater; but this may be better explained through the race mixture in our southern states than through any effect of climate. Private letter goes by mail as you request.

DENOUNCED BY SAGENG

road-dragging purposes would have an absurd result in several townships in the mining sections of St. Louis county. For instance, the township of Stuntz would be compelled to levy a tax of nearly $69,000 for dragging roads.

Representative Dunn, the author of the bill, readily consented, when the matter was presented to him, to have it amended to take care of this situation. So yesterday afternoon Senator Boyle had the vote by which the bill was passed reconsidered, and an amendment adopted to the effect that in any township having an assessed valuation of more than $1,000,000, the road-dragging levy shall not exceed $1,000.

It was on the re-passage of the bill as amended that Senator Sageng made the above remarks.

Many of Same Opinion.

Curiously enough, in view of the fact that the bill passed both branches by overwhelming majorities, Senator Sageng's view of it is that of a considerable percentage of the membership of both houses.

Nobody but "Bob" Dunn could have put through the legislature a bill that so completely "violates every sense of fairness," as Senator Sageng puts it. The unfairness is not in the fact that a few counties pay an inordinately large share of the 1-mill state road tax, compared to what they will get back from it. St. Louis county, for instance, will pay upward of $300,000 a year into the state road fund, and will get back about $30,000 at the outside.

But that is because St. Louis county is fortunate enough to possess a large amount of taxable property, and nobody should object to having that county or any county pay according to its ability to pay.

The injustice of the bill—which will soon be a law—lies in the provision that in the distribution of the state road fund no county shall receive less than 1 per cent of the whole nor more than 3 per cent. What this means is that the money will be distributed very nearly equally among the several counties without regard to size, needs or local enterprise in good roads work.

No conference committee will be asked for, and the bill will be repassed by the house, as amended in the senate.

The measure has many excellent features, outside of its provisions for distribution, and Representative Dunn has put in a lot of hard work on it. It follows the constitutional amendment adopted last fall, increasing the limit of the state road tax from a quarter of a mill to 1 mill. Mr. Dunn was also the author of that measure.

Girls' Industrial Home.

Senator Cheadle of Duluth yesterday afternoon introduced at the request of the governor, and had the senate pass under suspension of the rules, a new bill authorizing St. Louis county to create and maintain an industrial home for dependent and delinquent girls. Representative A. L. Warner of Duluth is looking after the bill in the house.

A similar bill was introduced earlier, but it was general in its application, and as many counties objected to it, it was necessary to frame a measure applying only to St. Louis county.

The bill is one in which Mrs. A. B. Siewert of Duluth has interested herself.

Protest Against Tariff Reduction.

"Cut the tariff duties on everything except what we produce and sell."

This, the one point regarding the tariff on which there is complete and universal agreement, is exemplified by resolutions introduced in both branches of the legislature yesterday afternoon, in the senate by Senator George H. Sullivan, conservative Taft Republican, and in the house by Representatives C. M. Bendixen and H. H. Dunn.

Both resolutions urge congress, whatever it does, not to cut the duties on agricultural products raised in Minnesota. Though different in terms, the import and purpose of both are the same.

Senator Albert Schaller, Democrat, gave notice of debate in the senate resolution, and Representative Albert Pfaender, Democrat, gave notice of debate on the house resolution. The effect of this notice is to put consideration of the resolutions over for one day. Both are expected to pass, as both bodies are controlled by Republican and agricultural interests.

Senator A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota yesterday afternoon gave notice under the rules of a motion to make a special order for an early date of the pending bills providing for state regulation of public utilities, including the house bill, now in the senate, putting telephone companies under the jurisdiction of the railroad and warehouse commission.

Municipal Forests.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the house bill by Representative Thomas Kneeland of Minneapolis authorizing cities to maintain municipal forests and to levy taxes therefor.

Senator Boyle yesterday afternoon put through the senate under suspension of the rules the house bill by Representative Healy providing that in village election in villages having a population of more than 5,000 the Australian ballot system must be used. Hibbing and Chisholm are the only villages in the state to which the bill applies.

The house appropriations committee, which is busy with a sharp knife trying to bring the demand for money spending down to a level with the available supply of state money to be spent, has killed all pending appropriations for drainage work, including a bill appropriating $200,000 to enable the state drainage board to complete work already begun.

The committee also cut off practically all of the appropriations requested for the state fair, including that for an agricultural building and that for a livestock barn.

However, the committee yesterday recommended for passage the bill appropriating $25,000 for a Minnesota exhibit at the Norwegian exposition to be held in Christiania, Norway, in 1914.

Dog Tax Bill Passed.

The house yesterday afternoon reconsidered the vote by which the H. H. Dunn bill proposing a constitutional amendment authorizing a specific tax on dogs to raise a fund to reimburse owners of domestic animals destroyed by dogs was killed and passed the bill.

The house, with a light attendance, passed a large number of bills to which there was no objection, including the following:

By Senator Marden—Abolishing the jury fee of $3.

By Senator Weis—Providing that 10 per cent of liquor license fees paid into municipalities except cities of the first, second or third classes, shall be spent in improving roads outside of but leading into such municipalities.

By Senator J. D. Sullivan—Allowing voters who are away from home on election day to vote wherever they may be, on presentation of proper credentials from their home precincts, on all statewide questions.

The attendance was light in both houses yesterday afternoon, and the proceedings entirely routine. A noticeable lessening of interest in the work is evident, as the season advances and the remaining days of the session dwindle, and a full attendance in either body is much rarer than it was a month ago.

BARGAINS—Why say, the usual bargains are jokes compared with what we have to offer on the balance of this Quit Business stock. It is absurd that every piano isn't sold now, considering our prices and terms. We know from experience many people are skeptical. We saw an excellent illustration of this two weeks ago in Chippewa Falls, Wis. A man desiring to make another man a present of $10 in appreciation for a service rendered, offered him a $20 bill, asking for $10 in exchange, the man replied: "You can't work off a counterfeit $20 bill on me," and it took some time to persuade him that the bill was good. Are you one of the kind who lets golden opportunities slip by without even an investigation? Bring in a little dollar bill, with a willingness to pay a few more on installments and see what you can do.

PROTESTS ON TARIFF ON WHEAT AND FLOUR.

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—A telegram protesting against the proposed changes in the tariff on wheat and flour was sent to the chairman of the finance committee of the United States senate today by R. E. Sterling, secretary of the Missouri River Millers' club. It was urged that the millers of the Southwest be given a hearing on the new tariff bill.

"The reciprocal feature applying to flour will be destructive to the milling industry in the United States," the telegram stated. "We would not object to the reciprocal feature if it applied equally to wheat. We do not ask a duty on either wheat or flour, but merely desire that whatever applies to one shall apply to the other."

TWO OF THE HEADLINERS CANCEL

Governor McGovern and Howard Elliott Will Not Attend West Duluth Banquet, But Chairman Claims It Will Be Best Ever Held, Nevertheless.

Governor Francis E. McGovern of Wisconsin and Howard W. Elliott of St. Paul, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, will be unable to attend the eleventh annual banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club Thursday evening, according to advices received by The Herald this morning.

Through his secretary Governor McGovern announces that because of the rush of work at the sessions of the Wisconsin legislature, he will be unable to get away from Madison for several weeks at least. He regrets very much the necessity of cancelling the local engagement.

Mr. Elliott left for the East yesterday on very urgent business and will be gone at least a week. It is on this account that Mr. Elliott is compelled to cancel his visit to Duluth.

L. A. Barnes, chairman of the speakers' sub-committee, stated this morning that the above reports were entirely new to him and that no arrangements have as yet been made for other speakers. As far as is known at present, Governor Eberhart, Edmund Pennington, president of the Soo road, Representative Cleon T. Knapp and Julius H. Barnes will all be at the banquet Thursday evening.

It was also announced this morning that the trip to the steel plant Thursday afternoon would be made by special train over the Northern Pacific and that the party would spend the entire afternoon inspecting the various buildings at the plant.

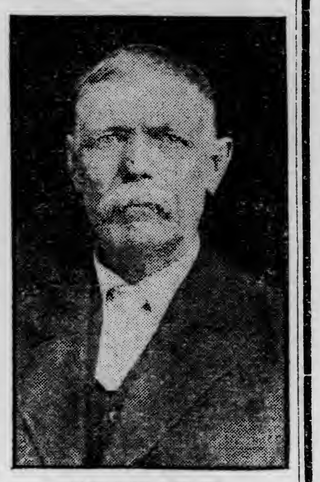

Andrew Myles, chairman of the general committee in charge of the banquet, this morning stated that the sale of seats is progressing rapidly and that at least 350 are expected to attend the affair Thursday evening, the number of tickets being limited to that figure. "The banquet this year by the West Duluth club," said Mr. Myles, by way of conclusion, "will be the greatest ever held in this end of the city, without a doubt."

Mr. Myles this morning announced the following committees and personnel of the general committee complete:

MUST PROVIDE A COURTROOM

Commissioners Must Furnish Quarters for the New Judge.

One of the first duties of the new city commission when it meets next Monday will be to provide a suitable place for the new West Duluth municipal court and a place where the clerk, having in charge that division of the court's business, may keep his office and attend to the business of the court.

It was expected that the council would arrange for a place at its last meeting yesterday, but as the subject was not brought up, it is now left to the commissioners.

Just where the court will be established is not yet known, although it is understood that it will not be located in the police station.

The first session of the new court will be called on Wednesday morning, May 7, by Judge Harry W. Lanners, who was elected last week.

STILL CURLING IN WEST DULUTH

FOR THE "KIDS" AND SQUIRRELS

Butternut Trees Will Be Planted in the Parks This Year.

"Kids" appeal to Henry Cleveland, secretary of the park board. So do the squirrels and the birds and the other harmless animals. And, of course, the parks do, too, for they're his chief pet and affection.

Working along the lines of all of them he has devised an innovation which promises to be a huge success. He's going to plant butternut trees in the various parks of the city. Mr. Cleveland has experimented for several years and has found that the butternut does better in this climate than any of the others.

By planting them Mr. Cleveland satisfies all the elements which play important roles in his ambitions. He provides nuts for the "kids" and the additional trees will add materially to the beauty and attractiveness of the parks. They will be planted in small clumps in the larger parks in both end of the city. He estimates that in two years the trees will bear. Mr. Cleveland plans to plant about 300 this spring.

GOING AFTER THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

One thing is apparent even from a cursory glance at the Democratic tariff bill—the leaders in the new congress intend to put to the test the popular belief that the tariff is a big factor in the high cost of living. Meat, flour, milk, cream and many articles that enter into the daily consumption of the people are included in the proposed free list, as well as a goodly number of articles that go into the clothing of the people. Broad reductions are made in the duties on other necessaries, and the rates of tax on luxuries are raised. Raw wool is put among the things that will be brought into the country free of duty, and heavy reductions are made in the tariff on all woolen goods.

In fact, the bill is a complete reversal of the Payne-Aldrich law in many respects, and offers changes which it is estimated by the framers will bring about a reduction of some $80,000,000 in the country's annual income. This reduction it is proposed to make up by the levying of a tax on all incomes that amount to $4,000 or over, which it is estimated would bring in a revenue of close to $100,000,000, even with the exemptions which are proposed.

Chairman Underwood of the house ways and means committee hit the nail squarely on the head when he declared in his statement regarding the new bill that it was an effort to get away from the "protection of profits." That protection has been the purpose of all recent administrations, and the result has been apparent to the country at large. We have had enough of that kind of fostering of private interests. The Republicans themselves, in their 1908 platform, repudiated that practice, by declaring for a tariff that would be a protection only to the industry itself, not to the profits of the interests that sought government aid to help them keep the prices up. But when the Republican congress met, they went back to the same old principle and gave the country the abortion that will go into history as the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

It was the disgust of the people with that kind of double-dealing and their distress under that law that led to the political revolutions of 1910 and 1912, and the Democratic tariff framers, in the presentation of this bill, have offered the country what they believe will prove to be a solution of the trouble. That it will pass both the house and senate in its present form is hardly to be expected, though it bears the stamp of approval of President Wilson.

It is a foregone conclusion that there will be a fight over the new sugar schedule, which puts a marked reduction on all sugar and provides for a complete abrogation of the duties on that product after three years. There will be opposition from some of the Southern states on that point, and also from some other sections because the reduction proposed for immediate effect will mean a loss in revenue of some $35,000,000. Whether President Wilson and the other leaders will be able to hold the Southern Democrats in line on this proposition is something of a problem. But in view of the immense figure that the sugar duty cuts in the tariff revenues (constituting nearly 50 per cent of the entire amount) it seems safe to expect that there will be considerable determination shown by the proponents of the bill in their fight to keep the sugar duties as first specified. It at least gives ground for a belief that that portion of the tariff duty is felt keenly in the private pocket, since sugar is one of the things that are used by all classes, and as much, if not more, by the people of moderate or slender means as by the wealthy.

But whether there are to be many or few changes in the bill before it passes congress and goes to the president for signature, it must be recognized as a bona fide attempt to comply with the platform promises of the Democrats in the last election, and with the popular demand for a reduction of the tariff schedules. It is aimed primarily at the duties on articles that enter into general consumption, and if allowed to go into effect it will be an effective test as to the part the tariff plays in the high cost of living. By its presentation and indorsement, the Democratic leaders and President Wilson have shown their intention to keep faith with the people, and the people will back them up in their efforts to make the plan a reality.

Congress is in our midst again. Seems kind o' natural, too, except as far as its complexion is concerned.

SMASHES TWO CUSTOMS.

In the presentation of his views to congress today, President Wilson completely disrupted two customs that have obtained since the memory of any man now living. First, he delivered the message to congress in person, instead of sending it by messenger to be read in each house. Second, the message itself contained only about twelve hundred words, a sharp contrast with those of recent years, which have been drawn out to anywhere from ten to forty thousand words.

Of President Wilson's plan of reading the message to congress himself there is bound to be criticism from those to whom the law of customs seems sacred. The president himself has explained his action by pointing out that he has ample precedent for it, and also by asserting a belief that the message will receive closer attention from the congressmen if he delivers it in person than it would if it were read perfunctorily by a clerk with whose voice and intonations the members are already familiar. And be it known, this message was intended to be attended to, not simply passed through with a perfunctory reading by anybody. Further, the personal presentation of his views is in keeping with President Wilson's declared intention to keep in close touch with congress.

Of the matter of the message little need be said. It is so clear and direct in its declaration of principles that it can be understood by all, and is so brief in text that it will probably be read by nearly every citizen. It is much such a message as was to be expected from Woodrow Wilson. It lays upon congress the same responsibility that the president expressed in his inaugural address, of keeping faith with the people and regarding their offices as positions of trust and responsibility, not of political advantage. No more striking characterization of the recent trend of tariff legislation in this country could be given than his statement that "we long ago passed beyond the modest notion of 'protecting' the industries of the country, and moved boldly forward to the idea that they were entitled to the direct patronage of the government." He puts his finger on a great weakness of the protective tariff system when he says that it has been built upon the basis of what the protected interests wanted, instead of on the basis of what they needed.

President Wilson holds to his pre-election declaration that the changes to be made must constitute alteration in the old system, not a sweeping away of it altogether that would cause distress and danger. He presses home the point that it is necessary to build up both trade and industry, and that we "must adopt freedom in the place of artificial stimulation only so far as it will build, not pull down."

Summed up, President Wilson's first message to congress is an exhortation to hold fast to the promises made to the people in the election at which the voters, trusting to those promises, put the new administration and the new congress into power. There is nothing in it of expediency. It is a brief and straight-forward statement of the purpose for which congress was called together, and a renewal of the pledge of fidelity to trust that marked the opening of the new administrative quadrennium.

Now Huerta's courage is to be put to the real test. Will he have the nerve to resign after the example he gave the country as to what to do with ex-presidents?

HAVING FUN WITH THE WORLD.

It seems that the days of hoaxes are not past. The world has just been beautifully and magnificently fooled again, and has swallowed bait, hook and sinker with its old-time avidity.

This time it was the Sphinx. We were told, not long ago, that one Prof. G. A. Reisner, an archaeologist for Harvard university, had been exporing and excavating in the Egyptian country, and had found in the head of the Sphinx a wonderful temple. The accounts went on to give details of the find, and promised more to follow.

Now comes Prof. Reisner with a denial of the whole story. He adds that he has not been working anywhere near the Sphinx, and that he does not intend to do so. In short, it appears that the story was made up out of whole cloth.

The query naturally arises, what prompted anybody to pull off such a stunt as that? The pecuniary consideration gained by the selling of the story of the alleged find would be infinitesimal. The personal gain would be nil, and the personal loss, through the killing of confidence on the part of the buyer toward the writer, would be serious. Yet somebody took just that loss.

Only one explanation remains, and that is that somebody wanted to have a little fun with the world, and succeeded. It is easy to imagine the amusement with which he watched his report spread and receive credence, and this amusement must have been the greater as one scientist after another accepted the report unquestioningly as a verification of his own pet theories, and sought personal glory in the shadow of the hoax.

No doubt it is good sport to have fun with the world in this fashion, but it is a risky experiment for any man who depends on his pen for his income. Also it is in rotten bad taste. There is only one class that can get any real good out of it, and that is the class of men who like to point to the Sphinx as a mystery. They have had a bit of advertising for their pet allusion, and have not lost the subject matter.

At least we don't want a tariff-for-revenue-only-for - the-protected-interests.

MISS EMERSON'S CASE.

It is devoutly to be hoped that the state department at Washington will not allow itself to be dragged into any foolish act by the appeals for national interference in behalf of Miss Emerson of Detroit, Mich., the American suffragist who is trying to starve herself in a British prison.

Miss Emerson violated the English law when she took part in the window-smashing campaign of the militant women in London. She knew she was violating the law, and she, with the others, courted arrest and punishment. Now, further emulating the English women, she is refusing to eat, and is being fed by force. She doesn't like it, and is protesting. Relatives are trying to get the government at Washington to intercede for her, and if necessary to demand that she be released.

There is no more reason why Miss Emerson should be released than there would be for the release of an English citizen who might come over here and smash things up because he did not like the way our government is run. She has deliberately broken English laws, and she ought to be willing to take her punishment. It is no part of Uncle Sam's duty to try to keep her from getting just what she invited.

What Miss Emerson evidently needs, is to be made to serve out her full time and then, if she has not seen the foolishness of her act, to be taken home and soundly spanked. And if more than one spanking is needed, she should have more than one, or as many as may be found necessary.

If you haven't got that difficulty solved yet, why not try a want ad?

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Just a few words as to our board of education. I was much surprised to read of their action on the salaries paid to our teachers. The raise went, as it usually does to our best paid teachers so they can enjoy more of the luxuries of life, but nothing for the girl who is striving to meet the necessities of life. We must bear in mind these girls only get ten months' pay a year. Now the teacher who gets $50 per month and who by reason of service will receive $55 per month next year gets no raise. If justice were done she should get $60 per month. She is the one who is in need of an increase. I supposed the board of education was going to increase the minimum salaries and leave the maximum salaries where they were. It costs a teacher getting $50 per month just as much to live in Duluth as it does the $80 teacher. She is expected to dress just as well and she has nothing for the ten months' work but a few clothes and her board. She is denied the privilege of enjoying any of life's luxuries. And now again I see the board of education has voted $1,500 for a six weeks' course for those scholars who did not keep up with their work. How kind of our board, $5 per day for our high-priced teachers to teach the very things they should have taught during the school year. It is about time for us taxpayers to wake up. One don't mind paying taxes to help our underpaid teachers, but when these moneys are given to our already well-paid teachers, it is time to kick. Yours truly,

TAXPAYER.

Modest Violet for Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia Bulletin: After long pondering and solemn argument, a committee of the legislature has decided to recommend that the violet shall be designated as the flower emblematic of the state. No other flower has been more praised in poesy, more honored in song, than the gentle, sweet-flavored violet. Its color is the one most lovely in the bright eyes of maidenhood. Its perfume is as ingratiating as spring zephyrs blowing o'er soft carpeted meadows. Its very modesty among the more gaudy of its rivals in woodland and field makes it most sought after and desired. Pennsylvania will not be alone in its choice. Three other states of the forty which have designated floral favorites adore the humble violet—Illinois, Rhode Island and Wisconsin.

Beautiful Spelling in Texas.

Popular Magazine: He was known as Choctaw George, and through ceaseless industry he had risen to that position where he could open a garage in San Antonio, Tex. Over the broad door of his establishment George put a sign consisting of the one word "Garage."

One morning an old negro woman came down the street which was ornamented with Choctaw George's automobile emporium. She stopped and looked at the sign a moment quizzically. Then she chuckled:

"Humph!" she said: "G-a-r-a-g-e! Dat's de foolishest way I ever seen to spell 'George.'"

Wilson and Congress

By Sayoyard.

Washington, April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Since he has been president of the United States, Woodrow Wilson has given the political contingent of this old town some rather hot times. There was no inauguration ball and its attendant snobbery and—graft. That was the first shock. His cabinet, the personnel of it, was another shock, especially the selection of William J. Bryan to head it. Then without consulting a Mr. Huntington Wilson, Woodrow Wilson abolished the policy of "dollar diplomacy," which put the United States navy at the disposal of the money trust to be employed as a collection agent. It was a phase of that copartnership between the government and the interests that Woodrow Wilson was appointed to dissolve. The grim way he has set about the task, as disclosed in that laconic—and yet O, how voluminous—note accepting the effusive and impertinent resignation of Huntington Wilson as assistant secretary of state. By the way, the banking house of J. Pierpont Morgan has ceased to have one of its heads in the state department. And that is another shock.

Well, President Wilson is just begun. The tariff is to be revised in a fashion that will be a long step in the way of reform. Standpat organs in this town prefer to believe that the protectionists of the South will not allow it. It is unthinkable. The South takes care of that blessed balance of trade. She sells her cotton in an absolutely free trade market, for the price of every pound of that staple is established at Liverpool, and the South would be a precious fool to ask for the continuance of a ruinous policy that for half a century has forced her to sell in a free trade market what she has, and buy in a protected market what she wants. The dogma of protection has cost the South more in money value since 1865 than she lost in the great war, and it would be the folly of the ages if the South should now turn protectionist. A tariff for revenue only would increase the purchasing power of a bale of cotton 100 per cent.

There has been much talk over President Wilson's decision to return to the custom that was practiced by the first two presidents—Washington and the elder Adams—and in fulfillment of section 3, article II of the Constitution, confer with congress face to face by verbal instead of written speech. It is generally agreed that had Jefferson been half as ready with his tongue as he was with his pen that method of communication between the two branches of the government might have continued to this day. But Jefferson could not make a speech at all, and for more than a century messages from the president to congress have been in writing. Henry Cabot Lodge, a highly respectable authority on American political history, in a speech in the senate not long ago, related that when President Washington paid his last visit to congress to communicate with the legislature pursuant to the section of the Constitution I have cited, he was very much disconcerted because of something that took place and as he departed exclaimed with wrathful emphasis, "I'll be damned if I ever come here again!"

Mr. Wilson, when governor of New Jersey, repeatedly practiced the innovation of communicating with the state legislature by appearing before the two houses and delivering his message orally. And great good resulted from it. There is a suggested reform that is sure to be consummated before the Union is much older—that cabinet ministers have seats in either house of congress and participate in debates when matters affecting their respective departments are under consideration. It is bound to result in better and wiser legislation, for conference imparts knowledge, and, let me tell you, knowledge does not hinder judicious law-giving.

But the intimation that President Wilson was going to meet congress face to face threw many of our pundits into convulsions, and in some quarters we heard that congress would pack him off with a flea in his ear and teach him better manners. I have been looking upon congress at close range for a third of a century. It is a fine institution—rather garrulous, 'tis true—and we would be bad off without it, though it often gropes in the dark and turns out a lot of half-baked legislation. The Constitution makes it the duty of the president to communicate with the two houses from time to time, and when the president concluded that he could the better subserve the public weal by spoken message than by written, he would have been false to his oath of office if he did not adopt that plan. Not one congressman or senator in three hears the president's message read, and few of them read it after it is printed; but let such an orator as Woodrow Wilson appear before congress and make a speech and what he says will not only be heard—it will be pondered. It will be heeded.

For sixteen years the government of the United States has been employed by the money power as a servile instrument to fetch and carry for the special interests. I do not say that these folks had bad motives. They believed that it was profoundest policy to create such concerns as Standard Oil, Steel, Wool, Coal and the other combinations in restraint of trade so that they could take care of labor—such care as it was. But no country can get along and preserve liberty, when it makes of one citizen a Pierpont Morgan and in a stone's toss of his bank are other men willing to work, able to work, and denied the opportunity to work. Of all the mental torture that ever came to a human being I put as the most excruciating that which comes to him, whose fellow-worm denies him leave to toil. I speak from personal experience. Perennially accursed be the unspeakable scoundrel who gets ignoble revenge by depriving the man he hates of means to earn his bread! He is the devil's own.

Well, Woodrow Wilson has been chosen to bring about a change, and woe to him, whether in congress or out of congress, who shall attempt to thwart his efforts in that behalf.

I know congress, or think I do, which is about the same thing. Woodrow Wilson, being elected to meet it face to face, congress has taken its medicine, if medicine it be. For the country is behind Woodrow Wilson.

Human Nature.

She began her career selling gloves for McKnight—
Grant street entrance, first floor, second aisle to the right—
And quite often at night she would go home and cry
Over what she must stand from the people who buy.

But she married a broker—Lord only knows how!—
And she's riding around in a limousine now;
And the saleslades down at McKnight's all declare
That she's meaner than anyone else who shops there!

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator O'Gorman of New York is a man of human qualities who is gradually living down the judicial temperament he acquired during the years he held court for a living. One phase of O'Gorman's judicial temperament was a habit of evasiveness, and this has made him such a difficult source of information that two or three newspaper men have buried their heads in their hands and groaned aloud.

Shortly after the present administration came in, when the Democratic leaders were constantly conferring about one thing and another, a correspondent went to O'Gorman and asked him if he thought the special session of congress would be confined to the tariff alone. O'Gorman thought a long time, lighted a cigar, walked about the room, smiling pleasantly, and finally replied:

"Some people seem to think that we should confine ourselves to the tariff at the coming session, and others believe that we should also take up other legislation."

Not long after that illuminating interview, a newspaper man went to O'Gorman and had a tete-a-tete with him, suggesting that whenever he didn't wish to talk about anything he should just say so, but quit his joking or evading, whichever it was. O'Gorman laughed and told the man that perhaps he was right. From then on O'Gorman turned over a new leaf and became about as candid as anybody.

William H. Thompson, the boyish-faced new senator from Kansas believes that he was the proximate cause of Grover Cleveland getting his second term for president.

Thompson was a youngster just emerging from his teens at the time of Cleveland's nomination in '92, but he went to the Chicago convention with his father, who was a delegate.

The name of David B. Hill loomed up strongly, to the great consternation of young Thompson, who, without knowing exactly why, was a great Cleveland shouter. As he sat in the gallery amid the excitement of it all, our youthful hero chanced to notice the skylights in the roof on the convention building, and right then he thought of a way to nominate Cleveland.

He rushed out of the hall into a pouring rain and looked about for the thing he wanted, and finally found it in the window of a shabby little saloon. It was a framed picture of Grover Cleveland with bunting draped about it by the artistic hand of the bartender.

Young Thompson had never been in a saloon before, but he ventured in and inquired of the drink salesman how much he would take for the picture.

"Wot'll you gimme?" asked the man.

"Oh, sir," said Thompson, "I have only got a dollar; but, indeed, sir, I would gladly give you that."

So he got the picture. Next he hustled about for some stout cord, and a few minutes later he was climbing up the slippery roof in the rain. He opened a skylight and suspended the picture of Cleveland down over the multitude; and, as it happened, immediately over the New York delegation. Many thought the New York crowd had raised the Cleveland banner, and everybody yelled. Thompson sat on the roof in the rain and dangled the picture until a policeman chased him away.

The next morning the papers said that an unknown Kansas boy had nominated Cleveland.

That unknown Kansas boy was the future senator.

A short time before the Dayton flood "Jimmy" Cox, governor of Ohio, celebrated the fourteenth anniversary of his arrival in Dayton by taking a walk over the town with a friend.

In the course of their stroll they met an old German who had conducted a little restaurant when Cox first came to town and bought the Dayton News—on borrowed money. Cox introduced the old German to his companion.

"This man," said Cox, "has come to my rescue dozens of times by lending me $20 or $25 to help me meet my pay roll, back in the days when I couldn't have raised the money any other way."

Representative William Kettner of San Diego, Cal., made a journey to Mexico a while ago and was greatly impressed with the cheapness of Mexican cab hire.

Kettner is the man who made himself such a nuisance to the people of San Diego by selling them life insurance that his victims sent him to congress to get rid of him. But that fact has nothing whatever to do with this story, which is laid entirely in Mexico. Kettner found that for 20 cents he could have a carriage at his disposal for about an hour. That made a great hit with him, and he worried because he had occasion to use a cab only part of the time. It seemed a shame that he couldn't spend more money on such a bargain proposition.

The afternoon before Kettner and his friends were to leave Mexico, one of the party noticed a string of seven carriages proceeding down the street like a funeral procession. All were empty except the one in the lead. In it sat Kettner puffing calmly at a big cigar.

He had hired all the carriages he could find in front of his hotel and set out to revel in his bargain grandeur.

Some Literary Stupidities.

Paris Revue: Not all the literary stupidities are in Flaubert's portfolio of human stupidity, as described and sampled by Guy de Maupassant. One French writer used the startling phrase, "He was 70 years old, and looked twice his age;" another, "The two adversaries were placed at an equal distance from each other." This sounds like a passage from an American best seller, but who was it that said: "With one hand he fondled her hair, and with the other he said to her * * *?"

It was Corneille the greater who wrote: "This shall cost Pompey his life and his head." The dramatist, Scribe, in his inaugural speech before the French academy, reproached Moliere with having failed to mention in any of his works the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. (This occurred in 1685—when Moliere had been dead twelve years). Hugo, apostle of antithesis and local color, makes Charlemagne say in the Legende des Siecles: "You dream, like a clerk in the Sorbonne;" an institution founded in 1253. Of the critic Janin it has been written: "He had a horror of inexactitude." All the same Janin makes Smyrna out to be an island; Cannes on the Mediterranean to be the Central Italian Cannae; the river Rhone to pass through Marseilles—fifty miles away.

The State Legislature

Press Views on the Session.

Two Reasons.

Aurora News: Minnesota has more members in her law-making bodies than many states having much more population. This is partly because Minnesota contains much more area than these states and partly because some of the present greedy senators and representatives fear to have more territory added to their districts. It would make dreaded competition, you know.

No Party Lines.

Warren Register: Judging from the actions of the Minnesota legislature at its present session, party lines have been so nearly obliterated that the senate was probably justified in passing a bill putting the names of candidates for the legislature on the non-partisan ticket.

Piling Up Laws.

Pine River Sentinel: While Minnesota folks are paying 3 cents a mile to ride the cushions and waiting for the supreme court decision of the rate case the Minnesota legislature is not idle in legislating on the railroads. Nearly eighty proposed laws regarding the railroads have come up this session, some of them good and some of them otherwise.

Sam Is Suspicious.

Brown's Valley Tribune: It is much to be regretted that the county assessor bill was defeated in the state senate. It was a good measure, and there is a suspicion that tax-dodgers had much to do with the defeat of the bill.

No Objections.

St. Cloud Times: The house passed a bill making the terms of county officers four years. There can be no reasonable objection to such a law. Two-year terms are too short. It would be even better if terms were six years.

The Commission Plan.

Lake Crystal Union: A commission plan of state government is proposed and an amendment to the Constitution is offered in a bill by Representatives Rines, Nolan and Pless to that effect. If the commission plan of government is all right for cities, why not for state and the United States? All that is necessary is to make the change effective.

Few Good Bills.

Preston Times: The time limit for introducing bills in our present legislature has passed, and hereafter it will take a two-thirds vote or a request from the governor to get a bill into the legislative hopper. However, it does not matter. About 2,000 propositions, good, bad and indifferent, are now before that body and it is safe to say that at least nine-tenths of those should be thrown into the discard. From now on the legislature will do well, not to see how many bills it can pass but how many it can kill. If it would pick out half a dozen of the pending measures, pass them, adjourn and go home, it might be said that it had made a fairly good record.

Good Results.

Cambridge Independent-Press: Only a few working days remain in which the legislature must pass upon bills now before the two branches of the law-making body. There are hundreds of measures to consider and it will be a busy time for the lawmakers from now on. Of course, not one-half the bills before the legislature will become law, but the present session has been productive of some excellent progressive legislation.

"Taking Things Back"

Dry Goods: The millinery buyer had ordered several model hats from Paris which were offered for sale at $200 each.

One of the best customers of the store ordered two of these hats charged to her account and sent home. The buyer of this department was at dinner that night at the hotel St. Regis. He saw the lady at a distant table wearing one of the hats. Next day both hats were returned to him.

The buyer made an attempt to get the lady on the telephone. After importuning her several times she called in reference to the matter. He told her frankly that he could not take the hats back, as they had been worn. She denied it and appealed to the head of the house.

The proprietor requested the buyer to take the hats back as a matter of policy. The buyer became furious and informed the owner of the store that unless the hats were taken and paid for he would resign. The proprietor told him to send the hats to the head office and he would do what was necessary. The buyer received a check the next day for $200. It was signed by the proprietor of the store.

A lady called upon one of the leading Baltimore houses and requested that an evening wrap be sent to her home for approval. One of the selling staff of the store happened to see the lady at the theater that night, wearing the wrap. To the surprise of the department it was returned to the store the next morning. The lady was requested to call at the store, which she did. She stoutly denied having worn the wrap. Many places showed where she had sat or leaned against it. She still persisted in her denial.

The firm decided to take the wrap back in obedience to the unwritten law of "policy." As the customer was leaving the store one of the young saleslades rushed toward her and said, "Madam, you have forgotten these," handing her a pair of gloves and a handkerchief that were taken from the pocket of the wrap.

A prominent pin-ticket house has devised a ticket which is fastened like an ordinary price tag to any prominent part of the merchandise and cannot be removed without being mutilated.

By the adoption of this pin-ticket scheme a large department store reported that within one month its percentage of returns decreased by fully 50 per cent.

The Lessons of Nature.

Of this fair volume which we World do name,
If we the sheets and leaves could turn with care,
Of him who corrects it, and did it frame,
We clear might read the art and wisdom rare;
Find out his power which wildest powers doth tame,
His providence extending everywhere,
His justice which proud rebels doth not spare,
In every page, no period of the same.
But silly we, like foolish children, rest
Well pleased with color'd vellum, leaves of gold,
Fair dangling ribbands, leaving what is best,
On the great writer's sense ne'er taking hold;
Or if by chance we stay our minds on aught,
It is some picture on the margin wrought.

A Question of Character.

Collier's Weekly: The best farmers in the United States started with less than $1,000—in most cases with less than $10. They were the Irish and German immigrants who went straight from the ship to work as hired men on farms. Out of the $15 or $20 a month they got in addition to their board they saved enough to buy a few acres of land. Is the city man of the present generation too weak in fiber, too infirm of purpose, too lacking in endurance and initiative for this process?

First Church to Make Arrangements for Big Event in September.

On Tuesday evening, April 29, the congregation of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, will begin preparations for the general Swedish Baptist conference of America, to be held here during the first week of September. Over 400 delegates, in addition to the visiting church members from the surrounding country, will be present at the conference.

At the regular monthly meeting of the congregation on April 29 a standing committee will be appointed to begin active preparations for the conference. The committee will be instructed to appoint sub-committees. Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the church and vice president of the conference, will act as general chairman of the committee. The exact dates for the conference, which will come during the first week in September, will be decided upon by the committee at its first meeting.

The executive committee of the conference is waiting for the local congregation to meet and name the committee. The national officials are anxious to know on just what dates the conference will be held and to begin preparing for it as early as possible.

Rev. Mr. Nelson stated yesterday afternoon that the local congregation will make reservations for at least 400 delegates. They will all be given room and lodging free of charge as was done for the delegates to the annual state Sunday school convention held here two weeks ago.

At the sessions to be held here the general missionary work of the church will be taken up. The church now numbers 30,000 active members in the United States and Canada. Each church in the conference will be allowed one delegate for the first fifty members and one delegate for every 100 members above that number.

The officers of the conference for this year are: Rev. Mr. Engstrand of Brooklyn, N. Y., president; Rev. Swaney Nelson, Duluth, vice president; Rev. J. O. Backland, Boston, Mass., secretary, and Rev. C. W. Anderson, Chicago, corresponding and financial secretary.

H. J. Sopher, educational director of the Y. M. C. A., who is conducting evening classes for working people in the West end, in speaking of this new feature yesterday afternoon, said that its success is already apparent.

The evening classes were started about six weeks ago and they already have a membership of seventy-five. They meet every Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evening in room 7 of the Mohaupt block, 2022 West Superior street. The class in civics meets every Friday evening.

The classes are taught elementary subjects, each pupil being given special attention by his instructor. Professor Sopher is being assisted in the work by several young men of the Y. M. C. A. Professor A. G. Alexander, head of the English department at the Central high school, is in charge of the class in civics.

The most important class of the evening school is the one studying civics. The pupils are taught the various fundamental features of the national government, the Constitution and the local government. AGITATION FOR POLICE STATION

West End People Want Commission to Provide New Quarters.

With the advent of the new commission government in the city, one of the first requests to be made of the commissioners will be to construct a new police station at some central point in the West end.

Residents in this end of the city have been campaigning for a new police station for the past ten years, but the project never succeeded in getting through the council. It is the belief of many that the new commission will look with favor upon the plan and that there is a likelihood of securing an appropriation for the construction of the building from the commissioners.

Those behind the movement propose to circulate a petition throughout this end of the city and to present it as early as possible to the commissioners.

The present station is located underneath the firehall at Nineteenth avenue west and Piedmont and is most unsanitary and unhealthful. Besides a new station the West end is also in need of call bells at Garfield, Twentieth, Twenty-first and Twenty-fifth avenues west, those behind the campaign say.

COLLECTS OLD DEBT FROM HILL

Duluth Employment Agent Serves Papers on Railroad Magnate's Son.

A local court officer served Walter Hill, son of James J. Hill, with garnishee papers when he stepped out of the elevator of the Spalding hotel yesterday morning preparatory to entering the dining room for his breakfast.

The action was to satisfy a claim of $20.35 held against Hill by Michael O'Connor of the Zenith Employment agency. O'Connor alleged that he had not been paid for services rendered in securing a cook for the Hill farm. Upon the advice of an attorney Hill wrote out a check to satisfy the claim.

It appeared that O'Connor had secured a cook for Mr. Hill about a year ago and when the cook arrived at the farm he found the place already filled. The cook returned and forced Mr. O'Connor to pay his expenses. These expenses constituted the bill against Mr. Hill.

DRUNKEN TELEGRAPHER TIES UP TRAIN SERVICE.

Smart, Cal., April 8.—J. W. Kelly, a Southern Pacific telegrapher, was arrested here yesterday after he had tied up trains for some hours and necessitated the sending of a special train from Blue Canyon with railroad police and a dispatcher.

Kelly, who is alleged to have been intoxicated, amused himself by taking charge of the direction of traffic along the line. He is said to have ignored official messages and substituted others until service was so demoralized that all trains on the division were ordered held at sidings.

FIVE MEMBERS OF GANG OF SWINDLERS CAUGHT

Winnipeg, Man., April 8.—Five former members of the famous Mabray gang of swindlers were arrested by police here late yesterday following complaints by several citizens that they had been swindled out of hundreds of dollars by the men. Those arrested are: Henry L. Weber, Charles Halliday, Charles Webber, John L. Roberts and John L. Lane. Edna Holmes, an alleged accomplice, also was arrested. According to the police the men had fitted up offices with fake telegraph instruments and blackboards and were giving alleged horse racing returns. No bet less than $500 was taken, it is said. One citizen was swindled out of $800.

MOST SICKNESS COMES FROM WEAK, INACTIVE KIDNEYS

There are scores of nervous, tired, run-down people throughout the city, suffering with pains in the back and sides, dizzy spells, weaknesses of the bladder, (frequently causing annoyance at night) who fail to realize the seriousness of their troubles until such conditions as chronic rheumatism, bladder troubles, dropsy, diabetes or even Bright's disease result.

All this is due to weak, inactive kidneys. The kidneys are the filterers of the blood, and no one can be well and healthy unless the kidneys work properly. It is even more important than that the bowels move regularly.

If you suffer with such symptoms don't neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications. Secure an original package of the new discovery, Croxone, which costs but a trifle, and commence its use at once. When you have taken a few doses, you will be surprised how differently you will feel.

Croxone cures the worst cases of kidney, bladder trouble, and rheumatism, because it removes the cause. It cleans out the kidneys, and makes them filter out all the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the bladder, and quickly relieves you of all your misery.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, it is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You can secure an original package of Croxone from any first class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

Woman's Realm

A "request program" every number of which had been especially enjoyed during the year, was given last evening at the Pilgrim Congregational church as a close to the active work of the Matinee musicale for this season. Members were given the privilege of inviting a guest and the church was filled to the doors with an audience which showed its enthusiasm over every number by continuous applause which the artists were forced to acknowledge more than once.

The program was arranged by Mrs. D. H. Day and Mrs. Stephen H. Jones and the arrangements for the evening were under the general chairmanship of Mrs. G. Herbert Jones.

Miss Wally Heymar and Miss Alice Mae Brown opened the program with Grieg's "Allegro et Molto Apassionato" from C minor sonata for violin and piano which was brought out with great beauty of tone and exquisite feeling by both musicians.

Miss Alma Hopkins, who is the possessor of a rich full contralto voice sang two songs, "Ich Liebe Dich" by Grieg and "Without Thee" by Tellardelot with ease and sympathetic interpretation.

Miss Ruth Rogers played two numbers, the last movement of "Eroica" sonata by MacDowell which she worked up with power and finish and Schuett's lovely "Etude in D major," charming and graceful which she gave most delightfully. Miss Rogers' first notes distinguish her playing as that of one who thoroughly understands and capably handles her numbers and she was versatility in her interpretation of the composers. She was compelled to respond to an encore before the audience was satisfied and she played a beautiful little Chopin, "Mazurga," in D minor.

Mrs. Donna Riblette Flaaten never appeared to better advantage than she did last evening in her singing of the "Polonaise From Mignon," by Thomas. The lyric quality of her voice in its sweet liquid purity was absolutely adapted to her number and her mastery of the technique which made the rendition so delightful was subordinate to the hearer and she received tremendous applause. Mrs. J. N. McKindley played her accompaniment with her usual sympathy and ability.

The final number, which was the biggest thing on the program and which was the biggest thing given during the year, was the trio number played by Mrs. Fred G. Bradbury, pianist, Mrs. Marie Geist-Erd, cellist, and Miss Valborg Gunderson, violinist. "Trio In D Minor, Op. 32," by Arensky, which proved the most popular in requests for this program.

The three players showed a wonderful amount of skill and appreciation in their work and absolute unity and ensemble work made it a finished number, marking the three players as artists.

The piano part, which is not an accompaniment but a big force in the number, was given with all the beauty of tone and phrasing which usually characterizes Mrs. Bradbury's playing, and her technique, coloring and shading all combined for a finished interpretation.

Mrs. J. B. Erd brought out her cello part with all its deep, full richness and vibrating qualities with the sureness of an artist, and Miss Gunderson played her violin part with freshness and charm, balancing her part well against that of the older musicians.

Altogether the program was thoroughly enjoyed and music lovers felt proud of the musical organization which offers so fine a program by its own members.

Mrs. George S. Richards, who has been president of the club for the past two years and under whose leadership the membership has more than doubled, gave a short address, saying that the hope of the club is to have an auditorium in Duluth where the big musical things may be given and where the women's clubs may find a home.

Samaritans Enjoy Special Comedy Program.

A burlesque on the convention of the Modern Samaritans recently held in St. Paul was given last evening by members of Duluth council, No. 3, at the K. of P. hall before a large audience of members and their guests and proved a big hit, especially with those who had attended as delegates from the various councils of the city. The leading character, "Mrs. Lucy Purdy," was well taken by Richard Jones. A. G. McKnight and J. A. McLaughlin as "Artful E. Bananas" and "Senator Sideburn," respectively, were irresistible. ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

In Eugene Walter's dramatization of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," the widely read novel by John Fox, Jr., the author of "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," you see presented on the stage the typical mountain community of the Virginia hills. The primitiveness of the people is shown in all its picturesqueness and charm and the audience will love June and her kinsfolk far more on the stage than they did when they wandered with her through the pages of Mr. Fox's delightful story.

The play will be seen at the Lyceum tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night.

Alice Lloyd, dainty and delightful, the most celebrated singer of gay melodies to come from English shores, will come as the star of the much promised new opera, "The Rose Maid," to the Lyceum, Monday.

As full of good things as a Christmas stocking is this new work, Werba & Luescher's most recent big musical success, which took New York last winter by storm and continued without loss of patronage right through the hot weather and into its second season. This charming operetta will play its engagement here with the metropolitan production and great company of singers who were heard in New York in support of the fascinating Alice Lloyd.

"The Rose Maid" is apparently to revolutionize comic opera. So stupendous have its managers made the production that a new pace has been set for producers of light opera. The state settings for the two great acts have inspired unusual descriptive stories. The first takes place in the glittering salon of the Duke of Barchester's London palace and discloses an extravagant revel of society Bohemians. The stage is filled with beautiful women gowned in the latest Parisian creations and English army officers in their brilliant uniforms. Tivoli girls dance and all the pretty gaiety girls of London are present at the last bachelor party given by the young nobleman, and his engagement to the Princess that lasts until he is suddenly disinherited by his favorite uncle with money lenders clamoring around him.

Act II discloses the lawn in front of a massive hotel in Ostend, one of Europe's most fashionable seashore resorts. Here is realism run riot. The great main entrance of the hotel has been faithfully reproduced with its giant staircases, foyers and reception halls. Outside are its broad verandas and an open-air restaurant, where the cosmopolites of the continent are dining. In the rear is a perspective showing the broad corridors, furnished with a splendor that suggests the famous "Peacock Alley" of New York's fashionable trysting place of the "400."

Like its sister opera, "The Spring Maid," this latest Viennese work tells a delightful little tale of romance, full of sweetness and brilliant scenes, people with characters principally new to the stage life.

So great was the support given last season to the Messrs. Aborn for their enterprise in giving to Balfe's greatest work, "The Bohemian Girl," a production hitherto never attempted, that they decided to continue it for another year. This season it will be presented in all the larger cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific and incidentally in order to break the journey, will play a few of the more important of the so-called one-night stands. Great care has to be exercised in the selection of the latter, as there are not many stages outside of the big cities that are sufficiently large to permit of the employment of the entire scenic investiture, the immense company of upwards of 100 people, not to mention horses, and a troupe of Arabian acrobats, that are part of the mammoth production of "The Bohemian Girl." And further, the Messrs. Aborn are averse to contracting for its presentation where, because of lack of stage room, something would have to be omitted. "The Bohemian Girl" will be presented at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday, with a Saturday matinee.

Mr. Kelly is generally conceded to be one of the best monologists ever heard in Duluth. He impersonates an old Virginia justice of the peace, and gives a courtroom scene, impersonating in turn the various prisoners brought before the bench. Mr. Kelly is himself a Southerner, born in Virginia, and has the negro dialect perfected.

"The characters are taken from real life," said Mr. Kelly, "and they are very slightly, if at all, exaggerated. This old judge was quite a famous character in the South. The prisoners are types of the Southern negro which I have seen on countless occasions."

Mr. Kelly has no stage "properties" but a kitchen table, a huge book and a gavel, and has no assistants, but he keeps the audience in shouts of laughter during the twenty minutes he is on the stage.

Miss Lynne Canter, who is appearing at the Empress theater in the excellent vaudeville bill this week, has decided views on the subject of suffrage and prohibition.

"I believe in personal liberty," said Miss Lynne Canter. "Every man should have the opportunity to decide for himself what he wishes to aim at in the pursuit of happiness, but should not be allowed to make others unhappy because of a vicious appetite. Temperance and not total abstinence, is becoming more and more general, and in my opinion will do more for the country than any other kind of reform.

"Prohibition has done and is doing a great deal more for the South than most people realize; and local option in the North is becoming more and more general—and a step in the right direction.

"My hope is that I shall never live to see the day when men do needle work and women take up the reins of government. I do not object to women having the ballot, if it gives them any pleasure—but I think they would soon tire of it anyway and pray, why make such a fuss over it? To my way of thinking women should have everything they want. The mere fact that a woman is a woman is sufficient reason for giving her anything she may crave. No matter how great it is, she earns it.

"I think, furthermore, that women today are quite as intelligent as men. Our colleges send out a vast number of women, and there is no reason why they are not fitted to have the ballot.

"Still, I do not believe in women voting. They have trouble enough in the world without getting into politics. Imagine some women running for office, and the lady on the opposition ticket tearing her reputation to shreds. But women should keep themselves thoroughly well posted on the big issues of the day, and should influence the votes of the men in the family."

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Anti-Noise Crusade Has Much to Commend It.

The idea of suppressing noises in cities impresses many as being impracticable, in fact ridiculous, because a seemingly impossible task. "Suppresing noises, ho, ho," they chortle. "Where will you begin?" Where to begin is the question. The most nerve-wracking noises are beyond our reach when it comes to the point of suppressing them, at this stage in the crusade against noise. However, a beginning of some kind is the thing, and therefore noises easy to endure will first be placed under the ban, because, paradoxically, they are easier to suppress.

The toot of the fish peddler's horn, the jangle of bells on the push cart of the street vender and the hoarse cry of "Old rags" are as music compared with the rumble and roar of overhead trains, the grating, grinding sounds that accompany the merrily bowling trolley and the jar and clatter of heavily-laden trucks on city pavements. But as unmindful as we should be of those first mentioned disturbances were the greater evils put under, it will be upon these simpler irritants that we shall have to commence our work of reform.

The campaign to suppress noises is not a matter for smiles, but for serious contemplation. If you will but consider the passing effect the roar of an overhead train has upon you, you cannot fail to recognize that it is one that tells against you. By the simple system of multiplication you may arrive at the conclusion that the endurance of this sort of thing from one year's end to another may be influential, possibly, in shortening your days or detracting from a healthy condition of mind and body.

I know that I failed to appreciate how wearing to the point of illness was all the noises we endure until a few years ago. I spent a long season in the country. On my return to the city the noises smote me at every turn. City folks say that the lowing of cows and the cackle of hens are more annoying than familiar sounds, but that is only until one becomes accustomed to them. They do not grind away a portion of one's brain. They are noises one can live with.

We should not overlook the evil effects of the myriad noises upon the human system. As many of them as may should be abolished and as rapidly as possible, too. Many that seem of little consequence and actually do not work much harm in themselves, add to the general din and hubbub and in that capacity should be prohibited.

TWINS ARE BORN SIX WEEKS APART

Unusual Birth Creates Problem Under British Insurance Act.

London, April 8.—All known birth records have been beaten by the wife of a workman at Barrow, Lancashire, who, on Feb. 21, gave birth to a son. Both the mother and the child did well. Last Friday came an interesting development. Another child—a girl—was born.

The existence of the boy, who is only 6 weeks older than his baby sister, threatens to raise problems which will make the Barrow babies famous. From a medical point of view they are twins, but regarded from the cold standpoint of Greenwich time, they missed twinship by six full weeks.

The case gives the insurance commissioners a problem to solve. The father, under the insurance act, is entitled to the maternity benefit of $7.50. If the children are not adjudged to be twins, he will be entitled to receive another $7.50, but if they are twins the act counts them as one.

Clogged Bowels a Menace to Health

Constipation at Bottom of Most Serious Illnesses—Avoided by a Simple Remedy.

Trace the origin of the commoner ills of life and almost invariably you will find that constipation was the cause. It is not to be expected that a mass of fermented food can remain in the system beyond its time without vitiating the blood and affecting the nerves and muscles. It congests the entire body.

The results are colds, fevers, piles, headaches and nervousness with its accompanying indigestion and sleeplessness. There is only one thing to do, and that is to remove the trouble; and when nature seems unable to do it, outside aid is necessary. You will find the best of all outside aids a remedy that many thousands are now using for this very purpose, called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Many hundreds of letters are received by Dr. Caldwell telling of the good results obtained, and among the enthusiastic letters is one from Docia Wood of Little River Academy, North Carolina, who suffered with constipation and indigestion so badly that she could not sleep well at night and everything she ate distressed her. She writes that after her mother had given her Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin she "can now eat anything."

DOCIA WOOD.

It has untold advantages over pills, salts and the various coarse cathartics and purgatives, for while these do but temporary good, Syrup Pepsin cures permanently. The effect of its action is to train the stomach and bowel muscles to do their work naturally again, and in a short time all forms of medicine can be dispensed with. It can be bought without inconvenience at any nearby drug store for fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter size being regularly bought by those who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

MISSING 100 VOTES APPEAR; PRINCE DECLARED WINNER

Silberstein Gains Ten—Otherwise Herald's Figures Are Confirmed.

Council Restrained By the Court From Awarding Paving Contracts.

The city council as official canvassing board last night declared W. I. Prince elected mayor, Fred J. Voss and Leonidas Merritt, long term commissioners and Roderick Murchison and William A. Hicken short term commissioners.

The mising 100 first choice votes claimed for Prince in the Fifth precinct of the First ward appeared upon the return sheet, giving him a lead of six votes over W. E. McEwen, who was apparently elected upon the face of the unofficial returns last Wednesday. The unofficial return sheet credited Prince with but 73 first choice votes in that precinct while the official sheet opened last showed that he received 173 first choice votes, substantiating the statements of The Herald that Prince would become chief executive of Duluth when the new commission assumed charge April 14.

As expected the council chamber was packed by a record crowd anxious to hear the reading of the official returns and to learn at the earliest possible moment whether or not the canvass would return Prince or McEwen as the winner. The uncertainty added much interest to an unusually dry and uninteresting proceeding. Not until the last precinct was read were those present certain that Prince would assume the chair of the chief executive next Monday at noon.

Will Ask Recount.

W. E. McEwen stated last night steps will be taken at once to institute a recount. He said that he had no fault to find with the official canvass of the returns by the council but that he was confident that a recount would give him the office. He stated that it is apparent that a number of mistakes have been made and is confident that they will be shown to be in his favor when the recount is made. In the canvass last night Bernard Silberstein gained ten votes, giving him a total of 3,108 votes. McEwen had 3,126 votes and Prince 3,132 votes. The canvass left Fay's total of 3,067 votes unchanged. The canvass gave Voss 5,898 on first and second choices, constituting the necessary majority. In all other instances with the exception of Judge Cutting the third choice had to be counted. Judge Cutting was declared elected on 5,502 votes, the total vote cast being 10,286. Merritt had 4,894 votes and McCormick 4,758 votes. Murchison had 2,877 votes, Hicken had 2,858 votes and Farrell had 2,814 votes. H. W. Lanners was declared elected judge of the West Duluth municipal court with 4,996 votes. About three hours were required to canvass the returns.

Congratulates Prince.

Many candidates attended the council meeting last evening to witness the canvasing of the returns. Among them were Prince and McEwen. When the result was definitely known McEwen was among the first to tender his congratulations to Prince.

City Clerk Charles S. Palmer prepared blue prints of the returns for the use of each of the aldermen. He had matters so arranged that the canvass could be expedited without unnecessary loss of time. The city clerk received many congratulations last night upon the manner in which he handled the canvass. The bulk of the work fell upon his shoulders. The hardest job which fell to the lot of the aldermen was to follow the returns as read by the clerk.

The meeting last night was not the final gathering of the old council, as had been expected. The aldermen adjourned last night to meet next Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. At that time the bonds of the mayor and the long and short term commissioners will be approved. Each of them is required to furnish a bond of $25,000. At that time it is probable that the city dads will sing their swan songs and bid one another fond farewells, etc.

Restraining Order.

The council was last evening served with a restraining order, signed by Judge W. A. Cant, directing that no action be taken on the awarding of eight contracts for street improvements. The order was issued at the request of John Gottlieb Krause, an East Fourth street property owner. The court directed that arguments could be brought in forty-eight hours if an effort should be made to revoke the order. Under the new charter the contracts could not have been awarded last night, as it is required that all ordinances or resolutions involving a liability of more than $1,000 on the part of the city shall be laid over one week before being passed.

The city engineer reported that a concrete culvert over Miller's creek at Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street will cost $18,752; that the addition of a retaining wall with an arch effect will cost $23,843, and that a concrete bridge will cost $27,426. The proposed improvement is at the foot of Lincoln park.

Jane Gillis filed notice of a claim of $1,500 for personal injuries alleged to have been sustained in front of the West Duluth police station through the negligence of the city. She claims to have been injured in a fall on an icy sidewalk.

An extra man was hired for the aerial bridge, in order that each of the operators may have vacations of two weeks.

The council authorized the payment of the clerks and judges of election, amounting to $3,430.28.

The council recommended that the new commission take up the matter of fire protection for Woodland and Oneota.

The water and light department was authorized to employ a hydraulic engineer to examine the location and plans of the Woodland and orphanage stations and the reservoir of the new system, the cost not to exceed $250.

FOR BENEFIT OF FARMERS

First National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits Begins.

One Purpose Is to Seek the Creation of Bureau of Markets.

Chicago, April 8.—The first national conference on marketing and farm credits which means to seek a remedy for the evils existing in the marketing of farm products and for a more equitable distribution of them, opened here today for a three days' meeting.

The organization was effected in Texas in 1911 but this is the first time representatives have been brought together with the authority to form concrete plans for obtaining the results desired.

Agricultural colleges and schools, state universities, leaders of agricultural organizations, farm journals and the agricultural department of the government are represented at the conference.

Want Bureau of Markets.

One of the main purposes of the conference is to seek the creation of a bureau of markets of the United States government with annual appropriations sufficient for the proposed work and carrying with it a member of the president's cabinet. Another purpose is the organization of the fruit growers of the Middle West into a selling agency and of agricultural editors to champion the marketing plan and to conduct a campaign of education among farmers and the consumer.

Those in attendance at the conference are to have the benefit of the best thought that can be brought to bear on the related problems.

Harry A. Wheeler, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the United States, called the convention to order and delivered an address of welcome. He was followed by President Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Van Hise said in part:

Enlist for Life.

"Those in attendance at this meeting enlist for life in a pioneer movement which is the first concerted effort on the national plane, to redirect economic forces and readjust the farming population to harmonious relations with the business world.

"For farm products the waste in distribution is admitted to be large. It is to be reckoned for the country as a whole each year in the hundreds of millions, due partly to the perishable nature of many of the farm products.

"The perishable nature of fruits and vegetables combined with the great fluctuation in acreage from year to year and the production of the same acreage in different years, results in a fluctuation of their price such as is not paralleled by any other articles of commerce.

"For some of the relatively permanent products the margin between the producer and the consumer can be diminished by only a moderate amount. In the case of cheese, which may bring the farmers in Wisconsin 11 to 13 cents, it may sell in the South and West in different seasons from 20 and 25 and 30 cents a pound.

Big Profits Made.

"With vegetables and fruits it is different. In one of Governor McGovern's messages to the legislature he mentioned that at one time when the farmers of Waupaca county were selling potatoes at the railway station for 30 cents a bushel, the consumers in Milwaukee were paying 85 cents a bushel. The expense of shipping was 6½ cents. This made the amount which went to the dealer between the consumer and producer 48½ cents or 133 per cent."

Dr. Van Hise swelled on the importance of co-operation as the guiding idea. The plan should include co-operation between the producer and consumer, he said, but not to the extent that we would have the same outcry against the farmer that we have against the trusts. He explained that the difference was slight between co-operation and combination.

E. M. Tousley of Minneapolis, secretary of the Right Relationship league, who followed Dr. Van Hise said:

"Perhaps no one could possibly estimate or approximate in figures the enormous loss to the people of the United States through the lack of organization and co-operation.

"The problem of economic living in cities is irrevocably tied up with better farming, better rural conditions generally and proper and efficient systems of transportation and distribution."

SPALDING CLERK HAS NEW POSITION

Charles W. Stuart, clerk at the Spalding hotel, will leave next week to assume the assistant managership of the new hotel at Excelsior Springs, Mo.

Mr. Stuart has been in Duluth for the past year, during which he has made many friends among the residents of the city and the traveling public in general. Many of his acquaintances will regret his leaving the city.

Mr. Stuart came here shortly after the Excelsior Springs hotel burned down a year ago last January. He worked there as one of the clerks. During the past year a new $150,000 hotel has been built and it will be opened for the first time on May 1. Mr. Stuart received word the past week that he has been made assistant manager of the new hostelry and he immediately wired his acceptance.

Mr. Stuart has been working in hotels throughout the country for the past eight years and is very well known among the hotel fraternity. Before working at Excelsior Springs he was at Kansas City and Baltimore.

MINSTREL SHOW.

Boys' Department Members to Repeat Entertainment Given in March.

The minstrel show that was given by the Y. M. C. A. boys' department with signal success on March 6 and 7, last, will be repeated tomorrow evening. It will take place in the auditorium of the boys' building, Sixth avenue east and Third street, and will open at 8 p. m.

The entertainment is being repeated for two reasons. In the first place, the proceeds of the two performances in March were not sufficient to pay for the moving picture machine. The other reason is that many people who missed the show last month are anxious to get a chance to attend it.

The program opens with a college play in one act, "An Easy Mark." The cast of characters is as follows: Richard Chalmers, George Martin; Jack Knowlton, Irving Moore; Henry Rennsalaer, Harold Smithies; Mike Doherty, Edward Scriven; Elmer De Boothe, Victor Eva; Miss Dorothy Somers, Warren Draper, and Mrs. Vera Somers, Ralph Dunning. This part of the performance is directed by Richard Cullum.

The playlet will be followed with a moving picture exhibition, after which the Y. M. C. A. orchestra will play.

Then will follow the minstrel show proper, in which forty-five will participate. Thirteen popular songs will be given by the chorus. Norman D. McLeod will be the interlocutor. The end men will be Stanley Lamb as Rastus and Laurence Inman as Sambo. Frederick Campbell will be accompanist. John R. Batchelor will be the musical director.

INGRATITUDE TO REJECT CHRIST

This Kind of Thanklessness Is Denounced By Evangelist Whiston.

"The world has known many deeds of ingratitude, but they are honorable, noble, magnanimous, compared with the deliberate rejection of Christ," said Evangelist Whiston in his sermon at the First Christian church, Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street, last evening.

"Christ can't force himself into the life that does not welcome him. If he comes in, it must be at man's invitation. God has put a latch on the door of every heart, the latch on one's own will.

"When Earl Brewer was inaugurated governor of Mississippi, a statesman standing beside the governor's mother said, 'Madam, I suppose this the proudest moment of your life, to see your son inaugurated the governor of this great state.' 'No,' said the mother, 'the proudest and happiest moment of my life was when I saw my son go forward and surrender his heart to God.' It is honorable to be a Christian."

This evening the evangelist will speak at the same church on "The Man Jesus Called Down." The last of this series of revival meetings will be held at this church on Sunday evening, April 13.

HEADSMAN'S JUBILEE.

Deibler of France Has Twenty-Five Years of Experience.

Paris, April 8.—A unique jubilee will be celebrated in Paris this year. No such jubilee has ever been celebrated before. It is that of M. Anatole Deibler, the headsman of France. How the cutting off of heads could be associated with the word jubilee or rejoicing is difficult to see. Nevertheless M. Deibler or Mgr. de Paris, as he is popularly called, and his friends will essay the task.

M. Deibler began the cruel calling by cutting off heads a quarter of a century ago, when he was a young man of 25. Thus he has had twenty-five years of active service. He is a native of the flourishing town of Rennes, the ancient capital of Brittany, where he was born fifty years ago.

It is curious that this old town of Rennes, which is not devoid of historical interest, is now the best known because the trial of Dreyfus took place there and because the man who cuts off heads with the guillotine was born there. The exact date of Mr. Deibler's birth was Nov. 29, 1863, so that the jubilee festivities in his honor will begin on that date of this year.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MOOSERS ARE NOT PLEASED

Their Voting for Republican Speaker Is Reported as Displeasing.

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bull Moose leaders of North Dakota are disappointed that the three congressmen from this state remained with the Republican organization instead of lining up with the Progressives in congress. Just why they felt there would be different action is not quite clear. All three were elected as Republicans and the members of that organization expected them to stay in line, but during the campaign last fall none of them were favorable to Taft and supposedly voted for Roosevelt. This, no doubt, gave the Bull Moose leaders the impression that a switch might occur.

The three members all supported the state Republican ticket and made speeches at Republican meetings.

The Bull Moose leaders were more confident that Congressman Helgesen would join the Progressives than either Young or Norton as Helgesen is said to have been bitter in his private statements regarding Taft during the campaign last fall.

COPPER COUNTRY GOES REPUBLICAN

Calumet, Former Progressive Stronghold, Strong for G. O. P.

Calumet, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—With seven precincts to hear from, Houghton county's vote yesterday constitutes a sweeping Republican victory. All the counties in the Copper country defeated the woman suffrage constitutional amendment with the possible exception of Keweenaw, where it was very close. No figures are available on Keweenaw. Calumet, the Progressive stronghold in the Northern peninsula last November, went almost solidly Republican; in fact, every town and county went Republican on the state ticket. With forty-five of fifty-two precincts reported in Houghton county, including Hancock, the vote on the state ticket was: Progressive, 1,890; Republican, 4,276; Democratic, 1,402; on woman suffrage: Yes, 3,348; no, 4,530. The new united party swept Hancock city, electing Abram Ojala, a Finn, mayor.

"Taking Your Character Apart"

If the time should come when you will require the confidence or the backing of a business man or banker, your character will be "taken apart," scrutinized, analyzed.

In determining your worthiness one of the important queries will be, "Does he know how to handle money?" Another, "Has he made a success in handling his own financial resources?" Aside from the question of personal integrity, these will be the most important considerations.

When your character is thus "taken apart" and examined, there will be found the financial instincts you are now weaving into it. Does not that suggest the importance of a well-managed savings account at the First National Bank?

ONE MAN KILLED IN MILWAUKEE WRECK.

Elbow Lake, Minn., April 8.—George Rebensdorf of Lincoln, Neb., was instantly killed and H. F. Kuhlen of Fort Dodge, Iowa, was burned to death when a livestock train on the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railway was wrecked near Nashua, a small station west of here, Monday. Twelve others were injured, but none seriously.

WINONA IS DEMOCRATIC.

E. S. Muir Chosen Mayor and Democrats Control Council.

Winona, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The campaign of Winona women for representation on the school board just failed of success in yesterday's election when Mrs. Lorena Abbett, Second ward candidate came within thirteen votes of being elected. As was predicted, E. S. Muir, Democrat, was chosen mayor, with other offices divided between Democrats and Republicans, the former predominating. Democrats control the city council.

NORTH DAKOTAN IS KILLED IN MONTANA.

Towner, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Fendroy, formerly of this city, was killed yesterday at Conrad, Mont., when he was struck by a crowbar, which had been entangled with the fly wheel of a tractor engine.

A helper was using the bar when he dropped it into the fly wheel. It was hurled through the air, striking Fendroy on the head.

BIG MANDAN STATION.

Government to Have Large Experimental Farm in North Dakota.

Mandan, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. Peterson of the Northern Great Plains Field station located here has just returned from Washington, where he conferred with Director E. C. Chilcott and other officials of the department of agriculture. The station here was established for the purpose of finding hardy fruits, grains and grasses for the semi-arid sections of the country. The local station will be second in size of its kind in the United States. The one located at Arlington, Va., will occupy more ground, but it will cover a far less territory. Supt. Peterson announces that Director Chilcott will visit here next month to inspect the progress of the work. Fifteen men are to be started on experimentation work at once and a large crew will be engaged in the construction of the buildings.

HYDRAULIC MINING.

Pittsburg Steel Company Using Sandsucker on Cuyuna Range.

Brainerd, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Pittsburg Steel Ore company has commenced hydraulic mining of its large ore deposits near Little Rabbit lake, nine miles northeast of Brainerd. Some hydraulic work was done in the fall. During the winter P. H. Nelson of Duluth, manager of the company, visited Florida and observed the work of the huge sandsuckers in the swampy country. The company this season is equipped with two 2,000-gallon pumps and a 3,000-gallon sandsucker. The water is hurled with terrific force against the bank and the overburden caves in and the sandsucker does the rest. The surface soil of sand and rock measures forty feet above the ore bed and when it has been stripped by the simple process of hydraulicking, the tracks will be run in and the steam shovels will commence loading the ore. This is the first proposition of the kind ever attempted on any mining range in Minnesota. The Cuyuna Range Power company furnishes the electric power to run the pumps and sandsucker.

BRIDGE UNDER WATER.

Northern Pacific Has Tough Time With Flood at Bismarck.

Bismarck, N. D., April 8.—Railroad traffic is tied up by floods. The west approach to the Northern Pacific bridge across the Missouri river here is under water for a mile and a half and all westbound trains over that line are stopped at this point. No trains have been run to Mandan across the river from Bismarck since Sunday and none are expected before Wednesday. The railway company has brought 800 laborers and several locomotives here ready to begin repairing the tracks as soon as the water has subsided.

Brainerd is now one of the last four teams in the race and will be in the finals if victorious over Rush City.

MAY HEAD TRUST CO.

Former U. S. Treasurer May Be President of St. Paul Concern.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—Carmi Thompson, former treasurer of the United States, who, it is said, will come to St. Paul to enter the service of the Hill interests, may be made president of the Northwestern Trust company, which is to be a part of the general financial house of James J. Hill.

Haydn S. Cole, president of the trust company, left for Europe ten days ago and will be gone until summer. Bankers believe Mr. Thompson is to succeed Mr. Cole. In view of the unsettled condition of the Hill institutions, due to their recent purchase, Mr. Cole would hardly have left at this time if he intended to remain at the head of the trust company, it is pointed out.

Rent Consolidated School Iden.

Balfour, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Almost the first defeat of consolidated schools in the state this year occurred here, largely because the farmers conceived the idea the people of Balfour were attempting to force the plan. ROWING

The Herald Sporting Gossip Is Reliable

THIS is the week in which the battle in both of the big leagues starts. On Wednesday there will be the opening game in the National, Philadelphia at Brooklyn, and one contest only. On Thursday all of the teams of the older organization will don the spangles and hop to the call of arms, while the official ushering in of the season of the American league will be solemnized with those inspiring incidents dear to the hearts of the fans.

Starting back of the fence and taking the thing on the run, it does look as if the Giants have an excellent chance of repeating in the fogey league. While it is true, Gus, that the Pirates loom strong, it is also true that there are some members of this startling aggregation that are not as young as they used to be. Hans Wagner can't emulate the little brook, while Bryne is no youngster and Gibson is not today one of the greatest catchers in captivity.

McGraw's team should be stronger than it was last year. Tesreau should be better, while young Demaree is pegged as one of the coming stars of the game. Marquard may be a star and he may fade to the dreaded drab of the boob class; this chap is of the temperamental structure and you can never tell of one gifted with so much artistic stuff.

However, be all this as it may, the fact keeps butting in, namely that McGraw's team looks very strong in almost every department. If the Cubs had any kind of a pitching staff they would be considered in the deep and glaring pink glow of dangerous rivals to the Giants and Buccaneers. But unless the present staff shows more than it did last season, it looks like third or lower for the earstwhile demons of the National league.

A pennant winning team must always be treated with the utmost respect, and this is especially true before the opening of the season. But there is doubt and plenty of it regarding the ability of the Red Sox to repeat the coup of last year.

It isn't Washington that is figuring in the calculations of the dopesters so much: Connie Mack and the White Elephants are the dark nags, and sages, critics, philosophers and students of the game of baseball are giving this aggregation one of the greatest chances in the world to come back and repeat the stunt that Mack copyrighted for two successive years.

With by far the greatest infield in baseball—McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker, and with an outfield that is supposed to start the season in much better shape than the garden collection finished the race last year, there is cause to believe that the Athletics will jump out and make a race from the start.

Naturally Boston will be played as the favorite by a great following of fans. And this is natural and playing form to roll over and go through all of its little tricks. Stahl has a great team; the only question is, whether the Red Sox at their very best were ever as good as the Athletics when they were going at their best.

Washington should be in the pursuit, close up and barking with the leaders at every jump. Comiskey's White Sox may prove one of the dark horses of the race, and Detroit might recover sufficient equilibrium to shag close to the pacemakers.

Yes, the race in the younger major looks like a lulu. One of the fortunate occurrences of the American league, is that the races there have generally been so close that hearts of the most fanatical of the fans have had afflictions of various sorts near the close of the season.

With the sunrise gun fired in the big leagues its booming reverberations are due to awaken the slumberers on the baseball mount and result in a strident call to arms. We welcome the little robin, Bill, as does the sly house cat, but of all the auguries of true and tender spring, give us, oh give us the dear old game of baseball, and she is almost here.

THURSDAY afternoon also is the occasion of the start of the festivities in the American association. One of the most interesting questions will be whether Minneapolis can repeat. Osler declared that man was fit to die at the age of forty years. If Ossie was correct in his theory, then Cantillon wouldn't have any team at all. Whether the old men on the Mill City nine can keep the creaking joints going this season, shall be one of the grave and extremely pertinent questions, to be sure, and it will prove of interest to both the baseball and medical fraternity.

LET'S make this a field day and talk exclusively of baseball. As friend Darwin descended to the grave inspection of the apes, let us creep down the baseball ladder and give ourselves to earnest contemplation of the activities in the Northern league.

With three leagues off at the barrier during this little weekly round of gayeties, our spring opening has been set for the 23rd of this gladsome month. With the trail blazed, so to speak, and the atmosphere charged with the electricity of baseball, the stage should be properly set for the ushering into being of the new league that is the product of extreme patience and the toil of arduous labor.

A city without baseball is a more pathetic institution than a ship without rudder. The shirt without a tail is a simile left far in the ruck. Good baseball is good for the morals, as well as the lungs and digestion.

It is a risky proposition, even attempting to lamp the order of the finish of the teams in the Northern league. But we are growing impatient, humbly waiting for some of the scribes to claim a pennant at this early date, and herewith leap gayly into the ring bearing the prediction that Duluth is going to come very near to the winning of the first pennant in the Northern league.

Cooning gonfalons in new leagues is something that O'Brien has copyrighted. He grabbed off the first flag in the Minny, and then he came back last year and copped the rag in the See-Eye. With a new trail to blaze in the Northern league, it will be falling gently in the lap of precedent for the Irish Orator to sneak through and grab the calico.

It is difficult, aye, an almost hopeless task to size up the teams as they stand at the present time, but from what can be learned of the players under contract, it looks as if the Dooks and the Maroons are the best at the present writing. But George Bernard Shaw and others have doped the whole general situation, regarding baseball and other things, correctly in saying that it is sometimes extremely difficult to tell.

BATTLING NELSON.

Billy Nolan has declared that Battling Nelson will die in the ring. Maybe Mrs. Fay King Oscar Battling Mathew Nelson has other plans. Maybe she loves her hubby—who knows? Anyway the report comes sneaking out of Chicago that the once Durable Dane is to forsake the ring and lead the quiet life. Imagine Theodore Roosevelt crocheting lace quilts and you have the proper setting for imagining Battling Nelson leading the quiet life, about which Charles Wagner wrote so pleadingly. But, at that, the Battler must retire from the ring some day, and it might as well be now.

YOUNG MAHONEY EARNS A SHADE OVER THOMPSON

Cyclone Johnny Thompson was slightly shaded by Young Mahoney last evening at the Grand Opera house in Superior. The cyclonic one, short and stubby, looked out of condition, and this fact made have militated somewhat against his chances to make a good showing. Occasionally Johnny would give hashes of the form he has showed in his long and honorable ring record, and then again he would sink comfortably back to an easy, go-as-you-please style, content to let Mahoney futilely attempt to hurt him.

In his prime, and perhaps now, Johnny Thompson could lick a whole roomful of Young Mahoneys. Last evening, however, he didn't do it, though, as was stated, he now and then hinted at what he had behind the pugilistic counter, and what he had might have been plenty good enough for this Mahoney chap.

With a countenance that would make loungers in the unhappy regions below stop and contemplate in a new interest that tossed misery aside for the time being, a thick and short neck, cauliflower ears and a boneless nose and other marks of his craft, this Sycamore youth, or man rather, looks the part of the fighter. It isn't in the least difficult to imagine him taking part in some 289 ring battles.

But time passes and exacts with heavy hand. It was only some two or three years ago that this strange little man went to Australia as a lightweight. He literally grew up with the country. For he fought and beat Billy Papke and was battling with heavyweights before he took the steamer for dear old home.

And yet age tells, and it seems doubtful that the Johnny Thompson of last evening could beat Papke or Jack Lester, or the others, unless he has something he failed to show.

Best Bout of Evening.

The best bout of the evening was that between Thor Thompson of St. Paul and Charles Juhre, the latter being the sparring partner of Young Mahoney.

Thompson was not in as good condition as his opponent, owing to the fact that he did not have the time to train, and yet he made a corking fight of it.

These boys hopped to it with enthusiasm and at times they had the ringside dwellers whooping cadenzas and the people out in front, though there weren't many of 'em, joining the joy jingle.

Juhre had a shade, simply from the fact that he was the aggressor and his condition permitted him to carry the battle to Thompson throughout the rounds. It was a real and genuine go, with one knockdown, with several staggers stirred well with the mixture, and all of the frills and little thrills that go to raise the enthusiasm of the ring habitue.

And now we come to Kid Paul. Attired in green tights and a roguish smile, the kid put it firmly and thoroughly over his kinky-haired opponent, Young Growler. The Kid worked a left jab and a right swing successfully and successively. Somewhere along in the fourth or fifth round, so relentless was the attack of the kid, that Young Growler was led toward the dressing room, and victory, sweet and smiling, touched Kid Paul on the forehead. At last the long desired has come to pass, or to Paul.

Martin Buggi of our city and Young Oliver of Superior went another nice bout and the boys fought hard. There was little to choose between the lads, and if a decision were to be given a draw would have been not only courteous, but likewise trimmed properly in the colors of fairness.

Dr. Ned McNulty refereed the main bout and gave, as per usual, eminent satisfaction.

Virginia, Minn., April 8.—The following players have been signed for the local Northern league club:

Catchers—David J. Roberts and J. Bowers.

Pitchers—J. E. Reed, J. L. Meehan, Edward Foster, Frank Needham, Tony Faeth, Steve Bloom, W. Elmer and J. Watkins.

Infielders — Arthur Couture, H. H. Tufford, Archie Abrams, Ray Hughes, Jack Weckler, Virgil Larson and J. Sharkey.

Outfielders—Si Bennett, P. Roberts and Spike Shannon.

In addition to the above catchers, Murphy, a promising youngster with the Kansas City American association team, will likely be seen in a local uniform. Kansas City has five catchers and is expected to "farm" Murphy to Virginia.

J. Watkins, who is a southpaw, was recently released by the Kansas City aggregation. He has a world of speed, a fine assortment of curves and is a heady twirler. "Boots" Elmer, who comes to Virginia, won 17 out of 19 games with a Mill City team last season.

J. Sharkey is an infielder highly recommended by Umpire Carney of the Northern league. He is expected to make a strong showing in the new circuit.

Oliver Hole, a farmer Mohami star, now at Aurora, is expected to sign a contract this week. He has not been very anxious to play professional ball, but Manager Spike Shannon expects to have him in the fold this month.

A. Shroeder and Bob Benson, members of Biwabik's 1912 battery, are also expected to sign this week.

"We will train at Rochester, starting next Monday," said Magnate Ted Finch. "The Twin City players will make the trip to the Minnesota town from their home, accompanying Manager Shannon.

"Manager Shannon is well pleased with the list of players signed, and expects to develop many of the youngsters into stars of the first rank. Rochester has a fine ball park and affords the players every convenience."

JACK BRITTON AFTER RITCHIE

To the sporting editor of The Herald:

"Jack Britton the most scientific boxer of the day is anxious to meet Willie Ritchie for the lightweight championship of the world at 133 pounds ringside. Britton is backed by the true lover of fair sport in his demand for a match with Ritchie for the public like a fighter as Jack Britton really is along with his wonderful boxing.

"By many people Ritchie is called a fluke champion, and the only way to prove that he is not one, is for him to sign up with Jack Britton and he will be put to a real test as the fight fans firmly believe. Britton has been meeting both light and welterweights, although he only weighs 133 pounds ringside when in real condition.

"There is a great difference between Willie Ritchie, the lightweight champion, who doesn't consider the public in any way by signing up for theatrical engagements and refusing to defend his title, and making the boxing game a joke by putting himself on a pedestal to be admired instead of getting right down to business and meeting some of the lightweights who really have the interest of the fight fans at heart.

"The difference between Ritchie and Jack Britton is that Britton showed by boxing twenty-seven bouts in six months taking on both light and welterweights that he is a real fighter, and not the show window kind that Willie Ritchie has proven himself to be in the past.

"There is no excuse for Ritchie not meeting Britton for as a real lightweight Britton has proven himself to be worthy of a match with the champion. Britton will box him winner take all and a $10,000 side bet real money.

"Sincerely,

"SAM MORGAN."

ASKS FOR PERMANENT EXPULSION OF FIGHTER.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 8.—Eddie Keevin, manager of Jimmy Walsh, the Boston bantamweight, has filed charges with the New York boxing commission against Abe Attell for the latter's alleged "eye-pecking" tactics when Walsh and Attell met in the ring last Thursday night. Keevin asks the commission to suspend Attell for all time. Attell used his thumb in an attempt to blind Walsh, according to Keevin.

Attell was suspended two years ago for faking and under the Frawley law he can be suspended from boxing for all time if the commission finds him guilty of the charges.

OPENING OF BIG LEAGUES

New York, April 8.—Major league baseball, scheduled to continue for 180 consecutive days before decks are clear for the world championship battle of 1913, is due to begin tomorrow. The start, however, will be confined to a single game—in Brooklyn's new baseball park—with the other major league cities held in leash until Thursday for the general opening in both leagues.

It was by special dispensation of the National league that the opening in Brooklyn was advanced a day this year in deference to the fact that a magnificent new stadium has been erected there. The game tomorrow will be with the Philadelphia club and indications are that a record crowd will be seen at the opening ceremonies if rain, which has been forecasted, does not interfere.

On Thursday, on the National league circuit, there will be openings with Boston at New York; at Cincinnati with Pittsburg; at Chicago with St. Louis and a second game of the Philadelphia-Brooklyn series in Philadelphia.

In the American league cities Thursday's game will be New York at Washington; Philadelphia at Boston; Chicago at Cleveland, and Detroit at St. Louis.

The league champions of last year, the New York Nationals and the Boston Americans, open the season under the same leadership and with forces practically intact.

DUNDEE IN FORM.

New York Featherweight Shows Speed in Training Bouts on Coast.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 8.—"My ambition is to bring the featherweight championship back to New York. Why, do you know, a native New Yorker hasn't held a fighting championship since the days of Terry McGovern?" The foregoing remarks were made by Johnny Dundee, the tough little Italian featherweight, who is conditioning himself for his fight with Champion Johnny Kilbane.

The New York boy is showing lots of speed and skill in his training bouts. He is confident he can take the title away from his Cleveland rival and is not taking any chances of slipping up in any way. Dundee is following out a very carefully laid out plan of training and declares he will be in better shape than he was ever in his life when he steps into the ring with his rival on April 15.

Kilbane is working out with his manager, Jimmy Dunn, and his sparring partner, Cal Delaney. Johnny devotes a great deal of time to work with a new style punching bag, a long, narrow leather tube, which, he declares, improves his fighting considerably. The champion never loses that tantalizing, self-confident smile in his bouts with his sparring partners and has little doubt as to the outcome of the fight with Dundee.

FRANK CHANCE HURT.

Yankees Victorious Over Brooklyn But at Heavy Cost.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 8.—The New York Americans, by a score of 8 to 4 turned the tables on the Brooklyn Nationals here, in the second of the two exhibition games arranged by the two teams. It was a costly victory, however, as Chance and Derrick were hurt. Chance twisted his ankle while turning first base in the second inning, and was forced to retire. Derrick was spiked on the hand by Wheat when the latter slid into second in the fifth and was badly cut. Neither man may be able to start the championship season Thursday. Sterett took Chance's place. Young, who succeeded Derrick set the crowd wild with brilliant stops and throws.

New York won by bunching hits off Ragon and timely drives after Wagner had sent men to first on balls. Warhop started the pitching for the Yankees, but after getting Stengel for three balls and two strikes, retired because of a sore arm. Fisher pitched a fine game considerig the cold weather.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	4	9	3

DULUTH ARRANGES RACE WITH DELAFIELD CREW

Wisconsin Military School Will Come Here for Regatta During Latter Part of June---Badger School Has Good Record.

(BY BRUCE.)

Negotiations have been practically closed for an eight and four oared race with the Delafield, Wis., school crews, the regatta to be held at Duluth on June 21.

While the rowing officials of the Wisconsin school want the eight-oared race to be with the junior eight of the local club, Coach Ten Eyck believes that permission will be secured to permit the senior eight to also enter the contest.

Delafield last season defeated the Lincoln Park Rowing clubs of Chicago, so it can be seen that there is some class to the crews of the Badger school.

The contest with Delafield will be the first test of the season for the crews of the Duluth Boat club. While the senior and junior crews will have ample opportunity to try themselves out in practice spins, it is a pertinent fact that a coach or the members of a crew are never morally certain of their class or speed until they have been given a conclusive trial against some outsider. Hence the importance of the meeting with the crews of the military school from the neighboring state.

As the regatta is planned at the present time there will be a contest between the eights of the local club and the crack eight of the visitors. Then a four-oared race is planned. As there are some forty-eight candidates out for the various crews of Delafield this spring, it can be gleaned at a glance that the Wisconsinites should be able to send some able representatives here.

Anent the rowing game, it might be stated that some of the young men of Duluth, hesitating on the precipitous brink of becoming candidates for the crew, have somehow been imbued with the belief that this rowing stuff is all drudgery. Far be it from such.

And, again, the idea has gone out and become thoroughly disseminated that all of the glory of the crew goes to the stroke and bow man and that the others are sort of fillers, so to speak. Again let it be repeated, far be it from such.

There is ample pleasure connected with this rowing game. It is almost as pleasant as paddling a handsome young lady with dark brown hair up and down the bay. There is the intense rivalry between the different crews, the gorgeous appetite that rears its hungry head and cries loudly for food—something that even John Rockefeller can't buy, and many other compensations for the young men who go out and try for the crew.

But coming down three flights to the cellar of seriousness, it might be stated that rowing is not only one of the greatest sports in the world, but also that it is also one of the most beneficial. It invigorates the body and stimulates the enthusiasm. It disciplines the mind and body. It puts a man in grand condition for his work. It is not drudgery, as the body becomes so finely tuned to the work that the exercise becomes a pleasure, for there is nothing more stimulating than the working of muscles properly trained for labor.

Those young men hanging back because they imagine that rowing is simply drudgery, should speedily think better of it and come out and give the game a trial. Don't take the word of the other fellow for it, as the chances are that he has never sat in a shell in his whole life.

LOCAL SPORT NOTES

There will be a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening of those interested in the organization of the Duluth Baseball league. This, according to the announcement of the plans, is to supplement the Duluth and Superior teams in the league during the present season, according to the outline of the plans already formed. It is said that eight teams are ready to come into the new organization, and that any team can come into the fold, the amateur status not being one of the question of eligibility. It is expected that the prospective league will have a very successful year.

Last evening the largest turnout in the history of the rowing of the present season responded to the call to arms, or blades, rather. There were over fifty candidates working in the exercise room at the Y. M. C. A. and on the road. This is about the largest squad that has ever been out for the crew, and if the quantity is indicative of what quality may be obtained, then Duluth is practically assured of some very good crews during the coming season.

John Salvator, a merry-faced German youth who has aspirations among the 135-pound fighting boys, was in the city yesterday. Johnny has been working out with Mike and Tommy Gibbons at St. Paul, and he is ready to try his hand with the best in the game. Mike McNulty, pilot of the aspiring Johnny, with clothes that speak several languages very fluently and also a flow of language entirely detached from his wearing apparel, vouches for the ability of his charge. Michael does solemnly swear and attest that this Salvator youth can beat any of the boys of this weight in this part of the country. To discover the truth of managers is what fighting clubs are primarily for.

Representatives of clubs in the Commercial league are scheduled to meet tomorrow evening at the Northern Hardware company's store. The business of the coming year will be taken up and work on the schedule started.

VIRGINIANS TO MAKE PROTEST

Object to Great Northern Discontinuing "Merry Widow" Train.

Virginia, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern railroad will discontinue the "Merry Widow" train between Hibbing and Virginia Sunday. It is said that the new interurban electric line has taken away their passenger business to such an extent that the train has become a loss.

The Commercial club will take the matter up with the Great Northern railroad and may even take the matter as far as the railroad and warehouse commission as this train is the only passenger train entering this city on the Virginia-Grand Rapids run. It is claimed that the pressure of the ore business has more to do with the discontinuing of the train than the lack of business, but the company has not given any confirmation of this report.

HITS SATURDAY DANCES.

Father Hogan of Hibbing Severely Criticizes the Practice.

Hibbing, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saturday night dances were the subject of severe criticism in a sermon at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament by the pastor, Rev. Father James Hogan, Sunday morning.

Rev. Father Hogan stipulated that his criticism was directed to Catholic and not to non-Catholic people. He condemned Saturday night dances as an agency for immorality and diversion from the Christian duty of Catholic people. The Sunday morning sermon followed one preached by Rev. Father Culligan of Eveleth at a special service at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament Friday night on the same subject.

HOLD WIFE DESERTER.

Hibbing Man Bound Over for Not Supporting Family.

Hibbing, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Penitence and promise to brace up, eschew the drinking of liquor and to work diligently for the support of his family availed Joe Taylor of Brooklyn nothing, when he was arraigned in municipal court yesterday afternoon before Judge Thomas F. Brady on a charge of wife desertion. He was bound over to await the action of the next grand jury and his bail was fixed at $1,000. He was taken to Virginia last night by Deputy Sheriff Harry Little and today he will go to the county jail to remain until the next grand jury convenes in Hibbing.

Taylor was arrested yesterday morning just as he was returning to his wife and family of five children after an absence of eight months with a well-developed jag and a half dollar in his pocket. A warrant for his arrest on a charge of desertion and nonsupport was sworn out by his wife last October, and descriptions of him have been sent to the police of Duluth and every town on the iron range.

The police allege that Taylor is afflicted with the hookworm. During the seven years they have known him they have noticed that he doesn't like to work.

Mother's Friend in Every Home

The old saying—what is home without a mother—should add "Mother's Friend."

In thousands of American homes there is a bottle of this splendid and famous remedy that has aided many a woman through the trying ordeal, saved her from suffering and pain, kept her in health of mind and body in advance of baby's coming and had a most wonderful influence in developing a healthy, lovely disposition in the child.

There is no other remedy so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding and soothes the inflammation of breast glands.

Mother's Friend is an external remedy, acts quickly and not only banishes all distress in advance, but assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother. Thus she becomes a healthy woman with all her strength preserved to thoroughly enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend can be had at any drug store at $1.00 a bottle, and is really one of the greatest blessings ever discovered for expectant mothers. EVELETH TO SHIP ABOUT APRIL 15

First Ore of Season Was Loaded in District on Monday.

Eveleth, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first ore to be loaded this year in the Eveleth district was at the Virginia mine Monday. It will not be shipped, however, until the freezing nights are over. It was ore taken out of a cut being made for the purpose of laying a track.

Weather permitting, however, shipping will be general by the 15th, and the indications are that mining will be carried on to the full extent of available help. Seven steam shovels, it is reported, will be started in the Adams pit. The open pit portion of the Leonidas mine will be a large shipper this year.

Butler Bros. are getting in their equipment as fast as possible for stripping the Pearson property lying between the Fayal mine and Ely lake.

The board of supervisors, which is composed of William Haenke, E. J. Kane and W. Holder, recently made a trip to St. Paul to purchase the outfit and it is expected within a few days.

A large amount of road work will be done by this township the coming season. The road to Iron Junction will be graded, widened and surfaced and the Virginia road will receive attention first after which a number of branch roads will be improved. The work will be carried out under the supervision of Joe LaFontaine, township road overseer. The township at the spring election voted also to purchase a rock crusher.

She was playing in the street in front of her home when a strange dog came down the street and attacked her, biting her quite severely.

Today's Beauty Recipes

By Mme. D'Mille.

"Now comes spring when sheer waists are worn and flat-busted women will deprecate their lack of shapeliness more than ever. The best Vaucaire home treatment for the correction of scrawniness is made by stirring an ounce of gallol into a syrup made by dissolving 1½ cupfuls of sugar in a pint of water. Dose is two teaspoonfuls before meals.

"To correct faulty complexion, sallowness, pimples or blotches, dissolve an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel, and cover the face, neck and arms with this solution every morning. It takes the place of powder and makes the skin soft, lovely, smooth and satiny.

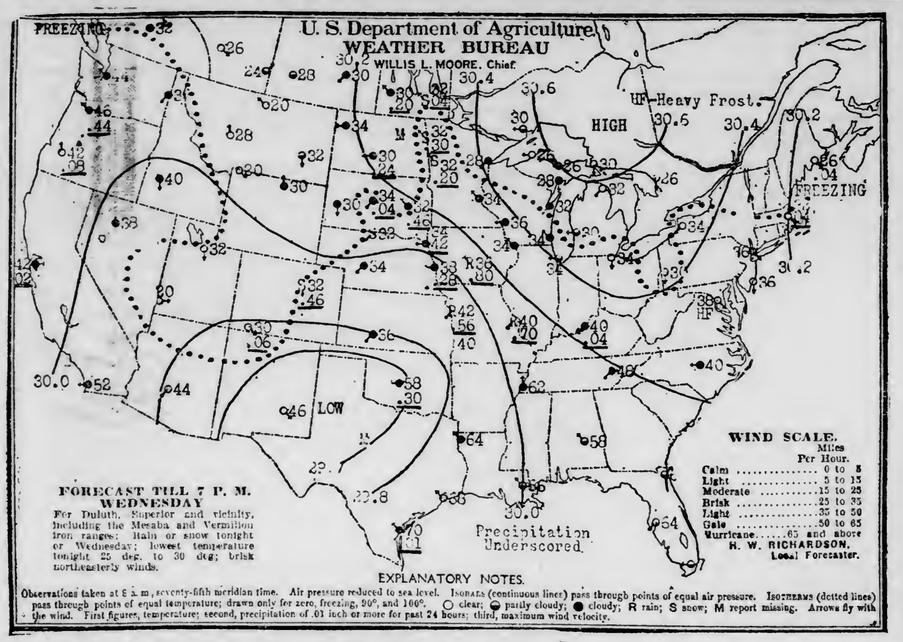

"Dull, dead and falling hair—the forerunners of baldness—are caused by a parasite. To keep the hair healthy and beautiful you must kill the parasite that destroys the hair. Mother's Shampoo does this. It leaves the scalp fresh, clean and wholesome and makes the hair fluffy and fine. A supply for many months costs only 25 cents at your druggist's.

"A beautiful eye deserves a beautiful setting, just as a good picture requires a good frame. Thin, colorless and straggly eyebrows and lashes will grow in long, even and darker in color if eyroxin is applied into the roots daily.

"Persons troubled with superfluous hair on face or forearms can quickly and safely remove the humiliating growth with delatone. Make a paste by mixing powdered delatone with water; cover the hairs for two or three minutes; then remove, wash the skin and the hairs will be gone.

"Spring colds are prevalent. The world never saw the equal of Mother's Salve as a remedy for coughs, colds in the head or chest, catarrh and sore throat. It is easy to use and quick to act. Mother's Salve is sold in prepared form in every neighborhood."

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

The predicted rain or snow did not come last night or this morning, but the weather man stands by his guns and repeats the prediction for tonight or tomorrow. Rain or snow wasn't needed to make the weather uncomfortable last night. Low temperatures and a high wind furnished all the discomforts pedestrians could bear with equanimity. Today is gray, cold and fall-like.

Fair, cold weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 5:33 and it will set at 6:46 this evening, giving thirteen hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

Jury Reports Verdict in Deer River Liquor Law Violation Case.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The district court jury this morning returned a verdict of guilty in the case of the State vs. Anna Jones of Deer River, accused of selling liquor to an intoxicated person. The jury finds that Chris Sorenson, bartender at the Jones saloon was guilty of selling liquor to intoxicated persons. It is probable that sentence will be imposed this afternoon by the court. The jury was then selected for the trial of the third of the liquor cases, that of the State vs. Fattelle & Cloutier of Grand Rapids, charged with selling liquor to minors. It is expected that the first witness will be called immediately after the opening of court this afternoon.

CHINAMAN TOO WISE.

Hibbing Celestial Refuses to "Fall" for Old Spanish Swindle.

Hibbing, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The old Spanish swindle failed to catch John Lee, a Chinaman, employed in a local cafe despite its alluring offer of a fortune for a mere $200 to get the traditional wealthy prisoner out of a Spanish dungeon. Le had a friend translate the letter then he laughed, chortled "No Likee" and returned to his work adding that he would turn the letter over to "Uncle Slam."

CUSTODY OF CHILD DEVELOPS ISSUE.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A controversy has arisen over the disposition of Raymond Heideman, 10 years old, child of Reinhold Heideman who shot and killed his wife, Marie S. Heideman, and then killed himself.

It had been announced that the boy would return home with his uncle, D. H. Steinbach, a contractor, of Detroit, Mich. Mrs. Steinbach is a sister of Heideman. The relatives of both Mr. and Mrs. Heideman were notified immediately after the shooting, and Mr. Heideman's people arrived here Friday.

Application was made to Judge of Probate Clarence Webster, for the custody of the boy, by Mr. Steinbach, who states that he has letters written by Mrs. Heideman to the effect that she wishes him to have the boy. The affair is of such general interest that practically the whole town has equally divided in the matter.

The whole matter rests with the probate court jurge.

TRAIN IS WRECKED AT GRAND RAPIDS

Fine Horse Consigned to Floodwood Man Killed in Mixup.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The inbound Great Northern freight train due at 2:15 a. m. was wrecked in the local yards shortly after that hour this morning and a fine horse consigned to W. A. Baune of Floodwood was killed. A box car of horses was coupled in front of a flat car which demolished the former when the box car jumped the track.

The horse was the finest of the consignment and was the only one hurt. It is supposed that when the brakes were set those on the first car worked before the remainder of the train, derailing the first car and bunting the train into the wreck. The main line was still blocked at noon with the wrecker at work.

NOT SALTS AND PILLS, "CASCARETS"

If Constipated, Bilious, Headachy, Stomach Sour, Take a Cascaret.

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have back-ache and feel worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—do good—never gripe or sicken.

OPPOSED TO WALLACE BILL

Public Utilities Should Be Left to Cities to Regulate.

Commercial Club Committee Reports Against Pending Legislation.

The legislative committee of the Commercial club, consisting of Henry Nolte, W. E. Richardson and C. E. Adams, has made a report to the public affairs committee for action at their next meeting, expressing the opinion that the Wallace public utilities bill now before the legislature is unnecessary legislation and against the best interests of home rule cities like Duluth. The committee recommends that the public affairs committee declares against the bill.

The report says:

"After a most careful consideration of the bill, this committee is of the opinion that it is unnecessary legislation for the best interests of Duluth as a home rule charter city, and we unanimously recommend that it be disapproved by your committee.

"The bill proposes to deprive all municipalities, including those having home rule charters, of all power of regulation and control over their public utilities. Your committee is of the opinion that the regulation of the rates to be charged for gas, electricity, water and heat and local telephone and street railway tariffs are purely local matters, and can best be regulated by local councils, especially where a commission form of government is in operation. The granting of an indeterminate permit or franchise by the proposed commission would deprive the local community of all power of imposing conditions and restrictions upon a utility seeking a franchise, which principle we disapprove.

"It does not appear from the investigation we have made that such a system of regulation and control would result in any lower rates for service, nor in any economy to the municipality in case of a contest with a utility company. On this point the finding of the municipal legislation committee of St. Paul, in reporting its views on this bill, are worthy of note. The committee said:

"'In a contest between a municipality and a public utility on rates or any other question, there is no saving of expense to the municipality, and there is a great loss of time in getting results. In order that a municipality may be prepared to back up a complaint which it files against a public utility, it must first have the necessary experts and have them collect evidence to be presented to the commission. In the reports of cases before the Wisconsin commission, it appears that in every instance the cities felt it necessary to fortify themselves in this manner, as they could not rely upon the engineers and experts employed by the commission to fight the battles of the municipalities.'

"The report of the municipal legislation committee of St. Paul also states that every one of the half dozen cities in Wisconsin from which that committee heard is of the opinion that local regulation under home rule charter provisions will obtain far better results from the city's point of view, than any state commission can accomplish.

"We strongly recommend that the Commercial club favor the principle of local regulation and control as most likely to accomplish the best results for our city."

SAVES $12 A DAY.

John D. Rockefeller Protects Himself Against Ice Famine.

Tarrytown, N. Y., April 8.—The prospective ice famine will not affect John D. Rockefeller this summer. With the price nearly doubled he has installed his own plant which will make about a ton a day, enough to supply all his wants.

Mr. Rockefeller has lived at Pocantico Hills for fifteen years but he has always bought his ice.

"Don't it beat all," said a neighbor up at the hill, "how Mr. Rockefeller just naturally hits it right every time whether it is the stock or ice market? How do you suppose he ever knew we were to have a mild winter?"

The price of ice was formerly 40 cents a hundred. This year it has been jumped to 70 cents. Mr. Rockefeller can manufacture a ton at a cost of $2, netting a clear saving of $12 a day. He will make his ice from pure water, from his own springs.

His saving of $12 a day will come in handy when the Democrats come around for their income tax.

PIMPLES CAUSED DISFIGUREMENT

2640 North Hamlin Ave., Chicago, Ill.—"About one year ago my face began breaking out with sore mattery pimples. They were red and as they festered they took on a head of yellow pus. The trouble caused great disfigurement while it lasted and also caused me the loss of many nights' sleep because of the terrible irritation. At times I could not wash my face because of the soreness and when I did wash it the itching of the pimples was unbearable.

"I tried ——, —— and different cold creams but to no avail. I suffered in this way for about six months. I saw an advertisement giving reasonable testimonials and offering a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment for which I immediately sent. On receiving this sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment I carefully followed the directions with the results of getting on the path of recovery. After using two full-sized boxes of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap I was fully relieved of pimples." (Signed) Miss Marie Creighton, Oct. 4, 1912.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. A single set is often sufficient when all else fails. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

SAYS DARLING WAS UNDER THE TABLE

Prosecutor Declares Statement Made By Olson Is Not True.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—That only two people—Oscar Olson, the defendant, and his wife—knew the facts in the case, and that the jurors should not let their sympathy sway them, but should carry out the letter of the law, were statements made today by County Attorney O'Brien in summing up for the prosecution the case against Prof. Oscar Olson, former member of the faculty of the University of Minnesota Agricultural college, and accused of killing Clyde N. Darling. The case is expected to go to the jury late today.

"My one interest is to see justice done," said Mr. O'Brien.

In his argument he declared that Darling when shot carried a laundry bundle; that he lay partly under a table on his back and that Olson's illustration of the position of Darling when Olson shot was false. The defense has contended that Olson shot only after he thought Darling was going to attack him.

The prosecution today was permitted to reopen the taking of testimony for the purpose of examining John Keefe, former manager of the laundry for which Darling worked. Keefe on the stand declared that in his presence Olson called Darling to account for alleged insults to his wife.

"Olson said Darling insulted his wife—that he hugged her and tried to kiss her," said Keefe. "Olson told me that if Darling ever crossed his path again he would shoot him down like a dog and use the unwritten law."

Attorney Donnelly for the defense attempted to discredit Keefe's testimony by bringing out that the witness had been discussing the case freely in public places.

WORK FARM IS IN SIGHT

Purchase of 560 Acres of Land Authorized By Commissioners.

Preliminary steps toward the establishment of the joint county-city work and correctional farm were taken this afternoon by the county board at its regular April meeting. The bill authorizing St. Louis county and the city of Duluth to proceed in the matter became a law yesterday when it was signed by the governor.

The board passed a resolution expressing that it was the judgment of the county commissioners that it was to the best interests of the county that a work farm be established and that the location already selected by the city approximately six and one-half miles west of the courthouse on the Swan Lake road is a suitable one.

The board authorized its chairman and the county auditor to sign earnest money agreements for the purchase of approximately 560 acres of land adjoining that already purchased by the city. The land may be purchased at a price not to exceed $25 an acre, the resolution provides. As soon as this is done, Charles E. Adams, special counsel for the county, is instructed to examine the title and make out the necessary papers for the transfer of the property.

It is understood that as soon as the city passes the necessary resolution, two members to the commission of five will be appointed by the city council and three named by the chairman of the county board. The work farm commissioners, before qualifying, must be approved by the judges of the district court.

As soon as the commission is organized, a superintendent will be appointed by them. This appointment, under the law, must also be approved by the judges of the district court. The next step which will be taken will be to adopt a set of working rules, also subject to judicial approval.

Following this, it is expected that a number of prisoners will be taken from the county jail and put to work on the farm. A few temporary buildings will have to be erected there first, it is understood.

The total loss will be something more than $400,000.

Robbers Blow Safe.

DECREASE IN COPPER METAL

Producers' Report Has Bullish Effect on Red Metal Shares.

The big decrease in American copper supplies during the month of March, as shown by the Copper Producers' report, which was issued today, had a decidedly bullish effect on the copper stocks. The rise was encouraged by the strength of the general stock market of New York and by rather bullish news from the copper metal market of London, where spot and futures today closed 5s higher.

Amalgamated today closed at an advance of $2.75 to $2.50. North Butte was $1.75 to $1.50 higher. Calumet & Arizona closed $1 up. Butte & Superior also made a substantial gain.

On the Duluth curb stock market Red Warrior and Florence were again the features, trading in both being very active.

ONE ON ROCKEFELLER.

Cleveland Press: The audience which heard Rev. W. W. Bustard, John D. Rockefeller's Cleveland pastor, address the Christian Endeavor convention was amused by a story on the richest man.

"While riding in an auto with Rockefeller recently, some miles from Cleveland," said Rev. Dr. Bustard, "we were about to pass a little barefoot girl, plodding along through the dust, when Mr. Rockefeller ordered the chauffeur to halt the car. Then he invited her to step up on the running-board, and asked her where she would like to have the car stopped.

"The little girl said she wanted to get off at the second crossroads, and asked:

"'How far are you going?'

"'Oh, we're going to heaven,' Mr. Rockefeller answered.

"The little girl was surprised, as many people are when he says that. Then he asked:

"'Don't you think we'll get there?'

"'No,' said the little girl.

"'And why not?' persisted Mr. Rockefeller.

"'I don't think you've got enough gasoline,' she said.

HER BIRTHSTONE.

Judge: "Did Julius give you a stone-set ring for your birthday?"

"Yes. Isn't it a beauty? Blue white."

"But you were born in March. The diamond is the birthstone for April."

"That's right; but as long as I know Julius, my birth month is going to be April."

ROAD FUND IS BEFORE BOARD

County Commissioners Dividing Money to Be Spent This Year.

Special Appeal for Better Roads Into Virginia and Eveleth.

The annual apportionment of the St. Louis county road fund is expected to be agreed upon some time this afternoon by the county commissioners at their April meeting. The dividing of the funds among the seven commissioners' districts is a problem which is a somewhat knotty one for the board to solve every year.

Demands for new roads cropped out today at the board meeting from every corner of the county. A big grist of road petitions came in and the board room was packed with settlers in support of the requests.

L. B. Arnold, land commissioner for the Duluth & Iron Range railroad and Andrew Hawkinson, former mayor of Virginia, appealed to the county board for better roads into Virginia and Eveleth from the surrounding country.

Mr. Arnold declared that in the towns of Virginia and Eveleth and the township of Missabe Mountain, there were 60,000 consumers who wanted roads to the farming districts. Under present conditions, he claimed, the farmers can not get into the centers of population with their produce.

H. E. Mitchell, town clerk of Nichols, appeared in support of a petition for the improvement of the Voss road. A resident of Cotton asked for an extension of three miles on the upper end of the Cotton road.

Among the roads legalized were the Helm road in 51, 15 and 16 and the Kilpela road in 56, 15 and 16.

A petition came before the board today asking for the organizing of a new town to comprise all of the present town of Balkan, eight townships in the present town of Stuntz and village of Chisholm. The petitioners claimed that if the new town was organized it would insure a more equitable and efficient distribution of the money spent on roads in that territory. No action had been taken up to late this afternoon.

Miss Emma Hicks, bar librarian, asked for an increase in salary from $75 to 100 a month. The request was accompanied by the indorsement of the directors of the Bar association. It will probably be acted upon by the board this afternoon.

ICEBERGS AGAIN IN THE ATLANTIC

Adrift Near Locality Where Titanic Went Down Last Year.

New York, April 8.—Icebergs again are adrift in the Northern Atlantic near where the ill-fated Titanic went to the bottom nearly a year ago.

The steamer Kroonland, which arrived today from Antwerp reported that she had received wireless communication that the steamer Russia had sighted ice last week in latitude 42.50, longitude 49. The Titanic struck the berg on April 15 last, in latitude 41.16, longitude 50.14. The revenue cutter Seneca left New York last week to patrol the paths of the trans-atlantic travel off the Grand Banks and warn ships of this danger to navigation.

MARSHALL DECLINES.

Washington, April 8.—Vice President Marshall today declined to present to the senate a set of allegations charging a Western senator with improper conduct, and announced that he had returned the written charges to their author, Jim R. Jacobs of Oklahoma City. Similar charges were presented to the United States attorney here and he found them insufficient to present to the grand jury.

CROP REPORT BEARS WHEAT

Good Foreign Demand for Durum Sends Its Value Much Higher.

Very Little Trading in Flaxseed—Prices Change Very Little.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 8.—The remarkable spectacle of spring wheat going down and durum up was enacted on the Duluth board of trade today. Spring wheat was beared by the government report on the condition of winter wheat, yet the foreign demand for durum was so strong that durum closed 1c higher for the May option, while May spring wheat closed at a decline of ⅞c. There were lower quotations on wheat at the close also at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg. Duluth cash wheat today closed 1c to 1¼c under the May option. Oats closed ¼c off and rye and barley unchanged. Duluth May flax closed ¼c up and July unchanged.

Wheat worked considerably lower on the North American markets this morning, notwithstanding the fact that there was a good European demand and the cables from Europe were generally bullish. The government crop report showed winter wheat to be 11 points better than what it was a year ago, the present condition being 91.6. Though a bearish report was expected, the publication caused general weakness in the markets on this side of the Atlantic.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 88⅞c to 89c, opened today at 89c bid and at noon was quoted at 88¼c. There were heavy declines also at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Liverpool wheat at the close was ¼d to ⅜d higher. That market was bulled by the strength in America yesterday, the firmness at Buenos Ayres, the strong opening at Paris, the report that France was yesterday purchasing Australian cargoes and higher Australian and La Plata offers. The advance was checked by the expectation of a bearish report on winter wheat from the American government and by the increase in the European visible supply.

Flaxseed Is Dull.

The flaxseed market was very dull today. Changes amounted to little. May flax at noon was ⅛c higher and July unchanged. Winnipeg May flax at noon was ⅛c off at $1.12⅛, being 14¼c below Duluth May. Minneapolis cash flax was only ⅝c under Duluth May.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Finley Barrell & Co. sending out the following:

Completing an investigation of conditions in Kansas and Oklahoma, the crop expert of Finley, Barrell & Co. of Chicago, George Lecount, reports as follows under date of Monday, April 7: "After examination of a lot of best wheat territory in Kansas and Oklahoma, I find the best prospects I have ever seen at this time of the year. All wheat seen in Oklahoma and Central and Eastern Kansas was in perfect condition. Western Kansas was not so good, although prospects are better than usual, as there is a fair stand with surface moisture enough for ten days or more, while an inch or two below the surface the soil is wet. Traces of Hessian fly are found in Eastern and Southeastern Kansas, but not numerous enough to cause anxiety and they are present every year. Kansas faces a weather proposition. If they get good rains in reasonable time, they have prospects for a banner crop. There is less abandoned acreage to date than any year since I have been on the road.

"Oats are coming up and looking fine with acreage about same as last year. I never saw so much old corn in cribs as I saw when I passed through Iowa. Wheat is moving freely. I see teams on the road and in town every day loaded with wheat, and farmers report quite a lot of wheat still on farms in Kansas."

The Minneapolis Commercial West says: "Crushers report a quiet demand for oil. It the opinion of some of the crushers that the policy of the big oil buyers has changed somewhat in this respect; that is, it is believed that, particularly this season, there will be a steady buying without any decided tendency toward accumulating large stocks of oil or paint in any position. Yet it is probable that the paint manufacturers will make up more paint than has been the case in the last two or three years, and that stocks of paint and also of linseed oil will gradually increase in every position, because of the low price. Yet it is not thought that there will be any tendency, except perhaps in individual cases, to accumulate stocks of oil for speculative purposes. Buyers, owing to the low price, however, will naturally feel like carrying a little surplus because of the slight probability of any material decline.

"The big stocks of flaxseed in the Northwest and in Western Canada are continually in the mind of the trade, and in that way the crop surplus acts as a weight on the market. There is little fear of much advance in prices, and, on the other hand, it is believed that the big stocks of flaxseed will hold the market in a steady position at around bed rock prices.

"The opinion is general in the linseed oil trade that the summer of 1913 will see a phenomenally large consumption of linseed oil. This has been the opinion for some time past.

"Receipts of flaxseed in Minneapolis since Sept. 1 have amounted to 10,000,000 bu, compared with 6,450,000 bu a year ago. Stocks in local terminal elevators at the close of last week amounted to 500,000 bu, compared with 177,000 bu a year ago."

Much interest is being taken by flaxseed dealers on the Duluth Board of trade in the proposed new duties on flaxseed and linseed oil. According to the proposed schedule, the duty on flaxseed will be reduced from 25 to 20 cents a bushel and that on linseed oil from 15 cents to 12 cents a gallon.

"It looks to me as if this change would be rather hard on the crusher," said one member today. "He will get 5 cents off on every bushel of flaxseed that he buys, under the new tariff, but as 2½ gallons of oil are made from every bushel of flaxseed, and the reduction is 3 cents on every gallon of oil, it will mean a reduction of 7½ cents on the oil produced from every bushel of flaxseed, leaving the crusher 2½ cents worse off on every gallon of oil that he sells. Now, if a crusher makes a cent a gallon clear on his oil under existing conditions he does well. You may readily imagine that the new conditions will cut greatly into his profits.

"A crusher cannot afford to keep buying seed and selling oil on market prices, just as they come. He must watch his chances to buy and sell. The crushing business is therefore in its nature very speculative. Much of the buying and selling is done by trading in futures. The crusher will often sell oil futures at prices that present conditions on the flaxseed market would not allow, if they were to remain. He is simply speculating on a fall in the prices of seed. But I am inclined to think that more of the busienss will hereafter be done on a cash basis."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Expectation That Government Report Would Be Bearish Sends Wheat Down

Chicago, April 8.—Expectation that the government's report today would be bearish sent wheat down, after an irregular opening. The deferred months were lower at the start but May was a little higher, the range being from ¼@⅜c lower to ⅛@¼c higher. Opening quotations on May were 92¾@93c. Influential selling quickly sent that option off to 92½@92⅝c, but some support was given on the higher Liverpool cables and there was a fair rally.

Prices receded again on publication of the government's crop report showing an average condition of 91.6 for winter wheat on April 1, as compared with 80.6 last year. The close was easy with May at 91⅞@92c, a net loss of 1c.

Selling by local speculators sent May corn off ⅛@¼c after steady opening with May a shade lower to a shade higher at 55¾@55⅞c. After touching 55⅝c prices rallied around the opening figures.

Buying on reports of wet weather in almost the entire corn belt kept prices steady till near the close when there was a lowering of values. The finish was weak with May at 55⅛@55¼c, a net loss of ⅝c.

General selling caused oats to ease off, May touching 35⅛c after an opening that was unchanged to a shade lower at 35⅛@36⅛c.

Higher figures were made in nearly the entire provision list influenced by good commission house buying. Opening figures showed a range of 2½c lower to 7½c higher, May prices being $19.72½@19.77½ for pork; $10.75@10.80 for lard, and $11.10@11.12½ for ribs.

Chicago, April 8.—Cash close: Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.04@1.08; No. 3 red, 95c@$1.02; No. 2 hard, 93@95c; No. 2 hard, 90@93¾c; No. 1 northern, 92@93c; No. 2 northern, 90@92c; No. 3 northern, 87½@91c; No. 2 spring, 90@91½c; No. 3 spring, 86@88½c; No. 4 spring, 80@85c; velvet chaff, 87@92¼c; durum, 89@96½c.

London Stocks.

Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Amalgamated Copper were active leaders in the upward movement. The closing was firm.

LOSSES ARE RECOVERED

Stocks Make Belated Response to Day's Favorable Incidents.

Pool Operations Resumed on Large Scale and Close Strong.

New York, April 8.—While there was evidence of hesitation at the opening, the trading element was not long kept in doubt as to the market's position for the time being of some of the active speculative interests, for stocks usually associated with these interests were marked up briskly. This indication of support for the list offset the effect of yesterday's weak close, continued heaviness abroad and doubt as to the immediate influence on business of the proposed tariff changes. Subsequent heavy liquidation of petroleum shares checked the advance, however, and traders sold rather freely, the previous gains being partially cancelled.

Bonds were irregular.

Buying of Amalgamated was the feature of the stock market opening today. Some large blocks were purchased in anticipation of a favorable report by the copper producers later in the day and the price advanced a point. First prices through the list showed changes for the most part small and irregular, with a stiffening of a majority of the speculative leaders. Chesapeake & Ohio gained a point. The Petroleum stocks were heavy.

Sentiment veered strongly to the bull side for a time, owing to the substantial advances achieved by several influential stocks. Reading, Lehigh Valley, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Amalgamated and Can rose 1 to 1½. A sharp break in the Petroleum stocks invited some profit-taking later and the list sagged.

Stock prices ran off rapidly despite the favorable figures of the government crop report and copper producers' association. Union Pacific, which touched 155½ earlier, went down to 152¾. Other railroad shares and the copper issues reached 1 to 2 points.

Bear operators made their raid simultaneously with the appearance of the president's tariff message. Influential support forced the bears to scurry to cover and there was a quick recovery of most of the loss.

The market closed strong. Pool operations were resumed on a large scale and the general market also made a belated response to the favorable incidents of the day. Amalgamated and Reading were lifted several points beyond yesterday's close and the remainder generally touched the highest prices of the session. Trading was active and the buying for short account gave a considerable impulse to the movement.

Cotton Market.

New York, April 8.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3 to 4 points. The market became quiet shortly after the start, with prices barely holding the initial gain.

Tariff uncertainty and reports that the world's spinners held 3,267,962 bales of American cotton on March 1, compared with 2,815,942 last year, probably restricted buying.

Spot closed quiet. Middling uplands, 12.60; middling gulf, 12.85. No sales. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: April, 12.27; May, 12.12; June, 12.08; July, 12.06; August, 11.92; September, 11.60; October, 11.53; December, 11.56; January, 11.54.

SCHOONER RUN DOWN WHILE AT ANCHOR.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., April 8.—The Savannah schooner Forest City, bound from Jacksonville for Boston, was run down and badly damaged while anchored in Nantucket Sound by the coal steamer Peter H. Crowell from Boston for Newport News early today.

The schooner's cargo of railroad ties kept her from sinking and she was towed here by the Crowell and beached. No one on board either craft was injured.

GREAT ANXIETY IS FELT FOR POPE PIUS.

Rome, April 8.—A consultation between Prof. Ettore Marchiafava and the physicians in attendance upon the pope this evening is reported to have proved that the pope is affected with nephritis or inflammation of the kidneys, and it was said that the greatest anxiety was felt.

EXPERTS AND PROGRESS.

William Dudley Foulke, president of the National Municipal league: "We can hardly overestimate the importance of securing the very best technical service for our larger cities. It is not the politicians, not even the people at large, who have initiated the great modern improvements in city governments, but experts—sanitary and civil engineers, architects and landscape gardeners, bacteriologists, physicians, educators, philanthropists. No city can hope to stand high in municipal progress until it secures the best expert service for its municipal work."

NO DATE SET YET FOR THE EASTON

Departure Is Indefinitely Delayed on Account of Heavy Ice.

The Booth Fisheries company announced that there is nothing yet definitely known about the departure of the steamer Easton for north shore points for the season's beginning. The ice in the lake, which, it is claimed, extends for twenty miles out, and the solidity of the ice in the harbors which the steamer has to serve, prevents an early start. It was expected that the Easton would be getting busy by April 15 at least, but according to present indications she will not be in commission before April 20. The ice in the various harbors where she plies is still so thick, it is said, that negotiation of these harbors is impossible.

It is claimed that the ice-making in the Duluth-Superior harbor still continues, and when this lets up, and only then, will ice-breaking begin. The tug Minnesota was inspected several days ago with the object in view of putting her in the ice-breaking business, but conditions have been so adverse ever since that ice-breaking has been indefinitely postponed.

Commissioner Bourke of the Lake Carriers' association is already engaged in the business of shipping men for all branches of the marine trade. It is claimed that there is an ample supply. For some reason men are willing to work in the marine business when the loggers have a hard time to get them to enter the woods or other employers can get them into other lines.

Attempt to Force Navigation.

Marinette, Wis., April 8.—According to an announcement just received, the Ann Arbor carferry line will attempt to send the first boat to Menominee from Frankfort on April 10, the date on which the summer freight rates go into effect. The ice is still unbroken on Green bay, but the company will try to send a boat through nevertheless.

ARE BANKING ON PANAMA CANAL

Los Angeles Citizens Believe It Will Justify Their City's Growth.

Fred C. Burns, a resident of Los Angeles, and who is at the Spalding today declares that the future of Southern California is absolutely assured through the increased business that will be brought to the Pacific coast through the completion of the Panama canal.

"There is not the business as you understand it," said Mr. Burns, "to justify the existence of so large a city as Los Angeles, and yet there is no country in the world growing any faster than the southern part of California. Out there the climate has been capitalized at its very high value, and some of the people here in this city have doubtless contributed to our prosperity by spending their money in Southern California. But with the coming of the Panama canal and the placing under cultivation of hundreds of acres of soil that has not been cultivated heretofore, we believe that business will take issue with the tourist traffic as a city builder.

"It is a fact that land sold at a very low valuation per acre—that was, in fact, farm land not so many years ago—is being sold as city lots today, and this despite the fact that the business in sight does not warrant the existence of so large a city as Los Angeles."

AMERICANS HIT BY MEXICAN BULLETS

Desperate Fighting Between Federals and Rebels in State of Sonora.

Naco, Ariz., April 8.—Desperate fighting between Ojeda's Federals and state troops opened at 5:20 this morning. The scene of the battle was less than a mile below Naco, Sonora. Bullets fell on the American side of the line, and two American soldiers on border patrol were wounded, one in the shoulder and one in the hand.

Ojeda used his artillery effectively and held the state troops at a distance in spite of their superior numbers.

The residents of Naco, Ariz., are congregated in buildings as far as possible from the scene of the fight in an effort to escape the bullets, which are falling in showers near the international line.

El Paso, Tex., April 8.—Fighting began today at Naco, Sonora, opposite the Arizona town of that name, between the small Federal garrison under Gen. Pedro Ojeda and a large force of rebels. News of the engagement came in a private message but the wire soon ceased working, the operator on the American side saying, "It was getting too hot for him."

DROWNS NEAR BAGLEY.

Peter Ostgaarden Falls From Sleigh Into Pool of Water.

Bagley, Minn., April 8.—Peter Ostgaarden, living in the town of Coplay, was drowned in a pool of water about two miles from here Saturday night, when he was thrown from his sleigh while driving home. It is said he was under the influence of liquor and could not save himself.

Ostgaarden was about 50 years old and married. The widow lost her former husband, John Sandvick, last fall in somewhat the same manner. He was thrown from a load of wood last December and crushed between the sleigh and a large stump near the road side.

FIGHT IN HOUSE OVER COMMISSION TO PROBE STATE EXPENDITURES

Possible There May Be No Legislation on the Subject.

Bill for Congressional Reapportionment Passed By the Senate.

Bill Abolishing Oil Inspection Department Meets Defeat.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fight this morning in the house over the question of an efficiency commission to investigate state expenses and the reorganization of the state government forecasted a harder fight tomorrow and the possibility that in the dispute as to what method shall be adopted all the attempts to reorganize the state government and to investigate expenses may fail at this session. As such a failure would parallel a session of the legislature that will produce the highest state tax in the state's history, the situation is causing many members to think seriously.

The house committee on public accounts and expenditures, having failed to gain the consent of the governor to introduce a new bill providing for a legislative commission for this purpose, brought in the Wefald house bill, which was pending before the committee, with amendments making it correspond with the provisions of the bill now in the governor's hands. The committee recommended that the bill be made a special order for tomorrow.

The recommendation was fought by Representative C. L. Sawyer and other advocates of a commission to be composed of men not connected with the legislature or the state government, but the motion for a special order prevailed by the narrow vote of 63 to 55, but two more votes were needed.

Later the Sawyer-Spooner bill, with

SUFFRAGETTES FAIL TO SEE PRISONER

Mother of Zelie Emerson Gets Daughter on Release From Prison.

London, April 9.—Miss Zelie Emerson, a suffragette, of Jackson, Mich., was released from Holloway jail at 9 o'clock last night. She was taken by her mother to a nursing home where she will be given medical treatment. Mrs. Emerson feels grave anxiety for her daughter's condition and will not permit her to see any one.

Certain of the more militant friends of Miss Emerson, including a number of Americans who were displeased at Mrs. Emerson's abandoning the campaign to force intervention by the American embassy, planned to take away the daughter without her mother's knowledge in an automobile, so that they might get an interview without the mother's moderating influence.

The militants placed a relay of pickets to watch for Miss Emerson's release, but were forestalled by her unexpectedly early release.

Mrs. Emerson had been informed of the date of her daughter's release by the American embassy and was on hand. She took her immediately to a hospital, where the physicians isolated her.

STUDENT FIREMAN KILLED BY ENGINE.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. H. Ericksen, aged 24, a student fireman, was killed when two Great Northern switch engines collided here early today. The Duluth line was blocked for four hours as the result of the wreck.

INDUSTRIAL HOME SCHOOL

St. Louis County Is Given Authority to Establish Girls' Home.

All Plans Subject to Approval of District Court Judges.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—It took less than twenty-four hours to get through the legislature a bill giving the board of county commissioners authority to create a girls' industrial home to be operated under the direction of the district court.

The bill was introduced in the senate Monday afternoon by Senator Cheadle and passed under suspension of the rules. It reached the house yesterday afternoon and on motion of Representative A. L. Warner of Duluth the rules were suspended and the bill passed. It now goes to the governor for his signature.

By the terms of the bill the county board of St. Louis county is given power to lease, purchase or erect a building or buildings for the purpose of conducting an industrial home school for girls and equip it with proper appliances, furniture and ap-

SENTIMENT IS DIVIDED

Tariff Resolution Barely Gets Through the Minnesota House.

"Blue Sky" Bill Amended to Except Real Estate Dealers.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house of representatives of the state of Minnesota spent two hours of its precious and rapidly dwindling time yesterday afternoon debating the tariff—with particular reference to the tariff on agricultural products raised in Minnesota.

An outsider, wandering in the gallery, might have been forgiven for believing that the house had suddenly become obsessed by the strange hallucination that it was a part of the congress of the United States.

With a vast amount of Minnesota legislation cumbering its records, the house more or less gravely debated for two full hours the Bendixen-Dunn resolution asking congress to please not cut the tariff on Minnesota agricultural products, and then passed it, 92 to 47.

So that congress might not be unduly embarrassed by this onslaught

DIVORCE ACTION ENDS ABRUPTLY

Judge Decides Couple in Question Were Never Married.

Chicago, April 9.—The divorce action brought by William M. Marshall, a wealthy owner and exhibitor of driving and riding horses, against Mrs. Blanche T. Marshall was abruptly ended here yesterday when Judge Petit declared that the two had never been married. Mrs. Marshall, who is the mother of a 2-year-old son, was overcome at the pronouncement.

"There is a child of this union," exclaimed Mrs. Marshall's attorney.

"The fact that it affects the status of a child cannot alter the law of the state," replied Judge Petit. "Mrs. Blanche Mullins was divorced from Robert P. Mullins March 13, 1907. Six days later she married Marshall in Michigan. Being married again within less than one year from her divorce, the marriage is a nullity. We have been trying a case without merit here for two days."

Judge Petit's decision was given after he had made a personal investigation of the divorce files. It is the first case involving a child in which a recent decision of the Illinois supreme court invalidating such marriage, has been invoked. Judge Petit refused to consider the plea of the attorneys that the parties to the marriage had been living together since 1907, believing that they were legally husband and wife.

WISCONSIN FARMER IS STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Marinette, Wis., April 9.—While he was on his way home with a can of beer in a heavy electric storm last night, Primil Kusik, a farmer of the town of Brazeau, Oconto county, was struck by lightning. He said the bolt struck him sidewise and hurled him against a wire fence as though he had been a paper sack. One of his ears was badly torn and his body was bruised.

Kusik managed to crawl home on his hands and knees and arrived there covered with mud but triumphantly carrying the pail of beer. His condition is said to be serious.

Stockmen Rap Free Meat.

Rapid City, S. D., April 9.—Resolutions denouncing as discriminatory the placing of meat and farm produce on the free list of the new tariff measure were adopted yesterday at the twenty-second annual meeting of the Western South Dakota stockmen's convention.

COURT CALLS OUT MILITIA AT BUFFALO

Two Thousand Guardsmen Quartered at Armories Ready for Duty.

Strike on International Railway Cause of Demonstration.

Mayor and Chief of Police Refuse to Ask for Assistance.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 9.—Two thousand national guardsmen summoned to put down the disorders arising from the street railway strike here were quartered in armories here at daybreak. An additional 1,000 men were en route. The International railway made no effort to move their cars in the early morning hours but expected to do so later in the day.

The first details of soldiers were sent out from the armories at 8 o'clock. Squads patrolled every block along the car lines in the downtown section of the city. A special detail of mounted scouts of the Seventy-fourth regiment was fired upon at the corner of Niagara and Tonawanda streets a few minutes later. The militiamen charged the crowd. No one was injured.

Appeal to Court.

An appeal to the supreme court for an order for military protection was made by the railway officials after frequent demands on the mayor and sheriff for such an order had been refused. The mayor maintained that the situation had not reached the acute stage which made the presence of troops necessary. Before issuing the order the court conferred with the mayor and chief of police. Mayor Fuhrmann insisted that there was no call for the troops, but Chief Regan admitted that the situation was beyond the control of his force of 300 men, who have been on duty almost continually since the strike was declared Sunday morning.

Protest to Governor.

The strike leaders have sent a protest to Governor Sulzer against the ordering out of troops.

A series of explosions aroused the people in the northern part of the city and in Tonawanda early this morning and the rumor spread that one of the International railway's trestles on the Niagara Falls line had been blown up. Men sent over the line for a distance of five miles north of Tonawanda, reported no damage to the tracks or bridges and no explanation of the mysterious explosions was obtained.

MILWAUKEE DETECTIVE AFTER 'WEAVER B. CLARK'

Chicago, April 9.—Detective Charles Burns of Milwaukee arrived here today with a fugitive warrant for "Weaver B. Clark," charged with having robbed Mrs. C. A. Temple of Little Rock, Ark., of jewelry valued at $5,360. "Clark" was arrested here as "George B. Lewis" or "Jack" Lewis, charged by Miss Ethel Newcomb with the theft of jewels worth $2,000 from her at Portland, Or. The prisoner denies that he is the man wanted but refuses to establish his identity, further than to state that he is an Eastern college man.

Fire at Madison.

Madison, Wis., April 9.—The new state capitol was enveloped in clouds of dense black smoke for two hours today when the Plymouth clothing store was destroyed by fire. The loss is $50,000.

SALARY IS TOO SMALL TO APPEAL TO DAVIES

JOSEPH E. DAVIES.

Washington, April 9.—Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin has declined the appointment to be assistant secretary of war on the ground of the insufficiency of salary, which is $5,000 a year. Mr. Davies' name has been mentioned in connection with a diplomatic post and also with the governorship of the Philippine Islands.

HUNDREDS OF TURKS ARE DYING IN CAMP

Disease Completing Massacre Begun By Guns of War.

London, April 9.—Hundreds of Turkish soldiers who survived the siege of Adrianople are dying of exhaustion, dysentery and cholera in the concentration camp outside that city, according to the correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

"The battle having ceased," says the correspondent, "death continues its work and is cruelly piling up corpses. The guns began and the cholera, dysentery and hunger—the rear guard of war—are prolonging the massacre."

The dispatch adds:

"When the Turkish commander caused the destruction of the provisions remaining in the garrison and blew up the bridge across the Arda, thus cutting the road for supply trains, he did not think that he was condemning to death the weakest, the most helpless, the most exhausted part of his army."

The Bulgarians distributed some bread, but are unable to do more until the bridge has been repaired. A few days after the capitulation, cholera broke out among the prisoners and spread in a threatening manner to the Bulgarian soldiers.

The camp presents a monstrous promiscuity of living, dying and dead. The soldiers belonging to Adrianople, says the correspondent, are provided with food by the families, but others, wrapped in rags and huddled in wretched density plaintively demand water, which, although muddy, they drink greedily.

"This is a crowd of men who have suffered too much," says the correspondent, "who can march no more, whom nothing can save, whom death has seized while they are still living. It is a monstrous morgue; the ground all around is covered with corpses, hundreds of human forms in a horrifying disorder of dying and dead."

Workman Burned to Death.

Chicago, April 9.—One workman was burned to death and seventy-five narrowly escaped injury when fire today destroyed the planing mill of William Morris & Sons company on the South side, causing a loss of $100,000.

CONDITION OF POPE PIUS IS VERY SERIOUS

Pontiff Pays But Little Attention to Those Around Him.

Official Reports Say Amelioration in Condition Continues.

Rumored in Other Quarters That Patient Is Not So Well.

Rome, April 9.—Pope Pius dozed for a short time this afternoon. When he was awake he appeared to feel too weak to take much notice of those around him.

He smiled, however, when he was visited by his sisters and his niece, who sat quietly in the room for some time without disturbing him.

His temperature rose slightly at 3 o'clock this afternoon, reaching 99.0.

While official reports state that the amelioration in the condition of the Pope continues, it is reported in other quarters that the pontiff is suffering from difficulty of respiration, thirst and prostration.

To Have Long Rest.

Everything is being prepared at the Vatican to give the Pope a long period of rest. All business is suspended during this month and the American pilgrimage which left New York on April 5 under the direction of Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Toledo, will not be received by his holiness.

Several cardinals, including Rampolla, Vives y Tuto, de Lai, Martinelli, Falconio, Bisleti and Agliardi, called personally at the Vatican this morning to inquire about the Pope's health. They were not allowed to see the patient.

The callers were informed by Cardinal Merry Del Val that an improvement had taken place in the pope's condition and that there was no real cause for alarm.

Annoyed By Storm.

A thunderstorm, accompanied by a heavy fall of hail disturbed the pope this morning. His nervous system has become very sensitive since the beginning of his illness.

Prof. Marchiafava assured the Associated Press this morning that his holiness is suffering "only from a relapse

SEVEN HUNDRED MEN OUT ON THE CUYUNA

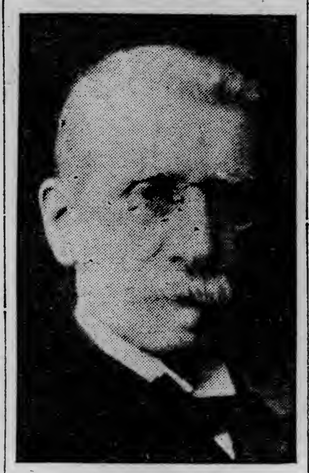

Miners at the Thompson Near Crosby Join the Strikers.

Brainerd, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miners of the Inland Steel company at the Thompson mine, near Crosby, after a conference with a delegation of the striking miners of the Kennedy and Armour Nos. 1 and 2 mines, refused to go to work today and officials of the mine appealed to Sheriff Fred Reid to prevent disorder. No disorders have yet occurred on the Cuyuna range. The men ask shorter hours and an increase in wages.

Postmaster F. A. Lindbergh of Crosby estimates the number of strikers to be from 700 to 800. A Duluth labor organizer has arrived and is forming a labor union.

CONTINUES TO ASSERT POPE PIUS IS NO WORSE

DR. MARCHIAFAVA.

Would Allow Separate Votes on Sugar and Wool.

One Plan Is to Group Schedules in Four Divisions.

President Wilson Will Consult With Committee on Matter.

Washington, April 9.—Senate leaders are still insistent that the Underwood bill be subdivided so that separate votes may be had, if desired upon the sugar and wool schedules. One plan that has been proposed to President Wilson is that schedules be grouped in such a way that the tariff will be comprised in four separate measures. These proposals are based on a growing belief that opponents of the sugar and wool provisions may muster strength enough to threaten the defeat of the bill. Many Progressive Republicans expressed their opposition to the Democratic bill because of the sweeping character of its proposed reductions. The Democrats are counting on little if any Progressive Republican support in the senate should the tariff revision go before that body as a single bill.

Would Throw Meetings Open.

In the house caucus, Representative Palmer, the chairman made a vehement plea for letting the public know what its representatives are doing, aligning himself with President Wilson's expressed attitude in favor of throwing all these meetings open. He was supported by Representatives Carlin of Virginia, Shackelford of Missouri, Thompson and Murray of Oklahoma, L'Engle of Florida and others. Tomorrow the caucus will likely adopt the ways and means committee majority recommendations of the only committees to be created at this time and will report the tariff program with the new tariff handbooks in the hands of every member as guides. The new committees as recommended by the leaders of the three parties follow:

New Committees.

Ways and means—Underwood, Alabama, chairman; Harrison, New York, Shackelford, Missouri; Kitchin, North Carolina; Rainey, Illinois; Dixon, Indiana; Hull, Tennessee; Hammond, Minnesota; Peters, Massachusetts; Palmer, Pennsylvania; Ansberry, Ohio; Garner, Texas; Stanley, Kentucky; Collier, Mississippi; Democrats. Payne, New York; Fordney, Michigan; Gardner, Massachusetts; Moore, Pennsylvania; Anderson, Minnesota; Green, Iowa; Republicans. Murdock, Kansas, Progressive.

Accounts—Lloyd, Missouri, chairman;

RAILROADS IMPORTANT

Yoakum Shows Necessity of Ample Transportation for Farm Products.

Second Day's Session of Conference on Marketing Full of Interest.

Chicago, April 9.—Railroad and college men were prominent in the second day's session of the first national conference on marketing and farm credits, which is being held here.

B. F. Yoakum of New York city, chairman of the board of directors of the 'Frisco lines; President Harry Pratt Judson of the University of Chicago; C. W. Thompson, director of the bureau of economic research of the University of Minnesota, and Congressman Hatton W. Sumners of Texas were among the more prominent men on the program.

An address on "Relations of the Government, Agriculture and the Railroads and Their Bearing on Better Marketing," by Mr. Yoakum, was read. It said in part:

"Agriculture and transportation have laid the foundation which has made this the greatest and most powerful nation of the world. They are big factors in America's growth.

Heavy Increases.

"Since 1905 our population has increased 16 per cent. The value of farm products was 51 per cent more in 1912 than in 1905, while railroad construction was 40 per cent less.

"There are now not over 1,000 miles of new railroad under construction. It would require the construction of 165,000 miles of additional railroad to furnish the same transportation facilities west of the Mississippi river that there are east of it, on the basis of area.

"That great area of rich country

WHISKY LOST AT LOUISVILLE SAFE

Hundreds of Barrels That Were Washed Away By Flood Are Saved.

Washington, April 9.—Hundreds of barrels of whisky, swept from a demolished bonded warehouse in Kentucky in the recent flood, were saved by heroes who saved them to the last drop, according to a report received by Commissioner Cabell from one of the internal revenue agents.

The warehouse, containing 6,000 barrels, was practically destroyed. Men even left the levees, said the government officer, to save Kentucky's product.

The location of the warehouse was not disclosed because it might create unnecessary alarm among the owners of the whisky, all of which is safe.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Senator Chilton introduced a bill to fix a minimum wage for women.

A bill for inspection of coal mines, introduced by Senator Works.

Senator Bacon introduced a bill for purchase of homes for American diplomats.

Bill to prohibit senators and representatives from acting as counsel for interstate commerce corporations, introduced by Senator Borah.

Adjourned at 12:40 until noon Saturday.

HOUSE.

Not in session; meets Thursday at noon.

Ways and means committee decided to hold meetings daily during discussion of tariff bill in house. Democrats met in caucus.

PROGRESSIVES HARD AT WORK

Will Present Several in Accordance With Their Platform.

Washington, April 9.—The legislative committee of the house caucus of Progressives got down to work today following a conference with members of the legislative committee of the National Progressive party. The house Progressives met with Walter Well, Dean Lewis of the University of Pennsylvania, Paul Kellogg and Frances Kellar, and reviewed the ambitious legislative program outlined by the house members of the party.

Jane Addams, who was to have attended the caucus, is abroad and she will be called on later for her views on Progressive legislation. The conference discussed at length the details of the various measures to be framed to embrace the reforms urged by the Progressive platform. The legislative committee of the caucus, headed by Representative Kelley of Pennsylvania, immediately took up the work of drafting the bills and some of them will be introduced in the house at an early date.

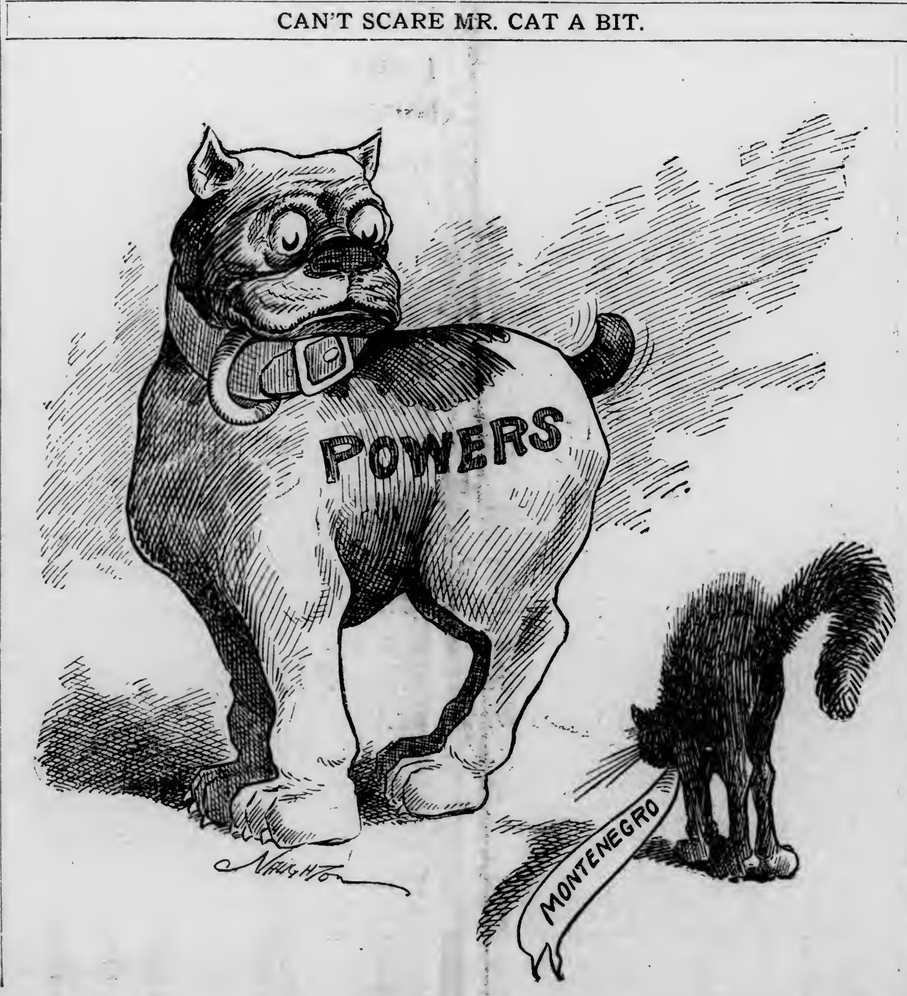

Formidable List of Measures.

In the formidable list of measures, making up the Progressive platform, the efforts of the little group of legislators probably will be devoted to presenting two or three for consideration. One of these will be a measure calling for the establishment of an industrial commission to regulate corporations in interstate commerce with powers similar to those now exercised over railroads by the interstate commerce commission. Special attention will also be paid to a resolution providing a constitutional amendment, extending the suffrage to women.

The Progressives will urge the appointment of a special woman suffrage committee in the house to take the question out of the hands of the judiciary committee which has failed to report on it. During the tariff activity the Progressives intend to exploit their party platform pledge endorsing the plan for a "nonpartisan, scientific tariff board."

The Progressives also will urge the passage of a minimum wage law in some form and today they seemed to lean toward a plan for a wage commission to establish equitable scales of wages.

They will be the guests of the local club at the breakfast in the morning and the trip to the steel plant in the afternoon. Mr. Goodell will deliver Mr Elliott's address at the banquet.

P. H. Martin, chairman of the reception committee, this morning announced the program for the entire day tomorrow. The visiting speakers will be met at the station tomorrow morning by the committee and then taken to the Duluth Commercial club for breakfast. An automobile ride about the city will follow.

At 10 o'clock the party will stop at the Merritt school, Fortieth avenue west and Sixth street, where the children will be addressed by Governor Eberhart and several of the other guests. Although the first session of the court will start May. 7, Judge Lanners will be ready to hold court at any time before then, should the occasion arise.

COLD WEATHER HAS DELAYED CONTRACTORS

Owing to the cold weather of the past month the contractors at the new Northern Pacific station have been unable to install the plumbing or make the necessary pipe connections. The station will not be opened to the public before the latter part of this month.

Both the interior and exterior of the structure have been completed.

Supt. A. V. Brown stated this morning that the old station will be moved to the rear of the new structure as soon as the latter is opened. The site of the old building is to be improved and made into a small park and approach to the new structure, which will set back about thirty feet from the avenue.

Railroads Fight Order.

Minot, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arguments were made in the district court here yesterday on the application of the Great Northern and Soo railroads for a stay of proceedings under the order of the railroad commission affecting physical connections and shorthaul rates. The railroad commission also opened its quarterly meeting here yesterday, the questions before it being quite numerous.

JEWISH SOCIAL WORKER WILL LECTURE HERE

STANLEY BERO.

Stanley Bero, social worker and economic specialist, will lecture at the Temple Emanuel, Second street and Seventh avenue east, Friday evening at 8 o'clock, on "The Americanization of the Immigrant."

His lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon slides. Mr. Bero, who is a New Yorker, is on this tour of the Northwest to study educational and industrial facilities offered to the newly arrived immigrant. Mr. Bero has had eighteen years of social work. The aim of the Hebrew Immigrant Aid society of New York, which Mr. Bero represents, is not alone to care for the immigrants upon their arrival, but to follow them up and urge upon them the importance of studying in the American schools, and to avail themselves of the opportunities of becoming citizens. The work of the society is humanitarian in the first instance, American in the final analysis, and Jewish throughout. Leading social workers and philanthropists throughout the country are identified with the work. The slides Mr. Bero uses to illustrate the lecture show the immigrant from the time he leaves the old country to the time in America when he becomes a naturalized citizen.

PRISON TERM FOR OSBORNE

West Duluth Man Convicted in District Court of Heinous Crime.

Recommended to Humane Society as Suitable Person to Adopt Child.

William Osborne, convicted by a jury which tried him on one of the most revolting cases of child-abuse that has ever come to trial in district court, will probably be placed where he will have no opportunity to prey upon the weakness of children. If the law takes its usual course, Osborne has a penitentiary sentence ahead of him.

It took the jury which sat on Osborne's second trial only thirty minutes to decide that he was guilty of the charge of abusing a female child of the age of 14 years. The jury returned its verdict shortly before 5 o'clock last evening. The first trial jury was out for twenty-four hours and then disagreed. Both cases were tried before Judge Cant.

The nature of the charges and testimony was of such a character that the trials were held behind closed doors. Mason M. Forbes, assistant county attorney, directed the prosecution, and Harry W. Lanners of West Duluth, judge-elect of the West Duluth branch of the municipal court, defended the accused man.

Most of the details of the crime which the jury found had been committed are revolting and unprintable. A few of the facts of how Osborne secured the child are about as follows:

Osborne is a structural iron worker and at the time of his arrest resided with a woman he claimed was his wife at 324 South Sixty-first avenue west. He came here a few months ago from Milwaukee.

Companion for Wife.

Early in December, last year, he came to the courthouse to see F. E. Resche, probation officer. He said that his wife was about to give birth to a child, that he was obliged to be out of town a considerable part of the time and that he would like to secure a girl about 7 or 8 years old to keep his wife company.

Osborne brought two men with him, who recommended him to the probation officer as being a person thoroughly competent and trustworthy. Since Osborne's arrest one of the men who recommended him has come to the probation officer and to the office of the Humane society and has apologized for making the recommendation, admitting that he had been grossly deceived, but stating he was acting in good faith at the time.

Col. Resche advised Osborne to make application for adopting a child of this age from the state school at Owatonna. He told him at the time that the institution would send an agent to investigate his home and that if everything was all right, he probably would have no trouble in securing the child.

Before Osborne left the probation office, Col. Resche suggested that he confer with R. D. McKercher, agent for the Duluth Humane society, who was looking after the interests of a 14-year-old orphan girl. Osborne did so and arrangements were perfected to have the girl go to his home. The agreement was that if the girl was satisfactory to Osborne and his wife and satisfied with her surroundings, after some time, adoption proceedings might be started.

Was Recommended.

The Humane society acted in the matter on the recommendation made to Col. Resche by two local business men, who stated that in their opinion he was a suitable man to have the custody of a child. The girl, whose name The Herald has been asked to withhold, entered the Osborne household on Dec. 9 last.

The story of Osborne's relations with the girl came back to the Humane society and to the authorities on Dec. 27, when the girl's sister told it. Agent McKercher of the Humane society immediately caused Osborne's arrest and removed the girl from the home.

Following the arrest of her husband, Mrs. Osborne was removed to the county hospital at the poor farm, where shortly afterwards she gave birth to a child. At the trial, Mrs. Osborne denied that she had told Dr. Woolway, medical superintendent at the poor farm, of her husband's trouble. She flatly contradicted the testimony of the doctor in this particular.

Osborne and his wife both testified that they had been married at Milwaukee about two years ago last January by a priest and that they secured their marriage license at the Milwaukee courthouse.

The authorities, in an attempt to confirm this wired the priest and the clerk of the district court at Milwaukee. The priest had no recollection of such a marriage and the clerk of the court stated in response that there was no record in his office of any such license having been issued.

Osborne will probably be brought before the court this week for sentence.

SOO SURVEYORS NEAR BRAINERD.

Brainerd, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Soo surveyors operating under Engineer Kankinson are now established at Loerch, a small station on the Northern Pacific railway, seven miles east of Brainerd. The Soo crossing will be surveyed at this point. It is judged from this that the entry of the Soo into Brainerd, if one is to be made, will follow along the south line of the Northern Pacific railway, tapping such ore bodies as the Soo can acquire tonnage rights on.

VETERAN JUDGE PERFORMS HIS FIRST WEDDING CEREMONY

Hon. J. D. Ensign, senior judge on the district bench, performed his first marriage ceremony yesterday.

Although he has been a district judge for twenty-four years he had never before exercised that prerogative of his office.

The contracting parties were Victor Samuelsen and Tilda Kjelsten.

After securing their marriage license yesterday both were anxious to have the knot tied at once.

Samuelson and his bride-to-be put their case up to Judge Ensign.

His honor hesitated at first about establishing the precedent, but finally acceded to their request.

CUT MUCH TIMBER.

Ontonagon Lumbering Concerns Put in Very Busy Winter.

Ontonagon, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The past winter's cut of timber in Ontonagon county is estimated at 150,000,000 feet. This is believed the largest ever recorded in any one season in the district and is evidence that lumbering is still an important industry in Michigan's North country. The biggest single cut of timber in Ontonagon county the past winter was that of the Holt Lumber company; it approximated 20,000,000 feet, all of which will be shipped to Oconto, Wis., for manufacture.

The Diamond Lumber company, with mills at Green Bay, Wis., harvested 15,000,000 feet. Practically all the remainder of the Ontonagon cut will be manufactured in the region adjacent to the scene of the logging operations. The Greenwood Lumber company, with 13,000,000 feet, was the most extensive logger of the home concerns, the harvest of the others—sawmill operators and logging jobbers—ranging from 10,000,000 down to 50,000 feet. The season's work in the woods gave employment to 2,000 men and many teams of horses.

OLD TIMERS BID FAREWELL TO BUILDINGS.
In This Group Are Included Most of the Pioneer Citizens of the West End.

Last Sunday afternoon the old residents of the West end gathered in front of the buildings at the corner of Twentieth avenue west and Superior street and bade farewell to these frame structures, which are now being torn down to make room for the four-story hotel to be erected there.

The wooden buildings at the northwest corner of Twentieth avenue west are without a doubt the oldest in the West end.

When it was announced several weeks ago that the Duluth Brewing & Malting company would build a modern four-story brick building on the corner and that the six small stores would be either torn down or moved away, all the old residents got together and decided to bid a farewell to the structures. The result was the final gathering on the corner last Sunday afternoon, when several of the more prominent residents gave short talks.

This week the moving of the structures began, two of them having been already taken away. Two of the others are now being razed. It is expected to have the buildings all removed by the latter part of this month, when excavation work will start.

JUST GETTING ACQUAINTED

Will Take Over Reins of Government at Noon on Monday.

The five men elected to Duluth's first commission are preparing to take over the city government at noon next Monday.

In the meantime they are reticent of their plans and official announcement of the division of duties and the appointment of officers by the commission will be withheld until the first meeting of the commissioners next Monday.

The four commissioners were guests of Mayor-elect W. I. Prince at dinner at the St. Louis hotel last evening and they talked over their plans informally. The five commissioners say that no definite action was taken on any subject and that the discussion was purely informal.

"We are just getting acquainted," said W. I. Prince today. "We have reached no definite conclusions as to our plans and no announcement will be made until after we take office."

Speculation has shifted from the result of the election to the course of the commissioners after taking office. There is much interest in the appointments and friends of applicants for city positions are busy lining up support for them.

H. H. Phelps announced in an emphatic letter to The Herald today that he is not a candidate for city attorney or any other public office. "My provide in life seems to be to work and earn money for taxes to pay the other fellow's salary," he writes.

No applicants for appointment other than those mentioned in The Herald last evening have appeared, and the appointments will probably be made from that list. In the meantime, the commissioners decline to discuss appointments, and are spending their time getting acquainted with each other and with the city government.

OPENING SET BACK TO MAY 8

New Canadian Line Will Not Run Steamers This Month.

Instead of the Mutual Transit company's Canadian line going into commission on April 15, as was planned, it will begin on May 8. The interstate commerce commission refused to grant a schedule publication at a notice of three days, and the company must go through the formality of a thirty-day publication.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Mutual Transit company held recently in New York, plans were formulated for the operation of a new package freight line between Buffalo and Cleveland and three Canadian ports—Port Arthur, Fort William and West Fort, Ont. The company's boats will connect with the Canadian Pacific railway at Fort William and at West Fort with the Grand Trunk Pacific. According to the present plan the Mutual company will operate a boat every four days eastbound and westbound, and will handle package freight between the Eastern United States and the Western Canadian points.

The reason of the application for permission to establish a new tariff at three days' notice was that the directors of the line wish that the shipping public should receive the benefits of the new line at as early a date as possible. However that has failed. This step of the Mutual Transit company marks a new departure in the package freight business on the Great Lakes as before this year there has never been a lake line giving the shippers and the trunk lines direct service. This also is the first American company to enter the Canadian trade. In former years a few vessels operating from Cleveland were engaged in the package freight business between the United States and Canada, but, it is claimed, that from the American viewpoint the business has been unsatisfactory. Several lines have been carrying freight from Duluth to Canadian ports on Lake Superior but nobody before seems to have attempted to establish connection between the Eastern Canadian ports and Canadian trunk lines operating in the West. The officials of the Mutual company are now negotiatig for vessels to add to the present equipment and will likely, it is believed build several new vessels in the near future now that the new transportation route is opened up. None can be built this year as the new route is a rather sudden departure, but it is believed that next year there will be several new boats put in commission. There will be charters of steamers of other lines this year in order to fill out the demands that will, doubtless, be made upon the line.

WEEKLY REPORT ON ICE CONDITIONS

The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau and meteorological service of Canada indicate that there are extensive fields in Superior.

Over the western portion the field extends out about thirty miles. From Keewaw point east to Whitefish bay there are large fields of ice which are moving with the winds. At Whitefish point the ice is heavy and windrowed, and it will take some time with warm weather to disintergrate this heavy field sufficiently to allow a steamer to force a passage.

In St. Mary's river the ice averages 15 to 18 inches and is solid. There has been but little change during the past week. In Green bay the conditions over the northern portion have not changed, while over the southern portion along the west or east shore of Lake Michigan south of Ludington, and north of this to North Manitou the fields are few and scattered. From Charlevoix north to the Straits there are extensive fields. The ice at the Straits is firm and about ten inches in thickness. While there is some open water to the north of Mackinac Island, to the westward of the island the ice is firm and shows no indications of immediate breaking up. It is estimated that the Straits will probably not open before April 15.

In Huron there are a few fields over the extreme northern portion, but none reported south of Middle Island on the west or east shores. In Erie the fields at the extreme eastern end are broken and a large amount of ice is passing down the Niagara river. The ice has disappeared from Lake Ontario and the harbors are all open.

In comparison with the same period last year there is less ice in all of the lakes.

The present indications are that the straits will be free of ice by April 15. In Superior the heavy windrowed ice in Whitefish bay will delay general navigation until after April 20. The display of storm warnings will probably be resumed on Lakes Michigan, Huron, St. Clair, Erie and Ontario on April 15 ond on Lake Superior on April 20.

SOO DOCKS ARE RECEIVING ORE

The first ore of the season received at the Head of the Lakes was taken into the pockets of the Great Northern ore docks on Monday. Two hundred cars arrived on that day, and ever since cars have been coming in from the Great Northern properties and from the Cuyuna range.

The Soo received yesterday 75 cars of ore, the first so far received by these docks. It is expected that, beginning immediately, at least 200 cars a day will be received. This, of course, is with the expectation of navigation opening at an early date. The receipts at the docks will be guided by the capacity of the docks and the extent of shipments from them.

It is claimed that the Soo docks expect to handle this year about 1,000,000 tons of ore as against 550,000 tons last year.

OPENING SEEMS AS FAR AWAY AS EVER.

There is little if any progress in the matter of the opening of navigation. While some claim that during the last few nights there has been more ice-making because of the chilly weather, others claim that the ice is simply holding its own. However that may be there is the general opinion expressed among marine men that unless there is a very sudden and distinct let-up in the weather now prevailing the opening of navigation will be greatly delayed. An offer was made today to bet that navigation will not open before April 25, and there were no takers. Last year navigation opened on April 21. Conditions are claimed to be less favorable this year.

Capt. F. P. Houghton Dead.

Racine, Wis., April 9.—A telegram from Biloxi, Miss., announces the death of Capt. Frederick P. Houghton, one of the best known residents of Racine and widely known as a commander of large sailing and steam vessels on the chain of Great Lakes. He was 66 years of age.

Green Bay Captain Dead.

Capt. P. S. Roulette of Green Bay, well known in marine circles, passed away on Thursday of last week at his home in Green Bay, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Roulette was one of the few colored vessel masters on the lakes. He was a member of the old transportation firm of Waggoner & Roulette, and under the regime of that company operated the steamer McVea. Last season he was master of the steamer Sally Boy of the Hart line, making regular trips during the season of navigation out of Escanaba.

WANTED: A KEEN CUTTER.

Popular Magazine: A successful but irascible playwright was in his New York studio one morning trying to whip a scene into good shape. The more attempts he made, the more irascible he became. Finally, during one of the painful pauses, his secretary ventered to ask:

"Where is the paper cutter?"

"I don't want any paper cutter!" shouted the dramatist. "I'm tired of living. What I want is a throat cutter!"

CITY TO HAVE FACE WASHED

Health Department Makes Plans for Annual Spring Clean-Up.

City Will Be Inspected and Residents Required to Remove Rubbish.

The health department is beginning to make plans for the annual spring clean-up.

But little can be done with the weather remaining cold, but as soon as it becomes warm the machinery will be in shape to start things to moving in sanitary lines.

The entire city will be inspected from one end to the other, as has been done in other years. People whose yards are littered with filth and tin cans, etc., will be asked to get rid of the winter's accummulation at the earliest possible moment. At the expiration of a reasonable time another inspection will be made to check those who have failed to comply with the regulations and in some instances it is not unlikely that warrants will be issued for their arrest.

The commissioner of public safety will name a general clean-up day, or a week during which special efforts will be made to wash the face of the municipality. Because of the uncertainty of weather it was found last year that better results were obtainable by having several days designated for the city house cleaning and it is probable that the same plan will be adopted.

Duluth is far from being a spotless town at the present time. The city has started to clean up its streets. Before asking residents to bestir themselves the city will set an example by putting all property under its charge in the best condition possible. The municipality will then be in a better position to call upon the public to follow the provisions of the ordinances governing public health and cleanliness.

Superior

Railroads Must Pay.

The supreme court yesterday handed down a decision holding that the state railroad and warehouse commission had no right or power to issue an order charging the city of Superior with 20 per cent of the cost of the viaduct extension over the railroad yards at Belknap street. The decision means that the railroads will be compelled to pay the total cost of the viaduct.

This train will sandwich in between regular train schedules and will do much to unite the Cuyuna range towns. What the Best Dressed Women Will Wear This Spring

Copyright 1913 The H. Black Co. Makers of Wooltex Garments.

No. 2019—A suit of distinctive style, is this model called the "Winningham." Note the snappy shape of the cutaway front, the long revers, the fanciful stitch lines and the pocket effect produced by inserting the materials in a bias patch over the hips. It comes in a variety of diagonals—Price $25.

The tailor-made suit will probably have a jacket in cut-away model, and in the most approved form the back of the jacket will hang two or three inches lower than the front. The side-buttoning style is still good, and the narrow skirt is as correct as ever, except that this spring's models have a little more fullness at the hips, with perhaps a little "draping" effect.

Coats for wear over dresses are a trifle shorter than last season—45 to 50 inches, except the mannish, "sport" coats, which go to full 54 inches, with a tremendous "flare" at the bottom. Eponge, mistral canvas and the new "knitted" or toweling cloth weaves are much used in coats, and light grays, pure white and black and white are especially approved. Of course the sturdy serges, in various novelty weaves and wales, in tans, grays and blue, are as correct as ever for utility coats.

All of which—and more in detail—is magnificently demonstrated in the carefully selected garments in our present showing.

An exposition of the true, approved styles in women's wear, shown in moderately priced garments—notably in the famous Wooltex coats, suits and skirts which you read about in the Saturday Evening Post—The Ladies' Home Journal and other magazines.

Come in and see and try on some of them.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which will close its engagement at the Lyceum tonight, is a play that presents Eugene Walter's ability as a dramatist in a new light. It was no small task to take the widely read book of John Fox, Jr., and transfer to the stage the wild, untutored mountain girl, June, and the other delightful original characters of the charming narrative.

There was need indeed of an artist of deep imagination and virile style to catch and reproduce the spirit that Mr. Fox injected into his book, and the fact that Mr. Walter has visualized what millions have dreamed of, is apparent by the magnificent production made of the play. In Boston, New York and Chicago its success was marked and it enjoyed long runs to the biggest receipts of late years, and it has proven popular here.

According to the newspaper critics it would appear that "The Bohemian Girl," as it is being offered by Herman Girl," as it contains the Aborn Opera company, elements some one or more of which must appeal to every theater-goer. Among the features mentioned are Balfe's well-known melodious ballads, sung by notable singers, an unusually rich scenic outfit, a scene in which a score of horses are employed that supplies all the thrills of a melodrama, a number of circus acts of exceptional merit and a ballet. It would appear that "The Bohemian Girl," as it will be presented at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday with a Saturday matinee, is decidedly different from the style in which it was done for so many years.

When Werba and Luescher's much-praised production of the new Viennese operetta, "The Rose Maid," comes to this city, it is to be seen and heard at its very best, for this enterprising young firm of theatrical men will send the singers who were heard in New York during the long run of the piece on Broadway, even including Alice Lloyd, most famous of all English singing comediennes to come to America.

The organization, with its more than eighty people, will also include Arthur Clough, who has been called the foremost American tenor; Juliette Lange, Jeannette Bageard, Ida Van Tine, Harry Lester Mason, Edwin Clark, Leo Stark, H. Tyler Brooke, Harley Knoles, Ann Raymond and many others, besides the group of "Kute Kiddies" who created so great a furore in New York. The chorus is a very large one, and was called "The Rosebud Garden of Girls" by Eastern critics.

There will be a slight change in the Orpheum bill beginning tomorrow afternoon.

Frederick Bond, Fremont Benton and company have two comedy playlets, which they use on their tour, playing one the first half of the week, and the other the last half. During the first half of the week, they offered "Gay Papa," and beginning tomorrow afternoon they will be seen in "Handkerchief No. 15." Otherwise the bill will remain unchanged.

The work of installing the Edison talking pictures is progressing rapidly, and yesterday the phonographs were tested for the first time, following the matinee performance. They worked perfectly, but the picture machine was not quite ready and the pictures could not be given their first trial in Duluth. The work of installing the apparatus will probably be finished today or tomorrow, and the pictures will be run through several times before the opening performance Sunday afternoon, in order to get the syncronization of the pictures and the phonographs perfected before they are offered to the Duluth people. Manager Billings announced yesterday that the Sunday matinee would be the first opportunity of seeing and hearing the new pictures in Duluth. "The Talkies" are already very popular in a few of the big Eastern cities, and the advance sale of seats for next week indicates a record breaking business.

With the performance tonight at the Empress a very pleasing and refined bill of vaudeville will close its engagement. Those entertaining are Miss Lynne Canter, a beautiful young singing comedienne, who has a very sweet and pleasing voice. She has been making a hit with Empress patrons with her funny antics in her song on different kinds of music. Milo Belden and his company are very entertaining in their comedy sketch entitled "Oh Doctor." This act shows the room of two stranded actors who are wondering where their next meal is coming from, and also shows to what extent some people will go when hungry. Two clever singers and dancers are Hamlin and Coy. One of the boys appears in black face and the other plays straight. Their antics keep the audiences in good humor. An act full of novelty and skillful training is the Great Harrah and his company of roller skaters. This act introduces comedy, skillful and clever skating. To open and close this program two splendid reels of the very best in moving pictures have been secured.

HIS 'BREAD COMES BACK.'

North Dakotan's Kind Act Brings Him Australian Fortune.

Churchs Ferry, N. D., April 9.—The generosity and charity of Ole Christensen, an old time resident of Churchs Ferry, aged 76, was rewarded when he received a legacy of $85,000. When Christensen came over from Sweden as a young man he was with a family who found themselves destitute when they arrived in New York. Mr. Christensen divided with them the little he had and they went their way while he went his. He located in Wisconsin and then came over to North Dakota over thirty years ago. The man whom he had helped went to Australia, where he prospered and accumulated a large fortune. His death occurred recently but before he died he remembered the generous young man who had aided him in his destitute days and left him a large legacy. Mr. Christensen has prospered fairly well himself and some years ago retired from his farm near Penn and moved into Churchs Ferry. He was much surprised when the sheriff brought him the news of his wealth and he has not yet decided what use he will make of it.

Montana Sheriff Killed By Negro Reared Near Litchfield.

Litchfield, Minn., April 9.—The wanton slaying of Sheriff Tom Courtney by a negro laborer whom he was attempting to arrest at a camp near Mondak, Mont., Friday, is of unusual interest to old time residents of this city.

Sheriff Courtney was born and raised here, removing to Montana ten or twelve years ago where he bought a farm. Two of his sisters have since married and still reside in Meeker county. The news of his tragic death was revealed to them by rural telephone Sunday morning.

PASS CARPENTER BILL.

Wisconsin Legislative Commission to Select State Fair Site.

Madison, Wis., April 9.—Final passage was given in the assembly Tuesday to the Carpenter bill, for the creation of a legislative commission, consisting of nine members, to investigate the subject of a state fair location. The committee is to make its report to the legislature.

The assembly refused to reconsider the vote by which the Gorecki bill, forbidding the sale of liquor in parochial schools, was passed.

There was a fight over the McComb bill, forbidding judges from sitting in cases where relatives are interested, but it was finally ordered engrossed.

Among the assembly measures given final passage in the assembly was the bill permitting the city of Milwaukee to establish a municipal ice plant; also one providing that all railroad stations in the state must be open at least twenty minutes before train time.

KAHN IS SOME HERO.

Town Turns Out to Bid Hibbing Man Goodbye.

Devils Lake, N. D., April 9.—The fact that two jail deliveries occurred at Minnewaukan, N. D., while Sibel Kahn, charged with the murder of Hassan Abdula, was behind the bars and he did not accept the opportunity to escape with the other prisoners, who are still free, won for him the confidence of the entire population of that place, and all the people turned out to say good-bye to him at the depot when he left for Hibbing, Minn., to engage in business.

To the women and children Kahn gave each a box of candy, and cigars to the men. Kahn was accompanied by Tom Shas, the principal witness, and Kahn Allrey, his cousin. He stopped in Devils Lake for a visit with Attorney John E. Cowan, who defended him, before continuing on his way to Hibbing.

ORAL AGREEMENT TO MARRY HELD BINDING.

Madison, Wis., April 9.—An oral agreement to marry, not enforced by a legal ceremony, is binding if the parties to the contract have lived together and held themselves out to the public as husband and wife, according to a decision of the Wisconsin supreme court.

The case in point was that of Elizabeth Becker, Milwaukee, who sued Charles Becker for divorce. Becker insisted they were never married. The trial court awarded the woman suit money and alimony, against which judgment Becker took an appeal. The lower court granted the woman her divorce.

Butte, Mont., April 9. — Socialists made nearly a clean sweep in the city election yesterday, re-electing Mayor Louis J. Duncan and other city officials, besides electing six out of nine aldermen. The total vote for mayor was 7,861, the total registration being 10,486. Duncan's plurality was 60.

One of the surprises of the election was the defeat of the Democratic candidate for treasurer by the Republicans, despite a fusion agreement.

Whatever it needs, somewhere in this big collection the particular hat is to be found, and its character is not the only thing—its style must be considered. The Glass Block hats at popular prices are copies of the best French models.

Besides the woman of mature years who cannot wear the latest combination, the woman not yet old nor still quite young, whom fashion is apt to pass by, will find in the Glass Block millinery hats as stylish as those designed for girls, yet modified and softened to suit her face—

FAY FIRST TO CONTEST

Appeal Taken From Decision Giving W. I. Prince Office of Mayor.

Silberstein, McEwen and Farrell Are Having Contest Papers Prepared.

The first contest as a result of the recent election appeared in district court today when John B. Arnold, acting for Marcus L. Fay, filed an appeal from the decision of the canvassing board declaring W. I. Prince elected mayor of Duluth.

Mr. Fay sets out purely formal grounds for the contest. He alleges that more votes were cast for him than for Mr. Prince, that on the face of the returns he received a greater vote than Mr. Prince, that more legal votes were cast than were counted, that many votes were cast and counted that were not legal votes, that many persons not qualified voted at the election, that over 500 votes were cast out that should have been counted and that the counting and canvassing of the votes in many precincts was illegal.

No application is made for a recount in connection with the appeal, but presumably the application will be filed later. Mr. Fay was sixty-five votes behind Mr. Prince on the canvass.

Other contests are being prepared for filing and by the end of the week it is expected that all will appear in court. Bernard Silberstein has retained J. B. Richards to prepare his contest and Walter F. Dacey will appear for W. E. McEwen. W. I. Prince, the candidate for mayor declared elected, will be the contestee in the three actions, and O. J. Larson, who was his manager during the campaign, will appear for him.

Bert Farrell, the defeated candidate for short term commissioner, is also having his contest prepared. It is understood that C. O. Baldwin will act for him.

It is expected that after all contests are filed, an agreement will be made whereby one recount will be made for all contests. If the preliminaries can be disposed of in time, the recount will begin next week.

of influenza which like all relapses is causing a certain amount of anxiety owing to the exalted position of the patient and his great age."

The reports as to the pope being acutely affected with nephritis or inflammation of the kidneys, said the professor, absolutely are unfounded.

Needs Rest.

"What the pontiff needs above all is rest," continued the physician, "and the twenty-four hours he has spent in bed completely isolated from affairs has already produced a salutary effect. All the symptoms of a dangerous character which have been mentioned in unauthorized reports are either imaginary or grossly exaggerated. The present condition of the pontiff excludes any danger unless complications should intervene."

The official Vatican newspaper, the Observatore Romano, says in its evening edition today:

"We are glad to be able to give the assurance that after his relapse on Monday evening the condition of the pope is constantly and notably ameliorating."

To Meet Committee.

President Wilson announced early today that he would meet the Democratic members of the finance committee in the president's room at the capitol at 3 o'clock this afternoon to talk about the tariff.

Although unofficially it had been announced before President Wilson took office that he expected to go to the president's room at the capitol with frequent intervals to be in close touch with congress, the news that he would make the first visit today, following so closely upon the notable scene of yesterday when the president read his message personally to a joint assembly in the hall of the house, set official circles by the ears.

Sends Word By Tumulty.

The president sent word early today by Secretary Tumulty to the members of the committee that he would like to meet at 3 o'clock. The pivot of tariff reform, it is generally recognized, will be the senate where the Democratic margin is small and where opposition to certain schedules already is apparent. When Mr. Wilson last discussed with the senate Democrats of the finance committee the method of tariff reform they argued as a unit for splitting the bill into separate schedules, assuring him that wider attention would be focused on each schedule and that agreements among senators might be eliminated.

Mr. Wilson is anxious that unanimity of opinion should prevail between the two houses and has declared that the arguments advanced by both sides were good.

First Favored Single Measure.

The president's first tendency was to favor a single measure, but since the main features of the bill became known there have been evidences of opposition from senators who oppose free wool and the removal of all duty on sugar in three years.

The president is said to feel that more progress can be made by a visit to the capitol where he can confer with the Democratic members of the senate finance committee and the latter quickly can get in touch with senators reluctant to favor the bill at present. Mr. Wilson firmly believes in intimate debate in matters of legislation, not only as a time saver but as a means of averting misunderstandings that might come by having the administration's views transmitted indirectly.

President's Ideas.

The president's conception of that method of obtaining legislation is that as the leader of the party that elected him he can be a counsellor and advisor. While he never has suggested that the executive in either the state or the nation should actually interfere in the processes of legislation, he always has maintained that the voice of the party leaders should be heard in party councils.

Intimations have come from the White House that the president if defeated in the present session on the issue of tariff reform will go before the people of those states whose representatives in both houses of congress have thwarted the party program and appeal in the primaries for the selection of what he believes to be progressive candidates.

PAVING BIDS TABULATED

Aggregate Cost Nearly $200,000; Commission Will Award Contracts.

The engineering department has completed its tabulations of the bids submitted last week on the street improvement jobs which will be awarded by the new commission.

The bids were received on eight different jobs, ranging in estimated costs from $4,000 to $50,000. The aggregate cost will be $180,000 to $200,000.

The awarding of the contracts will be one of the first important matters which will be taken up by the commission next week. It is likely that, in accordance with past custom, a day will be announced on which property owners can appear before the commission to express their preferences as to the various kinds of material. The contracts will be awarded for the pavements favored by the majority of those owning the property on the thoroughfares to be improved.

Much work was involved in calculating and tabulating the bids. Several bidders submitted figures on each specification. Many of the bids were close and the figures were checked and rechecked to prevent mistakes. Warren Bros. were the only bidders on bitulithic and P. McDonnell was the low bidder in the majority of the other bids.

Low Bidders.

The low bidders on the various improvements, with the amount of the bid, were as follows:

RAILROADS IMPORTANT

cannot grow as it should on 1,000 miles per annum of newly built railroads. Our public men as a rule have not realized as yet what confronts us in the way of agricultural development. The production of farm food supply and its movement to the market and its relations to the consumer require the scientific and intelligent consideration as do raw material to the manufacturer and its relations to the consumer in readjusting our present tariff schedules."

Believes in Readjustment.

Mr. Yoakum said he believed in the readjustment of the tariff but declared that if congress should wipe out the entire tariff on every article that is brought into this country from every place in the world on last year's collections it would only amount to $326,-000,000 while the waste which falls upon the farmers of the nation means an annual loss of over five times the entire amount collected by our revenue collectors.

The speaker gave figures which showed that $25,000,000 worth of fruit and vegetables rot in the fields every year; $250,000,000 loss from corn stalks, rice, flax and other grain straw burned in the field and $1,500,000,000

(Read first chapter in Herald of April 8.) Duluth, Minn., April 9, 1913.

TO PROPERTY OWNERS AND TAXPAYERS:

REAL ISSUE DEFINED

The real issue in the present paving situation in Duluth as in other Minnesota cities, does not appear to the casual observer. The real issue is a bitter, acrimonious, unscrupulous fight which is being made by the interests concerned in maintaining a closed territory for creosoted wood block monopoly. Prior to the advent of bitulithic as a competitor, prices for creosoted wood block pavements in Duluth, Virginia, Superior and other cities in Minnesota, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Montana, ranged from 40 to 75 cents per sq. yd. higher than those bid during the past three years, and this reduction in price has been forced by the competition of a first class bitulithic pavement. The cry of "patented monopoly," "unjust royalty," "excessive profit," "large promotion fund" is raised to create a bugaboo in the minds of the people. Investigation of the growth of bitulithic all over the United States will prove that it has broken up closed territories and artificial monopolies, opened up "closed" specifications, and forced the making of prices on artificially monopolized materials consistent with real competition. Of course artificial monopolies dislike to have their claimed "territories" invaded by an honest competitor, with a material of merit and a reputation for square dealing.

For evidence regarding the methods pursued by the creosoted wood block interests in securing contracts in Minneapolis we refer you to the articles printed in the Minneapolis Journal of Nov. 21, 1911, and following dates. The Minneapolis Journal prints photographs of actual contracts showing indisputable evidence of collusion in bids and combinations to maintain high prices between various manufacturers of creosoted wood block. The Minneapolis Journal of Nov. 21, 1911, contains the following statements:

"THE JOURNAL IS IN POSSESSION OF DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE WHICH ABSOLUTELY ESTABLISHES THE EXISTENCE OF A CREOSOTE BLOCK PAVING TRUST. The documents include copies of contracts showing how business in large and small cities is divided, letters proving that the creosote block companies' show of competition is merely a blind and that prices are arranged before bids are submitted, telegrams and other documents showing how certain territory has been assigned to certain companies."

The Minneapolis Journal of the same date prints the statement that the territories of the four main companies are specifically defined and agreed to, and as authority prints a photograph of the following letter written on the letterhead of the Kettle River Company and signed by its president:

"Mr. A. C. Morrison, Kansas City, Mo.,

"Dear Sir:—Under the by-laws of the American Association of Wood Paving Manufacturers we are entitled to 10 cents per square yard on all shipments of creosoted paving made in our territory by the Ayer & Lord Tie Company, United States Wood Preserving Company and Gulfport Creosoting Company. Our territory is as follows: MINNESOTA, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois outside of Cook County, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Missouri. All salesmen are requested to advise the Minneapolis office as to any orders placed by the above companies within the territory mentioned in order that we may make proper entries in our books.

"No charges will be made against these companies until proper advice has been received from them confirming our charges. Yours very truly, W. S. Harris, President."

KETTLE RIVER COMPANY BUYS LOW BID AND PAYS BONUS

As evidence that excessive prices on creosoted block pavements are attempted under the artificial monopoly created through control of the manufacture, the following statement as to the contract for creosoted wood blocks in Minneapolis in 1912 is of interest, and shows that the KETTLE RIVER COMPANY WAS WILLING TO FURNISH AND DID FURNISH BLOCKS TO THE CITY OF MINNEAPOLIS AT 15 CENTS PER SQUARE YARD LESS THAN IT BID DIRECT TO THE CITY FOR THE SAME MATERIAL UNDER ALLEGED COMPETITIVE BIDS:

Total	$246,500.00

AT PRICES BID BY KETTLE RIVER CO. MINNEAPOLIS WOULD HAVE PAID FOR:

Difference saved to city	$ 16,500.00

Kettle River Company took over Van Hafften's contract with city under contract between A. W. Van Hafften and the Kettle River Company, signed by T. S. Harris, Vice President, dated February 1st, 1912, agreed to furnish the blocks in accordance with Van Hafften's contract with the City at prices bid by him and further paid Van Hafften FIVE CENTS per sq. yd.

175,000 sq. yds. at 5c	$ 8,750.00
Total difference between prices bid by the Kettle River Company to the City of Minneapolis and net price at which they eventually furnished the blocks, paying freight from Madison, Ill, to Minneapolis, or 9.6 per cent (13c per sq. yd. on 4-inch and 15c per sq. yd. on 3½-inch) less than their bid	$ 25,250.00
Of which the City of Minneapolis saved	$ 16,500.00
And Van Hafften "saved"	$ 8,750.00

The contract absolutely prevents future competition by Van Hafften by Article 4, which provides that the "party of the second part hereby promises and agrees during a period of three years to purchase from party of the first part all creosoted materials of every kind and nature that he or any person, natural or artificial, in which he is directly or indirectly interested in any manner whatsoever shall be in the maket for; and furthermore, that during the aforesaid period neither the second party nor any person, natural or artificial, with whom he is in any way connected, will use or dispose of any creosoted materials except those which are furnished by the party of the first part" which gives the Kettle River Company absolute control of prices.

MISLEADING STATEMENTS TO OBSCURE ACTUAL CONDITIONS

Do not be deceived into an improper understanding of the real situation through the misleading statements made to you by representatives of other materials with the object of obscuring the actual facts. Bitulithic has forced low prices on wood blocks and on sheet asphalt through honest competition, consequently those whose illegitimate profits have been properly reduced by that competition are trying to drive bitulithic out of "their territory." Do you want to assist in this effort to extort large profits from your pocket books? Isn't it better to put bitulithic in the competition in every instance? The taking of bids does not create any obligation to purchase the pavement, and the demonstration of the wearing quality of bitulithic as compared with other materials which you have right at home in Duluth proves that it is entitled to your favorable consideration.

BITULITHIC A HOME INDUSTRY

The adoption of Bitulithic Pavement creates a home industry. Ninety per cent of all the material used in the construction of bitulithic pavement is produced in Duluth by Duluth labor. The money expended stays in Duluth and does not reduce the local currency circulation. Creosoted wood blocks for use in Duluth would be furnished from the plant of the Kettle River Company located at Sandstone, and the money expended for lumber goes outside Duluth; the money expended for labor in the manufacture goes to laborers located in a foreign city. DO YOU FAVOR BUILDING UP A HOME INDUSTRY OR SENDING YOUR EARNINGS OUT OF THE CITY FOR THE BENEFIT OF OTHERS?

ROYALTY NOT A GIFT

Bear in mind that the small proportion of the entire amount expended for bitulithic pavement which goes to Warren Brothers Company is not a gift for which no return is made to you. In return for what Warren Brothers Company receives you get the insurance of proper construction and lasting pavements which comes from our inspection and supervision not only of the construction of the pavement, but also of all the materials which go into that construction. That such inspection is absolutely necessary to secure good pavements is demonstrated by the success and long life of the bitulithic pavement on First Avenue West and Nineteenth Avenue East, and further demonstrated by the great loss and dissatisfaction from the absolute failure of imitation "tar macadam" and "Donnellite" bituminous concrete pavements on East Superior and other streets in Duluth. DO YOU WANT MORE OF THESE "AS GOOD AS" SUBSTITUTES? ISN'T THE SWEETNESS OF LOW PRICES MORE THAN OFFSET BY THE BITTERNESS OF POOR QUALITY?

Isn't it true that THE BEST IS CHEAPEST?

additional which the farmers could receive if by co-operation they knew when and where to sell their products to the best advantage, bringing the total loss up to $1,785,000,000.

Presides At Round Table.

President Judson presided at the round table discussion and luncheon at the noon hour while the subject, "Why Is the Farmer Not Effectively Organized?" was discussed.

"What May Be Expected From the Federal Government," was the subject taken up during the afternoon by W. J. Spellman, special representative of David F. Houston, Washington, D. C., secretary United States department of agriculture. Mr. Spillman said in part:

"It is becoming more and more apparent that increased production will not of itself meet the needs either of the farmer or of the city consumer. It is now generally recognized that the problems relating to marketing are quite as important as those relating to production if, indeed, they are not more so. The present movement for cheapening distribution is therefore timely. I am of the opinion that it will have vastly more effect on the cost of living than other movements relating to agriculture."

seventy-four house members enrolled as authors, was introduced at the request of the governor, and Mr. Sawyer tried to have it placed on the special order with the committee's bill. The organization resisted the motion, Speaker Rines holding that a two-thirds vote was necessary. Failing to get the necessary number, Mr. Sawyer had the bill recalled from the committee, to which Speaker Rines had promptly referred it, and put at the foot of general orders. Tomorrow when the organization bill comes up those who believe that the investigating body should be independent of the state government and legislature will probably offer amendments to the committee bill, and the fight will occur on these amendments.

Congressional Reapportionment.

The senate this morning passed the V. L. Johnson congressional reapportionment bill, with only five votes cast by Senators Haycraft, Murray, Putnam, Schaller and Swanson, against it. Though a number of amendments were offered, the only one adopted was that offered by Senator Coller, taking Steele and Wasoca counties out of the First district and putting them in the Third district, and taking Wright county from the Third and putting it in the Seventh.

Senator's Desk Rifled.

Shortly after a discovery this morning that somebody in the night had unscrewed a panel from the front door of the senate chamber and entered the hall, Senator S. D. Works, chairman of the senate special grain investigation committee, found that his desk had been opened and its contents examined by somebody. Nothing was missing but the contents of the desk were in great disorder. Senator Works believes that the object of the burglary was to gain possession of the minutes of his committee's investigation and this morning he had them put in the state treasurer's vault. They had been in possession of the sergeant-at-arms and were not in the desk.

Turned Over the Records.

L. J. Lauerman, stenographer for the house grain investigating committee, this morning was brought to the capitol by the sergeant-at-arms, under arrest on a speaker's warrant issued to prevent his taking the records out of the state. The matter of his pay, which was in dispute, was settled, and he turned the records over to Speaker Rines. He accepted the offer of the committee as to his pay.

House Bills Killed by Senate.

While the house committee on public accounts and expenditures was fighting for its efficiency commission bill in the house, two of its measures were being killed in the senate. The bill abolishing the state oil inspection department and that abolishing the state printing commission were killed by the adoption of committee reports. The senate had up as a special order this afternoon the O'Neil Woodman's secession bill.

The seven-senators bill made its appearance in the house this morning, being reported in by C. H. Warner, chairman of the reapportionment committee, with the recommendation that it be placed at the head of general orders. Opposition arising, the matter was compromised by putting the bill at the foot of general orders.

The house passed J. D. Sullivan's senate bill permitting voters to vote away from home, and the Fosseen bill authorizing first-class cities to appoint women policemen.

For St. Louis County Fair.

On motion of Representative Healy, the house passed under suspension of the rules a new bill introduced by the St. Louis county delegation, except Representative Borgen, authorizing the St. Louis county board to appropriate $2,000 a year for the county fair.

The Wilson bill proposing a constitutional amendment for the recall of judicial decisions was killed by the adoption by the house of an adverse committee report.

The house judiciary committee recommended for passage a bill to protect house builders against loss through liens for materials for which contractors have not paid.

Have Color in Your Cheeks —Be Better Looking— Try Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

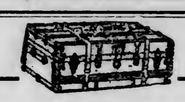

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

TO BEGIN FISHING.

Marquette Concern Getting Ready to Resume Operations.

Marquette, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The commercial fishermen operating in Lake Superior here are planning to set the first nets for the year about April 15. Operations have been suspended since November. Marquette is the home port of the only two steam tugs engaged in the business on the south shore of Lake Superior. Gasoline boats are operated from various ports, but the aggregate of the season's catch on Lake Superior is much below that of years gone by. Very few whitefish are taken, whereas this fish formerly was plentiful. The catch is made up chiefly of lake trout and allied fishes. The Anderson company, operating the tug Columbia, will employ twelve to fourteen men this year, as will the John Parker Fish company, owner of the tug Theora.

INGENIOUS TOMMY.

Judge: Tommy had teased, begged and implored his father to buy him a watch. The impatient father's answer was, "No; once and for all, no! If I hear you mention that word watch again, I shall punish you severely!"

That evening the family assembled at the dinner table, and, as was their custom before eating, each repeated a verse from the Bible.

When Tommy's turn came, he said, "What I say unto one of you, I say unto all of you—watch!"

The watch was forthcoming.

TURNING IN VAIN.

Franklin P. Adams in the Metropolitan: The Turning Worms is an unorganized group of New York men who refuse to endure the petty grafting that the city is full of. They never tip a hat-check boy, they will not pay 2 cents for a 1-cent newspaper, and they will not pay 10 cents for a telephone call that costs the hotel 3 cents. And before long they are going to appeal to the public service commission.

We forecast that the situation will be unrelieved. The hotel keepers say that they have a perfect right, if they like, to charge $1 for a 25-cent telegram, or $4 for a $1.50 novel. And we suppose they have. Also, a study of the way visitors to New York spend money in the hotels leads us to wonder why they don't.

This brings out its flavor in a new way, and makes the most delicious tomato bisque you ever tasted. It is very easy to prepare. The simple directions on the label show you just how. And there are a dozen dainty ways to serve it.

Write for our little booklet which describes some of them.

By PEGGY PEABODY

Some Women Overdo Activities Outside of Home Duties.

That was a genuine woman, wife and mother who resigned from the New York City Mothers' club because her children required so much attention that she didn't have time to attend to club meetings. I smiled as I read and drew mental pictures of the many women, yes, many who are members of clubs with fine sounding names, who, with duties close at hand, never lack time for attendance at club meetings and larks. Of course the number of women who really neglect their homes for clubs are not a tithe of what has been represented; but women are human, even if of remarkable powers of endurance, and so some of us wonder how they keep the best foot forward all the time and meet their obligations in the club, domestic and social world.

For instance, it is not unusual to read that a woman is president of such a club, corresponding secretary of this club, treasurer of that, on the entertainment committee of another and a member in good standing of a list that loses itself somewhere half way down the page.

I find myself yawning as I wonder how she accomplishes so much and how she has the heart to tackle it. For in the nature of things she can't always endure as much as she does at present, and wouldn't she really obtain more real benefit and happiness if she had fewer interests outside of what are the legitimate ones of the home and if she were more moderate in her indulgence in club life and affairs?

Now one club is quite enough for me, and I do not believe that any one considers me in the light of an ardent member. I give it the time I have without encroaching on other duties. Did I feel obliged to attend its every meeting it would be a burden and a hateful thing to me. Membership in a dozen clubs, all striving after something, would drive me to distraction. Fortunately, I haven't the time. I am like the mother whose children need such close attention that she doesn't have leisure to attend the Mothers' club meetings.

I have duties that need my attention and they absorb most of my waking moments. On the other hand, I am able to point out a number of women who apparently have as much as I have to do who manage to take a leading part in a dozen activities. Does something suffer unknown to the onlooker, or are such women able to fulfill these duties, every one, I wonder?

THE SOCIAL UNREST.

Life: On account of the many reports of unsatisfactory conditions in business, we have obtained a few authoritative interviews upon the subject which explain the matter in a nutshell.

Hay Z. Chatter, the well known publicist, says: "I am convinced that there is too much unrest in this country at the present time. Just why this should come at this particular season I am unable to say. Manifestly, however, the only remedy for unrest is rest, and so great is my faith in the fundamental good sense of our populace I believe they will see this, is not at the present time, at least in the not distant future."

Lysander Ronceus, the financial expert and statistician, says: "The whole trouble comes from too much gold. The more gold we get the worse we are off. If we had three times as much gold as at present, we could not possibly live at all."

G. Loeb Trotter, who has just returned from the other side, says: "I think I may safely say that the influence of the Balkan matter has been underestimated. Any thing of this sort cannot fail to have its effect. You will find, and I may say this without the slightest fear of successful contradiction, that as soon as this little matter is settled up things will settle down. Inasmuch as I have not been in the United States for a year, I think I may say, without conceit, that I don't know what I'm talking about."

R. Standing Pattern-Patter, who has made a close study of the whole situation, says: "There is positively nothing to it. Everything is all right. I can prove by the Congressional Record, for instance, that there hasn't been a strike of consequence in this country for the last thirty years. Everything has been exaggerated. Wealth has been exaggerated. Poverty has been exaggerated. Talk has been exaggerated. Let it all alone. Forget it. Look at me. I don't do anything but just putter around my country place here. That's the way to handle it. There is nothing whatever the matter. Everyone has been misinformed."

INSPIRED PATRIOTISM.

Judge: The late Senator Hoar was once importuned to lend his influences in behalf of a chronic office seeker. It was not a difficult matter to gratify the applicant's ambition by securing for him a place as consul at a Guianian port, which was not considered a highly desirable office. The newly appointed official had served but a short time, however, when his wife, unable to stand the malignant climate, sickened and died. Disheartened and discouraged, he resigned his post and returned home. Some years later the senator was mildly surprised at being again approached by the ex-consul, who asked for reappointment to his old berth. "Perhaps I can do something for you," said Mr. Hoar, "but, considering your tragic experience there, your request seems a little strange."

"I know, explained the aspirant, a trifle ruefully; "but, you see, senator, I'm married again."

Four Children Removed to Pest House From One Building.

Disease has followed destitution into a tumbled down shack at 230 West Second street, where in two rooms fourteen children and the heads of two families have been struggling to make out an existence.

Smallpox this week visited the families which have a common household and today the health department removed four cases to the city pesthouse at the poor farm. The house is now under quarantine and strict surveillance from the health department:

Nine of the fourteen youngsters are the children of Mr. and Mrs. John Mattson. Mathilda Koski, whose husband, John Koski, was murdered, in a Virginia saloon on Christmas day, 1911, and her five children are the other six people who populate the household.

Both families have been receiving aid from the county during the winter months. The Humane society has interested itself in the case and with the Associated Charities is attempting to better conditions there.

Mrs. Koski some time agao started suit in district court against the widow of Axel Pekkala, wealthy saloonkeeper of Virginia, in whose place of business her husband, John Koski, farmer, and Pakkala himself, were murdered.

The suit is an aftermath of the fatal saloon brawl which started on the eve of Christmas day, 1911. Two men were shot down by Jack Drexler, who was later convicted and sent to prison on the double murder charge. One of the victims was Pakkala and the other Koski.

The action was brought on the theory that the Pakkala estate and the bonding company were liable to the extent of $2,000 because the proprietor of the saloon had violated the law and had sold liquor to her husband after the closing hour and that the Pakkala place was the scene of riot and disorder up to the time of the shooting on 4 o'clock Christmas morning.

At the city pest house, it was stated today that there were fourteen cases of smallpox there.

The officer found many bottles of beer and whisky and other indications that the rooms were being used for blind pigging.

Acquitted by Jury.

Anton P. Paulson, a sewing machine agent, was found not guilty and discharged after being tried in police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of indecent assault. The complaint was lodged by Mrs. Ida Olson, who claimed that Paulson made improper proposals to her and took hold of her. Paulson was tried before a jury which acquitted him after being out but a few minutes.

CRIPPLED BOY IS GIVEN AID

Anton Banko, a 7-year-old crippled boy living with poor parents at Ely, has been removed by the Humane society to the state hospital.

The boy's father brought him to Duluth yesterday. Humane Agent McKercher yesterday sent the youngster to St. Paul in the custody of Miss Brode of the Deaconess Home.

Today, he received word from St. Paul that the lad's trouble—that of a tubercular spine—could probably be entirely cured by two years' treatment.

The little fellow was injured in a fall three years ago and had developed tubercular trouble which had left him a cripple.

NEW DISSOLUTION PLAN DISAPPROVED.

Washington, April 9.—Attorney General McReynolds today disapproved the new plan for the dissolution of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger recently submitted to him by Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the Union Pacific board. The Union Pacific, nevertheless, will submit the plans to the United States court at St. Louis, Mr. Lovett has advised the attorney general.

SCANTY DIET FOR A WORKINGMAN.

Brooklyn Eagle: Dr. Hindhede, the famous Danish food scientist, who recently visited America and experimented for Horace Fletcher, of thoroughmastication fame, has just published some new results of his experiments. He now enjoys Danish state aid. He cites the case of Frederick Madsen, a gardener, a sound and strongly-built man, but one who has never done anything to develop his strength. This gardener has for about ten years lived very plainly on rye bread, potatoes, oat and barley porridge, etc., and has never touched meat or tobacco, coffee, tea, beer, or any spirits. He usually drinks water, rarely milk. On this diet he does his gardening work, including digging and other severe work, and, in spite of his extremely frugal living, unusually poor in albumen, he can get through quite as much as any meat-eating man. For forty days this man lived exclusively on potatoes, and, contrary to what is generally supposed, this food proved easily and almost fully digestible, only 3 per cent remaining undigested, against from 6 to 10 per cent of meat and milk. In fact, he was in every way suited by the potato fare and was quite prepared to go on living on it.

RECOGNITION OF CHINA DELAYED.

Washington, April 9.—The United States will defer recognition of China until the constitutional assembly, which met yesterday at Pekin attains a complete organization. This decision became known after President Wilson had discussed the question with his cabinet.

On account of the adjournment of the assembly until April 12, the formal step which the United States intended to take will be delayed. Only a few countries will act with the United States, most of the others who had been requested to join in the movement having decided to await the outcome of the constitutional processes and elections, which will be a matter of several months.

PATRON SAINTS

By Judge D. E. Roberts of Superior.

Saint David is the patron saint of Wales and his day is celebrated the world over, wherever there are enough Welsh to get together for a good time.

All the four nations which make the British people have their patron saints. The patron saint of England is St. George, of the Scotch St. Andrew, and as we well know St. Patrick is the saint of the Irish. The fame of the latter is perhaps now the greatest of them all, especially in this country, where so many of the Irish have emigrated and who celebrate with such enthusiasm on March 17.

The first of March is Saint David's day. Just why it is, no one knows unless it be possible that when he was canonized that day was decreed to be perpetually kept in his memory. This is the 793rd celebration of his canonization, and he died, it is supposed, 519 years before that time. In other words he died in 601, and was born, it is supposed, about the year 500 somewhere in South Wales. He never visited North Wales. He was educated by the monks and later went abroad on a preaching tour. He was a great preacher and acquired a great reputation. Later he was made an abbott, equivalent to bishop, and he was so called.

Christianity was introduced into Great Britain by officers in the Roman army, and Roman soldiers, who were stationed there till about A. D. 400 when they permanently withdrew from the country. The Roman empire was then beginning to totter and the islands were left to their fate. The ancient Britons were never Romanized thoroughly as the Gauls were, but the Romans broke down their capacity for self government and left them thus open to invasion from heathen hordes from Germany and Southern Scandinavia who began to come in great numbers within fifty years after the Roman armies left.

St. David's mission was among the ancient Britons, his effort was to propagate the gospel and strengthen Christianity among them. He was celebrated for his eloquence and his success as a preacher was very great. He founded a monastery at St. David's in Pembrokeshire, the southwesterly point of Wales, and when he became bishop that was his seat. Afterwards he became the primate of Wales, and then removed his seat to the headland of Mynyw, projecting into the sea, now called in English Menivia. This point has since been known as "Ty Dewi," or St. David's. As his fame increased it became a great shrine to which many thousands annually made pilgrimages.

By the time of the Norman conquest his sanctity was fully recognized and he was formally canonized by the pope in 1129. His life was written by the bishop of St. David's in 1099; and it was reprinted in London in 1853. He seems to have presided at the synod of Llandewi-brefi held in Cardiganshire in his lifetime. When St. Augustin came to Britain to convert the heathen Saxons about 600, St. David refused to co-operate with him on account of some differences in church doctrine and practices, and St. David would have nothing to do with those heathen. He founded many churches; and there are at least fifty-three in South Wales at this time called by his name.

That is about all that is historically known about St. David. He lived about 1,300 years ago and in that long time myth and fable have obscured his deeds done upon the earth. But there is no doubt that he was a strong personality who did much good in the world. His case illustrates the saying that the good we do live after us and our evil deeds perish. He is the personification of the religious ideals of the Welsh people. The moral traditions of any people have value, they are worth perpetuating here in America and we now will renew our adhesion to the old ideals and traditions, that have proved their worth to those who know them.

paratus. Before deciding finally upon the site, building plans, buildings and equipment, the board is to call for and consider the suggestions and recommendations of the district judges, probation officers and all other persons who may seem qualified for the expression of an opinion concerning the subject.

The county commissioners are required, whenever they shall establish such school, to maintain it for the purpose of training and educating in all branches of domestic science the girls who shall become inmates thereof, and are authorized, empowered and required whenever they shall establish such school to provide the necessary funds to make all needful appropriations to carry out the provisions of this act; provided, that before the board shall have authority to expend more than $5,000 in any one year for the acquiring and equipment of any industrial home school for boys or girls, or more than $3,600 in any one year for the maintenance of such home school, the plans, equipment and total cost of establishing and maintaining such school shall first be approved by a majority of the judges of the district court of the judicial district in which such county is located.

Superintendent and Matron.

There are to be a superintendent and a matron for the industrial home school who shall be appointed and removed at will by the order of a majority of the judges of the said district court, who shall also fix the compensation of all employes.

Any young woman, regardless of her age, who is a resident of any county to which this act applies and who evinces a desire to be free from undesirable associations and to lead a better life, shall, upon her personal request and upon the recommendation of the superintendent, be admitted upon the order of the juvenile court to the industrial home school for girls and be subject to its rules and regulations and be entitled to its protection and privileges for a period not exceeding ten days. It is provided that such voluntary applicant may remain in the school for such further time as may be determined upon by the superintendent and matron upon payment of reasonable charges to be fixed by such officers with the approval of the board of county commissioners.

The superintendent and matron of the industrial home school for girls are vested with the powers and duties of probation officers of the juvenile court, and the court has authority to designate one or more other persons of good character to serve as probation officers during the pleasure of the court. Such probation officers are to act under the authority of the court in reference to any child or children committed to their care, and it is made the duty of all probation officers to make an investigation with regard to any child or children as may be required by the court before or after trial, and to furnish to the court such information and assistance as the court may require and to take charge of any child or children before or after trial whenever so directed by the court and to keep such records and to make such reports to the court as the court may order or direct.

Subject to Court's Authority.

Probation officers heretofore or hereafter appointed are made subject to the authority of the court in reference to all matters covered by the provisions of this act. All such probation officers other than the superintendent and matron of said industrial home school for girls are to serve without compensation from the county except when such compensation is fixed by a majority of the district court.

The juvenile court may commit any girl brought before it under the provisions of this act to the industrial home school for girls for a period of not more than one year, and any girl may be [illegible] therefrom at any time upon the [illegible] of said court: provided that if it shall appear to the satisfaction of said court that any such person is of a vicious character and will not be a proper inmate for said industrial school, then she may be committed to any state or other institution authorized by the law to receive her. It is provided further that if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that any girl who has been committed to the industrial home school is of a vicious or incorrigible character and not proper to be an inmate therein, then the court may recommit such person to any state or other institution authorized by law to receive her.

from a state supposed to be for tariff revision downward—and which is, of course, for tariff revision downward on the products of other states—the house adopted a motion by Representative Campbell of Minneapolis that when copies of the resolution are forwarded to congress, they be accompanied by the roll call on the resolution, in order that the Minnesota representatives might realize that the vote was close and that only a part of the house membership participated in it. This motion prevailed 55 to 46.

The resolution was favored by Representative Bendixen, who made a plea for the unfortunate farmer; by Representative H. H. Dunn, who drew fearful pictures of what will happen when the Underwood bill goes into effect; by Representative John G. Lennon, who remembered fearsomely the times of 1893; by Representative Teigen, who regaled the house with more of his famous oratory, greatly to the gratification of that body; and by others.

Opposed the Resolution.

Representative Gunnar B. Bjornson of Minneota said he represented a district wholly agricultural, but that he believed he voiced the best thought of his district in opposing the resolution.

"The Northwest always had been clamoring for tariff reduction," he said. "Now, when it seems to be at hand, shall we be measly enough to oppose it because it reaches our products? Are we to be put in the ridiculous and humiliating position of asking congress to please cut the tariff on everything, but to leave our own products alone?"

Representative Orr of St. Paul said that everybody was for tariff revision that hit the other fellow, and this resolution was an amusing example of that.

Representative N. J. Holmberg of Greenville, himself a farmer, said that this was no time to be throwing in such a resolution as this without giving the administration a chance, and without even studying the tariff bill.

Representative Lewis C. Spooner of Morris said that the resolution was ill-timed and should be voted down. He challenged those who professed to be agonized over the interests of the dear farmer to point out wherein the grain duties of the Underwood bill failed to provide an ample margin to protect the farmers against Canadian competition. Nobody responded.

Representative E. J. Westlake of Minneapolis proposed an amendment to the effect that the speaker be authorized to appoint a committee of three to go to Washington and instruct congress how to revise the tariff, but the friends of the bill were so greatly grieved by their suspicion that this amendment was not founded in sufficient gravity that he withdrew it.

On the roll call Representative A. L. Warner of Duluth did not vote, though he was in his seat. Representative Lennen of Minneapolis demanded that he be compelled to vote, but Mr. Warner paid no attention to him.

Later, however, when a vote was to be taken on the Campbell motion to append the roll call to the resolution when it goes to Washington, Representative Pfaender said that he hoped everybody would be compelled to vote, and that all ought to be men enough to have convictions and vote them.

This brought Mr. Warner to his feet with the statement that while he was not in sympathy with the resolution, it was a political question, and he didn't have to vote unless he wanted to.

How They Voted.

The vote on the resolution was as follows:

For the resolution—Anderson, J., Bendixen, Bjorge, Braatelien, Brown, W. W., Burchard, Carlson, Clementson, Coates, Crane, Crawford, Dunn, H. H., Dunn, R. C., Frankson, Frye, Hafften, Hanson, Hogenson, Hopkins, Johnson, A. C., Johnson, J. T., Lennon, Lindberg, McGarry, Moeller, Morken, Nelson, Norton, Ofstlun, Olien, O'Neill, Orr, Papke, Peterson, A. B., Peterson, A. J., Peterson, P. A., Reed, Saggau, Sawyer, Skartum, Stageberg, Tiegen, Virtue, Vollmer, Voxland, Walker, Wefald, Weld, Wescott, Westman, Williams, Speaker Rines—52.

Against—Bjornson, Borgen, Bonck, Campbell, Child, Conley, Davis, Dindorf, Dwyer, Ferrier, Finke, Fuchs, Greene, Harrison, Healy, Henry, Holmberg, Just, Klemer, Kneeland, Knopp, McMartin, Nimecks, Nolan, Palmer, Pfaender, Pless, Preston, Prince, Putnam, Ribenack, Schwartz, Seebach, Spooner, Steen, Stone, Stoven, Sullivan, Sundberg, Swenson, Thielen, Thornton, Thorson, Vasaly, Warner, C. H., Warner, E., Westlake, Wilson—47.

Absent or not voting—Anderson, W. Barten, Brown, G. W., Burrows, Carey, Elmer, Flowers, Hillman, Knapp, Larson, Lee, Lundeen, Lydiard, Marschalk, Minnette, Porter, Sanborn, Southwick, Warner, A. L.

To Prohibit Discrimination.

The senate spent a large part of yesterday afternoon debating the Saugstad bill to prohibit unfair discrimination in the sale of "any commodity in general use, such as grain, cereals, lumber, building material, fuel, etc.," and then failed to pass it, the vote standing 29 to 22. This was three votes short of passage, so the friends of the bill had it reconsidered and restored to the calendar for another day in court.

The bill practically applies to commodities the rule now in effect in this state as to oil products—that they shall not be sold at a higher or lesser price in different localities except as the difference may be accounted for by freight rates.

The purpose is to prevent the kind of competition by which a trust undersells its competitors in one part of the state to drive them out of business, making up for the losses by unduly high prices where competition does not exist.

The vote on the bill was as follows:

For—Anderson, Bedford, Cashman, Clague, Coller, C. F. Cook, Dale, Donaldson, Duea, Dunn, Duxbury, Proshaug, Gunderson, Hanson, Johnston, Klein, Lende, Moonan, Nelson, Odell, Peterson, Rockne, Rustad, Sageng, Saugstad, Stebbins, Sundberg, Swanson, Thge.—29.

Warrant for Stenographer.

There was a little excitement yesterday afternoon in the house over a dispute between the house grain investigation committee and its stenographer, L. J. Lauermann, as a result of which a warrant was issued for Lauermann.

Lauermann demanded as his pay $5 a day as a clerk, in which capacity he served the committee, as well as legal fees for transcribing the testimony, which would amount to about $16 a day for the time he served, the committee says. The committee was willing to allow him the fees, but objected to the per diem.

The occasion for the issuance of a warrant was Lauermann's threat that unless he got what he considered he was entitled to he would destroy the records of the committee, which are in his possession.

Th "blue sky" bills, which were a special order in the senate for yesterday afternoon, were put over until Thursday.

An amendment has been agreed upon by the friends of the bill which will have the effect of exempting real estate dealers from its provisions. There has been much criticism of the bill from real estate men in the Twin Cities because of this provision.

Representative Burchard yesterday introduced a bill in the house requiring railroads to furnish on request by shippers cars properly lined for carrying grain. If any railroad refuses, and sends a car not properly lined, the shipper is authorized to repair the car at his own expense and is given the right to collect the cost from the railroad by a suit.

Power to Regulate Rates.

The senate yesterday afternoon, 39 to 5, passed the W. I. Nolan house bill giving municipalities power to regulate the rates and service of public service corporations.

A plea was made for it in behalf of Minneapolis, which has no home rule charter, and which if the public utility bills should by any chance fail to pass would be left without much, if any, power over its public service corporations. The measure by its terms, however, applies to all communities.

The senate bill passed the house two years ago, but too late to be reached in the senate before adjournment.

The house yesterday afternoon passed the Bendixen-Schwartz bill divorcing the state boards of grain appeals from the railroad and warehouse commission and giving it independent jurisdiction with power to employ its own samplers, etc. The vote was 62 to 26.

The authors of the bill are members of the house committee which has been investigating the grain trade, but they were opposed on this bill by Representative D. F. O'Neill of Thief River Falls, also a member of the committee, who said that the bill gave the appeal boards unlimited power to spend money out of the grain inspection fund without any check whatever, and that so far as independent sampling was concerned the railroad and warehouse commission had offered to let the boards choose their own samplers. He also contended that the boards had not been hampered by the commission in their work.

The house passed a bill by Representatives Bendixen, Vasaly, P. A. Peterson, Braatelein, Nolan, Papke and Wilson authorizing, defining and regulating co-operative associations.

DULUTHIAN IN BUTTE CAMPAIGN

Frank F. Hayes Was a Candidate on Democratic Ticket.

Frank F. Hayes, formerly a lumber salesman, traveling out of Duluth, and now a resident of Butte, Mont., was beaten yesterday in an election held there, in which he submitted himself to the people as a candidate for mayor. He was on the Democratic ticket and ran third according to advices received here today. Some days ago Mr. Hayes sent John Macgregor of this city a copy of a paper called "True Democracy," which he was editing. He had tho result "doped out" in advance and guessed correctly as to the outcome. He told Mr. Macgregor in a notation on the edge of the paper:

"'Tain't no use Jack. I lose but I'm not telling anybody. The Amalgamated is trying to break up the Democratic party and I guess they have more money than I. They own all three papers so I did the editing stunt on this. Duncan, Socialist, will win; Barker, Citizens', second; Hayes, third; Clinton, Progressive, last—and may the Lord have mercy on his soul."

Mr. Hayes failed in his candidacy but he seems to be considerable of a success as an editor, for his paper is full of vigorous articles on the issues of the Butte campaign.

FEAR "ROCKY STORIES."

So Women Will Not Attend Spokane Jeffersonian Banquet.

Spokane, Wash., April 9.—Women of the Democratic League of Spokane will not attend the Jeffersonian banquet here April 15, at which Governor Lister is to be guest of honor, because, according to the women, they have been told by Dr. D. C. Newman, president of the Thomas Jefferson society, that while they are not barred and are invited, they are not expected to attend on account of the fact that wine and cigars will be served and "rocky stories" will be told.

Mrs. Mary G. Jackman, chairman of the league, wrote yesterday that the women would not force themselves where they were not wanted, especially at a banquet at which "rocky stories" are to be told. She wrote the women are sure that Governor Lister will not participate in the banquet in any way.

"MANY HAPPY RETURNS?"—THANK YOU!

The Herald hopes to see many happy returns of today, and trusts that its friends will join with it in that hope.

Those who watch the date line on the front page of the paper will see there today something new—the notation "VOLUME XXXI—NO. 1." For today The Herald starts its thirty-first year.

In the course of its growth from a four-page issue to its present size The Herald has seen Duluth grow from a straggling collection of houses on the bleak shore of Lake Superior to a modern city of nearly 100,000 population. It has seen industries come and thrive, and it has seen the commerce of the Head of the Lakes increase by leaps and bounds. It has seen the inland empire of the Northwest develop from a hardly traversible wilderness to a rich farming territory. And it has seen discovery after discovery of valuable ores in the mineral ranges of the region.

Is it any wonder that The Herald, having seen all this, dares to look into the future and predict yet greater things for Duluth? That is exactly what it does, and it is ready to employ all the power and influence that have come to it in these thirty years to further the interests of Duluth and the Great Northwest.

On this, the first day of its thirty-first year, The Herald dedicates itself to still further efforts for the community in which it circulates, and to the good of Duluth and the Great Northwest which it is earnestly striving to serve.

It is claimed that the new income tax will be a burden on the rich. Just so long as it isn't a burden on the poor it will be a welcome change.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

How long does it take to amend the United States Constitution?

There is only one true answer to that question, and that answer is: "It depends."

Supposing some popular measure that assailed no "vested rights of privilege" had been proposed in the Sixty-second congress last January, as a constitutional amendment, and had been passed without delay by a two-thirds vote in each house. It could have gone to the legislatures then in session and been ratified by them, and by now it would have become effective. It could all be done in two weeks, or even less time, granting the efficiency of mail transportation service and rapid action by the legislatures.

But here is an amendment that has been many years coming to a fact. Long before our present president was born it was proposed that United States senators be elected by direct vote of the people, the same as representatives, instead of by the various legislatures as was provided in the Constitution. The proposal raised a storm of protest, especially from the senators who realized that they could be elected by legislatures when they could not by the people themselves, and from the interests that were desirous of continuing to dictate senatorial memberships.

Of course there were other objectors, men who were naturally conservative in their views. Their attitude was voiced as late as 1893 by Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, when he said:

> I am not afraid to say to the American people that it is dangerous to trust any great power of government to their direct or inconsiderate control. I am not afraid to tell them * * * that a government which is exposed to the hasty action of a people is the worst and not the best government on earth.

Gradually, with the experiencing of such instances as the sending of Lorimer to the senate, even the conservative element became convinced that the direct election of senators was the safer and better course. Then came the entering wedge of senatorial primaries, and finally the demand for direct election of senators became so general and insistent that even the senate, which for decades was the stumbling block to the plan, had to give in.

All of which indicates the wisdom of Senator Cummins' proposal for the adoption of the principle of the initiative in the matter of constitutional amendments. He suggests that congress be compelled to submit a proposed amendment on its receiving favorable action by the legislatures of one-fourth of the states, ratification to require, as at present, favorable action by three-fourths of them. Add to this, perhaps, a time limit within which favorable action must be taken for ratification, and the plan would be a distinct gain to the country.

Direct election of senators was a long time coming, but it's here at last. And it ought to be tagged with a label reading, "Lorimer helped."

MAKE IT NON-LEGISLATIVE.

It is hard to understand the insistence among some of the legislators at St. Paul on having the proposed investigation as to economy and efficiency in the state government conducted by men already members of that government. It is reported that Governor Eberhart is in favor of an investigation by men outside the legislative and executive branches of the state's work. The governor should hold fast to that point and insist that the work be done by some outside body.

If the investigation is made by legislators it will never get away from the suspicion that always attaches to an investigation conducted by the men whose work is under inspection. The only way to insure confidence in the work is to have it done by outsiders.

That it needs to be done is undeniable. The enormous increase in expenditures in the last few years indicates lack of economy or lack of efficiency somewhere. If this indication is wrong, the people are entitled to know it and ought to find it out at once so as to set aside all doubt and criticism. And if changes are needed, they should be made as soon as possible, and the only way to make them is to have an investigation that will show what those changes should be.

An inquiry is imperative, and it is equally imperative that it be made by men not now connected with either the legislative or executive departments of state government.

Now that senators are to be chosen directly by the people, Illinois can limit her legislative sessions to about two weeks.

READY FOR THE WORK FARM.

St. Louis county and Duluth should lose no time in taking advantage of the powers granted by the passage of the bill providing for a county and city work farm. The legislature and governor have given the assent to the proposal, and the county and city now have it in their power to establish such an institution.

Approval of the people of Duluth already has been given to the plan by a formal vote. The advantages of the work farm method as opposed to the old county jail system are too obvious and too well known to need further urging. Summed up, they mean that the families of persons sent to that institution will receive material aid instead of being left destitute or as nearly so as their previous circumstances may compel, and that those who fall under the law will be given a chance at rehabilitation and restoration to physical health instead of being locked up in surroundings at once menacing to health and morals.

The work farm system has been tried and found good in many communities. Duluth and St. Louis county are ready to adopt it, and the work cannot be begun any too soon.

In Boston the pay-as-you-enter cars are labeled "pre-payment cars." Can you beat it?

SHOULD BE A BIG DAY.

Friday promises to be a big day in the history of Minnesota legislation. Indications are that the senate, by that time, will have acted upon a public utilities bill, and on that day both public utilities and workingmen's compensation measures will come before the house for final action. If the senate, on Thursday, takes favorable action on a public utilities bill—and there seems good reason to hope that such action will be taken—it may easily be that by Friday night the state will have laws both for the regulation of public utilities and for compensation of workingmen, ready for enforcement with the exception of the governor's signature.

Of the two bills, which together constitute the most important work now before the legislature, the workingmen's compensation bill is the more nearly ready for operation. It passed the senate without a dissenting vote, and this gives good ground for belief that it will pass the house without important change, if indeed any attempt is made to amend it in that body. The bill as passed by the senate has been shorn of the features that made it most objectionable, and is in fact an admirable measure, so far as can be judged before it has been tried out in actual operation.

The public utilities bill also is being whipped into good form. It has been amended and reamended, and in fact the provisions as they now are before the two houses of the legislature are scattered through three or four different measures. These will be brought together in one bill, and in view of the extended study that has been given to the plan, that bill should embrace all the advantageous features and be rid of those that are objectionable to home government cities and to places where municipal ownership is being practiced.

Indications are that next Friday will be a red letter day in the Minnesota legislature. The members can easily make it one by giving the state two advanced laws in the interests of the people.

Detroit, Mich., has voted to own its own street car lines. And it's a cinch that it doesn't mean that the people intend to hang onto municipal owned straps.

THE QUARANTINE LAW; A JOB FOR SOMEBODY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

As soon as the new city officials take hold of things, they can do the city a lot of good by enforcing the quarantine laws. There is work all ready for them, and that ought to be attended to. The way the laws are allowed to go by default is disgraceful, not to say dangerous. In one neighborhood in the First ward there is at present a family where there are one or two scarlet fever cases. The health department has struck a card on the house and declared it under quarantine, but that is as far as the thing has gone. Calling a sheep's tail a leg doesn't make it one, and saying a house is under quarantine doesn't put it there unless the rule is enforced.

In this particular case there are several children in the family, and those that are not sick are out in the street and around the neighborhood playing most of the time when they are not asleep or at their meals. And I have known of other cases of similar laxness in enforcing the law.

One thing the commission can do, and should do, is to see that this quarantine business is made effective. If they fail to do so, I will be one of the first to see that steps are taken to get somebody in there who will.

TAXPAYER.

Duluth, April 8.

What a Man Can Do

Collier's Weekly: The most hopeless man in the United States tomorrow can drop off the railroad train at any station in Kansas or Nebraska or Oklahoma without a cent and within an hour get work at $2 a day. Within five years he can own a piece of land and in twenty years have a comfortable home with sons and daughters in the state university. He need only have a reasonably strong body and character. To the hundreds of Socialists who will write in to say that this suggestion doesn't solve all the problems of the universe, we announce in advance that we don't care. We are more interested in telling one man who wants to know how to do it how he can do it than in speculating on what would happen if all the poor men in all the cities did it. We never thought much of the effectiveness of those old monks who used to spend their time debating how many angels could stand on the northwest side of the point of a pin.

That Automatic Train Stop.

Railway Age Gazette: The $10,000 reward for a successful automatic train stop offered by President Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford a short time ago brought replies from 1,574 inventors. Each applicant was sent a printed list of the conditions which the devices are required to meet. Over 500 replies were received to this circular, and of those who took this second step in the matter, over 95 per cent failed to comply with the very first condition, let alone the other seventeen. Out of the whole number, two devices have been selected for testing, and experimental installations will be made in the near future.

Four replies came from inmates of insane asylums; four from men serving time in states' prisons; one from a monastery, and one from a man who said he had received a revelation from heaven in which it was explained to him that anything he took up would be successful. The last named desired to get a trial of a friend's device, and assured the New Haven that if the said friend secured the $10,000 he only expected $1,000 as commission for the use of his revelation.

One inventor's scheme would, in his words "constitute no source of danger to the passengers, but would probably kill the engineer and firemen." "However," he continued, "since it is to be used on the New Haven, it won't make any difference." Another scheme provided a heavy spring equipped with a hook, which would rise in the center of the track as soon as the train passed. Any following train trying to enter the occupied block would be stopped by the hook firmly grasping the nearest axle and holding the train.

The letter setting forth the eighteen conditions to be complied with was answered by one man as follows: "I accept your offer of the $10,000. Please send a check."

"Oh, So Sudden."

Chicago Journal: He was not a rapid wooer, and she was getting somewhat anxious. A persistent ring came at the front door.

"Oh, bother!" she said. "Who can be calling?"

"Say you're out," he suggested.

"Oh, no, that would be untrue," she protested.

"Then say you are engaged," he urged.

"Oh, may I, Charlie?" she cried, as she fell into his arms.

And the man kept on ringing the front door bell.

Says Boston to Philadelphia.

Boston Transcript: "A Philadelphia scientist is on his way to the Hawaiian islands to spend three months studying the habits, evolution and variations of tree snails." We do not believe that a Philadelphian can complete the job in three months, but it must be admitted that he will obtain some valuable data on speed.

The Tariff and the Farmer

Editorial in the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The authors of the resolution introduced in the house of the Minnesota legislature protesting against the proposed reduction of the duty on farm materials seem to misunderstand the situation or else they are talking to the galleries. The resolution declares that for more than forty years the farmer has been paying his tariff for the upbuilding of manufacturing industries in the hope of obtaining higher prices for food products. The time has come, the resolution proclaims, when the farmers are realizing the goal for which they are striving and that the proposed sweeping reductions would nullify practically all the benefits they have obtained.

It is true that the farmer has been paying high prices on manufactures. And in return he has been granted high protective tariff on his products—a protective tariff that was largely buncombe because it did not protect but kept him lined up for protection for others. He has obtained the higher prices for which he was contending, but not as a result of the tariff. Prices are higher in the world markets, and those are the markets that control. Of course, retention of high protective duties would make it possible to force the American consumer to pay more than anyone else the moment we cease to have a surplus which must be sold abroad.

The American farmer does not want to hold up the consumer. He simply fears prices may be reduced by lowering or abolishing the protection that has been on farm products. That fear is without basis, as a general proposition. May wheat closed in Minneapolis yesterday at 87½ cents and in Winnipeg at 91⅛ cents. The grades are not the same, so the figures do not accurately reflect conditions. But last Thursday Manitoba No. 1 sold in Liverpool at $1.12¼, No. 2 at $1.08½, No. 3 at $1.06¾, while Duluth No. 1 sold at $1.08 and Duluth No. 2 hard winter wheat at $1.10. The present duty on wheat into this country is 25 cents and the proposed rate is 10 cents. Even the 10 cents is not needed, but it certainly is enough. The farmers of Canada or Argentina are not likely to pay 10 cents a bushel duty for the privilege of selling in this country when they can get no more here than elsewhere for their product.

May oats were sold in Minneapolis yesterday for 35⅜ cents at the high point and at 35¼ cents in Winnipeg. There is no danger from competition with Canadian oats at that price. There is a spread on flax and barley, but in neither case is it equal to the duty that would be imposed under the proposed tariff. The bill Mr. Underwood and his associates have proposed may have serious defects, but it is a mistake to imagine that it means disaster to the farmer, for it does not. The stereotyped procedure, of course, of those who may be hit would be to try to arouse the farmer's friends on the theory that he is to be penalized.

The farmer of the Northwest should do his own thinking before he permits himself to be used as a catspaw.

Patti Still Sings

Rome correspondence in Washington Herald.

Not only is Adelina Patti's splendid voice preserved to her at the age of 70; not only can the great diva sing now but she is determined to sing in public in May.

The countess of Cederstrome, to give Patti her title, will take part in the superb operatic celebrations with which Italy will honor the centenary of Verdi's birth. The great composer was born at Roncole, near Busseto, in the duchy of Parnia.

"Yes, I shall sing at the Verdi festivals," said Patti. "I owe so much to Verdi I could not refuse the committee's invitation to pay my poor homage to his memory. But that will be the last time I shall sing in public. At my age a singer is subject to the temptations of neither glory nor gold," she added laughingly, "and I have enough of both."

It is almost impossible, looking at and listening to Patti, to believe that she first thrilled an audience in New York in 1859, more than half a century ago. No wrinkles mar her face, her appearance and manner are almost youthful. Many a young woman might envy her figure.

The countess is established at the Grand hotel for the season. There a cosmopolitan company of her friends—Americans, Italians, English, people of half the nations of Europe—assembled to congratulate her on the attainment of her 70th year. For this songbird uttered her first note in Madrid Feb. 19, 1843.

Patti amazed them by saying, quite incidentally, that she can now not only sing but act any of the thirty or forty roles that added to her fame—Lucia, Violetta, Zerlina, any of the long list.

"If the voice with which she is endowed is a true gift from God," said the immortal soprano, "a woman may still sing at 70. But I sing only for my husband and in the privacy of my music room."

Mrs. Lorillard Ronalde and other Americans gently urged Patti for youthful reminiscences of their country, to which her parents took her when she was a child. The songstress gave a fascinating description of that evening when she, not yet 17, made her debut in Donizetti's "Lucia."

"My Impresario, Strakosch, was very generous," she said. "He paid me $100 a week. A year later he gave me $650 a month. Three years later I became a luxury Strakosch could not afford.

"My salary was $600 for each night I sang, a fabulous amount in those days. On my last tour of America, ten years ago, I received $5,250 for each concert."

Patti smiled and remarked vivaciously:

"That is why I say no real artist need fear that her voice will fail before she is 60."

Ode to Morning.

Let the gray creep softly—whitely!
Let the dawn spread quickly—brightly!
Mellow globules swell and break,
Orange in a silver lake.
Mellow, yellow, pale and fallow,
Swol'n to mountain, gulfed in hollow!
Grained with garnet, glossed with glory,
Warmly crimson, chilled and hoary.
Elfs of light within, without,
Thread the fleecy ways about;
Snowy floods around them rise
From the breasts of Paradise.
Seething, churning, wildly turning,
Greatly shading, madly burning!
Till a beam doth pause, doth quiver
Poised that breadth of lake and river—
And with dartle strength and warning,
Shoots the radiant gulf of morning!

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lindley M. Garrison, the secretary of war, is a robust but unwarlike looking man, with a ruddy, beaming, outdoor face, good-humored brown eyes and crinkly, steel-gray hair parted in the middle.

He is a champion story teller, a fair golf player, and can romp over a tennis court with a coltish ease that defies his 200 and more pounds. Life on the bench in New Jersey has not made Garrison serious-minded or above getting a whole lot of fun out of life. He has been in the habit of running over to New York to the theaters on slight provocation, and hates to go home from a theater there without first taking in at least one lobster palace, where he can hear lobster palace music and see the gay throng. The Broadway bright lights do not disturb Garrison at all. He likes 'em.

Up to the time Woodrow Wilson sent for Garrison and asked him to be in the cabinet, the two had never met except in a brief and formal way. Hence the appointment was not based on personal regard, the way Garrison wears his hear or plays golf, nor yet on a desire merely to be neighborly.

What, then, did cause the appointment? Why should one pick a judge to be secretary of war?

It was like this: Wilson inquired and found that the war department exceeds all other departments in the variety of things to deal with. There is the Panama canal, the army, the Philippines, rivers and harbors—oh, a lot of things. No man could learn all about these at first hand in four years. What is needed, as Wilson figured it out, is a man who can absorb facts from others, shuck them, sift them out, and come to proper conclusions with accuracy and dispatch. And so far as Wilson could learn, there was no man available who could do those things with such facility as Lindley M. Garrison. He sent for him, offered him the job, gave him twenty-four hours to think it over—and the deal was made.

Since he went to work here, Garrison has proved that Woodrow Wilson had him sized up just right. The mass of things to learn hasn't frightened him any more than if the war department were just a little pocket-size pigs-in-clover puzzle. He beams on all comers in his whole-souled way and goes ahead.

Garrison is unlike most men on a big job, in that interruptions do not bother him. He can turn from a big problem to listen to a caller and then get back to the task before him without any lost motion. The day he was sworn in, he stepped out into an adjoining room, took the oath of office from a notary, and was back at his desk almost before anybody had missed him.

As a youngster Garrison never gave much promise of making anything of himself, until he began the study of law. He always hated to go to school—hated it worse than anything he could think of. His father sent him to Harvard, and the place nearly bored the life out of him. At the end of his first year there, his father asked him how he was getting along with his studies.

"Oh, I'm not doing any good," replied young Garrison, frankly.

"What seems to be the trouble?" asked his father.

"Can't get interested," Garrison told him. "I'd just as soon be studying Chinese. Now if I could study law, I believe I could make some headway."

So his father agreed that he should throw off the academic yoke and go in for law. Garrison liked it, and took a great personal interest in torts, hereditaments, and all sorts of legal things right from the start. He became a good lawyer.

Possibly one reason why Garrison dovetails nicely into his new job, is because of a sub-conscious hankering to mix with soldiers. When he was a boy he yearned for a job that would give him a uniform with gold lace on it. He thought some of being a circus drum major, but most of all he wished to be a soldier. Now he is the boss of soldiers, without the bother of being one himself, but he still lacks the uniform.

Vice President Marshall has a habit of talking along just like anybody would, and then suddenly saying something so unexpected that it fairly swats one in the face. For instance, the other day he was talking about his early education and the books he had read. He mentioned Macauley's "History of England," Gibbon's "Holy Roman Empire," Groat's "Greece" and a few more like that, frowning all the time as if he were about to recommend them as the books best designed to uplift the young of today. Instead, he broke off suddenly with the remark:

"And if I ever wade through any of those books again, I wish you would let me know it. I wouldn't read one again for anything."

The old notion that a new senator must sit around like an empty plate, and not open his mouth during his first year in office, has, as everybody knows, been completely nudged aside. Senator Thomas of Colorado, for example, began to take part in senatorial debates almost from the day he struck town.

One afternoon, soon after his arrival, Thomas offered a resolution about something or other. Immediately another senator jumped up, saying:

"The senator must have overlooked that some one introduced the same resolution a day or two ago."

"Ah, yes," said the unruffled Thomas, "but I wish to offer this one to give the matter added emphasis."

The First Fly.

Kansas City Star: Why, there's a fly! Seems kind o' good, doesn't it, to hear him buzzing around contentedly in that sunny window? It seems that spring has come. You are glad to see him, just as you welcome the crocuses and bluebirds. But wait a minute. Where did that fly come from? Not up from Florida with Gentle Sister South Wind as did Robin Redbreast and Winsome Bluebird. No, he hatched out of a muck heap, and he came right into the house without wiping his feet. And his wife will go back to the muck heap to lay more eggs, and by the time the hot days come the two will have some millions of descendants. And all of them will come into the house without wiping their feet, and they will leave filth and disease germs in your food. Spoils the romance, doesn't it? The fly is your enemy. Slay him!

The Terrible Shock.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "Doctor," said the beautiful young woman who became the wife of a rich old man, "tell me the worst. I will be brave and try to bear it."

Leading her gently from her husband's bedside, the doctor answered:

"Nerve yourself, then, for a terrible shock. He's going to get well."

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats from the State Press.

Decency in Duluth.

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: A Duluth court chased out all the maudlin people who came to hear the testimony in a nasty trial. If other courts would only follow suit it might mark quite a stride in the way of decency if not purity.

Watching Duluth.

Bemidji Pioneer: The whole Northwest is watching Duluth, as it is the first city of size in this section of the country to adopt the commission plan. On the results in Duluth will hinge the action of many smaller cities. One thing appears certain at this time—the Duluth voters have named a competent and efficient commission.

A Case Made Out.

St. Peter Herald: According to The Duluth Herald the three large cities of the state have been grossly maligned by the charge that the reapportionment bill passed by the senate gives them control of the state legislature. As provided in the bill, the senate will have a total membership of sixty-seven, and of that number twenty will be elected by the three more populous counties. To all intents and purposes this is one-third the total membership. The Herald knows perfectly well that an organized one-third has a vast advantage over a disorganized two-thirds. It is, however, striving earnestly to make a case.

Rare in Any City.

Stillwater Gazette: A rare thing happened at Duluth: A correspondent asked space in The Herald to publicly thank the street car company of that city. There must have been several nearly fatal cases of heart failure among the officials.

A Hint of Sarcasm.

Mankato Free Press: The Duluth Herald takes the ground that the three larger cities in the state have been grossly maligned in the charge that the new reapportionment law gives them control of the legislature. The Herald goes on to say that instead of the cities having control in the legislature, they will have less than one-third the membership in each house. And it is absurd to think that with so small a force they can have "practical control" of affairs.

One Club's Work.

Detroit Herald: The Duluth West End Commercial club is already laying plans for this year's garden contest for the children of that part of Duluth. The club held a contest last year, and it was such a splendid success and the values of the contest were so great and obvious that the club will this year distribute $75 among the children showing the best garden work both in flowers and vegetables.

Gardening contests, which were practically unknown a few years ago, are gaining in popularity steadily as their value becomes more apparent. They furnish the only satisfactory way yet found to teach children how to till the soil intelligently and profitably.

A Good Charter.

Albert Lea Standard: Duluth is the first large city of the state to adopt the commission form of government and it held its first election. Besides, its provisions are most liberal and democratic, and permits its people to really rule if they want to.

True Optimism.

Hibbing Tribune: The Socialists are the most optimistic people on earth. They won another great moral victory in Duluth.

The Gettysburg Reunion

Indianapolis News: It will be only a little over two months until the great Blue and Gray reunion at Gettysburg. Indiana will probably be represented by hundreds. Preparations by the state of Pennsylvania will be made for 40,000 people. It is hardly probable that so many that fought on the historic field survive. Meade had about 90,000 men there, Lee about 70,000. But it was fifty years ago. They that were among them who are still living must be at three-score and ten or more. Those who participate in this wonderful reunion will present a sight that the world has never looked on before. There is no record of any civil war that shows those who were at death grips meeting in common fellowship fifty years after, citizens of a country united as it never was before. The third generation after the War of the Roses in England continued to transmit to its posterity the bitterness of the strife. Long after all who had a personal part in the French revolution were dead its influence was felt in the politics of the country. With us after fifty years, and while there are survivors by the thousands of the greatest civil war of history, are found brave men ready to clasp hands and fight the old battles over in comparisons of memory sweetened by honest admiration for bravery on both sides.

The same spirit is informing even more rapidly the larger expression of national life. In recent years men of the South have testified that Lincoln is understood and venerated in most communities there, and that there has been a great revulsion of feeling as to Grant. We know that it is so as to Lee in the North, and that there is nowhere clearer understanding and more honest recognition of his pre-eminence as a great captain and of the nobility of his character than here.

The fruits to come from this great Blue and Gray reunion at Gettysburg will be manifest in the near years by a variety of expression, attitude and acts that were they now predicted might be regarded as wild. We have not far to go. There is a real union now led by the men that did the fighting. There are left simply some outward and visible signs. It may not be many years before a statue of Lee will stand on Gettysburg field. But prediction is needless. The great and beautiful current of real oneness is flowing and growing steadily. Nothing can keep it back. The fifty-year anniversary of so much in our great war, in which there was nothing greater than Gettysburg, will, indeed, be a jubilee year, and it will do a vast service in the cementing of citizenship in bonds that make for the solidarity of a country.

When Gas Was New.

Chicago News: After the invention of illuminating gas early in the last century it was a long time before English people felt really at home with it. The authorities at Windsor Castle are said to have been under the impression that the gas was on fire all the way along the pipes. And the Times of July 12, 1830, contained the thrilling item:

"The duke of Wellington, when at Windsor a few days ago, directed that the gas might be cut off from the interior of the castle by the desire of the queen, who, we understand, entertained apprehensions lest an accident might be caused by explosion. Her majesty's wishes will, of course, be immediately complied with, and directions have already been given to the gas company for the purpose."

The Duty of Parents.

Summarizing the parents' duties, a writer in the Mothers' Magazine says: "To that child they owe the daily revelation of the best of their natures. The child must see that faithfulness to its own, to the stranger, to the state, and to God, is the real working purpose of life, and that love is the handmaiden of loyalty. Then shall constancy unfold within its heart, open with the undying fragrance of the roses of unyielding faith in all that is true."

Medical Supervision of Factories.

It is not because modern business men are becoming philanthropic or more charitably inclined that they are paying greater attention to the welfare of their employes, but because they are progressive, and are awakened to the fact that, just as a good workman must first learn how to take care of his tools, so a good business man must learn how to care for his help. This has become a principle of good business, and it has been found to pay good dividends. The general movement in the above direction has been in progress for several years, but the concerns which have seriously tackled the question have been few, compared with the number employing large quantities of labor. True, many large industries, where the employment is particularly hazardous, have for many years found it to their advantage to have a hospital operated by a competent staff, to care for accident cases; but this has been more to offset damage suits than to increase the general efficiency of the workers.

Aside from such medical service there has, however, within the last few years, been some attention paid to general sanitation and hygiene in the majority of factories, but this has largely resulted from compelling laws enacted by the various states; although a few isolated instances are of note, where progressive managements have installed restrooms, lunchrooms, recreation grounds and other advantages for the health and comfort of the workers. It has been found that all these things pay, whether done by compulsion or voluntarily; and, therefore, more employers of labor are constantly falling into line, and considering the welfare of the worker. In this connection it is interesting to hear of a factory in Worcester, Mass., employing 1,200 men and women, engaged in the manufacture of grinding wheels (not a hazardous occupation), which installed a system of medical supervision of all employes some sixteen months ago, and has found that it paid both the management and the employes, who all worked on the piece system.

DR. R. D. SCOTT.

Dr. W. I. Clark, the medical superintendent, has outlined the methods and results obtained, in a short paper, appearing in a recent number of the Journal of the American Medical association, in which he states that the advantage was early recognized by the workers, and the advice given, being promptly acted upon, resulted in a great increase of general efficiency. This was gratifying to the workers as well as the management.

His conclusions as stated in his article were:

1. It is possible for a simply equipped medical department to control with success the sickness and disability from accident in a large factory.

2. A completo physical examination of all employes is perfectly possible and of great advantage to both employer and employe.

3. A system of preventive treatment in cases of sickness and accident will materially lessen the amount of sickness and decrease the loss of time.

4. The sanitation of a large factory and all matters pertaining to the general health of employes can be be maintained by a medical departn.

5. Far from exciting distrust and antagonism a shop hospital, run on simple lines, will create a feeling of good will between employe and employer, which is so necessary to the highest efficiency. Practical experiments of this sort are valuable and should be taken advantage of by every thoroughly progressive employer of labor; and, when it has been proved that prevention of disease by methods of hygiene is really a paying proposition, this branch of medicine will become widely popular, with a corresponding increase of health, happiness and efficiency.

Applied Ideals.

Old in phrase, but distinctly modern in force, the keynote of the inaugural address of Governor Sulzer of New York: Salus populi suprema lex. His appeal was especially strong to employers to recognize the economic wisdom of keeping their employes as free as possible from infection, adequately remunerated, well housed and not overworked. Conditions, still too frequently found, in which the work of women and children is unnatural and beyond their strength, must produce a race of workers lacking in both stamina and resourcefulness. But, if a healthy individual means a healthy business, not less must that healthy individual mean a healthy government. Hence the natural conclusion, according to Governor Sulzer, is that "any industry that robs the vitality and destroys the initiative of workers is detrimental to the best interests of the state and menaces the general welfare of the government." Governor Sulzer's remarks are timely, says the Journal of the American Medical association. They also serve to recall the many instances in which factory, mining and other great business organizations have already applied to the conditions of their operatives such betterment ideals as those mentioned, and not only those but also many others whose fitness shows special study of particular conditions. A list of "features of factory administration designed for the benefit of operatives" in but one state includes, among many other items of welfare work, factory ventilation and sanitation, family supplies at cost, gymnasiums, hospitals and emergency and medical treatment, lavatories and lockers, lunch and dining rooms and annual outings. This is, indeed, "the hopeful side of the labor problem." Such consideration results in mutual loyalty between employer and employed, in healthier and better satisfied workers, in work of both higher grade and greater value. An adequate summary of the situation is given by the report of one firm employing over 20,000 men and spending thousands of dollars on welfare features, that "it pays."

Questions and Answers.

Humidity.

H. B. writes: When relative humidity is too great how does it affect the well-being of people?

REPLY.

It prevents normal evaporation from the skin, therefore, a retention of body heat. Everybody makes much more heat than required, and the balance of body temperature is maintained through loss of heat by evaporation of water from skin and mucous membrane. When a breeze is blowing, even when gentle, the bad affects of too much humidity are never felt; and in those occupations where there is constantly steam escaping into the air, and the humidity is high, there should be constant movement of air provided for, either by drafts or the use of electric fans.

Care of the Baby.

Mrs. N. S. writes: "What is the cause of a breast fed baby, 7 months old, belching after each feeding? It always frets and moans until it belches this gas, and then sleeps contentedly. Would peppermint or aniseed help it?

2. What fruits may be eaten by a mother without harm to the baby?

3. What should be done for constipation in the baby?

REPLY.

1. The baby is nursing too rapidly and sucking air at the side of the nipple; he is also filling his stomach too full. Do not give peppermint or aniseed; the baby does not need it. A few spoonfuls of hot boiled water will raise the gas better than any medicine. Stop the feeding before the stomach is overfilled, and give a little hot water to raise any air that may have been swallowed.

2. Any you may desire.

3. Let the mother eat lots of fruit of all kinds.

RASCAL HAS MORE CHANCE THAN FOOL

Evangelist Says Man Who Recognizes Own Iniquity May Be Saved.

"God can do more for a rascal than for a fool," said Evangelist Robert Whiston in his sermon at the First Christian church, Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street, last evening. "A fool won't think. It is impossible to impress a fool with his need of salvation. But a rascal knows he is a rascal, and his need of salvation. It takes as much brains to be a rascal as it does to be a saint. When a rascal gets converted, he amounts to something in God's service. The same energies that he had put heretofore into the devil's service, he now uses for God.

"This is the man's age in the church. More men are coming to Christ now than ever before in the history of the church. The great leaders of our political, industrial, and social worlds are distinctly Christian men. Edison says, 'The man who doesn't believe in God and the Christ is a fool.' The cabinet as formed by President Wilson is entirely Christian. Five of them are elders in the church. The greatest scientists and leaders in the thought and life of men, are identifying themselves with Christianity.

"There are no hopeless cases in God's economy. So long as a man lives there is the possibility of salvation. I don't go much on death bed repentances because the man who says 'I'll live a sinful life and then repent on my death bed,' is usually too big a coward to repent at the last moment. There may be such things as death bed repentances, but they are outside of the definite plan of salvation laid down by God. Undoubtedly many have come to God in their last hours, and God be praised that He provides salvation to the uttermost hour. Yet no man wants to bank on repenting at the last moment. Eighty per cent of the people die unexpectedly."

FARM SCHOOL ON WHEELS

Will Tour for Ten Days Through Northern Part of State.

A special train of twelve coaches, carrying sixteen instructors and every facility for exhibition and demonstration in agricultural work, will leave Duluth early Wednesday morning, April 9, for a tour of agricultural instruction through Lake, St. Louis, Itasca and Carlton counties.

The third annual agricultural special will surpass all past performances of the kind. It will be under the personal direction of Prof. N. E. Chapman, head of the poultry extension work of the state agricultural college, and the corps of instructors includes the best the agricultural college has engaged in extension work.

The train will be out ten days, making various towns on the Duluth & Iron Range, Duluth, Missabe & Northern, Canadian Northern and Great Northern railroads. It will visit thirty-one towns, giving about two hours of instruction to each town.

"The Home, the School and the Farm" is the general subject for the tour, and special attention will be paid to the instruction of the children in the part they may play on the farm and in the garden. The schools at the communities to be visited will be dismissed for the period of the special's stay, and the children will be given an opportunity to hear the instruction.

The Faculty.

The faculty of the "farm school on wheels" consists of the following:

Director—N. E. Chapman.

Superintendent—W. A. Dickinson.

Home department—Mrs. M. B. Baker, Mary L. Bull, Bessie Rowe, Delilah Pierce and Miss E. J. Stearns.

Boys' and girls' department—A. T. Erickson, N. A. Young, N. E. Chapman and C. H. Welch.

Livestock and farm—A. B. Hostetter, A. J. McGuire, Mark Thompson, W. A. McKerrow and W. A. Dickinson.

Farmers' Clubs and Country Fair—Fred Ward, county agricultural agent, and R. L. Griffin of Hibbing, secretary St. Louis County Fair association.

For Boys and Girls.

There will be a special car for boys and girls. They will receive instruction in gardening and poultry raising, and will be told all about the garden and poultry contests that the state is carrying on this year. There will be an exhibition in this car of all kinds of industrial and manual training work that boys and girls have done in this and other parts of the state. There will be at least three instructors in charge of the car. One will be a representative of the state library board, who will give instructions on how to make use of the board's privileges.

Home Department.

A car fitted up exclusively for women will contain a model farmhouse kitchen, which might be duplicated in most any settler's home. All kinds of kitchen and household conveniences will be on exhibition. Instruction will be given in cooking, beautifying the home and in training the child to love the farm. A trained nurse will tell how to treat common ailments, and "What to do Until the Doctor Comes."

Animal Husbandry.

Fine specimens of the various farm animals will be carried on the train, from which competent men will give practical talks. Every phase of the stock industry will receive attention. The subject of dairying will be given special treatment. An excellent exhibit of dairy appliances, methods of feeding, machinery and plans of dairy buildings will form an instructive and interesting study. Some of the best dairymen in the state will lecture on the various phases of the subject.

Poultry.

A number of varieties of standard bred poultry will be carried on the train, together with all kinds of appliances, including a brooder in operation; watering devices, model coop and chicken houses in miniature, etc. Prof. Chapman himself will be in charge of this department and careful instruction will be given on the care and management of the farm flock.

All kinds of small farm and garden machinery, adapted to the use of the Northern Minnesota farmer, will be on exhibition.

A corps of instructors in these subjects will amply cover every phase of the growing of alfalfa, clover, corn, grain and root crops. Gardening, potato and fruit growing will receive special attention.

County Fair and Farmers' Club.

R. L. Giffin, secretary of the county fair, will travel on the train and have charge of an exhibit representing the work of the County Fair association. He will give away souvenirs advertising the county fair.

Fred Ward, the new county agricultural agent of St. Louis county, will also be on the train, with an exhibit representing "What the Farmers' Club Can Do."

Potato Contest.

Prizes will be awarded at the end of the trip for the best peck of potatoes of either Early Ohio, Carmen No. 3 or Bliss Early Triumph potatoes brought to the train during the trip. Prizes will be awarded as follows:

First prize	$15.00

SWITCHMAN GETS $7,500 VERDICT

Will Recover Heavy Damages From Northern Pacific Railroad.

H. J. Lyons, switchman, will receive $7,500 from the Northern Pacific Railroad company for being nearly crushed to death under the footboard on the front end of a switch engine in the local railroad yards on Aug. 12 last, if the verdict awarded him by a district court jury yesterday afternoon stands.

Lyons was working on the front end of the engine when the accident occurred. The locomotive ran onto a loose rail and left the track. Lyons was jolted off the footboard. In falling he did not clear the path of the engine and as a result one of his legs was caught between the footboard and the ground. It was severely crushed and lacerated and he was otherwise bruised and injured. He asked for $15,560 damages. The case was tried before Judge Ensign.

Free to Men

Would You Like to Be a Strong, Husky, Healthy Fellow Once More?

New Method Without Drugs

The attached coupon entitles you to one illustrated copy of my pocket compendium and guide for the self-restoration of lost strength. (See description below.) Upon hearing from you, this valuable little book of private information for men will be sent by return mail in plain, sealed envelope. Please call or write today.

There is a new and marvelous method for restoring lost manly strength, for renewing vigor, which every man should know of, a self-restorer which operates without the use of drugs or medicines, a new way to treat yourself for your ills and weaknesses. See description below.

Please remember that a man is not one day older than he actually feels, and therefore no matter what your age, if you are young or elderly, married or single, large or small, if I can show you, reader, how you yourself, may actually add to your system, nerves and blood the very nerve force or vigor which may have been drained away and which is necessary to make you strong, vigorous and capable again, then I have shown you the real secret of perpetual strength, and how you can again be filled with vigor, and again be just as powerful in your influence and just as thoroughly manly in your capacity as the biggest, fullest blooded, most successful fellow of your acquaintance.

The new self-treatment for the restoration of manly strength, to which I refer above, is a little light-weight VITALIZING Appliance of my invention, which is now meeting with a tremendous demand, and being used by men everywhere all over the world. This little VITALIZER, weighing only several ounces, is comfortably buckled on the body and worn all night. It is so small and so compact that even a room mate would not suspect that you were wearing it. If, however, this VITALIZER is small in size, it is not small in power, for it generates a great, tangible FORCE, which can be measured on scientific instruments—a POWER which I call VIGOR or NERVE ENERGY, and it sends this marvelous FORCE into your blood, organs and nerves while you sleep. All you have to do is to lead a decent, manly man's life, free from excesses and dissipations, then use the VITALIZER, nothing more. If this is followed out and the VITALIZER does for you what these others say it does for them, then all the pain or weakness will disappear from the small of your back—possibly from the first night's use—and you will be restored to a strong, vigorous, manly, capable man, without a single ache, pain or weakness. Please remember, I am not asking you to buy one of these VITALIZERS, but merely request you to first send for the free book described below, a section of which is devoted to an explanation of this VITALIZER, and gives you its whole wonderful story, so that you may know what intelligent young and elderly men everywhere are saying about it.

MAY CHANGE ROAD ROUTE

Apathy of Commercial Organizations East of Bemidji Is Blamed.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The officers of the Wonderland Trail association, which organization is backing the improvement of an automobile highway from the Head of the Lakes to the Pacific coast, may decide to run the line from Bemidji to the Twin Cities.

The proposition has been raised as a result of the failure of the commercial forces east of Bemidji to take hold of the work. Secretary C. W. Graves of this city says that the matter has been submitted by interested workers in behalf of the road, and it is more than probable that the change will be made.

In Montana active steps are being taken for the organization of a state division to handle the work. At Havre on April 25 a general meeting will be held of the representatives of the various counties through which the highway runs, and at that time the organization of a state division will be perfected.

Secretary Graves has been invited to attend but probably will not be able to do so, but the national organization will be represented there.

Makes Big Mileage Cut.

The Wonderland trail makes a big cut to the coast through Montana through the use of part of an abandoned roadbed of the Great Northern, which with little work can be put in excellent condition. This roadbed takes the road through tunnels and makes the route decidedly picturesque.

Great Northern officials have interested themselves in the road because of the fact that it parallels the railroad to the coast from Grand Forks. It is the automobile highway that gives the tourists a chance to visit Glacier park, and the railroad's interest in the movement is expected to take on substantial form.

The North Dakota division in charge of the improvement of the highway has made good progress. Several of the counties have already organized local associations, and by July 1 it is expected that there will be a local association in each county of the state.

ACQUIT OLSON OF KILLING DARLING

Takes Jury Only Three Hours to Find Slayer Not Guilty.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Accompanied by his wife and his 5-year-old daughter, Prof. Oscar Olson, who last night was acquitted of the murder of Clyde N. Darling, late today will leave for the home of his aged mother at Montevideo, Minn.

"I have wanted to see my mother for several days but I could not have looked into her face until I was a free man," said Prof. Olson in referring to his visit.

"I have no plans for the future. I expect to rest several weeks before returning to my work."

Although Prof. Olson offered his resignation soon after the murder of Darling, it never has been accepted by the board of regents of the University of Minnesota. It is understood, however, that Prof. Olson is considering a position in Montevideo, the work of which is similar to that he was doing in the interest of the University of Minnesota farm school.

Mrs. Darling, widow of the man who Olson shot to death on March 5, will leave for her old home at Rochester, Minn., tonight.

Verdict In Three Hours.

Following a day of sensations in the court room, during which the attorneys summed up the sensational case, the fate of Prof. Olson was submitted to the jury at 5:20 yesterday afternoon. A verdict was agreed upon at 8:30 of not guilty.

As the words "not guilty" fell from the lips of the foreman, Olson, who had been brought to the court room, attempted to rise, staggered and dropped into his seat. He recovered his self composure, and with tear-dimmed eyes shook hands with the jurors, the judge and the newspaper men.

The history of the Olson case dates back two years. In April, 1911, Darling, a laundry driver, began paying Mrs. Olson attentions. Her husband was out of the city a large part of the time.

Conscience Troubles Her.

After secret meetings had gone on for nearly a year, her conscience began troubling her. According to the testimony she begged Darling to stay away from her. He refused. When she threatened to tell her husband all, he replied that she would not dare, and kept her in fear by threatening the life of her husband. Finally she made a confession to her husband. She did not tell everything, but enough to have him warn Darling to stay away. Later she revealed the entire story to Prof. Olson.

On March 5, Prof. Olson returned from a trip over the state in the interest of the agricultural college. Mrs. Olson was in Montevideo visiting and had intended returning that day. It was late at night. He was half dozing when he heard a sound in the yard. He went to a window and saw a figure approaching the back door. He took his revolver and waited, according to his own testimony.

As the door opened two shots rang out in rapid succession. Both bullets had gone through the right lung of Darling.

The trial lasted six days. Mrs. Olson told her story from beginning to end. At the end of her testimony she collapsed.

Judge's Charge Brief.

Judge Orr's charge to the jury was brief. Four verdicts were possible, he declared; murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree, first degree manslaughter and acquittal. Either murder verdict carries with it a life sentence, the only difference being whether there was malice in the act. The manslaughter verdict which is for "homicide with more force than necessary," carries with it a verdict of from five to twenty years. No attention should be paid to the "unwritten law," the judge declared, simply to the place where Darling was when shot, and whether Olson, in his own mind, acted in self-defense.

NEW COUNCIL MEETS.

Brookston's New Village Officers Have Their Initial Session.

Brookston, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The newly elected village council held its first regular meeting Monday evening. The members of the council are: Ed Donley, president; J. C. De Shaw, recorder; Matt Miettunen, Ed Stokes and Axel Kindberg, trustees. Mr. Kindberg was appointed as trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the failure of W. C. Garland to qualify after being elected. The council set the following scale of wages and salaries for the ensuing year: Recorder, $100 for the year; councilmen, $10 for year; treasurer, 2 per cent of moneys paid into treasury; laborers, $2 per day; man and team, $5 per day. The Northwestern State Bank of Cloquet was designated as the official depository for village funds, and the Brookston Herald was designated official paper. President Donley appointed the following committees: Finance, Miettunen and De Shaw; health, Stokes and Kindberg; ordinances, Miettunen and Kindberg; license, De Shaw and Stokes; streets and alleys, Stokes and Kindberg; jail, De Shaw, Miettunen and Kindberg; printing, Miettunen and Stokes.

A meeting of the baseball fans was held at Duff's store Sunday afternoon and plans commenced for a club to represent Brookston on the diamond the coming summer. Olaf Eklund was elected president, Nels Eklund secretary and treasurer, and S. K. Duff manager. A basket social and dance for the purpose of raising funds for the team will be given on Saturday evening, April 19.

CLUB WOULD END FACTIONAL FIGHTS.

East Grand Forks, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A successful year for the Commercial club was closed at the annual meeting just held when J. F. Craig was elected president; J. R. Johnson, treasurer; and M. A. Foote, secretary.

One of the principal objects that will be sought by the club is that of bringing about a settlement of the constant fight that has been going on for several years between various factions.

The women of East Grand Forks will seek to revive the Women's Civic league at a meeting here next Friday. The league, organized two years ago, did considerable good work, but was allowed to lag the latter part of last season.

Local business men have offered prizes to be used in the promotion of city beautification.

TO MAKE CORN TESTS.

Harvesters Company to Try Experiments Near Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. G. Haney has arrived to be superintendent of the 320-acre experimental and demonstration plant established here by the International Harvester company. The big farm will be divided into twenty plots, and one of the principal efforts of the company this year will be that of acclimating seeds to this section. The company is spending several thousand dollars in the improvement of the buildings on the land, which it has leased for five years.

Much attention will be given to the raising of corn, it being contended that the best of results are to be obtained through that crop.

HEAVY COP OBJECTS.

Grand Forks Heavyweight Officer Will Not Ride Motorcycle.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The police department will have motorcycle cops soon, the city council deciding upon that plan to bring about the enforcement of anti-speeding laws.

Chief Lowe, weighing 220 pounds, is unwilling to tackle the job of riding the motorcycles, and is already looking about for a likely candidate for the job. He says he has no one on the force that will do, except, possibly, Sergeant Joe Hagar.

PLAN NEW COUNTY.

Called Hanna and Created Out of Newly Opened Reservation.

Ryder, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The movement for the creation of a new county out of the recently opened Fort Berthold district was thoroughly considered at a second meeting of the homesteaders held here. Plans were laid for an investigation of the legal features, and the opinion and declamatory contest held Saturday night at Norway, with Norway, Crystal Falls and Menominee students participating.

Negaunee — Leonard Iskala, who recently returned to Negaunee from

MANY MEMBERS MARRY.

Sodality Club of Grand Forks Rapidly Losing Members.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five out of eight officers of the Young Ladies Sodality of St. Michael's Catholic church, have become brides or brides-elect since the election last June, and under the rules of the organization, they are barred from further membership. The depletion of the roster of officials of the sodality commenced within a few weeks after the election when Miss Camilla McGeoy and Miss Margaret Hart were wedded. Yesterday Miss Eileen Neville was wedded; today Miss Irene Finkle became a bride, and two weeks hence Miss Anna Mae Carroll will wed.

STATE ENGINEER QUITS.

North Dakota Official Resigns to Tackle Other Work.

Bismarck, N. D., April 9.—State Engineer T. R. Atkinson has handed his resignation to Governor Hanna and it has been accepted but no successor appointed. Mr. Atkinson will engage in the private practice of his profession. C. R. Kositzky, former county commissioner, has been appointed secretary of the tax commission. There is considerable speculation as to where the money to run the commission will come from during the next two years, as the governor vetoed the bill making appropriations for its maintenance, and the state auditing board will not pay salaries in excess of the sum of $3,000 per year appropriated annually under the old law.

YOUTHFUL SLAYER WILL FACE TRIAL.

Rochester, Minn., April 9.—Following an all-day investigation into the sanity of Henry Schmidt, the youthful slayer of Mrs. George Hetzel of Douglas, the examining board failed to agree and the boy now must face trial in district court next June.

Two members of the examining board declared Schmidt insane, while two believed him sane.

FLOODS RECEDING.

Reports of Upper Missouri High Water Were Exaggerated.

Bismarck, N. D., April 9.—The crest of the flood on the Missouri river has passed and the water has begun to recede. Many of the reports sent out from here and the Mandan office have been considerably exaggerated, the water never reaching the stage reported. In some parts of Mandan, across the river from here, people have abandoned their homes, but there is no danger in the main part of the town. Railway traffic is expected to reach normal conditions within a day or so.

RAISES OVER $30,000.

Minneapolis Gives More Than $4,000 in One Day.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 9. — More than $4,000 was added to the fund for the relief of the Ohio and Indiana flood sufferers yesterday afternoon when two concerts were given by the theatrical people and musicians in Minneapolis. The entertainments were given simultaneously at two of the leading theaters. During a street parade preceding the entertainments, $400 was collected on the streets. The fund has passed the $30,000 mark.

BREATHE HYOMEI FOR CATARRH

Health Comes From Knowing How and What to Breathe.

Hardly a day passes without confirmation of the old adage, "Man's Life is but a breath of air."

Dust laden with disease breeding germs is inhaled by all who use the streets, but disease is not developed unless the germs find conditions suitable for their lodgment and growth.

With people having catarrh there is an ideal culture medium for these germs. The irritated membrane and weakened tissues is a hot-bed where germs thrive and multiply.

If you have catarrh or any trouble of the breathing organs causing stopped-up head, sniffles or morning choking, you should use the easiest, simplest and quickest remedy, the direct method of Hyomei. This wonderful medication is taken in with the air you breathe, directly following and destroying all germs that have been inhaled, repairing any damage they may have worked and so healing and vitalizing the tissues as to render catarrh and germ infection no longer possible.

The unusual way in which druggists sell Hyomei should dispel all doubt as to its curative properties. Boyce's Drug Store offers to refund the price to anyone whom it fails to benefit. You do not risk a cent in testing the healing virtues of this breath of life. Complete Outfit $1.00. Extra bottles of Hyomei liquid if later needed 50 cents.

How A Retailer Cut Statements Costs

Richard F. Brune, retail groceries and meats, Sawtelle, California, says:

"All my monthly statements I now finish in six hours by the use of the adding machine. It formerly took my $16 a week bookkeeper five days to do the same work and then the statements were not always correct. You had a hard time selling me but after I had used it one week I was sorry I hadn't bought it five years ago."

A Burroughs Statement machine gets Mr. Brune's statements out on on time.

Then it does every other kind of figure work—it's busy every day—worth many times its cost—would be to you.

No cost nor obligation to be shown, in your own office or store, on your own work; say the word, and we will send the machine.

Rheumatic Blood is Whole Story

Wonderful Specific for Sciatica, Lumbago, and a Cure for Dreaded Articular Rheumatism.

There is a host of pills, powders, tablets and what-not for rheumatism, but they all lack the first essential to being a natural medicine. To begin with, rheumatism is simply a name given to designate a variety of pains, and can only be reached by irrigating the entire blood supply with a naturally assimilative antidote. True, the pains may be eased with narcotics or the acids may be neutralized for the time being with other acids. But these merely temporize and do not even lead to a cure. There is but one standard rheumatism remedy, and it reflects the best thought of the day. It is prepared in the great Swift Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., and sold in all drug stores under the name of S. S. S. at $1.00 a bottle.

Starvation has been advocated by many as a cure for rheumatism, and yet S. S. S. accomplishes in fact what faddists proclaim in theory and without the punishment of starvation. Hot springs and sweating are often recommended, but S. S. S. does all that is expected of these expensive and weakening methods.

It is conceded by the closest students of the subject that rheumatism is caused in most cases by an acid condition of the blood and aggravated by the remedies commonly used for relief. In other cases rheumatism is the result of nerve depression; in still others it is the effect of some scrofulous blood condition, having been treated with mercury, iodides, arsenic and other poisonous mineral drugs.

The recoveries of all these types of rheumatism by the use of S. S. S. is a wonderful tribute to the natural efficacy of this remarkable medicine, for it is assimilated just as naturally, just as specifically, and just as well ordained as the most acceptable, most palatable and most readily digested food. Do not fail to get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day. You will be astonished at the results. If your rheumatism is of such a nature that you would like to consult a great specialist confidentially, write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

THE old time fight fan leaned over the table and raised his hand in gestured eloquence. "It is the boy with the heart," he began, "and little Wolgast has it. I saw his battle with Nelson at Richmond. In the twenty-third round this little Dutchman was out—seventeen rounds later they stopped the battle because of a humane desire to save Nelson from further punishment.

"No, Rivers is a great little boy, dangerous at all times, and Ritchie possesses class and cleverness, but the Wolgast who stood toe to toe with Nelson on that memorable afternoon and outslugged the mighty Dane, could beat any of the little men in the ring today."

"Nelson is like the ancient Norsemen," the old-timer continued. "Not over bright mentally, he possesses the indomitable instinct to battle. It is the spirit that comes down from his ancestors. Jimmy Britt was a scholarly fighter. He is a very smart boy. During the progress of a battle Britt might look over the shoulder of his opponent during a clinch and pipe off the house. Not so with Nelson. The minute he steps into the ring it is nothing but battle; he is like a pit dog brought into the enclosure on a leash.

"If Battling Nelson were dying and his enemy were near, he would reach out with palsied hand and attempt to strike him. He has never given quarter and he will never ask for it.

"Jimmy Britt once told me of the hopelessness, the utter futility of battling with a man like Nelson. 'I hit him twenty times in our fight at Colma, with all my strength. Each blow was good enough to kill the ordinary man. And there he was, grinning through the blood, coming, coming, always coming. It became a hideous nightmare, it steals your courage from you, the uselessness of hitting a man of stone, this grinning inhuman creature. The gamest man can lose his heart in fighting Nelson.'

"Jeffries i .'t coming back, and this is the truth. Once in a while the big fellow gets out and plays a game of handball and the Los Angeles newspaper men kid him and write a story about his intention of re-entering the ring. He won't though. Why, Jeff has all the money he wants, or can want for the rest of his days. He has but recently organized a realty company and has his hands full looking after his business interests.

"And you ask of Jeffries? Perhaps the story is old; many lies have been told. Perhaps there is no man closer to Jim Jeffries than myself. I was at Reno, through all of it, and though hundreds of newspapermen throughout the world have asked me, I have never said Jeffries was doped. I don't know; no one did. His brother, a great hulking man, was crying like a baby a few minutes before the fight started. Yes, there was something wrong—what it was, perhaps no one will ever know.

"Just one thing more. I was raised in the South among negroes, I know the race. Johnson was so mortally scared that he was ready to jump out of the ring. He was dry-lipped and quaking. If Jeff had rushed out of his corner this black man would have literally fled from the arena.

"I walked into Jeff's dressing room about five minutes before he left for the ring. I walked up to him and spoke to him. The man didn't know me. Jeffries looked around like a man in a dream—a terrible, hideous dream. Something had snapped somewhere; a dazed and numbly bewildered man walked slowly out to do battle."

"About Wolgast, now can the little former champion come back?"

"Maybe, and then, maybe not.

"Fights like the last one with Murphy don't do a boy any good. No fighter can take the swings of Tommy Murphy for twenty rounds and not be hurt, and hurt badly. Harlem Tommy is a wonderful little man. He is fighting better at the present time than ever before in his life. Wolgast may come back, but that operation didn't do him any good, and besides he is a pleasure loving little fellow, a boy without education or learning, and yet endowed with supreme confidence in his own ability.

"I think Ritchie is the boy to beat Rivers. He is awfully clever, and in twenty rounds he should outpoint the Mexican. Some people are quite foolish enough to believe or at least say that Ritchie can't fight. My friend, don't listen to this talk—really, I say, there is nothing to it.

"About this Gunboat Smith, you say—a nervy, tough fellow with a right hand swing and the belief that he can lick the world. Valuable pugilistic assets, to be sure, and yet not so much when you come to analyide.

"He swings like Tom Sharkey, this gunner chap; he hit Moran on the back of the head, when they fought on the coast, and the Pittsburg heavyweight turned a somersault and after that was scared to death of the gunner. If the gunner rams a man with his wicked right, he should win; but the case is this—he shouldn't hit a clever fighter with his round house swing."

JUDGING from the baseball activities of the present time, local conditions being limelighted, this charming city is to have more than the average number of teams with the start of the season. Organization meetings are being held almost each shining night of the week, and it is not leaping the paling of exaggeration to state that within the past few days something like an even dozen teams have been duly organized.

With the Kelleys, Big Duluths, Fitwells, old and honorable enemies of the past, in the field, not to mention the Quayle-Larsen Junior leaguers, the grade school organization, and independent teams of tender years preparing for doings on the diamond, the corner lots should fairly hum with scenes of busy activity.

Generally it is the case that the large teams lead in the matter of baseball activity. A good baseball town is generally characterized by baseball activity all the way down the line. With a great season apparently in store for the White Sox, the fever of early baseball seems to be spreading to the ranks of the smaller teams throughout the city.

LITTLE MILLERS WILL GET BUSY

Minneapolis Northern Leaguers to Meet the University Team.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 9.—The Minneapolis Northern league team plays its initial game at Nicollet park today. Coach Denny Sullivan's proteges from the university will furnish the opposition. The game will be called about 2:30.

Manager Unglaub has reduced his squad of rookies from 48 to 16. Among those who look particularly good to Manager Bob are Kelly on the initial sack, Weaver in right, and Redway, a university man, Warner, the big catcher the Millers turned over to Unglaub, looks good.

The following men will likely comprise Unglaub's band:

Catchers, Fuller, Lovely and Warner; pitchers, Kornder, McClure, Sherrin, Meinkle and Smith; first base, Kelly; second base, Redway; third base, Costello; shortstop, Cosgriff; outfielders, Weaver, Borden, Brown and Bebus.

After today the Northern leaguers will practice daily at Northrop field.

WISCONSIN MAY PLAY MARQUETTE.

Madison, Wis., April 9.—With the approval of the faculty of the proposition of the athletic council to fill the remaining football date of Oct. 11 by a game with either Marquette university, Milwaukee, Oshkosh normal or Morningside, there is a possibility that Wisconsin will play its rivals from the Milwaukee institution.

The faculty agreed to the plan of the council.

Team to Japan.

Stanford University, Cal., April 9.—Stanford university has announced that it will send a baseball team to Keio university, Japan. The contract from the Japanese university, which was received yesterday, offers to pay $2,500 to the Stanford managers for the trip. The American team will stay thirty days in Japan and agrees to finance a return visit of the Keio university team.

UNGLAUB DROPS PART OF SQUAD

List of Minneapolis Northern Team Candidates Is Slashed.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 9.—Nicollet park these times is a shambles and Bob Unglaub is a Herod, a Nero and a whole gang of Venetian Doges rolled into one. Unhampered by the law and regardless of all interference, he is slaughtering the innocents with a ruthless hand and he says he will pursue the course he has mapped out for himself, consequences be what they may.

It is a story of tragedy and the local manager of the Northern league club is the author. Yesterday afternoon life was bright and full of hope for fifty-one sterling young athletes, in whose veins raised bright red blood and whose outlook on life was rosy. The fifty-one were trying for places on the local team and all were full of the joy of living during practice. But shortly after the daily work the future held a bleak and dreary outlook for thirty-five of the fifty-one. On the door of the clubhouse is a typewritten list of all the Broncho candidates. Last evening while the happy family was taking its bath, Unglaub sneaked up on that defenseless list like a thief in the night and through thirty-five names he drew the blunt nose of a pencil. The smudge of the pencil through a name signified that the owner thereof was automatically and arbitrarily disassociated with the Bronchos.

MINNESOTAS TO ROW WISCONSIN

St. Paul Oarsmen Start Training for Eight-Oared Contest.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—The Minnesota Boat club crew candidates today will start systematic training for the regattas in which they will compete during the season. Commodore Cochrane, Capt. Ellerbe and Coach Van Vliet have divided the available men into four-oared crews as follows:

Red—Donnolly, Savage, Stringer, Otis.

White—Baer, Bagsley, Tomesek, Ellerbe.

Dark Blue—Cochran, Connolly, Schuneman, Davis.

Light Blue—Morgan, McGill, Jacobson, Rhodes.

Orange —Fleming, Russell, Rolk, Schaub.

Black—French, Fitzpatrick, Lovering, Hauser.

Green—R. Morgan, Nichols, Benefee, Gruber.

Will Meet Wisconsin Eight.

These crews, together with any additional ones that can be organized, Van Vliet will coach for the next month. Then the eight men who have shown the best work will be boated in an eight-oared shell in the race with the University of Wisconsin on May 30.

This will give them three weeks in the "eight," which, with the month's rowing in the "fours," Van Vliet hopes will be sufficient to develop considerable speed. He says, however, that it is absolutely essential that every man should row every day if they want to make any kind of showing against the strong Wisconsin aggregation.

Ellerbe Trained in Singles.

Every day recently Coach Van Vliet has rowed double with Capt. Ellerbe, coaching him in sculling. Just as soon as Ellerbe has acquired the knack of handling a pair of sculls with sufficient skill he will go it alone in a single shell. If he develops sufficient speed he will be Minnesota's representative in the junior eight events in the Northwest-International regatta in July.

DRASTIC BOXING BILL.

California Is Likely to Pass a Prohibitive Measure.

Sacramento, Cal., April 9. — The Brown anti-prize fight bill, designated to stop boxing exhibitions of all kinds in the state of California, and making it a misdemeanor even to sign a contract in this state for a match to be staged elsewhere, was favorably reported by the senate committee on public morals last night without debate and without a dissenting vote.

Should the measure become a law, it will prohibit all boxing matches for which an admission fee is charged, which are of more than four rounds, and for which a prize of any kind is offered, except that a medal, not to exceed $35 in value, may be bestowed upon the winner.

WINONA SQUAD HAS REPORTED

Lefty Davis Is Busy Getting His Men Started to Work.

Winona, Minn., April 9.—Owing to the fact that the prospective candidates, already assembled in Winona were unable to obtain suits in which to practice, the squad of twelve which is here were prevented from morning practice at League park. It was planned to have them out in force today.

Workmen were on hand and cleaning of the grandstands, bleachers and field began early. The infield is in a poor condition and will have to have considerable work done on it before the boys will be able to play there, but it is planned to have it in the best of condition within the next few days, so that there will be no further delay.

Eleven Have Reported.

Eleven players have already reported to Lefty and all are anxious to get in action. This morning's train brought in Elmer Johnson and William Squaw, both of whom have fine records as ball players. Callender, a third baseman arrived last night with Reiger from the Twin Cities and with Collins and Davis already on hand and Pitcher O'Sullivan and Oscar Batts, who came yesterday, Winona has a fine bunch of players assembled.

The game Sunday between the Winona Schellhas and the Davis' colts promises to be a hotly contested one, as the Schellhas team is composed of several well known amateur players and are already making preparations to show the leaguers up, but Lefty is confident that his recruits will come out victorious, despite the fact that they will have had but little practice when they go into the game.

LIPTON'S SWEEPING CHALLENGE.

British Yachtsman Withdraws All Stipulations Formerly Made.

London, April 9.—Sir Thomas Lipton, the British yachtsman, yesterday sent an unconditional challenge for a series of races for the American's cup and after ten years' undisturbed possession of the trophy American yachtsmen must prepare to defend it.

Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge was cabled to the New York Yacht club today through the Royal Ulster Yacht club. After the challenge had been sent Sir Thomas said to the Associated Press:

"They will now either have to race or give me the cup."

"I have the honor to inform you that the Royal Ulster Yacht club has received the following communication from Sir Thomas Lipton:

"'Although our opinions differ from those of the New York Yacht club as to the meaning of the deed of gift, in the interests of yachting and with a view to eliminating any possible source of discord, I shall be glad if you will inform the New York Yacht club that I withdraw all stipulations as to the size of the yacht defending the American cup and I look forward to a good race with my 75-footer in 1914.

(Signed), "'THOMAS J. LIPTON.'"

"We have the greatest pleasure in transmitting the foregoing and trust that the New York Yacht club will share the view of the Royal Ulster club that Sir Thomas Lipton has solved the difficulty in a satisfactory manner. By separate cablegram, I am sending the formal challenge.

(Signed), "E. E. PATTERSON,
"Honorary Secretary."

NEW PLAYERS ADDED TO DARBY'S WHITE SOX SQUAD

Big Toledo Assemblage Increased By Signing of Four Prospective Stars.

Duluth Has More Candidates Than Any Other Team in League.

Wire word to this effect was messenger-boyed into the office of President Harry Blume this day.

"Heavens help us," exclaimed the head of the local club, as he glanced at the names of the new men, made a rapid mental calculation as to the number of players on the squad and the aggregate salary amount, and then signed the collect message.

Right at the present time the Irish Orator has perhaps the largest squad in the league. There is an ancient saying which has to do with the calling of many and the choosing of few. No doubt the Orator is going along this line of procedure and the chances are that the squad will be somewhat reduced by the time the conductor shouts "all aboard for Madison."

In distributing the encomiums, the Irish rebel has heaped a few on the brow of Jack Fishel, the catcher who comes from Middletown, Pa., with the greatest of praise. According to the recommendations the Jook has received regarding the ability of this man Fishel, he is going to prove one of the best receivers of the new organization. And margin notes from the Orator lead to the belief that the warming up practice stunts of Fishel bear out some of the nice things that have been said of him.

Charles Few, the large piece of local color of Rising Sun, Ohio, also looks good in the few days he has been out. But, mark you, as young attorneys and ancient characters in the classics are in the habit of saying, there is not much that can be exhibited for the edification of the eagle-eyed manager in the first few days of practice.

There are some twenty odd athletes at Toledo at the present time. This odd number, gentle reader, does not apply to the quality and mental makeup of the candidates of our baseball team, but rather to the number on hand.

With the arrival of the large list of those signed the population of the third city in the Buckeye state will be increased considerably. As a large number of the young men who have affixed their signatures to Duluth contracts live in the state of Ohio, and, moreover, as Toledo is a pleasant city to spend a few days in visiting the movies and otherwise seeking harmless and inexpensive entertainment, it is probable that Darby will choose this place as one ideally fitted to drop some of the men he has signed, as Toledo is not far from the collective homes of the athletes, and passage is very cheap by boat or gondola right at the present time, owing to the opening up of many new lakes and channels.

It has been found necessary and in the interests of preservation of the game to cancel the games with Fort Wayne, Ind. As some of you may have read, Indiana is in the flood district. So is Fort Wayne. The diamond and outfield of the baseball park of Fort Wayne have been flooded and until the tide recedes there will be not much in the way of baseball in the wet district.

Leaving Fort Wayne for the present and following the news scout homeward, it might be stated that plans for the enlargement of the grand stand and bleachers of the local park were submitted to President Blume yesterday, and he has stated that there will be a crew of carpenters, jack screw huskies, willing shovelers and others on the job by the beginning of next week.

It might be stated that the new portion of the grand stand is to have boxes and that the diamond at Athletic park may be swung around to the right, with the result that it will be more difficult to hit home runs over the left field fence.

Judging from the blue printed indications of his plans, Architect Kelly intends making a slight horse shoe effect out of the completed job. The new stand will run at a slight angle to the old part, and the home plate will be directly opposite the angle in the stand.

It is safe to say that the fans will hardly know the new grounds on the home opening day. The directors of the team know they are in a real league at the present time, and they are spending real money to give the lovers of the game here the accommodations that go with real baseball.

Already promises have been secured from a large list of candidates and when the first practice is called it is believed that one of the largest squads of any of the city teams will be on hand.

There will be a meeting of the officers of the Quayle-Larsen Junior league at that store Thursday evening.

CROSS SHOWS GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN FIGHT.

New York, April 9.—Joe Rivers, the Mexican lightweight, and Leach Cross of this city, who met here two months ago in a bout in which Rivers had a decided advantage, fought ten rounds to a draw here last night.

Cross made a surprisingly good fight, improving greatly over his previous showing. It looked at first as if he had been weakened by making the required weight—he was down to 122½ ringside—but in the latter rounds he showed up stronger than his opponent. Rivers weighed 133.

Hauge is arranging a match to be pulled off in Cass Lake in about ten days with Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis.

OMENS FAVOR CHALLENGER

Four-Leaved Shamrock Will Meet Thirteenth Defender of Cup.

London, April 9.—"The luck will all be with us this time. The challenger is the four-leaved Shamrock while the New York Yacht club will be defending the America's cup for the thirteenth time," said Charles E. Nicholson today. Nicholson is to design the Lipton boat which will seek to win back for the British the America's cup.

This will not be Nicholson's first connection with the contests for the cup. His yards at Gosport were used to dock the original America when she was under repair.

Nicholson added today: "I wish to correct the unfortunate impression prevailing in the United States that I am afraid of a 90-foot yacht. I believe I could build one which would cross the Atlantic ocean safely, but as 75-footer, under present conditions, is as large and expensive as the 90-footer of twenty years ago, is the boat which prudence and reason dictate.

"I have the greatest admiration for the genius and cleverness of American designers. These coupled with the fact that all the conditions are in favor of the defender make the task of designing a challenging yacht one of the keenest interest, calling for every ounce of ability I may possess.

"I hope Gardner as well as Herreshoff will be given a chance to design the defender. If so, the preliminary races will be almost as interesting as the final cup contests.

"I have already erected a shed at the Gasport yards for the challenger and have her plans well under way. I expect to launch her in April, 1914.

"I hope in case the America's cup returns to the British isles that the result will be the formation of a code governing all international yacht racing."

Working at Club.

According to the statement of Capt. Dan Mahoney of the Duluth Boat club, work on the fitting of the club for the summer season is already under way. Boats are being overhauled and the big float in front of the clubhouse will be put down just as soon as the ice goes out of the bay.

Gets in Big League.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 9.—George Johnson, the local Western league club's Indian pitcher, was sold to the Cincinnati National league club yesterday. He will join the Ohio club at once.

BASEBALL NOTES

John J. (Jack) Grim, former big leaguer and of late a minor league manager, was declared insane recently by a commission of lunacy at Lynchburg, Va.

Fans, managers, players and scribes around the Three-I league circuit gathered at Peoria the other night and tendered a banquet to Barry McCormick, Peoria's new manager.

Bennie Meyers of the Brooklyn team was given the first big league tryout by Manager McGraw of the Giants in 1909. Meyers showed great stuff with Joe Kelley's Toronto team last season.

Mascot Jerry McCarthy, who was successful in mascotting the Red Sox to a world's championship last fall, will again chase the jinks for the champs, which no doubt means another pennant for the Hub.

KILLED IN FALL OF HYDRO-AEROPLANE.

San Diego, Cal., April 9.—In the sight of scores of persons on Point Loma, who were watching the flight, a hydro-aeroplane containing Lieut. Reed Chanler and Lieut. Lewis H. Brereton of the coast artillery corps became suddenly disabled yesterday and plunged a distance of about 100 feet into the waters of the bay.

Boats put out from Fort Rosecrans immediately to the rescue. When Lieut. Chanler was taken from under the wreckage of the machine he was dead. It is believed he was instantly killed by being struck by some part of the mechanism when the hydro-aeroplane hit the water.

Lieut. Brereton escaped with slight injuries, but was suffering so badly from the shock that when he attempted to explain the accident he collapsed.

EXPENSIVE "BRUSHING."

Milaca Man Robbed By Obliging One in Mill City Hotel.

Minneapolis Minn., April 9.—Victor Larson of Milaca, Minn., while a guest at the Victor hotel, was robbed of $12, according to the story he told the police, by a man who came into his room early Tuesday, and, pretending to be an employe, asked to brush Larson's clothes and bring him a pitcher of hot water. He brushed the clothes. While Larson waited in vain for the hot water, he discovered his money had disappeared.

NEW COUNCIL IS VERY BUSY

Many Matters of Importance Are Considered By Hibbing Lawmakers.

Brewery Control of Saloons Is Given Solar Plexus Blow.

Hibbing Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of Hibbing are evidently very much interested in what the new administration is going to do, for last night's meeting, the second of the new council, brought out another attendance of citizens that crowded the council chamber to capacity.

For volume and variety of business transacted few local council meetings ever equaled that of last evening, a very large number of unusually important matters being considered and either disposed of or set under way.

Want Semi-Monthly Pay Day.

A committee from the Commercial club consisting of W. L. Galloway and M. D. Nides, asked that the council establish a semi-monthly pay day instead of paying village employes monthly. Mayor Power informed the committee that a semi-monthly pay day would be established by the village at once the Commercial club sees fit to adopt a resolution requesting it.

An effort will probably be made to hold a special meeting of the Commercial club this week in order that the matter may be acted upon by the council next Tuesday.

Village Attorney Scott was instructed to draw up a resolution for action upon by the council next Tuesday for the paving of Fourth avenue and all intersecting streets between Second and Fourth avenues.

Going After Dogs.

The council authorized the immediate appointment of David W. Brown as poundmaster at a salary of $80, and instructed him to at once proceed to take up and shoot all dogs running on the streets not properly tagged and muzzled. Dr. C. F. Morsman, village health officer, reported that a fourth dog died yesterday morning in Hibbing exhibiting all the symptoms of rabies and the council decided that the most rigorous measures must be taken at once to prevent the spread of this disease and to secure the safety of the people of the village.

New Department Created.

The department of complaints and information was created by the council and John F. Murphy was appointed to take immediate charge of it at a salary of $90 per month. It will be Mr. Murphy's duty to have an office in the city hall, to keep his office open from 9 to noon and from 1:30 to 5:30 in the afternoon and to receive all complaints by telephone or in person, see that the complaint reaches the proper village official and to report to the council what action is taken in the matter. It is believed that in this way the efficiency of the service rendered by the village departments can be greatly increased.

Upon the recommendation of Mayor Power the council named Ernest Jacobson as superintendent of the village cemetery at a salary of $80 per month.

Other appointments made were that of Usipio Romani as garbage collector at a salary of $6.50 per day, same as last year, and Louis Tawyea, Charles Aura and Mrs. James Dillon to take charge of the three street sprinklers at the village.

Hit Brewery Control.

The village recorder was instructed to write to all brewery companies doing business in Hibbing and to notify them that licenses will not in the future be granted for saloons in buildings owned or leased by the brewing companies, that no licenses will be granted hereafter to agents of brewery companies and that the brewing companies be requested to furnish the council with a list of the persons being supplied at the various locations about Hibbing with liquor who have no licenses for the sale of liquor, together with the hint that if such lists are not forthcoming the council will take other steps that may not be entirely pleasing to the brewing companies.

Fire Ordinance Extended.

The council decided to extend the village fire ordinance to cover the territory from Washington street on Third avenue to the southerly end of the avenue, and Village Attorney Scott will prepare an amendment to the ordinance to that effect.

Authority was granted the water, light, power and building commission to purchase steel street signs to be affixed to the new White way posts at the street corners. The commission was also authorized to install a number of drinking fountains at points along Third avenue.

A donation of $260 was made to the Commercial club to be expended for the relief of the flood and tornado sufferers and upon the request of a committee of ladies consisting of Miss Wiley, public librarian; Miss Wildes, Mrs. Edwin Lereh, Mrs. W. F. Herrick and Mrs. Faust $100 was turned over to the park board to be expended for garden prizes, according to the plans of the Ladies' Saturday club.

A communication was read from Fire Chief McIlhargey recommending the purchase of a four-passenger squad wagon and a combination chemical engine and hose cart, both to be motor driven. The communication was referred to the fire committee and will be taken up later.

A number of minor matters of routine, such as liquor license applications, approving of bonds, building permits, etc., were acted upon.

The financial report of the board showed total receipts during the year of $10,388.52, and total expenditures of $6,879.90, leaving a balance in the treasury of $3,508.90.

It's Easy to Peel Off All Your Freckles

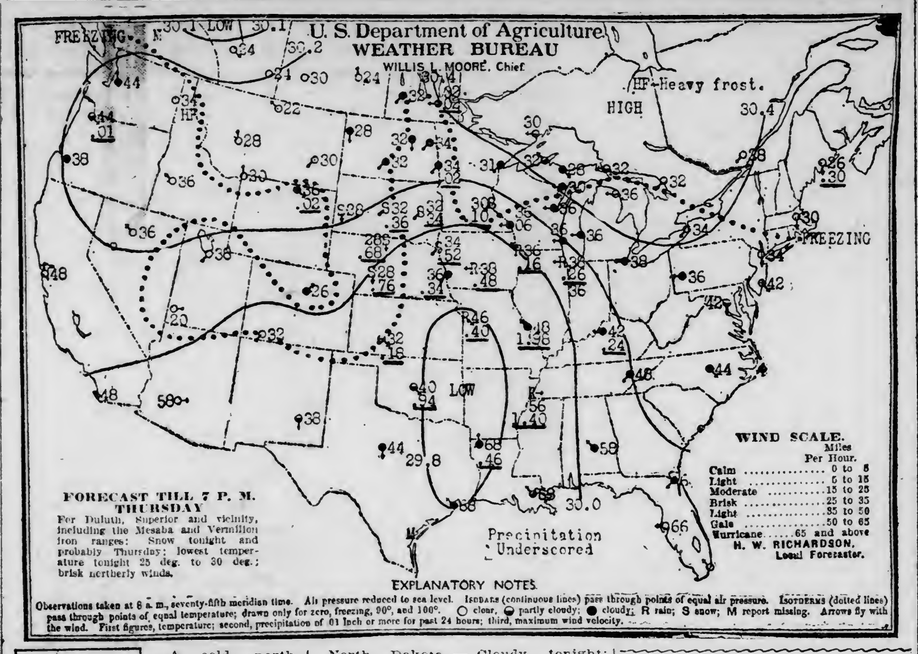

(From American Home.)

The contrast between the freckles and the clear skin usually is so great that no bleach can be more than partially successful in obliterating the disfigurements. Ordinary mercolized wax is far better; it literally peels off the freckles. Get an ounce of it at the nearest drug store and tonight spread on enough to completely cover your face; remove in the morning with warm water. Repeat daily until every freckle has disappeared.

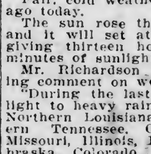

Rough, blotchy, pimpled skin, also common at this season, may be entirely gotten rid of by this same method, without discomfort or inconvenience. The effort is decidedly worth while, the new complexion obtained being so clear, smooth and youthful.

If bothered with wrinkles, after washing off the mercolized wax bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. This is the most effective and quickest-acting wrinkle treatment known.

HOPEFUL OF A BIG CROP

Minneapolis Grain Dealer Comments on Big Grain Stocks in Northwest.

Says Big Export Demand Alone Is Holding Prices Up.

"The wheat situation of this country looks extremely bearish to me," said W. A. Gregory of the Minneapolis grain commission house of Gregory, Jennison & Co., who was a guest on the Duluth grain exchange today. "To my mind all that prevents a big slump at the present time is the strong foreign situation.

"The government report on American winter wheat and the excellent prospects, as they have thus far appeared, for a successful season for the raisers of spring wheat, make it appear as if this country would have an enormous crop in the fall of this year. We have a line of elevators in North Dakota and our agents report that the ground is in fine condition, being well supplied with moisture. It is true that there was not as much fall plowing as there should have been, but I do not think that will reduce the acreage, though some grain men seem to think so. Of course a great deal of wheat must be sown through the stubble, after merely disking the ground, in order to maintain the acreage. In Southern Minnesota we are interested in some big elevators and therefore are watching the crop conditions there also. The ground there too is in excellent shape for the spring sowing, having plenty of moisture, and as far as I have been informed, the plowing is about up to what it usually is at this time of the year.

"In addition to the fine prospects for an enormous American wheat harvest this year, there is another powerful bearish factor and that consists of the large supplies of wheat in the elevators. At Minneapolis the wheat stored away now amounts to 21,000,000 bushels. The demand of cash wheat is slack and I have no doubt that an uncommonly large quantity of wheat will have to be carried over by the Minneapolis elevators into the new crop year. Here in Duluth you have 18,000,000 bushels of American wheat. I think it is a reasonable estimate that the country elevators of the Northwest have about 15,000,000 bushels, thus making a total of about 54,000,000 bushels in the elevators of the Northwest, besides what the farmers are keeping in their bins. This is a most remarkable supply for this time of the year.

"The strong foreign situation seems to be all that is holding the wheat markets of North America up. It appears that the European wheat is generally of very poor quality, a large percentage of it being totally unfit for milling, and good only to be used for feed. Hence Europe has had to pay for her good milling wheat on Argentina and North America. The readiness with which Europe has absorbed the shipments from these countries shows that she is in urgent need of it.

"I believe that Duluth will be working a large amount of American wheat for export before navigation opens. Duluth spring wheat prices have been moving nearer and nearer to an export basis. Today your prices seem to be only ¼ to ½ cent too high to compete with the Winnipeg prices for the export movement to Europe. I believe this little difference will soon be wiped out."

Your Herald ad. should find an eager buyer for those lots—it's "the season."

DEPOSITS DECREASE

When the comptroller of the treasury called for statements of national banks on April 4, and the state banks followed suit by giving statements to the state bank examiner, it was found that there was a slight decrease in the matter of total deposits in Duluth banks from those that existed when the last call was asked, which was on Feb. 4. At that time there were in the banks of the city—national and state— $24,062,833.20. This time the deposits totaled $23,878,621.28.

It is explained that the decrease in deposits is chiefly because of the backwardness of the season, and it is asserted that as soon as the opening of navigation occurs and grain and other commodities begin to move, there will be a noticeable jump in business and also, consequently, in deposits. Following are the deposits shown at the close of business on April 4:

SCHOOL LEAGUE RULES ADOPTED

Boys' Department Provides Regulations for Interscholastic Ball Players.

The Duluth interscholastic athletic committee met at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday and adopted the rules that will govern the baseball section for the coming season.

The committee yesterday adopted a name and defined the object of the organization. The name is the Duluth Interscholastic Athletic league, and the object to conduct all branches of athletic sports. Each school may be represented by two representatives, and an executive committee of seven will be composed of the officers of the league, two other members, and the secretary and physical director of the boys' department. The executive committee will meet Friday afternoon and make out the schedule for the coming season.

The committee yesterday decided to have an opening night when all the teams may register. This will give an opportunity for each team to get acquainted with the other men. Short speeches will be made by the officers. Another feature that the executive committee will decide Friday will be the making of the opening game a big feature. All the players will go out together, possibly in automobiles, and the mayor of the city will be asked to throw the first ball. At the close of the season an all-star team will be picked. They will be known as the best boy players in the city of Duluth. A system of points will be worked out, which will take in the neatness of the men, their deportment, punctuality at games, and a banner will be awarded the team winning. The following rules were presented by the executive committee to the whole body yesterday and voted on:

Any boy may become a member of the league from his school by being registered.

The league shall be divided into an East and West division and each team shall play each other team twice. The champions of the two divisions will play a series of three games to decide the championship of the city.

Only members of the school represented by that team shall play on the team, and each must be registered and shall always have his ticket ready to show umpire if asked, or give satisfactory proof of his membership in the league.

Any team playing an unregistered man shall forfeit the game to the opposing side.

Any team failing to appear when the umpire calls the game shall forfeit it.

Games called on week days at 4:15, Saturdays at 9:30 and 2 p. m. Weekday games to be seven innings and Saturday games nine.

The decision of the umpire shall be final.

Any member of the league using profanity or tobacco, or acting in an ungentlemanly manner either on the field or going to and from the games, shall be suspended from the field and the executive committee shall act on his suspension from the league.

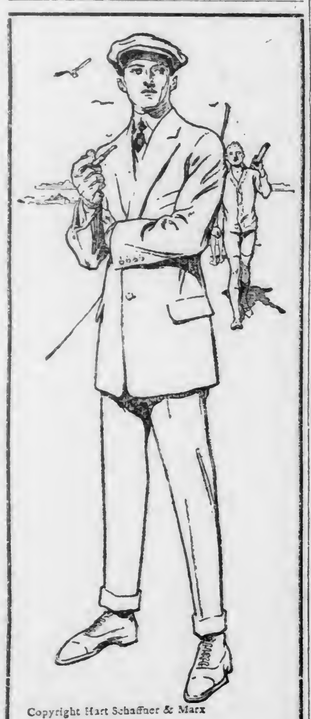

Each team shall submit a ball to the umpire to meet with satisfaction.

Home teams shall be held responsible for the behavior of the crowd.

In case of rain or darkness, the umpire may call the game at the last full inning, and said game shall stand provided five innings have been played.

The umpire shall determine the condition of the grounds.

The captain of the team and the umpire shall decide upon the ground rules before each game.

CURTAIN RAISER AT BROOKLYN

First Game of Big League Season on New Ebbett's Field.

New York, April 9.—Under a brilliant April sun, major league baseball got a running start for 1913 today with the official opening of the National league season at Ebbett's field in Brooklyn, towards which fans began to flock at an early hour for the initial clash of the big league baseball year.

By the grace of the baseball powers that be, the Brooklyn club, so that its new field might be fittingly opened, was permitted to play the opener at home with Philadelphia. Not until tomorrow will the games be on in the big double circuit as a whole, the American and National leagues then meeting in the full complement of eight cities.

KLAUS HAS BEST CLAIM TO TITLE

Pittsburg Fighter Is Considered Leader in 158-Pound Class.

Since the death of Stanley Ketchel there has been no legitimate middleweight boxing champion of the world.

There have been many claimants, but no one fighter has been able to rightfully claim the crown.

But there is one man who looms above all others.

Every day Frank Klaus, the Pittsburg "bear cat" grows stronger in the estimation of the fight critics. He is establishing himself as the best of the present crop of "middlers."

Klaus' work in the American and Parisian rings has stamped him as a wonder. Gradually he is eliminating the other middleweight topnotchers. His recent easy victory over Billy Papke raised his stock considerably, and today he is to meet George Carpentier, the French middleweight, who has almost grown into a light heavyweight.

The middleweight championship lapsed with the death of Ketchel in 1910, and has been open to competition ever since. Elimination tournaments have been held in several parts of the country. Some of the chief contenders aside from the successful Pittsburger are Jack Dillon, Leo Houck, Eddie McGoorty, Billy Papke, Dave Smith, Mike Gibbons, Jack McCarren and Barney Williams.

When Tommy Ryan retired from the ring in 1907, after the years of dictating the middleweight title was left open. All sorts of fighters jumped at the chance to claim the honors. Finally Joe Thomas and Honey Mellody, two of the best boys of their day, met, and Thomas won. He was acknowledged as the new champion.

Ketchel fell heir to the title when he defeated Thomas in a thrilling 32-round battle at Colma, Cal., Sept. 2, 1907. It was one of the most wonderful battles ever seen in a modern ring, and thereafter, until his death, Ketchel was hailed as the middleweight champion of the world.

It will not be Klaus' first battle with Carpentier. Last June the Pittsburg star won on a foul in the nineteenth round, the bout being held in Dieppe, France. But Klaus was winning all the way.

Some of Klaus' big victories have been scored over Jimmy Howard, George (Knockout) Brown, Sailor Petroskey, Jack Dillon, Marcel Moreau and M. Boine, the latter two Frenchmen.

The history of the middleweight title holders follows:

Tommy Chandler	1867-1868
George Rooke	1868-1874
Miko Donovan	1874-1882
Title lapsed until 1884.
Jack Dempsey	1884-1889
George Le Blanche	1889-1891
Bob Fitzsimmons	1891-1897
Title lapsed, Fitzsimmons entering the heavyweight class.
Tommy Ryan, claimant	1897-1907
Ryan retired undefeated in 1907.
Stanley Ketchel, claimant	1907-1908
Billy Papke	1908—49 days
Stanley Ketchel	1908-1910

THE MOTIONS OF WALL STREET.

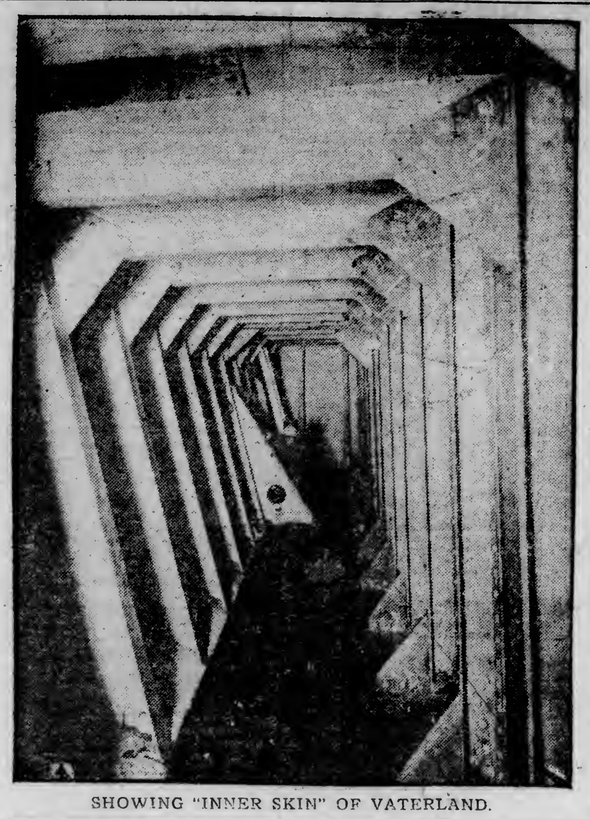

Popular Magazine: George Howard, son of the late Earl of Howard, possesses the title of lord, but he does not use it. One of the best things he does is to tell a good story, and this is his favorite narrative illustrating man's power for optimism when the luck is against him:

During the panic of 1907, a New York broker was hit hard. Day after day and hour after hour fate rose up and gave him a jolt by taking large bunches of money away from him. Tired out by a long day of big losses, he was stepping into his automobile when a friend hailed him and asked, with a sunny smile:

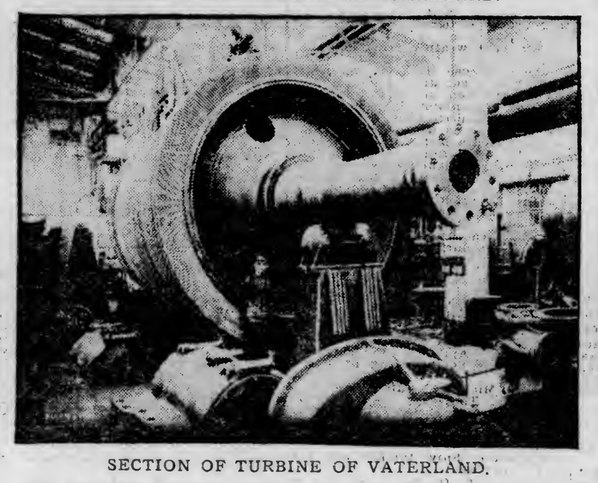

"Well, did you have a good day today?"

"Rotten," said the worn-out broker. "Everything I sold went up, and everything I bought went down. Thank goodness, none of these things can go sideways."

DOUBLE SIDES OF STEAMSHIP

SHOWING "INNER SKIN" OF VATERLAND.

SECTION OF TURBINE OF VATERLAND.

The steamship Vaterland, recently launched at Hamburg, is the second "greatest ship in the world built for the Hamburg-American line. The first was the Imperator, a sister ship, which has been completed and will make its first trip to New York from Hamburg May 24. There is a third sister ship now under construction. These ships, bigger than anything else afloat, have set a new standard and already keels have been laid for still larger ships by one of the English companies. But these undoubtedly will be excelled in turn by the newest of the Hamburg-American floating palaces. Chief among the considerations in the building of the Imperator and the Vaterland was safety. Each of these ships has an inner skin forming a double hull which is carried far above the water line. Such a disaster as that which destroyed the Titanic will be impossible to these ships therefore. The hull of the Vaterland is constructed of heavy steel plates of unusual strength and more than 1,500,000 rivets, weighing two pounds each, were used in the work. These rivets were put in place before the portholes were cut and to make the portholes the steel plates were cut with the newly-invented oxy-acetylene torch. Another provision for safety is the equipping of the Vaterland, like the Imperator, with two 80,000-candle power searchlights, the largest ever constructed. These will be carried on the foremast. They will be visible for thirty miles. The Vaterland will have eighty-four lifeboats, with accommodations for all on board. Two of these will be high-powered motor boats, which can tow the other boats in case of accident. She will have also, the most complete outfit of bulkheads and water-tight compartments of any ship afloat except her sister ships. The communicating doors between the compartments will be controlled from the bridge. Of course the provision for comfort on the ship will be a step in advance of anything heretofore known. There will be gymnasiums, a grillroom, a veranda cafe, a palm garden, a Vienna cafe, private dining rooms and many other luxuries. The Vaterland measures 950 feet long. The new liner was christened by Prince Rupprecht, under the direction of Prince Regent Ludwig of Bavaria.

THE PERFECT LOVER.

Mrs. Maud Churton Braby in "The Love Seeker:" I believe that, with a few fortunate exceptions, almost every wife is, in the secrecy of her heart, a little disappointed with the life marriage has brought her.

Where is the perfect companion who thought with us, worked with us, laughed with us, whose brain stimulated ours, who made us witty, brilliant, subtle—in whose company we always shone as with no one else? Where is the perfect friend whose sympathy and understanding never failed? Where, oh, where is the perfect lover whose embrace was a deep delight beyond all words and whose ideal of joy we alone realized?

A Man After Marriage.

This man who at intervals rushes into our home, eats hasty meals, sleeps the sleep of the just, the weary, and the indifferent, then rushes off again—can he be the only concrete realization of that perfect mate, our lover, friend, and hope?

Can this conversation over the dinner table about the insurance bill, and the most lasting kind of metallic filament lamps, and whether or no all the bolts of all the ground-floor windows need to be fastened at night—can this be the only food for brain and soul that we are to have?

And the hasty kiss upon the temple, or wherever it happens to fall, the pat upon the cheek—gods! is this our share of the banquet of passion?

Is this all we may realize of the divine, mysterious madness that once created such strangely beautiful imaginings in the deepest recess of our hearts, such delicate dreams tinged with the bitterness of things too sweet?

He is very kind, this stranger-man whom our children call father. All his work, his hurry, his preoccupation is for us—that we may lack nothing. He pours out the fruit of his toil for us; uncomplainingly he slaves and plans—all for us.

He is infinitely patient with our mysterious melancholy. It will pass, he thinks, it always does—and meanwhile the state of the share market requires immediate attention.

When Love Ceased To Be Blind.

Who can say how we first began to fall out of love? I think one of the earliest signs is that trifling mannerisms never before noticed now jar on us—affect us unpleasantly. When we really care, everything in the loved one seems right. When we fall out of love all is wrong. Even the most insignificant details about him or her become acutely distasteful to us.

How is it that, in all these years, we never noticed—much less minded—the irritating way he coughs? We were not even aware of her little trick of constantly touching her hair that now so maddens us?

Nothing wears out a woman's love more utterly than passion without tenderness. But her need for passion is limited, but her craving for tenderness is insatiable, and therein lies many a woman's tragedy; for few men can be tender, and of those who can most of them won't.

I believe that man's love is often killed by the boredom consequent on woman's ceaseless craving for tenderness. If men only knew it, tenderness is the master key that opens all women's hearts, but it must be a virile tenderness. The femininely tender man gets jilted long before the wedding day.

"The ideal lover" has occupied many poets and novelists. In the clear light of prose he must be very young, it seems, unless he is past 40.

Women Like Reckless Lovers.

As a rule, it is only a very young man (apart from this matter of tenderness, in which he, too, is generally lacking) who is capable of loving a woman in the way she wants—that is recklessly, gloriously and entirely regardless of appearances.

Past 30, a man is always greatly preoccupied with the fear that his love may be apparent to others. Strange to say, he is ashamed of loving. Women, however, glory in 't.

Man hides his love with far more shame than his sins. Woman flaunts hers as she never does her virtue. I have heard this adduced, by men, of course, as a proof of superior masculine refinement! The very young man has this pride of love in common with a woman.

He advertises his passion by every possible device, drags hints about it into his conversation and even into his letters, and generally makes a display of it in a way that women find irresistible. I believe this accounts largely for the attraction very young men have for mature women.

When the Man Is 40.

There only remains to add that the most tolerable lover is generally past 40. By then a man has learned something of women's needs. He is kinder, more considerate and much more grateful for love.

He has not the drawback of the young man's inexperience, and life has knocked a little of the selfishness out of him. He is much more faithful, because he knows exactly what he wants in woman and is thankful if he finds it.

The most unsatisfactory of all lovers are the men between 30 and 40. They desire their own good above all else. They have lost their awe of woman without realizing their need of her. Pity the wretched woman who falls desperately in love with a man between these ages!

AWAY OFF.

WILL LEAVE IT TO STATE

President Not to Interfere With California Laws on Aliens.

Trusts No Measure Will Be Passed Conflicting With Treaty.

Washington, April 9.—President Wilson let it be known today that the Federal government would not interfere with pending legislation in California by which aliens who have not declared their intention of becoming naturalized as American citizens, are prohibited from owning land or property. He communicated this decision informally to Representative Raker.

Though the measure is aimed primarily at the Japanese, the fact that it makes no discrimination of race in its contents, as well as the desire of the president not to interfere with the sovereignty of the state, has precluded any action by the Federal government at this time.

People Want Law.

The president was told by Mr. Raker that the people of California would enact the law through the initiative and referendum if the legislature refused. He declared the sentiment was five to one in favor of the law.

The president's position had been merely that of an inquirer for information following protests by the Japanese government.

Representative Raker had shown the president a telegram from J. B. Sanford, a leader in the senate of California, requesting that the Federal government not interfere with local affairs. The president's decision today, Mr. Raker said, would find approval in California.

Leaves It to California.

President Wilson told Mr. Raker the whole question touched the sovereignty of the state and that he left it to California to make such laws as it deemed advisable with the hope, however, that no law would be passed which was in conflict with any treaty obligations of the Federal government.

It is believed that the protest of the Japanese government will be held in the state department until the legislation is actually passed. Then the constitutionality of the measure may be tested in the United States courts by Japanese residents in California.

PATRIOT PIRATE OF THE GULF

Kansas City Star: Brief news dispatches told the day of the sailing of a steamer laden with $5,000,000 in gold for a port in the Caribbean sea—and not a pirate to fear! What a prize that vessel would have been in the brave days of old, when Jean Lafitte, the patriot pirate of the Gulf, ruled over a little outlaw kingdom of his own within a few miles of the city of New Orleans.

A picturesque figure was Jean Lafitte, with a graceful, courtly deviltry about him which made him popular with many of the most estimable dwellers in New Orleans. Handsome, able, averse to the shedding of blood, and even possessed of loyalty to the government whose excise laws he made it his business to break.

Lafitte, as you may guess, was French. He drifted to Louisiana in the early years of the nineteenth century, and set up in piracy in the Bay of Barataria, a sheltered harbor on the Gulf of Mexico, protected by a long island called Grand Terre, where Jean Lafitte dwelt in a house of brick, with broad and comfortable verandas, where one might loll at ease in a hammock, smoking and drinking lazily, while pirate chiefs filed in to bring reports of plunder taken and prospects ahead.

No Common Breed.

No crude or common pirate was this Jean Lafitte. He held a privateer's commission from the Republic of Cartagena, which has been recently established in South America and has long since been forgotten, and this commission gave him the right to plunder Spanish ships. Perhaps he plundered other ships, too; but the Spanish were his principal victims. Lafitte's followers were a motley collection—black, white, yellow and red—restless and reckless rovers of the sea. One must admire the ability of the man in keeping them as well under control as he did, from there was no looting of the nearby coast—no disorder in Louisiana. Lafitte trafficked in silk and gold and negroes; fulfilled his contract promptly, sold his goods openly at auction even in the city of New Orleans and had many friends among the planters.

He was popular, too; there is no doubt of that. Had it been otherwise he would not have been permitted to remain five years in Barataria. As early as 1809 we find governers of Louisiana thundering against him, but Lafitte went calmly about his business. Occasionally a revenue officer was killed in a brush with the pirates. Invariably Lafitte expressed his sorrow that bloodshed had become necessary. A case was brought against him in the Federal court: the district attorney was a man named Grymes. Lafitte went to see Grymes, and the result of the visit was that the district attorney resigned his office and undertook Lafitte's defense. He and the lawyer who assisted him were promised $20,000 apiece for their services and got it. After the case was dismissed Grymes went to Barataria to receive his fee and spent a week feasting with the pirates, who treated him with princely hospitality and escorted him back to the Mississippi in a handsome yawl, laden with caskets of gold and silver.

Defied the Law.

Repeated attempts had been made to organize a military expedition to destroy Lafitte's pirate colony, but up to the year 1814 they had always come to nothing. In September of that year a British brig anchored six miles from Barataria Pass, and its captain came ashore and offered Lafitte a captain's commission in the British navy and $30,000 if he would join the British in an attack against New Orleans.

Lafitte pretended to consider the offer, sending word meantime to a member of the legislature of the British captain's offer and declaring that he would never accept it. He sent another letter to Governor Claiborne, who had offered $5,000 for Lafitte's head, and for whose head Lafitte in return, in a spirit of gay bravado, had offered a reward of $50,000. Lafitte suggested that the governor extend clemency to his pirates, who in return would aid in the defense of the state against the British. The offer was rejected, and an expedition under Commodore Patterson of the United States navy swooped down on Barataria unexpectedly, tore down the brick house, confiscated much plunder and drove out the pirates, who at first formed their ships in a line of battle, but afterward changed their minds and fled to hide among the numberless waterways and bayous.

Jean Lafitte and his brother Pierre escaped and established themselves on the Lower Mississippi. Meanwhile Andrew Jackson had arrived to undertake the defense of New Orleans. Jean Lafitte went boldly into New Orleans to see him, although the fiery general had declared he would have nothing to do with "these pirates and hellish banditti." There must have been a peculiar charm and persuasiveness about Jean Lafitte, for after the interview Jackson changed his mind, accepted the aid of the pirates and showed the utmost trust in them. And throughout the siege of New Orleans the followers of Lafitte showed themselves worthy of confidence. They were excellent gunners, and two of Lafitte's captains, Dominique You and a man named Beluche, were put in charge of ships. When the British had been driven away Jackson recommended that Lafitte and his men be granted pardon for all previous misdemeanors, and the thing was done.

Honored By City.

The city of New Orleans even erected a statue in honor of Dominique You when he died many years later. Nobody seems to know exactly what became of Jean Lafitte and his brother. They evidently could not bear to settle down and become prosaic burghers: In 1816 we find Jean in Galveston, Tex., whence he was chased by the Spanish government in 1820. Later there came stories of cruises in the Caribbean; the call of the sea was too strong for the one-time Barataria. Today red, black and yellow fishermen dry shrimps where swarthy pirate folk once swaggered, gorgeous in scarlet sashes, but you may still hear whispered tales of Jean Lafitte and of iron-bound chests of gold buried under the roots of the tall pampas grass.

EXPLAINING THE NEEDLE.

Youth's Companion: A typesettor in a printing house became very adroit in explaining the large number of misprints for which he was responsible. Even when he changed his work and became a waiter in a restaurant, his skill did not forsake him.

One day he had served a guest with a plate of soup, and came turning away, when he was called back sharply.

"This is an outrage!" cried the indignant diner. "I find a needle in my soup! What does this mean?"

"Just a misprint, sir," explained the former typesetter. "It should have been a noodle."

SHORT BALLOT WINS.

Los Angeles county, California, has adopted the short ballot. Under the law, the county will have only three elective officers besides the supervisors—the sheriff, the district attorney and the assessor. All others will be appointed by the supervisors, the sheriff or the superior court.

Many members of the National Municipal league, and other publicists, are connected with the National Short Ballot association which is conducting a national campaign for similar election methods. President Woodrow Wilson is the head of the national organization. Richard S. Childs, secretary and treasurer, is a National Municipal league man, being a member of the executive committee.

WHEN MRS. HAYES SAT ON THE WHITE HOUSE "LID"

Kansas City Star: Mr. Wilson's reported plan of banishing all forms of intoxicating liquors from the White House is not an innovation. He is not setting a precedent. For Rutherford B. Hayes did the same thing at the request of his wife, and started his regime at the White House by having all the wine and liquor glasses removed from the premises.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes arrived in Washington in a pouring rain only a few days before the inauguration. There had been a cry of fraud in connection with his election, and there was a general fear of a revolution. The city was crowded with people, and there was a fine procession, but there was less display than usual and no inaugural ball.

Was Fond of Society.

Mrs. Hayes was a sweet, gentle, courteous woman, hospitable and gracious. She was descended from Puritans and was an enthusiastic church worker. She was versed in social etiquette of the best society and frankly acknowledged her pleasure in becoming the mistress of the executive mansion. Unlike Mrs. Grant, she was charmed with the house; every room had its history. "No matter what they build, they will never build any more rooms like these," she would say, as she took her friends over it. Her husband had already enacted a strange scene in the Red room, secretly taking the oath of office before the chief justice, with only herself, Gen. Grant, and his son for witnesses. This was done lest a revolution might follow the uncertainties of his election.

The wife of the president was an element in the administration and placed herself beside her husband in his official rank. Outside interference she met with dignity and rebuke. When a woman came with suggestions as to the presidential housekeeping, Mrs. Hayes replied:

"Madam, it is my husband, not myself, who is president. I think that a man who is capable of filling so important a position, as I believe my husband to be, is quite competent to establish such rules as will obtain respect in his house, without calling on members of other households. I would not offend you and I would not offend Mr. Hayes, who knows what is due his position, his family and himself, without any interference of others, directly or through his wife."

Made Her Power Felt.

This was a dignified position to take, but no other woman in the white house ever exercised such power over public affairs and such rigidity in domestic affairs. She not only believed in and practiced total abstinence from all intoxicating drinks, but she determined that all who came within the doors of the national mansion should also abstain.

The secretary of state declared it was not according to the rules of hospitality to invite the diplomatic corps to their annual dinner and serve no wines. He refused to consent to it. Mrs. Hayes would not yield the point, and as is usually the case in such affairs, a plan was devised to circumvent her. Oranges were prepared filled with delicious frozen punch. Mrs. Hayes and the uninitiated marveled that this fruit was so extremely popular and was preferred above everything else on the menu. Unknown to her, Roman punch was served at every state dinner, the steward duly instructed how to temper the potency for each guest. Those who partook laughingly called it "the life-saving station."

The name of Mrs. Hayes was heralded over the country as one who, sitting in the highest place, had set a noble example for the world. She was a devout follower of a religious sect that frowned upon all forms of amusement, so the billiard table was removed from the house at her bidding. If her husband planned a quiet little game of cards in his private room, there sat his wife, more entertaining and winsome than ever, full of interest in the domestic affairs of each guest. Once a man ventured to remark that he was afraid the party was detaining her from the ladies and the pleasant duties of her station. But she only smiled and declared with charming sweetness that this was the hour with her husband and any of his intimate friends who happened to drop in. The president yawned and the guests departed with the sweetest "parting benediction" from Mrs. Hayes.

Not to Be Deceived.

The next day Mr. Hayes said to his disappointed friends:

"It's no use. Lucy won't have it. She doesn't say a word, but you see how she works it. There won't be any kind of wickedness in the White House if she can help it. There is a great deal of intriguing which she knows nothing about, but that doesn't count. When she strikes anything off color, she shoots it on the spot."

A temperance crusader passing through a Pennsylvania village heard that the postmistress was in the habit of attacking every man, not a teetotaler, who came into the office. For this offensive meddling in the temperance movement she was about to be superseded. The crusader, relying on a potent factor in the White House, boldly telegraphed for a stay of proceedings. The story, as he told it, was heard by Mrs. Hayes. And, though the order for removal was made at the postoffice department, the woman held her job.

Officeholders and officeseekers often played the hypocrite to ingratiate themselves in the favor of the devout wife of the president. Once winning it by total abstinence, prayers and psalm singing in her church, they feared neither president nor secretary of state. One young fellow who knew that he was not in good repute with his superiors went regularly to church and prayer meetings where Mrs. Hayes attended. He would look at the same song book with her and sing with great enthusiasm. It worked well and paid, the conscientious woman never suspecting. Such a stainless, zealous young man without a home was just the protege for Mrs. Hayes.

There was to be a little official junketing down the harbor in a government vessel. Cards were issued to those who were to make up the party. This spotless young man was designedly excluded. He called upon Mrs. Hayes and casually mentioned that he had no card.

One of the President's Party.

"Oh, come and go with us and a card will not matter," said the gracious woman.

His scheme was a success, but the trip caused his ruin. He was invited to the men's cabin, where champagne corks were being drawn and liquor was flowing freely, unknown to Mrs. Hayes. The young man indulged. In a rather uncertain condition he appeared in the presence of Mrs. Hayes. The next day a letter of dismissal lay among his official papers.

Mrs. Hayes' friends, to show their appreciation of the stand she had taken upon the temperance question, had a picture of her painted full length, to hang in the White House. The space selected did not suit the fancy or aesthetic taste of President Arthur, and he moved it when he entered the White House. This brought down a storm of such abuse that one would have imagined he had profaned something holy.

Mr. Hayes courteously accompanied his successor to the capitol and congratulated him upon his accession. Mrs. Hayes had kindly invited the venerable mother of Garfield to the White House on her arrival and escorted her to the capitol to witness the inauguration of the son she called her baby.

In the evening Mrs. Hayes went to the inaugural ball and bade a dignified farewell to Washington society. And one of the most beloved mistresses of the White House ended her regime.

DON'T MARRY AN ORIENTAL

An American Girl Warns Others Against Far East Cunning.

California Wife of Egyptian Prince Found Him Cruel.

New York Journal: "I told him that there was something else in this big world for me to do than to be shut up and cry."

This an American girl issued her defiance to a king. It was her retort to the khedive of Egypt's plea, one we have all heard more times than we have dollars or even pennies: "A woman's place is in her husband's home."

"Be it never so happy," she finished, adding to the discomfiture of the occupant of Cleopatra's throne.

They were saucy words to be spoken to a monarch, and the speaker might have been punished as are the contumacious women of Turkey, by a sack and silence and the waters of the sea.

She is an American, though she bears the title of princess, bestowed upon her by her husband, the Prince Ibrahim Hassan, cousin of the ruler of Egypt. She is primarily an American girl. She was a Californian, and one of the handsomest of that state of handsome women, before she became a princess, and to a woman the habit of saying what she thinks clings.

That is the reason why, with her small foot shod in gray silk stockings and black velvet pumps, impatiently tapping the floor of her hotel apartment, she said without fear and without wavering:

"An Oriental husband is like a small boy that delights in tying a tin can to a kitten's tail or in pulling a fly to pieces, wing by wing, leg by leg, eye by eye. There is something in him that makes him like to see suffering!"

Will Live in New York.

Princess Hassan was explaining why she is in this country. She has telegraphed to San Francisco for her mother, and will hereafter reside in New York instead of Cairo; in a brown stone front instead of a white marble palace in the midst of a lotus garden.

"The most foolish act a girl can commit, except suicide, is to marry an Oriental," said the tall women in black velvet and gray fur, her tiny foot going on with its tapping. "The inhabitants of these opposite sides of the world are as unlike as oil and water, and they will assimilate no better.

"First, because Western candor is no match against Eastern cunning. The Oriental thinks of what would never occur to us, and is as deep as we are broad. He is unfathomable. A man is a stranger to his wife, and will always be a stranger. It is useless for her to attempt to become acquainted with him. He will not have it. The veil of secrecy that wraps every Oriental round, baffles her.

"In America a wife has a chance in a mental contest, or in a conflict of wills, with her husband. In Egypt or Turkey, or any other part of the Orient the American wife is powerless, for he uses against her the mighty weapon of concentration. In America we are all activity. In the East they are content to simply be. They concentrate on what they wish, and the active temperament of the West is as helpless against it as the butterfly in a net. An Oriental will wait weeks, months, years, for what he wants. He is the most patient creature on earth, cruelly patient.

Passing Admiration.

"But also he is fickle. The poor foolish American girl thinks a soft smile, a caressing voice, a pair of burning eyes, mean constancy! Pouf! They do not. The Oriental admires his wife for a short time while she is pretty and dainty. But," she glanced at a thick, closely written perfumed letter on the table beside her, "I have here proof of the inconstancy of the Oriental. That letter is from an English girl whose Egyptian husband has treated her with the utmost cruelty. He was subtle about it. Ah, yes! The Oriental is always subtle. His cruelty is not that of the upraised hand nor the bellowing voice. It is the most complete and relentless neglect.

"The writer of that letter is a young mother. During the long months of dread and danger before the baby came she never saw him. In this blessed country if a man stays away from home a wife may write him asking him to 'make up.' Or if, as is common in Egypt, he simply remains in his part of the palace and never visits hers, she may put on her hat and rap on his door and say: 'Come on, let us take a walk and talk it all over.'

Not so in the Orient. The wife must wait for him to come to her. It is contrary to etiquette for her to sob or beg to be forgiven for she knows not what. She must wait and wait, wait on, as in most cases it is, until death.

"Association with Europeans is slowly doing away with the harem. The younger princes do not often avail themselves of Mahomet's permission to have four wives. "But," Princess Hassan lifted eyes that have wept; "they are unfaithful. My husband had no harem. I am his only wife, but he continued old flirtations and associations. While Prince Ibrahim was wooing me I was a goddess. He approached me figuratively on his knees. But afterward he was very different.

Her Palace a Prison.

"It is true I lived in a palace, but I soon learned that it was a prison. I an American girl, free to come and go as I liked, could not go on the street without yards of veiling swathing my face. How I hate the touch and smell of chiffon. I have never worn a veil since I left Egypt. When I told my husband how I hated this custom of veiling a woman, he said: 'You are for my eyes alone!'

"Almost immediately after the marriage ceremony I noticed a change in Prince Ibrahim. Before all suavity and almost cringing deference, he turned dictator. He was the jailer of my prison. When he wanted to see me he expected me to be within call. When he did not, he expected me to efface myself.

"When we visited Paris he never allowed me to go about alone. If he was not with me his slave, Selim, was always following me, watching me with the unwinking gaze of the basilisk.

"We quarreled finally because, tiring of my rooms in the hotel, I chose to dine in the public dining room. I left him.

"Several times the khedive called upon me last winter and tried to persuade me to return to Prince Ibrahim. I answered, 'There is something else in this big world for me to do than to be shut up and cry.' And when he said 'A woman's place is in her home,' I replied, flippantly it may have seemed, but bitterly it was, 'Be that home never so unhappy.'"

The khedive's cousin still hopes to win back his wife. To win her back to Oriental living she declares is impossible. Were he to come to the States and become an American—but that would be a miracle and the time of miracles is lost in the past.

THE RICH FEEL HIGH COST OF LIVING

A Society Woman Says Fashionable Attire Is More Expensive---There Are Some Social Leaders Who Spend $100,000 a Year.

New York American: "Mrs. Woodrow Wilson's expressed sentiments on sensible and economical dressing I think are splendid. The admission of the 'first lady of the land'—a woman occupying the highest position in the country, that she spends less than $1,000 a year on clothes is an object lesson to women in general and women of extravagance in particular.

"Very many women spend far more than is necessary to be beautifully gowned and in good taste."

So says Mrs. Edward N. Breitung, known as "the best groomed woman of the West," who has acquired a similar title in New York since she came here a few years ago.

She is the wife of the wealthy banker and broker of Marquette, Mich., and Chicago, and, with her husband and daughter, Julia, has spent several seasons at the St. Regis, becoming actively identified with the social life of the "400." She is also interested in many well-known philanthropies.

Gowns Much More Costly.

"While it is said that the cost of clothing to the poor has increased," she added, "there is no question that this expense for those who pay high prices for their gowns has increased enormously. Last year I paid $2 to $25 more for every article of wearing apparel I purchased, from silk hose to evening wraps.

"For instance, the cost of a plain tailored suit a year ago was $150. This year practically the same kind of a suit cost me $185."

While enthusiastically favoring Mrs. Wilson's ideas, Mrs. Breitung said she could not recall any woman in her acquaintance who spends less than $1,000 a year on dress. She knows many women in fashionable New York society who spend $25,000 a year on clothes.

How to Spend $100,000 a Year.

"Women who are constantly going in for fads in jewels," she added, "purchasing jewels to harmonize with the color of their gowns and having them reset, and having their furs done over, adding expensive pieces here and there. In this way one can spend upwards of $100,000 a year on dress.

"Disregarding the customs duties, gowns can be purchased cheaper abroad than here, because labor is cheaper, so that I believe it can be truly said that American women spend more on dress than the women of any other country.

"Some of the richest women of the country, however, spend the smallest amount on dress. Not that they do not care for dress, for these women I have in mind are beautifully gowned, but they are good business women. They refuse to allow shopkeepers to overcharge them.

"Whether a woman is always well groomed depends entirely on the manner in which she takes care of her clothes. Some women who spend a great deal on gowns are careless about small things in their dress, and they lack the finished look that every woman should have when she has completed her toilet, whether she is going to the opera or to business. She should see to it that the lace on her gowns is always fresh looking, that her gowns and hats are in good repair."

Mrs. Breitung hesitatingly admitted that Mr. Breitung had given her a fur stole this winter of a rare species of silver fox, which cost $9,000.

Men Often Responsible.

"Extravagance in dress is not always due to woman's desire to spend money. There are many men who like to see their wives well dressd, who take a pride in seeing their families handsomely gowned, and often it is they who encourage the spending of large sums for jewels, expensive furs and the most costly Parisian models."

She pointed out that $1,000 would not go far in supplying the costly items of wearing apparel needed by women of New York society, and cited two evening wraps a season at $300 each, silk hose at $8 a pair, shoes at $10 to $12 and several hats at from $25 to $75 on an average.

"When you consider these few items," she said, "you can readily see that $1,000 would not be sufficient to cover a season's outfit, to say nothing of the four seasons, when different dress is required."

ATMOSPHERE THAT DESTROYS.

Pearson's Weekly: City air has amazing properties. The smoke and soot that are always in the atmosphere (there are 6,000 tons of soot hanging over London every day) contain lots of sulphur, and this sulphur when it meets certain substances forms sulphuric acid, or vitriol.

It was the vitriol in the atmosphere that brought the great roof of Charing Cross station down with a crash a few years ago. The engine smoke had eaten away the iron, which was insufficiently painted. And some years ago, before the London underground was electrified, it was a great joke at one of the stations for passengers to go and poke umbrellas into a certain iron girder, which at one point was nearly as soft as putty.

Paint is in such cases the engineer's great stand-by. In some ways paint is more powerful than iron.

Many city buildings might be said to be practically held together by paint, particularly railway stations.

NAPOLEON LOST SOMETHING, TOO.

London Opinion: Host—That is the sword of my great uncle. He lost his arm at Waterloo.

Guest—Yes, it's a terrible place for losing things. I lost a bag there only last week!

WHEAT PRICES TAKE REBOUND

Reaction Takes Place From the Slump of the Previous Session.

Light Offers and Better Demand Cause Flaxseed to Advance.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 9.—Wheat had a reaction today from the slump that took place yesterday and a considerable portion of the loss was wiped out. Duluth May closed ⅝@½c higher. Cash wheat closed a cent under May. Durum and barley closed unchanged, oats ¾c higher and rye a cent up. Duluth May flaxseed closed at an advance of a cent and July 1⅛c higher.

Wheat had a considerable reaction on the North American markets today from the slump that took place yesterday, but by no means all of that loss was wiped out. There seems to be a general expectation that not only Manitoba but also American spring wheat will be worked from the Duluth harbor for export when navigation opens. The reports of winter wheat crop prospects today were still very good.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 88-⅛c, opened today at 88c bid and at noon was quoted at 88⅝c bid. There were higher quotations also at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Liverpool wheat today closed ¾ to ½d lower. The slump was due in the main to a bearish interpretation of the government report on the American winter wheat crop. The decline was checked somewhat, however, by the firmness at Buenos Ayres, steady Plata offers and reports that rains in Argentina were interfering with the movement of wheat and also with the seeding.

Flax Is Higher.

Flaxseed on the Duluth market today was firmer on the strength of light offerings. Minneapolis crushers showed a better disposition to buy flaxseed and at noon the price of cash seed on that market was on a par with Duluth May. Minneapolis crushers have been obliged of late to purchase more freely of American flaxseed, being no longer able to get the Winnipeg seed at prices that would make the transaction a paying one.

Duluth May flaxseed at noon today showed an advance of ⅝c and July was ⅞c higher. Winnipeg May at noon was ⅞c higher at $1.13⅛, being 14 cents under Duluth May. Buenos Ayres May seed last night closed ¼c off, at $1.21. London-Calcutta April and June seed today closed 2⅛c off, at $1.52⅛.

The Chicago Paint and Drug Review says: "The linseed oil business cannot be considered in a very satisfactory state. There has been little or no business and the market can be reported as quiet but steady. Deliveries are being taken by paint manufacturers on contract and they are pretty well up on these, but jobbers and dealers have been somewhat backward and orders from this direction cannot be expected until spring trade sets in and until there is a more general realization that prices will not recede and, on the contrary, are likely to take an upward turn. Chicago quotation for raw linseed oil was 42c on Monday of this week.

"There has been little change in the cake market, prices being low and there being scarcely any business. Nominal quotations are made at $21 per ton in Minneapolis for export.

"The meal trade is keeping up, as sales are made to take the place of cottonseed oil. Under the circumstances, sales are being confined to domestic consumption as far as possible, and prices are quoted at $24@$25 per ton in Minneapolis."

The Price Current, Cincinnati, says: "Aside from the flooded section the winter-seeded crops indicate very little abandoned acreage. The month starts in with a generally good outlook for growth over the country. There is a dry area in the far western area of the winter wheat belt to reckon with, but that is not a menace. The country generally has good moisture this spring and over a fairly large area unseasonable rainfall. Much moisture followed by average climatic conditions makes a heavy yield. Slowness in plowing and seeding in the spring wheat region may eventually account for reduced acreage.

John Inglis wired from Fort Wayne, Ind.: "In north central counties of Ohio and Indiana wheat is deeply rooted with more than ordinary stooling at this early date. Grass and clover fields are showing good growth. Farmers are complaining that they will have to bale their surplus hay and ship out, as there is no local demand for it loose."

The following is from B. W. Snow at Dodge City, Kan., under date of the 8th: "Drizzling rain fell all day. The total fall was light, but more threatened. Great Bend is very spotted. Large areas looked brown and dead, but the root is still alive. I think present weather conditions will revive it, but it won't stand much more punishment. Roughly, there are about one million acres west of Rush county that are now a doubtful proposition, but there is still a chance for it to make an average crop. It is too early by two weeks to deal in certainties, as the plant is very late and usually dependent upon April weather. In the six million acres lying east of Rush county, I regard the present prospect as above an average."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Covering By Shorts Sends Wheat Upward After Nervous Opening.

Chicago, April 9.—Covering by shorts sent wheat up today after a nervous opening in which prices were from a shade to ⅜c lower. General rains over the winter belt and lower Liverpool cables were the depressing factors at the start, May opening a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 91¾c to 91⅞c. The ensuing buying rally brought May up to 92¼@92⅜c.

Still higher prices were reached on reports of big exports in sight and the weather in the Northwest. The close was easy with May at 92½@92⅝c, a net gain of ⅝c.

Unfavorable weather in the corn belt sent prices upward. May started ⅛@¼c to ¼@⅜c higher at 55⅜c to 55½c and advance dto 55⅝c.

The market became very strong and active on influential buying. Profit-taking sales checked the advance a little. The close was strong with May at 56¼@56⅜c, a net gain of 1⅛c.

Scattered commission house buying advanced oats, May opening a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher at 35c to 35¼c and firmed up to 35⅜@35½c.

Provisions opened irregular, showing a range of 10c lower to 5c higher with May prices $19.50 to $19.55 for pork; $10.70 for lard, and $11.00 for ribs. On fair buying prices later grew firmer in pork.

Bond dealers declare that bonds are now very low-priced and that there are excellent opportunities for bargains in that line of investment.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—Barret & Zimmerman report: The feature of today's trade was the numerous retail orders from farmers in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Upper Michigan. There was also a good demand for wagon horses for delivery purposes for city use. Railroad contractors, who are usually heavy buyers of both horses and mules at this season of the year, have not placed any orders yet this spring. Dealers hope however, that when the spring opens up, there will be a good demand for both horses and mules for contracting work. Receipts comparatively light. Values as follows:

STOCKS ARE FORCED DOWN

Energetic Selling Pressure Exerted All Through the Afternoon.

Little Inclination to Support Prices and Close Is Weak.

New York, April 9—The more cheerful tenor of European advices facilitated further squeezing of the short interest which was influential in sending up prices in the early trading. Improvement in financial and political affairs abroad was reported in cable dispatches and reduction of discount rates by the principal governmental banks was predicted. When the list had risen handsomely, however, reports of the flotation of large stock and bond issues halted the advance. An increase in idle freight cars, shown in the fortnightly statement, was another depressing influence. Bear selling was resumed and prices went off speedily to a level with yesterday's close or below. Bonds were steady.

There was o keen demand for stocks at the opening today and first prices were substantially higher. Large amounts of the leading shares changed hands. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Erie, Reading, Can and North American gained a point or more. Chesapeake & Ohio was the weak feature, declining a point.

Selling by interests which considered the upward pace too rapidly caused a sharp reaction which generally cancelled the initial rise. Pennsylvania showed extreme weakness, selling a point under yesterday's closing on apprehension of a new large bond issue.

Local traction stocks made a sharp upward spurt around midday and Woolworth jumped 4 points on the increased dividend and a large gain in March earnings. These movements failed to arrest the sagging tendency of the general market which sympathized in a further fall in Pennsylvania to 116⅝, the lowest since 1908, on the news of a $15,000,000 stock issue.

Energetic selling pressure was exerted all through the afternoon and prices were hammered down materially. Pennsylvania touched 115½, a loss of 3½, and Union Pacific, Reading, Baltimore Ohio and New York Central also ruled 1 to 2 points under yesterday's close.

The market closed weak. Short selling increased as it became evident that there was little inclination to support prices in face of the accumulation of unfavorable factors. Standard stocks showed more weakness than the general run of material specialties, and the action of the market was in great contrast to yesterday's late show of optimism.

HOUSE CAUCUSES WILL BE SECRET

Proposition to Have Open Meetings Is Not Approved By Members.

Washington, April 9.—House Democrats caucused again today on the tariff bill after the majority of the ways and means committee had met to formulate a tariff program. The caucus will be succeeded by others for several days and all will be secret. A fight backed with the moral support of President Wilson for an open caucus was lost last night.

The caucus adopted the ways and means committee recommendations for the rules, accounts, mileage and enrolled bills committees. These, with the ways and means committee, they also agreed to constitute the only committees to be named at the outset of this session. All the other committees by unanimous consent were left to the discretion of Chairman Underwood and his colleagues, which probably means that none will be named until the tariff is out of the way.

OBITUARY

Thomas C. Halsey, who was commodore of the Southern Pacific line of steamships up to his retirement six years ago, died from heart failure at Brielle, N. J., April 8. Captain Halsey at various times commanded most of the company's steamships. He was 69 years old.

H. Ward Stone, formerly a member of the Minnesota house and senate, and for years one of the most prominent business men in western Minnesota, died suddenly at Minneapolis April 8. Death came as Mr. Stone sat in his library, talking with his friend C. L. Waldo, 403 Oak Grove street, and was due to heart failure.

New Stock Issue.

Philadelphia, April 9.—The directors of the Pennsylvania railroad, at a meeting today passed a resolution authorizing a 10 per cent stock issue amounting to about $45,000,000. This means that a present stockholder has the right to subscribe at par for new stock to the extent of 10 per cent of his holdings.

COPPER STOCKS CLOSE LOWER

There were lower closes in most of the leading copper shares today, but the losses were not large. The coppers were pulled down somewhat by the weakness of the general stock market of New York. The copper metal market of London, however, was rather bullish, spot and futures closing at an advance of 2s 6d. Butte & Superior closed at a decline of $1 to $1.50. There were lower closes also in Amalgamated, North Butte, and Calumet & Arizona. Shattuck closed a little higher, being an exception to the general list.

Gay & Sturgis received the following wire from Boston, Mass.: "At the annual meeting of the North Butte, to be held on April 12, the report will show that the mine was never in better condition than now and that there has been a large increase in the ore reserves. For some time the company has been producing on an average of 2,250,000 pounds of copper a month and it is intended to maintain this output throughout the year."

The same office received a telegram from Butte, Mont., as follows: "General Manager Pope of the North Butte is authority for the statement that the Snowball vein has not yet been reached on the 2,800-foot level. It is understood, however, that the crosscut is approaching the Snowball vein, and reports from the mine are that other faces on that level are in some of the best ore ever opened by North Butte."

New York American: Every one knows how extremely difficult it is to "break" a child or a grown person of the so-called habit of being left-handed. After experiments and systematic attempts that have covered more than twenty years, made by experts, in the study and training of children, the result has led to the belief that the reason left-handed people are not good talkers is because the power of the hands is intimately associated with the unfolding of the language sense and that the cerebral centers which regulate language are located on the left side.

In other words, that part of your brain which controls your speaking ability is in the left side of your head, in relation to the centers which regulate the control of your right hand and arm. And so, if this decision, made after a score of years of study, is quite correct, most of us have been wrong all these years in the belief that a child becomes left-handed solely through accident or because it was allowed to use its left hand too much. Some are even so superstitious as to believe that if the first thing put in a baby's hand is put in the left hand the child will become left-handed and vice versa.

But now it seems that left or right handedness is really due to the development of the right or left side of the brain. Thousands of human skeletons were carefully examined, and this demonstrated that in all casese where the right arm is better developed than the left there is evidence of a correspondingly increased development of the left side of the brain.

This is really not as complicated as it seems. If the left side of your brain is better developed your right arm will be better developed. If the right side of your brain is stronger, your left arm will be stronger. It seems that it is the development of either one or the other sides of your brain that regulates the strength of your arm.

Now it happens, as mentioned above, that speech is controlled in a section of the brain just on the left side. The result is logically that if your brain is better developed on the right side your ability to talk eloquently, to make speeches and carry on brilliant conversation is not as great as it would be if the left side of the brain were stronger. You are also inclined to be left-handed with a stronger section of the brain on the right side. Consequently, left-handed people are not good speech makers.

COUNTY DIVISION BILL IS DEFEATED BY CLOSE VOTE IN STATE SENATE

Championed By Boyle and Opposed By Pugh and Cheadle.

House Has Debate Over the Two Efficiency Commission Bills.

Bill to Prevent Railroad Monopoly of Water Fronts Passed.

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lydiard amendment to the efficiency commission bill was defeated by the house early this afternoon. In speaking against the organization's bill, Representative C. L. Sawyer read an editorial from last evening's Herald favoring an independent investigation. The organization bill will be passed.

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Boyle county division bill came to a vote in the senate shortly after noon today, and it was defeated, the vote for it falling three short of the thirty-two necessary to pass it. There were 28 votes against it and 6 absentees. Senator Boyle changed his vote from no to aye in order to be in a position to move later to reconsider the defeat of the bill and give it another chance.

All three senators from St. Louis county participated in the debate. Senator Boyle, championing the bill, said that the present county division law is inadequate, and that this bill is a fair measure which he asked the senators to vote for on its merits. He made the strongest appeal to the members to support him that he could make.

Senator Cheadle, opposing the bill, said that the present law has proved adequate for a long time, and that there is no need or excuse for such a change as the one proposed, which

BELGIAN TROOPS READY FOR STRIKE

Occupy Industrial Centers of Belgium to Quell Any Disturbance.

Brussels, Belgium, April 10.—Troops today occupied most of the great industrial centers of Belgium in preparation for the general strike ordered for Monday, when 300,000 or 400,000 men will quit work.

In most of the cities large crowds gathered to watch the arrival of the troops and cheered the soldiers as they marched.

The Socialist strike leaders in the various localities have offered to the authorities the services of special constables drawn from their own ranks to aid in preserving order. They affirm that any outbreak of violence will delay their cause for half a generation.

The strike is an attack on the present system of plural voting in Belgium, whereby citizens have one, two or three votes according to their station in life. The strikers demand that each male citizen shall have only one vote.

Under the present system every citizen over 25 years of age has one vote. Every citizen over 35 years of age, with one or more children and paying a dollar or more in house tax, has a supplementary vote, as has also a citizen over 35 years old, who owns $400 worth of real estate. Two supplementary votes are given to graduates of universities or men who hold office or are ex-office holders.

No person has more than three votes and failure to vote is a misdemeanor.

In 1911, the number of voters was 1,700,000 of whom 995,000 had one vote, 395,000 two votes and 310,000 three votes.

PROHIBITION OF DANCING

House Advances Bill Barring Dancing From the Public Schools.

Bill Authorizing Aid to St. Louis County Fair Quickly Passed.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon advanced to the calendar by a narrow vote the Lee bill prohibiting dancing in the public schools of the state.

The bill is one which might fairly have been labeled "a bill for an act to foster and encourage the public dance hall."

It might also have been as fairly labeled "a bill for an act to devote to waste four-fifths of the public capital investment in public school buildings," because, without social center development, school buildings stand idle for all but a few hours during five days of each week of about nine months of the year.

The bill was not advanced without opposition, however, and it was not advanced by a vote sufficiently large to

POPE'S CONDITION SAID TO BE BETTER

Weakness of Heart and Intermittent Pulse Still Causing Anxiety.

Rome, April 10.—At noon today the condition of the pope was much better, but the weakness of his heart and his intermittent pulse were still causing anxiety.

The doctors permitted him to eat an egg with broth, but the patient was able to take it only with difficulty.

The pontiff passed a comparatively calm night disturbed only by occasional fits of coughing and periods of great perspiration.

COUNTY DRAINAGE BONDS FOR SECURITY

Minnesota Representatives Ask Treasurer Burke to Accept Them.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, April 10.—Representatives Steenerson and Stevens of Minnesota today had a conference with John Burke, treasurer of the United States regarding the acceptance of drainage bonds issued by various counties in Minnesota as security for government deposits.

Mr. Burke seemed favorably impressed with the proposition but will consider the request further before making a definite answer.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER IS RISING RAPIDLY

Memphis, Tenn., April 10.—The Mississippi river gauge here today registered 46.5 feet, a rise of five-tenths in the past twenty-four hours.

The Memphis gas supply was cut off yesterday when the levee protecting the gas plant was broken. Several firemen in the pits had narrow escapes. Every car line to the east of the city was cut off for hours as the result of the breakdown of the storm water pumps following a torrential rain.

PROTECTION FROM FLOODS

National Drainage Congress Will Consider Plans to Avoid Them.

Bills Will Be Prepared to Present to Next Session of Congress.

St. Louis, April 10. — The National Drainage congress, which began a 3-days' session here today has for its chief work the preparation of a bill to be introduced in the national congress, providing for a comprehensive plan for drainage and flood protection.

One faction of the congress will urge legislation for the appointment of a national drainage commission, which will center its efforts on the reclamation of 75,000,000 acres of swamp and overflowed land in the United States, the protection of the public health by the drainage of swamps and the prevention of floods by an adequate system of levees and storage reservoirs.

When the congress was called to order at 10:15 o'clock the executive committee was not ready to submit its report of what legislation should be urged on the Federal congress, and

OFFICIALS ARE FORBIDDEN TO GIVE OUT NEWS

Secretary McAdoo's Order Has Been Extended Through Department.

Nothing Must Become Known Until Office Has Passed Upon It.

No Report Can Be Made By Bureau on Test of Friedmann Cure.

Washington, April 10.—Secretary McAdoo's "gag order" has been extended from the assistant secretaries of the treasury, to whom it originally applied, to every bureau and division chief of that extensive department. Nothing whatever concerning government business there may become known until the secretary's office has passed upon the desirability of its publication.

Surgeon General Blue of the public health service, is forbidden to give out any news whatsoever of the progress of the government's test and investigation of Dr. F. F. Friedmann's tuberculosis vaccine, or to warn the public of danger of disease or epidemics; the life saving service is forbidden to make known news of a vessel in distress or of measures taken for the relief of any crew. The revenue cutter service is forbidden to send public warnings of derelicts in the path of navigation or give the news of sending one of its ships to a distressed vessel.

All such information now is sent first to the assistant secretary in charge of the division or bureau in which it originates and then to Secretary McAdoo's office where it is made public or suppressed. The treasury is the only department of the government in Washington where a gag order has been issued. Secretary McAdoo's new policy is a complete reversal of that of Former Secretary MacVeagh who instructed his subordinates to give out news of the public business with accuracy and dispatch except where it would defeat the ends of justice or in the case of determination of important policies.

PROPOSITION MADE TO TELEPHONE GIRLS

Willing to Grant Small Concession in Wages and Rearrange Hours.

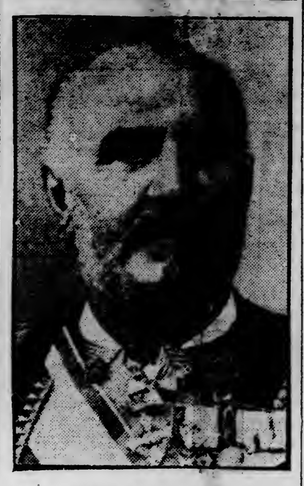

Boston, Mass., April 10.—The New England Telephone & Telegraph company has offered to the executive committee of the Telephone Operators' union a proposition embracing concessions on several points in answer to the union's demands. This offer made during a series of conferences arranged in an effort to prevent the threatened strike was made the basis of further conferences which continued to a late hour.

The concessions are understood to have included the following:

A small increase in wages, the establishment of eight and a half hours as the maximum working day; the readjustment of the so-called "split trick system," and the appointment of a board of three operators to hear all complaints by operators and to report to the company officials.

NO PUBLIC HEARINGS TO BE GIVEN BY THE SENATE COMMITTEE ON TARIFF

KING NICHOLAS MAY ABDICATE THRONE

KING NICHOLAS
Of Montenegro.

Takes Position That Sufficient Was Heard By House Committee.

Some Expert Testimony and New Information Will Be Heard.

House Democrats Resume Consideration of the Bill in Caucus.

Washington, April 10.—The senate finance committee has determined not to have hearings on the tariff bill, taking the position that the hearings conducted by the house ways and means committee in January were sufficiently thorough to cover practically all the points the senate needs to consider in connection with the pending legislation.

It is believed now that the tariff bill, after it finally reaches the senate, will not remain in the committee more than ten days. Some expert testimony and some new information upon certain disputed ideas may be secured by the committee but no open hearings will be held.

The senate was not in session today and members continued the study of the tariff bill in private. Republican forces are preparing for a united attack upon the Democratic revision, on the ground it not only destroys all production to many American industries but that in many features it practically is a free trade bill. It is expected that a conference Republicans will be held within a few days to discuss some of the more drastic features of the proposed Democratic revision.

House Democrats Meet..

House Democrats met to resume consideration of the tariff bill in caucus when the house adjourned. The chemical schedule having been approved exactly as written by the ways and means committee, the earthen and glassware schedule was next. Consid-

KING OF MONTENEGRO MAY QUIT COUNTRY

London, April 10.—King Nicholas of Montenegro, definitely has arranged plans to abdicate his throne if force is employed by the European powers against his little kingdom. This announcement was made in official Montenegrin circles here today.

The arrangements for this action were made by King Nicholas in consultation with King Peter of Servia. The agreement provides that King Nicholas shall abdicate as soon as he and his family quit the country. Montenegro then will effect a union with Servia, while King Nicholas and his family will be given an appropriate provision from the civil list and will reserve a right of succession to the Servo-Montenegrin throne.

EXPLOSION OF AMMONIA BOILER KILLS FOUR.

Pensacola, Fla., April 10.—Four men were killed today by the explosion of an ammonia boiler at one of the plants of the Moore Ice works. Fumes from the escaping ammonia overcame several firemen who attempted to enter the wrecked building.

Convicted Mora Doctor Dies.

Mora, Minn., April 10.—Dr. Francis Ilstrup, convicted of manslaughter last week and sentenced to the state penitentiary for five years, died in the county jail of apoplexy Tuesday. He was graduated by the University of Minnesota medical college in 1894, and has practiced in Mora ever since.

GRAND FORKS MAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Railroad Cashier Found Crushed to Death in Crookston Yards.

Crookston, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Lobsinger, cashier for the Northern Pacific at Grand Forks, N. D., for the past seven years was found dead along the Great Northern tracks in the north part of the city this morning with both legs crushed and a hole in his skull. The body was still warm and it is believed he boarded a westbound freight coming here at 6:45 a. m. and fell off.

He came over yesterday with Agent Hand of Grand Forks to check up some old accounts and they expected to return to the Forks this morning. Lobsinger was 40 years old and leaves a wife and two children. The Knights of Columbus of Grand Forks have chartered a special train and will be here before noon to take charge of the remains. No one saw the accident which is a complete mystery.

GOVERNOR A. O. EBERHART AND HEADS OF TWO GREAT RAILWAYS VISIT DULUTH

ASSISTANT SECRETARY TALKS TO NAVY LEAGUE

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT.

STANDS FOR STRONG NAVY

New Administration Believes in Maintaining Nation's Prestige.

So Assistant Secretary of Navy Tells Navy League of U. S.

Washington, April 10.—An efficient navy, large and powerful enough to maintain the nation's prestige, is the policy of the new administration, as outlined today to the Navy League of the United States in its eighth annual convention by Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy. His statement created enthusiasm. It was regarded as directly reflecting the views of Secretary Daniels and the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt called on the members of the league to aid in popularizing the naval establishment and declared that as effective work could be done outside the navy as within it. He dwelt on the need of support for the secretary of the navy and the administration's naval policy.

"This is not a question of war or peace," he said. "I take it there are as many advocates of arbitration and international peace in the navy as in any other profession. But we are confronted with a condition—the fact that our nation has decided in the past to have a fleet and that war still is a possibility."

Tells of Men.

Mr. Roosevelt told of the thousands of men engaged in manning the ships and in attending to the mechanical work of the department ashore. He said the service was being developed as with the intention of making it a factor for the national good.

Fargo, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grinding an electric light bulb into powder and eating the pulverized glass was the method selected by John Lamalfa to commit suicide. He is the youth who robbed the Orpheum theater recently, securing $200. He left a letter charging that one of the local policemen had treated him brutally and he was tired of living.

His condition this morning is so improved that he will probably recover.

FINANCES FOR THE FARMER

Organized Co-operation in All Branches Urged By Speaker.

Chicago, April 10.—The third and final day of the First National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits brought forth expert opinion regarding the financial needs of the farmers as interesting as those heretofore heard on the subject of marketing.

Among the speakers were financiers, educators and editors. One of the most interesting papers heard from the standpoint of farm credits was by Herbert Myrick of Springfield, Mass., president of several weekly papers especially interesting to farmers. The author was not present and the paper was read to him.

Some of the foremost speakers of the day were B. F. Harris of Champaign, Ill., former president of the Illinois Bankers' association; George Woodruff, president of the First National bank of Joliet, Ill.; Homer C. Price, dean of agriculture of the Ohio state university, and W. G. Edens of Chicago.

Mr. Myrick's paper on "Comparative Finance" set forth, among other things, the following:

"Comparative Finance."

"Organized co-operation is the greatest of all marvels in economic evolution. Applied to finance it multiplies a hundred fold the power of each dollar of cash by transfers of credits through the mechanism of ex-

LOCAL SOCIETY COVERS FIELD

Solicitors for Chicago Charity Collecting Money in Duluth.

Courtenay Dinwiddie, secretary of the Associated Charities, has investigated the merits of a Chicago charity which has sent a solicitor to Duluth for funds for several years. In his opinion, the society's plea that it is doing work in this section is not substantiated by fact and he believes that the same field is being covered by a local organization which should be favored instead.

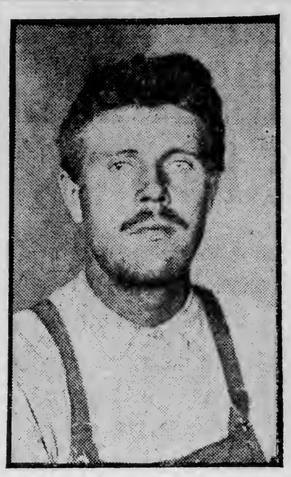

In this connection Mr. Dinwiddie said today: "It has come to the attention of the Associated Charities that there is a solicitor in Duluth at present representing a society which does both religious and philanthropic work with headquarters in Chicago. This society has been collecting money in Duluth for several years on the plea that it was doing work in this section of the country.

"As a matter of fact the Duluth Salvation Army is covering the field here which the society referred to endeavors to cover. It would seem much more appropriate to give the money to local work in Duluth rather than to send it to Chicago and incidentally to have part of it go toward traveling and other expenses of an itinerant collector. A great deal of money for ostensibly good purposes is diverted in this way every year from organizations which are doing good work in Duluth and which are much in need of funds and in some cases the money contributed has been literally squandered on traveling expenses and the salary of the collector.

"Business men of the city are constantly annoyed by all kinds of applications for help and many times in order to avoid the annoyance they are inclined to give to the solicitor without investigating the merits of the cause he represents. A much simpler way would be to inquire from the Duluth Associated Charities before giving. In this way donors could be assured that their money would be used for a good purpose."

PYYKKO AT TIME OF ARREST, LAST OCTOBER.

SAME MAN TODAY, FIVE MONTHS LATER.

Hugo Pyykko, self-confessed slayer of Matt Kemp, Midway farmer, on Oct. 30, last, who is waiting sentence on a manslaughter charge, has undergone a transformation during his five months' sojourn at the Hotel D' Meining.

When Hugo entered the sheriff's sanctum sanctorum last October he was about as seedy looking as a last year's bird's nest. Today he appears to be one of the brightest young men held a prisoner at the county jail.

Pyykko is well educated in his mother tongue, that of the Finnish language. Since he has been in custody, he has acquired a good understanding of English. He can speak and understand ordinary conversation without much difficulty. It was taught to him by Mrs. A. B. Siewert.

Pyykko will probably be brought before Judge Cant in district court Saturday for sentence. He must serve from five to twenty years at Stillwater on the indeterminate plan.

Commissioners-Elect Get First-Hand Information on City Affairs.

Official Announcement of Plans and Policies Next Monday.

The five men who will become Duluth's first commissioners next Monday, are improving the time remaining before they take office. Almost every day this week they have met and talked over plans. They have made no announcements as to policy or appointments, but it is expected that their plans will be formulated for definite action at the first meeting Monday.

Yesterday the commissioners made a trip over the city with the city engineer. All of the important streets were gone over and the condition of pavements noted. The commissioners will thus have first hand information when paving matters come before them.

Today the commissioners are guests of the West Duluth Commercial club, which will hold its annual banquet tonight. The commissioners will also be guests at the banquet.

People interested in the distribution of duties and applicants for appointment under the new government are at sea. The commissioners decline to commit themselves on any questions as their course after taking office and the first official announcement will be made after the five men take over the city government.

The administrative ordinances by which the city departments will be classified for the five divisions provided by the charter have been submitted to the commissioners for such action as they think best. The question of classification is one in which the commissioners are supreme. Even after the five divisions are once made up, such changes may be made as the commission decides upon, and it is expected that many experimental assignments will be made during the first months of the new rule.

ASKS SQUARE DEAL FOR THE FILIPINOS

Says United States Is Holding 7,000,000 Against Their Will.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 10.—"The great American republic is holding 7,000,000 people against their will and governing them by an oligarchy of five royally salaried officials, who firmly insist on the retention of the islands for the betterment of its people.

"With a change of administration, America has now the opportunity to retire gracefully and give a square deal to the Filipinos."

Such was the summing up of an address on the Philippines by Dr. John R. McDill of Milwaukee before the Milwaukee Press club last night. Dr. McDill served in the United States army in the Philippines a number of years, beginning with the Spanish-American war and lived in that country in all about thirteen years.

"I have found the Filipinos a most conservative and reasonable people," he said. "Aguinaldo's dignified acceptance of the inevitable after his capture has attracted favorable comment from all and one cannot help but feel that had the situation in the Philippines been in more tactful hands at that time, much if not all, our trouble would have been avoided. Gen. Otis persistently minimized to the American people the extent of the resistance to American sovereignty and censored every bit of information that left the islands. We all remember his 'I will let nothing go that will hurt the administration.'"

He characterized as deliberate misrepresentation of facts reports of officials to the American people.

DULUTH IS NOT A WHITE SLAVE MART

Madison, Wis., April 10.—The need of a state vice commission, to investigate conditions in the white slave traffic in Wisconsin was impressed upon the finance commission of the Wisconsin legislature by numerous speakers yesterday. That Wisconsin is in no less need of repressive legislation than other states, was urged by Senator Victor Linley of Superior, author of the bill. The committee was told that Milwaukee, Superior, Duluth and even "beautiful Madison" were distributing stations for the traffic in women. Club women attended the hearing in numbers.

The Duluth police deny that this city is a white slave mart. They state that they have never learned that white slaves are either bought or sold here. Several cases have come to the attention of the authorities where women have gone to immoral resorts located in other places but in no instance did it appear that any one had been paid to obtain them. The women themselves said that they went of their own accord. It is also not unlikely that women from other cities enter resorts in Duluth but no claim has been made that any white slavers profited by their coming or going. The coming and going of every immoral woman who enters or leaves the city is closely checked by Federal agents and they support the statement of the police that no white slavers buy or sell women in this city.

LEE'S SURRENDER IS CELEBRATED

Women's Relief Corps Members Entertain at Memorial Hall.

A program in celebration of the surrender of Lee at Appomattox, back in '65, was held at Memorial hall, courthouse, last evening under the auspices of the Women's Relief corps.

Capt. Thomas H. Presnell gave the principal address. He spoke of Grant, the man of three r's, "resolute, relentless and resistless," at whose word, he said, in the campaign of 1865, more men moved than were commanded by Napoleon in all of his wars. He paid a glowing tribute to the Army of the Potomac.

Other speakers were Roger S. Lerch, W. D. Strickland, S. W. Clark and C. E. Holt, all members of J. B. Culver post of the G. A. R. Each speaker recalled personal reminiscences.

Elmer F. Blu read Lincoln's Gettysburg speech and other numbers on the program were as follows:

Vocal solo, "Song of My Soul," Miss Ruth Brown; selections on the zither, medley of patriotic airs, Mrs. Joseph Weber; reading, "Little Black-Eyed Rebel," Miss Agnes Nunan; vocal solo, "Carissima," Miss Gertrude Coulombe, reading, "The Old Soldier," Mrs. T. R. Hancock.

The program committee for the evening consisted of Mrs. J. H. Sullivan and Mrs. Nella Williams. The reception and dinner committee comprised Mrs. Alfred Gillon, Mrs. D. Burnett, Mrs. Nella Williams, Mrs. Joseph Weber, Mrs. Clara Kintz and Mrs. J. H. O'Leary. National colors were used in the decorations.

PRESIDENT AT OPENING GAME

Tosses First Ball From the Box to Manager Griffith.

Washington, April 10.—President Wilson arranged his business so he could attend the opening game here today between the Washington and New York Americans and toss the first ball from his box to Manager Griffith.

Clouds that threatened rain finally broke away, but a cold, raw wind swept the diamond. Washington's official and social life was largely represented in the attendance which was a record one. The gates were opened at noon to meet the rush of ticket holders.

Frank Chance, despite a twisted ligament in his left leg, insisted on playing at first in today's game. Griffith had Johnson and Ainsmith ready as his battery and Chance had chosen Caldwell and Sweeney.

MILLERS THREATENED WITH SMALLPOX.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 10.—Members of the Minneapolis baseball club of the American association are threatened with smallpox. Ralph Comstock, a pitcher, who trained with the club at Hickman, and who preceded the other members to Minneapolis, was taken to the pesthouse this morning. Wade H. Killefer, an infielder, who arrived with the club today, may also be a victim. His face was broken out when he reached the city and a physician was consulted. Killefer was told that he was not suffering from the disease, but he will see another doctor today.

President Cantillon has ordered an immediate vaccination of all members of the club.

OPPOSE PUBLIC UTILITY BILL

Real Estate Exchange Wants Pending Legislation Turned Down.

The board of directors of the Duluth Real Estate exchange this morning condemned the public utility bills now pending in the legislature with the following resolution, which was passed unanimously:

"Whereas there is now pending before the Minnesota legislature certain so-called public utility bills which have been forced on to the point of passage notwithstanding the public has been assured that amendments removing many of the serious objections would be made and the public be given opportunity to be heard thereon; and

"Whereas the said public utility bills contain many provisions which are manifestly in the interests of public utility corporations, and against the interests of the communities which they should serve, and whereas such bills are in direct opposition to the growing sentiment of municipal control and municipal ownership of their public utilities, and whereas said bills are so constructed that they bear upon their face, to the intelligent reader, the earmarks of dictation by the owners of the public utility corporations of this state;

"Therefore, be it resolved, That the Duluth Real Estate exchange hereby condemns such bill or bills in their present form as vicious and un-American, framed in the interests of public utility corporations and against the interests of the people and taking away from cities the right to rule and govern themselves.

"We therefore urge the members of the legislature from the city of Duluth, or representing any part of the city of Duluth, to use their best efforts for the defeat of such bill or bills."

Charged With Embezzlement.

H. A. Swanson, manager of the Wear-U-Well shoe store, was arrested yesterday charged with embezzlement on a warrant sworn out by George Grimsrud, traveling auditor for the company. Swanson is charged with embezzling $324 of the company's funds. He was released on $500 bonds and his hearing was set for April 18.

Escape Frustrated.

An attempt to break out of the jail by John Wilder was frustrated yesterday afternoon by Detective Mead, who discovered one of the outside bars partially sawed through. On searching the cell, Detective Mead discovered two small saws. Wilder is being held on a burglary charge.

Suspect Foul Play.

The local police are today investigating the circumstances of the death of Gust Johnson, who died at the St. Mary's hospital early this morning. Johnson was found dying at the foot of the stairs in the lodging house at 1508 North Third street yesterday afternoon and it is the belief of the police that he met with foul play. Several of the lodgers claimed at the time that Johnson had fallen down the stairs.

County Board Meeting.

The first meeting of the recently elected county board will be held April 22. The most important business to be taken up will be the question of purchasing the plant of the Superior Crushed Rock company.

Will Demand Subway.

PRESBYTERY HAS ANNUAL MEETING

Church Gathering Held at Cloquet Wednesday Considered Big Success.

Cloquet, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The presbytery of Duluth, which convened here Tuesday evening in semi-annual meeting in the First Presbyterian church, of which Rev. C. W. Lowrie is pastor, closed last night with a popular evening service consisting of a program of music by local talent and two addresses. The church was filled. The addresses were by Rev. Mr. Barackman, pastor-evangelist of the Duluth presbytery, on "Lights and Shadows," and Dr. W. W. Lawrence on "Men and the Church." At the close of the service there was a short business meeting to dispose of unfinished business, when the presbytery adjourned to meet next fall.

The meeting was considered very successful, there being an excellent attendance and plenty of interest and good feeling, in spite of the fact that unusually bad weather prevailed. Rev. Mr. Watt of Carlton, retiring moderator, preached the sermon Tuesday evening; Mrs. C. W. Lowrie sang a solo, with violin obligato; K. D. Van Wagnen played a violin solo, and C. E. Blume presided at the pipe organ. After the Tuesday evening service the presbyterial organization was effected, with S. A. Blair of Duluth as moderator and Rev. Mr. Sherwin of Two Harbors as temporary clerk and Rev. Mr. Sutherland as stated clerk.

Hear Various Reports.

The business session on Wednesday morning was preceded by half an hour's devotional service conducted by Rev. Mr. Mapson of Ely. The business of the day consisted of hearing the various presbyterial reports, such as home missions, administrative committee, foreign missions, etc. At 1 o'clock the trustees and elders of the Cloquet church and the members of the Presbytery were guests of R. M. Weyerhaeuser, one of the church trustees, at a dinner given at Hotel Cloquet. After dinner addresses were given by Rev. Frank Higgins, "sky pilot of the lumber camps;" Dr. W. W. Lawrence, pastor of Glen Avon Presbyterian church in Duluth; S. A. Blair, Sunday school missionary of Duluth, and S. L. Coy on behalf of the Cloquet church.

ELKS HONOR THE "ELKS' KID"

The Duluth lodge of Elks last night presented John L. Fuller, retiring secretary, with a handsome watchchain and locket, bearing the inscription, "To the Elks' kid, in appreciation of twenty-one years of service to 133."

The regular meeting was transformed into a jollification in honor of the "Elks' kid." Mr. Fuller was secretary of the lodge almost since its organization, and it was with deep regret that the members learned that press of other duties would compel him to retire. He has been succeeded by George V. Heathcote, who will devote his entire time to the duties of the secretary. Exalted Ruler Fillatrault last night appointed H. J. Gibbs as esquire and E. R. Lade as inner guard.

AMUSEMENTS

ALICE LLOYD AND ARTHUR CLOUGH,
In "The Rose Maid" at the Lyceum Monday.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

At the Lyceum on Friday and Saturday the Aborn Opera company will be seen in its much talked of Parisian version of Balfe's greatest work "The Bohemian Girl." That music lovers and theater goers generally approve of the innovations introduced by Milton and Sargent Aborn in their highly spectacular revival of this favorite opera is best attested to by the universally complimentary reviews given to it by the newspaper writers of the country. To those that have seen it only as it was presented previous to last season, it would seem entirely out of place to introduce a troupe of acrobats, horses, monkeys, geese, dogs, chickens, etc., and still those that have seen both the old and the Aborn version have wondered why these seeming incongruities have not always been parts of "The Bohemian Girl," so consistently do they fit.

There is much of interest to the theatergoer in the announcement that Werba and Luescher are to send Alice Lloyd, the most famous of fascinating English singing comediennes, in their latest operatic production, "The Rose Maid," with a reputedly brilliant operatic score by Bruno Granichstaedten, a composer new to America, to the Lyceum Monday for its first hearing in this city, and also that it will come before it has been heard in Chicago or other large Eastern cities.

Of the sparkle and potent witchery of "The Rose Maid" there has been no two opinions. It has been described as a sister production of "The Spring Maid," but its melodic beauty and romantic charm dispel the idea that it need remain in the shadow of the other. This new German piece trips lightly from dreamy, languorous waltzes to clever scintillating fun of the Broadway type, and is as crowded with desirable citizens of the feminine persuasion as the most hardened first-nighter could wish.

"The Rose Maid" unfolds a gay little story, coherent and cohesive, and amuses without resort to the coarseness of low comedy. The work has much that is unusual in musical comedy. A delightful strain of sentiment is mixed with its fun, when the debonair young duke, after a night of revelry, which it would appear has cost him his inheritance, is left alone with his faithful old body servant, and Daphne, the little rose girl, who secretly holds the duke's image in her heart.

A novelty musical act is appearing at the Orpheum theater this week. "Flavilla" is billed in piano-accordeon selections, intermingled with dances. There have been men who have followed this peculiar instrument, but this is the first time a young girl has ever succeeded in mastering this cumbersome music box. "Flavilla" comes by her musical ability through generations of musical ancestors, her father being a well-known musical director of San Francisco; Bothwell Brown, the well-known musical and dancing producer being her uncle, and Al Jolson, well known in vaudeville, being a cousin.

All is activity at the Orpheum this week preparing for the first presentation of the Edison Talking Motion Pictures, which will be seen and heard for the first time in this city Sunday afternoon.

By Saturday afternoon the apparatus will be ready for a "dress rehearsal." Manager Billings is determined that a smooth performance will be given Sunday afternoon.

"Many people think this is for one week only," said Mr. Billings yesterday. "This is not the case. The talking pictures are going to be a permanent feature of the Orpheum bills, and we will have new features every week. The talking pictures are much more expensive than the ordinary motion pictures, and they greatly add to the cost of the Orpheum bills, but there will be no advance in the regular prices, and these talking pictures will be shown during the balance of the Orpheum season. I feel very confident they will be as popular here as they have been in other cities where they have been tried. Duluth is one of the first cities to get them, outside of the big cities like Chicago and New York, and we are not far behind them."

The Empress theater will offer for the balance of this week starting with today's matinee performance a new bille of vaudeville.

Heading this program will be W. J. Nixon's mystifying act, "The Spirit Paintings." These phantom paintings are proving a mystery wherever they are shown. They savor of the supernatural because of the mysteriousness with which they are executed. This act is composed of Dr. Nixon and an assistant, and parties from the audience are invited to come up on the stage and watch and see if they can solve the mystery. The stage is set as a studio, and the method of procedure is very entertaining. Their dress is very natty and neat.

Harry Holman and company offer an up-to-date comedy sketch by Stephen G. Champlin entitled "The Merchant Prince." This comedy playlet has just made its initial appearance in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Washington, Boston and other large cities, and comes here directly from the East, where it has met with the unanimous approval of press, public and managers.

Mr. Holman is one of the cleverest character comedians in vaudeville and gets his effects by naturalness. He plays the part of a millionaire merchant who is besought by the impecunious lover of his daughter for his consent to their marriage. An extremely interesting and entertaining interview is the result and as the young man can only gain consent of his father-in-law-to-be by some display of business acumen, he, with the aid of the daughter, proceeds to trim the old gentleman in a business deal and eventually force the father to give his consent to their marriage. Mr. Lucy handles the part of the young man in love with the girl in a convincing manner, and Miss Anabel Nielson as the daughter is a very charming young lady and suitably adapted for the part.

Two comedians of repute are Irwin and Herzog. "Those Minstrel Boys" as they are styled are very entertaining. Their songs and patter take with the audience at once.

Bud Lawlor is a clever singing comedian. His songs and jokes are given in a pleasing voice. The pictures, both of comedy and dramatic nature, open and close the bill.

MISS ANABEL NIELSON,
With "The Merchant Prince" at the Empress Today.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 10.—Elsie Schwartz, known as "The Flirting Princess," of Milwaukee, was today deported by Inspector Schubert of the Federal department of labor. Two other Italians, Zantamparde Salvatore, 32, and Mrs. Ninetta Arioto, 26, were deported at the same time.

COMPLAINTS NOW SCARCE

Duluth Slowly But Surely Getting Justice From Railroads.

James J. Hill Now Friendly to City, Says Traffic Bureau Head.

"What does 'fairly' mean?" is the question on which the final decision in the Duluth grain rate case rests, according to G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Commercial club, who reported for the commission at the annual meeting of the club last evening.

Mr. Hall reviewed the grain rate fight, and said that the question now before the commission is the construction of that part of the decision which declared that the difference in rates, as between Duluth and the Lake Michigan ports must "fairly reflect the difference in distance."

Mr. Hall referred briefly to the matters in which the commission has been interested this year. He said they aim to get a copy of every tariff affecting rates to or from Duluth or any point with which Duluth interests come into commercial competition.

"When the traffic commisison was first started, we were flooded with complaints on service," he said. "Now we have only an occasional complaint.

"We are working to improve the passenger service. Nothing has ever been strangled and not attempts have been made to strangle anything in the traffic commission. Every suggestion made to us has been given consideration. Announcement was recently made of a new train from Grand Rapids on the Great Northern. A new service will be given soon on the Great Northern's St. Cloud line. On May 5 last, largely through the efforts of the traffic commission, through connections between Duluth and the coast was established with the Oriental Limited and that is placed on the time cards as a through train from Duluth. A change in the Iron Range time tables, which will give range people three hours and forty-five minutes in Duluth instead of having to leave before they arrive, will be announced soon. We are working with the Soo now to have an improvement of passenger service made on the Brooten and Thief River Falls lines."

"We feel that the traffic commission has accomplished things that count for Duluth," said Julius H. Barnes, in following Mr. Hall. "I believe one of the greatest accomplishments is that, though we have always demanded our rights, we have cultivated a friendly feeling on the part of the railroads. The attitude of the Great Northern toward Duluth had changed radically. The attitude of James J. Hill has also changed. The railroads now have a friendly feeling toward the Head of the Lakes, but whether it is due to our attitude or to the tonnage here, doesn't matter.

"Duluth should not carry its old ill will against the Great Northern. The Northern Pacific has always been as friendly toward the Head of the Lakes as the Hill interests would let it. Duluth tonnage is growing, and with the improvement of transportation facilities east by lake it will grow greater. We should lay aside ill will, negotiate for our rights, and there is a fair ground where we may go before an impartial tribunal to obtain those rights if they cannot be obtained by negotiation.

"The Great Northern railroad is an important agency in building up the surrounding country. The population of Northern Minnesota is increasing and Duluth will soon have what it has always lacked, a near sustaining agricultural population."

STRIKE STILL CONTINUES

Miners on Cuyuna Range Have Not Returned to Work.

Rogers-Brown General Manager Expected to Adjust Difficulty.

Brainerd, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cuyuna range strike still continues and the men have not returned to work. The brewing companies have forbidden agents to sell case beer and the embargo on liquor is now complete.

Sheriff Fred Reid has appointed deputies who are now patrolling the mining properties. A report that the 200 men working on the Pennington mine stripping proposition had gone out is untrue. The total strikers and others laying off number about 350 men and include forces of the shaft mines, the Kennedy at Cuyuna, Armour No. 1 and No. 2 at Ironton and the Thompson at Crosby.

Chester D. Tripp of Chicago, general manager of the Rogers Brown Ore company, is expected on the ground, and a settlement may soon be reached. Storekeepers of Crosby may combine and refuse credit. An Industrial Workers of the World organizer is expected. At noon today the Inland Steel company announced they would put men to work in the Thompson mine.

Miners Name Committees.

A miners' committee of eight composed of two from Crosby, two from Cuyuna and four from Ironton, is acting in an advisory capacity. Probably the first time in the history of a strike in this state, citizens as well as miners petitioned the authorities to close the saloons and this has been promptly complied with. The miners have also, says the miners' committee, offered to furnish fifty men to act as special policemen to protect mining property. Another meeting has been scheduled to confer with the mining officials and a settlement seems in a fair way to be arrived at.

A heavy blizzard raged last evening and caused the majority to seek the shelter of their homes. In the afternoon many congregated at Crosby at and in the vicinity of the office of Municipal Judge A. W. Uhl, who assisted them in drawing up some of their petitions. Many gathered at the Crosby village hall. Sheriff Fred Reid, Deputy Sheriff Claus Theorin and a number of deputies are at the mines and deputies have been distributed about the different properties. Should the miners move from this section four miles east, Mayor Culver Adams, son of Cuyler Adams of Deerwood, will order closed the saloons of Deerwood. The mines have necessarily stopped hoisting, but it is imperative at all hazards to keep the pumps going to prevent the mines from being flooded.

RELIEF FUND IS GROWING

Police Association Has More Than $21,000 to Its Credit.

The Duluth Police Relief association is in a flourishing condition, as shown by the reports at the annual meeting held at the headquarters station assembly room yesterday afternoon. The association has over $21,000 in cash and bonds to its credit. The bonds are park and water and light bonds issued by the city.

The officers of the association were re-elected as follows: Capt. A. G. Fiskett, president; Sergeant David Butchard, vice president; Detective Frank Schulte, secretary; and Lieut. John Drannen, treasurer.

The annual inspection was made at the meeting by Chief Troyer and Capt. Fiskett. The officers and men were complimented upon their appearance and the condition of their uniforms.

The dance committee reported that $1,500 was netted at the annual ball given in February. The sick benefits paid aggregated about $500.

"DO WE LIVE ON EARTH AGAIN?"

Question Will Be Discussed By Lecturer on Theosophy.

"Do We Live on Earth Again?" is the subject of a lecture to be delivered by David S. M. Unger of Chicago, Sunday evening, April 12, at the Unitarian church, corner of Eighteenth avenue east and First street.

Mr. Unger is one of the national lecturers of the Theosophical society. Though a deep student of theosophy and occultism, he is an active member of the Christian church and is especially interested in Esoteric Christianity or the "Christian Mysteries, as they were called in the early days of the church. Many of his lectures are along this line. The lecture will be given promptly at 8 o'clock and admission will be free to all who are interested in theosophy and occultism. A collection will be taken to help defray the expense of bringing Mr. Unger to the city.

The regular meeting of the Duluth lodge of the Theosophical society will be held at the lodge rooms this evening at 8 o'clock. The class will commense the study of the qualifications for discipleship, the subject for tonight being, "Discrimination." The meditation class preceding the regular meeting will commence promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

DEVELOPMENT OF FARMS ON RANGE

Mayor Power of Hibbing Talks on Agricultural Prospects.

Victor L. Power, recently elected mayor of the village of Hibbing, at the St. Louis today declared that the prospects of Hibbing and all other cities on the Mesaba range were never so bright as at the present time.

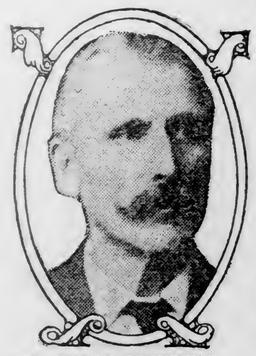

"Northern Minnesota is just coming into its own," said Mr. Power. "The more thought and study one gives to the question of the future development of this section of the state, the more impressive is the conclusion that we have just started on our real growth.

"Some few years ago we thought practically only of mining the iron ore, and took little thought of the other resources nature gave us. Today this section of the state is being recognized as one of the greatest agricultural sections of the United States and this activity is beginning to be felt not only here in Duluth, but also in the other towns and smaller cities of the northern section of the state.

"Through the new trolley line the cities of the Mesaba range have been placed in closer connection with the smaller towns and surrounding country. Thus the smaller cities are contributing to the wants of the country and inversely the growing country is contributing to the business development of the cities.

"We are noticing the growth and development of Northern Minnesota along agricultural lines. We are also noticing the growth in the coming of new settlers. The range is prospering now, and should the present year end as auspiciously as it has begun, there is little doubt but that the ranges will experience one of the very best seasons in the history of general business activities of Northern Minnesota."

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy

MR. FRANK BROWNELL.
USED 5 BOTTLES AND REGAINED HEALTH.

RESTORED HEALTH

Mr. Frank Brownell writes: "Nearly 18 months ago I commenced using Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy. I was troubled a great deal with my kidneys. My brother told me of a case where a neighbor had been given up to die, several doctors telling him his case was hopeless. After using five bottles of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy I felt well again. I know of another cure since mine of a party who was in a very bad condition from kidney trouble but who was restored to good health by Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy."
—Frank Brownell, Brownell, Ariz.

Kidney disease is one of the most common ailments of Americans, yet comparatively few pay attention to the condition of health of their kidneys until the serious stages of the disease command attention through the misery and suffering that follow neglect.

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy has done for thousands for the past 36 years what it did for Mr. Brownell and others he mentions. It is nature's safe provision for mankind against kidney disease, being a carefully prepared healing medical agent. It is pleasant to take, 50c and $1.00 sizes, sold everywhere by druggists. TRIP TO FERGUS FALLS DOESN'T BLUNT OPTIMISM

A genuine, original, simon-pure optimist, who hails from St. Louis county, has been found in the wards of the state hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls.

He is a young man who was recently picked up by the authorities at Virginia, examined as to his mental qualifications and committed by the probate court to the detention hospital.

The young man, in a letter written to the probate court this week, assumes a most happy attitude and pictures his surroundings at Fergus Falls as a place fit for a king.

His optimistic way of looking at things is indicated by a few passages from his letter to the probate judge which reads as follows:

"I intend to make myself at home here for a while, as this is a real palace, the finest my eyes have ever witnessed. I can say the same for the scenery and landscape I saw on my journey to this magnificent building.

"The people here are the finest, best and most intelligent I have ever heard, met or read of in history. I am resting quietly in a private apartment in the detention hospital. I have not had my examination yet, as the examining board is real busy.

"This is worth a high school and university education combined to me and my relatives. The food that we have here is the best and the most sanitary conditions on earth are exhibited here, open to public inspection.

"A man is a d—— fool if he should kick when they mention Fergus Falls to him. I have been through the mill some myself, even if I am only a kid and 18 years old.

"But say, I am strong, have got backbone, am full of St. Louis county mineral water and have lungs built of the breezes that blow from the Jack and Norway pines of the Minnesota forests, which the people should be proud to boast of if they were only preserved instead of being slaughtered down year after year."

The young man concludes by saying that he would like to hear from the court "soon or sooner" and adds his best wishes.

Fifty motorcycles have been ordered by the forestry department of Pennsylvania for the use of rangers on the reserves of the state.

DAYTON FUND IS STILL GROWING

A contribution of $4.22, given by the employes of a local store, for the benefit of the fire and flood sufferers of Dayton and vicinity, was received by The Herald today. The contributors wished their names withheld. This raises the total of The Herald fund for the relief of the victims to $1,287.22. The Herald has already sent the sum of $1,260 to the proper authorities for disbursement for the purpose for which it was donated. The balance will be sent forward in a few days with a complete list of the contributors.

Time to Use Chain Drags.

That chain drags should now be used to place the unpaved highways of Duluth and vicinity in good shape appears to be the unanimous sentiment of livery and automobile handlers of the city. They declare that the roads can be worked now to far better advantage than later in the season, after they have dried. Much may be gained by doing the work while it can be done with ease.

Such opinions were expressed today by Dr. J. D. Park, president of the Duluth Automobile club; J. T. Peacha of the Interstate Auto company, James Sullivan of the Board of Trade livery and L. P. Totman of the Totman livery.

WEST END CITIZENS PLAN TOUR ABROAD

Twenty-five Scandinavian residents of Duluth and Northern Minnesota have already signified their intention of making the tour of the Scandinavian countries this summer, under the direction of Fred W. Erickson, 2029 West Third street. Others are also expected from the range and the small cities in the vicinity of Duluth.

Many inquiries are being received regarding the excursion, according to Mr. Erickson, who stated yesterday that at least seventy-five will take the trip to Norway and Sweden this year. If that number is secured, he said yesterday, an Eastern road has agreed to give the party a special train direct from Duluth to New York city.

KNOCKED DOWN AND ROBBED

Joe Warner, 27 years old, a Minneapolis blacksmith, was knocked down and robbed of $200 in front of the saloon at 419 West Michigan street about 9 o'clock last night.

The fracas attracted Patrolman Fred Harling, who gave chase to the thief when he saw him take to his heels. The robber ran down Michigan street and turning at First avenue west made good his escape in the railroad yards. Warner was taken to headquarters where he spent the night as a lodger. Peter Tomaewski was also detained, the police believing that he knows something about the robbery. He is claimed to have said that he knows the robber. It is said that Warner flashed his roll in several saloons before it was taken from him.

CANDIDATES GO TO COURT

Two More Aspirants for Mayoralty File Contests Against Prince.

McEwen. Silberstein and Fay Will Share Expense of Action.

Referees who will make the recount in the McEwen-Fay-Silberstein-Prince mayoralty contest are expected to be named today. If so, they will start the recounting of the votes for mayor in Duluth's first election under a commission form of government tomorrow. The hearing on the appeals of Bernard Silberstein and W. E. McEwen is set for this afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon W. E. McEwen and Bernard Silberstein filed notices of appeal in district court. Marcus L. Fay filed his papers yesterday morning, as stated in The Herald yesterday. The appeals are from the returns made by the official canvassing board. The general ground is that errors have been made in every precinct.

No specific instances of violations are cited in the appeals, made by Mr. Fay or Mr. McEwen. In the appeal taken by Mr. Silberstein, however, it is alleged that in the Second precinct of the Second ward three votes that were cast for him, but to the left of the first choice column, were thrown out and not counted. Another is that 61 votes of the number cast for mayor have not been accounted for.

In Mr. McEwen's appeal, it is stated that as the judges and clerks of election in many instances were compelled to work thirty-six hours without sleep, there was plenty of opportunity for mistakes to occur. He also sets up that the judges in some cases were not familiar with the preferential system of voting.

Will Share Expense.

The three contesting candidates will share in the expense of the contest, providing that they lose out. The charter provides that the recount shall be made by three referees, one by the contesting candidate, one by the candidate whose office is contested and the third by the two thus selected. In case they cannot agree, the third referee is to be named by the court.

It is expected that the same set of referees will act in the three contests and that only one recount will be made. It is understood that the attorneys representing the contestants will confer with O. J. Larson, attorney for Mr. Prince, and will agree upon who the referees are to be. The recount will probably take two weeks.

James A. Farrell, it is understood, is preparing to contest the election of Hicken and Murchison for short term commissioner. He is expected to file his papers tomorrow or Saturday.

erable opposition to some of the cuts on pottery comes from New Jersey and Pennsylvania members.

The house Democrats have demonstrated that a good working majority is supporting Chairman Underwood and the ways and means committee and this seems to indicate that the caucus eventually will ratify the schedules as presented, including free raw wool and the 25 per cent cut in sugar with the provision for its going on the free list in three years.

Will Be Fight.

There are assurances, however, that such a result will not be accomplished without a fight. Opposition forces are preparing for a struggle for a duty on raw wool and to eliminate the free sugar proviso.

Opponents of free wool are making the argument that the party went to the people in the election committed to a duty on raw wool, as based on the wool schedule passed in congress and vetoed by the president. They declare that when the house agreed to a duty of 20 per cent and later adopted 23 per cent the difference it went on record before the public.

Opponents of the textile schedules had a test vote in the caucus yesterday when they made an effort to put indigo on the free list. They were defeated by a vote of 112 to 35.

change. Applied to agriculture, organized co-operation will enable farmers to finance themselves, improve distribution, reform marketing and promote their general welfare. Therefore adequate finance for farming is the basic need today and hence the American farmers now unitedly demand:

"First—That whatever reform of currency and banking be enacted by congress, shall provide facilities for financing the farm and small industries equally to the facilities afforded the great manufacturing, commercial and business interests.

Second—That such reform shall authorize and encourage the co-operation of savings and thrift, credits and loans, by people of limited means—farmers, workers in other vocations and producers generally—and the wise use of their combined resources by these producers themselves. Thus may farmers enjoy a more equitable proportion of the wealth they create. Only in this way can the nation become more and more a grand commonwealth, less and less a country of the few rich and the many poor.

"Third—That this shall be done not by grants of pap, not by special privilege, but by relative equality of opportunity in banking and exchange for personal mortgage savings and loans, whereby farmers and the common people may co-operate to successfully finance themselves under either or both Federal and state laws."

Plan By Myrick.

A plan was set forth by Mr. Myrick in his paper which would tend to decentralize mortgage credit for the benefit of each farmer who needs it; centralize the security, supervision and management of land credit; attract the funds needed to meet borrowers' demands; mobilize all mortgages as a basis for safe investment bonds and pay off the mortgage almost without the borrower feeling it.

Mr. Harris, speaking on "Improving Farm Credits in America," said in part:

"Until we learn to handle the surface soil less wantonly, to fondle and nourish it as our other treasures, we can hardly expect others to abet the plan of further despoiling it by finding easier ways of using it as security for its own undoing. It is time to call a halt when the soil has been starved until its declining returns have helped force an unnatural and abnormal advance in prices.

"The best product of the prairies is not corn, but men and the quarter section that produces a thinking man well may be said to have performed its mission.

Needs Efficient System.

"Profitable production and economical distribution calls for an efficient system of general as well as agricultural credit and finance."

Mr. Eden's subject was "Financing the Farmer." He said in part:

"One of the principal reasons for the increased cost of living lies in the crude agricultural methods and conditions prevailing. The agricultural interests of the nation are suffering from indifference and neglect while the population of the country increases from year to year the production from the soil does not increase proportionately and hence it is only natural that high prices prevail. I believe that it ought to be possible to evolve some plan for better financing of the farmer, from all the investigations that have been made, which will be just and equitable for all of the interests concerned."

Dean Price, speaking on the subject, "Improving Farm Credits in America," said that Americans had suddenly awakened to the fact that they do not possess all that is working in agriculture and that in agricultural credit, co-operation, distribution and farm organization we are woefully behind some of the countries in Europe.

Mr. Woodruff had for his subject "European Systems of Farm Credit." He compared agricultural conditions in Europe with those in America from a financial standpoint.

early life on a farm in South Dakota and his scant education. Up to the age of 21 years, according to the governor, he had but three months of actual schooling.

"You children can scarcely realize just what you are getting," said the governor. "In my childhood there were very few schools and these so old and dismal that it was no pleasure at all to attend school. During the three months while I was at school, the weather was extremely cold and we suffered very much from the winds that easily penetrated the old wooden building. The pupils would gather about the large stove in one corner and there do the lessons.

"Everything that can be done for your comfort is now being done by the school board of Duluth and you should be proud of the schools in this city. Every convenience imaginable is right in this building. So that it will be impossible for you to say that your education has been neglected.

"Make the best of these wonderful opportunities, boys and girls, and become good men and women. You all have the opportunity and nothing on earth can stop you now. This is indeed a pleasure to me to come here and speak to young people and if ever you come to St. Paul, drop in on me and be my guests. Bless you all and good luck to you."

At Other Schools.

The governor made similar addresses at the Irving and Fairmont schools, where at the former he spoke on the school steps to nearly 1,600 pupils, a large delegation having come from the Ely school also.

An informal reception was held at 11 o'clock at the West Duluth Commercial club where the governor and the railroad officials met local business men and residents. Cigars were passed around by members of the committee and a smoker was held until noon, when the party had lunch at the Grand hotel.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the Northern Pacific ran a special train to the steel plant, where the governor and the other guests of the city are inspecting the buildings and furnaces now under construction. An invitation was extended by the West Duluth Commercial club to all the residents of the city who care to take this trip to the plant to do so. K. C. Hoxie, superintendent at the plant, is in charge of the inspection.

The party will return about 7 o'clock and go to the Dormedy hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street, where the banquet will be held. Governor Eberhart, Mr. Goodell, Mr. Martin, Representative Knapp, Julius H. Barnes, Mayor Prince and Commissioners Voss, Merritt, Hicken and Murchison are on the program for addresses.

of the highest efficiency," he said, "we are at the same time, educating thousands of young men to be better citizens and to be in a position to help themselves when they leave the service. We want to give them industrial education under ideal conditions. Most of all, we will help create a mercantile marine owned by us and run by us."

The convention was devoted to discussions today, but tomorrow the delegates, of whom there are several hundred, will be entertained at a special cavalry drill at Fort Meyer. The convention will end tomorrow night with a banquet in honor of Secretary Daniels, at which one of the principal guests will be Vice President Marshall.

the threatened clash between those who favored the creation of a department of public improvement, the head of which should have a cabinet portfolio and those who favored the creation of a national commission to supervise all levee and drainage work seemed averted for the present.

Wants Bill Indorsed.

Telegrams from public men and prominent engineers were read at the morning session. A telegram from Senator Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana urged that the congress indorse a bill which he has introduced in the senate providing for an annual Federal appropriation of $12,000,000 for five years, a total of $60,000,000, for levee construction, bank revettment and navigation improvement of the Mississippi river below Cape Girardeau, Mo.

The telegram said that if local communities and the Mississippi river states do their share, such an appropriation would make $57,000,000 available for levee construction along the Mississippi river.

Great interest was aroused by the telegram from Senator Newlands of Nevada, who asked that the drainage congress adopt a resolution indorsing a broad policy for the treatment of the rivers. This policy, he said, should provide for the storage of snows and excessive rains, for scientific soil culture and forestation and levee building.

A telegram from President Wilson regretting his inability to attend the congress was read. The telegram continued:

"The calamity in Ohio and Indiana makes clearer than ever before the imperative and immediate necessity for a comprehensive and systematic plan for drainage and flood control. I very earnestly hope that your deliberations may mark a long step forward in this direction."

would entail the annoyance and expense of three separate elections.

Senator Pugh appealed strongly to the senators to stand by him and by Duluth. Senator Boyle responded with the plea that the bill be voted upon on its merits, without consideration of sympathy, friendship or respect for age. To which Senator Cheadle replied that this could only be construed as a release of those who had promised Senator Boyle on personal grounds to vote for the bill.

Efficiency Commission Bills.

The house early this morning was plunged in debate over the two efficiency commission bills, with the organization contending for a commission of legislators appointed by the two presiding officers and a large element contending for a commission composed of men outside the legislature.

The organization relented this morning and of its own motion added to the special order on its bill the bill signed by seventy-four house members. The latter bill provides for a commission of three to be appointed by the governor, chief justice and attorney general, and the organization bill provides for four representatives and three senators. Otherwise they are identical.

When the bill was reached, Representative Spooner said that it seemed to him that the house was a unit on the need for an investigation of state expenses and the reorganization of the state government, and that as there were signs of a possible agreement on the method to be used, he thought the special order should be continued until this afternoon. Opposition arising, Mr. Spooner withdrew this motion.

A number of those whose names appeared as authors of the Sawyer-Spooner bill asked that their names be stricken from the bill, and others declared that they wanted their names left there. The organization bill was taken up first and an amendment offered by R. C. Dunn, cutting the appropriation from $30,000 to $15,000, was adopted. Representative Lydiard then offered an amendment providing for a commission of seven to be appointed by the governor, attorney general and chief justice, the members of which might or might not be members of the legislature. The debate on this amendment, which was supported by the advocates of the Sawyer-Spooner bill, ran into the afternoon.

Workingmen's Compensation.

Representative H. H. Dunn, this morning tried to get tomorrow's special order on the workingmen's compensation bill continued to Monday afternoon, but failed to get enough votes.

Representative W. T. Stone tried to get through his bill reorganizing the advisory commission of the state tuberculosis sanitarium, giving the new commission broader powers, but the house killed the bill.

The senate this morning killed the Moeller bill legalizing limited and regulated boxing contests, by adopting an adverse report of the committee on general legislation, which prevailed at a committee meeting last night by a vote of 8 to 6. An attempt was made to save the bill this morning, but it failed.

The house passed the A. L. Warner bill to prevent railroad monopoly of water front and terminal facilities. Senator Cheadle has a similar bill in the house.

The house also passed the Cheadle senate bill appropriating $5,000 for Burntside state forest, near Ely.

The house passed the senate bill changing the law regarding insurance on state buildings, so as to leave the matter in the discretion of the board of control instead of making insurance compulsory.

On motion of Senator G. H. Sullivan, the senate postponed its special order on the three pending public utility bills from this afternoon to Tuesday. The house will take up the committee publicity bill tomorrow.

WILL DEDICATE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

As a climax to the revival now being conducted in the First Christian church by Evangelists Whiston and Osgood, it is proposed to formally dedicate the first floor of the proposed building next Sunday morning. The church has been using the building the past year. The building as now used seats about 400, and is adapted to institutional work. It has every equipment for the prosecution of a big work in the Twelfth avenue east neighborhood. The pastor, Ray E. Hunt, states that the building and lots as they now stand, cost about $16,500. A special program is being arranged for the Sunday dedication. Evangelist Robert Whiston will preach the dedicatory sermon at 11 a. m. Sunday.

WHAT INDUSTRIAL BUREAU HAS DONE IN SEVEN MONTHS

Seven New Industries Employing 230 Men at Start.

Williamsport Plan Fund Revived—Large List of Active Prospects.

INDUSTRIAL BUREAU RESULTS SINCE AUG. 1.

New industries—
Schuman-Melnik Cap company.
Stott Glove factory.
Maxwell Chemical & Manufacturing company.
Mankato Woolen mills (in part).
Zinsmaster-Smith Bread plant.
Two companies organized by local capital and just getting under way.
Initial number of employes, 230.
Initial capital invested, $200,000.
Three or four additional concerns assisted in organizing and locating.
Several local companies assisted in obtaining larger quarters or more capital.

Dr. B. M. Rastall, secretary of the industrial bureau of the Duluth Commercial club, reported concrete accomplishment at the annual meeting of the club last evening.

He reported that the committee had secured for Duluth since Aug. 1, 1912, seven new industries, employing at the beginning 230 people and representing new capital amounting to $200,000. Three or four other concerns have been helped in organizing and locating in the city, and several local companies have been assisted in obtaining larger quarters or additional capital.

The fund on the Williamsport plan, started before the organization of the industrial committee, has been revived and will be completed to back the credit of meritorious struggling industries.

"It is just as important that we build up those industries that we already have as it is that we bring new industries to the city," said Dr. Rastall.

Dr. Rastall spoke of the general industrial survey being made to determine the advantages for manufacturing in Duluth, the particular lines of industry for which special advantages exist here, and the industrial weaknesses that may be remedied by constructive work.

Dr. Rastall expressed surprise that such good progress has been made in securing concrete results. He said he expected when he came to Duluth that the first year, at least, would be given to the general industrial survey and that little would be shown in the way of new industries. However, so many concrete matters have come before the committee that the industrial survey has been delayed. Dr. Rastall said it would be vigorously advanced during the summer and completed by fall.

Just Salesmanship.

"Industrial development is just like any sales work," said Dr. Rastall. "The opportunities must be shown, concrete facts presented and the prospects shown detailed and conclusive statistics and arguments. Prospects that are apparently dead often suddenly revive, and we must always be ready to clinch our arguments with a concrete showing of facts."

Dr Rastall said that in addition to bringing in new industries and making a general industrial survey as a basis for future work, the committee is co-operating with other agencies in the general improvement of business conditions. He cited the Industrial exposition started by the Rotary club and the course in retail salesmanship conducted by the Retail Merchants' association as two movements in which the Commercial club has co-operated.

Dr. Rastall said that some people in Duluth are too close to the picture and don't get the right impression of the city. He said that he still has the point of view of the outsider to a large extent, on account of his short residence in the city, and he can thus see greater promise for Duluth than many other people who have grown with the city and get their impression from details that strike them forcibly rather than from a general observation.

The industrial bureau is in a firm position for future work, according to Dr. Rastall. It is constantly finding openings for new industries and working on prospects to fill the openings. He said that 125 concerns are now on the corresponding list as active prospects for future location in Duluth and that while few of them may materialize, the inquiry and correspondence shows the interest in Duluth as an industrial center.

DULUTH ENTERING UPON DAY OF BIG THINGS

JAMES A. FERGUSON.

"Duluth is entering upon the day of big things," is the message of James A. Ferguson, retiring president of the Duluth Commercial club.

Mr. Ferguson's report, submitted at the annual meeting of the club last evening, follows:

"Once more we are at the close of the fiscal year of our club and it gives me great pleasure to call your attention to the reports of the other officers of this organization for your consideration.

"The report of the chairman of the public affairs committee will be printed and distributed to all the members in the very near future, in which you will find the story of the activities of the organization for the year just ended. In this committee our busiest men have worked together with zeal, diligence and enthusiasm.

"Duluth is entering upon the day of big things and in the working out of the destiny of a city, this organization has played and will play an important part. There is plenty for all to do and no man should feel he is too busy with his private affairs to participate in this broad work.

"The activity of the club in all its lines is doing much toward making Duluth the great city of the state, and by closer co-operation, greater united effort and unselfish enthusiasm we expect to again accomplish more the coming year than ever before.

Loyalty Is Needed.

"In the effort of building a city we need the loyalty and enthusiastic support of every citizen. We need the throwing aside of all petty jealousies and personal ambition and work only for the one great, broad end, namely, the advancement of our city.

"We bespeak the closest co-operation between men who are members of this organization; spirit of absolute confidence in each other and the desire to pull together will make the organization a tower of strength and source of business good in the community.

"Your membership is at the maximum in the history of the club and there is no reason why it should not be increased 250 in the near future, a result to be greatly desired.

"It may not be out of place to remind you at this time that the continued success and welfare of your club depends upon united action and the freedom from which we succeeded in keeping it from the influence of any special interest. I would direct your attention to the fractional spirit which has manifested itself in the city and some times in directions that are detrimental and harmful in the extreme.

"I trust before the close of another year that this will all be be wiped out, and that our aim will be for a bigger and better Duluth.

Appreciation.

"In closing the work of the present year, and in turning it over to my successor, I desire to express my great and sincere appreciation to W. A. McGonagle, chairman of the public affairs committee, for his untiring energy and efficient work in the past and to Julius H. Barnes, vice chairman, the board of directors and to all the chairmen and members of the public affairs committee and other committees of the club for their energetic and consistent work in the development and upbuilding of our city. I also desire to express my confidence and high appreciation for the services rendered by the members of the official staff.

"I bespeak for my successor the same loyal service from those who have assisted me in this work and that in returning to the ranks my personal service and support will always be with the organization and for the general good of our city."

MURDER IS INDICATED

Body of Unknown Man Found in Woods Near Poupore's Siding.

Two Bullet Holes in Body and Empty Purse Tell Story.

The body of an unknown man who had probably been murdered and robbed was brought to the city from Poupore's Siding, a small station on the Great Northern, last evening.

The body was in the woods about a mile and a half from the settlement, and had been lying there for some months, as it was in an advanced stage of decomposition, making identification difficult. Two bullet holes in the abdomen showed how the man had been killed, while nearby were an empty purse and money belt. An empty revolver holster was strapped to the body.

The victim was a man about 30 years of age and had been well dressed. He wore a blue checked coat, brown striped trousers, soft black hat and black buttoned shoes. In one of the pockets was a matchsafe with the address, "The Buffet, 231 Chestnut street, Virginia," and several other small articles of little value. There were no papers or marks to give any definite clue to the man's identity or that of his supposed assailant.

The body was taken to Crawford's morgue. Coroner McComb thinks that the man was robbed and murdered but will probably hold no inquest as no witnesses have been discovered who could throw any light on the tragedy.

TO PROPERTY OWNERS AND TAX PAYERS:

BITULITHIC vs. BITUMINOUS CONCRETE

(The Real Thing) (The "Substitute")

Referring to the comparison which has been made between Bitulithic and the so-called "bituminous concrete." The "bituminous concrete" described in the Duluth specification is really a bituminous mortar as the distinction is made between a dense mixture of coarse and fine particles (concrete) and an unstable mixture of fine particles (mortar) by the American Society of Municipal Improvements, an organization composed of practical exprienced men, (principally municipal engineers and other municipal officials), and therefore responsible authorities on the subject.

Bitulithic pavement consisting of particles from 1¼-inch stone, down to a fine powder, combined in fixed definite proportions so as to produce a firm, stable pavement has been laid during the past twelve years to the extent of over 25,000,000 square yards (equal to nearly 1,500 miles of thirty-foot roadway), and that it has been a substantial success has been demonstrated by its extensive use.

The so-called "bituminous concrete pavement" specifications came into existence in 1910 (less than three years ago), through an effort to imitate the standard Bitulithic with the old familiar "as good as" cry of the substitutor. The first official notice of this form of construction was at the New Orleans convention in January, 1912, of the Association for Standardizing Paving Specifications and the following is quoted from the official report of that convention (page 73).

"Specification Y" (which is the specification for so-called bituminous concrete) is offered to this association "for the first time," and provides for a layer pavement consisting of a binder course "and wearing surface."

(Note that the binder course, an essential element of strength, is omitted in the Duluth specifications).

At the first meeting of this association (composed entirely of city officials having charge of street improvements), held at Chicago in 1910, a specification covering the bitulithic form of construction was adopted and has been readopted practically unchanged at the succeeding yearly conventions, showing that the experience of the officials had convinced them that the construction was a good one, whereas specifications Y above referred to for so-called "bituminous concrete" were materially altered in the Pittsburg convention of the association in 1913. The committee in charge of bituminous concrete specifications in their 1913 report for the first time made reference to the form of specifications adopted for bituminous concrete pavement in Duluth as follows:

"As an alternative to the above specified grading" (specifications Y for bituminous mortar pavement) "the following, commonly known as the 'Topeka specifications' may be used which produces a cheaper mixture, but which may be successfully used on suburban streets and highways."

Note that the statement is plainly made that these specifications provide for a "cheaper mixture" and that the use of this pavement is recommended only for suburban streets and highways, which carry the lightest character of traffic.

Mr. Clifford Richardson of New York City (who incidentally is expert chemist for the Barber Asphalt Paving Company, a corporation which has persistently fought bitulithic for twelve years because of its recognized superiority), refers as follows to the so-called "bituminous concrete" specifications in an article in the "Engineering Record," June 29th, 1912 issue:

"The satisfactory nature of a mixture containing fine stone is no greater than that of the finer portion or mortar when the latter is looked at as an ordinary sheet asphalt surface."

"The grading of the finer part of the Topeka mixture is very unsatisfactory, that is to say, it would make a poor sheet asphalt pavement, and for the same reason an unsatisfactory surface even after the addition of fine stone."

"These statements have been made with a view of bringing to the attention of engineers the fact that the present so-called Topeka specification is a premium on poor work."

The Topeka specification referred to is that which the Duluth "bituminous concrete" specifications follow.

FAILURE OF IMITATIONS

E. A. Kingsley, C. E., of Little Rock, Ark., who formerly advocated bituminous concrete, after studied efforts to find a substitute for bitulithic has found it impossible to do so, and gives the following reasons for recommending bitulithic at a higher price than bituminous concrete:

"You will observe that I had no fight to make on bitulithic pavement, but rather I was protesting against the bitulithic patent. Unfortunately, however, or fortunately, whichever it may be, the patents have been sustained by the United States courts, and only recently in a hard fought case in Michigan these patents were sustained in a most substantial manner.

"With a number of engineers I have been endeavoring to secure an imitation of bitulithic pavement which would be so near the bitulithic pavement that it would give all the good qualities of that pavement and yet keep away from the bitulithic patents."

"Under the Topeka specifications or similar specifications we have endeavored to lay in Little Rock asphaltic concrete or imitation bitulithic which would keep from under the bitulithic patent. Rock and Scott streets were laid of this mixture."

"If you will go over Rock and Scott streets, especially Scott street, you will notice that in a number of places the pavement is giving down. This is evidently because the rock used under the specifications is not large enough to give perfect satisfaction. In other words Topeka specifications give us practically the sheet asphalt pavement with a few small rock coming a little over a quarter of an inch and a little less than half an inch in diameter, scattered through the mixture. This makes, as I say, practically a sheet asphalt pavement."

"I have been convinced, after two years careful watching of Rock and Scott streets, that pavement laid under Topeka specification is lacking in one important particular. This is the one point which the bitulithic company lay great stress upon, the inherent stability of the rock used to make up the pavement. The bitulithic patents call for the rock to be carefully graded and sorted into a combination of predetermined and proportioned sizes so as to give their material this inherent stability and there is no question in my mind but what they obtain it.

"I am willing to take off my hat to the Warren Brothers company and say to them that I believe their inherent stability is absolutely necessary in a concrete pavement bound together with an asphaltic cement, and I believe that this pavement is ideal, and properly laid is one of the best pavements we have."

The Salt Lake "Tribune" of October 28th, 1911, shows that property owners in that city insisted on the use of the real Bitulithic, notwithstanding the very much lower price bid by the same contractor for so-called "bituminous concrete." The actual difference in price was 47 cents per square yard, but the property owners who had to pay the cost turned down the "imitation" and would have none but the best—real Bitulithic.

Very truly yours,
WARREN BROTHERS COMPANY,
Frank G. Cutter, Assistant to President.

PLAIN TALK ON FARMING

Hostetter Says Magnificent Foundation for Dairy Herds Has Been Laid.

One Farmer in the Bush Worth Two Not Yet Secured.

Northeastern Minnesota was hailed as the coming Guernsey cattle breeding center of the world by A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture, at the annual meeting of the Duluth Commercial club last evening.

Mr. Hostetter called attention to the Guernsey herds already in this section of the state, to the dairying authorities who are engaged in attending and breeding Guernseys in and around Duluth, and declared that the people of Northeastern Minnesota have a better foundation for making Minnesota Guernsey cattle known the world over than did the people of the Isle of Guernsey for building up the cattle-breeding reputation they now have.

Mr. Hostetter gave a most optimistic and illuminating talk on the growth of the agricultural work started by the Commercial club. He said the multiplication of agencies engaged in the work should only make the club strive harder to advance it. He made a plea for public markets and for encouragement for the farmers.

In calling attention to the many agencies at work for agricultural development in this section, Mr. Hostetter referred to the work of Fred Ward, county agricultural agent; Mark Thompson, superintendent of the Duluth demonstration farm school; W. A. Dickinson, superintendent of agriculture for the Duluth & Iron Range railroad; Mr. Dehzer of George C. Stone's farm; George P. Grout, superintendent of the Jean Duluth farm; the prospect of a garden instructor under the school board and the work that will be done by the city and county in clearing the work farm by the labor of prisoners.

Guernsey Herds.

"One of the best Guernsey herds in the United States is on George C. Stone's farm," said Mr. Hostetter. "George P. Grout of the Jean Duluth farm is recognized throughout the United States as one of the greatest authorities on dairying in this country. The Jean Duluth farm has recently imported from the Isle of Guernsey some of the finest Guernseys to be found anywhere. We have organized the Farmers' Clubs' or Grade Guernsey Record association. Four farmers' clubs have already agreed to keep records and seek to improve their herds. We are in a position to make this the great Guernsey breeding center of the world. We now have more Guernseys here on the shore of Lake Superior than in all the rest of Minnesota, and Minnesota is a great dairy state. If the industry is encouraged and assisted, in a few years we will have the most magnificent line of dairy cattle anywhere in the world."

Farmers' Institutes.

Mr. Hostetter told of the institutes and short courses held in the last month in the territory directly adjacent to Duluth. He said people walked eight and nine miles over bad roads to attend the meetings.

"We are in a critical position just at present," he said. "The settlers have about harvested their timber and pulpwood. They must now look to agriculture for their living. If we are ever going to help them now is the time. They must get support from their farms or they must seek homes elsewhere.

"The farmers are well pleased with the public market work, and it should be extended. But there are still some things we can do. The bankers' associations have been active in giving advice and encouragement to the farmers. They have made many illuminating addresses and passed some beautiful resolutions. Now on behalf of the farmers I want to make a suggestion. It is that the bankers extend credit to the business farmer just as they do to other business men. If the farmers could borrow a little money to buy cows and clear more land, they would build up the country rapidly. A farmer in the bush is worth two for whom you spend $1,000 and haven't got yet."

Mr. Hostetter said that arrangements are being made for a market gardener's school in the West end in May in order to instruct the market gardeners in what will be best to raise for the local market. He said steps should be taken to provide restrooms for the farmers' wives. He urged the Commercial club to continue its agricultural work, and to appoint special committees on markets and farm credits.

Public Markets.

William Burgess offered a few more suggestions along the same line. He said the men of Duluth should endeavor to educate their wives to go to market, that a big public market should be put on the old courthouse lot, that the farmers' credit feature should be considered and that farm taxation should be given some attention. He cited a case of a farm with two forties. On one forty, fifteen acres have been cleared. The forty is valued at $8 an acre for taxation. On the other forty none of the land has been cleared and it is assessed at $4 an acre. An adjoining eighty acres, held for speculation, is valued for taxation at $2 an acre.

"The government is making it a crime for the land owner to clear his land and put improvements on it," said Mr. Burgess. "Instead of the industrious farmer being penalized for his industry, he should be encouraged."

Bishop McGolrick, a member of the agricultural committee, expressed the hope that all of Mr. Hostetter's promises would be fulfilled. The bishop referred to the fact that he would have more time for work on the agricultural committee as the park board and the welfare board, of which he was a member, have gone out of existence.

H. P. Neff made a rousing talk, in which he commended Duluth on the character of the new commission and promised team-work between the Commercial club and the city government.

B. Silberstein made plea for a civic spirit that would extend the "glad hand" to the farmers and all other visitors to Duluth. He said the time has come for the hammers to be laid away and for the knockers to join in and boost.

NO PREMIUM ON RICHES OR POVERTY

"Better to Have Standing With God Than at the Bank," Says Evangelist.

"There is no premium on either riches or poverty. No man is condemned because he is rich, and no man saved because he is poor," was one statement of Evangelist Whiston in his sermon last night on "Riches" in the First Christian church.

He said: "If the ethical standards of Jesus were put into operation today, they would revolutionize society and industry. The man who coins into gold and silver, the sorrow and suffering of the poor, or who crystalizes into diamonds the sweat that falls from the brow of labor, is an enemy to society. The poor man does not say to the dishonest rich man, 'give to us,' but he does say, 'stop robbing us'. There are honest rich men as well as honest poor men. The world owes happiness to every man, and we find our happiness in different channels. Every man has a right to be rich, but not at the expense of his fellows.

"The inequalities of life are largely due to the moral and business standards that flaunt themselves into the faces of men, on the principle that might makes right. Might makes right only when might is right. The theory of the survival of the fittest is but the survival of the slickest.

"With all the inequalities of life, I don't believe there has ever been a time when men have taken Christ into their moral, business, social and political lives, as today. Everywhere I go men are coming to Christ as never in days gone by. This is the man's age in religion. We are learning that true riches are not those of the pocket and the bank, but the wealth of heart and brain and service.

"I wouldn't give up my standing with God for all the wealth of the world. Real wealth is not what one gets out of life, but what one puts in, not what one receives from his fellows but what one puts into life, not what one receives from his fellows, but what one gives. It is better to have standing with God than at the bank. To have opportunities of service and helpfulness is to be rich. Adam had paradise because he had God. We have heaven on earth when we have Christ, to lack Christ is to lack all."

Tonight the evangelist will give his lecture sermon on the "Harvest" at Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street.

Cloquet, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Olesen, for three years superintendent of Cloquet public schools, was re-elected unanimously by the school board at its meeting, with a raise of salary. Mr. Olesen has proven himself to be a splendid man to be at the head of the city schools and the board was not slow to recognize his ability. He has done much for school work, bringing it up to a high standard of excellence as well as instilling and fostering a new spirit of loyalty and studiousness. Since his coming to Cloquet several new features have been added to public education—cooking and sewing for the girls, agriculture for both boys and girls, with a fine greenhouse and 10-acre farm that is the property of the school, donated by the Cloquet Lumber company, much more extensive manual training work and a very good physiology system.

TRIES TO END LIFE WITH PIECE OF TIN

Chicago, April 10.—Using the jagged edge of a handle torn from a tincup, "Jack" Lewis, charged with the theft of diamonds at Portland, Or., and Milwaukee, attempted to commit suicide. Wounds made on his wrist in an attempt to severe an artery were discovered today when a detective visited his cell. His wounds are not serious.

The prisoner was identified as E. C. C. Von Klein, formerly a diamond broker of Evanston, Ill., and Minneapolis, by Police Sergeant George C. Hestka, who lived near him at Evanston. Memoranda in the prisoner's notebook contained two telephone numbers, one of which was that of Prof. Von Klein of the John Grear library and the other the professor's home. The latter admitted that he had a son in the diamond business, but declined to visit the prisoner in the interest of a complete identification.

Robert F. Milne of Evanston admitted that he knew the "man of mystery," as the prisoner is now being designated by the police, but would not identify him because he was married and of good family. The prisoner telephoned to Milne the day after the arrest.

BORDER TOWNS ARE PROSPEROUS

Spooner and Baudette Are Thriving, Say Visitors From the North.

The border towns of Spooner and Baudette are prospering as never before, according to Joseph Meloney, mayor of Spooner, and George E. Ericson, lawyer and editor of the Northern News at the same town, who are in Duluth today.

Mr. Meloney and Mr. Ericson are on their way to St. Paul. They are interested in legislation before the Minnesota legislature.

The prospects of a highway along the border from International Falls to Warroad is bright, according to Mr. Ericson, and the road will undoubtedly be built as soon as the laws relating to road building are settled. Mr. Ericson says the people of the border are also watching with interest developments in the proposed cut-off of the Canadian Northern so as to make a shorter and more direct line between Duluth and Baudette and Spooner. One crossing of the border would also be avoided.

SEEN IN THE SHOPS

Handsome sterling silver card cases in the engine-turned decoration, giving the effect of striped ribbons, are shown in one of the leading jewelry shops of the city. The newest ones are leather lined and the monogram space is about the size of a 5-cent piece, placed in the upper left hand corner. The new square swastika monograms are effectively used in these small spaces.

One especially attractive case with pocket for cards and a little change pocket was marked at $12.50, and another especially admired by the shopper per containing a little vanity case and mirrors, a small compartment for change and the card pocket was priced at $22.50.

A little sterling silver change purse was also noticed by the shopper as being distinctive. It was round and about the size of a dollar, made of silver mesh framed with a narrow rim of silver and a little jade stone set in the center added to its attractiveness. This was marked at $6.75.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

I read a little news item to the effect that dancing was to be taught in the public schools, the plan being that of Dr. Thomas Harrington, physical director in Boston. The same story related that the public school teachers are even now being instructed in the art terpsichore, so that they may later impart their knowledge to their pupils. This seems highly improbable, for it would be almost in the nature of an imposition to ask more of the women, who are obliged to be proficient in several branches as it is. Dancing, while something in which almost everyone can acquire some degree of grace and skill, is not an art that everyone can teach. If there is any truth in the report, professional instructors will be engaged, just as they are in music, cooking or any other branch outside of the regular normal school course.

I have an idea that many of the young teachers would welcome the diversion and be glad to teach the younger pupils how to trip the light fantastic. It would be a splendid plan to introduce the dancing class into the public school curriculum in the primary grades, for there the children need a variety of interests to stimulate their minds and keep them interested in school affairs. The one great fault to be found with the school system for beginners has been the confinement of children unused to keeping still for more than a few minutes at a time.

The more I see of a little boy who commenced school attendance in September the more I am convinced that more freedom of movement is absolutely necessary to the average of these small pupils. I realize that there must be some discipline and that permitting children to wander about at will would result in a very bedlam of a schoolroom. Training, too, must have a beginning, but not at the cost of the very apparent suffering of an active child who for five or six years of his life has roamed and played at will with a watchful eye upon him.

A round-faced, mischievous boy confides in me that he works hard in school all the time, and gets tired because he has to sit still so long. His mother says it is the truth about his getting tired, as he never went to bed of his own volition before he started to school, while now he seeks to go as soon as his supper is over. This little fellow gets tired, not because he does not like it, but because he has to sit still so long. A daily dancing class would give him an opportunity to exercise his entire body, and would attract and benefit him in more ways than one.

EXTENDING ITS SPHERE

First Presbyterian Church Is Planning New Lines of Activity.

Will Be Social as Well as Religious Center for Community.

Social center work will be given a thorough trial at the First Presbyterian church, when the addition now being built is completed.

The general contract for the new addition has been let to Richard Hanson. It is expected that the addition, when completed, together with a rearrangement of the Sunday school rooms beneath the main auditorium of the church, will cost about $37,000.

The addition will be three stories high and will extend 93 feet along the alley at the rear of the church and 27 feet along Third avenue. Its exterior walls will be of sandstone, like those of the present building, and the plans have been drawn to make the old and new part form one symmetrical whole. A. Holstead is the architect.

It is thought that the new addition and the altered Sunday school rooms will be fully equipped and ready for occupancy by the first of next October. The excavation is already completed and bricks and other materials are on the ground. The addition will be built before any changes are made in the present Sunday school rooms. The rearrangement of these rooms, it is thought, will take only three or four weeks. While this is taking place, the Sunday school classes will hold their sessions in the main church auditorium above.

After the changes are completed the major part of the space now occupied by these Sunday school rooms will be included in a general assembly room, 90 by 30 feet, with a platform at one end, under the main church auditorium, and with a seating capacity of 500.

Boys' Club Room.

The addition will include a five-room flat for the sexton of the church, on the level of the alley. On this floor will also be a boys' club room, which will be fitted up with games and other amusement facilities and will be free for the boys' use, under proper supervision.

"The changes contemplate the furnishing of many more class-rooms than we now have," said Dr. Richard W. Bowden, superintendent of the Sunday school, today. "We wish to make the church a social as well as a religious center for the community in which it is placed. We do not contemplate moving our headquarters to another part of the city, thus following the changes of residence of members of the congregation, as some churches to, but we shall stay right where we are, for there is plenty of work for us to do right there. We intend to have the church minister to social as well as spiritual needs.

"By furnishing more class-rooms, we shall be able to provide better for the boys and girls in their teens. It is of no use to attempt to instruct them along with the younger children, for they will not mix with them. In the main assembly hall there will be assemblages of the boys and girls in their teens, together with adults, for Bible study, but it will be only once in a while that the smaller children will assemble with them. We aim to provide the proper facilities for Bible study for people of all ages. With the very small children teachers begin by merely telling them Bible stories.

"Our Sunday school has been growing fast and it is well that more room is about to be supplied. Last Sunday we had an attendance of about 460. Our Sunday school enrollment in the past year has increased about 6 per cent."

E. Diesen; recitation, Irene Campbell; vocal solo, Mahala Erickson.

ESCAPES INJURY BY DODGING KNIFE

Oscar Pelto Makes Vicicus Attempt to Carve George Lind.

Oscar Pelto tried to sink a knife into George Lind in front of a Bowery saloon between Fifth and Sixth avenues west on Superior street, shortly before midnight last night, according to the police.

Lind dodged a blow which was so vicious that the blade of the knife sank into the cement filler between the bricks of the store front. The knife was lodged there until it was pulled out by Patrolman Wanvick, who placed Pelto under arrest, charged with disorderly conduct. In police court today he pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for this afternoon.

It is claimed that Pelto and Lind had quarreled earlier in the night in the saloon, in which they were drinking with a number of others. It is asserted that Pelto threatened to use his knife before they left the barroom, but was prevented from harming any one by others who were present.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: APRIL 13.

Genesis, xxviii, 10-22: Jacob at Bethel.

CONNECTION.

Esau is a good natured animal, but he is mad all over at the irrepressible and irresistible trickery of Jacob. The latter has to flee and his mother makes a virtue of necessity by sending him back to her people for a wife. She had long wanted to do that and now is her chance. She thinks he will be right back, but God has plans for his training which are higher than hers. We study what happened to him the first night out from home. Isaac acquiesced in the plan to send him away both to save him from Esau's wrath and to secure the right kind of a wife. The young man goes out with the formal blessing of his father uttered in the usual way.

THE LESSON.

I.

His Dream. 10-15.

"And Jacob went out from Beersheba, and went toward Haran. And he lighted upon a certain place, and tarried there all night, because the sun was set; and he took one of the stones of the place, and put it under his head, and lay down in that place to sleep. And he dreamed; and, behold, a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven; and, behold, the angels of God ascending and descending on it. And, behold, Jehovah stood above it, and said, I am Jehovah, the God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac; the land whereon thou liest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed; and thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt spread abroad to the west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the south; and in thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed. And, behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land; for I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of."

1. HOMELESS.—He made about sixty miles from Beersheba in the south to Bethel just north of Jerusalem the first day out. That was the time for conscience to assert itself. He had the first born's blessing and the love of father and mother and a most exhilarating destiny before him, but he had done two dastardly deeds and his conscience ought to disturb him. It did. No roof over him, no comforts, the plight of his brother vivid in his mind, he is now in the state of mind to be approached from above.

2. SLEEP.—The terraced hillsides looked like stairs and furnished to his mind, still active in sleep, the suggestion of a ladder. That ladder attraction for its reach into the skies, the passage it furnished for the angels of God and its connection with God Himself who stood at the top looking down at the dreamer and finally speaking to him. To him it was designed to teach that every place may have a connection with heaven, as had Beersheba where his father lived and offered sacrifices to God, that the invisible angels have something to do with this earth, so dear to them, and that God's eye was on him. It also meant much more than he knew, as Jesus afterwards spoke of Himself as the ladder on whom the angels of God ascend and descend, reaching perfectly to heaven and therefore divine, touching the earth and therefore human. Jacob's one business in the world was to help get ready for the coming of Christ.

3. REVELATION.—He may have known something of his high destiny, but here is something definite and encouraging. God has always been breaking in upon His people with revelations of truths and purposes which they could not learn any other way. This revelation encouraged him in spite of his sins. It told him that he was linked in the same destiny with that of his ancestors, a special destiny of honor and service; that his descendants would get all these lands and be very numerous; that they were to be a blessing to all the people of the earth and that God would never leave him a minute.

God's purpose was not only to instruct but to improve him, to correct and reprove him. He was in a tender state of mind and needed doing over. He needed some rough treatment and he would get it where he was going. Never before did he feel the need of God, never had he felt the presence of God.

He heard God say He would protect him and that meant much, for he feared Esau's vengeance. Kindness wins him, the disclosure of a great destiny cheers him. Now to him life has an aim, God is his friend, he may feel at home any where and he is to be owner of this very land where he lies dreaming.

II.

His Waking Thoughts. 16-22.

"And Jacob awaked out of his sleep, and he said, Surely Jehovah is in this place; and I knew it not. And he was afraid, and said, How dreadful is this place! this is none other than the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven. And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put under his head, and set it up for a pillar, and poured oil upon the top of it. And he called the name of that place Bethel; but the name of the city was Luz at the first. And Jacob vowed a vow, saying, If God will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I go, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on, so that I come again to my father's house in peace, and Jehovah will be my God, then this stone, which I have set up for a pillar, shall be God's house; and of all that Thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto Thee."

1. REVERENCE.—Jacob was a new man. We may say he was converted. It was the psychological moment that God approached him and it was not in vain. When he awoke his mind was in a different state. His recognition of God's presence was the sign of a new power to see, a spiritual vision. Reverence for God is always the sign of real religion. That reverence was mingled with more or less of superstition but it was good as far as it went. It had some fear in it of the worse kind but that was the result both of ignorance and the sense of his sins that had now become acute.

The word house does not always mean a dwelling that has been built but any place where something or somebody is. A place where God is was a house of God even if there was not a sign of a house there.

2. CONSECRATION.—He did the usual thing, consecrated the place where he lay when God appeared, by the stone which he set up as a memorial and now set apart with oil, and by the name he gave it, Bethel, House of God. That name finally superseded the old name, Luz. He did very well but we can't escape the feeling that he consecrated the place more than he did himself. Still he did well according to his light.

3. VOW.—He is up to his old tricks still. It is in his nature and will give him trouble as long as he lives. He will make this a house of God on condition that God will do certain things and they are plenty—see that he, Jacob, makes a safe trip, gets plenty to eat and wear, bring him back safe to his father's home and continue to do His whole duty as a God. He will drive a bargain with God. On the other hand he promises to keep this stone as a memorial and witness and give God a tenth of all he gets from God or by His kindness. A bargain, but the best he knows how to do. He is really far along for a man of his temper and habits.

It is the feeling of ill desert that makes us ill at ease with God, but the instinct of bargain-making is the strongest thing in Jacob. He had crude ideas of God but he is changed overnight and will make vast improvement in the future.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

In Jacob we have a struggle against baser elements of character, gradually resulting in the triumph of the nobler; in Esau, the original good darkens as he grows older, into overmastering evil.—Gelke.

"The true staircase by which heavenly messengers ascend and descend is the Son of Man. It is He who really bridges the interval between heaven and earth, God and man. In His person these two are united. You cannot tell whether Christ is more divine or human, more God or man—solidly based on earth, as this massive staircase, by His real humanity, by His thirty-three years' engagement in all human functions and all experiences of this life, He is yet familiar with eternity. His name is 'He that came down from heaven,' and if your eye follows step by step to the heights of its person it rests at last on what you recognize as divine. His love it is that is wide enough to embrace God on one hand and the lowest sinner on the other. Truly He is the Way, the stair, leading to the lighted heights of heaven and the deepest depths of earth."

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1—Why does the sense of God's presence always awaken a sense of sin?

2—To what extent are we permitted to make vows and conditional pledges to God?

3—To what extent may we consecrate the places where we have received blessings?

4—Why is it that God often has easier access to us after we have done wrong?

5—Why did God require a tenth of one's income in those days? Does He do it now?

Home Baking Reduces Cost of Living

THE U. S. Dept. of Agriculture in Experiment Station Bulletin No. 142 says that ten cents worth of wheat supplies almost three times as much protein and ten times as much energy as round steak, and with some other cuts of meat the difference is even greater.

If then, one really desires to reduce her weekly meat and grocery bills, she need only make more use of her oven.

Who ever heard man, woman or child complain that good home-made biscuits, muffins, cake and cookies appeared on the table too often? Instead the tendency is "to make a meal of them" and the variety is so great that something you bake yourself could well be the chief feature of every meal.

With K C, you can make things moist and rich yet have them light and feathery, wholesome and digestible. Biscuits may be mixed the night before and baked fresh for breakfast. Muffins need not be dry and heavy. You can make a cake so light that you can hardly get it out of the pan whole, yet it will not fall.

K C is not like the old fashioned baking powders. It is double acting and continues to give off leavening gas until the dough is cooked through. K C is sold at a fair price—a large can for 25 cents. This would be no object if strength and purity were sacrificed, but every can is fully guaranteed under State and National Pure Food laws and to please. We take all the chances. Your money back if you do not get better results with K C than any baking powder you ever used.

Include a can in your next grocery order, try some of the new recipes that appear in this paper from time to time. Then you will have gone far toward solving this vexing "Cost of Living" problem.

Because of its biscuit form you can do so many things with Shredded Wheat which you cannot do with other breakfast cereals.

For breakfast heat the Biscuit in the oven a few moments to restore crispness; then pour hot milk over it, adding a little cream; salt or sweeten to suit the taste. TO BRING NEW BLOOD INTO THE SERVICE

Secretary McAdoo Asks Customs Officials of Philadelphia to Resign.

Washington, April 10.—Re-organization of the personnel of the customs service by the Democratic administration was begun yesterday when Secretary McAdoo, of the treasury department took steps to displace all the high customs officials at the port of Philadelphia. In announcing the action the secretary said:

"It is considered vital in the interests of the people that new blood shall be brought into the service."

Mr. McAdoo asked for the resignations of Collector Chester W. Hill, Surveyor Perry M. Little, Appraiser Fred H. Vincent and Naval Officer Walter T. Merrick, all of Philadelphia. He officially announced that the resignations were requested "not because charges have been preferred against them, but because it is deemed essential that these places shall be filled by persons who are in sympathy with the purpose and policies of the administration and also because it is considered vital in the interest of the public that new blood shall be brought into the service."

COUPLE MARRIED BY SIDE OF COFFIN.

Chicago, April 10.—Christ Peterson and Miss Hannah Jensen were married last night beside the coffin containing the body of the groom's mother. One of her urgent requests during her final years was that the son marry before her death.

"If not before I die, then at least before I am buried," she told him.

On Saturday, Mrs. Peterson was stricken with apoplexy. Peterson telephoned Miss Jensen and she consented to marry him, but they found it was too late to secure the license. That night the mother died. On Tuesday the Rev. William Steinmeyer was telephoned and asked to appear a few minutes before the time set for the funeral services.

Peterson and Miss Jensen stood at the head of the coffin and the ceremony was performed.

Held for Murder.

Los Angeles, April 10.—James Murphy a former Minneapolis policeman was held to the superior court yesterday for the alleged murder of Mrs. Irene Mattie Smith, a chorus girl. Murphy is charged with having killed the young woman with a bullet intended for Morris Bohannon, his nephew, whose attentions to Mrs. Smith he resented.

EVERYTHING HARMONIOUS

Washington, April 10.—In the interest of success for the Democratic tariff revision bill, President Wilson yesterday stepped over another obstacle in the way of perfect harmony between the White House and the directing forces of congress. For the second successive day, he left his own office in the White House and journeyed to the capitol, this time for an hour and a half conference with Democratic members of the senate finance committee.

At its conclusion the president stated frankly to newspaper men that he and members of the senate were agreed that nothing stood in the way of harmonious support of the "party platform," as to tariff revision. The senate situation was canvassed in detail at the conference. The dangers that might threaten a single bill, should the opponents of free sugar and free wool combine in sufficient strength to endanger the Democratic majority in the senate, were discussed, but no agreement was reached that binds the senate leaders to any definite line of action.

While the senate conference was in progress, the full Democratic membership of the house was in caucus at the other end of the capitol, discussing the details of the tariff bill, the first schedule of which was agreed to without change. Representative Underwood, the Democratic leader of the house, stated at the conclusion of the day's caucus that the Democratic revision would go through the house as a single bill.

Ignored Precedent.

The president again ignored long standing precedent in seeking an executive conference within the capitol. He met the senators in the president's room, near the senate chamber, where presidents have long come to sign the last bills of a dying congress, but which never before had been used for such a purpose as yesterday, within the knowledge of senate historians.

At the end of the conference the president, with Democratic simplicity, stopped in the senate corridor to tell newspaper men the results of the meeting.

"I hope the senators and representatives will permit me to come here frequently and confer with them in a way to save their time and mine," he said. "At our conference this afternoon, we were discussing the tariff. The net result is we don't see any difficulty about standing together on any sort of a party program."

The president was asked if the conference had decided whether the tariff would be revised in a single bill or schedule by schedule.

Matter for House Side.

"That's a matter for the other end of the capitol," he answered, pointing toward the house side.

"But they will be guided by your advice, will they not?" he was asked by a newspaper man.

"I haven't asked them," rejoined the president with a smile.

The president had been informed by the senators fully of the difficulties ahead of the tariff bill if it came to the senate as a single measure. A further investigation is to be made to determine what amount of strength is being mustered by the opponents of free sugar, and the free wool provisions. As a result of today's conference which is to be resumed later, it is believed that the president will not object if senate leaders determine it is essential that the tariff be split up into a number of single measures.

One Suffocated.

Chicago, April 10.—Fumes from a vat of boiling blueing yesterday suffocated William Woertz and overcame three of his fellow employes, who are not expected to recover. They were at work in the dry coloring department of the Alston-Lucas Paint company. Six others who fell unconscious were revived by a pulmotor.

JUDGE NO SPORT.

Declines Offer to Stage Boxing Exhibition in Courtroom.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 10.—In an effort to convince Judge Backus that the defendants should not be prosecuted on a charge of prize fighting, Attorney Frank Fawcett, agreed to stage a ten-round bout between Jack Redmond and Joe Welling in the municipal court yesterday.

The defendants, well known boxers, entered pleas of not guilty. The difference between prize fighting and boxing exhibitions, Attorney Fawcett argued, was a matter of personal opinion.

Judge Backus said he did not care to witness a demonstration.

Redmond and Welling will be tried during the present term.

Healthy Germ Carriers.

For years we have scrubbed and disinfected furniture, quarantined the sick with infectious disease and paid great attention to fumigating the clothing of those coming from a house where infection existed. All this has, no doubt, been of service in checking the spread of infection, but with all these precautions, certain diseases are found to spread; and health officers are now awakening to the fact that it is people, not clothing and furniture, that are the main factor in spreading disease. Disease germs don't live long or thrive well without suitable sustenance, and most of those which prey on man require a human host to keep them alive and healthy. True, typhoid germs and several others will adapt themselves to live and multiply in milk or even dirty water, during the summer months, when temperatures range over 70; and they will remain alive for varying times, not increasing in number, however, at temperatures at or below freezing. But infection from such germs unless they have recently passed through a human host, is not very virulent, nor is it an imminent danger. Of all the well known germs which specially require to be carried by humans are those of pneumonia and diphtheria; and, although yet undiscovered the germs of measles, scarlet fever and whooping cough would appear to be in the same class.

The question might well be asked, where then is the infection harbored? The answer is now being worked out by scientists and, so far, their findings would show that the apparently healthy germ carrier is the "big thing" in the distribution of germ diseases. We know that it is the careless consumptive, able to be about his employment, that is mainly responsible for the spread of tuberculosis, and we have recently learned that typhoid carriers are able to scatter the germs of this disease for years without being ill a day. It has also been shown that diphtheria and pneumonia germs can live in the noses and throats of some people for long periods of time, without causing impairment of health. And now it is coming to be believed that the "school diseases," generally speaking, are nearly all disseminated by apparently well children, who harbor the germs in their bodies, not, as it was formerly supposed, in their clothing.

It is the recognition of these findings more than any other circumstance which has increased the demand for efficient medical school inspection; and the control of epidemics without closing the schools, but through the work of the school inspector isolating germ carriers, has proved a much more reasonable and sure method than the old one of closing and fumigation. This is the part of the medical school inspection which appeals to most people; but, as I have frequently pointed out in this column, it is not, by any means, the most important benefit to be derived from such service.

The detection of abnormalities, easily corrected when taken in time, but which interfere with the mental and physical development of the child, must be considered as a much more important function of the medical inspector than the mere control of epidemics of children's diseases.

Our public schools form the nucleus around which we are attempting to build a system of education which is expected to become the backbone of our nation—the element which binds us together, and at the same time lends solidarity. And the making of useful citizens out of the varied material which is constantly landing on our shores is a work which demands the best energies of all true Americans, and to the efficiency of the public school system we must look for results in the next generation. So let us supervise physical, as well as mental, development of the growing American citizen, for the one always goes hand in hand with the other. And let us have medical school inspection carried out on the broad lines indicated—the normal development of useful citizens.

Questions and Answers.

Cure For Stammering.

L. E. writes: I have a boy 14 years old who stammers a little. Can anything be done for it?

REPLY.

The cure of stammering depends on mental training, and if it is taken as early as 14 years it can generally be cured. Consult a good specialist and he will be able to recommend some one in your city who undertakes the mental training of children for the cure of stammering. When father and mother learn how to train the boy they can cure him at home in many cases.

W. P. writes: Your Health and Happiness department read in The Duluth Herald with great interest. Will you briefly answer these queries: 1. What foods are good for kidney trouble and what foods should be avoided? 2. Are not milk and soft boiled eggs good for kidneys? 3. Is not tea unhealthy and especially with weak kidneys? With this morning I am starting the practice of drinking before breakfast one glass of Welch's grape juice in which is mixed a raw egg and drink one glass of grape juice before other meals. 4. Do you regard this a good practice? 5. What should be done to avoid appendicitis and obtain a more regular bowel movement? Are prunes good for this purpose?

REPLY.

1. The carbohydrates as a class are safe foods. Milk is also one of the best foods for those suffering with kidney irritation. Avoid meats except fish, and eggs are also to be avoided.
3. Only when taken quite strong a weak tea is frequently of advantage when taken in moderation.
4. No.
5. To avoid appendicitis keep the bowels regular. To do the latter eat bran bread, lots of fruit and coarse vegetables, exercise regularly in the open air and form regular habits.

Cramps in the Legs.

T. G. asks: Will you please tell me a cure for cramps in the legs in the morning? I am at a loss to know how to get out of bed, because the contraction of the muscles draws them together in a hard ball, and at times I am also bothered a great deal with a rheumatic pain in the hip joint, and knee, and ankle. I am on my feet all day, and they are also very sore and burn at times. Please tell me some cure for the above? I am 45 years old.

REPLY.

Have the legs thoroughly massaged before attempting to arise. Don't sleep in a cramped position but try to have the legs always fully extended. In pregnant women the condition is common and then is often due to constipation and pressure from the enlarged uterus. Avoiding constipation and persisting in massage will give relief in most cases.

indicate that it will be passed when it is reached on the calendar.

There was a debate on it, based on the motion of Representative Lydiard of Minneapolis that the bill be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Lydiard's motion was lost, 32 for and 46 against.

Representative Stoven of St. Paul then offered an amendment excepting cities of the first-class from the provisions of the bill. His amendment was defeated, however, 49 to 29. So was an amendment from the same source, excepting cities of the first class having home rule charters.

The bill was advanced to the calendar by a viva voce vote.

County Division Bill.

The Boyle county division bill was reached on the senate calendar yesterday afternoon, with as nearly a full attendance as it is common to have, and as there is likely to be at this stage of the session.

The bill was passed over, however, at the request of Senator Boyle.

It has been on the calendar of the senate seven weeks today, having reached there Feb. 20.

It has been reached many times, but each time it was reached Senator Boyle has had it laid over.

In the meantime, the senate delegation from St. Louis county has been divided on this measure when it should present a united front. It has been embarrassed by the presence of this bill before the senate on practically every measure that has come up on which there was a difference of opinion. Both Senator Boyle, who favors the bill, and Senators Pugh and Chendle, who oppose it, have been compelled to keep it in mind when voting on other measures, when they should have been free to vote on the merits of the bills and in the common interests of St. Louis county.

The similar house bill is on general orders in that body, and it has not been reached because the house has not gone deeply into its general orders for many days.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed another Cashman bill, a companion to the distance tariff bill which is now a law. The bill passed yesterday is intended to reach the situation in which towns along the longer of two competing lines are likely to find themselves if the distance tariff principle is sustained by the courts.

Under this measure, shippers in such towns are given the right, if it offers any advantage to them, to have their goods routed by way of the nearest junction point over the shorter line, so as to get the advantage of the short line's rates. This, it is thought by the author of the bill, will relieve at least a part of the communities in such circumstances from the hardships they anticipate from the distance tariff law.

Aid for County Fair.

Under a new law—that is, it will be a law as soon as the governor affixes his signature to the bill—the board of county commissioners of St. Louis county will be authorized to spend up to $2,000 in aid of the St. Louis county fair, which is held at Hibbing. The bill passed the senate yesterday afternoon by suspension of the rules on motion of Senator Boyle, having been introduced in the house and passed in the morning on motion of Representative Healy, all of the St. Louis county delegation except Representative Borgen joining as authors of the bill. The money appropriated by the county board is to be used in getting and arranging exhibits and in premiums to exhibitors.

The house in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon killed a proposal, emanating from the state banking department, to have a state charter board created with the duty of investigating proposed organizations of state banks, savings banks, loan and trust companies, building and loan associations and other new financial corporations. The commission was to consist of the superintendent of banks, the public examiner, the attorney general, the state auditor and the state treasurer.

The senate yesterday afternoon killed a bill by Senators Sageng and Coller, providing for the selection of jurors in counties outside of those containing the three large cities by county commissions appointed by the supreme court.

The Nolan-Child house bill to make uniform the law of negotiable instruments, passed the senate yesterday afternoon.

Statue of Governor Rice.

Belated tribute to the memory of the late Henry M. Rice, a former governor of Minnesota and the father of the splendid system under which Minnesota has retained the ownership of its rich possessions in lands, timber and minerals, is proposed in a bill which the house yesterday afternoon unanimously advanced to the calendar.

The bill, which is by Representative Reed of Faribault county, appropriates $7,500 for a statue of Governor Rice in Statuary hall in the national capitol, where two niches have been set aside for each state. So far Minnesota has filled neither of its allotted places.

Representative Conley wanted to cut the appropriation to $5,000, but Representative John B. Sanborn of St. Paul, who had offered the amendment reducing the appropriation from $10,000 to $7,500, defeated the Conley amendment by showing that no other state had appropriated so little, and that most of them had appropriated more for this purpose.

The house in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon advanced to the calendar a bill by Representative Lee amending the 1911 law making it a gross misdemeanor to use as "stool pigeons" any of the classes of persons to which the sale of liquor is prohibited. The Lee bill confined the prohibition to minors, and made the offense a simple misdemeanor. Before the bill was advanced the house adopted an amendment offered by H. H. Dunn to include habitual drunkards and students among those whom it is forbidden to use to get evidence against lawbreaking saloon keepers.

Bills Advanced in House.

The house advanced to the calendar the following bills:

By Senator Putnam—Removing the limit of thirty on the number of agricultural high schools entitled to state aid in any one year.

By Senator Denegre—Authorizing cities of the first class by a five-sixths vote of the city councils to spread local assessments over twenty years and to issue bonds to carry the debt.

By Senator Denegre—Authorizing the admission to the Minnesota Soldiers' home of women who served as nurses during the Civil war.

By Representative Burchard—Proposed constitutional amendment increasing the terms of probate judges from two to four years.

By the house committee on public accounts and expenditures—Extending the powers and duties of the public examiner, particularly over local governments.

In spite of a fight on it, the house yesterday afternoon advanced to the calendar the Westlake bill making it a gross misdemeanor to obtain credit on false pretenses. The bill extends to a general application the existing law protecting banks against pretenders seeking credit.

Representative Andrew Davis moved that the bill be indefinitely postponed, but his motion was lost, 35 to 36.

Representatives Westlake and Orr, defending the bill, said that there was nothing in it of which any honest man need be afraid.

Recall Bill.

The senate recall bill, as amended in the house committee on general legislation, was advanced to the calendar by unanimous vote in the house yesterday afternoon.

Representative Sawyer made another attempt yesterday afternoon to get consideration for the efficiency commission bill which has been signed by seventy-four members of the house.

When the house resolved itself into committee of the whole, with Representative R. C. Dunn in the chair, Mr. Sawyer moved to take up this bill, which the house in the forenoon by motion had put on general orders.

Mr. Dunn ruled the motion out of order, however, declaring that the bill was not on general orders, and this left the advocates of a commission not connected with the legislature nothing to do but to fight for their plan by amendments, to be offered this morning.

SOCIETY WOMEN

Some Spend Hundreds of Dollars a Year on Their Hair.

Leaders of society in New York know the social value of attractive hair, and according to a metropolitan newspaper every society woman spends a great deal of money to keep her hair beautiful and resplendent.

These women employ highly paid hair dressers and specialists, and so long as they have the money to gratify their desire for beautiful hair, none should complain.

But what about the thousands upon thousands of women just as intelligent, just as refined, and just as lovable as any society women, who have not the means for expert hair dressers and specialists?

What are they to do?

Are they not entitled to beautiful, lustrous and luxuriant hair?

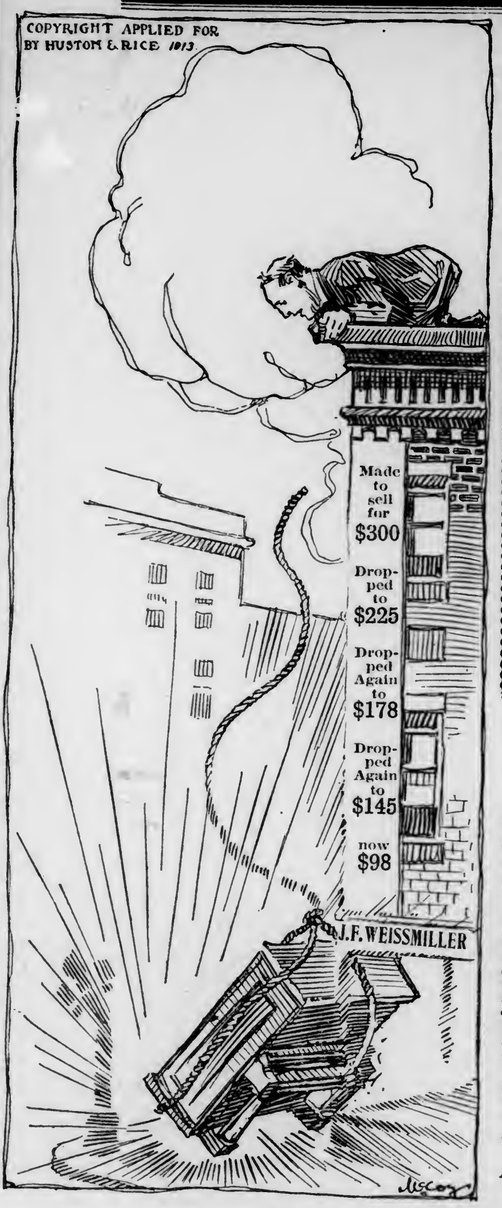

Most assuredly they are, and thousands of them give thanks daily to the great scientist who put within their reach, at a small price, the marvelous and quick acting hair tonic known all over America as Parisian Sage.

A large bottle of Parisian Sage costs but 50 cents. It will make any woman's hair grow thicker, more beautiful and more lustrous in a few weeks.

It cures dandruff by killing the microbes, and it is guaranteed by Boyce Drug Store to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks, or money back. Get a bottle while it's on your mind. It is a most pleasant hair dressing, and is not sticky or greasy.

WELL KNOWN HERE.

Minnesota Pioneer Who Passed Away at Minneapolis.

H. Ward Stone, whose sudden death at Minneapolis was reported in The Herald yesterday, was well known in Duluth. He was president of the British-American Timber company, owning about 60,000 acres of timber lands in British Columbia, in which E. B. Hawkins and William H. Cole of Duluth, L. C. Barnett of Superior, Ray W. Jones of Seattle and others are interested. He was a pioneer resident of Minnesota, coming to this state in 1870. He engaged in farming and conducted merchandise stores at Buffalo, Montevideo and Benson and was also in the banking business at the latter place. At one time he was receiver of the United States land office at Benson, and served several terms in the Minnesota house and senate. He was also interested in lumbering in the South. About four years ago he removed to Minneapolis, where he has since made his home. Mr. Stone was a staunch Republican in politics and was a presidential elector at the time of President McKinley's first election. He was 64 years of age and is survived by his wife, two sons and a daughter.

SIR WILFRID ANGRY.

Former Premier of Canada Strongly Opposes Closure Resolution.

Ottawa, April 10.—The introduction yesterday of the first closure resolution ever presented in the Canadian parliament was followed by scenes of great confusion. Even Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the former premier, lost his customary calm and became visibly angered.

When Premier Borden concluded his speech on the closure resolution, which was introduced to limit debate on the naval bill, Minister Hazen rose to move the question, hoping thereby to cut off discussion, but Sir Wilfrid, already on his feet, was recognized. Another Conservative member cited rules permitting the house to decide whether, in such case, it would hear anyone, and moved that Minister Hazen be allowed to speak.

This motion was carried, and a disorderly scene followed. Sir Wilfrid's supporters sprang to their feet with cries of "shame." There was a babel of demands for "fair play" and epithets were freely bandied. The tumult continued until a motion to adjourn was carried.

THOUGHT HE WOULD LIVE TO BE 95 YEARS OF AGE.

Denver, Colo., April 10.—Alonzo Thompson, 81, millionaire, Spiritualist and war-time auditor of Missouri, who firmly believed ghostly advices that he could not die before he was 95 years old, died yesterday. For six weeks this belief in his imagined span of life supported him in resisting pneumonia, and an incidental operation for the removal of a rib. A year ago his declaration that his "guide" told him his wife and son were conspiring to secure his fortune, led to Mrs. Thompson's divorce decree. The aged millionaire, although three times married, was planning following his "guide" into a fourth matrimonial venture.

THE TARIFF AND THE LEGISLATURE.

More than it showed anything else, the action of the house of representatives at St. Paul on Tuesday in devoting some of its rapidly expiring time to a debate on the tariff showed the effect of the preaching of the doctrine of protection that has been done for the last score of years by the orators of the Republican party. But it must be conceded that the action of the house was more human than wise.

Minnesota has demanded tariff revision downward. It has been one of the leaders among the states that repudiated the failure of the Republican party to live up to the promises of such revision made in 1908. So it comes with but poor grace for the legislature, or any branch of it, to try to hinder such action when the country finally has secured a congress and an administration that give promise of carrying out such promises.

Minnesota's chief products are not likely to suffer from either the free list in the new tariff bill or the reduction in duties on articles not included in the proposed free list. The products of Minnesota are largely agricultural, and the Republican teachings of protective tariffs as a boon to the farmer unquestionably are responsible for the feeling that brought about the action of the Minnesota legislators. But it has been pointed out time and again that the protective tariff has not benefited the farmer, even when applied to his products, but that instead it has only lined up the agricultural districts to vote for protection for the capitalistic interests.

It is encouraging to note that the resolution on the tariff only managed to squeeze through the house by a narrow margin, but it would have been more satisfying yet to have seen the house refuse to waste time on the matter at all. Representative Holmberg of Renville, who as a farmer may be regarded as having voiced the hard sense of the farmers of the state, hit the nail right on the head when he declared that the resolution was ill-timed; that the administration at Washington ought at least to be given a chance to get definite action, and that the bill should have received careful study before any attack on it was made or attempted.

One thing's sure—if Austria is really keen for trouble she's taking the right way to find it.

THE COMMERCIAL CLUB'S WORK.

Perusal of the reports on the year's work as made at the annual meeting yesterday of the Duluth Commercial club can not help but inspire the reader to congratulate the club on what it has done and is doing for the city.

In the discussions at the meeting the point was emphasized that the organization is in fact a private affair; that its elections and the transaction of its business are limited to its membership. But the reports made at the meeting showed that whatever private character the club may possess in the matter of organization and conduct, it is in fact a strong public force in the city, and its work is such that the public is bound to be interested in what it does and has done and in its plans for the future.

A glance at the reports is worth while. According to that of Maj. H. V. Eva, the secretary of the club, the finances are in good condition and the machinery of the organization is working smoothly. Secretary G. Roy Hall of the traffic commission gave the encouraging information that 121 successful efforts have been made for the betterment of transportation conditions and that it has been found necessary to drop only thirty-one out of a total of 233.

Even more encouraging than this was the declaration of Chairman Julius Barnes of the same commission that the attitude of the railroads toward Duluth and its demands is undergoing a change. With Mr. Barnes on the job, it is certain that Duluth's interests will be urged to the fullest extent, and there is reason to hope that still further gains will be made by the city in the way of more favorable railroad service.

Concerning the internal development of the city, Dr. Rastall showed that seven new industries have located here in the last eight months, and that there is a probability of more to come. Mr. Hostetter's statement of the increasing importance of Duluth as a cattle-breeding center was most encouraging, and he pointed out a serious need when he told of the importance of developing ready means of communication between the city and the outlying farming districts. His insistence on the further development of the public market system and the encouragement of more farmers to bring their products to the city was a point well taken.

Regarded throughout, the reports show that the Commercial club has been doing great work for Duluth. During the last few months it has got into closer touch with kindred organizations in the city. The outlook, both on account of the work already done and contemplated, and on account of the spirit of co-operation that has developed among local civic organizations, is that Duluth is to see a year of exceptional efforts and exceptional progress. The time is ripe for every citizen and every organization to join in a united effort in the interests of the whole city.

If April showers bring May flowers, what do April snows bring?

A BAY STATE EARLY BIRD.

Governor Foss of Massachusetts is entitled to classification among the early birds in the political flock. He has sent a 15,000-word tariff message to the legislature of that state, in which he criticized the new tariff bill even before it had been submitted to congress and so was legally in existence.

Some of the newspapers of the state see in this an undeniable proof that the governor expects the new bill to be unpopular in Massachusetts, and so is laying his plans to insure election for a fourth term as governor. There seems to be good ground for that interpretation, since Governor Foss is but three years old in his support of the Democratic party. Certainly such criticism as this comes with poor grace from a man who secured his own place in public life by means of attacking the protective tariff.

Whether Governor Foss is likely to gain the expected advantage by this new move is at least open to doubt. That his action is not accepted as wholly in good faith, or at least as within reason, by all the state is shown by the following from the Springfield, Mass., Republican:

"No one can read the governor's production in extenso without being amused by the chesty egotism and bland effrontery it displays in identifying the vast political revolution in the United States, which we have witnessed in the past year, with the single name of Foss. Democrats at a distance may well be reminded of the blessing that was vouchsafed to them when the deadlock in the Baltimore convention failed to make Governor Foss the Democratic nominee for president, in accordance with the forecasts of the Foss soothsayers."

Just the same, that tariff bill is going to detract some from the attention given to the opening of the baseball season.

AN IDAHO PROBLEM.

The club women of Idaho have undertaken a real problem, and one that is bound to affect the whole nation.

It all began when the club women started to work for an eight-hour day for the working people of the state. They put their case plainly and were rather staggered on being met by the manufacturers with a demand that they either cease their efforts or put their own homes on an eight-hour basis. That, in short, they institute the eight-hour day principle in their kitchens and elsewhere about the house where they employ help. The women refused to back down. They said they would think it over, and now they are working out a scheme for just such an innovation.

They may not know it, but their efforts will be watched throughout the length and breadth of the land. And their success, if they make a success of it, will revolutionize house service all over the country. Incidentally, if they can succeed in establishing an eight-hour scale of that kind, they will have put one over most effectually on the Idaho manufacturers, who will find themselves in a position in which it would seem impossible for them to refuse to establish the rule in their own business.

Some knotty problems confront the women in seeking the introduction of the eight-hour rule in housework. It would not be surprising if they found the plan impracticable, at least as that rule is generally understood in working and commercial circles. The single question of continuous or interrupted service presents puzzling features that might easily baffle the reformers. Then there is the allowance to be made for board and room, customarily accorded to domestic employes—to what extent is that to be a factor in determining wages and hours?

But the women are taking it up seriously, and may find some kind of a solution. One thing is certain—they will find that in housework, as in any other business, the eight-hour rule does not apply to the employer. He (or in this case she) must be on the job all the time, ready to do whatever is required, and to put in enough overtime to make up for the failure of the employe to get sufficient work done in the "scale" period to constitute the day's stint.

In view of the excitement France got up over the German airship, it is positively thrilling to think what would have happened if it had landed in England.

Those militant women in England have no sense of the eternal fitness of things. Two of them are named Millicent and Phyllis.

The latest monster steamship has lifeboats for all who may get aboard. Icebergs please take notice.

Now if they'd only put a prohibitive duty on increases in the price of coal.

NEW YORK AND LONDON.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Which is the larger in population, New York or London?

W. P. M.

The population of the administrative county and city of London is 4,522,628, as compared with 4,983,385, the population of New York city. To retain first place, London must include the outlying metropolitan police districts, which would give it more than 7,500,000. The population of New York is all within one administrative boundary, while what is called London, and is given in population the rank of first city, is under several administrations.—The Editor.

THE WANDERING JEW.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Please tell me what you can of the "Wandering Jew," and what conversation he is said to have had with Christ.

G. M. R.

The Wandering Jew is a legendary personage condemned to wander over the earth until the second coming of Christ, for reviling the Savior while on his way to Calvary. According to Matthew Paris and Roger Wendover, he was a porter in the service of Pontius Pilate, named Cartaphilus, but others identify him with Ahasuerus, a cobbler, on whose doorstep Christ attempted to rest, when overcome with the weight of his cross. Ahasuerus drove the Savior from his door with curses, whereupon Jesus calmly replied: "I truly am going, but thou shalt wander over the earth until I return."—The Editor.

The Reverse Picture of War

Thomas Chalmers: On every side of me I see causes at work which go to spread a most delusive coloring over war and to remove its shocking barbarities to the background of our contemplation altogther. I see it in the history which tells me of the superb appearance of the troops and the brilliancy of their successive charges. I see it in the poetry which lends the magic of its numbers to the narrative of blood, and transports its many admirers, as by its images and its figures and its nodding plumes of chivalry it throws its treacherous embellishments over a scene of legalized slaughter. I see it in the music which represents the progress of the battle, and where, after being inspired by the trumpet notes of preparation, the whole beauty and tenderness of a drawing room are seen to bend over the sentimental entertainment; nor do I hear the utterance of a single sigh to interrupt the death tones of the thickening contest and the moans of the wounded men as they fade away upon the ear and sink into lifeless silence.

All, all goes to prove what strange and half-sighted creatures we are. Were it not so, war could never have been seen in any other aspect than that of unmingled hatefulness; and I can look to nothing but to the progress of Christian sentiment upon earth to arrest the strong current of the popular and prevailing partiality for war. Then only will an imperious sense of duty lay the check of severe principle on all the subordinate tastes and faculties of our nature. Then will glory be reduced to its right estimate, and the wakeful benevolence of the gospel, chasing away every spell, will be turned by the treachery of no delusion whatever from its simple but sublime enterprises for the good of the species. Then the reign of truth and quietness will be ushered into the world, and war—cruel, atrocious, unrelenting war—will be stripped of its many and its bewildering fascinations.

Dayton Has Had Six Floods.

New York Sun: Dayton has stood in the shadow of disaster from flood over since its foundation. No less than six times previous to the present inundation have the rivers which flow through it left their accustomed courses and brought death and destruction of property upon the town. The first of these floods occurred in 1805, the very year that Dayton was incorporated as a town. The sixth was in 1898, and the others in the years 1847, 1863, 1866 and 1886.

Evil Days for the Stage.

Chicago Tribune: The kind-hearted woman had given the frazzled tourist a generous supply of cold victuals.

"Haven't you any regular trade or occupation?" she asked him.

"Yes'm,' he answered, with his mouth full; "I'm an actor."

"And can't you find anything to do on the stage?"

"No, ma'am; they ain't usin' any real actors on the stage these days."

Not Her Mind, Perhaps.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Did Emily enjoy her trip abroad?"

"She says she did."

"Emily has such a receptive mind."

"Are you sure it is her mind? All she talks about is what she had to eat."

Too Candid.

Smart Set: Wife (pouting)—You never kiss me goodby any more.

Husband—Well, I can assure you, my dear, it isn't because I don't want to.

Somewhat Incongruvial

By Savoyard.

Washington, April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pope Angelica is not yet come—he that will exorcise simony from the church, put joy in all our hearts, melody in all our throats, peace throughout our lands, plenty in all our households. There were pious folk who expected him as long ago as the ministry of Savonarola, and there are millions of good Catholics who daily pray for his advent. May he hasten his coming.

Neither is Uriah Heep dead—his tribe is legion and immortal. The vain wish of the evil mind is the warning and the disgust of the good man. Impotent rage is sometimes interesting, never dangerous. It is the viper without its fangs. We may loath it, but not fear it.

It is amusing to read the aimless "gosperings" of some of the bewildered standpat organs of this town when discussing the tariff. One in the Washington Star the other night would bring a broad grin on the face of the town clock. It was about the tariff, and its theme was that phase of it vulgarly and fittingly called "log-rolling." Here is what it was and all it was: "Wanted, a Gorman, and the emergency is excruciating."

But there isn't a-going to be any Gorman this time. That's flat. And if Gorman himself were yet in the flesh and on the political stage, a member of the United States senate, Gorman would vote genuine tariff reform. There is going to be no "log-rolling"—that is a lost art. We are not going to have an ideal tariff; we are not going to have a good tariff; but we are going to get a tariff that will prove not half so bad as the one we have got, and it will be the beginning of the end of tariff privilege in this glorious Union of ours.

The man at the helm is the best navigator now in the pilot business. He knows men. Woodrow Wilson is more like Abraham Lincoln, so far as relates to a genius for public affairs, than any other statesman of our history. As for non-essentials he cares not a rap, such as a senatorial chairmanship—but let the thing grow into a matter of principle, Woodrow Wilson will be boss, the head of his party, the chief magistrate of the greatest people the world has yet seen.

If I may be pardoned for an egotism I will say that Mr Wilson has yielded once or twice where I would not; but he is in infinite degree a greater man than I, though I would have made a devilish deal better president than some of his predecessors—two of them I wot of, presidents since the advent of the twentieth century.

The senate is the citadel of privilege. It is the last ditch in which the special interests will make a stand. The senate extorted certain chairmanships. At this reading the senate demands the head of young Bob Woolley. If it shall receive that head on a charger, the senate will be emboldened to tinker with the tariff—a la Gorman, Smith, Brice, and that set, including Sam Randall. Now, if that shall come, the senate will find in the White House not a stronger man than Grover Cleveland, but a more dextrous politician than Cleveland. The hammer of Thor did not prevail against the craft of Gorman, but Wilson can wield the brand of Saladin as well as uplift the club of Hercules.

It makes me mad to contemplate the confidence with which standpatters here look to the South to preserve the curse of a protective tariff—the South that for more than a century, with the short interval of 1846-62, has been the victim of that policy by selling in a free trade mart and buying in a protected mart. That war of 1861-65 would have come sooner or later if there had not been a slave in the world, or a nigger in America. Secession would have followed the "tariff of abominations" in 1828 if Gen. Jackson had not got off that high hoss he was on and accepted the compromise Henry Clay made. That war came because the South, the junior partner, could not shame the North, the senior and stronger partner, into standing hitched to the Constitution of the United States as interpreted by the supreme court.

And now for the South to break loose from the hitching post is not only folly, but infamy. Here is somebody who has a pine tree. He turns it into lumber or turpentine and rosin. He wants to be "protected" and he asks congress to tax the Georgia "Cracker" and the Mississippi "Redneck," who get a miserable living out of a miserable bale of cotton grown on a miserable sand bank, to make his business profitable! That is this here "New South," of which, thank God, I am not a part, and for which I have mingled hatred and contempt. Give me the Old South, the proudest people the smile of God ever beamed upon—ay, they made plebeian the Noblesse Oblige of the Bourbon dynasty.

And shall we accept largess for lumber and demand free steel? Did we not for decade and decade and decade pay tax for the ties with which we bound our cotton while the wheat grower of the West got his binding twine free? And now are we to engage in a robbery that will hold up the hans of the robbers who have so long robbed us?

Over heaven's forbid be it.

Coal for 5,000 Years.

Philadelphia Press: New interest is added to the dispute concerning control of coal fields in Alaska by the testimony given in Chicago recently that there were in that vast territory of ours no less than 1,500,000,000,000 tons of the precious fuel buried under an area of 900 square miles. What is more interesting still, and comforting as well, is the expert testimony that there is coal enough in the United States proper to last for 5,000 years to come.

This testimony was given in a suit in which fraud against the government in the Alaskan coal fields was charged. The comforting witness was William Griffith, mining engineer and geologist employed by the government bureau of mines. His figures are stupendous. Although the average yearly consumption of coal has been 400,000,000 tons, there are, he declares, still underground in the United States (taking no account of the enormous reserve supply in Alaska) not less than 2,500,000,000,000 tons. What is more, we have hardly scratched the visible supply since we have been mining coal, for consumption has so far used up only four-tenths of 1 per cent of the total supply.

These are indeed reassuring figures, and should set at rest in the minds of the most timid all misgivings as to coal famines, so far as nature is concerned. Out of her enormous abundance nature stands ready to give us all that we will take, while the task of cornering a market of the size described by Mr. Griffith may well appal the most ambitious captain of industry of ages yet to come.

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Getting elected vice president of the United States was by no means the biggest moment in the life of Thomas R. Marshall. Neither was his election to the governorship of Indiana.

Marshall says that he lived the red-letter day of his life many years ago, and nothing to eclipse it has ever occurred, great political honors notwithstanding.

"It was one Fourth of July," says the vice president. "I was just 10 years old. I remember of awakening to find that it was a fine, bright morning; that we had strawberries for breakfast, and that I had ten packages of firecrackers—which was more than were possessed by any other boy in town. I was supremely happy. It was the most joyous day I had ever known, and I have never felt so exalted or happy since."

Which recalls the remark of Senator Bradley of Kentucky, who says that the supreme moment of his busy life came when he put on his first pair of knee pants.

All printed copies of United States supreme court decisions have been prepared in the same little printing shop for the last seventy-five years. In all that time, so far as anybody knows, there has not been one "leak." And yet the possession of an important decision a day or so in advance might enable one to make a fortune in stock speculation.

The original proprietor of the printing shop did the work himself, taking no chances on the secret getting out through an employe. At his death, the foreman of the shop conducted the establishment for the estate and continued to get the supreme court work. Another man—only the third manager in seventy-five years—is now running the plant. The printing is divided among several employes in such a way that no one has enough of the decision to make any sense out of it. And the final paragraph—the part where the court puts in the "cracker," saying whether the case is reversed or affirmed—is always set up by the manager of the shop himself.

Copies of the decision are turned over to the clerk of the supreme court, to be handed to the news associations as soon as the justice starts to read it from the bench.

But for some reason, much to the vexation of the newspaper men, there are never enough copies to go around. Sometimes there is only one copy given out and the news association favored with that one copy has a brief lead over its rivals in getting the report on the wire.

Senator Carroll S. Page of Vermont dropped into a Washington bank once to get some money changed into $2.50 gold pieces which is the only way he will carry the stuff about with him.

While standing at the cashiers' window he happened to look down at his feet and noticed a crisp $1 bill.

"Here," says Page to the cashier, "is money. Somebody must have dropped it."

"Well, I suppose it's yours," said the cashier affably. "Or at least it isn't ours. I might keep it until I see if anybody claims it, and if not it's yours. You found it."

"Put it away," suggested Page, who has kept books, "until you find how your cash comes out, and then if you're not short we'll give it to some worthy charity."

So the cashier laid it in the drawer.

A week later the senator again appeared at the bank, but had forgot all about the dollar bill.

The cashier glanced up at him and then opened his mouth and stared.

"Do you know," gasped the cashier, "I had forgot all about that dollar you left here, until right now. And I've been staying here till midnight trying to figure why my cash was a dollar long!"

Senator Moses Clapp of Minnesota, who is one of the most hearty off-hand eaters in public life, dropped into a little Western town a summer or two ago and made the usual inquiries about the "leading" hotel. It was a neatly kept place, but Clapp found great difficulty in sustaining life through the days he got his meals there. The menu was as appetizing as a page from a hardware catalogue.

The proprietor took a great fancy to Clapp, however, and insisted on showing him about the place. He boasted that he had three guest chambers with private baths, and then confided his plans for enlarging the dining room.

"We are going to have the swellest little dining room in the state," he said. Hardwood floors, you know, and then the walls above the wainscoting will be decorated appropriately with pictures of all kinds of game, ducks, and rabbits and partridges, besides artistic paintings of fish, various fruits, grapes, and so on. Pretty fine for a little town like this, don't you think?"

"Ye-es," admitted Senator Clapp. "About the only suggestion I would make would be in regard to those decorations. Instead of having all those rabbits and partridges and trout and peaches and grapes and things on the wall, I would recommend to put 'em on the plates."

The Voiceless.

We count the broken lyres that rest
Where the sweet wailing singers slumber,
But o'er their silent sister's breast,
The wild flowers who will stoop to number?

A few can touch the magic string,
And noisy Fame is proud to win them—
Alas for those that never sing,
But die with all their music in them!

Nay, grieve not for the dead alone
Whose song has told their hearts' sad story—
Weep for the voiceless, who have known
The cross without the crown of glory!

Not where Leucadian breezes sweep
O'er Sappho's memory-haunted billow,
But where the glistening night dews weep
On nameless sorrow's churchyard pillow.

O hearts that break and give no sign
Save whitening up and faded tresses,
Till Death pours out his longed-for wine
Slow-dropped from Misery's crushing presses,

If singing breath or echoing chord
To every hidden pang were given,
What endless melodies were poured,
As sad as earth, as sweet as heaven!

The State Legislature

Press Views on the Session.

Efforts Approved.

Waseca Herald: Figures furnished by the legislative committee on public accounts show that the population of this state has increased 19 per cent during the past ten years, while the cost of our state government has increased nearly 200 per cent. The committee proposes to do away with a number of unnecessary state departments, whose members are drawing fat fees from the state treasury. Their efforts will meet with general approval.

The Patched Constitution.

Sandstone Courier: The state legislature has turned down the proposition of revising the whole state Constitution. This is a matter that will have to be undertaken sometime and the sooner the better. It is now getting so muddled up that no one except a few lawyers know where they are at. They might also prune out most of the laws on the statute books and leave only those that can be enforced.

One Good Feature.

Detroit Record: Many favorable comments are heard about one good feature which has been added to the amended primary law of Minnesota and approved by both houses of the legislature. The provision allowing candidates to file after the primary elections has been taken out of the law, thus leaving the selection of candidates entirely with the people.

Minnesota Escaped.

Brown's Valley Tribune: Many of the state legislatures are burning up a lot of gray matter in trying to enact laws to provide for muzzling hatpins. This is one freak measure that has not as yet been tackled by the Minnesota solons.

Thanks in Advance.

Albert Lea Standard: If the legislature strikes off the shackles of parties, gives us non-partisan legislative and county elections, thus smashing the power of the bosses and political machines, the members that accomplish it will be entitled to the everlasting thanks of the people and to glowing monuments of honor to their unprecedented adoption of democracy which will ever be pillars of light to all other commonwealths of the Union.

The People's View.

Willow River Farmer: The non-partisan primary election bill, which passed both branches of the legislature, appears to be too good a piece of legislation, and hence it is proposed to "let it die in conference if it can be managed." This should meet with general disapproval on the part of the people of the state, as the proposed law is in accord with popular sentiment and is obnoxious only to the politicians.

Unparalleled Record.

Biwabik Times: The present legislature soon completes its work for the session. And the body has made an unparalleled record for progressive legislation—answering the vote of the people. This is encouraging, particularly when the Democrats joined in enacting laws designed to benefit all the people. Among the laws of prime importance was the distance tariff law and the recall—not to mention the prospective annihilation of the rotten game and fish commission and the county division bill. Minnesota will hereafter be classed among the progressive states, no matter what party is in power.

Hopes for the Best.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: It is reported that the leaders of the house, which went on record as favoring non-partisan election of county officers and members of the legislature, are anxious to have this progressive measure killed, and are working for a disagreement in the committee of conference of the house and senate. They might compromise on putting the county officers on the non-partisan list and see how that works—although there is no sound reason why the men selected to make laws for the whole people should be elected on the tariff issue which is not even suggestively settled by a state legislature. The house leaders have been making great pretensions of being progressive. We trust they will not show the saffron hue on one of the most important progressive bills of the session and one that would be approved by an overwhelming majority of the people.

Walks on Razor's Edge.

Tid-Bits: That snails can pass over such sharp instruments as a razor's edge without the slightest harm has been demonstrated by a French scientist in the course of his study of these creatures, which are so well equipped for travel that they can move over surfaces exceptionally dangerous to seemingly better protected animals. The snail walks with the whole surface of its body, and is provided with means to lubricate the road on which it travels. A peculiarly complex system of muscles enables it to cling in any position to smooth objects. In lifting itself over the razor's edge, it clings with the hind part of its walking surface to one side of the blade and extends the fore part and bends it down on to the other side without touching the edge, thus accomplishing without harm what would naturally seem impossible.

An Electric Lighted Binnacle.

Manila Bulletin: A novel type of binnacle provided with oil lamps as well as electric lighting is now in use. Both sources of illumination are located below the compass, the oil lamps being hurricane proof and so arranged that no smoke can penetrate into the compass chamber proper, while the electric lights, contained within the binnacle, are most accessibly placed and easily regulated by means of a controlling switch to give reduced light for taking night bearings. This binnacle has been especially constructed for housing a modernized type of the so-called light card compass, invented by Sir William Thomson, and commonly used in the British navy and merchant marine.

The Doctor's Advice
by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms of diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Gertrude" writes: "Can you prescribe a remedy for cattarh. I suffer constantly with headache and pain cross my eyes. My breath is very bad which annoys me greatly."

Answer: For catarrh and bad breath I always recommend the use of antiseptic Vilane powder. Ask your druggist for an original 2 oz. package of antiseptic Vilane powder. Make a catarrh balm by mixing a level teaspoonful of the powders with one ounce of vaseline, or lard will do just as well, and use as far up as possible in the nostrils several times a day. Then take a pint of warm water and one-half teaspoonful of the powder and use as a snuff from the palm of the hand. If these directions are followed you will soon be cured of this dreadful disease.

"Maud" writes: "Can anything be done for an itching scalp. My scalp is also covered with dandruff and I am in great distress."

Answer: You can very easily be cured of an itching scalp, also dandruff if you will get a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow mingol and use according to the directions given on the jar. Two or three applications have been known to cure. Try it fairly and you will advocate its use to your friends.

"Ellen K." writes: "I am not fleshy enough. I should weigh 20 pounds more. I am ashamed of my thinness and wish to become plump and attractive. Can you help me?"

Answer: Yes, I can help you "Ellen K." and many others in the same plight. A thorough course of treatment with three grain hypo-nuclano tablets will gradually give you more red and white blood corpuscles adding to your weight, health and color, giving you pink cheeks, red lips and sparkling eyes. These tablets are packed in sealed cartons with directions. Do not expect results too quickly. It takes time to change the cells and tissues of the body, but you can depend on gaining weight if you are persistent.

"D. E. F." writes: "If you know of anything that I could take to cure my rheumatism, please tell me as I suffer all the time. Am getting worse all the time."

Answer: Take the following and you will soon be cured of your rheumatism. This is the best remedy that I have ever known for this trouble. Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, ½ oz.; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz., and syrup sarsaparilla comp. 5 ozs. Mix by shaking well and take one teaspoonful at meal times and again at bed time.

"Helen" writes: "Can you give me a reliable remedy for coughs and colds? My cough is so tight that I am afraid of pneumonia?"

Answer: The tightest cough can be loosened in one hour by using the following: Get from your druggist a 2½ oz. package of essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on bottle. This will break up any cold and loosen the tightest cough and soon oure by its laxative tonic action.

"Henry" writes: "If you can prescribe anything that will cure my stomach trouble and constipation, please do so. My breath is bad and I am irritable and cannot sleep."

Answer: You can be very easily cured of your troubles by taking tablets triopeptine. This is the most scientific and satisfactory treatment for the stomach and if taken according to directions you will soon be able to eat a hearty meal and not have any distress afterwards. Your constipation will be cured and your whole system will be put in a fine condition.

"John" says: "What can I do to gain an appetite? I do not eat and am getting thin and weak. Please advise a remedy.

Answer: The best tonic that I know of is made by mixing 5 ozs. of syrup of hypophosphites comp. and 1 oz. tincture cadomene comp. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful before each meal. You will soon gain flesh and your appetite will return.

Mrs. W. C. asks: "Is it safe to reduce one's weight when it is excessive? I have often wanted to take something but have been afraid it might do more harm than good."

Answer: Some remedies might not be safe, but I prescribe one which is both safe and effective. Ask any well-stocked pharmacy for 5-grain arbolene tablets, packed in sealed tubes, with full directions for home use. They will usually reduce at the rate of a pound a day.

"Geraldine" writes: "I am troubled a great deal with headache, dizzy spells, dark spots before my eyes, twinges of rheumatism. Can I be helped at all?"

Answer: You can not only be "helped" but you can be "cured" of all the troubles you mention. You need three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur) which are packed in sealed tubes and contain full directions for use. They are made of sulphur, cream of tarfar and herb medicines. If these are taken regularly they purify the blood, stimulate the liver and bowels into healthy action and will gradually effect a cure.

"Mother"—Bedwetting in children is usually a disease which can be cured by the use of the following: Tincture cubebs 1 dram; tincture rhus aromatic 2 drams; comp. fluid balmwort 1 oz. Mix and give the child 10 to 15 drops in water one hour before each meal.

DOWLING OFFERS CLUB CONDITIONAL APOLOGY

Announces He Will Publicly Retract If He Is in Error.

Is Told Time to Criticize Is After Investigation, Not Before.

P. E. Dowling, public critic of the Commercial club, offered a conditional apology for some of his statements at the annual meeting of the club last evening. He said if the statements made in the club reports are true, he will publicly retract what he said.

After hearing the reports of the officers and committees of the club at the annual meeting, Mr. Dowling arose and expressed his regret if he had been misinformed as to some things. At the same time he declared that the criticism he had directed at the club had had a beneficial effect. He made a plea for pure democracy in the club by having the committees report to the club as a whole instead of to the public affairs committee.

Julius H. Barnes, vice chairman of the public affairs committee, replied to Mr. Dowling, denouncing baseless attacks and declaring that investigation should be made before, and not after speaking. He said that the organization of the club has come by evolution and has been found best by experience.

Mr. Dowling's talk came after the regular reports had been submitted. President James A. Ferguson offered the floor to any one who wanted to talk, and Mr. Dowling was recognized. In opening, he quoted "Woe to him from whom scandal cometh."

"I may have been a scandalizer of the Commercial club in the past," said Mr. Dowling. "If what I have heard here tonight is true, I shall have to apologize, and I don't believe it is a weak man who makes a public apology. If everything I have heard here tonight is true, I shall have to retract some of the statements I made in regard to the Commercial club.

Was Only the Spokesman.

"The criticism I have given to the Commercial club could not have been given without encouragement. I would have had to cease molding public opinion if my efforts had not been appreciated and accepted. The sentiment for which I was the spokesman was not mine—it was found everywhere in the city. I see many men around me here who encouraged me in my criticism of the club. I must not retract my statements if they are false. No man in Duluth hears what I have heard tonight with greater pleasure than I.

"You may attempt ostracism if you will, but I will still have opinions and will express them. There has never been anything destructive about me—I have always been constructive.

"If I said in January that not one industry had been brought to Duluth by the Commercial club, and the statement was not true, I must apologize.

"If I said that Mr. Hostetter had resigned, and it was not true, I must apologize.

"There is always a good deal of enthusiasm at meetings of this kind, but is it sustained? I find a good many men willing to stand on street corners and in hotel lobbies and express their criticism. I am not of that sort. I will come here or will appear in the newspapers publicly to express my views. I think the term 'knocker' is often unjustly used. I am not a 'knocker.' The 'knocker' would tear down without rebuilding, and I would not do that.

"I regard the public affairs committee as the legislative committee of this club. I have tried to have the meetings thrown open to the club members generally, so that they would not feel like usurpers if they expressed their views.

"I make another suggestion. I think the public affairs committee should be appointed by the ten directors, instead of by the president alone. I believe the public affairs committee should meet at least once a month with the whole membership of the club for the discussion of matters before the club. I believe that the committees should report to the whole club instead of to the public affairs committee, and that they should be considered the committees of all members of the club.

"If any man can point out successfully to me where I am wrong I am willing to change my position. I have been bitterly assailed. Maybe I had something coming to me, but that is past. I believe the controversy has resulted in much good."

Not Public Institution.

"This club is not a public institution in the strict sense of the word," said President Ferguson at the close of Mr. Dowling's talk. "It is for the members of the Commercial club. The members form their own organization and have the say as to what that organization shall be. If the organization is wrong, the members of the club have the right to change it. But while the organization is what it is now, the officers of the club will conform to the organization.

Julius H. Barnes made the principal reply to Mr. Dowling.

"I was the first treasurer of the Commercial club," he said. "I was the first secretary of the public affairs committee. We found that we could not work effectively with the whole membership of the club acting on everything, so the first public affairs committee of forty members was organized, with the selections made, supposedly, for great public interest. It was a good meeting when six or seven members were out. The present organization is an evolution brought about by the need of accomplishment. We have found that the whole membership of the club will not take an active interest. The plan of naming a public affairs committee has worked well and should be continued.

"Criticism is always welcome when it is honest and well-grounded. When criticism is rushed into without investigation it merits no attention and should receive none. The greatest harm in such criticism is in the wounded feelings of men who have worked unselfishly for the public interest and in keeping other good men out of public work where they would be exposed to such criticism.

"I know that our chairman of the public affairs committee was deeply wounded by his motives being questioned. The idea that he was engaged in civic work for the benefit of any interest than the public good is absurd and ridiculous. For my own part, I don't care. I have been here twenty-five years and I leave judgment as to my motives to those who know me. But many men will not want to put themselves in a position where their motives may be questioned. I think any man should think a long time before making an attack on men who are trying to serve, not only this club, but the whole city."

Dr. William H. Salter received word yesterday that his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Macnaughton, of Chatham, N. J., died Tuesday evening at her home. Mrs. Salter was at the bedside of her mother.

Mrs. Macnaughton was 67 years old and is survived by her husband, Rev. Macnaughton, four daughters and one son, all of whom have visited with Dr. Salter in Duluth and are well known in this city. Rev. Mr. Macnaughton filled the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church during his visit here two years ago. The children who survive Mrs. Macnaughton are: Mrs. Salter, Duluth; Mrs. Robert Caskey, Morristown, N. J.; Mrs. William Chadwell, Newark, N. J., and Miss Mollie Macnaughton and David Macnaughton of Chatham.

The funeral will be held at Chatham tomorrow. Mrs. Salter is expected home in about two weeks.

Doctors Use This for Eczema

Dr. Evans, ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and so salves have long ago been found worthless. The most advanced physicans of this country are now agreed on this, and are prescribing a wash of wintergreen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema.

Dr. Holmes, the well-known skin specialist, writes: "I am convinced that the D.D.D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria. I have been prescribing the D.D.D. remedy for years." It will take away the itch the instant you apply it.

In fact, D.D.D. is so absolutely reliable that we will be glad to let you have a $1 bottle on this guarantee, backed by the D.D.D. company, that it will cost you nothing unless you find that it does the work.

Ask us about D.D.D. Soap. It helps. For sale at Abbett's Drug Stores.

COMMERCIAL CLUB'S PROGRESS SHOWN BY OFFICERS' REPORTS

R. B. Knox Slated for Presidency---A. H. Crassweller, A. M. McDougall, J. W. Lyder, Jr., H. B. Haroldson and Watson S. Moore Elected Directors.

Substantial progress in all branches of endeavor in which the Commercial club is engaged was reported at the annual meeting of the club held last evening.

The club is greater in membership, stronger in financial position and more advanced in civic work than it was a year ago, according to the reports. The traffic commission has made good progress in straightening out traffic difficulties, the industrial bureau has brought several new industries to the city and the agricultural work started by the club has expanded in wonderful manner.

The annual meeting last evening followed the election of directors yesterday. Arthur H. Crassweller, A. M. McDougall, J. W. Lyder, Jr., Hans B. Haroldson and Watson S. Moore were elected to the directorate of the club, E. J. Filiatrault and W. C. Mitchell being defeated. There were 230 votes, and the result was as follows: Crassweller, 193; McDougall, 191; Lyder, 178; Haroldson, 163; Moore, 147; Filiatrault, 124; Mitchell, 120.

President James A. Ferguson presided at the annual meeting, and announced his retirement from the presidency. R. B. Knox, second vice president during the last year, was hailed as the prospective president, but he declined to make a speech. The directors will hold a meeting in a few days to elect officers and Mr. Knox is expected to be elected to head the club.

Usually the annual meeting of the public affairs committee is held in advance of the annual meeting of the club, but it was postponed this year, and some of the reports made last evening forecasted the more extensive reports to be given to the public affairs committee.

In his annual report, President Ferguson reviewed the work of the year, expressed gratification over the progress made and breathed a note of optimism for the coming year.

Secretary's Report.

Secretary H. V. Eva's report follows:

"The total membership of the club March 31, 1913, was 1,945; resident members, 889, and non-resident members, 156, showing the membership in better condition than at any time in the history of the organization.

"There has been during the year thirty-nine meetings of the board of directors with an average attendance of seven. There has been 205 meetings of the committees, to say nothing of the numerous meetings which have been held in the club rooms from time to time.

"The year has been a successful one. The financial condition of the club is gratifying and the loyalty and support of our members apparently was never greater than it is today. The club has been criticised in its work. This we must expect, for in an organization of this size it is impossible to please all. We are organized and working on broad lines. You all have the privilege of participating in this work if you so desire. The meetings of committees are open to all. The records of the club, its standing, its finances and its meetings are open to any member of the organization. This organization represents the constructive work of a number of years and it is partially the result of experiments and experience of others.

"Organizations in this and in other cities have lost their full efficiency because of mistakes in policy, because of public apathy, divided interest and lack of spirit. Sometimes they are wrecked on the rocks of politics, private interests, personal ambition or divided opinion upon questions not within the province of the organization. Your officers and directors have endeavored to steer clear of these rocks and avoid the disasters that have befallen other bodies. This club has not bowed down to any individual or interest, however big or powerful. It cannot be controlled and it has not been controlled, and we do not believe it can be destroyed because it is loyal and stands for the upbuilding and development of the civic, commercial, industrial and financial activities of our city.

"Individual members at any time have the right to say whether they will support the policies and activities outlined by its officers. In other words, the work of this club is your work and entitled to your support, your earnest advice and co-operation.

"I am not going to attempt to bore you tonight with details of the club work, as I know you will get some of that from other sources, and the principal report of the year, which will be printed and mailed, will give you all in detail its activities.

Built on Broad Lines.

"In my judgment Duluth has been built on broad lines and on a solid foundation. We have assimilated here industries and people as they came. We have not gone out with brass bands or blare of trumpets inviting people to come unless we had some good cause or reason to do so. In ther cities where publicity campaigns have been put on, on the boom principal, they have not produced satisfactory results, and in my judgment less of this will be done as time rolls on. I do not believe anywhere in this land can be found a body of men more earnest, honest and faithful than the men of this city with whom it has been my privilege to associate in this work for the past ten years.

"There is one thing I would like to impress on all of you and that is when something arises that does not meet with your approval, or should you hear a rumor relative to some action of the organization that does not meet with your approval that you will come and investigate for yourself. As I stated before, our records are here and speak for themselves. You all know no two people can paint a picture alike, that no two imaginations are alike, so it is true of a report or rumor. It is painted in a word picture according to the imagination of the man who paints it, so that in fairness to yourselves, in fairness to the organization in which you are a stockholder, it is your right and your duty to reserve your criticism until you are thoroughly satisfied you are right.

"Duluth has a bright future before it because of its natural advantages for business development, and is, in my judgment, on the eve of a great advancement, and in order to obtain the maximum amount of benefit we must have co-operation and unity.

"There was a time when it was generally understood that the only way to build a city and increase its industrial growth was by so-called bonus system, or what we now term the bribe system. Duluth has had its experience in this and suffered from that cause. Cities now grow because of their natural advantages, because of their being fit to live in; because of their being clean, both from a moral and sanitary standpoint; because of better homes, city parks, good schools and churches, and because of their livable conditions which go to make up happiness in this world.

"We should work to this end. We should uphold the hands of the men who are giving up their time and money to bring this about. We should uphold the hands of the officers of our city government, thereby giving them our moral assistance and support in this work of making the place we live one that we shall all be proud of. Let me say in the words of Lincoln, 'I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives and I like to see the man live in it so his place will be proud of him.'"

ECZEMA PAINFUL ITCHED TERRIBLY

560 Alice Ave., Greenville, Ill.—"My baby's eczema broke out nearly all over him a bright red but his face, arms and legs, below the knees were the worst. It then got white and yellow and ran a watery substance till his clothes would be wet. It came in the form of pimples, then became running sores and his face was swollen and red, then thick brown scabs would form. He scratched whenever he could get his hands loose, as I tied his hands, and was very fretful and cross and could not sleep much. It seemed to be very painful and itch terribly. We thought his face would be all scarred. He had it for about a year and we spent lots of money with treatments and medicine, but nothing did him any good till I got Cuticura Soap and Ointment and then he slept all night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured him in six months." (Signed) Mrs. Elmer White, Mar. 28, 1912.

ROSEAU HAS BIG FUTURE

Crop Expert Bergh Pleased With Soil of Northwestern County.

That Section Very Well Adapted for Dairying and Stock Growing.

Crookston, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Otto I. Bergh, farm crop expert at the Northwest experiment station here, H. A. Lidenberg, dairy inspector, and C. O. Carlson of Erskine of the extension division of the University of Minnesota have returned from Roseau following a two days' farmers' institute held here, very largely attended and much enthusiasm developing.

"The Roseau country has a great future," said Prof. Bergh, "especially in dairying and stock because the peat lowlands which have been drained by a fine system of ditches is specially adapted to a luxuriant growth of forage crops. The large amount of vegetable matter in this class of soil makes some crops slow in maturing, but from the large acreage of black alluvial loam. Benjamin Franklin, one of the progressive farmers there, is raising some of the finest Minnesota 23 corn I have ever seen; it would do credit to Southern Minnesota counties. He won first prize at the St. Cloud and other exhibitions this year with it.

Peat Soil Is Fine.

"The peat soil is fine where the peat is not too deep and the drainage good. There is little water in that section now and seeding will be started practically as soon as in the Red river valley. The soil is much the same as it is here outside the peat sections. Many new farmers are coming in and a decided feeling of optimism prevails. Farmers are looking more carefully into the seed they sow and this means a long step forward."

APPLETON LOSES CASES.

Wisconsin City Powerless to Remove Police Officer, Says Court.

Oshkosh, Wis., April 10.—The Appleton police and fire board under the new commission government has not the power to discharge a police officer, according to a decision by Judge Burnell in circuit court here yesterday. William Bloomer, a police officer, was discharged for alleged cause and appealed to the court. Judge Burnell declared that the officer is entitled to judgment and that the proceedings of the board are void. It is expected an appeal will be taken to the supreme court by the city of Appleton.

A Treat for Duluth Housekeepers

Duluth housekeepers are delighted with the delicious, nut-like flavor of "Minnesota" Macaroni. Many say they never knew macaroni could taste so good and be so firm and nutritious and flavory as the "Minnesota" Macaroni, now sold by leading Duluth grocers.

There is a big difference in macaroni as sold in the stores. "Minnesota" Macaroni is made from the VERY BEST DURUM wheat with ALL the wonderfully nourishing Gluten left in. It is easily digested, very nourishing, and costs only about one cent a dish.

Try the handy "Minnesota" Cut Macaroni, which is cut into uniform pieces—it cooks more evenly and is quicker to prepare. Adv.

RED LAKE RIVER NOW SUBSIDING

Danger of Damage From Swollen Stream Is Believed Passed.

Crookston, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—All danger of a flood from the Red Lake river overflow is now considered passed. The river fell a foot yesterday and the ice is out below the dam. The weather has been cool and the last snowfall melted slowly and most of it soaked into the soil. A week's drying weather will witness many farmers at work.

Practically every farmer is testing all seed grain to be sown this spring, and this has resulted in good tested seed being in good demand.

NORTH DAKOTA IS NOW WELL SOAKED

Early Seeding Will Be Delayed But Soil Will Be Benefited.

Fargo, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The heavy precipitation that has occurred over North Dakota, principally in the form of snow, during the past few days, has greatly delayed seeding, but has by no means discouraged the farmers. The storage of a considerable amount of moisture at this season is always regarded as highly beneficial.

Even under favorable conditions it will require several days to dry the fields. All the lower lands along the main line of the Northern Pacific are covered with water and only the higher spots can be touched for some time.

Small Fall Plowing Drawback.

The small amount of plowing done last fall is the greatest handicap to the farming operations this season. Where formerly more than half the plowing was done in the fall, this spring the plowed fields are more the exception than the rule.

As a result of conditions strong pressure is being brought on the farmers to seed less wheat and do more summer fallowing and raise more corn. The system will be adopted by many.

POURS KEROSENE ON LIGNITE FIRE.

Granville, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pouring kerosene on live lignite coals to start a blaze resulted in an explosion which may permanently disfigure Elinore Hunter, a young girl of this place. She was badly burned on the cheek and arm.

Mr. Bigelow will represent the Ashland high school at Prentice on April 18. The winner of this will represent the northern territory in the state contest later.

Ishpeming, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the timber in a drift in the North Lake mine of the Cleveland-Cliffs Mining company gave away Tuesday it loosened a mass of earth and rock that crushed the life out of John Wisuri, a Finn aged 45 and single, who had lived here many years. KILLS ANTI-FRAT BILL.

Wisconsin Assembly Slaughters Measure Aimed at Greek Societies.

Madison, Wis., April 10.—The assembly yesterday killed the Anderson anti-fraternity bill by a vote of 57 to 42. All amendments were rejected.

A letter from John Hannan, private secretary to Senator La Follette, was read tending to show that La Follette was not in sympathy with the anti-fraternity movement, but Anderson asserted that if La Follette's autobiography was read it would be seen that La Follette had a strong aversion to them, referring to them as undemocratic.

Don C. Hall warmly defended the fraternities and referred to the measure as infamous.

EIGHT FOR ACQUITTAL.

That Is Way Jury First Stood in Olson Murder Trial.

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—Prof. Oscar M. Olson, formerly of the University of Minnesota, who was acquitted of the murder of Clyde N. Darling, did not leave for Montevideo last night as expected. He will not confirm a report that he will soon resume his work in the interest of the university farm school.

"It is going to be hard to remain here for, whenever my name is mentioned, it will be connected with this tragedy," he said.

"I will not depart for Montevideo for several days, however."

It has developed that the first ballot taken by the jury Tuesday night stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction; the second, nine for acquittal and three for conviction, and the third was unanimous for acquittal. Harrison Norris, the only unmarried man on the jury was last to agree to a verdict of not guilty.

Crookston, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the Commercial club last evening Harvey W. Misner, one of the younger business men, was elected president and the club gave its unqualified indorsement to the Northwestern Agricultural Fair association.

The association this spring will buy its own grounds and add to the buildings, and for this purpose over $4,000 in cash has been raised and this will be increased to from $6,500 to $7,000 in order to put the fair on a sound financial basis. The fair will be held this year during the latter part of July, specializing stock, and will hold the corn and grain show in the winter months, co-operating with the Northwest School of Agriculture. The Commercial club also inaugurated a clean-up campaign and will co-operate with the Civic league in another "city beautiful" movement to make Crookston a bower of flowers for the U. C. T. grand council meeting here on June 12, 13 and 14.

DAIRYING POPULAR.

North Dakota May Rival Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Fargo, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Dairying is daily gaining a stronger foothold in North Dakota," said E. A. Greenwood, assistant state dairy commissioner. "We are receiving inquiries at the department headquarters from practically every section of the state. Of course the things that encourages us the most is the great enthusiasm over the construction of silos. This is the first step in placing dairying on a solid foundation. It will not be long until North Dakota joins Minnesota and Wisconsin in the great movement."

RAILWAY LABORERS ARE KILLING DUCKS.

Fargo, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The too great fondness of the Italian railway laborers along the railroad lines in this state for wild ducks and prairie chickens is causing the game wardens considerable worry. Many of the laborers have shotguns of antique patterns with which they kill game out of season in utter disregard for the open season. Special game wardens are investigating and prosecutions are likely to result.

Trout Fishing Outlook Poor.

Marquette, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trout fishing season in Upper Michigan promises to be exceptionally brief this year. Farmers report five to eight feet of snow in the woods in many places and say the amount at this time of the spring is the greatest they have ever seen. Most of the snow fell in March. There has been one heavy fall in April. Many of the rivers and creeks are certain to overflow and it probably will be well along in the summer before fishermen will be able to whip the streams with much hope of success.

Patents Auto Self-Starter.

Lansford, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A self-starter for an auto that is most simple and can be sold for $15 promises to make a fortune for A. I. Sandbo, a local inventor. The Herald Sporting Gossip Is Reliable

TODAY they're off in the big show. Something you've been waiting for since Chrismas presents began to turn green, is about to take place. Have courage, Christian, the bands are about to play and an assorted collection of mayors are making speeches that no one pays very serious attention to, and then also making spavined efforts to throw a little round, white spheroid in the general direction of a little smooth rubber surface, which has generally come to take the place of the national cash register.

Let joy be especially unconfined this day. Many grandmamas will be reported dead, though as a matter of fact offlcial fees of the demises will not be found in the reports of the coroner. Such is life in the large cities.

Baseball is a game that originated in what was known as barn ball. This little innocent amusement came into being some time before the call of arms sent lines of blue and grey clad troopers marching through the country. Yes, she was a terrible war. However, be that as it was, baseball was played between the soldiers during lulls and before besieged cities. Then several people signed the peace protocol, or something to that effect, and ever since that time the old game has not been really menaced with any serious competition.

Baseball, teacher, is a game that is played between various men. People gather and watch this exhibition; they come on foot, trolleys, motor cycles, cabs, carryalls, and automobiles. Most of them pay at the gate, though politicians, policemen and those who voted against the bill to abolish Sunday baseball in the recent session of the legislature, often dispense with this little formality.

Baseball is a game that requires the service of judge, sometimes two, and sometimes even more, depending upon the temper and energy of the onlookers. Contrary to general opinion, these judges are human. Many of them are married and are the proud fathers of cute kiddies. Strange as it may seem, some of these children have never heard papa addressed as a "thief, robber, blear-eyed-bum," or compared to Jessie James, with Jess getting the newspaper decision.

This judge carries a little broom, several brand new baseballs, a wad of chewing tobacco and ofttimes an aching heart. Ladies are not in the habit of sending him pink scented notes thus breaking all decorum set up in the prescribed rules of Ella Wheeler Wilcox. However, men, rude creatures that they are, often wait outside the gate with things that are strangely and strongly scented.

Baseball is a game patronized by ministers, bankers, hack drivers, disappointed politicians, who pay their way in so that they can abuse someone; all city employes who can get passes, firemen, members of the building inspector's office, lady friends of the baseball players, actors in chamois skinned gloves, and in fact most everyone who is on speaking acquaintance with two bits.

Baseball is a democratic game, and was even before the election of Woodrow Wilson. If the leading banker of the city has his hat knocked off with a cushion, he should worry not. Ofttimes we behold the inspiring sight of the decorous deacons yelling throaty encouragement to the players of the home team in the ninth inning. Doctors, who should know better, drink pints of red pop and eat tons of peanuts. Lovely ladies yell at the wrong time and get their escorts in Dutch. Fat men in pink shirts often make funny remarks, thus inducing exceeding hilarity. Peanut venders always stand in your way during the time an exciting play is being made, but they are compelled to work for a living.

Baseball players formerly graduated from the lots, choice corner lots as a rule, upon which the for sale sign had been ruthlessly removed by juvenile hands. Recently the style has changed, and players are now coming from the colleges and law offices. Baseball offers to the young man the opportunity to see the country, to be on speaking terms with aristocratic head clerks and supercilious headwaiters. The player can dine on the a la carte plan without spoiling the pleasure of the meal and impairing his digestion by attempting to calculate the cost. Collar manufacturers, automobile makers, cigar makers, hat makers, and others of kindred bent often attempt to meet baseball players on matters of business. The young man entering baseball has ample opportunity to study human nature, mild physics and to have demonstrated for his personal edification the truth of the straight line being the shortest route between two given points—namely, third and home.

Baseball is generally played in parks that have been laid out by landscape gardeners and finished in artistic completeness by sign painters. Those having various assortments of wearing apparel for sale and others having specific brands warranted to quench the thirst, seek to attract attention to merits of said articles of external and internal wear, by offering numerous said articles for home runs, always shrewdly placing said signs where a home run is quite impossible.

Baseball is our leading summer sport. Children cry for it, as for Castoria. There is the grand stand and there are also the bleachers. Those who can't afford Palm beach or Marble head, can accumulate a regulation peel by frequenting the bleachers. Those sitting in the bleachers generally remove their coats and are known as free conversationalists. The habitat of the bleacher is somewhat of a carnivorous individual, in that he literally lives on the weaknesses of others. His vocabulary starts at bumhead and during the progress of the contest ascends vociferously to high power adjectives. The bleacherite also feeds on peanuts.

Baseball, as this article started to tell, and then became lost in the mazy marshes that lined the trail, started feebly yesterday and is due to come feelingly into its own this day. Three rousing cheers, give we. Tired clerks, those suffering with asthma or suffering from it, and youths suffering from changing voice, will find baseball a pleasant and profitable pastime. Young ladies engaged will find the game an excellent medium of trying the patience of the intended; by asking a few questions concerning the contest. Ladies who like to hear other ladies talked about, will find a gratification of this desire by taking seats near a lady wearing a large hat with large and perfectly lovely wavy plumes. Those who appreciate the gracious act of our forefathers in writing free speech into the constitution, will be reminded of the life of this issue by sitting in the bleachers. Those who would learn of the things some men will do for money, may be enlightened by observing the umpire.

Baseball is a great game and is the means of a livelihood of some 3,000,000 young men. The cost of living has been increased and the American plan abolished at many of our leading hotels, because of the appetite induced by the game.

This ought to be a great year, now that the presidential election is out of the way.

NO CHANGE IN RULES.

President Ban Johnson Refuses to Restrict Umpires' Powers.

Chicago, April 10.—"There will be no departure from the custom of handling players who come under the ban of umpires and league presidents." B. B. Johnson, president of the American league, asserted this last night after receiving a letter from David Fultz, head of the baseball players' fraternity. Mr. Fultz requested that players be given a hearing before being suspended or fined.

Down Winona Way.

Down Winona way the members of the "squad de Lefty Davis" is also running amuck in some "dirty" weather as they say in nautical novels.

Grand Forks players are sequestering at Red Wing, and the presence there of the reform school has had no appreciable effect on the weather. Members of the Winnipeg team may be lost in a snow storm for all the news that has been received of the early training season. Superior players, or the players of the town of Superior, would be more proper, are down in Illinois, according to the reports.

Therefore while the members of the O'Brien squad may be troubled somewhat by floods, and a player chasing a long fly to the edge of the dry zone might be lost, were he unable to swim, still the Dooks really have little occasion to complain. The chances are that the Sox will be in better condition than the candidates of the other teams by the time the season rolls around.

Ed Dickinson's squad, speaking now of Minneapolis, is at the present time training with the University of Minnesota team. Dennis Sullivan, a former gardener of the American association, is in charge of the rah rah boys and the team has the prospects of one of the strongest aggregations that the school has ever turned out. But the inclement weather has really prevented the little Millers from getting the best training in the world.

Probably before or at least shortly after the opening of the American association season, Joe Cantillon will turn some of the players of the Minneapolis American association team over to the Northern leaguers. It is also expected that George E. Lennon will throw some humans into the maw of Owner Conrad of the St. Paul Northern league team, though it may not be to the interest of Brother Lennon to see the St. Paul little leaguers become too lusty.

Mike Carr, a very close follower of athletics in St. Paul, his native city, was here the day before yesterday. In the course of a conversation Michael stated that there was a wonderful amount of interest being taken in the Northern league among the fans of St. Paul.

"If the little Apostles get off well in the race, it looks to some of us as if the Northerns will draw as large as the American association team," said Carr.

It is difficult to club opinion into a definite alarm signal thus early in the season of preparation. All we know is what we hear; our little orbs have no chance to get on the job, and until such time positive opinion will bask behind the rock and wait.

Interest in the proceedings is growing, and it might be mentioned that there remain just thirteen days before the opening of the Northern league season.

FORTY-TWO COMPETE.

Lincoln, Neb., April 10.—Forty-two marksmen of the West and Central West faced the traps of the Lincoln Gun club at the interstate shoot which began yesterday afternoon. Rain marked the opening. Individual honors went into the professional ranks.

D. G. Barstow of St. Louis broke 185 out of a possible 200 targets. Second, third and fourth best went to amateurs and fifth place was tied by Dell Gross, a professional, and Fred Caldwell, an amateur, both at 128. Of the amateurs P. J. Rebhausen of North Platte shot 184, H. E. Snyder of Kansas City and H. D. Lindermann of Lincoln, 180.

HIBBING BOY GETS DECISION AT WINDSOR.

Windsor, Ont., April 10.—Grover Hayes of Cleveland was no match for Pal Brown of Hibbing, when they met here last night. They fought eight fast rounds, with the Minnesota lad all to the good in every round. The bout was staged before the Windsor Athletic club. Brown did not have to exert himself at any stage of the game and Hayes is looked upon, since the bout, as a "has-been." The fight fans here are enthusiastic over Brown and look on him as one of the most promising youngsters in his division.

WAITING FOR THE UMPS' "PLAY BALL"

THE NEW YORK YANKEES.

Here are the members of the New York Americans as they look at the end of the training season. This afternoon the Yankees will oppose the Washington team on the grounds of the latter. President Woodrow Wilson is scheduled to pitch the first ball. In the two games against Brooklyn the New York Americans have showed vastly improved form over that exhibited during the greater part of last season. The ability of Frank Chance as a leader is held responsible for the all-round improvement in play. The showing of the Yankees is bound to prove one of the interesting phases of the race in the younger major, as the securing of Frank Chance was one of the greatest coups ever pulled in organized baseball.

WHITE SOX HAVE SQUAD OF LUSTY YOUNG GIANTS

Attache Hersey Says Irish Orator Looks Small in Comparison.

Duluth Team Is Getting Better Training Than Its Rivals.

Duly arriving on the scene of the battle of Charley Horse, Attache A. J. Hersey has sent the following from the front:

"Recruits are large. Little Darby O'Brien appears like a withered up little old man beside some of the men he has in the squad. The men look awfully good in the workouts they have had since I came here. It is by far the best looking squad that Duluth has ever signed, but just how well the men can play will not be known until they have the opportunity to show themselves in something like a real baseball game."

Attache Hersey of the general staff will make further inspection of the troopers and report progress to Commander Blume. Wires have been sent out ordering the base of supplies established at Madison, Wis. After some further recruiting at this spot, the advance upon the enemy will be made, and with the first engagement at the old historic battle ground, St. Paul, situated near old Fort Snelling, the war will be on.

And while the Duluth White Sox are subduing sore muscles and overcoming the germs that germ in the dreary winter time, the players of the seven other teams of the league are encountering, in some instances, the bad weather that seems to cover a large extent of territory this particular spring.

Members of the St. Paul and Minneapolis teams are practicing in overcoats, rain coats and mackinaws. The weather in the Twin Cities is so frigid that Dr. Cook might be excused for reminiscing, were he there, regarding some of the experiences he is reported to have encountered on the trip he is said to have made to the pole.

"PLAY BALL" HEARD AGAIN

Major Leagues Begin Annual Struggle for the Two Pennants.

First Game in National League Played at Brooklyn.

New York, April 10.—Firing will begin along practically the entire line today in the major league baseball circuits. There will be formal "openings" in seven cities this afternoon and the race for the National and American league pennants will be on in earnest.

Philadelphia, which by virtue of its victory over Brooklyn in the latter's new field in the only game of the day, holds undisputed possession of first place in the National league race will have Brooklyn for an opponent again today at Philadelphia.

In New York, the champion Giants will meet the Bostons.

In the West, St. Louis plays at Chicago.

The Cincinnati field has been adjudged too wet for play and the season there will not open until Saturday.

There was no preliminary opening in the American league and the first games in that circuit are scheduled for today.

The Boston Red Sox, present world's champions, play on their home grounds with the Philadelphia Athletics, while New York and Washington will meet in the latter city.

In the other half of the circuit, the openings will be at Cleveland and St. Louis, with Chicago playing in the former and Detroit in the latter city.

PHILLIES 1; BROOKLYN 0.

Sensational Shut-Out Game Opens Regular Season.

Brooklyn, April 10. — Philadelphia beat Brooklyn in the special opening game of the National league season, which marked the formal occupation of Ebbetts field yesterday. The cold, raw wind kept the attendance down, but did not affect the players, who put up a remarkable battle. Both Seaton and Rucker pitched brilliant ball, the former just shading the noted southpaw in a 1 to 0 shutout.

Bennett Meyer, the heavy hitter recruit from Toledo, lost the game for Rucker in the first inning. With one out Knabe doubled to right, Meyer muffed Lobert's foul in the field, but Stengel overcame this error by making a sensational catch of a long fly from the same batter. Then Meyer muffed Magee's fly, letting Knabe in with the only run of the contest. Stengel added further to his reputation by grabbing Dolan's single and cutting off Magee by a good throw to the plate.

Neiter side was able to score thereafter. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	0	6	3

Batteries—Seaton and Dooin; Rucker, Ragan and Miller. Umpires—Klem and Orth.

Giants Beat Yale.

New York, April 10.—The New York Nationals closed their exhibition season yesterday with a double victory over the Yale university team at the Polo grounds. The first game was a five-inning affair between the Giants second team and the Blis, the former winning, 2 to 1. The second was a nine-inning game and Manager McGraw sent in the team which will start the championship season against Boston tomorrow. The Giants won, 5 to 2, errors figuring in all but one of the New York runs. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
New York, first team	5	9	4
Yale	2	5	5

Batteries—Ames, Schupp and Meyers; Wilson, Gale and Hunter. Umpires—Emslie and Latham.

SNOW AT MINNEAPOLIS.

First Game of Season Has Been Postponed Until Friday.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 10.—President Cantillon of the Minneapolis club of the American association announced yesterday that the opening of the season, which was to have been today, has been postponed until Friday. A snow storm, which has prevailed here throughout the day, is given as the reason for the postponement.

The opening series here will be with the Indianapolis team. Mr. Cantillon also announced that Bob Ewing, a big right-handed pitcher, formerly with the Cincinnati National league team, had been signed by the local club.

NEW PARK WILL BE DEDICATED AT KAW.

Kansas City, Mo., April 10.—Louisville and Kansas City teams were ready today to open the 1913 American association baseball season here. The skies were threatening, but only rain actually falling at 3 o'clock could block the game, according to the announcement this morning of Manager Carr of the local club when asked if the steady rains of the last two days would cause a postponement. The infield at Association park had been covered with a canvas and the baseball officials said the grounds were in fair condition.

The opening game here was to be in the nature of a dedication of the new park at Twentieth and Olive streets. The playing field is new and the grandstand, one of the most commodious in the league, has just been completed.

The batteries announced for the opening game were Powell and Roth for Louisville and Covington and O'Connor for Kansas City. Mayor Jost of this city was expected to pitch the first ball.

Thomas C. Chivington, president of the American association, and President Wathen of the Louisville club have arrived here to participate in the parade and other ceremonies incident to the opening of the baseball season.

Easy for Champions.

Boston, Mass., April 10.—The world's champions had their last workout prior to the opening of the American league season at the expense of the Holy Cross team yesterday, winning, 8 to 1. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Holy Cross	1	6	3
Boston	8	12	1

Batteries—Murray, McManus and Carroll; O'Brien, Collins and Carrigan, Cady. Umpires—Dalsdorff and Kelly.

Washington Too Strong.

Washington, April 10.—The Washington Americans overwhelmed the Toronto International league team here yesterday, winning easily, 13 to 2. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Toronto	2	7	2
Washington	13	17	0

Baltimore Wins.

Baltimore, Md., April 10.—The Baltimore International league team won yesterday's game with the Philadelphia Americans, 5 to 3, through Shawkey's exceptional pitching. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	3	2	2
Baltimore	5	9	6

Batteries—Bush, Wykoff and Egan. Shawkey and Bergen.

Raining at Chicago.

Chicago, April 10.—Weather conditions here today made doubtful the prospect for the opening baseball game of the National league season between the Chicago and St. Louis clubs. A cold drizzling rain fell throughout the night and the grounds already had been well soaked by the rainfall of yesterday.

Bad Weather at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 10.—Prospects for a successful opening of the American league season here by the Cleveland and Chicago teams were not bright early today. It was cold and a drizzling rain fell. Sunshine at noon, however, means a game. The probable batteries are:

For Cleveland—Mitchell and Land; Chicago—Benz, Lange or Scott and Schalk.

Fair at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, April 10.—Baseball fans rejoiced at the clear weather for the opening of the National league season in this city this afternoon when the Philadelphia and Brooklyn teams will play their second game of the season. Yesterday's close contest in Brooklyn between these teams has added interest to today's contest.

The batteries probably will be Chalmers and Dooln for Philadelphia and Ragon and Miller for Brooklyn.

Red Sox vs. Athletics.

Boston, Mass., April 10.—The Boston Red Sox baseball champions of the world were in top condition today to begin the defense of their title in the opening game of the American leaxue season with the Philadelphia Athletics as their opponents.

The weather was clear, calm and cool and several thousand devoted followers of the team went early to Fenway park to see the contest. There

THE REALM OF LOCAL SPORTS

The new Lakeside Athletic club will open its doors to the public this evening. For several months active preparations have been made for this event. A large amount of apparatus has been installed, the old fire hall at Lakeside entirely remodeled and conditions made as comfortable and convenient as possible pending the day when enthusiastic members of the club will be housed in one of the finest club houses in the Northwest.

Little Walter Miller, who is now one of the citizens of Duluth, will put the wrestling class through a series of stunts. The little wrestler is to have charge of the large wrestling class and under the expert instruction of one of the greatest wrestlers in the world—perhaps the greatest of his weight and inches—it is expected that the Lakeside portion of the city will develop some amateur grapplers of note.

The opening of the club is an event that has long been looked forward to by its members and the inaugural event will be attended by a few ceremonies in keeping with the occasion.

The annual meeting of the Duluth Curling club will be held next Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the rooms of the club. Only those holding full membership tickets to the club are entitled to the privilege of voting. The meeting is called for the annual election of officers and a full attendance of the members of the club is desired.

Baseball candidates of the postoffice will hold a meeting at the postoffice this evening. The employes of the building believe there is material working for Uncle Sam capable of making some of the best amateur teams of the city go. All those with the least pretension of being able to play ball are cordially invited to be on hand and help make a success of the team.

According to the announcement made yesterday the annual banquet of the athletic department of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at the association on the evening of April 18. The annual feed is the closing event in the athletics of the year and is eagerly looked forward to. In connection with the dinner several novel features will be held.

DULUTH LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

The Duluth-Superior league in the future will be known as the Duluth Baseball league. Action changing the name was taken at the meeting held last evening at the Y. M. C. A. There are no Superior teams in the league this season and with all of the members of the organization from this city it was decided to change its name.

J. Hanson was elected president of the league, L. Drohn vice president and Arthur Swenson secretary. The Northern Hardware, Lakeside Athletics, Stones, Young Men's sodality and the New Duluths will be in the league, final consideration upon the list of applicants for the remaining berths being postponed until the next meeting, which is scheduled to be held at the Kelly Hardware company's store Wednesday evening.

It is expected that the new league will be faster than any other organization in the minor baseball history of the city, as practically the pick of the teams of the city will go to make up the league.

FLICKERTAILS WORKING HARD

Sam Foster's Players Encounter Cold Weather at Red Wing.

Red Wing, Minn., April 10.—"Dutchy" Altman and Pitcher Henry reported at the Flickertail camp in this city today, bringing the total number of recruits to fourteen. Foster, Jarnigan, Myers, Morse, Dietrich, Grogan, Gardner, Dodd, Burke, Brogan, Lyman and Chase reported for practice yesterday.

The weather is still cold, but the boys had a spirited practice and were put through their second workout, the first being given yesterday. Capt. Sam Foster and Business Manager Lohr directed the work.

Brogan and Altman were the only outfielders to report yesterday, but it is expected that the others will be here in a few days. The infield men worked together well for the short time they were tried out.

Jarnigan, Myers, Morse, Henry and Gardner, the twirlers, commenced limbering their arms. They have done considerable conditioning work during the past two months and showed up well.

"TIRE US" COBB HAS WENT TOO FAR

Detroit, Mich., April 10.—President Navin of the Detroit American league team, announced yesterday that Ty Cobb, the center fielder and champion batsman of the league, would not start the season with his team at St. Louis today. President Navin added that he intended to make no further inducements to Cobb, who is "holding out" for more salary.

Anniston, Ala., April 10.—Ty Cobb's team of "holdouts" was scheduled to play here today, but the game was cancelled by Cobb. In his telegram to the local team Cobb said:

"Disband today for a week pending definite news from Detroit. Hold engagement until you hear from me."

VIRGINIA OFF FOR ROCHESTER

Virginia, Minn., April 10.—"Spike" Shannon left here with about twelve players for Rochester, where he will do the spring training. Shannon has some players who should make up a fast club.

"Boots" Elmer, the big Minneapolis lad who signed to pitch for Shannon's Virginia club, is reported to be averse to joining the club. Elmer has given no reason for his action, but as they say in baseball parlance, the former is "honked."

He signed his contract and everything appeared to be satisfactory, but the story now comes that he will not join. It was his first contract in organized baseball, too. "Spike" says he'll have to report or be blacklisted.

Road Guide Out.

A concise little volume showing the main traveled roads in Minnesota, and how to reach such points as Duluth, Fargo, Grand Forks, Omaha, Sioux Falls, Sioux City and Chicago, has just been issued by a new concern, The Guide Book company.

The book is labeled "A Motorist's Pathfinder" and gives the mileage, directions and character of the roads between points. The information is supplemented by maps.

CHISHOLM WILL HELP SUFFERERS

Council Votes $100 for Victims of Floods in State of Ohio.

Chisholm, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council last night heard the call for aid for the unfortunate victims of the great Ohio flood disaster and appropriated $100, directing that a warrant for that amount be drawn in favor of Governor Cox of the Buckeye state.

The council met during the afternoon and again in the evening, disposing of a large amount of business, the most important being police and fire appointments.

Appointments Made.

The police department appointments were made in accordance with the list submitted by the chief and were: Day desk sergeant, J. W. Tousley; night desk sergeant, James Leighty; court officer and poor commissioner, W. E. Talboys; patrolmen, Frank Grams, Bert Forder, David Nemel, Ed Cloutier, Morris Simonson, Ed Dumont, W. Nichols, John Passenda and Al McAlpin. All of these are reappointments.

DEADLOCK UNBROKEN.

Virginia School Board Cannot Agree Upon Hiring Superintendent.

Virginia, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board met last night in the Technical high school building and again failed utterly to break the deadlock over the re-election of Supt. Lafayette Bliss. There appears to be very little chance of the situation being altered or improved before the schools end up for the summer holidays.

C. E. Henricks started the discussion over the superintendent matter by a resolution that the superintendent be re-appointed at a salary of $3,600 a year, a raise of $600. Chairman McGee supported the motion and Trustee Fleming stood with them. Trustees Hawkinson, Eaton and Stewart voted against it.

The board purchased a $400 piano after opening a number of competitive bids. Secretary Stewart waxed wrathy over a charge of $6.70 for discounting a school warrant and read a very warm letter stating that the school warrants were strictly gilt edged and were bankable at any bank in the city or district.

GOES TO TWO HARBORS.

Cloquet Y. M. C. A. Secretary Has a New Position.

Cloquet, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. W. Mixsell, who for three years was general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Cloquet, has been appointed to the same position in the association at Two Harbors. Mr. Mixsell resigned from the local Y last summer and was appointed secretary of the state committee of Y. M. C. A. work in which he has been very successful. He made many friends while in Cloquet who will be ready to congratulate Two Harbors on securing him as the head of their association. The time for taking up his work in that city is as yet undecided, but when he goes there, Mrs. Mixsell who has continued to make her home in Cloquet will join him.

Men Welcome Mother's Friend

A Duty that Every Man Owes to Those who Perpetuate the Race.

It is just as important that men should know of progressive methods in advance of motherhood. The suffering, pain and distress incident to child-bearing can be easily avoided by having at hand a bottle of Mother's Friend.

This is a wonderful, penetrating, external application that relieves all tension upon the muscles and enables them to expand without the painful strain upon the ligaments. Thus there is avoided all those nervous spells; the tendency to nausea or morning sickness is counteracted, and a bright, sunny, happy disposition is preserved that reflects wonderfully upon the character and temperament of the little one soon to open its eyes in bewilderment at the joy of his arrival. You can obtain a bottle of "Mother's Friend" at any drug store at $1.00, and it will be the best dollar's worth you ever obtained. It preserves the mother's health, enables her to make a quick and complete recovery, and thus with renewed strength she will eagerly devote herself to the care and attention which mean so much to the welfare of the child. Write to the Bradfield Regulator Co., 129 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their valuable and instructive book of guidance for expectant mothers. Get a bottle of Mother's Friend to-day.

EVELETH CEMETERY.

Long Sought Burying Place Will Finally Be Realized.

Eveleth, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At last Eveleth is to have a cemetery as a deed is being prepared by the Oliver Iron Mining company transferring about fourteen acres of ground to the city for cemetery purposes. The plat is on the electric railway line about one-half mile north of the North Side park and inside the city limits.

The necessity of driving to Virginia to bury their dead in years past has worked a great inconvenience upon Eveleth residents. Different committees of the council and the Commercial club have been working for a long time to secure ground for this purpose. The plat that will be turned over to the city, although not considered an ideal spot, is the best that can be secured, and the building of a road thereto is considered an easy matter.

Edward J. Hoppman, 422 W. First St., Duluth, Minn., says: "I have had great confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills since I used them years ago. I publicly endorsed them at that time and now I take just as much pleasure in confirming my testimony. When I was suffering from sharp pains in the small of my back and trouble with the kidney secretions, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They did good work and whenever I have used them since, they have helped me."

FIREMEN PLAN FOR SIXTH TOURNAMENT

Annual Gathering of Mesaba Range Volunteers Discussed at Aurora.

Aurora, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arrangements for the sixth annual tournament of the Mesaba Range Volunteer Firemen's association which will be held here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, July 23, 24 and 25, were made at a meeting of the association held here Tuesday night.

Ely and Grand Rapids were admitted to the association and assurance was received from Coleraine that they would have a team at the tournament. Aurora, Biwabik and Proctor are the other active members of the association.

Cash prizes will be offered this year which is proving quite a drawing card. Heretofore it has been the custom to award fire apparatus for prizes, but this does not create the interest that is desired. It is expected that $700 will be offered in prizes.

BOOSTERS TO PLAN.

Grand Rapids Organization Will Prepare for Memorial Day Blowout.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the Boosters club will be held tonight in the basement of the public library, and the guests of the evening will be the officers of the County Boosters association, who will discuss plans for the big Boosters celebration to be held here, Memorial day.

The local Boosters club plans to entertain all members of the County and State Boosters associations as well as anyone who is interested in settling in this section of the county, over Memorial day. Provision for informal entertainment will be made for the guests.

The morning of Memorial day is suggested as an ideal time for a trip to Pokegama lake, the trip to include a picnic lunch. In the afternoon, the local club suggests a meeting to be followed by a visit to the state experiment farm. In the evening there is to be a Boosters banquet, probably the last of the series which have been given during the winter months.

Today's Beauty Recipes

By Mme. D'Mille.

"A simple and reliable remedy for skin eruptions, chaps, cold sores, pimples and eczema is Mother's Salve. It is healing, cooling, soothing and antiseptic in action. It should be in every family medicine cabinet.

"To restore plumpness and symmetry of form without becoming fat, the Vaucaire home treatment is recommended. Make a syrup with 1½ cupfuls of sugar and a pint of water, and into this stir an ounce of gallol; take two teaspoonfuls before meals.

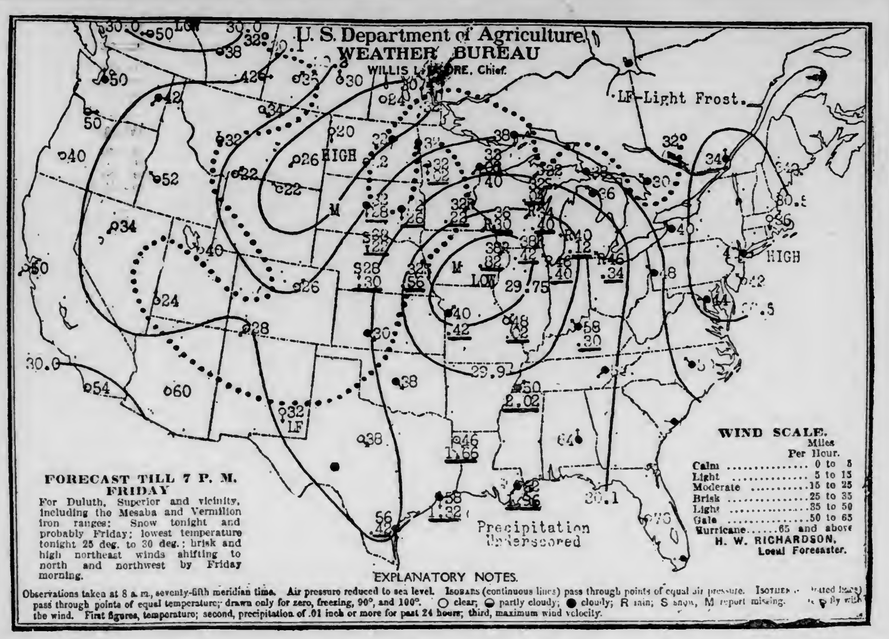

"Just worrying about hair falling out won't help any woman. A few minutes' work is better than hours of worry. Faded and brittle hair, falling hair and baldness are caused by a parasite that destroys the life of the hair. Mother's Shampoo removes these parasites, leaves the scalp healthy and clean and makes the hair fine and fluffy. Enough for several months can be bought at any drug store for 25c.

"Spotted, sallow and muddy looking complexions, together with skin eruptions, often present in the spring, require a cleansing treatment instead of face powder. An ideal complexion beautifier is easily made at home by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. It makes the skin soft, fair and lovely.

"Plain pyroxin applied with the finger tips will cause thin and straggly eyebrows to grow long, even, regular and darker in color. Pyroxin applied to the roots will make the lashes grow long, dark and silky.

"To remove superfluous hair on face or forearms make a paste with a little water and powdered delatone, cover the hairs for two minutes, then remove and wash the skin. Delatone does not discolor the skin and is safe and sure."

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

SNOW

April snow makes the coal go. Hold! Do not throw that brick, Percival! The snow arrived last night. It was accompanied by wind, cold weather and all the other disagreeable weather ingredients that could be compounded into one mess. More snow is predicted for tonight, and the temperature will be down to about 25 deg. Northeast winds are on the cards.

Heavy rains fell over Western Tennessee, Louisiana and Eastern Texas. Somewhat colder weather prevails in Eastern Montana, the Lower Mississippi valley and Southwestern states, elsewhere the temperature has risen generally. SEVEN CHURCHES TO BE DEDICATED

Two Harbors, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual conference of the Duluth district church, which has been in session here since Monday evening, ended last night after three days of successful meetings.

The local people turned out to each of the meetings in goodly numbers to hear the speakers and the leaders of the conference expressed themselves as being very much satisfied with the results. Aitkin invited the conference to hold the next annual meeting there, and the invitation was accepted. Rev. W. F. Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church of Duluth, preached the final sermon last evening, and preceding the benediction, Presiding Officer Cooper, the district superintendent, expressed satisfaction with the success of the conference and thanked the people of Two Harbors for their hospitality.

The afternoon was devoted largely to the consideration of routine business, including the adoptions of the usual resolutions of thanks to the city, church and local pastor and the reading of various reports. Licenses to the following preachers were also granted: John Gill of Virginia, M. H. Skemp of Cloquet, John Roskilly of Virginia, B. N. Wheeler and R. J. Gundry of Duluth.

The devotions in the morning were led by Rev. E. E. Satterlee of Brainerd, who spoke on "Our Need of Fellowship," after which a symposium on the "Preacher and His Work" was held, during which Rev. A. L. Richardson of Aitkin, spoke on the "Preacher and His Personal Religious Life," and Rev. T. Grice of Virginia, read a paper on the "Preacher in His Pulpit." Rev. C. R. Oaten of Duluth spoke on "Shepherding Hungry Sheep." A general discussion led by Rev. B. D. Hanscomb of Eveleth followed.

Two very interesting papers were read in the afternoon, one by the Rev. Ralph C. Jones of Chisholm on "The Advocates," and the other by Rev. E. F. Stidd of Ely on Bishop Quayle's book, "Laymen in Action."

District in Splendid Condition.

The report by Dr. E. K. Copper, superintendent of the district, shows a splendid condition prevailing throughout the district. Seven churches are about ready for dedication, with the prospect of two more in the next few months. The reports from the district at the annual conference this fall will also show a decided gain in membership throughout the district.

It was voted also to endeavor to hold in the future the meetings of the district conference and the district Epworth League convention at the same place. This plan will probably be started next year. An enrollment fee, to provide for the expenses of the district conference was suggested and will be tried next year for the first time also.

For Age-Marred Skins and Dull, Streaky Hair

(From American Press.)

Fine lines and that aged condition of the skin are caused by pore-clogging powders and creams. These should be discarded for a spurmax-lotion which seems a part of the skin when on and is easily made at home at little cost by dissolving 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel (or hot water) then adding 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This face-lotion protects the skin against the ravages of sun and wind, removes tan, freckles, oiliness and other upsets and lends an indefinable charm to the complexion.

An invigorating and pleasing shampoo can easily be made by dissolving a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup of hot water. This creates an abundance of rich, cleansing lather which is a positive benefit to your scalp and hair. After rinsing, your hair will dry quickly and evenly, with a brilliance and silky softness truly charming. Canthrox, which costs little at the druggist's, removes dandruff, makes the scalp healthy and promotes an abundant growth.

EARLY SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE EXPECTED

Offer of Mayor of Buffalo to Act as Mediator May Be Accepted.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 10.—An early settlement of the strike of the carmen of the International Railway company appeared probable this afternoon when president E. G. Connette of the company announced that he would accept the offer of Mayor Fuhrmann to act as mediator and would recognize the union providing car service immediately was resumed.

The advisability of calling a general strike of the 52,000 union men in Buffalo in sympathy with the striking carmen, will be considered at a general meeting of the 110 labor organizations here tonight. At a recent meeting the representatives of the labor unions voted to "aid the street car men in every way possible."

Samuel Gompers, president of the A. F. O. L., on the long distance telephone, assured the president of the Carmen's association today that the national federation endorsed the present strike.

CATARRH TRUTH

Told in a Simple Way.

No Apparatus, Inhalers, Salves, Lotions, Harmful Drugs, Smoke or Electricity.

HEALS 24 HOURS

It is a new way. It is something absolutely different. No lotions, sprays or sickly smelling salves or creams. No atomizer, or any apparatus of any kind. Nothing to smoke or inhale. No steaming or rubbing or injections. No electricity or vibration or massage. No powder; no plasters; no keeping in the house. Nothing of that kind at all. Something new and different, something delightful and healthful, something instantly successful. You do not have to wait, and linger and pay out a lot of money. You can stop it over night—and I will gladly tell you how—FREE. I am not a doctor and this is not a so-called doctor's prescription—but I am cured and my friends are cured, and you can be cured. Your suffering will stop at once like magic.

I Am Free—You Can Be Free

My catarrh was filthy and loathsome. It made me ill. It dulled my mind. It undermined my health and was weakening my will. The hawking, coughing, spitting made me obnoxious to all, and my foul breath and disgusting habits made even my loved ones avoid me secretly. My delight in life was dulled and my faculties impaired. I knew that in time it would bring me to an untimely grave, because every moment of the day and night it was slowly yet surely sapping my vitality.

But I found a cure, and I am ready to tell you about it FREE. Write me promptly.

James Doull, for the past twenty-eight years construction engineer for the W. A. Clark interests in Butte is dead of pneumonia. Mr. Doull was 59 years old and a native of Ontario. He went to Butte in 1885 from Utah and immediately entered Mr. Clark's employ.

OPINIONS DIFFER.

Doctor Confident But Others Think Pope's Condition Is Serious.

Rome, April 10.—Dr. Andrea Amici declared today that he hopes by next week Pius X will be convalescent.

An entirely contrary opinion, however, is expressed by some of those immediately surrounding the pope, who depict the situation as grave. They assert that an examination made by a specialist showed the presence of from 10 to 12 degrees of albumen.

Just before 11, Cardinal Merry Del Val, papal secretary of state, entered the bed chamber. The pope said in reply to the cardinal's inquiry that he felt better. He then spoke about the pilgrims who had come to the Vatican from Venice and expressed his regret that he would be unable to see them.

PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER CENTER OF INTEREST.

Richmond, Va., April 10.—Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, the president's daughter, is the center of interest among the delegates to the National Young Women's Christian association convention here. There was a great demand for cards of admittance to St. Paul's church for Saturday afternoon when Miss Wilson will speak on "What the Association Means to the College Girl."

GOVERNOR EBERHART MAY VISIT SWEDEN.

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart may make a European tour in 1914.

For some years the governor has wanted to return to his birthplace in Sweden and it is said he is contemplating the trip early next year and will return before the primaries and election in which his friends believe he will again have a personal interest.

The governor's plan came to light today when he answered an invitation to attend the Anglo-American exposition in London next May. He told the director that he could not promise to attend but might find it possible to do so.

Train Goes Into Ditch.

STREET CAR HITS STREET SWEEPER

P. H. McGraw Sustains Painful Injuries; Driver Also Bruised.

P. H. McGraw, street commissioner for West Duluth, who was struck by a westbound Grand avenue car last evening while riding on a street sweeper near Fifty-ninth avenue west, is reported to be in a serious condition this morning at his home, 216 South Fifty-seventh avenue west.

McGraw claims that the motorman failed to either ring the bell or blow the whistle on the car. John Braydon, the driver, was slightly bruised. The rear of the sweeper was demolished.

The motorman, just after the accident, claimed that he blew the whistle and, thinking the driver would get out of the way, kept on running the car. Just as he came near the sweeper he struck a slippery rail, according to his story, and he was then unable to stop. The horses were uninjured.

NEW DULUTH CLUB BANQUET

The New Duluth Commercial club will hold its second annual banquet early next month, arrangements for which will be made at the regular meeting of the club next Tuesday evening.

D. J. Kulaszewicz, secretary of the club, stated this morning that the affair this year will be made to exceed the one held last year. A special effort will be made, he said, to secure a large delegation from Duluth. Arrangements are to be made to have the Northern Pacific road run a special train to New Duluth at 6:30 o'clock the evening of the banquet and to wait for the return of the local guests.

Last year the banquet was held on May 8 and was attended by about 250 business men, a large number of whom were from West Duluth and Duluth. Among the principal speakers last year were W. A. McGonagle, W. S. McCormick, Alfred Jaques and Charles Mitchell.

At the meeting next Tuesday E. E. Martell, president of the club, will appoint the general banquet committee. In all probability the banquet will be held during the first week in May.

The present officers of the club are: E. E. Martell, president; Noble Sampson, vice president; D. J. Kulaszewicz, secretary, and U. C. Towner, treasurer.

MORE TIME TO SHOP HERE

Iron Range Road Announces a Change in Its Schedule.

Starting on April 15 the Duluth & Iron Range train will leave here at 3:15 p. m. instead of 2:45, the present leaving time. This change is an important one, both to the residents of the range and to the business houses of Duluth, as it gives the visitors from the Vermilion range points more time to complete their shopping.

The morning train will leave here at 7 a. m., while the arriving time of the Iron Range trains will be 5:20 p. m. and 11:30 a. m. The latter is half an hour earlier than at present and adds more to the time allowed in Duluth.

FINANCING THE CANADIAN NORTHERN

Lazarres & Co. May Become Partners of Mackenzie and Mann.

An interesting story concerning the Mackenzie & Mann interests and the Canadian Northern road is being sent out from Montreal. As received by The Herald the story is as follows:

"There is a rumor here to the effect that Sir William Mackenzie is almost ready to bring about a very important deal in connection with the financial reorganization of the Canadian Northern Railway company, and that when it is consummated the great house of Lazarres & Co., will be a partner with Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann in their transcontinental enterprise.

"It is also reported that Sir William's enterprises in South America, Mexico, Winnipeg and Toronto will either be taken into the enlarged concern, or that they will be sold to provide more capital for the C. N. R. undertaking. It is generally held that Mackenzie & Mann will be unable for a great length of time to keep an undivided hold on the common stock of the company, and that others will be invited to participate in what is now considered a going concern."

NEW TRAIN WILL RUN MONDAY

Extra Service to Grand Rapids Will Be Inaugurated.

District Passenger Agent Hathaway announced today that the long desired passenger service between Duluth and Grand Rapids, including, of course, intermediate points, will be inaugurated on Monday. It was prematurely announced for last Monday but the service did not materialize.

Each morning when the new service is inaugurated a train will leave Grand Rapids at 8 o'clock, reaching Duluth at noon, collecting passengers from all intermediate points. On the return it will leave Duluth at 3:40 o'clock in the afternoon reaching Grand Rapids at 7:40 o'clock. There will be a "stub" train giving connections north of Swan river.

The new train will be the result of negotiations which have been going on between the Great Northern road and the traffic commission of the Commercial club for many months. The members of the traffic commission say that the road officials have met them more than half way in the matter and are deserving of credit.

The regular service of the Great Northern will continue. A train leaves here daily at 8:30 in the morning arriving at Grand Rapids at 12:33 in the afternoon, and another leaves Duluth at 8:10 in the evening, arriving at Grand Rapids at 12:37. A train leaves Grand Rapids at 2:34 in the afternoon, arriving in Duluth at 6:20, and another leaves Grand Rapids at 4:51 in the morning, arriving here at 8:45.

DO NOT WANT PRESIDENT TO RECOGNIZE TAMMANY.

Washington, April 10. — President Wilson was formally requested today by the Anti-Tammany leaders of the New York state Democrats not to recognize Tammany in Federal appointments. They explained that their organization needed the moral support of the administration in its fight for progressive principles.

They went away with the impression that the president would go slow in the matter of making out his appointment list and that it would be some time before there would be any indication of what the president's attitude might be.

RECOUNT ON SATURDAY

One Commissioner Will Be Named By Each Candidate.

Farrell's Contest Will Be Kept Separate From Mayoralty.

The recount of the votes cast for mayor at the recent city election will start Saturday morning, with a board of four commissioners, one named by each candidate.

The attorneys for W. E. McEwen, Bernard Silberstein and Marcus L. Fay, the contesting candidates, and W. I. Prince, whose election is contested, met with Judge Cant in chambers this afternoon and reached an agreement.

Edward M. Schau will act for Mr. Fay and Robert F. Berdie for Mr. Silberstein. It is probable that Neil E. Beaton will be Mr. Prince's selection, and W. E. McEwen has not yet named his commissioner.

The recount on mayor will be conducted separately from the rtcount in connection with Bert Farrell's contest for short term commissioner. Mr. Farrell and his attorney, C. O. Baldwin, were at the conference today, and decided not to go into the recount with the candidates for mayor. Any ballots in dispute as to the votes for mayor, and certified to the court, will be copied for the purpose of the recount on short term commissioner.

The recount will be held in City Clerk Palmer's office at the city hall. W. I. Prince is represented by O. J. Larson, Mr. Fay by John B. Arnold, Mr. Silberstein by J. B. Richards and Mr. McEwen by Walter F. Dacey.

ICE SOLID ON LAKE SUPERIOR

More Ice Near Duluth Than at Same Time Last Year.

There is no let-up in the ice conditions as yet. There was a report this morning that blue water was showing just about the vicinity of the Lakewood pumping station. Telephone communications are to the effect that while blue water is showing right at that point, it is restricted, for it does not cover a radius of more than 500 feet. The Lakewood pumping station people claim that there is no other blue water in sight as far as the eye can reach. By way of comparison between this year and last Weather Observer Richardson has issued the following:

April, 1912—At the beginning of the month harbor ice averaged thirty-six inches thick, while in the lake the field extended solid about twenty miles and averaged twenty-eight inches. Harbor ice began honeycombing on April 6 and on April 9 tugs were moving about. On April 11 there was much open water in both bays, while in the lake there was open water fifteen to eighteen miles out. On April 13 the harbor was almost free of ice. On April 16 there were fissures showing in the outside field. On April 20 there was no ice of consequence in the harbor and the lake ice was honeycombed. The lake field moved out about two miles during the afternoon of April 20, but a stiff northeaster brought it back by the morning of April 21. On April 23 the lake field was moving about with the wind and on April 24 it moved over against the south or Wisconsin shore, after which time it did not interfere materially with navigation except to interrupt operations as regards work on the Superior entry concrete piers.

Local navigation was opened on April 16 by the departure of the steamer Easton for north shore ports—the average date is April 7. The first departure for the lower lakes was the steamer North Lake on April 25; the steamer Chili arriving at about 7 a. m. of the same date from Houghton, Mich. The first arrival from the lower lakes was the steamer Harry Yates, light from Buffalo, 11:40 p. m., April 27; the average date of the first arrival being April 19.

April, 1913—At the present time the whole harbor is covered with fairly solid ice, averaging about thirty-two inches in thickness. This is about twenty-two inches thicker than the 15-year average for April 10. Over the western portion of Superior bay the ice has honeycombed a little prior to this date. In the lake there is a solid field extending twenty-five to thirty miles. In this locality there is now more ice than there was at the same time in 1912.

TUGMEN HOLD SMOKER.

Zenith Lodge No. 1, Licensed Tugmen, had a smoker and social last night at Rowley's hall and listened to an interesting program. James Much, who has just returned from Mexico and Central America, where he has been for five years, gave a most interesting talk. The rest of the program consisted of a clarionette selection by Capt. Andrew Carroll, a clog dance by M. Gallagher, a violin selection by Capt. Ed. Hazen, a recitation by M. Glockle, a dance by Capt. George Lyons, a recitation by Al Jones and vocal solos by John O'Myra, Charles Green and Capt. William Hoy.

COAL SUPPLY NOT YET EXHAUSTED

Enough of Some Kinds to Last Until Navigation Opens.

The supply of coal at the Head of the Lakes is getting short—there seems to be no question about that—but it is not believed to be as short as some announce. One of the general agents of coal companies said this morning:

"We have not yet had an all-rail shipment of coal here this winter. Now, that's doing pretty well. I don't expect any such shipments this year. Minneapolis and St. Paul have had a lot of all-rail shipments of coal, but the Head of the Lakes has escaped.

"I believe we have enough to last through, even though the opening of navigation is delayed fifteen days longer—which I doubt. We have a goodly supply of egg coal, and the only ones who are bothered with that are those people who possess the self-feeder coal stoves. We have enough soft coal to cover the time between now and when coal will begin to arrive by boat, so we should not worry."

CAPT. HOUGHTON WELL KNOWN HERE.

Capt. Fred P. Houghton, master of the steamer George Peavey of the Peavey line, managed by the Tomlinson company of Duluth, whose death at Biloxi, Miss., was announced yesterday, was one of the best known masters on the Great Lakes. His home was at Racine, Wis., and he was 66 years of age. Capt. Houghton was well known in Duluth and is father of Fred Houghton of the Tomlinson company here. Besides Mr. Houghton of Duluth, he is survived by four sons and one daughter. They are: Fred of Duluth, Dan of Racine, Charles of Milwaukee, 'Gene of Winnipeg and Mrs. H. S. Williams of Aberdeen, S. D.

WINTER WHEAT FLOURISHING

Roseate Reports From Southwest Bear Prices in United States.

Flaxseed Works Higher--- Demand Good and Offers Not Pressing.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 10.—Wheat worked lower on the markets of the United States today, owing to fine reports of the winter wheat in the Southwest, notwithstanding the strong export situation. Duluth May wheat closed ⅜c lower. Cash wheat closed 1c lower than May. Durum advanced ¾c, owing to an urgent foreign demand for that grade. Oats today closed ¼c off, rye 1c up and barley unchanged. Duluth May flax closed 1c higher and July 1⅛c up.

Roseate reports of conditions in the winter wheat belt of the United States, especially Kansas, drove wheat prices lower on the American markets this morning, notwithstanding a strong export situation.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 88⅝c bid, opened today at 88¼c bid and at noon today was quoted at 88⅛-¼c. There were declines at Chicago and Minneapolis also, but Winnipeg wheat was a little higher.

Wheat on the Liverpool market today closed ¼d to ½d higher. The market was bulled by the firmer Canadian offers and strength at Paris and Buenos Ayres, but the advance was checked by the fact that the inquiry from the continent was limited and also by private forecasts of large world shipments, especially from Argentina.

Flax Works Higher.

Flax was quite strong this morning. Heavy weather through the country tributary to the Duluth and Minneapolis markets have made the roads bad and farmers have not done much hauling of late to the shipping points. Moreover, foreign markets were reported stronger. Duluth May flax at noon today fas ⅞c higher and July 1c higher. Minneapolis cash seed was at the Duluth May price, showing a good demand for the seed on the part of the crushers there. Winnipeg May seed at noon today was 1c higher at $1.14 bid, being 14⅜c under Duluth May. Buenos Ayres May seed closed last night ⅞c up at $1.21⅞. London-Calcutta April-June seed today closed ⅜c up at $1.52½.

A dispatch from the Soo says: "There has been very little change in ice conditions at Whitefish point in the Soo river. Hay and Mud lakes are softening fast. The car-ferry, St. Ignace, has gone back to St. Ignace, Mich., to get the Canadian minister of marine and fisheries, who is there trying to make arrangements to break a passage through Mud lake and the Soo river to Lake Superior. Weather is fine and indications point to rain."

The following is from Mr. Houston of Houston, Fible & Co., Kansas City: "There has been a good rain all over Western Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma. Central parts of those states, where about three-fourths of the wheat is produced have had heavy rains. Wheat prospects are the best ever seen. With ordinary weather, Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma will produce the largest wheat crop ever produced. The condition is now so good that nothing but extremely dry weather could curtail the crop materially. It is further along than people are inclined to believe. Much of it is 4 to 6 inches high. It is a glowing outlook."

Broomhall's Argentine agent says: "Plowing for wheat in the north is progressing well with the weather favorable and the soil excellent."

Minneapolis reported a good cash demand with choice wheat relatively scarce. No. 1 northern blue stem went for the most part 1c over May and velvet chaff 1c under blue stem. Flour sales were still moderate but the mill feed trade had broadened and was about equal to the supply.

The Kansas City Star says: "Rains have put the West in the best shape in history. Present indications point to the largest wheat yield ever recorded in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma. If nothing happens, all records will be broken. Kansas City territory is the garden spot of the United States today."

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: "A weather market is on in wheat with sentiment favoring the bull side on all declines. As a trader put it, to have the market advance as it did yesterday in the face of the bearish crop reports, shows that it has more merit than the average trader is inclined to admit. A point made by a number of traders was that the market is practically on an export basis and that every decline of ½c or so brings in export business. Constant buying to take offers helps to absorb the offerings which come largely from the short sellers."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Considerable Nervousness Manifest in Wheat Which Is Irregular.

Chicago, April 10.—Considerable nervousness marked wheat today. At the start the market was irregular, ⅛@¼c lower to a like amount higher. May opened ⅛@¼c lower, to a shade higher, at 92⅝c to 92⅞c, touched 92⅝@92¾c, and eased off to 92½@92⅝c. Cables were higher but this was offset by expectation of larger world shipments and limited continental demand.

Prices later declined on enthusiastic reports of domestic crop conditions. The close was firm with May at 91⅞@92c, a net loss of ⅝c.

Lightness of country offerings and wet weather delays to field and to marketing caused firmness in corn. May opened ⅛c to ¼@⅜c higher at 56½c to 56⅝c and steadied within that range.

Profit-taking sales afterward depressed the market. The closing was weak with May showing a net loss of ⅝c at 55⅝@55¾c.

After an irregular opening oats became firm and active and a good deal of short covering. May opened ⅛c lower to a shade higher at 35⅞c to 36c and went up to 36⅛c.

Light run of hogs in the West advanced provisions, prices at the start showing an upturn of a shade to 10c. May pork opened at $19.75 to $19.80, lard at $10.90, ribs at $11.20.

Closing: Cash wheat—No. 2 red, $1.04@1.08; No. 3 red, 98c@$1.02; No. 4 red, 85@94c; No. 2 hard, 93½@95c; No. 3 hard, 91@94½c; No. 1 northern, 92½@93¼c; No. 2 northern, 91@92c; No. 3 northern, 87½@90c; No. 2 spring, 90@91½c; No. 3 spring, 86@88½c; No. 4 spring, 80@85c; velvet chaff, 86@92½c; durum, 89@96½c.

Wheat Develops Weakness on Account of Outside Declines.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 10.—Wheat developed weak tone on account of declines in outside markets. Early there was a strong undertone. London Stocks.

London, April 10.—The American securities were firm and stocks in fair demand during the early session, but New York offerings in the afternoon caused recessions. The close was easy.

Cotton Market.

New York, April 10.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 4 points in response to lower cables. A break was reported in the Mississippi levee at Wilson, Ark., threatening to flood the entire St. Francis basin, and Memphis reported a further rise in the river at that point, while the weather map showed further rains in the central belt. There was enough realizing fully to offset overnight buying orders, however, and selling of old crop positions by spot brokers, combined with more favorable weather predictions encouraged more general offerings shortly after the opening.

The market became unsettled under this pressure and prices eased off from the opening figures.

Spot closed quiet. Middling uplands, 12.50; middling gulf, 12.75. Sales, 100 bales. Futures closed steady; bids: April, 12.23; May, 12.03; June, 12.02; July, 11.99; August, 11.87; September, 11.58; October, 11.51; December, 11.53; January, 11.51.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Trade was without special feature, clearance being limited to retail orders for general purpose farm horses and mares. Extra heavy pairs of big work mules found a number of takers. Shipments were made to points in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Upper Michigan. Receipts comparatively light. Values as follows:

GAINS ARE ELIMINATED

Stocks Take Tumble in Final Half Hour, Wiping Out Advances.

Buying Orders Distributed Near Close and Prices Recover Slightly.

New York, April 10.—Inability to assimilate free offerings of Pennsylvania depressed the market in spite of the stimulus received from the improvement abroad and buying here for foreign account.

The copper shares made a good showing for a time, reflecting the turn for the better in the copper metal industry and the active speculation in copper issues abroad, but later sold off with the remainder of the list. The market turned upward before noon, a complete recovery being experienced. Bonds were easy.

Opening prices of stocks for the most part were higher. There was heavy buying of Steel and Amalgamated. Gains of a point or more were made by Canadian Pacific, Beet Sugar, Bethlehem Steel and Amalgamated. Pennsylvania fell to 114¾, nearly a point below yesterday's low figure and a new low price since 1908.

The bears made short work of the opening advance, the persistent stream of liquidation in Pennsylvania enabling them to undermine the market. Prices relapsed to below yesterday's close for the leaders before the decline was stemmed.

Early afternoon prices were well above the closing level of yesterday, the recovery in Pennsylvania causing a broad demand for the general list. Reading, Amalgamated Copper, Canadian Pacific, Lehigh, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Union Pacific rose 1 to 2½.

With the completion of the early drive against prices and subsequent vigorous recovery, traders stood about idly, waiting for an indication of the next move of the market.

Trading dwindled to nominal proportions during the latter half of the session, but the undertone betrayed considerable firmness.

The market closed steady. Prices took a tumble again in the final half hour, the bears seizing the opportunity to make a determined drive when speculation had become practically stagnant. New York Central touched the year's lowest. Reactions ran to a point in some of the more active stocks, and the previous gains were generally eliminated. Buying orders were distributed near the close and prices picked up somewhat.

"Make Hay While the Sun Shines"

OF ALL the old adages that may be made applicable to the banking business, this one seems the best, because it drives home the lesson of economy and thrift. If you don't "make hay" (save your money) while the sun shines, you will be in a bad way when the cloudy and inclement weather of old age overtakes you! IF THE SUN OF PROSPERITY IS SHINING FOR YOU NOW, WE WILL HELP YOU TO "MAKE HAY." One dollar will start an account in our Savings Department.

LITTLE CHANGE IN COPPER STOCKS

Copper stocks changed very little in value today, and the market could hardly be said to be either bullish or bearish. There was one feature, however, that favored the bull side and that was the stiffening in the prices of copper metal. Calumet & Hecla raised its price today to 15⅝c a pound. The London copper metal market closed with spot 5s higher and futures 2½c lower. Amalgamated and Calumet & Arizona today closed somewhat higher, but Butte & Superior and Giroux showed losses.

Good buying of copper continues, with Europe paying 15⅝c and domestic users 15½c to 15⅝c. Some very small producers are out of the market.

Gay & Sturgis received a private Butte dispatch saying that the crosscut on the 2,800-foot level in the North Butte property has cut the stringer lying south of the Snowball vein and that the main vein is expected to be cut any time.

I. J. Sturgis wired the following from Boston: "The market is very peculiar. It is about sold out, but people who usually advance it when in this condition are by no means of one mind. The copper people are very cheerfully bullish, as action of Amalgamated shows. The Hayden Stone & Co. crowd are also bullish but everybody else of great importance is blue and not doing much. If conditions usual at this time of year materialize, the optimists are going to be right for the next month or two will get converts from other camps. Certainly the market has shown great staying power lately and has stood up against a very geat deal of adverse news. Without minimizing the economic conditions that are wrong and must be adjusted before a real bull market can be possible I do think a very fair rise is ahead and coppers look best."

MARRYING PARSON'S RECORD.

Nashville Banner: Forty pairs for December was the record made by the Rev. Alfred H. Burroughs, "parson" of the Bristol Gretna Green.

Referring to this the face of the 80-year-old minister lit up with a smile when he remarked: "But the record was not satisfactory to Cupid, I am sure, for he brought me seven young pairs on New Year's day. These young pairs all came from Virginia and West Virginia."

Dr. Burroughs has married about 4,500 pairs, and although an old man he expects by cherishing a happy disposition to be able to make his record 5,000 before yielding to Father Time.

BUSINESS MEN AWAKENING TO FLOOD DANGER

Reckless Disregard of the Known Laws of Nature Now Realized.

Prevention of Floods Presented as Profitable Business Proposition.

National Drainage Congress Considering Work of Organization.

St. Louis, Mo., April 11.—Prevention of floods was presented as a profitable business proposition by Frank B. Knight of Chicago, in an address before the National drainage congress today.

"The floods we have faced today, last year, and in this long series of calamities that have passed, have been due to the reckless disregard of known laws of nature by the business men of this country," he said. "Today the same men are slowly awakening to the fact that even yet, by artificial means, we may control water, by dams, flood reservoirs, and flood channels, levees, drainage and thereby regain the wealth we have lost, and add the new wealth we have not yet realized by power development, real inland navigation, protection of life and existing industry and adding an inland empire of the most productive land the world has ever known.

"What would it have meant from a strictly business point of dollars lost, production stopped, commerce and traffic crippled, if the floods had not occurred in Ohio and Indiana? What has it cost the manufacturing and mercantile establishment of Dayton alone, and what would these institutions have given, could they, by thus giving, have prevented the disaster?

Enormous Losses.

J. P. MORGAN'S BODY NEARS NEW YORK

Steamship France Passes Nantucket Lightship and Will Soon Dock.

New York, April 11.—The steamship France, bearing the body of the late J. P. Morgan, pasesd Nantucket lightship at 4 o'clock this morning and was expected to dock late this afternoon. The body will be immediately removed from the ship and taken under strong police guard to the Morgan library, where it will rest until Monday morning when funeral service will be held in St. George's church. It will then be conveyed by special train to Hartford, Conn., and placed in the family mausoleum.

J. P. Morgan and his son, Junius S. Morgan, obtained permits to go down the bay in a revenue cutter and board the France at Quarantine. Extra details of police have been assigned to guard the pier and no one will be permitted to enter the shed without a special customs pass. All photographers will be barred. Streets leading to the pier were to be cleared for the departure of the funeral procession and a guard has been thrown about the Morgan house and library. A large force will keep back the curious from the church during the service on Monday.

WILL RESIST WITH ALL ITS RESOURCES

Belgian Government to Oppose Strikers at Expected Outbreak.

Brussels, Belgium, April 11. — The Belgian government is preparing to resist with all its resources the general strike of Belgian workmen which is scheduled to begin on Monday. The government has the support of the conservative interests of the country.

The Socialists are confident that nearly 400,000 men will leave their work in response to the strike order. The local strike committees are showing great activity in arranging to find indigent strikers and in placing the children with sympathizers beyond the frontiers.

The workmen have been admonished that the best means of gaining their end is to display restraint and calm and peaceful endurance.

All of the members of the cabinet believe that the general strike will be a failure and will be only feebly supported by the workmen. Others think that the strike will become general, and declare that order must be severely maintained, and anybody desiring to work must be protected in exercising that right.

Workers' unions in many districts throughout the country took a vote last night on the question of joining in the strike. At Horstal 2,700 of the 3,000 employes of the national arms factory voted in favor of the movement.

The typographical union of Brussels showed little sympathy with the strike, and the members decided to remain at work. In other places, however, the typographical unions resolved to strike by unanimous vote.

MEMBER OF COMMONS MUST VACATE HIS SEAT

London, April 11.—Sir Stuart Montagu Samuel, Radical member of parliament from London, and a leading banker, must vacate his seat in parliament because his firm last year became a purchaser of silver for the Indian government.

The judicial committee today decided that he must give up his seat, basing its judgment on an old act of parliament, under which a member of the house may not be interested in any government contracts.

Senate Passes Bill Favoring Department of Public Domain.

(By a Staff Correspondent.

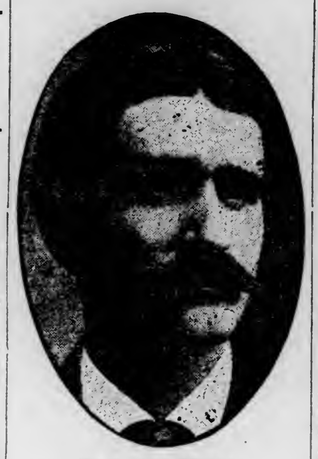

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The principle of state regulation of public utilities went down to defeat for this session in the house today when that body rejectel the committee bill by a vote of 30 to 78. The bill came up as a special order and it was so generally recognized that it was foredoomed to defeat that the final vote was a stampede.

Several things contributed to this result. A large number of the house members are committed to the state regulations of telephones, as provided in a separate bill which passed the house and is now before the senate, and they feared that the passage of the general bill might bring about the defeat of their measure.

There was a decided opposition, openly expressed, to giving the governor the appointment of a new commission of so important a character and with such broad powers. And, above these, public sentiment on the subject evidently has not been aroused to such an extent as it has been in

LEGISLATIVE COMMISSION

House Organization's Plan to Investigate State Expenses Passed.

Senate Recall Bill Adopted By House With Amendments.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house organization's plan of a purely legislative committee to investigate the state's expenses and suggest a plan of reorganization prevailed in that body yesterday afternoon, and the Wefald bill passed by a vote of 55 to 18.

So that if the senate and the governor concur in the action of the house, some kind of an attempt along this line will be made.

Aside from the objection to a legislative committee, there is a serious question as to the value of the bill since it was amended yesterday to cut the appropriation for the committee's expenses from $30,000 to $15,000.

A number of members contended that this amendment practically killed the bill. The amount probably is ample for a mere investigation, but it had been hoped by some of the friends of the plan that it would be possible,

SAID SHE WAS NOT FIT PERSON TO WED

Decision of St. Paul Judge Promptly Reversed By Supreme Court.

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. L. Smith of the Minneapolis municipal court, if he desires to remain on friendly terms with the state supreme court, will refrain in the future from calling women physicians to his aid in passing on the queston as to whether a woman is fit to marry and bear children.

Mabiel Claire conducted a massage parlor in Minneapolis and was convicted last June of using improper language in a public place. Her sentence was suspended by Judge Smith and subsequently club women became interested because it was understood Miss Claire was freed on the promise that she would wed. She was recalled by the court and Dr. Jane Kennedy and Dr. Mabel Ulrich aided the judge in passing on her case. A conviction resulted as the women physicians said she was not a fit person to wed.

Miss Claire appealed to the supreme court and the lower court was today reversed.

CONGRESSIONAL HEARING IS OFF

W. J. MacDonald of Calumet Admits Contentions of H. O. Young.

Calumet, Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The expected hearing in the contest between Congressmen H. O. Young of Ishpeming and W. J. MacDonald of Calumet, who claims election as Michigan's congressman from the Twelfth district, which was supposed to come up in Calumet this morning, was called off. Mr. MacDonald submitted a stipulation in which he admits the points contended by Mr. Young, namely, that MacDonald, while running on the Progressive ticket last November, was enrolled as a Republican.

AMERICAN SAILORS KILLED AT MAZATLAN

Two or Three Mexican Policemen Wounded in Attempt to Arrest Men.

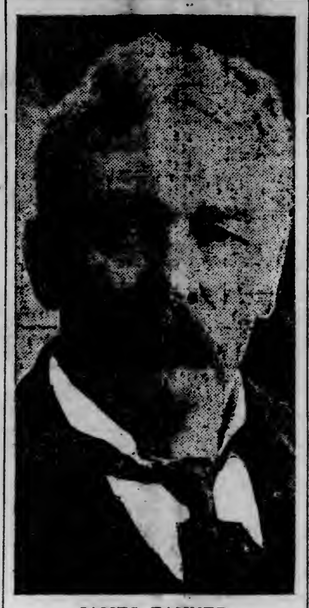

Guaymas, Sonora, Mex., April 11.—Two sailors of the United States cruiser California were killed and three others wounded in a street fight Wednesday morning at Mazatlan, a Pacific coast port below this point. Two or three Mexican policemen were wounded in attempting to arrest the American sailors. Admiral Cowles is investigating the incident.

Washington, April 11.—William Wallace Corrie, seaman and John Chase Keslow, first-class master-at-arms, were the two men killed in the fight at Mazatlan. Rear Admiral Cowles reported to the navy department late today by wireless via the San Diego station.

Corrie's nearest relative is A. S. J. Corrie of Los Angeles, Cal. He had served in the navy two years. Keslow's nearest relative is his father, who lives in San Francisco. He had been in the navy eleven years. Both men had excellent records.

Admiral Cowles reports they were not likely to be aggressors in a street fight.

"CORPORAL" TANNER TO RETAIN HIS POSITION

JAMES TANNER.

Washington, April 11.—"Corporal" James Tanner, lifelong Republican, and past commander of the G. A. R., will not have to surrender his job here as register of wills to a Democrat. At the White House today it was said he would be retained in office, though William La Follette, a brother of the senator from Wisconsin and a Democrat, wants the job. "Corporal" Tanner was wounded so many times in the Civil war that parts of both his legs were amputated.

STRONG EFFORTS TO SETTLE STRIKE

Hope to Avert Threatened Extension of Labor Troubles at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 11.—With street cars running under military guard over only ten miles of the International Railway company's [illegible] miles of track and a general strike on all union labor in the city threatened, strong influences were brought to bear today upon the corporation and its striking carmen to reach an arbitration agreement.

Mayor Fuhrmann sought to reopen the negotiations deadlocked last night and the state board of mediation began an investigation of the whole strike situation.

The railway company today published page advertisements in all the newspapers giving the terms upon which it agrees to settle the strike. These are, briefly, the unconditional reemployment of every man in the service of the company on the day before the strike was declared, "whether he belongs to a union or not"; discussion of complaints, grievances or troubles of any character with "a committee of its employes," after the restoration of its service and arbitration of differences upon which this committee and the company fail to agree.

The district attorney announced today that in response to complaints of citizens, he would present to the grand jury evidence as to whether the company has violated the law requiring it to use only trained motormen.

PRESIDENT IS URGED TO AGREE TO MODIFICATION OF SCHEDULE ON SUGAR

Would Leave Question of Free Sugar in Three Years to Executive.

Not So Much Objection to Reduction of Duty to One Cent.

Believed Clause Making It Free Later Would Have Depressing Effect.

Washington, April 11.—President Wilson was urged today to agree to a modification in the tariff schedule on sugar to make it discretionary with the executive at the end of three years whether sugar should be free.

Gomer Governor Alva Adams of Colorado told the president that while the industry in his state could stand a reduction of 1 cent a pound as now provided in the tariff bill, the knowledge that sugar would be free at the end of three years would have a depressing effect on business during that period.

Col. Robert Ewing, Democratic national committeeman from Louisiana, discussed the question with the president and took the same position as Former Governor Adams. He went away with the impression that the president was still carefully considering that feature of the bill.

Senator Thomas of the finance committee discused the tariff briefly with the president.

First Sharp Fight.

House Democrats today were prepared for the first sharp fight over the tariff bill when the sugar schedule came up in the party caucus. The Democrats met behind closed doors again today with the iron and steel tariff under consideration, but with the prospect that the sugar fight would break before the end of the day.

Representative Underwood and his associates, who are supporting the president's plan of a 25 per cent reduction in the sugar duty, with free sugar in 1916, have shown no disposition to evade the sugar issue in the caucus. The Democratic leaders expected to carry the sugar tariff proposal through the caucus without change.

Study of the tariff bill continued at the senate side, where Democrats of the finance committee have called in experts to help them analyze the house bill. Work now being done by the committee will shorten the time of tariff revision in the senate, it is claimed, as the committee will be prepared to act soon after the house passes the bill.

OPINIONS DIVIDED ON "THIS IS WOMAN'S HOUR"

Richmond, Va., April 11.—The national convention of the Y. W. C. A. is considering today the assertion of Miss Mabel Cratty of New York, general secretary of the national board that "This is the woman's hour," as against the statement of Grace H. Dodge of New York that the home is breaking up and that 1,500,000 women in the United States are "adrift" or homeless.

The morning session today began with a hymn and prayer after which the convention plunged into various resolutions from the national board. Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson was an earnestly attentive listener.

HANDICAPPED BY CONGRESS

Efficient Control of Navy Impossible Under Present Conditions.

So Col. Robert Thompson Tells Navy League of United States.

Washington, April 11.—Congress stands in the way of efficient control of the navy, according to Col. Robert W. Thompson, chairman of the executive committee of the Navy League of the United States.

"Younger admirals," he declared, "also were necessary to make an American fleet effective in time of war.

"For some reason," said Col. Thompson, "congress always had a strong prejudice against giving high rank to officers in the navy. When the Spanish war broke out our entire system of promotion was ignored. Officers to command the fleet were selected even from the captains' list, the senior officers being ignored and congress has persistently refused to provide for the situation which confronts it."

Col. Thompson declared that in January, 1912, of the twenty-eight rear admirals on the naval list the average service at sea for each was one year and seven months as commanders and as captains one year and nine months. He added that fifteen of the twenty-eight had had no sea service as rear admirals, while the remainder had been in supreme command on an average of only nine months at sea.

Too Little Experience.

"Under the present law," he declared, "our admirals are too old when they reach the flag rank and they have had too little experience in command to be properly qualified for handling the fleet in time of war. When an emergency comes if our admirals are efficient it is not because of the working of the present law but in spite of it.

"Congress has much to answer for in permitting the present lamentable conditions in the navy to exist.

"Every maritime nation in the world except our own," he continued, "has appreciated this and the vital importance of the position of admiral and they have taken steps to secure young, vigorous and highly qualified men and give them necessary experience to fit them for the supreme command."

Commander J. S. McKean, U. S. N., discussed the strategic value of the Panama canal to the navy while Henry H. Ward, vice president of the league, took up the subject of the consolidation of navy yards with a view to greater efficiency.

Late today the delegates were guests at an exhibition cavalry drill at Fort Myer. In the evening at the annual banquet they are hosts to many prominent persons, among them Vice President Marshall.

MISS ZELIE EMERSON HAS APPENDICITIS.

London, April 11.—Miss Zelie Emerson, the American suffragette, is suffering from a serious attack of appendicitis. Dr. Mansell-Moullin, her physician, said this morning:

"Inflammation undoubtedly has developed an attack of appendicitis. It will be impossible to correct her condition permanently without an operation, which is unthinkable at present because of her extremely weakened condition. The nervous symptoms have improved somewhat today."

FIGHTERS OF FLOODS ARE ENCOURAGED

Reports of Lower River Stages Give Courage to Memphis Residents.

Crest 107 Miles Above City But Broken Levees Ease Pressure Greatly.

Water Shows Slight Fall at Cairo; Levee Patrol Is Increased.

Memphis, Tenn., April 11.—Flood fighters behind the Mississippi levees were encouraged today by reports of lower river stages as far south as Graves' Bayou, about twenty-five miles from Memphis. At Memphis the gauge read 44.7, a fall of 1.8 in the past twenty-four hours. At Osceola the river receded between four and five inches.

Official reports today indicate that the crest of the flood is off Barfield Point, 107 miles north of Memphis, but the two breaks near Wilson and the crevasse at Graves' Bayou has relieved the pressure on the levees in this stretch of the river to such an extent that little further trouble is anticipated.

According to officials of the St. Francis levee board the water from the breaks at Wilson already has penetrated farther into the interior than last year, indicating that the entire eastern part of Arkansas from the river inland to Gilmore, thirty miles distant, will be overflowed.

Additional Labor.

Cool, sunny weather today brought additional labor to the levees throughout the district. Boats have gone from Memphis to the stricken territory to bring off flood sufferers and livestock.

Officials agree that the gravest danger now lies below Memphis, when the waters from breaks in the Arkansas levees and the swollen flood from the recent rains pour into the Mississippi from the St. Francis and Arkansas rivers. South of Helena work on the levees is being rushed with the hope of having the embankments from two to three feet above the 1912 stages.

JAPS EXPRESS VIEWS TO U. S. DIPLOMAT

Ask to Have Their Arguments Presented to Washington Government.

Tokio, April 11.—Buei Nakano, president of the Tokio chamber of commerce, today visited the United States embassy and outlined the views of the Japanese business community in regard to the California land bill. He requested [illegible] confer, Mr. Bailly-Blanchard, arguments before his Washington.

A joint meeting of the chamber of commerce of Kobe, Osaka, Yokohama and Tokio has been summoned by Nakano to discuss the question.

M. Nakano is well known in the United States, having visited several of the principal chambers of commerce there in 1909.

A joint meeting of the Japanese political parties is also being planned to discuss the situation.

The clause of the California bill, providing for confiscation of property of persons unable to become naturalized American citizens, has aroused the strongest criticism here.

BULGARIANS MAY FIGHT THE GREEKS

Serious Dispute Between Two Countries as to Possession of Saloniki.

London, April 11.—Bulgaria is making formal claims to the possession of Saloniki now occupied by the Greek troops, according to an Exchange Telegraph company's dispatch from Belgrade, Servia. The dispatch adds that Bulgaria is taking military measures to support her claims, while Greece is concentrating her army along the railway leading to Saloniki.

Favor Bulgaria.

Vienna, April 11.—The powers composing the triple alliance, Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy, advocate, according to the Neue Freie Presse that Saloniki should be given to Bulgaria as compensation for the cession of Silistria and a strip of Bulgarian territory to Roumania.

Russia and France, on the other hand, are of the opinion that Greece should have Saloniki, while England appears to favor the view of the triple alliance.

It was announced a few days ago that Greece had transferred a division of her army from the province of Epirus to Saloniki.

BUREAU OF MARKETS.

Committee Will Urge Congress to Divide Agricultural Department.

Washington, April 11.—The committee selected in Chicago yesterday to urge upon President Wilson the establishment of a Federal bureau of markets, is expected to obtain attention during the present session of congress for bills now pending to create the proposed new division in the agricultural department. Senator Hoke Smith again has introduced the bill which has twice passed the senate, but which was finally lost last session when a conference committee dropped it from the agricultural appropriation bill.

The Smith bill would create a permanent division, for the gathering and distribution of produce market news and the study of co-operative and commercial marketing methods. The start toward this end was made in the last congress when an appropriation of $50,000 was secured for the purposes named.

Advertises Duluth.

H. F. Carter of Minneapolis, district passenger agent of the Union Pacific road, who was in the city yesterday on business, gave out a few of the new folders of the Chicago, Union Pacific and Northwestern lines, telling about the Overland Limited. Aside from the interesting stuff in it, it is admitted to be about the finest bit of printers' and engravers' art that has been seen in Duluth. As one man put it, "It is the last word." In the center is a topographical sketch showing the line running from Duluth to San Francisco and many believe that this sketch alone makes it worth while to preserve the folder.

MAY CHANGE THE LINEUP

Hicken May Take the Departmnet of Public Utilities.

Definite Decision Will Probably Be Reached By Commission Saturday.

It is expected that by tomorrow the city commissioners will have decided definitely on the distribution of duties and the appointments to be made by the whole commission.

No official announcement may be expected until after the commissioners take office Monday, as they are maintaining strict silence as to their plans. However it is well settled that by tomorrow they will know just what they propose to do on almost all matters that will come before them immediately after taking office.

No authentic information has been given to change the prospective distribution of duties published in The Herald earlier in the week. The best information is that Mayor Prince will be assigned to the division of public affairs, F. J. Voss to the division of finance, Roderick Murchison to the division of public works, Leonidas Merritt to the division of public utilities and W. A. Hicken to the division of public safety.

There was a rumor out today that Mr. Hicken had shifted his preference to the public utilities division, and if that is the case there may be a new alignment, giving Mr. Prince the division of public safety, Mr. Merritt the division of public affairs and Mr. Hicken the division of public utilities.

The question of appointments is said to be giving the commissioners some concern. The commissioners decline to discuss the proable appointees, with the exception of the clerk. It is practically settled that City Clerk C. S. Palmer will be reappointed.

Five names figure in the contest for city attorney. E. M. Morgan, H. A. Carmichael, Harvey S. Clapp, C. L. Lewis and J. B. Richards are being considered. Which one of the five the necessary three votes will line up behind remains a question, and probably will not be known until Monday at the earliest.

Five men are also being considered for assessor. They are William Fowler, chief deputy in the assessor's office; J. C. Myron, the present assessor; J. Allyn Scott, former assessor; Roy Hood and John Cashin. It is anybody's race.

For auditor, City Comptroller W. S. McCormick and Deputy Comptroller B. J. Campbell are the only men mentioned.

There is a scramble for the appointive places in the various divisions, but until the assignment of duties is definitely determined, the applicants for positions will be in the air.

OHIO TO PENSION INDIGENT MOTHERS.

Columbus, Ohio, April 11.—The Greenlund bill, providing for pensions for indigent mothers an administration measure, was passed in the house today and now goes to Governor Cox, whose approval is assured. The vote in the house stood yeas 92, nays 4. The bill provides an annual tax levy expected to create a fund each year of $700,000 for the pensions.

Destitute widows, women whose husbands are completely disabled, have deserted them, or are serving prison sentences are to be cared for under the provisions of the measure.

Juvenile courts are to be authorized to pay such women $15 a month for a child under 14 years of age and $7 a month for each additional child under that age.

The bill makes drastic changes in the juvenile code. Under the latter as amended boys under 14 are prohibited from selling newspapers or chewing gum on the streets.

Fargo Schools Larger.

Fargo, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the past six years there has been a general increase in enrollment of the city schools of 17 per cent. There was only a 10 per cent increase in the lower grades but in the high and the seventh and the eighth grades the increase averaged 36 per cent. In the high, alone, the increase was 46 per cent.

VESSELMEN ARE WAITING

Ice Fifty-Two Inches Thick Found in Local Harbor.

Doubtful If Ice-Breaker Can Get Past Whitefish Blockade.

That the ice is extraordinarily thick in the slips at the Head of the Lakes there is no doubt, and that it is also of unusual depth in Whitefish bay and even clear across to the Canadian shore is shown by the testimony of those who have seen it. So clearly is this fixed in the minds of the vessel men who are at this point ready to take their boats out that it is a common expression:

"Will we get out this summer?"

Within the last two days in slips here and in Superior holes have been cut to obtain water for ships' engines, and in no case has ice been found that was less than forty inches thick. One block of ice cut out and hoisted out measured fifty-two inches in thickness.

At Whitefish bay it is claimed that the ice has piled up to such an extent that it would be dangerous for ships to attempt to buck it. Much interest is shown in The proposed trip of the ice-breaker St. Ignace from the town by that name up the Soo river in an attempt to open the channel and the Soo canal for the boats held in the ice at Port Arthur and Fort William. Old vessel men believe that while she can doubtless break the ice in the river and open up the Soo, she cannot get through the ice at Whitefish and that unless favorable winds prevail the fleet which will head down when the Soo opens is sure to have a hard time of it. If winds from the northwest prevail they will drive the ice down the east end of Lake Superior and hold it jammed there, so that the boats coming and going will have great difficulty to say the least in getting through.

The tug Minnesota has been inspected and is ready to go into commission when her services are engaged. So far there has been no demand for her for the situation is being watched by the vessel men, who are playing a waiting game so far, but are ready to take quick action when the situation seems to demand it. If it becomes apparent that the Soo is about to open and that the fleet can get past Whitefish, there is certain to be a rush for the getaway. Then the ice-breaking tugs will be called into commission in a hurry. The ice in the bay is rotting visibly these days and it is claimed that it would be an easy matter to break it so far as the channels are concerned, once the current has weakened it; but in the slips it will be a difficult matter. Present weather conditions have not been conducive to melting ice in slips where there is no current and the ice is shaded.

GREAT LAKES STAGES.

Showing for March and Predictions for April Reported.

The United States lake survey reports the stages of the Great Lakes for the month of March as follows:

Lakes—	Feet Above Tide Water, New York.
Superior	601.54
Michigan-Huron	580.16
Erie	572.44
Ontario	246.71

Lake Superior is .07 foot lower than last month, .11 foot higher than a year ago, .16 foot below the average stage of March of the last ten years, .74 foot below the high stage of March, 1901, and .88 foot above the low stage of March, 1911. It will probably remain about stationary during April.

Lakes Michigan-Huron are .20 foot higher than last month, .88 foot higher than a year ago, .03 foot above the average stage of March of the last ten years, 2.79 feet below the high stage of March, 1886, and 1.05 feet above the low stage of March, 1896. They will probably rise about .3 foot during April.

Lake Erie is .05 foot higher than last month, 1.21 feet higher than a year ago, .66 foot above the average stage of March of the last ten years, 1.25 feet below the high stage of March, 1863, and 1.56 feet above the low stage of March, 1901. It will probably rise about .6 foot during April.

Lake Ontario is .04 foot lower than last month, 1.61 feet higher than a year ago, .91 foot higher than the average stage of March of the last ten years, 1.10 feet below the high stage of March, 1886, and 2.41 feet above the low stage of March, 1897. It will probably rise about .6 foot during April.

WHOLE TIME TO OFFICE

Physicians Want Health Officer Who Will Do Nothing Else.

Offer to Help Commissioners in Reorganizing the Department.

Members of the St. Louis County Medical association, at a regular meeting at the Commercial club last evening, adopted resolutions recommending that the city commission provide for the employment of a health commissioner, who will give all of his time to the city, and offering the services of the association in aiding the commisison in the reorganization of the health department.

The resolution follows:

"Resolved, That it is the opinion of the St. Louis County Medical association, that the time has come in the history of Duluth when both economy and efficiency will be better subserved by the employment of a physician, who will give his entire time and attention to the duties of health commissioner.

"Resolved further, That in the opinion of this society a careful study of the present financial budget of the health department will show that without the expenditure of any larger sum of money than under the present system such a whole time health commissioner can be secured; that the readjustment of the finances of the health department will show that such a health commissioner can command a salary of from $3,200 to $3,500 and provide for still greater public efficiency under a re-organized department.

"This being the case it seems but right that we should call the attention of our newly elected commissioners to this fact, with a recommendation that they require any one who may be appointed as health commissioner of the city of Duluth to give his entire time and attention to that work. We believe that we are better qualified, because of our direct interest in public and private health, than are most other people to pass upon the advisability of requiring the health commissioner to give his whole time to public health service. We also believe that we are as keenly and as deeply interested in the public weal, both from sanitary and financial view points, as is any other body of men in our community. We therefore feel that we have a right to ask and reason to expect to receive attention at the hands of the Duluth board of commissioners upon this matter.

"Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be published in the daily papers, and that a copy be forwarded to the newly elected mayor and commissioners of this city.

"Be it further resolved, That we hereby tender our good offices to the honorable board of commissioners so far as aiding them in the reorganization of the health department."

INTEREST IN RECOUNT

Inspection of Ballots Cast for Mayor Will Hold Public Attention.

Amount of Time Required to Go Over Ballots Is in Question.

The inspectors of ballots, appointed to make the recount in the three contests filed against Mayor-elect W. I. Prince, will hold a meeting this afternoon to decide on the methods to be employed in recounting the ballots.

The recount will start tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the office of City Clerk C. S. Palmer. Mr. Palmer, as custodian of the ballots, will produce the ballot boxes and be present at the counting.

Nobody can estimate the time that will be consumed by the recount. The inspectors will tally only the votes cast for the four candidates for mayor involved in the contests. It is expected that undisputed ballots will be gone through in a few days, all ballots in dispute being laid aside for further consideration. Any ballots on the counting of which the inspectors are unable to agree will be certified up to the court.

W. E. McEwen announced last evening that J. H. C. Engle will represent him as inspector. The other inspectors are those named in The Herald last evening. R. F. Berdie for Mr. Silberstein; Edward N. Schau for Mr. Fay, and Neil E. Beaton for Mr. Prince.

Each candidate involved in the contest will be represented also by his attorney.

The procedure fixed by law requires that the inspectors make the recount and report the result, with the disputed ballots, to the court. The court will decide on the counting or rejection of ballots in dispute, and the attorneys for the candidates will be given an opportunity to submit testimony and arguments, before a decision is made.

The recount in Bert Farrell's contest against Roderick Murchison and W. A. Hicken, the short term commissioners, will be made after the recount on mayor is completed. Any ballots taken from the lot to be certified to the court in the mayor contest will be copied for the purposes of the recount on short term commissioner.

Anything may happen in the recount. It is extremely unlikely that the recount will tally exactly with the reported figures, but whether all candidates will gain or lose in proportion is a question. W. I. Prince, the candidate declared elected mayor, has 3,132 votes, W. E. McEwen is six behind with 3,126. Bernard Silberstein is eighteen behind Mr. McEwen with 3,108 and Mr. Fay has forty-one less than Mr. Silberstein with 3,067.

Interest in the recount is great and the progress of the count will hold public attention, at least for the next week.

Mott to Have Flour Mill.

Mott, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—After several weeks of effort the citizens of Mott have assurances that a flour mill will be erected here and practically also that an electric light plant will be established. H. R. Stewart is the man behind the enterprise. The mill will need electric lights and it is thought the promoters will agree to establish a plant, or at least furnish the power, so the city can be lighted.

Ozone works for the sterilization of drinking water have been erected in Germany, France, Italy and Russia.

WILL DISCUSS HOUSING LAW

Hillsiders Will Voice Objections and Hear Them Answered.

The new housing ordinance will be considered at the regular meeting of the Central Hillside Improvement club at the Franklin school, Fifth avenue east and Seventh street, this evening.

Building Inspector S. M. Kielly and Architect A. Helstead will be the speakers. They will explain the provisions of the ordinance and the meeting will then be thrown open for discussion. If any objections are revealed, efforts will be made to have the ordinance amended.

The officers of the club yesterday sent to the members of the St. Louis county delegation in the legislature copies of a resolution adopted by the club last Friday evening, protesting against the public utilities bill now pending before the legislature. A telegram was sent to Andrew Borgen notifying him of the objections of the club and of the mailing of the resolution.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, There is now pending before the legislature a public utilities bill, the object of which is to take away from cities their right to control and regulate their public utilities, contrary to the expressed wish of the people and wholly in favor of the public utilities corporations; and

"Whereas, This bill proposes to deprive all cities, including those which have home rule charters, of the right to regulate and control their public utilities which are purely local matters and best controlled and regulated by the municipality in which they are located;

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Duluth Central Hillside Improvement club, That we hereby condemn said public utilities bill as vicious legislation in the interest wholly of greedy corporations and against the expressed wish and interests of the people, depriving them of the right of self-government in such matters; and

"Resolved further, That we therefore urge our legislators to use their best endeavors to defeat the bill."

DEFEATED CANDIDATES MAY CLAIM OFFICES.

Fargo, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An effort may be made by some of the defeated Democratic candidates for state offices last fall to secure possession of the offices because of the failure of the present incumbents to properly qualify by filing bonds and oaths of office according to law. The report is practically confirmed that a Fargo attorney has been retained to institute proceedings of this nature, if, after an investigation, he is convinced there are grounds for action.

Ends Life.

Kansas City, Mo., April 11.—Despondent because he was penniless and out of employment, Charles S. Denny, 30 years old, who formerly lived in Minneapolis, Minn., committed suicide here yesterday by drinking poison. Denny left a note in which he said:

"I know this is a cowardly act, but it is the best way out."

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Joe Bink is 36 years old, a lumberjack and a laborer. And also Joe Bink drinks booze.

Joe Bink also has a conscience. It is a very conscientious conscience. It bothers Joe Bink upon occasion. This morning it bothered Joe Bink so much that he came into the police station and told the officers that his conscience had forced him to give himself up, as he had committed a very heinous crime. And the only way he could ease the conscience was to expiate his sin behind prison bars.

Wherefore Joe Bink was locked up and the arrest credited to "Conscience."

Joe Bink explained that he came down from the tall pines and the long uncut about a week ago. He had a stake. He proceeded to spend it after the way of some men who follow the woods. Joe Bink got drunk. He saturated himself with strong drink, getting gloriously, intoxicatingly soused.

In some way he found himself out in the woods back of Lakeside last evening. He doesn't remember just how he got there. Perhaps he had slept for a while on a downy log or a warming snowbank. His first recollection is that he found himself in the brush with night coming on. Joe didn't want to spend the hours of darkness outdoors and he wanted something to drink. He was burning up inside and he felt that he had to have something to quench the flames which threatened to consume his vitals.

So Joe began to look about for shelter and drink. He was lucky. He found a shack in less than half an hour. Joe didn't have a key but that didn't stop him. He forced the door. And inside he found something which he craved. At least so he told the police this morning. He uncovered a bottle of whisky and some alcohol. Joe proceeded to get busy. Maybe he exaggerated this morning under the stinging spur of conscience, but he claimed that in a couple of hours he drank a quart of whisky and nearly as much alcohol.

Anyway, Joe Bink woke up this morning and began to ponder upon what he had done. At least, so he said. He explained that his conscience began to get on the job and finally the pangs of regret became so appalling that he could stand it no longer. Wherefore he made his way downtown and immediately sought the police station, where he begged to be placed under arrest. He pleaded to be put under lock and key with a charge of burglary placed under his name on the records.

Joe was not booked for larceny but for drunkenness. He will probably be brought into police court this afternoon. He wasn't entirely sober when he made his initial appearance and in the meantime the police will likely make an investigation to ascertain whether or not Joe has been conscientious in telling tales about his conscience.

Louis Sandstrom, father of eleven children, was arrested this morning on a charge of having failed to support his wife and eight minor children since last September. He pleaded guilty but his case was set over until Monday morning for disposition. Sandstrom has been in the woods all winter and two older boys have helped the family keep the wolf from the door since last fall. Sandstrom has been working in the woods. The authorities state that he squanders his money in saloons.

John Geddert reported to the police last evening that he had been stuck for $25 in a poker game which was running in the rear of a lunch counter at 713 West Superior street. John alleged that the game had not been on the square. The police visited the place and arrested George and Joe Boccich and Joseph Johnson on charges of gambling and Thomas Burkovich on a charge of keeping gambling devices. All of them pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court this morning and their trials were set for this afternoon.

Fred Chartier and Herbert Johnson started to carry away a lounge which was standing in front of a First street second hand store for display purposes late yesterday afternoon. The proprietor and a policeman saw them carting the bulky piece of furniture on their shoulder and directed them to return it where it belonged. It appeared that the young men were engaged in a thoughtless lark and were only arrested because the policeman thought they were not quite polite enough. They were given suspended sentences when their cases were called in court this morning.

Fred Shutnek was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of having obtained $50 from Albin Illenda, saloonkeeper at 411½ West Michigan street, by false pretenses. It appeared that Shutnek got $50 on a certificate of deposit for $100 made out to John Meyer by a bank at Cando, N. D. At the second-hand shop of M. Doniecka, 529 West Michigan street, Shutnek got a watch and hat on another certificate of $100 made out to the same man. A wire from Cando informed the police that Meyer was there and stated that he had been robbed of the certificates in Minneapolis. Shutnek at first claimed that he was Meyer, the rightful owner, but later changed his story by saying that he had found the certificates in Minneapolis. When brought into police court today he waived examination and was bound over to await the action of the next grand jury.

Steve Vensel went into a Bowery saloon yesterday afternoon and told the bartender that he had $10 in the place, left for safe keeping. So strong did he make his claim that the booze clerk handed him $3.25. When the proprietor appeared he learned of the transaction and caused Vensel's arrest on a charge of petty larceny. In police court this morning Vensel denied that he had stolen the money or obtained it wrongfully. He said that he had gotten it by asking for it. His trial was set for this afternoon.

Osto H. Jones, a carpenter, refused to pay for his lunch or vacate the chair in which he was snoring in the Bon Ton restaurant on West Superior street yesterday afternoon. He kicked up quite a rumpus when the cashier demanded payment and told him that he was in the wrong place to sleep off his jag. A patrolman was summoned and Jones was jugged for being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty in police court. He got $10 and costs or ten days, but the sentence was not executed upon his promise of better behavior.

The body of the unknown man who apparently had been murdered and robbed near Pourpore Siding on the Great Northern some months ago, is still unidentified at the undertaking rooms of J. L. Crawford. The body had lain in the woods since last fall and is in such an advanced age of decomposition that identification is practically impossible, being little better than a skeleton. Two bullet holes through the abdomen showed how the man had been killed. His pockets had been turned inside out and an empty purse nearby showed that he had been robbed. Several persons who have been missing have been mentioned as possibly being the dead man, but thus far the body has not been identified as any of them.

SERVIAN TROOPS HAVE WITHDRAWN

Quit Siege of Scutari, Leaving Montenegrins to Attack Alone.

Cettinje, Montenegro, April 11.—The Servian troops which have been assisting the Montenegrin army in the siege of Scutari have withdrawn and are marching back to Servia. This leaves Montenegro standing practically alone in its defiance of the powers.

The Official Gazette declares today that the heavy Montenegrin losses sustained during the recent assault on the Tarakasch forts were due mainly to the Servian artillery which continued to fire while the allied troops were storming the works.

"The Servian commander forgot to give the order to cease fire," says the Gazette.

DROPS DEAD AT STEEL PLANT

E. M. Patterson Stricken While on Trip With Governor and Party.

Exertion and Enfeebled Condition Contribute to Heart Failure.

Edward M. Patterson, 62 years old and a pioneer of Duluth, dropped dead at the steel plant yesterday afternoon while returning from the inspection trip of the buildings as a member of Governor Eberhart's party.

Death was due to heart failure brought on by over-exertion and a generally weakened physical condition.

For over the last year Mr. Patterson had been under the attention of a physician and had only recently recovered from an operation which removed a bone pressure from his brain. He sustained a slight fracture of the skull in a fall to the sidewalk over a year ago, resulting in the pains in his head which necessitated the operation. He passed through it successfully and strong hopes were held of his complete recovery of normal health and energy.

Overexerted By Trip.

Being in an enfeebled condition Mr. Patterson severely felt the strain of the trip to view the steel plant. The weather was quite disagreeable and chilly, the ground to be covered was extensive and all were somewhat hurried. Determined to keep pace with the others Mr. Patterson somewhat excited himself and became fatigued.

Mr. Patterson completed the tour of the big steel plant workings and was with the party at the train when he became suddenly faint. He was talking to J. O. Johnson, a grocer, and Andrew Myles, when he toppled over into their arms without warning. He passed away on the spot in less than two minutes. Dr. I. T. Burnside, who was a member of the party, was hurriedly summoned but before he reached the side of Mr. Patterson he was beyond all mortal aid.

Dr. Burnside said that Mr. Patterson should never have attempted to make the trip, stating that it was a trying one for a healthy person and very risky for one who was recovering from a recent operation or not in the best of health.

The body was carried into a nearby building and thence transferred to the train which was waiting on the siding a short distance away. Friends of Mr. Patterson in the central part of the city were notified of his sudden death and when the train pulled into the Union station arrangements had been made for caring for the body, which was removed to the Stewart morgue on Third avenue west. Relatives were notified and the funeral arrangements are pending word from them. His brother, Henry S. Patterson, is at present in California for the benefit of his health. For many years Mr. Patterson made his home at 124 Fourth avenue west. His widow and two brothers, Henry of this city, and Alex of Fifield, Wis., survive him.

Pioneer of City.

Mr. Patterson was one of the well known residents of Duluth for thirty years. Until his accident of a year ago he was active in the political and social life of the city, and played an important part in the upbuilding of the city. Hundreds of friends from one end of the city to the other and many on the ranges were deeply shocked to learn of his sudden and unexpected death.

For eight years Mr. Patterson served as a county commissioner from the First district, which includes the central part of the city. Part of that time he was president of the board of commissioners. Previous to that he served for many years as deputy collector of customs in this port. In earlier years he was a railroad man and for a number of years was in charge of the local freight department of the Northern Pacific.

SHADE TREES HURT BY COTTON MOTHS.

Fargo, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Entomologist Waldron announces that shade trees in Fargo and other points in North Dakota have been greatly damaged by coton maple moths during the past two years and he urges the prompt use of a spray for the protection of the trees. The spray is made by mixing in proportion one-fourth of a pound of finely chipped hard soap with a quart of hot water. After cooling add one gallon of kerosene, stir to a creamy mass and let set for some time, then by adding water in proportion of five to one, apply as a spray with a force pump. He urges the application the latter part of this month or the first of May.

CHINESE GENERAL ONE OF STUDENTS

New York, April 11.—Columbia university has the unique distinction of numbering among its students a brigadier general of the Chinese army. He is Chinfu Wang-Shia, one of the heroes of the battle of Nanking, who has just arrived in New York and matriculated for the degree of doctor of philosophy in the faculty of political science at Columbia.

When Gen. Li Yuan-Hung was fighting around the Hanyang arsenal and Wuchang, the revolutionists marched on Nanking, the ancient capital of China, Chinfu Wang-Shia became one of the leaders, and in the preliminary fighting he personally led 10,000 men up Purple mountain and succeeded in capturing the forts at the summit. This victory gave the rebels the key to Nanking, and the siege of the town thereafter was an easy matter.

In the charge Col. Wang-Shia had two horses shot under him, and finally he fell from his horse with a splinter of cannon ball in his right leg. As a result of this he had to stay two months in the hospital, and he still has a perceptible limp. For bravery and gallantry in action Col. Wang-Shia was promoted to brigadier general, and was carried in triumph to Nanking with Gen. Shu Shao Tseng, the commander-in-chief, when the city surrendered. This was the last and most decisive battle in the Chinese revolution. Later he became a division commander in the projected march against Pekin, but peace negotiations then intervened.

Desiring to become better acquainted with Western political philosophy (he had only a second-hand knowledge of that in Japan) he came to America, because he thought that inasmuch as the Chinese constitution was to be modeled after that of the United States, a thorough training in American political methods would help him. He selected Columbia university because its faculty of political science was famous throughout China. He is now studying constitutional and administrative law with Prof. Frank Johnson Goodnow, whose appointment as constitutional and legal adviser to the Chinese government was recently gazetted.

PEEK-A-BOOS BARRED.

Cannot Be Worn By Vassar Girls on Streets.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 11.—Vassar college has put a ban on the wearing of "peek-a-boo" waists in the streets, but raised the dictum against the "movies."

Airy frocks and evening gowns may be worn on the campus or at social functions, but simple tailor-made suits are the rule for the street.

The students returning from their Easter vacation were somewhat dismayed when informed of the new ruling, but the lifting of the ban on picture shows had a soothing effect.

The faculty decided several weeks ago that the "movies" habit impaired the scholastic attainments of some of the young women—and all the students were forbidden to attend.

German distillers produced nearly 4,000,000 gallons of pure alcohol during the nine months ending with June, the smallest quantity for several years.

MR. A. B. ACKERMAN, 73 YRS. OLD

Prominent man of Barberton, O., general manager of the local Humane Society, cannot praise Duffy's enough as a medicine to keep the old healthy, active and in good spirits.

"I think and know that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the thing, especially for old people. I know its worth. I keep it in my house all the time and would not be without it, as I think it a God's blessing. I am 73 and healthy and hearty. You wouldn't think me over sixty, perhaps not that old. I am a veteran of the Civil War. I have been in the Humane Society for the past ten years and expect to remain ten years more if I live that long. By the help of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey this should be easy."—A. B. Ackerman, Barberton, Ohio.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

Mr. Ackerman's experience is similar to that of thousands of men and women who have been brought back to a state of health and vigor by using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as directed. Many learn its great medicinal value first from their own family doctors. Others read the testimonials of those who are so grateful to Duffy's that they wish to aid fellow sufferers by writing of their good fortune in using this pure malt whiskey.

"Be sure you get Duffy's—It's reliable."

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by most druggists, grocers and dealers, at $1.00 a large bottle. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a valuable illustrated medical booklet on request.

OUT OF THE FAR NORTH

Three Persons Paying First Visit to Civilization in Years.

Astounded at Many Wonders But Go Back Without Regrets.

Ottawa, Ont., April 11.—To spend thirteen years in the Far North of Canada, completely isolated from civilization and its wonders, then to be granted a year's furlough and visit the world's largest city, seeing the automobile, the aeroplane, the submarine, wireless telegraph and other creations of science undreamed of or in their infancy when last he mingled with civilization—such is the unique experience of Christopher Harding, Hudson Bay company factor of the Great Slave lake and Michigan river district, in charge of that historic fur company's posts in a vast extent of territory away up at the top of Canada, who is in the Canadian capital on his way back to his home in the wilderness.

When Harding reaches Fort MacPherson, the most northerly Hudson Bay company trading post, where he expects to arrive in July, he will have completed a year of travel and wonderment at the strides of science, for it was in July of last year that he received the official document from headquarters in London containing news of the reward of his faithful services, in the form of a year's holiday as the company's guest.

Fort MacPherson is near the mouth of the great Mackenzie river, within the Arctic circle, between 67 and 69 deg. north latitude. A journey of more than 1,000 miles by canoe and portage, up the Mackenzie river, Great Slave lake, Slave river and Athabasca river brought him and his wife, a former Winnipeg girl, to Athabasca Landing, whence they proceeded overland to Edmonton, Alta. Edmonton was the first city they had seen in thirteen years.

Will Take Back Bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding were accompanied by Fred Gaudet, an employe of the company who had not been "outside" in twenty-eight years. Gaudet traveled only as far as Quebec, his boyhood home, where he has spent several months, and will take North with him a pretty French-Canadian girl as his bride.

At Edmonton the experiences of the party began in earnest. Gaudet saw his first locomotive and the Hardings their first automobile. Neither knows which was the most awe-struck, but perhaps it was Gaudet, who stared wide-eyed at the iron horse. "Well, that beats a dog train, doesn't it!" he gasped. The Hardings chartered an automobile and spent a whole day in it. Electric bells, elevators and telephones Gaudet gave a wide berth.

At Winnipeg the two men visited the Hudson Bay offices and drew their savings of years, or what portion they wanted. Money is a useless commodity in the far northern fur country; indeed, it is rarely seen there, the Indians being paid in supplies for the furs they turn in. Some Hudson Bay officials have small fortunes awaiting them when they get out where money is useful.

The Hardings came east and sailed for England late in November last and remained there until a few weeks ago, crowding into less than four months the delights of a civilization from which they had been cut off for more than a dozen years. Mr. Harding is of middle age and save for his bronzed face bears more the appearance of a comfortable, contented man of business than one accustomed to Arctic rigors. He was, strangely enough, born in India and reared in England, at the village of Wimbledon, near London. He is well educated and has kept in touch with the world's doings through the medium of newspapers six months to a year old when delivered at his post by the Canadian government's northern mail couriers.

Stranger in Boyhood Town.

"One of the first things I did on reaching England," he said, "was to hie myself to my boyhood home. But alas, the faces of the school chums whom I expected to surprise were missing. I found not one I knew and it almost broke my heart to realize that I was a stranger in the place. Like myself, I suppose, they had emigrated to the ends of the earth. It is twenty-three years since I left Wimbledon and came to Canada. I have been eighteen years in the north, most of that time in the service of the Hudson Bay company.

"Is it lonesome 'way up there? Well, perhaps you would think so, but the north is home to me now and I am glad to be getting back to it. I have had enough of civilization to satisfy me for many more years, and God alone knows when or whether I shall ever see it again. But I am not worrying about that. Speaking of loneliness, in all my life I never felt so lonely as when a few months ago I stood for an hour on London bridge and watched perhaps hundreds of thousands of people hurrying by. Never in the depths of the wilderness did I feel so much alone as when in that vast throng I realized that there was not a soul who knew or cared about me. That was real loneliness.

London's millions, its traffic, the tubes, the suffragettes and the aeroplans are wonderful sights to a man from the solitudes of the fur country, but the call of the north was always strong within me and I shall not pine for them.

At Hudson Bay Headquarters.

"I, of course, spent a good deal of time at Hudson Bay headquarters, where the original charter of the company still hangs on the quaint old walls and the minutes of the meetings back to the first one in 1670 are preserved, with the signatures of former governors or directors, including such celebrated Englishmen as Prince Rupert and the duke of Marlborough.

"Lord Strathcona, Canadian high commissioner in London, is the present head of the company, but owing to his advanced age rarely visits headquarters. It is, I am told, two years since he has been there, yet such is the methodical system in vogue that regularly every morning his private office is made ready for him, the grate fire lighted, inkstand and papers placed on his desk and the calendar altered—just as if he were expected to enter at the next moment. And indeed he might, at that."

Reverting to the life of a Hudson Bay company official in the fur country, Mr. Harding told in modest language of the hardships experienced in Canada's outposts, far beyond the haunts of the white man. The dog train in winter and canoe in summer are practically the only means of transportation, and the company breeds its own huskies. These dogs can haul a heavy load of supplies over an incredible distance at a good pace.

Mails reach Fort MacPherson only twice a year. News of the Titanic disaster last April did not reach them until just before Harding started out in July. He did not learn the result of the Canadian general election and the Laurier government's overthrow on the reciprocity issue until March, though it had occurred in the preceding September. The arrival of the mails must be quite an event in the north.

Temperatures in the fur country run to extremes known perhaps nowhere else in the world. Summer is very brief, but 100 deg. of heat in some districts not quite as far north as Fort MacPherson is not unknown. Fifty below is quite common during the long winter; 68 below is the lowest Mr. Harding ever saw it recorded.

Food Problem Serious.

"The food problem is always a serious one with us," Harding went on. "We have to be careful that our supplies coming in by water late in the summer season are not nipped in the ice through the setting in of winter. Were we cut off in this way I hate to think of what would happen.

"The ice on lakes and rivers freezes often to a depth of eight feet. We have to chisel through this to get food for our dogs and ourselves, and it is no simple task."

Mr. Harding and his wife, a few assistants, an aged missionary and some mounted police are the only white people in the district. But the Indian trappers are a peaceful people and return the kindness of their paleface brothers. It was in this country that the mounted police party perished a few years ago while on the way out overland to attend the coronation of King George.

According to Mr. Harding, the beaver is becoming scarce in the north, not that it is being exterminated, however. It fights shy of man and moves back as he advances into its haunts. All of the other fur-bearing animals indigenous to the country are becoming more numerous year by year, in spite of the operations of the trading companies. The country is too vast, he says, for the handful of Indians to make any serious inroads on the game.

Besides English, Mr. Harding speaks fluently in Hindoostani and Chipewyan, the latter the language of the Indians of his district.

HOW TO REFORM DRINKING MEN

Send Them to the Superior Neal Institute for Three Days.

Reforming drinking men is not accomplished by fines or imprisonment. When the craving for liquor becomes stronger than the will-power, have him take the Neal Treatment. In three days all appetite, craving and physical necessity for alcoholic stimulants will be gone, and he will not drink nor want to drink.

The Neal Treatment is a harmless, vegetable remedy always administered internally—no hypodermic injection—which will never fail to give satisfactory results. DAMAGE BY WILD DUCKS AND GEESE.

Merino, Colo., April 11.—Ducks and geese are so numerous about Merino that they are a decided nuisance to the farmers. They are infesting this region by the thousands, and are doing considerable damage to grain and other feed.

The open season on these birds expired the first of the month, during which time hunters were in their glory and farmers were able to keep the birds sufficiently disturbed to prevent the damage now taking place.

They are attracted here by the several pools of water which have formed as a result of the seepage from the reservoir and the adjacent feed in the farmers' fields. They are on their spring flight northward and find this an attractive resting place on their long journey.

Before the expiration of the open season great inroads were made on the flocks and high feasts were being held in Merino and vicinity.

SELLS OIL LAND AND MAKES A MILLION.

Tulsa, Okla., April 11.—One of the rapid rises to wealth in the Oklahoma oil fields is that of Judge Charles J. Wrightsman, formerly a United States commissioner, who has disposed of his holdings in the Cushing field, southeast of Tulsa, to the Prairie Oil & Gas company for, it is declared, more than $1,000,000.

Wrightsman was one of the first to enter the Cushing field, which was discovered a year ago. His company has had phenomenal luck, and when sold had an area of 4,000 acres, 2,000 barrels daily production of oil and 70,000,000 cubic feet daily production of gas.

ARE SEARCHING FOR CAPT. KIDD'S GOLD.

Bayonne, N. J., April 11.—Hundreds of men, women and boys, armed with picks, shovels and axes, attacked the ruins of the century-old Van Buskirk house, on First street, in search of treasure which tradition says was buried there by the notorious Capt. Kidd. The Van Buskirk property was bought recently by the Oil Seeds company, which intends to erect a large factory on the site.

Rumors of buried treasure on the property have long been persistent, and when the workmen tore down the walls there was a scramble that resembled a mining camp and gold rush. The people delved among the ruins and tore up the foundations. Not a gem or ancient Spanish coin was brought to light and the tradition of buried wealth was exploded.

RED-GOWNED GIRL CHASED BY A COW.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 11.—A snorting Jersey cow, with flying tail and horns down, chased a red-gowned society girl down the mezzanine floor of the Alexandria hotel into the main salon and caused a panic among guests at a barnyard dance in the ballroom.

Richly dressed women and men in evening clothes scurried to safety.

Bossy finally was captured by Paul Rowan, a former football player, who, remembering the college neck hold, brought the cow to her knees and later led her back to the barn.

The barnyard dance was a huge success for a time. Bossy was in her barn, pigs were in their sty, geese, ducks and chickens were in the barnyard and horses were eating alfalfa. All was peaceful until the young woman in red tried to pat Bossy on the nose.

TO TEACH CHICKEN RAISING IN SCHOOLS.

Ogden, Utah, April 11.—For the furthering of industrial education among the students of the city schools, the board of education has expressed a willingness to purchase an incubator for the Quincy school, so that the pupils may receive instructions in the raising of chickens.

Principal G. C. Hobson would supervise the work of the students in the poultry business. It is his plan to have each class supply a number of eggs so that the whole school may be interested and the process of hatching and raising chickens will be fully taught and demonstrated by means of the hatching device. The incubator will be purchased at once.

TO PROPERTY OWNERS AND TAXPAYERS:

COMPARISON UNDER ACTUAL USE PROVES BITULITHIC SUPERIORITY

The difference in wearing quality in actual use, between bitulithic composed of a mixture of large and small sized stone particles properly graded, and the so-called bituminous concrete, composed of a mixture of fine articles, all less than half an inch is shown very clearly by the following facts.

Bitulithic pavement was laid on Wisconsin street in Milwaukee in 1905, and is in excellent condition as shown by the following letter:

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 25, 1911.

Warren Bros. Co., 59 Temple Place, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:—My reply to your inquiry has been delayed as I have been out of the city more or less of late.

While a member of the Board of Public Works, it was my pleasure and duty to watch your Bitulithic Pavement and the manner of the stability and service, and upon close examination and observation I find that this pavement has given very good satisfaction. It has been placed on various streets and different grades subject to a variety of kinds of traffic, on streets with and without street cars. As far as my observation goes, it has given very good results and property owners and officials all seem to be well satisfied with the results. THIS PAVEMENT SEEMS TO HAVE SOME INDIVIDUAL GOOD QUALITIES THAT OTHER KINDS OF SIMILAR PAVEMENTS DO NOT POSSESS.

Respectfully yours,
J. P. SHERER,
Ex-Commissioner Board of Public Works.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 25, 1913.

To Whom It May Concern:

I, the undersigned, do hereby re-affirm the contents of the letter by me written in 1911, with reference to the bitulithic paving on Wisconsin street, in the city of Milwaukee, said letter being addressed to Warren Brothers Company, Boston, Mass.

J. P. SHERER,

Various streets in Milwaukee were paved in the fall of 1911 with a construction similar to that required by the Duluth bituminous concrete specifications. Note the following telegram showing the positive failure of bituminous concrete in Milwaukee:

COPY OF LETTERGRAM.

"January 25, 1913.

"F. N. Tyngham, Merchants' Trust Building, Portland, Or.

"Considerable asphalt concrete pavement laid here under Mullen specifications, based on Topeka specifications, with small stone mixture, was extensively repaired within a year after laid and much of it will soon require entire resurfacing especially on car track and heavy traffic streets. (Signed)

"F. G. SIMMONS,
"Commissioner of Public Works."

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR BITULITHIC AT HIGHER PRICES

At Virginia, Minn., in 1910, bids were received for a large area of streets. Bitulithic was bid at $2.50 per square yard and Donnellite (bituminous concrete) at $2.20 per square yard. Extravagant claims were made that Donnellite was the "same as" and equally "as good as" bitulithic, but after a thorough investigation at cities where both had been used the Donnellite bid was discarded and the bitulithic bid accepted, notwithstanding it was about $8,000 higher. In the course of the investigation inquiry was made at Grand Forks, N. D., where bitulithic had been contracted for when Donnellite was offered at about the same difference in price as existed at Virginia, and where Donnellite had been in use for several years.

Note the following telegrams:

Grand Forks, N. D., June 12, 1910.

"O. P. Johnson, Virginia, Minn.

"Donnellite and Bitulithic are similar pavements but there is considerable difference in binder used and in method of grading materials and mixing.

"(Signed) H. G. LYKKEN, City Engineer."

"Grand Forks, N. D., June 14, 1910.

"O. P. Johnson, Virginia, Minn.

"I consider bitulithic and Donnellite different pavements with construction methods favoring bitulithic.

"(Signed) M. C. BACHELLER,
"Secy. No. Dak. State Fair."

At Fargo, N. D., early in 1912, the so-called bituminous concrete construction and bitulithic were in the competition with other materials, and contract was awarded for bituminous concrete at a ridiculously low price. At a letting immediately following, the property owners in another district, after thorough investigation of both pavements, presented to the Council a petition representing two-thirds of the frontage in this district ASKING FOR BITULITHIC AT 48 CENTS PER SQUARE YARD HIGHER THAN THE PRICE BID FOR BITUMINOUS CONCRETE, AND CONTRACT WAS AWARDED FOR OVER 30,000 SQUARE YARDS OF BITULITHIC.

Later bids were asked for another district and the property owners by AN ALMOST UNANIMOUS PETITION ASKED FOR BITULITHIC AT 38 CENTS PER SQUARE YARD HIGHER THAN THE PRICE BID FOR BITUMINOUS CONCRETE, AND THEIR PETITION WAS GRANTED BY THE COUNCIL.

The latter instance is peculiarly significant, because at the time the petition was circulated both forms of pavement had been constructed in Fargo to a considerable area, so that the property owners had been able to compare the pavements and recognized the superiority of bitulithic, and that it was worth the large difference in price.

That this selection of the higher priced bitulithic was wise is proven by the fact that the bituminous concrete pavement, completed in Fargo last fall has developed large cracks and fissures, and the surface is wearing off.

Knowing that in 1911 Grand Forks had advertised for bids under bituminous concrete specifications similar to those used at Fargo (which were similar to the Duluth specifications), and that Grand Forks had in use bitulithic, Donnellite and a pavement constructed in 1911 under the bituminous concrete specifications, Messrs. J. D. Smith and E. C. Eddy, Fargo property owners, telegraphed to H. G. Lykken, city engineer, Grand Forks, "Can you recommend construction under Fargo bituminous concrete specifications?"

Read Mr. Lykken's replies:

Grand Forks, N. D., March 13, 1912.

"J. D. Smith, Fargo, N. D.

"We used similar specifications in Grand Forks last year but used sixty per cent of stone from one inch down. I insist on a graded aggregate from one inch down.

"H. G. LYKKEN."

"Grand Forks, N D., March 13, 1912."

"E. C. Eddy, Fargo, N. D.

"Largest stone in Grand Forks asphalt concrete pass one-inch ring. Also sixty per cent stone used. No pavement similar to Fargo specifications laid here although our specification last year was similar. Can not recommend such pavement if specifications are followed. Fifty to sixty per cent stone above ten mesh is necessary. (Signed)

"H. G. LYKKEN, City Engineer."

The telegrams show conclusively that practical experience demonstrated to Mr. Lykken the superiority of the large stone construction used in bitulithic, and that he changed from the fine mixture specified for bituminous concrete for that reason. The present condition of the Donnellite (bituminous concrete pavement) in Grand Forks proves that to purchase the substitute for bitulithic is an absolute waste of money.

Investigation at Winnipeg, Man.; Nanaimo, B. C.; Springfield, Ore.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Fargo, N. D., and we believe at practically every point where the so-called "bituminous concrete" has been constructed under specifications similar to the Duluth specifications, will show that this form of construction is not durable or satisfactory to those who pay the bills, i. e., the property owner on the street.

Very truly yours,
WARREN BROTHERS COMPANY,
Frank G. Cutter, Assistant to President.

MOST SICKNESS COMES FROM WEAK, INACTIVE KIDNEYS

There are scores of nervous, tired, run-down people throughout the city, suffering with pains in the back and sides, dizzy spells, weaknesses of the bladder (frequently causing annoyance at night), who fail to realize the seriousness of thier troubles until such conditions as chronic rheumatism, bladder troubles, dropsy, diabetes or even Bright's disease result.

All this is due to weak, inactive kidneys. The kidneys are the filterers of the blood, and no one can be well and healthy unless the kidneys work properly. It is even more important than that the bowels move regularly.

If you suffer with such symptoms don't neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications. Secure an original package of the new discovery, Croxone, which costs but a trifle, and commence its use at once. When you have taken a few doses, you will be surprised how differently you will feel.

Croxone cures the worst cases of kidney, bladder trouble, and rheumatism, because it removes the cause. It cleans out the kidneys, and makes them filter out all the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the bladder, and quickly relieves you of all your misery.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, it is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

CONDITIONS OF RURAL LIFE

Social and Economic Survey of Prosperous Township in Southern Minnesota---Conclusions Reached By University Bureau of Research.

Minnesota University Farm, April 11.—During the past summer the bureau of research in agricultural economics of the University of Minnesota has made a social and economic survey of one of the more prosperous rural townships in Southern Minnesota. The result of this study is about to appear from the press in the form of a seventy-five page monograph including twenty-eight diagrams and nineteen photographs. This is the first time that so extensive a study has ever been undertaken of this kind. Important chapters on conditions of work, marketing, roads, farmers' organizations, educational, religious and civic activities are set forth as reflected in first-hand information gathered in this rural township. Some idea of the specific topics dealt with and conclusions reached may be gained from the summary which appears at the close of the monograph under the title "Brief Comments:"

Labor and Its Scarcity.

1. Machinery has decreased the amount of labor required by farmers, but a changed type of farming has made for additional work which can not be reduced to machine process.

2. A "painstaking dependable class of labor" is required to carry on successful farming as advocated by agricultural experts.

3. "The right kind of farm labor is getting scarce and increasingly difficult to get."

4. The cause of this scarcity is that foreign labor is no longer coming in to replace the native sons who "get some schooling and then try their luck in the city or go where land is cheaper."

5. The "floating hobo labor" will not tie themselves up for steady farm work the year around. Hence the "hired help problem is the big farm problem."

6. Less than 50 per cent of the farmers read their farm papers; but there is a growth of opinion that "it is well to keep up with the times, in farming as well as other things."

7. Many farmers regard it unfair where they are charged prices high enough to maintain a city delivery service from which they derive no benefit.

8. Some farmers would like to be shown that the country merchants can furnish an economic service equivalent to what they get from catalogue houses.

9. A large number of farmers say they are especially interested in the daily papers because of what they learn from the marketing page.

10. Many influential farmers feel that they are helpless in matters of marketing unless the advantages of organization are extended beyond the local units.

Growth In Co-operation.

11. Occasional failures or mistakes among farmers have tended to create a feeling of distrust regarding the efficacy of co-operation. This difference has not been sufficient, however, to prevent a steady growth in farmers' organizations.

12. Politically, farmers are less active than they were a generation ago. Generally they feel that politics are outside of their domain and that it is futile for farmers to concern themselves about affairs of state.

13. Farmers generally read their local papers but believe an important service would be added if more attention were given to issues vital to themselves.

14. Each year the farmers of the township could construct one mile of permanent road-bed, well drained and gravelled, for the amount of money they now distribute over the township, if taxes were used according to plans of the state highway engineer.

15. Those farmers who oppose centralized control of road improvement fear that outlying roads will be neglected for the benefit of a few main roads of a special interest to automobilists.

16. The farmers do not feel satisfied with what the country schools have accomplished.

17. The church membership of the township is 30 per cent higher than that of the state, but the younger generations are breaking church connections. Farmers maintain that "present-day conditions on the farm make it too hard to get to church or anywhere else."

18. The increase of livestock has tended to decrease social activities in the country.

Decreased Sociability.

19. Different standards of living among the farmers have divided neighborhods, and tended to decrease sociability.

20. There are six homes in the township with complete modern heating and plumbing equipment.

21. The farmers' wives are not as anxious to leave the farm as their husbands. Twenty-nine per cent of the men want to go to town to live as soon as they can afford to do so; only 13 per cent of the wives had the same desire.

22. With the youth it is different; the girls leave the farm more than the boys. Seventy-eight per cent of the sons over 21 years of age of present heads of families are now farming, while only 47 per cent of the daughters are living on a farm.

23. The causes for the outflow of youth are the same as the causes for the "hired help problem," and "the tenancy problem." They are social causes.

24. Farmers say that "the only way to improve country life is to make it return bigger profits—big money returns are needed, not only big crops."

DIVORCE DID NOT CONCLUDE TROUBLES.

Regent, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Soren Myhre's marital and other troubles did not end when his wife secured a divorce. The decree provided that each should have the property which they owned prior to their marriage. Mrs. Myhre had a claim. This was mortgaged after their marriage to purchase a pair of horses and when her former husband sold the horses Mrs. Myhre decided as her place had been mortgaged to secure them, she was entitled to the animals. Her brother first went after the purchaser and endeavored to secure the horses by the revolver route. He failed, but his sister was more successful and won in a civil action and now has the team.

STILL POWER IN OLD JONAH

Whale Story Stirs Up the Feelings of Methodist Preachers.

Heated Debate on Exactness of Narrative in the Bible.

New York, April 11.—The old question whether the whale swallowed Jonah intruded itself surreptitiously into a meeting of Methodist clergymen, and for a few minutes the ancient query proved that it still had vitality enough to provoke a lively row.

The conference, which was attended by more than 200 clergymen, was immediately divided into hostile and rival camps of pro-Jonah and anti-Jonah men. The pro-Jonah men insisted that if you were to repudiate the Jonah story you might as easily repudiate the Biblical story of the resurrection and the miracles. To keep the Bible from general mutilation, they insisted that the Jonah story would have to be accepted in all its literalness.

The anti-Jonah men, on the other hand, insisted that the story was clearly proof that even in Biblical days some men had a sense of humor and took a keen delight in fish stories.

The Rev. A. Stockdale of Asbury Park, who summed up the case for the anti-Jonah men, after two advocates of the literal version of the Jonah story had quit the meeting in anger, explained why it was hard to use the strict Biblical interpretation.

"Fine Fish Story."

"In my Sunday school at Asbury Park," he said, "I told them the Jonah story just as a test. The children listened attentively and then one 10-year-old boy put up his hand. 'Teacher,' he said, 'that's a mighty fine fish story, but it's a lie.'

This applause that greeted the Rev. Mr. Stockdale was interspersed with a few cries of "No, no!" These came from the group known as the old Bible friends.

Of this group the Rev. Jay Benson Hamilton, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, was the chief spokesman. The stated purpose of the meeting was to permit a general discussion of the question, "Shall the Bible be Mutilated?" Those who chiefly wished to participate in the discussion were members of the group known as the old Bible friends, who had taken issue with criticisms of the Bible recently published in Methodist magazines and books meant for use by members of the church.

One of these books, published by Dr. George P. Mains, publishing agent of the Methodist Book Concern, had particularly offended some of the more conservative church members. A defense of his book made by Dr. Mains, at which time discussion from the opposition was not permitted, led to the demand for opposition hearing. It was the intention of several members of the opposition besides Dr. Hamilton, to speak against the tendency to take the Bible less literally than in former times. But the intrusion of the Jonah question and the rapidfire debate which followed it on the part of two editors of Methodist publications, who arose to defend the editorial policies, consumed the entire time set apart for the meeting and the luncheon period as well. The final adjournment was somewhat in the nature of a hunger strike against further controversy.

Dr. Hamilton spoke from a carefully prepared manuscript upon the serious necessity to consider the Bible as an inspired work and to include even the English translation in the inspired conception. When clergymen took this view, he said, it left no question whatever open for the advocates of higher criticism.

Felt Himself Attacked.

John T. McFarland, editor of the Methodist Sunday School magazine, felt himself attacked in what Dr. Hamilton had said, and he rose from the floor to reply. In rather heated terms he stated that the policy of the Sunday School Magazine was to give the young people of the church access to the results of criticisms of the Bible. He said it was the policy to do this so far as possible without giving offense to the believers in the literal accuracy of every statement in the Bible. Mr. McFarland broached the question of an editor's duty in the face of the Jonah story. James M. Buckley, former editor of the Christian Advocate, and David G. Downey, book editor of the Methodist Publishing Concern, supported the Sunday School Magazine editor.

Reporters who had remained outside during the first part of the meeting, on the understanding that it was to be secret, saw the door suddenly fly open and two clergymen issue forth. They were asked what it was all about.

"The less said the better," one of them remarked. "They are throwing Christian brotherhood to the winds and attacking each other without charity and without fairness to each other's views. If I were not a Christian a meeting like this would not make me one. I have had all I can stand, and I am going away."

Both of the clergymen refused to give their names.

While it was the understanding of many of those present that reporters were to be excluded, clergymen near the main door beckoned to the reporters to come in when the passages between speakers as to Jonah were flying about most thickly.

CHILD OFFERS HER SHOES TO REFUGEES.

Wheeling, W. Va., April 11.—A child, who gave her name as Phoebe Evans, and who said she was 4 years old, walked into flood relief headquarters here and asked those in charge to take off her shoes "and give them to some little girl who did not have any."

"My mommer said lots of little girlies just like me didn't have any shoes these cold nights because the water carried them away. And she said the little girlies didn't have any place to sleep, either, because their mommers' homes were washed away in the water. I wish I could give them homes, too.

"I asked mommer where the little girlies would get shoes, and she said the good, kind people were giving them the shoes that their children could spare. When mommer told me that I come over here, and I want you to take my shoes and send them to some other little girlie and tell her I have another pair at home as good as these, so I won't have to go barefoot like she is now."

When the little Samaritan was told by those in charge that they could not take the shoes off her feet; that the little flood sufferers would not want them to do that, the child walked out sorrowfully.

LAW VIOLATORS ARE FACING TROUBLE.

Fargo, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pure Food Commissioner Ladd and the violators of the law regulating the shipment of alcoholic beverages into North Dakota are due for a clash. The commissioner avers that some manufacturers fail to use the North Dakota serial number, others neglect to state the contents either in the label or the container, others fail to use the real name of the shipper and manufacturer, and still others sometimes ship unregistered goods. The commissioner insists these infractions are in violation of the Webb act and he will prosecute under the Federal laws.

CROOKSTON PAVING WAR.

Court Proceedings Are Threatened Over Council's Action.

Crookston, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A local paving war is imminent. The North Broadway residents petitioned for paving, most of them uniting on Dolarway. The council has heard some bad reports on that paving, and decided to advertise for bids on a solid concrete foundation and different kinds of bituminous surfacing. Now the Dolarway people are preparing to go into court and now the entire question is up in the air.

BOAT LINE SETTLES.

Pays North Dakotan for Injuries Received at Steamer Docks.

Fargo, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamship company which owned the boat on the Panama trips paid Frank H. Dickinson of Ayr, Cass county, $5,000 for injuries received when its boat struck the dock so hard Dickinson was thrown over the rail onto the wharf. He had started suit for damages and the settlement was a compromise.

Capt. Whitney Better.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—Capt. Charles C. Whitney of Marshall, Minn., pioneer publisher and newspaper man, who has been at the woman's building at the Soldiers' Home suffering from a complication of diseases, is much improved in health, and friends expect he will be taken to his home at Marshall as soon as the weather becomes warm. Mr. Whitney is 66 years old and has been connected with Minnesota politics since 1880, holding many state positions.

BANK EXCHANGES SHOW A DECREASE.

New York, April 11.—Dun's review tomorrow will say: Bank exchanges this week at all leading cities in the United States aggregate $2,695,439,858, a decrease of 5 per cent as compared with the same week last year. The loss is mainly due to the sharp falling off at New York, that city reporting a contraction of 11.2 per cent, which to a large extent probably can be accounted for by the smaller volume of operations on the stock and other speculative markets. The total of the cities outside of the leading center makes a fairly satisfactory exhibit, with an increase of 7.7 per cent over 1912.

NATIONAL LECTURER ON THEOSOPHY TO ADDRESS SEVERAL MEETINGS HERE

A free public lecture on "Do We Live On Earth Again," by David S. M. Unger of Chicago, national lecturer for the American section of the Theosopical society, will be given in the Unitarian church, Eighteenth avenue east and First street, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Unger is widely known on the lecture platform as a popular exponent of theosophy. He has given many years of study and investigation to occult teaching.

Through his lecture on "The Coming Christ" he won distinction as a lecturer.

He will speak to members of the Order of the Star in the East Monday morning at 11 o'clock, and Monday afternoon at 2:30 he will give a lecture to theosophists and their friends in the Theosophical society rooms.

While in Duluth Mr. Unger is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Erd, 202 South Nineteenth avenue east.

The program for theosophical activities during the visit of Mr. Unger to Duluth, Sunday and Monday, follows:

Sunday, 3 p. m., meeting for members only at the lodge room.

Sunday, 8 p. m., public lecture at the Unitarian church on "Do We Live On Earth Again."

Monday, 9:30 a. m., meeting for E. S. members only at lodge room.

Monday, 10:30 a. m., meeting of the Order of the Star in the East, for members only.

Monday, 2:30 p. m., meting at the lodge room, 310 West First street, for members and friends.

That the most important business of life is to learn to recognize what is real, immortal and eternal was the leading thought brought out at last evening's meeting of the Theosophical society in the society's lodge room. The subject of discussion was "Discrimination; the First of Four Qualifications for Discipleship."

It was agreed that in all the world there are only two kinds of people, those who know and those who do not know; and this knowledge is the thing which matters. Men who do not know, work to gain wealth and power, but these are at the most for one life only and therefore belong to the unreal. The real is that which is immortal, eternal; and it is this knowledge of God's plan for the evolution of humanity that is important. This is called discrimination between the real and the unreal, and is the first step on the path of discipleship which leads man out of human evolution and into superhuman evolution and finally to the union with the divine.

WANT HOME IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY

Members of Vasa Order Pick Location for Institution for Aged.

Efforts are to be made by Swedish residents of St. Louis county to secure the proposed home for the aged in this county.

This summer the Minnesota district of the Vasa Order will meet at Minneapolis and arrange for the erection of the building somewhere in the state. At the national convention in New York several weeks ago the state district was given permission to erect a home.

As the subject was first broached by Duluth members of the Vasa Order, local residents are of the belief that the home should be erected in St. Louis county. An active campaign is to beconducted this spring and summer and the influence of Swedish residents throughout the state will be enlisted.

It is planned by the local Vasa members to purchase about ten acres of land along the St. Louis river, which would cost in the neighborhood of $5,000. About $40,000 would be spent in erecting the building and about $5,000 for furnishings. In all it is believed that $50,000 will be necessary to carry through this project.

Cantata Repeated.

The choir of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, repeated the Easter cantata, "Light Out of Darkness," last evening upon the request of many residents throughout the city who were unable to hear it Easter Sunday evening. A. O. Anderson directed the chorus last evening. The soloists were Miss Millie Olson, Miss Nora Otterson, H. O. Hanson and John E. Jensen. There were sixty-five voices in the chorus.

ONEOTA DISTRICT WANTS FIRE HALL.

The Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club will next week petition the new city commissioners for a fire hall in that section of the city.

The matter has been discussed before but no action has ever been taken by the fire commissioners or city council. It is the belief of the members that the new commission will consider the matter and that the building will be erected some time this year.

That this end of the city is in need of a fire hall is apparent, according to the members of the club behind the campaign, who claim that there is no fire hall at all between the No. 2 and No. 8 stations. The former is at Nineteenth avenue west and the latter at Central avenue in West Duluth. They are nearly three miles apart.

Joseph Gibson, president of the club and former alderman, is behind the project with the members.

LIBRARY IS POPULAR.

Report of West End Branch for March Shows Growth.

Continuing in growth since established in the Mohaupt block about three months, the West end library branch had another successful month during March.

During the past month, according to the librarian, the total circulation reached nearly 2,500, with a daily average of 135. The attendance each day averaged 150. This is an exceptional record for the local institution, according to the records of the past few years.

An interesting feature of the report this month is the total fiction and non-fiction books issued, showing that the adults of the West end are almost entirely partial to the fiction books. The children divide their reading almost equally between the fiction and non-fiction books.

The total number of cards now in circulation at the local branch is 2,300.

SHOULD DIVORCE HIM.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 11.—"Get a divorce from that man," was the unusual instruction yesterday from Municipal Court Judge Backus to Mrs. Angst Tomrell while she stood trembling at the side of her husband, a giant, who frowned upon her.

Tomrell was charged with being the drone of the family, his wife being forced to earn money for a living. "He drinks heavily and I know he will squander my property," said the woman.

Tomrell was given six months in the workhouse.

The author, J. T. Trowbridge, of Arlington, Mass., now is in his eighty-sixth year.

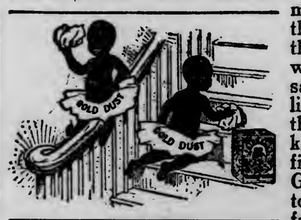

The Gold Dust Twins' Philosophy

THE floors and doors appear to wait until the dust germs congregate; the housewife hails each dawning day with grim and harrowing dismay. Says she: "My work will NEVER end; o'er dusty stretches I must bend, until, with aching back and hands I finish what the day demands."

The "Floor-and-Door-a" Girl

Then Mrs. Jones, one afternoon, dropped in, at time most opportune. An optimist, she knew the wiles of household work—its sighs and smiles. She told of how she polished floors and woodwork and the endless doors, until when Hubby saw them, too, reflections said: "Why, howdy-do!"

"The Gold Dust Twins," said she, "I find, help leave the woes of dust behind. Each mark of sticky hands on doors, each tread of muddy feet on floors, all fade before the slightest touch of Gold Dust, and the work is such that, when the woodwork has been done, I find said work was only fun." This line of reasoning must show that those who've tried it OUGHT to know. If you, in one day's duties, find that there's a Grouch in ev'ry Grind, invite the Gold Dust Twins to share such tasks as tire and fret and wear.

From kitchen floor to bedroom suite, these tireless little chaps make neat, and best of all, the sum expense is measured up in meager cents. They put both dust and dirt to rout and run the last old microbe out.

The Gold Dust Twins

Woman's Realm

With the last meeting of the modern drama class of the Twentieth Century club held this afternoon at the guild hall of Trinity pro-cathedral, the club closed its work for the year. Following the finishing of the reading of Tolstoi's "The Light That Shines in Darkness," under the leadership of Mrs. B. H. Hayes, a social hour was enjoyed by the members in discussing the year's work and plans for next year. A tentative program for this class for next year, arranged by members of the program committee, was presented to the class by Mrs. Robert Spiegel, chairman of the committee, and Mrs. J. C. H. Engel, chairman of that department of the club, was presented with a full set of the plays studied by the modern drama class during the year as a gift from the club. In each book the following inscription was written: "To Mrs. Engel, in loving appreciation of her leadership. 'The lady is very well worthy.'"

During the afternoon Miss Winnifred Hicks played the piano solo, "Soaring," by Schumann and Mrs. R. B. Liggett read Kipling's "Tomlinson."

WESTON-GARDNER.

Former Duluthians Married in California.

The following clipping from the Hemet News from Hemet, Cal., announcing the marriage of Miss Mary Weston, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Weston, formerly of this city, to Nathaniel Gardner of Virginia, Minn., will be of interest to their many friends in this city:

"On Monday evening, March 31, at the home of the bride's parents, on North Juneal Vista street, Nathaniel Gardner of Virginia, Minn., and Miss Mary Weston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Weston, were united in marriage. Before the wedding party arrived Miss Edith Weston, sister of the bride, sang a beautiful solo, 'Oh Promise Me.' At 8 o'clock the bride and groom accompanied by Harry Weston, as best man, appeared in the spacious parlors. Miss Adelaide Clarke played the wedding march and the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. R. Moody, pastor of the First Baptist church.

"The elegant home of the Westons was beautifully decorated for the occasion, orange blossoms and white and yellow daffodils being used in carrying out the color scheme of white and yellow. A large number of the young friends of Miss Weston were present and after the ceremony the guests remained and enjoyed a social evening. Refreshments were served during the evening.

"On Tuesday morning, the happy couple left for a ten days' stay at Los Angeles and beach points, after which they will return to Hemet. After a short stay here, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner will leave for Virginia, Minn., their future home. Miss Weston is an accomplished young lady and has made a host of friends during her short residence in Hemet. Mr. Gardner is a prominent business man, being engaged in the real estate and insurance business."

A luncheon at which Miss Annie Hugo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. MILLIONAIRE'S DAUGHTER MAY WED MEMBER OF GERMAN EMBASSY

GLADYS INGALLS.

It is rumored that Gladys Ingalls, daughter of the railroad millionaire of Cincinnati, M. E. Ingalls, is to marry Herr von Buelow of the German embassy at Washington. This report is the more interesting because the kaiser recently issued an order that diplomats should not marry foreigners. The friends of Herr von Buelow say that he is sufficiently in love with Miss Ingalls to abandon his diplomatic career if the kaiser's edict is enforced in his case.

Cecilian Society Has Open Meeting.

McKindley at the piano, a group of violin solos by Miss Wally Heymar with Miss Margaret Whipple playing her accompaniments and a talk given by Miss Josephine Carey reviewing Parry's "Sphere of Temperament." She spoke of style and study of methods emphasizing the fact that none of the compositions of Beethoven are crude, no matter through what phases of development he was led.

The last meeting for the year which will be held the first Thursday in May will be featured with a request program and at that time a course of study for next year will be presented to the members. Among other plans being discussed is the bringing of Mrs. MacDowell here next season for an illustrated lecture on the writings of her late husband, the eminent American composer.

OBSERVATIONS

Refreshing to See Women With Purpose in Life.

There are so many women whose sole object in living appears to be to look their prettiest and to flit from party to reception, from theater to ball, and to be in the midst of a mad social swirl all the time, that it is refreshing to see a woman now and then who has some more serious purpose in life than that of attaining perfection of attire and cutting a social swath.

I am just old-fashioned enough to adhere to the notion that a woman's first duty is to her home and family, if she has one. I think that it was the divine plan of the Creator that this should be so. Everything in the plan of creation indicates that man was created to make the living and bear the brunt of the battle with the world, while woman was to care for the home and rear the children.

But women have advanced, and nowadays there are few women who do not take an interest in things going on about them outside the home. With many women—the great majority, I fear—society and dress seem to be the chief interest, often to the exclusion or neglect of home duties. With this type of women we are all familiar.

There is also the suffragette—the typical suffragette, I mean, who makes a business of it and often disgusts reasonable people with her extremities.

But there are many other well-balanced, sensible, womanly women who, while placing their homes and families first, still are big enough and broad enough to have other interests. These women are not always married, though many of them are. Just now a conspicuous example of the type to which I refer is found in the family of the new president. Mrs. Wilson and the Misses Wilson are all broad-minded, intelligent, sensible women. Even in their high position as first ladies of the land they are not permitting the social swirl to turn their heads, but are adhering to the same interests they had before. They are, individually and collectively, interested in art and music, and in social settlement and other work calculated to benefit their more unfortunate sisters. They are all keenly alert to good works of every description, and are thoroughly womanly about it, too. Jane Addams is another woman who has a purpose in life, and she has done wonders for her unfortunate sisters.

I believe it is within the power of every good woman to enlist herself in some good cause outside the home, such as the cause of temperance, of better social conditions, the abolition of white slavery and many others. This she can do without compromising her womanliness or neglecting her home and family. I am glad that women are coming to see this nowadays.

MRS. WILSON'S SIMPLICITY IN DRESS

First Lady of the Land Practicing What She Preaches.

That the extreme simplicity which has so far marked President Wilson's social policy is to be carried out in the regime of Mrs. Wilson as first lady of the land, is shown by the dress patterns chosen by Mrs. Wilson and her three daughters for the May issue of Good Dressing, the new fashion magazine issued by George A. Gray company.

Mrs. Wilson believes in purchasing clothes that are not extravagantly priced, and practicing just what she preaches, she does so without any sacrifice of style or quality. Those who have seen the purchases for her new role as mistress of the White House have been astonished of the simple elegance shown as well as the modesty of the prices paid. While her critics were saying, "It could not be done," Mrs. Wilson has done it.

IN THE LAND OF MAHOGANY

The Precious Wood Does Not Command Much Respect at Home.

Harper's Weekly: In the autumn the saws in the mahogany mills of Louisiana go night and day. There are seasons in which only day runs are made, but the busiest time for the mahogany people is in the autumn, when, practically speaking, the mill machinery never ceases operation.

During the day of twenty-four hours sixty thousand feet of lumber, are, it is said, cut in the average mill. Month after month the ships come up through the Gulf, at least twenty cargoes a year coming to anchor beside the gunwale. A great many vessels are devoted to this enterprise, their sole purpose being to get the logs from the tropical ports and bring them to New Orleans, returning for an additional cargo. About ten million feet a year of mahogany comes into New Orleans and is partly "manufactured" in Louisiana.

In Mexico and the states of Central America the contractor pays $5 for a single tree. This is certainly cheap enough. But it is the expense of getting out the timber that makes the mahogany such an expensive lumber. The tree stands deep in the forest, in the midst of an almost impenetrable jungle. There are no groves of mahogany trees—they flourish perhaps not more than two to the acre.

Hunters Search For the Trees.

Now it may be that there is no water course to hand by which the logs can be floated to port. The tree must be located by the "hunter," whose business it is to roam through the forest in search of the coveted trees and to blaze a way to them so that they may be found again.

Then the workmen must cut their laborious way to the trees, using for the purpose the machete. The machete converted into a pruning hook makes a most effective weapon in the hunting of mahogany.

It is a beautiful tree, tall and shapely, with the lowest branches at least sixty feet from the ground. At the bottom is a huge swelling, after the manner of the cypress, and the tree must be cut above that swelling six or eight feet from the roots. The first steps comprise the building of a platform around the trunk, so that the cutters may stand upon it and wield their axes. In the course of time down comes the great monster of the tropical forest, crashing through the thick growth around it.

Railroad Ties of Mahogany.

The workmen trim it, cut it into lengths, and manage to get it rolled to the nearest creek. There it must lie to await the floods of the rainy season, floods that will lift and carry it down stream to the ocean port. There the logs are piled on the beach to await the vessel that is to carry them. Upon its arrival they are rolled back into the water and rafted and pulled out to the ship's side, a dangerous undertaking when the water is rough. Once beside the vessel, derricks serve to lift the logs, which, with great difficulty, are got into the hold.

Mahogany does not in its own land command the respect wherein it is held in ours. There has been much comment upon the fact that in lands beyond the Gulf it has been employed in the making of railway ties. The fact is there is so immense an amount of mahogany standing at great distances from the coasts, remote from railways or other means of transportation, that it is practically worthless to the owner of the land, and so it chances that he views the waste of it with comparative indifference.

There is, however, no wholesale destruction of the mahogany forests. The young timber must be preserved. At one time is was the law that no tree could be cut which squared less than eighteen inches, but that law has become practically a dead letter. But care is taken that larger trees are not indiscriminately cut. There is a considerable amount of reforestation. The mahogany is of very slow growth, many of the large trees, it is said, bearing evidence of an age in excess of one thousand years.

MADE HER PRACTICE.

From "The American Child," by Elizabeth McCracken: Only the other day I happened to call upon a friend of mine during the hour set aside for her little girl's piano lesson. The child was tearfully and rebelliously playing a "piece." Her teacher, a musician of unusual ability, guided her stumbling fingers with conscientious patience and care. A child of the least musical talent would surely have responded in some measure to such excellent instruction. My friend's little girl did not. When the lesson was finished she slipped from the piano stool with a sigh of intense relief.

She started to run out of doors, but her mother detained her. "You may go to your room for an hour," she said, gently" but gravely, "and stay there all alone. That will help you to remember to try harder tomorrow to have a good music lesson." And the child, more tearful, more rebellious than before, crept away to her room.

"When I was her age I didn't like the work involved in taking music lessons any better than she does," my friend said. "So my mother didn't insist upon my taking them. I have regretted it all my life. I love music; I have always loved it—I loved it even when I hated practicing and music lessons. I wish my mother had made me keep at it, no matter how much I objected! Well, I shall do it with my daughter; she'll thank me for it some day."

I am not so sure that her daughter will. Her music teacher agrees with me. "The child has no talent whatever," she told me. "It is a waste of time for her to take piano lessons. Her mother, now—she has a real gift for it! I often wish she would take the lessons!"

MODERN RIP VAN WINKLE

Has Lived in Middle Ages for Some Forty Years.

Declares He Knows Nothing at All of Twentieth Century.

London, April 11.—Next week a modern Rip van Winkle who for the last thirty-seven years has been living in the middle ages will have, to his immense disgust, to emerge into the twentieth century, of which he declares with something like pride he knows nothing whatever. This badly behind-the-times person is Dr. Reginald R. Sharpe, D. C. L., who for the period of time mentioned has been records clerk at the Guildhall, which is the headquarters of the queer official machinery which runs the so-called city of London, the historic square mile in the heart of the metropolis which is ruled over by the lord mayor with a remembrancer, a prothonotary and many other queer officials to help him.

It was at the Guildhall that Former President Roosevelt made his bombshell of a speech on England's duty in Egypt. Down in the bowels of this ancient home of Gog and Magog is the room in which, as clerk of the city's records, Dr. Sharpe has had his being since 1876, but which, after the fifteenth of this month, will know him no more. It is a sunless room, where a fire is kept during the whole year, and on all sides are dingy books from which the dust of seven centuries has been wiped and which are crammed with records in Latin, Norman, French and old English of the doings of the city fathers as far back as 1275. Some of these tomes are so big that they can be moved conveniently only in a wheelbarrow and all of them are such dull reading that you would think that no human being could live among them for nigh on forty years and have any humanity left in him.

Has Lots of Humanity.

But Dr. Sharpe, a short man with a whitening beard, and kindly eyes that twinkle behind gold-spectacles, has lots of humanity left in him, and fun, too. He was a humorist, apparently, when he entered the Guildhall, in 1876, after having been first a law student, then a senior assistant in the manuscripts department of the British museum, and then a barrister of law of the Inner Temple, and a humorist he remains today, for he has been able to find food for mirth even in the dull chronicles of endless lord mayors, sheriffs, remembrancers, prothonotaries and the rest.

All that he has lost in his long confinement in the city archives, apparently is interest in the affairs of today. "I know nothing whatever," he said yesterday, "of anything that has happened after the fifteenth century. People are often sent down here from the offices above and ask me questions about something that happened in the nineteenth century. As if I know what happened yesterday! I stop at about 1500."

He is emphatically not looking forward to his retirement, he said, and to having to discover what king is ruling over England and who is president of the United States. Even after he leaves the Guildhall he means to spend as much of his time as possible in the past and will begin by condensing a big book called "London and the Kingdom" which he compiled from the city's archives some eighteen years ago into a form suitable for schools.

Of course, he has the details of the city's unique administration at his fingers' ends, and there happened to be one feature thereof about which the present writer particularly desired information. Who are the city's ale-conners and what do they do? In the annual budget of the city corporation mention is made yearly of four official ale-conners who draw a salary of ten pounds or $50 per annum, but up to this time no one ever has been discovered who knew who the said conners were or where they carried on their industry of conning.

Supplied the Story.

So I put the question to Dr. Sharpe and hardly had I finished speaking than he was on his feet and whisking a dusty volume down from an upper shelf, after which, in less than two seconds, he had found the right page and indicated with a bony finger, a paragraph dealing with ale-conners. Then he abruptly disappeared, only to return in a few minutes carrying in his arms a big book in manuscript, again found and pointed out a paragraph and rushed into his strong-room to return with a still more gigantic book, also with something about ale-conners.

Thus I learned the story of these extraordinary officials and a highly amusing one it proved to be. It seems that once upon a time the paternal government of the city fixed the price at which beer should be sold, and—what was more important—saw that it was of pure quality, and not sophisticated. For the latter purpose four officials were empowered to enter any saloon within the city boundaries and taste the ale. For this they were paid $50 a year. But the remarkable thing is that these ale-conners are still appointed, and still paid their ancient salaries. It is good to keep up picturesque old customs, but why four men should be paid $50 each for duties that disappeared long ago is not easily explained. "Apparently," remarked the doctor, "these good men can, to this day, go into any bar in the city and demand a glass of ale for nothing."

Not long ago in the course of an article the speaker of the house of commons, the present writer duly noted that, like certain ministers of state, judges of the high court, and officers of the royal household, Mr. Speaker is presented with a "piece of livery cloth" by the city corporation, and Dr. Sharpe was asked to explain the origin of this custom.

Spends $500 a Year.

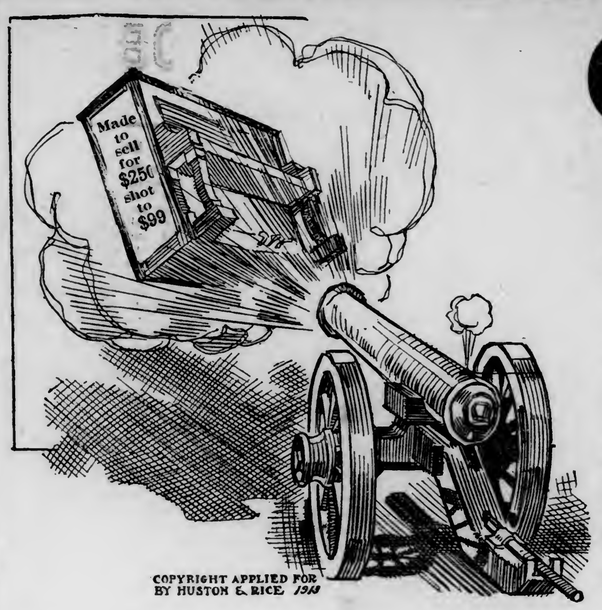

The venerable clerk of the city records chuckled. Then he announced that the city spends over $500 a year on bestowing these pieces of cloth. No one seems to know exactly what happens to the cloth. One theory is that the recipients exchange it with their tailor for cloth that can be made into an ordinary suit. Anyhow, there is the amazing fact that every year the cloth is gravely sent to a number of men in high places, who as gravely acknowledge it.

The origin of the custom is rather interesting.

"Briefly," said Dr. Sharp, "the term livery carries us back to feudal times, when it was the custom for powerful barons to deliver badges and liveries to their retainers. This custom caused so many commotions between rival barons that it had to be restrained by a series of statutes extending down to the reign of Henry VII.

"None of these statutes, however, affected the wearing of liveries by the mayor, sheriff or aldermen of the city or by members of guilds or fraternities founded for an honest purpose. The high officers of the city continued therefore, to wear their respective livery gowns and to grant them to their subordinates. The custom was extended in course of time, and what is known at the present day as livery cloth was granted by the corporation to ministers of state, judges of the high court and so on."

Dr. Sharpe added that more than one attempt has been made to abolish the practice as being expensive, unnecessary and undignified, but up to now without effect.

WOULD RESTORE THE SULLIVANS

Only Brother of "Little Tim" After East Side Leadership.

New York, April 11.—There is political war on the Bowery. The Sullivans, divided for the first time in their history, are fighting each other. "Promising Jack" Fitzgerald is making a desperate effort to retain his grip on the "Old Third," and Patrick Henry Sullivan, only brother of "Big Tim," is working day and night to unhorse him.

Fitzgerald was a lieutenant of "Little Tim" when that remarkable politician was in power. He was a state senator in 1904, but owing to his vote on the Remsen Gas bill, which was the cause of a great public outcry, he retired from public life and was not again heard from until 1911, when to the surprise of the knowing ones he was given the leadership left vacant by the death of "Little Tim." Last year he nominated himself for state senator and was elected in an overwhelming Democratic district.

"Paddy" Sullivan, as he is called on the east side, is one of the most modest men in New York politics. He is 46 years old, smooth shaven, tall, spare and muscular, with the characteristic Sullivan smile. He is married and has four children. Because of his modesty he has kept in the background, but behind his genial exterior there is a strong personality. Over on the Bowery he is known as a man of his word.

"I have hesitated about entering the field," he said, "because I do not want the burden of leadership; but the dissatisfaction among our people is overwhelming that in order to save the party in our section I have, at the earnest solicitation of the best men in the district, consented to make the race. And I want to say right now that I am in this fight to win; the Sullivans never lose."

FEARS THE WORST.

Eats Freely But Has No Dyspepsia

Takes a mild laxative with good pepsin and insures comfort and pleasure.

Fortunate is the one who can eat "anything" without suffering the tortures of dyspepsia, but as few are so fortunate care should be taken in the matter of diet. Eating slowly, masticating the food thoroughly and taking a short walk after the heavy meal of the day will do much towards assisting digestion. Any grown-up person ought to know the peculiar foods that do not agree, and these should be avoided.

When these common-sense aids fail, the next thing to do is to take a mild digestive tonic with laxative properties, and there is none better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains the greatest of all aids to digestion, good pepsin. It has other ingredients that act mildly on the bowels, which together form a combination for the relief of dyspepsia or indigestion that is unsurpassed.

Its action is to tone and strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that they can again do their work naturally without outside aid, and when that happy moment comes all medicine can be dispensed with. It is the best remedy obtainable for any disorder of the stomach, liver and bowels, for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headaches, drowsiness after eating, gas on the stomach, etc. Thousands of users will testify to this, among them Mrs. Oliver Young, Merrill, Wis. She says: "After many years suffering from indigestion I have obtained what I believe to be permanent relief by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I feel 10 years younger, my work seems easy, my breath is no longer bad and I eat what I want without distress."

Syrup Pepsin is sure in its results, and a vast improvement over chewing or swallowing tablets and mints, or taking cathartics, salts, etc., all of which are harsh and nauseous and at best do but temporary good. You can obtain Syrup Pepsin at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

WIDOW FINDS GOLD HER HUSBAND HID

Chart Tells Where to Dig for the Buried Treasure.

Kansas City, Mo., April 11.—A pot of gold to the value of $1,305, buried by Thomas McCue on his farm two miles east of Independence without the knowledge of his family, has been found by Mrs. Emma McCue, his widow. A note in a fidelity trust company safety deposit vault told the widow where to dig for the treasure.

McCue died several weeks ago. He left all his property to his widow. In his will was special reference to the note in the vault.

Mrs. McCue and George L. Walls, her attorney, obtained the note. It directed them to go to the northeast corner of the barn on the five-acre fruit farm, walk twenty paces east and then turn north and measure six yards. The directions were followed and Mr. Walls began to dig.

At the depth of four feet a hard object was struck. At first it was thought to be a rock, but later it was discovered to be a jar. It was partly filled with water and was very heavy. The jar was taken into the kitchen of the home and the contents dumped on a table. Gold coins, black and discolored from age, covered a large newspaper laid on the table. They were washed and counted.

The finding of the gold was related by Attorney Walls in a report filed in the probate court.

PURE WHITE MOOSE KILLED BY HUNTER

Skin and Head Brought to Seattle From Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., April 11.—The skin and head of a magnificent pure white moose arrived here recently on the steamship Northland from Cordova, Alaska. The albino moose was killed on Kenai peninsula, March 1, by Ezra Higgins, a trapper and hunter. The fate of the white moose was closely guarded in Alaska, and the story not made public until after the Northland left Cordova.

The Thlinket Indians cherished an old tradition that this, or a similar white moose, was the spirit of an Indian maiden, the daughter of a beloved chief. One winter day the girl left the village for a visit to another and became bewildered in a blizzard and was never seen again.

After the great storm had passed over, searching parties went into the ravines of Kenai peninsula to search for the maiden. When in the woods a beautiful snow-white moose sprang out of a thicket and dashed away.

Year after year the Indians have worshipped the albino moose and from time to time the animal has been seen. Now that an albino moose has been killed the Indians will miss it unless, as many hunters think, there are several in that section. The mounted skin will be placed in the university museum.

WANT ANYTHING? BE PSYCHOLOGICAL

Professor Says That Condition Will Make Everybody Efficient.

Cambridge, Mass., April 11.—Do you want to make love better?

Do you want to be a better salesman?

Do you want to be a better captain on an ocean liner?

Do you want to make better marriages?

Do you want to raise more potatoes on your patch of ground than ever before?

If so, then you must "get psychologically correct." At least that is what Prof. Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard states in his new book "Psychology and Industrial Efficiency." Psychology is going to work wonders in the industrial world, according to the professor.

It is going to take that man who has been working in a round hole, and put him in a square hole, where he belongs. The professor also argues that industrial difficulties would be reduced to a minimum and that working people would do better work if they were put through a course of psychological training.

He advocates the establishment of a government bureau for applied psychology, with special reference to the psychology of commence and industry.

DON'T STAY GRAY! SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR BEAUTIFULLY

Restores Its Lustre, Prevents Scalp Itching, Dandruff and Failing Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. While it is a mussy, tedious task it well repays those whose hair is turning gray, faded and streaked.

Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair and is the best thing known to remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody chooses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time which requires but a few moments. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair has disappeared and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. It certainly helps folks look years younger and twice as attractive, says a well-known downtown druggist. Max Wirth.

NEW YORK PRINT SOLD FOR $2,010.

New York Times: The second highest price ever paid at auction for a New York city print was the feature of a sale of "Americana" by the Merwin company a few days ago. The successful bidder was Robert Fridenberg, the price paid was $2,010, and the prize was a colored lithograph by Peter Maverick, after a painting by Hugh Reinagle, giving a view of Wall street in 1852 from Trinity church, with sketches of the buildings on each side and Brooklyn Heights in the distance. The scene is a winter one, with sleighs filled with passengers. The detached sketches in the margins of all the buildings on both sides of Wall street form a particularly interesting feature of this print.

An anchor for lifeboats has been invented that is hollow and filled with oil, which will still the waves after it has been thrown overboard.

ENFORCING QUARANTINE.

A contributor to the Open Court the other night complained that the health authorities of the city are exceedingly lax in their enforcement of the quarantine regulations, and cited instances in which the requirements had, to serious extent, been ignored.

In view of the excellent work done in other lines by the Duluth health officials, it is difficult to believe that these cases were entirely the result of negligence on the part of the officials. It is far more likely that the incidents cited were due to the placing of too much confidence by the officials in the good citizenship of the persons whose homes had been placed under the restrictions provided for in cases of the presence of contagious diseases.

If is out of the question, of course, for the health department to keep an officer stationed at every house that may be placed under quarantine, to see that the regulations are observed. Nor should any such supervision be necessary. Those whose homes are visited by disease should know, better than any others, the menace that must surround other homes if they do not do their part not only to conquer the present cases, but to prevent the spread of the contagion. Common fairness and justice demand obedience of the rules of quarantine. He is not a good citizen who allows the danger that has attacked his own family to spread to those of others when it is in his power to prevent or help to prevent that spread.

But sometimes there are cases in which unintentional carelessness leads to the breaking of quarantine regulations. Such instances need checking up, and correction. If no such system is already in force, it would at least be well for the health department to establish some means of keeping in touch with quarantine cases, so as to assure itself that the rules are being observed. If wanton violation is found, then the police department could be called on to assist in the enforcement of the rules.

Whatever the weakness that allows such conditions as were reported by the correspondent of the Open Court, it calls for correction, that the health of the city may be protected.

They've been having a school for umpires in Milwaukee. There's a chance for the white hopes and the marathon runners to break into the business of teaching.

WILSON'S WAY.

For a few minutes, the other day, the United States senate became one of those tempestuous teapots that Mark Twain himself could hardly have done justice to. And it was all because President Wilson chose to make his first words to congress an address instead of a message.

Three senators formed the center of the disturbance—Lodge, Williams and Stone—and to read their words one would have inferred that the pillars of the national structure were about to be hurled from their foundations; that the government was about to go up in smoke, and that representative government was about to kick the bucket for good and all. They were a noble three, standing at the bridge that guarded the citadel of popular rights and fighting manfully against the advancing hordes, which hordes were comprised of the president and his twelve hundred word message.

There was a deal of talk about "speeches from the throne," and of the pomp and pageantry of royalty. Even the poor old inaugural parade was hauled out of the past and put in review. And the only thing that seems to have been lacking was a hogshead to hold the tears that were near to being shed over the breaking of a precedent that wasn't worth a continental as far as intrinsic value was concerned.

Indeed, the real value seems to be all on the side of the Wilson way, for the New York Sun, after reviewing the history of presidential-congressional intercourse, and showing that Jefferson was the first president to adopt the message form instead of that of the address, says that, "escaping the eye to eye evidence of passing the point where attention flags and ennui begins, Mr. Jefferson in his very first message began in moderation that lengthening and padding practiced so intolerably in later and especially in recent times."

Commenting still further, the Sun says that the manner of presentation "is only leather and prunella" after all; "the thing is to let everybody in congress and out see just what the president recommends;" and it closes with the declaration that if President Wilson "sticks to short 'addresses' he will earn the public gratitude; and the man who boasts that he has read a president's message will no longer be regarded as an impudent longbowman."

Cartoonist McCutcheon of the Chicago Tribune hit the bull's-eye when he pictured "the old way and the new," showing first a clerk reading a lengthy document to empty benches, and second the president himself speaking forcibly to crowded benches and galleries. Wilson's way is not the way to which we have been accustomed, and neither is it entirely original. But if it gets results, the people are not likely to worry any about speeches from the throne or speeches thrown (into the wastebasket). And it is the result that President Wilson is after, and evidently intends to get.

The Wisconsin legislature has killed the bill intended to abolish Greek letter fraternities in the state university. There is an example worth following.

AS TO FREE WOOL.

Anent the proposal in the new tariff bill to put raw wool on the free list, the Springfield, Mass., Republican cites some interesting history of wool tariffs. It recalls that in 1894 the country was given free wool and that nobody then expected that it would ever again be levied upon in the tariff. Yet the Republicans, in 1897, found themselves confronted with the necessity of pacifying the agricultural interests by a showing of protection for them in order to get away with the proposal to put a protective tariff on manufactured products. Consequently the country was saddled with a duty on raw wool, "while heavy compensating duties were placed on imports of manufactured goods," though the manufacturers of woolen goods protested strenuously against the tax on the raw product.

Ever since that time we have had an oppressive tax on the raw article and a compensatory one on the manufactured goods, though the supply of wool in this country has been steadily decreasing. "Long ago it was apparent that the domestic wool supply was inadequate and that the wool-growing industry could never be developed to a point where foreign wools of the same quality would not need to be imported. * * * Wool growing is so peculiar in its economic nature that the supply is more likely to diminish than to increase even under the stimulus of a tariff duty."

During the decade from 1900 to 1910, the Republican points out, the decrease in wool production in this country amounted to 14.7 per cent, the local falling off varying from 13.2 per cent in New Mexico to 53.3 per cent in New England. This is due not only to the increase in the value of land as an agricultural area, but to the fact that the flesh of the sheep is steadily becoming more valuable for food, and that the farmer will not keep the animal to produce wool when he can realize more fully and quickly from it by killing it for mutton.

As to the part wool growing plays in agriculture in this country, it is pointed out that the total value of farm products in the United States in 1912 was $3,395,000,000, while the wool clip formed only some 1¾ per cent of this total.

"It (the wool production)," says the Republican, "can never meet the demands of our woolen textile industry, whose imports of wool must always be of large dimensions. Finally, it should be said that President Taft's tariff board showed in its report that no duty is necessary on raw wool; that the duty's retention is an imposition upon both consumer and manufacturer."

Among the silent partners must now be included the coal bin.

"TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN."

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin: The express companies complain that they have suffered a loss of twenty-five per cent on their small package business by reason of the parcel post. But there might not have been a parcel post if the express companies had given the public a fair deal.

Hereby the Wisconsin introduces the express companies to the public in their new role—that of a horrible example. And they are qualified to fill the role to perfection. We have become accustomed, more or less, to having pointed out to us some individual who, formerly wealthy and influential, fell from his high estate through over-indulgence in drink or some other weakness, and now is a pitiable object. The analogy is peculiarly applicable to the express companies, which, drunk with power, allowed themselves all kinds of excesses and now are paying the piper.

These once boastful and arrogant organizations fit unusually well into the role of the horrible example. They have met and been conquered by the law of what President Wilson has called "The New Freedom," even as their human prototypes have fallen before the law of nature. The human derelict is a horrible example to the individual who is tempted to risk a similar fate. And the express companies are examples to every kind of public service organization that is tempted to practice unfairness and extortion upon the public.

All of which might be addressed, in the good old way, "To Whom It May Concern."

Every little snowstorm means a bit more delay in having to get out the lawn mower.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

AS WORTHY A CAUSE AS DR. JOHN WARREN'S.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Whether I write this letter or not, or whether the editor of The Herald sees fit to publish it or not, Mrs. Pankhurst will suffer for the cause she is fighting for. Mrs. Pankhurst is fighting for a cause as worthy as Dr. John Warren was when he entered the Boston church by the window and a thousand English bayonets pointed against him. She is fighting inequity as justly as Jesus of Nazareth was. When The Herald, editorially, and "A Citizen" in the Open Court slapped her face, so to speak, you are as truly a Roman soldier as was that coward that slapped the face of the Master and King in the court of Pontias Pilate.

What are you men gaining by it? After the brutes have murdered Mrs. Pankhurst, idiots and do-nothings will get busy shouting her praise and building monuments with a "Mr. Citizen" in the lead. To talk about law and unlawful acts in this case is all nonsense. The women have declared war on the brutes, (not men—because men have at all times been willing to give equal rights to woman.) They are giving all the warning necessary and if the lords (?) of England want their property destroyed, all they have to do is to continue their inequity. It is up them, and with the Citizen I ask, "Why encourage the commission of crime?" Yes. Why don't you cease your criminal inequity against the women?

We are told the women and other underlings will gain more by sympathy. Now come off—who ever heard of anybody winning anything from an Englishman by sympathy. Sympathy is the offering of the do-nothings and I give credit to Mr. "A Citizen" for not even offering sympathy. Mrs. Pankhurst is fighting for citizenship and has a right to choose her own weapons. The judge (Humphrey reincarnated) has the power to punish her, yes murder her, but it will only be another Robert Emmett, John Brown, Prof. Ferrer, etc.

Here is to them that fight a wrong,
Whenever it may exist;
Here is to them, weak or strong,
That on justice do insist;
Here is to them that stepped
On the serpent's head,
Living or dead.

Duluth, April 10.

Famed Aroostook County.

Haverhill Gazette: What is known in Maine as the Aroostook, namely the county that juts up into Canada almost to the St. Lawrence river, "the inland empire of Maine," the potato empire that raises 25,000,000 bushels of the mealiest tubers in the United States—this great county which is as large as the entire state of Massachusetts and which must be pronounced with the accent on the "roos," has a dream of empire.

"The Aroostook" aspires to separate statehood. It is cherishing an ambition to become the 49th state in the Union. There is not yet a great popular clamor in the cities of Allegash, Benedicta and Moluncus, the metropolises of the county, for statehood, but there is "an undercurrent." The state of Maine is rather too conservative for the Aroostook. It does not move with the necessary rapidity to satisfy the political aspirations of the statesmen of Moluncus.

One policy, however, the Aroostook is not progressive upon. It is still in favor of a tariff wall built sky high between the Aroostook and New Brunswick. Sixty years ago there was a war between Maine and New Brunswick, known as the Aroostook war. It was over a boundary line or something in the wilderness and the crop of state of Maine majors and colonels that resulted from this war has lasted even unto the present day. If this tariff wall should come down we do not like to prophesy as to what might happen in the Aroostook. Threats have been made even up to the matter of secession and junction with lower Canada.

Any overt action like this would, of course, set the state of Maine afire from Piscataquis to Sagadahoc. It is not likely to happen. But Maine must not treat the Aroostook cavalierly. Its grievances and its aspirations must be understood and sympathized with, or the nation has not heard the last of the Aroostook. A free, independent and liberty-loving people will be heard.

Something New in Golf.

Popular Magazine: John D. Rockefeller was playing golf one day on the links at Augusta, Ga., with a friend who usually handled a club with all the grace of a rhinoceros. Halfway across the links the friend disappeared into a hollow in pursuit of the ball, and Mr. Rockefeller heard him hit the sphere eight times. Finally the friend came to the putting green, and took three strokes to land the ball in the hole.

"How many strokes did it take you to make this hole?" asked the oil magnate.

"Seven" replied the friend.

"But I heard you make eight when you were behind the hill," objected Rockefeller.

"Oh," explained the other airily, "those were the echo."

Everybody Jokes With Kelly.

Popular Magazine: Fred C. Kelly of Cleveland, Ohio, is a miserable and mournful man. He is a humorist—except as regards himself.

One night he went to Detroit and had great trouble in getting hotel accommodation because several conventions were in session in the city. The best he could do was to take a double room with a man who, he discovered the next day, was a drummer—and that "drummer" goes any way you choose to take it.

In the morning, when Kelly awoke, he observed that his roommate, lying in the other twin bed, regarded him with a fixed and glassy stare. The scrutiny was so persistent, and was kept up for so long, that it irritated Kelly. The humorist was about to remonstrate against such rudeness when the drummer made his own explanation:

"By the Lord Harry! But you're an ugly devil!"

The Giant Lucre and Miss Manners

From Life.

Life: "Once there was a giant," began Mr. Oracle, when he was stopped by Bright Eyes.

"What was his name?" she asked breathlessly, "and is this a really true story?"

"His name was Lucre," replied Mr. Oracle with a smile, "and it is an honest, true story. Now, don't interrupt me again, because I have just been reading one of Mayor Gaynor's speeches and I've taken on the atmosphere and if you as much as wink, I might bat you over the head."

Bright Eyes said not a word, but waited meekly at this terrible threat, and Mr. Oracle went on:

"This awful giant spent most of his time in building cities and he got hordes of people from all over to come and live near him and worship him; and although he was extremely untidy—they even called him filthy—they all loved him. He would knock them about and make them suffer, but they crawled up to him just the same."

At this Bright Eyes couldn't help crying. The picture of this great cruel giant making people do his base bidding appealed to her tender little heart.

"Yes," went on Mr. Oracle, "and he crowded 'em in tenements and he packed 'em in ballrooms and he hustled 'em about and gave 'em indigestion and starved 'em and worried 'em with debt, and all for the love of him."

"But why did they love him?" asked Bright Eyes, regaining courage, "when he treated them so horribly? I would hate a cruel giant like that."

"No, you wouldn't," said Mr. Oracle, blandly. "It is a mystery, of course, but I assure you that you would love him, and do anything to win his favor. But I am not getting anywhere with this story, and so I must tell you what happened to Miss Manners."

"Who was she?"

"Oh, she was the nicest, sweetest, politest little girl in the world. The three fairies, Courtesy, Breeding and Sympathy, were her guardian angels; and she was born in the country, where the air was sweet and there was room to breathe. She always had a pleasant smile for everyone, and she went about just making people happy. Besides, she was tremendously beautiful. Whenever you got near her, she just made you feel good all over."

"Did she make cruel King Lucre feel good all over?"

Mr. Oracle frowned at this.

"Now you are getting ahead of the story," he said. "But I'll say no to that; have patience, and you will know all about it. You see, Bright Eyes," he added, "you've been reading the yellow journals so much that when you get a real good story like this, with a genuine double-barreled moral to it, you can't wait to know the end."

"Go on, please," said Bright Eyes.

"Well, Miss Manners was walking out in the fields one day, picking daisies and buttercups, when Giant Lucre, leaning over his huge buildings and his horde of human ants in the distance, saw her, and he thought she looked awfully sweet, and would make a nice morsel; and so he beckoned to Miss Manners, and she came to him, and he crushed her—that tender flower, born of the soil—yes, he crushed her without mercy; he took the bloom off her cheek, and put paint in its place, and he dragged her through horrid artificial palm rooms, and slums, and he devoured her, and then there was no more Miss Manners left."

"Is that all?" said Bright Eyes with a sigh, after a short pause.

"Yes, dearie, that's all."

A Minnesota Hero

The American Magazine has been offering prizes for the best letters descriptive of brave deeds. Following is one of the prize letters:

"In the fall of 1882 I hired to James Colwell, a Minnesota logger, to run camp for him on the Big Fork river, about eighty miles north of the present town of Grand Rapids.

"Well, I got up there with a crew, built camps, and had the winter's work fairly started when along came a man with the smallpox.

"He had stopped a while in my camp and then gone on to another Colwell camp where he was taken down, the first news of it I had being when the whole crew from the upper camp came stampeding down. I know that all of them, as well as all of my own crew, had been exposed, and that if they broke loose that way they would spread smallpox through the whole woods, and I went at it to stop and hold them. Most of them I did hold, but some would not stay, and they did spread it somewhat, but were mostly stopped and held about Grand Rapids. But I was up against it for fair.

"However, I did the best I could, turning one camp into a hospital, and keeping the well men at work in the other. It was a mighty hard job to keep things going that winter, I can tell you. All supplies had to be hauled eighty miles, and my 'tote' teamsters could not get food or lodging anywhere on the trip for love or money. But somehow we made it. Thirty-five men took sick, and I did all the nursing that was done. Eight of them died, and I buried them with my own hands.

"And with it all I managed to get a pretty good pile of logs on the ice.

"The state authorities burned all of Colwell's logging outfit in the spring after the danger was all over, and the whole thing broke him completely. I didn't take it myself, and was so busy after I got fairly into the mess that I didn't have time to get scared over it. But I wouldn't like to go through another time like it, just the same."

The Supreme Court Bible.

Christian Herald: It is a tiny little book, only five and a half inches long and three and a half inches wide. It is bound in bright red morocco leather, with the word "Bible" printed in diminutive gold letters on the back.

But one does not see that red morocco cover unless he removes the little black leather slip which protects it. Long, long ago the little red Bible began to show wear and then the black leather slip was made to protect it—so long ago, in fact, that fifteen of those covers, made to protect the venerated little volume, were worn out in the service.

It is without doubt one of the oldest Bibles, if not the very oldest Bible, connected with the government and is certainly the most historical. It is the book upon which, since 1800, every chief justice, with the single exception of Chief Justice Chase, and every member of the supreme court, has taken the oath of allegiance when accepting his appointment to our highest tribunal.

More than that, every attorney who has practiced before the supreme court since that date, 1800, has pledged his allegiance over the little volume. All, with one exception, and that exception was Daniel Webster. It is told even yet of the supreme court of that day that Mr. Webster's fame as an orator had so preceded him that in the occasion when he came to argue his first case before the court the clerk, Mr. Caldwell, in his eagerness to hear the great speaker, forgot to administer the oath.

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dick Austin, representative from Knoxville, Tenn., is one of the leading kidders in the lower house of congress. He kids strangers in a quiet, serious manner that has made his work highly successful. Take, for example, the hearings of the committee on public buildings and grounds, of which Austin is a member. Total strangers to Austin come before the committee to show cause why a building in their locality should be a certain size—usually four or five full sizes larger than the town. Austin begins to ask questions in a slow, fatherly way, that gives the impression that he is going to take the visitor by the hand and buy him a dollar's worth of pop corn as soon as the hearing is over.

"Let me see, now, if I understand you," said Austin to one man. "You are assuming that the Republican party will be restored to power presently, and you want the buildings large enough to take care of the increased business activity that such a change will bring about? Is that the idea?" That's the kind of stuff he pulls.

And the visitor, not knowing whether Austin himself is a Republican, Democrat, Bull Moose, or suffragist, doesn't know what to say, and simply looks foolish.

Franklin Roosevelt, the new assistant secretary of the navy, does not mind having people buttonhole him to inquire just what relation he is to the Oyster Bay Roosevelts. He is free to admit that he is proud of the relationship and it gives him great pleasure to explain his family tree to the humblest citizen.

Franklin and Theodore are fifth cousins, or thereabouts, and to add to the complications, Franklin took out papers a few years ago and married T. R.'s niece. Soon after that he ceased calling him Cousin Theodore and began addressing him half-facetiously as Uncle Ted. T. R. stood for it and they got along with perfect amity, though of different political faith, one being a Democrat and the other a prominent Bull Mooser.

David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture, is a calm citizen, who toils away with much diligence, but refuses to be hitched up like a horse, and driven. He absolutely and unqualifiedly declines to sit up half the night fretting himself and growing hysterical about the job he has stepped into.

He permits hordes of job-hunters and morbid curiosity-seekers to swoop in on him as long as he can. Then he tries to clear his desk and sign up a few fathoms of letters. When he has plugged away in this fashion until time for the whistle to blow and still with no sign of getting through, does he lean back in his chair and scream and begin to throw things?

No, he simply does this: He calmly puts on his hat, and goes out into the fresh air to clarify his mind and forget about work until the morrow.

George M. Young, a new member of congress from North Dakota, once spent two hours as governor of his state. He probably holds the minimum record at governorship.

Here's how it happened: Along in the summer of 1907, Governor John Burke—now United States treasurer—was absent from the state for a short time on business. The next in succession was Lieutenant Governor R. S. Lewis. One hot afternoon an automobile load of jovial citizens came along and insisted that Lewis take a little ride with them over across the Minnesota line. Lewis went.

That made Young acting governor by virtue of the fact that he was president pro tem of the senate. He spent almost the entire two hours he was in office wishing that something might happen to one of the United States senators or one of the state supreme court justices, so that he could appoint somebody to fill the vacancy and feel like a real governor. Then he thought of pardoning somebody from the penitentiary. But before he got time to take action, Lieutenant Governor Lewis came back and shooed him out of the job.

"By" Newton, private secretary to William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, used to be aviation editor of a New York paper, and thinks nothing of going up in a balloon or aeroplane so high that a state of the Union looks no larger than a parcel post stamp.

When he first started into the newspaper business Newton had a harrowing experience that might have dulled the journalistic ardor of a less sanguine spirit. He was sent out to interview a certain Mr. Doe in regard to some new scientific discovery.

After a couple of hours he found the Doe house and rang the bell.

"Mr. Doe in?" he asked the woman who came to the door.

"Yes; he's in," laughed she gayly—"in his grave these three years."

Josephus Daniels has four boys, who were extremely reluctant to leave their home and playmates down in Raleigh when the time came for their father to become secretary of the navy. However, they kept back the tears until it came to parting with an old colored nurse who had taken care of them since the eldest was born, and who felt that she was too old to come along. The four youngsters threw their arms around her and it was a sobby occasion. Jonathan Daniels, aged 11, was the first to recover his speech. Said he:

"Doggone Woodrow Wilson, anyhow!"

On Cross-Examination.

Popular Magazine: Hon. Walter Evans, United States judge for the Sixth Circuit and Western district of Kentucky has to attend to a great many offenders against the United States revenue laws. Recently he had an old negro before the court for selling whisky without license. Uncle George had been in jail six months awaiting trial. He was very long, and thin, and gray, and generally dilapidated in appearance. The district attorney made out a complete case against him. The old negro had no attorney.

"Do you want to ask the witnesses any questions, Uncle George?" inquired the court.

"Yassir, jedge; I'd like to ax a few ob dat nigger ober dere," indicating a small, chunky negro man, with coal-tar complexion. Whereupon Uncle George nervously cleared his throat.

"Say, boy, how's yo' ma?"

"She's well, Uncle George."

"Is de res' of yo' folks well?"

"Yassir, dey's well."

"Is yo' well?"

The State Legislature

Press Views on the Session.

Many Thanks.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The voters of Minnesota will have the opportunity next election to decide whether or not they want the initiative, referendum and recall grafted into the state Constitution. The legislature, which has passed more progressive measures than any other session in the history of the state, hands this out as one of the indications that it recognizes the rights of the dear people to have a voice in government. Many kind thanks, dear sirs.

Wiping Out a Joke.

East Grand Forks Record: It is proposed to amend the anti-cigarette law of the state so as to make it unlawful to sell the "pill" to minors. It is to be hoped that the amended bill will pass. As it stands today the Minnesota anti-cigarette law is a dead letter and a joke.

Logical Outcome.

Elk River Star-News: Good bye, Republican, farewell Democratic, ta ta Prohibition, Socialist and all other political parties in county and legislative politics if the primary election measure, likely to become a law in Minnesota, shall prevail. Under its provisions all county officials and legislative candidates will be non-partisan, and it will be the man instead of a political party the people will be called upon to vote for. This is the logical outcome of the primary principle, and people will have to study up on the individuality of candidates for office, rather than their party affiliations.

Law Is Weakness.

Park Rapids Clipper: A bill is before the legislature to repeal the present anti-cigarette law and substitute one to keep the stuff from the hands of boys. The present law has never been enforced and is a weakness. Perhaps the men will make the boys quit if they themselves do not have to.

What Would It Be?

Little Falls Transcript: When one sees the amount of bad and unnecessary legislation that is poured out upon the country by law-making bodies which are restrained from regular meeting but once in two years, it makes one's hair stand up on end at the thought of what would be the result if the legislative mill ground every year. Once in twenty years would seem to be about right and the suffering people might draw a breath or two without cracking a law. Gee whiz! But 'tis great and glorious to be free! (?)

The Patched Constitution.

Aurora News: Although patched beyond recognition the legislature has refused to have the state Constitution rewritten and made into a modern and workable document. The present Constitution has been amended so often and there is so much room for further amendment that the sooner we have a constitutional convention or commission the sooner we will be in shape to take our place with progressive states.

Surprised.

Albert Lea Standard: Are you watching our legislature? If so, you are rubbing your eyes and opening them with surprise, astonishment and gratulation. In several striking measures it is going to the head of the procession, leading most of the states, in the adoption of advanced and practical reforms and seems likely to make the best record of any in the history of the state.

Stepping Stone.

Cambridge Independent Press: From this distance it looks very much as though the bill making county and legislative offices non-partisan will be enacted into law. This is only a stepping-stone to statewide non-partisan elections and is a step in the right direction. There is no particular reason why a man should have to designate party politics in announcing himself a candidate for any office in the state. We are pleased to see that the legislature has decided to take away the party designation for county and legislative officers.

Making Father Work.

St. Joseph News-Press: Every community is more or less pestered with derelict husbands, who are either too lazy to work or so mean that they will not contribute of their earnings to the support of their families, and the question of how to deal with these chaps is frequently a puzzling one. Lew Dockstader's ditty, relating that "Everybody works but father,

He sits around all day,
Feet up against the fire,
Smoking his pipe of clay.
Mother takes in washing,
So does Sister Ann;
Everybody works 'round our house
But my old man."

tells the story of many a household where the head of the family, who should provide for the others, is himself the dependent.

Out in Washington, where the women vote the same as the men, they have brought about a new law on this subject, under the provisions of which the lazy and negligent husband can be haled into court, sentenced to a term of work, and be made to yield as much as $1.50 per day to his family. Under this arrangement the worker gets his board and lodging and the family gets the cash proceeds. Under the old law for wife desertion the husband was fattened in the county jail while his family starved or sought alms. The new law has aroused a surprising volume of interest in and around Seattle, and it is predicted that there will be many more or less willing workers in the vineyard and on the public roads after June 14.

Certainly this law is in the right direction. Father should work if he is physically able and can get a job. The Missouri law is as lame in its attitude towards this class of offenders as the discarded Washington law was. It can put them behind the bars for failure to support, but while they are luxuriating in jail their families are dependent upon public and private charity. The Washington law compels them to work and gives their earnings to the family, and that's the better and more practical way.

The Garden of Lost Roses.

Oh, beware, sister mine, of the gardens
Where the white roses bleed themselves red,
And the winds are a-moan in the shadows
O'er the ashes of red roses dead.

There the dawn is a message of anguish,
And the merciful angels behold
The scarred and the shriveling petals
Of roses adrift from the fold.

And their tears gently fall through the stardust,
A sorrow-torn, pitiful dew,
On the lives that have lost all their fragrance,
On the dreams that can never come true.

What Makes People Helpless.

David Grayson in the American Magazine: I have many times found among our American farmers an intelligence (a literacy growing out of what I believe to be improper education) which was better able to discuss the problems of rural life than to grapple with and solve them. A dull, illiterate Polish farmer, I have found, will sometimes succeed much better at the job of life than his American neighbor.

Talk with almost any man for half an hour, and you will find that his conversation, like an old-fashioned song, has a regularly recurrent chorus. I soon discovered Mr. Clark's chorus.

"Now, if only I had a little cash," he sang, or, "If I had a few dollars, I could do so and so."

Why, he was as helplessly dependent upon money as any soft-handed millionairess. He considered himself poor and helpless because he lacked dollars, whereas people are really poor and helpless only when they lack courage and faith.

A Millionaire's Happiest Moment.

Popular Magazine: Just after Governor B. B. Comer of Alabama had won his election following a long, hard struggle for the job, his friends were congratulating him, and one remarked:

"I suppose this is the happiest day of your life, governor."

"No," replied the governor, who is said to be worth more than a million dollars. "I shall never forget the happiest moment of my life. I'll tell you about it. For five years after my marriage, Mrs. Comer and I had a hard time making a living. We were trying to buy a little home, and it was a tough fight. The day she and I went to pay the last note on that small house was the happiest of my life. I never expect to have another like it."

Contagion in Scarlatina.

We are forced to reason from analogy that scarlet fever, the most dangerous of all infections of childhood, is due to a specific germ; for though many attempts have been made, and are constantly being made to discover a germ which could be proved reponsible for the disease, the results so far have been largely negative. Therefore, the prevention of epidemics and the checking of those in progress must be carried out on rules which experience has shown to be more or less effective; and the contrpl by bacteriological findings, which has proved so successful in diphtheria, is not available in scarlatina. It is, however, pretty well understood that the chief source of infection is the patient himself, although it may be carried in clothing, toys, etc., for long periods of time. It differs from measles in these respects: 1. It is probably not infectious until after the development of the rash, and 2. The infection is present until long after the fever subsides; in fact, until all complications have become better, and scaling of the skin is completed.

It is thought that the contagion resides principally in the outer layer of skin, but it is known also to be, at times, scattered from nasal secretion. from the urine in cases having involvement of the kidneys, and from ear discharges in those suffering from ear complications.

There is little doubt, however, that the scales coming from the skin of those recovering from the disease are the main source of contagion, and that when a case has thoroughly peeled, been carefully washed, and dressed in uninfected clothing, there is practically an end to infection.

The susceptibility to scarlatina is not nearly so general as to measles, smallpox or chicken-pox; for of ten children exposed, there will only be about one-half who will take the disease, while in measles the number would be none, and in smallpox, when unprotected by vaccination, the percentage is fully as high, or higher. The infection, not being spread until after the rash appears and the diagnosis made easy, it is, however controlled more easily than in the case of measles. From the time of exposure to infection until the onset is rarely more than four to seven days; and if ten days elapse after exposure without any sign of the illness the child may be considered as having escaped. The onset, as a rule, is abrupt, and the symptoms are in direct proportion to the severity of the attack. In severe cases, there is vomiting, convulsions or chills with a following rapid rise in temperature and increasing soreness of the throat; while in mild cases there may be no suspicion of infection until the appearance of the rash; the throat may only be slightly inflamed, and the temperature rise only slightly above normal. The mild cases are, however, sometimes the cause of serious complications, and it is known that they may spread the disease in its most serious form.

The ear and kidney complications of this disease are the ones to be most dreaded, but may be guarded against and often avoided by care in keeping the throat clean and the kidneys well flushed during the height of the attack. So far as contagion goes, it is the mild cases that are the most dangerous, and this because all symptoms may have been overlooked until scaling takes place. And as infection from these cases may be of the most severe character, it is necessary for the medical school inspector to be constantly on the alert for scaling hands or noses, in children who may have been out of school for a few days.

Questions and Answers.

Hygrometer Trouble.

E. G. H. writes: My two thermometers, when dry, register 1 deg. apart. The one registering highest is used as the wet bulb. The muslin is placed on the bulb in accordance with the instruction given by the United States weather bureau. When in ordinarily still air the present reading is as follows:

Dry bulb .....70 deg.
Wet bulb .....62 deg.
Variations with correction..... 9 deg.
Relative humidity .....60 deg.

When using a fan for one minute on the bulbs they read:

Dry bulb .....75 deg.
Wet bulb .....58 deg.
Variation with correction.....18 deg.
Relative humidity .....30 deg.

The above readings were made two minutes apart and verified by subsequent readings.

My house is seven rooms, furnace heated, furnace provided with three two-gallon pans, using from seven to ten gallons in twenty-four hours. The windows are always frosted and steamed, even in moderately cool weather, except in direct sunlight.

Can you tell me what is the matter with my thermometers?

REPLY.

I suspect that when you fan the bulbs a direct current of hot air from the register strikes the thermometers. The hygrometer should be placed so that fanning will bring the still air of the room around the bulbs. Fanning should have no influence on the dry bulb, but will always lower the mercury in the wet bulb 2 or 3 deg. So I would judge the relative humidity of the air would be about 58 per cent and the 30 per cent reading referred to the air as it came from the hot air register.

Catarrh of Stomach.

H. Z. writes: 1. What is catarrh of the stomach? What is its usual cause and is it the cause of a coated tongue? I have a good appetite and eat three times daily, but choose my food very carefully. I am troubled with constipation and required to take laxatives most of the time. What general rules of diet would be best for me to follow, in the attempt to rid myself of this bad catarrh?

REPLY.

1. An inflammation of the mucous membrane, lining the stomach. From your symptoms I would guess that your catarrhal condition, if present at all, is very slight, and probably caused entirely from the constipation. Forget about it and endeavor to remedy the chronic constipation by means of diet, not by the use of drugs. Eat lots of fruit and vegetables, use a little bran bread or bran mush if necessary, drink plenty of water between meals and a glassful of either hot or cold water just before eating. Take regular exercise in the open air and your constipation and coated tongue will, in all probability, disappear. Those who do not thoroughly chew their food, or live on liquid or very soft foods invariably have coated tongues. Coarse foods which require thorough mastication will remedy this condition, and also have a tendency to keep the bowel action regular.

High Blood Pressure.

W. B. inquires: What is the cause of high blood pressure?

REPLY.

The causes are several; the most important being a hardening of the arteries. Temporary high pressure is produced most frequently by emotional storms, tobacco and alcohol. These temporary periods are usually followed by a period of low blood pressure, this being particularly true of the high pressure produced by alcohol and tobacco.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pimples will vanish after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Nothing ever cleansed the blood, the bowels and the liver like Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are the only successful substitute for calomel—they oil the bowels; there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Olive Tablets do all that calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Try them. Take one nightly for a week. Then look at yourself in the glass and see how you feel. 10c and 25c per box.

when it came to working out a plan of reorganization, to have efficiency experts employed to draft a scheme for the consideration of the commission.

This will hardly be possible under the bill as it stands.

The measure provides for a joint legislative committee consisting of three senators to be appointed by Lieutenant Governor Burnquist and four representatives to be appointed by Speaker Rinaa, to be known as "the efficiency committee of Minnesota." The committee is to continue in existence until the first Monday in January, 1915, and it must report to the members of the next legislature not earlier than Nov. 15, 1914. This date is fixed not only because it will not be known who will constitute the next legislature before that date, but also to keep the report out of the campaign which will have ended just before.

Duties of the Commission.

The duties of the commission are thus described in the following paragraph from the bill:

"It shall be the duty of such committee to forthwith effectively and thoroughly inquire into, investigate and consider all of the business and governmental affairs of the state and the present and past operations of the various offices, boards, commissions and associations, and the conduct of their superintendents, managers and employes, for the purpose of considering and determining the most simple, efficient and economical systems of conducting all state affairs in harmonious co-ordination and without duplication of effort or expense. It shall also investigate and report upon the regularity and correctness of the work of all of said state offices and employes. Such committee may also investigate the system of administration of governmental and other state affairs in use or in contemplation in other states and otherwise inform itself on the subject. It shall forthwith report to the governor, with a duplicate to the attorney general, all irregularities of officials and employes and all other matters requiring civil or criminal action on behalf of the state. It shall forthwith report to the governor all recommendations which can be carried into effect by executive action alone. It shall report to the legislature of 1915 a full statement of all its labors and findings and its recommendations and suggestions for the attaining of greater simplicity, efficiency and economy in all matters investigated by it and shall also report to the legislature all other matters which might be of general information to the legislature concerning the purpose to be attained. It shall accompany such report with a full draft of all legislation for the carrying into effect of all proposed legislative remedies. It shall forward to each member-elect of the Thirty-ninth session of the legislature not earlier than the tenth nor later than the fifteenth of November, 1914, a copy of the report above referred to, including the full text of all bills proposed."

The house voted down all attempts to give the governor a share in the work. The Lydiard amendment providing for the appointment of the committee by the governor, chief justice and attorney general was voted down, 43 to 61.

Representative Hopkins then proposed an amendment which was in the nature of a compromise, and which provided for two senators, three representatives, and two at large to be appointed by the governor.

Representative Lydiard said the whole scheme was wrong, and that what ought to be done was to employ recognized efficiency experts who would frame a system of reorganized state government that would be worth something, without the slightest taint of politics in the process.

Representative R. C. Dunn said the Hopkins amendment meant divided responsibility.

Representative Finke thought the governor as much entitled to a share in the work as the legislature, and he favored the amendment, though he said he was one of those who didn't vote for Eberhart.

The amendment was beaten, 63 to 30.

One Must Be Democrat.

Representative Albert Pfaender, the Democratic house leader, got in the only successful amendment that was offered from outside the organization. It provides that at least one member of the committee from each house must be a Democrat. Representative Wefald, author of the bill, accepted the amendment, and it was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Representative Sawyer pointed out that the Dunn amendment cutting the appropriation in two killed the bill to all intents and purposes, as $15,000 was entirely inadequate.

Representative R. C. Dunn said that in his opinion it was plenty.

The bill was passed, and a motion to reconsider its passage having been voted down it went on its way to the senate.

County Division Bill.

The general opinion in the senate yesterday afternoon was that though Senator Boyle had reserved the right to try it again by a motion to reconsider the county division bill was dead. The motion can only be made today or tomorrow. If it is not made tomorrow, it cannot be made at all.

A number of those who voted with Senator Boyle yesterday did so as the result of personal pledges, and some of them felt that they had discharged their obligations by voting for the bill yesterday. Senator Boyle managed to get more votes for his bill than had been expected, but it is not believed that he can get any more if so many in another attempt.

The house bill is on general orders in that body, but if the senate bill is finally disposed of it will hardly be worth while moving it. It means a fight, and even if it were passed it could not be considered in the senate in the short time remaining except by a suspension of the rules, which it would not be possible to get because it requires a two-thirds vote.

The range representatives have done their best to get the bill through, but they have been up against these stubborn facts:

First—That there is utterly no demand for the bill anywhere else in the state, and the representatives of all the large counties that might be divided are strongly against it.

Second—That though general in terms, the fact that the bill was asked for only from a part of St. Louis county made it in effect a local bill. Though the matter has embarrassed the friends of the St. Louis county members on both sides, so far as it was a local measure they could not overlook the fact that a majority of the St. Louis county delegation in both branches are against the bill.

House Passes Recall Bill.

The senate recall bill, originally introduced by Senator John Moonan of Wasecа, passed the house yesterday afternoon by a vote of 82 to 6, and it now goes back to the senate. No difficulty in getting together on the differences between the two houses is expected, and there may not even be need of a conference committee; though the senate is not unlikely to object to the amendment adopted by the house which provides that no more than 20 per cent of the voters shall be required to sign a recall petition.

The senate made 20 per cent the minimum, allowing the legislature to require a higher percentage. The house has made it the maximum, but allows the legislature to require lower percentages. As the usual requirement on local recall petitions, as for instance in Duluth under the new charter, is 25 per cent, the senate may wish to change this provision, in which case a conference committee will become necessary. The provisions of the bill are as follows:

"Every public official in Minnesota, elective or appointive, shall be subject to recall from office by the electors of his official or electoral district as herein provided. A petition demanding his recall, setting forth the reasons therefor, signed by a number of electors in his district, equal to not more than 20 per cent or such smaller per cent as may be fixed by law of those who voted in such district for governor at the last preceding election, shall be filed in the office where petitions for nomination to such office are filed, or in such other office as may be provided by law, and the officer in whose office such petition is filed shall order a special election for such recall. If such official shall resign within five days after such petition is filed, the vacancy thereby created shall be filled as may be provided by law; but if he shall not so resign, such special election, to be held within twenty-five days after the filing of the petition, shall be called to determine whether such official shall be recalled. On the official ballot at such election shall be printed, in not more than 200 words, the reasons for demanding the recall of such official, as set forth in the petition, and in not more than 200 words such official's justification of his course in office. Such official shall continue to perform the duties of his office until the result of such election shall be officially declared. No such petition shall be signed or filed against any official until he shall have held office six months; and no petition shall be signed or filed for the recall of any judicial official within sixty days of the decision, ruling or act complained of in the petition. Such additional legislation as may aid in the operation of this section shall be provided by law. At such election no person shall be voted for, and the only proposition submitted shall be the recall of such official. Any person recalled, as provided in this section, shall be ineligible to fill the vacancy caused by his recall."

Woodmen Bill Passes.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the O'Neill house bill providing for the wants of the would-be secessionist members of the Modern Woodmen of America.

Though the bill was much amended in the senate committee, the senate yesterday afternoon voted down all amendments that were offered except one providing that no new organization can be formed unless it has at least 7,500 members.

As it stands, the bill authorizes secession when half the local camps, within two years from the passage of the bill, adopt resolutions in favor of secession by a majority vote amounting to at least 40 per cent of all the members of each. Individual members may remain with the old organization, without regard to what their local lodges do. Though the bill is general in its terms, and applies to all fraternal beneficiary organizations, it is intended only for the Woodmen.

The bill passed by a vote of 40 to 17.

It is much more conservative in its terms than it was as it passed the house, and it is said not to be satisfactory by leading secessionists like John Sundoan of Minneapolis, who is one of the leaders of the revolt.

In the debate yesterday afternoon, which consumed the entire half day, Senator F. L. Duxbury predicted that the result of the bill would be a "sick old men's society" which would go down in a year.

Representative Frank Hopkins yesterday afternoon gave notice of a motion to make the "blue sky" bill a special order for some day next week.

The house yesterday afternoon passed the following bills:

By Senator C. F. Cook—Providing for a commission to mark the graves of Minnesota soldiers in the national cemeteries at Little Rock and Memphis.

By Senator Putnam—Removing the limit of thirty on the number of agricultural high schools entitled to state aid in any one year.

By Senator Denegre—Admitting to the state soldiers' home women who acte as nurses in the Civil war.

By Representative Reed—Appropriating $7,500 for a statue to the late Henry M. Rice to be erected in statuary hall in the national capitol.

By Representative Burchard — Proposed constitutional amendment lengthening the terms of judges of probate to four years.

ACCURATE DOCTORS' FIGURES AGREE

Mr. Joseph Justice, a Chicago business man, 409 W. Randolph Street, was declared by two physicians to have Diabetes. One of the physicians was his family doctor and the other one was an M. D. in the Columbus Building. To make doubly sure he had two analyses made and to show how accurate the physicians were, both reports showed four-sixteenths of one per cent of sugar.

Justice put himself on Fulton's Diabetic Compound and cut out sugars, sweets and starches. He began to feel better after the third week. Improvement was continuous and on the disappearance of the symptoms he went to a third physician, an eminent Chicago specialist.

The doctor's charge was $20.00 for 25 minutes, but he writes that the examination was worth ten times what he paid for it. The doctor reported him strong and healthy and his analysis disclosed no trace of sugar or albumen.

Mr. Justice knew that the careful tests before and after made this a record case and kindly gave us the details.

If you have Diabetes and are over fifty you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Diabetic Compound before giving up. It can be had at druggists, supplied by Lelthhead Drug Co. Ask for pamphlet or write Jno. J. Fulton Co., San Francisco

WEST DULUTH COMMERCIAL CLUB'S ANNUAL BANQUET AGAIN PROVES MOST NOTABLE GATHERING---SPEAKERS HAIL DAWNING OF NEW ERA OF PROSPERITY FOR CITY

HALL IS TOO SMALL FOR THE CROWD

Hundreds Are Turned Away Unable to Gain Admission.

New Commissioners Make Their First Appearance Since Election.

Governor and Railroad Heads on the List of Speakers.

West Duluth's most famous banquet passed into history last night when the eleventh annual gathering of the West Duluth Commercial club was held at the Bermedy hall. Nearly 500 business and professional men from all parts of the city were present at the affair and about 200 were turned away for lack of room.

Duluth's wonderful future was painted by every speaker and never has a banquet been held where optimism so prevailed.

In addition to the banquet and regular program of speakers, Duluth was given its first opportunity of welcoming the new city commissioners and Mayor Prince. It was their first public appearance, and the reception given them as they arose to address the gathering speaks well for the hearty co-operation that promises to exist between the city officials and the citizens of Duluth.

The large hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, small electric lights being strung throughout the room. A large welcome sign was stretched across the south side of the hall. The dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Westminster Presbyterian church, and was a credit to the organization.

TOASTMASTER C. G. FUTTER.

The diners marched into the hall while Berglund's mandolin orchestra played several selections. Rev. Walter Sievers of the St. Stephen's German Lutheran church gave the invocation, after which the dinner was served.

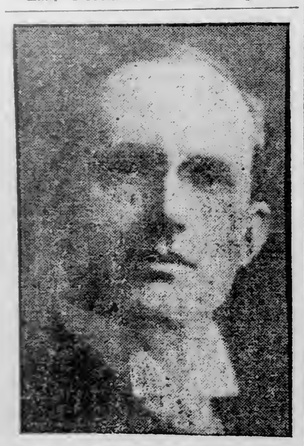

Futter Toastmaster.

A. G. Macauley, president of the club, made the opening address of welcome, in which he introduced Charles G. Futter as the toastmaster for the evening.

Mayor W. I. Prince was the first speaker of the evening and he especially urged co-operation between the city at large and the new commission. He asked for the patience and confidence of all the voters while the new commissioners are trying to reorganize the city government.

"The city of Duluth may well be proud of the West Duluth Commercial club," said the mayor, "for it has passed through most trying times during the past eleven years and is now a great factor in the life of the city.

"Last December Duluth adopted a new form of government, which will go into effect next Monday noon and it will undergo the severest test imaginable before this year is out. The old system served well to an extent, but it did not suffice for modern needs, so we took the best there was in it and worked out a new government.

MAYOR-ELECT W. I. PRINCE.

"You have chosen five men, or should I say four men, the other being yet a guess, to conduct the affairs of your city. They are the directors of this business system, which they are to put on trial. But however effective the provisions of this new system are, they will never operate automatically. And the responsibility does not lie on the men you have chosen, but on you alone, fellow citizens. These men are only your agents, commissioned by you to direct your own affairs, and you can control them in every respect.

"The responsibility under the commission government is more yours than any other municipal system in existence. You are expecting a great deal out of this system and you have a perfect right to.

"The commissioners ask your indulgence and patience while this city government is being reorganized. It is not a task for a week, a month and perhaps not a year. First the divisions must all be organized and then each commissioner must arrange for the responsibilities in his division. In behalf of the other commissioners I bespeak your indulgence, your patience and your confidence.

"I know you have not chosen a single commissioner who does not earnestly desire to run your government properly. We shall endeavor to be fair and do all we can with the possibilities at hand. You have eliminated all partisanship from your city and there is no more east, west, north or south. It is purely a business proposition from now on.

"Let us perform this new government with an earnest pull for a great prosperous city. We must have absolute co-operation and teamwork from not only every man, woman and child in the city, but from every locality."

Great credit for the success of the banquet is due Andrew Myles, chairman of the banquet committee, and its members. The committee follows: Andrew Myles, chairman; M. J. Murray, secretary; L. A. Barnes, W. B. Getchell, Dr. E. W. Boerner, C. G. Futter, Charles Kauppi, M. J. Filiatrault, F. Gottwald, Jr., E. J. Zauft, David Sang, L. B. Blechl, Frank Gottwald, Sr., H. W. EBERHART IN GENIAL MOOD

Distributes Verbal Bouquets to Knapp, Prince, West Duluth, Duluth and Northern Minnesota.

Governor Eberhart, who responded to the toast, "State of Minnesota" was in a happy vein. He was profuse with his praise of the West Duluth schools which he had visited earlier in the day. He declared that he was glad to bring to Duluth—and especially West Duluth—the best wishes of the state on that occasion.

The governor returned Representative Cleon T. Knapp's compliment, handing the Chisholm man one of the nicest bouquets of the evening. He declared that Mr. Knapp was one of the fine, splendid young men of Minnesota, one who has a promising future and to whom one can look forward for bigger things and greater accomplishments.

"Of course, he may make mistakes once in a while—like myself. But what of the man that does not make a mistake occasionally? I am tempted to quote from Elbert Hubbard. I like his sentiment but I apologize for his language. Fra Elbertus once said: 'Show me the man who has never made a mistake and I will show you the man who isn't worth a damn.'"

The governor said he was glad to get back to West Duluth again, glad to be able to enjoy the banquets for which the western suburb of Duluth was famous. He declared that he had tasted dinners served by every church in West Duluth. The banquet he declared drew a larger crowd every year. He felt sure, he said, that were the hall twice as large, there would still be people turned away.

Bouquet for Prince.

Governor Eberhart paid a nice tribute to Mayor-elect Prince. He complimented Duluth on its selection of officials under the commission form of government. "I believe that the people of Duluth have made no mistake. I am a pretty good judge of men. I have looked them over and I believe that they are the right kind of men to fill the positions."

The governor declared that he had always been in favor of the commission form of government for cities, first, because responsibility might be fixed on one man while under the ward system it could be shuttlecocked back and forth, and second, because it put the affairs of the municipality on a business basis and in the hands of a few men who are experienced in business affairs.

The speaker declared that he was glad again to visit the site of Minnesota's great steel plant and that he was pleased to have an opportunity to pass the word along throughout the state that in Duluth the word "steel" is not spelled "steal."

GOVERNOR A. O. EBERHART.

He pointed to the fact that the great industry would eventually feed thousands of people who would be directly or indirectly dependent upon it for support.

The governor emphasized the importance of the agricultural resources of St. Louis county and declared that with the country tributary to Duluth filled with actual tillers of the soil, this city would be assured a prosperity of a permanent sort.

He assured his listeners that Duluth was entitled to every consideration of the state in the development of the wonderful resources of this section of the state. He congratulated the citizens of West Duluth on their spirit of optimism.

W. L. MARTIN SAYS SOO LINE HAS GREAT FAITH IN DULUTH

Greetings from the Soo railroad were brought to the people of Duluth and West Duluth last evening by W. L. Martin, vice president and general manager of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie railroad.

Mr. Martin spoke at the West Duluth Commercial club banquet on the topic of transportation and confined his remarks to this general line of thought. He declared that he knew of no place in the Middle West so well situated for future growth as was the city of Duluth.

He pointed to the mines tributary to the city and also to the great agricultural section which he claimed had not been developed to speak of except in the past few years. He declared that Duluth was just coming into her own.

As to transportation facilities, this city had been exceptionally well favored, he said, both by water and rail.

Tribute to Soo Road.

Toastmaster Futter in introducing Mr. Martin took occasion to say that the Soo railroad, of which the guest of honor was a representative, had been good to Duluth, that it had spent considerable money in getting into Duluth, and that it had taken the initiative in the matter of rate reduction.

Mr. Martin appeared on the program as a personal representative of President Edward Pennington of the Soo line, who had been invited to attend, but was unable to get to Duluth for the occasion, having been delayed in the West.

Letter From Pennington.

Mr. Pennington's letter to the Commercial club in which he expressed regret in not being able to attend the banquet was read by the toastmaster. It was as follows:

"Hot Springs, Va., April 3, 1913.

"Angus G. Macauley, president West Duluth Commercial club, West Duluth, Minn.

"My Dear Sir: I have received the letter of March 19 from the committee. I wish you would say to the committee for me that I am at Hot Springs, Va., and owing to the recent floods it is impossible for me to be at Duluth by April 10. The branch line that I am on is washed out and it will be several days before trains can move. If you would send an invitation to W. L. Martin, vice president in charge of traffic, no doubt he would be very glad to be with you. I regret exceedingly that it will be impossible for me to be with you.

"I should be very glad to be at West Duluth on this occasion and state to you the confidence that we have in your city and territory. I look upon Duluth as a coming Gary. You have the material to make it so and the water transportation and in time will have the very best of rail transportation; all that will be necessary to make your center what it should be.

"We have many plans for the future improvement of our system at the Head of the Lakes. Within the last five years our company has spent many millions of dollars, showing our confidence in your city and the territory; opening up a vast territory to your city which you did not have access to until these lines were built; somewhere in the neighborhood of 140 stations that you have now direct access to, stations that are all growing and are of great advantage to your merchants.

"There is much that your Commercial club can do in the way of settling up and advertising your country tributary to your city, which must keep pace with the city or the city must stop. Our company and all the railway companies leading to your city are advertising and doing all they can along these lines and anything that the Commercial club can do should be done for our mutual benefit.

"Again regretting my inability to be present, I am, very truly yours,

"E. PENNINGTON,
"President."

KNAPP MAKES BRIGHT AND WITTY TALK ON LEGISLATION

Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm opened his address with several humorous remarks about the governor and members of the legislature and then delved into several of the bills that have been passed in the interest of Northern Minnesota, chief among which is the reapportionment bill. His address was one of the hits of the evening.

CLEON T. KNAPP.

"In connection with the interests of Northern Minnesota," said the speaker, "one of the greatest blessings that has ever come to this section of the state came when Governor Eberhart signed the reapportionment bill, which gave this section of the state the representation to which she has been so justly entitled. Governor Johnson once said that if Northern Minnesota had had its just representation in the state legislature the tonnage tax would never have passed the two houses.

"In fairness to Southern Minnesota it was a great concession to us and a tribute to these men who considered the whole state. Under the new bill St. Louis, Cook and Lake counties will have five senators and ten representatives. The Seventh and Eighth wards of your city will have one senator and two representatives of their own.

"A bill that narrowly missed passing this year was the referendum bill, which is without doubt the best and latest thought in initiative and referendum. It was secured from the Ohio convention, with several important features annexed by the state legislature. Chief among these is the one providing for a direct enactment of laws by petition of the people. The legislature can amend a bill if it so desires, but a further petition by the people opposing these amendments will make the bill a law, if the necessary number of voters sign it.

"I have heard your governor give two addresses, but what was in my opinion the most impressive, is the one in which he called attention to the tuberculosis situation in this state. He made a statement which appealed to every member of the house, when he declared that every morning that the members of the legislature assembled seven lives were wiped out by this disease. In conformance with his request a law was passed which will enable every county to erect a tubercular sanitarium.

"The workmen's compensation act now before the house is not a perfect bill. No bill is perfect, because there is no perfect mind. But it is absolutely necessary that this bill be established as a law and made as a foundation for future amendments.

"A pessimist is one who blows out the light to see how dark it is. What we need is optimists in this state. Let us all put our shoulders to the wheel, not only for the community in which we live, but for the entire state. I am mindful of the struggles of those who came here in the early days. By force of muscle and brain endeavor they succeeded in making a state out of a plain wilderness. Let us not forget this constructive work and that we should continue what they started."

"LON" MERRITT, PIONEER, WANTS "DECENT TRAIL" TO WEST DULUTH

"I don't claim to be the man who put the water in the lake. No. I don't claim that. But I do say that I lived back in the early days of the city for about fifteen years on fish that was taken from the lake and bay."

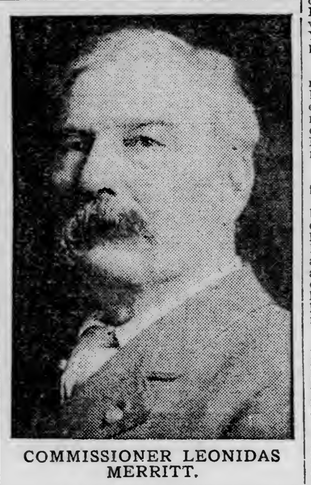

This is a short extract from the speech of Leonidas Merritt, commissioner-elect, who was one of the speakers at the banquet last evening. Mr. Merritt was the only West Duluth man elected to a place on the new city council.

Mr. Merritt declared that one of his aims would be, while serving as commissioner, would be to secure a "decent trail" between West Duluth and Duluth. "We have had the old rough and rugged road for a half a century now. That's long enough. I want you to help me get a new one," he said.

Mr. Merritt during his talk told of some of his early connections with pioneer life in Duluth. Save but one, he declares that he is the oldest living man who landed in Duluth.

"A half century ago, I planted my faith in West Duluth and there it rests still. I want to thank my fellow citizens here for the honors they have bestowed upon me from time to time. You have perhaps forgotten most of them. I want to assure you that I have not. You may have forgotten the fact that I was president of your first village council. Now you have elected me to represent you on your new city council under the commission form of government. I hope that you will never have occasion to regret it."

Mr. Merritt during his talk recalled many incidents of early days in Duluth. Among other things he mentioned that he was the oldest of a class of fifteen children who attended the first school established on the north shore of Lake Superior in Minnesota. He also stated that he was the first—or one of the first—men to represent this district in the state legislature.

COMMISSIONER LEONIDAS MERRITT.

HEAD OF TRAFFIC COMMISSION BRIEFLY DISCUSSES FREIGHT RATES

Before introducing Julius H. Barnes Mr. Futter announced that a telegram had been received from Governor McGovern of Wisconsin stating that the present session of the Wisconsin legislature would compel him to remain in Madison. The governor exceedingly regretted his inability to be present at the banquet, the telegram stated.

Mr. Barnes gave a very interesting talk on freight rates and the work of the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club. He said in part:

"You have won the admiration of your big brother, the Duluth Commercial club, in your effective work during the past ten years. The West Duluth club is an admirable organization and deserving of the praise it is now receiving.

"In regard to transportation and freight rates, the traffic commission is trying to study the subjects with a view of eliminating the discrimination that has been so apparent during the past few years. Duluth should receive the full benefit of its resources and is now insisting on its rights. It is willing to hear the other side and is fairminded enough to give in, if justice so demands it.

"The traffic commission started its work three years ago and during the past twelve months has made an extensive progress in correcting the many phases of the traffic question. We have secured 129 corrections of rates and services, were refused but three times. We withdrew 31 cases because of lack of merit and we now have 78 cases under consideration.

"The new Wisconsin tariff decision and the rate change offered by the Soo road last week will further extend the commercial supremacy of Duluth.

"Forty years ago a freight rate was a commodity to be bought and sold and it was not until twenty years ago that the government took control by means of its interstate commerce commission. Today there is not a railroad president in the country but what he does not agree with the sentiment of the government in this respect. The United States is the only country on the globe that is trying to obtain absolute control of freight rates.

JULIUS H. BARNES.

"Another interesting feature of transportation and of more vital importance is the excessive cost of cartage. It is the duty of every county in this state to improve and protect its roads. The excessive cost of cartage can easily be reduced in this manner."

HICKEN SAYS HE WILL ENFORCE LAW IMPARTIALLY

W. A. Hicken, commissioner-elect, when he was called upon to make a few remarks, announced the policy of the department of public safety, of which he will be in charge, according to the present arrangements of the commission.

"It will be my policy if named commissioner of public safety to carry out the law without fear or favor," he said. It will be strictly and impartially enforced. Immorality must be checked. Disorderliness must cease. I ask the co-operation of the people of Duluth to help me to bring about better conditions.

"The commission will give the best there is in it. We have held several meetings so far and we are trying to do good for the greatest number. We realize the responsibilities and opportunities before us and we expect to handle these and meet them with the most efficient methods. Efficiency will be our motto at all times.

"The commissioners realize and believe, as well as all of you believe, that we are going to have a great and industrious city. And for this reason it is absolutely necessary to have a good government city. We only want the respect of the law and we promise that the law will protect you."

COMMISSIONER W. A. HICKEN.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE BANQUET

Some Incidents, Serious and Otherwise of the Evening's Entertainment.

G. A. Goodell, general manager of the Northern Pacific; G. A. Mitchell, assistant general manager, and C. L. Nichols, general superintendent of the road, were among the honor guests of the banquet. They represented the road in place of Howard W. Elliott, president, who was called East Sunday evening.

Mr. Goodell, before addressing the audience, read the following telegram from Mr. Elliott: "Please say to the committee and Governor Eberhart that I regret exceedingly the engagement which compels me to remain in New York. I extend the best wishes for a pleasant occasion."

C. G. Futter, toastmaster, in commenting on the statement made by President Macauley concerning his recent candidacy for short term commissioner, said: "I wasn't running for office, nor did I care for the position. I was just out trying to get some dope for the banquet."

President Macauley told the following on Judge-elect Harry W. Lanners: "Lanners was out getting some votes before the election and happened to drop in on some friends living on the hillside. While coming down the hill Lanners slipped and started down at a fast clip. He ran into a fat woman and then both she and Lanners kept on going. When they struck the curb, Lanners yelled from underneath, 'You'll have to excuse me lady, but this is as far as I go.'"

In introducing Mayor Prince, Mr. Futter said: "He may not be our mayor always, but he is now. And as this may be the only opportunity he will ever have of addressing you as the mayor, I take great pleasure in introducing Mayor-elect Prince."

The present contest among the mayoralty candidates brought many humorous remarks from the speakers, chief among which were from Mayor Prince himself. "There are almost as many here tonight as were in the recent fight," he said. "I appreciate this opportunity to speak to you this first—and maybe last time."

Just before introducing Representative Knapp, Toastmaster Futter announced a violin duet, "Dreamy Moments," which was cancelled owing to the absence, at that time, of the soloists. Said Mr. Knapp: "I do not quite understand the announcement of 'Dreamy Moments,' its cancellation, and then my substitution."

"I am going to be as brief as I can," said Mr. Knapp in opening his address, "for brevity is the soul of wit and the essence of common sense. The poem, which is even shorter than the name itself, appeals to me very much at this time. The title of the poem is 'The Antiquity of the Microbe' and the poem is 'Adam Had 'em.'"

"I have been in the legislature the past three months," said Representative Knapp, "and it is a treat tonight to look into your honest faces.

"The attributes of an after dinner speaker are like a mother hubbard dress. They cover everything and touch nothing.

"A man recently was talking to a large audience on the conservation of the natural resources. He was dwelling on the lakes and streams when he cried out that they would all dry up, if not properly conserved. A voice in the rear was then heard, 'Go thou and do likewise.'"

Governor Eberhart stated that he had heard much about the woodchuck as the state bird, but that in his belief, since visiting the schools in West Duluth, the stork would be about the best bird for this end of the city.

The governor greatly commended Duluth on the selection of Mayor Prince and added: "You have not only elected a prince but a real king. For you have by his initials, W. I., Wilhelm the I, Prince. When I return here, and if he is in office, it would be only right for me to say, Hoch der Kaiser, Wilhelm the First."

"You all know N. P., of course, and her sister Soo," said Mr. Futter, "and as ladies always come first, I shall call on Mr. Martin, vice president and general manager of the Soo road."

"We have without a doubt the greatest harbor in the world, and some of us would like to have another one just like it," said Toastmaster Futter. "Well, if we could import John Dwan, we would have Two Harbors."

BRIEF RESPONSES BY MURCHISON AND DWAN

Commissioner Roderick Murchison gave a short talk in which he asked for the co-operation of the residents of West Duluth and the city at large. He promised an efficient government at all times.

Commissioner Fred Voss, who was scheduled to address the diners, was unable to be present, owing to a slight illness.

JOHN DWAN.

John Dwan of Two Harbors, who styles himself the best friend Duluth has, gave a good-natured talk on the faults of the city. It was exceedingly humorous and won considerable applause. Mr. Dwan has been a guest of the club at nearly every banquet during the past ten years.

RAILROAD IS CITIZEN

General Manager Goodell Tells of Northern Pacific's Interest in Duluth.

Says Road Will Keep Pace With Development of the City.

C. A. Goodell, general manager of the Northern Pacific railway, claimed for his road citizenship in Duluth, at the annual banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club last evening. Mr. Goodell said:

"There are times when we wish we were something else than what we are, and tonight I wish I were a minister, because there has come into my mind this afternoon and evening a passage from the Bible which fits so exactly into conditions here that if I were a minister tonight I should use it as a text and preach a sermon on it. The passage to which I refer is: 'For I am a citizen of no mean city,' and as a layman instead of a minister I shall use it as a text for the few words I have to say tonight.

"After what we have seen today, it is unnecessary to say what city I refer. In the use of the word 'I,' I refer to the railway company I have the honor to represent tonight, the Northern Pacific, and I use it advisedly because we claim citizenship with you in this city and community and the right to rejoice as a citizen with other citizens in the advancement to our city and community in the past, to hope for a continuance of prosperity in the future and the privilege of doing our part toward the production of such conditions as shall insure the continuation of the growth and prosperity of this community as well as all other communities of which we are likewise citizens.

Northern Pacific Holdings.

"Figures are ordinarily dry things, but I ask your indulgence for a minute while I cite just one or two in evidence of our citizenship with you. These figures refer to the interests of the Northern Pacific railway on the Duluth side of the St. Louis river.

"The Northern Pacific Railway company owns and controls about 6,500 miles of railroad, all lying in territory tributary in greater or less degree to Duluth. In addition it furnishes trackage to and terminal facilities for probably one-half of that amount of mileage of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, also lying in territory tributary to you. In order to properly care for the business from this territory which, taking advantage of your location, your energy, thrift and business ability draws to you, the Northern Pacific railway has now in West Duluth and Duluth 147 miles of track. The approximate value of its investment on this side of the St. Louis river is $13,000,000.

"Even this we find insufficient and must constantly add to it in order to provide proper facilities for the handling of the business transacted between you and the various communities served by us and for which it devolves upon us to furnish proper railway terminal facilities, and during the five years ending June 30, 1912, we expended over $2,000,000 in enlarging old facilities and furnishing new ones. Of this amount $453,593 was expended in West Duluth alone in the past calendar year. Surely a fair contribution to the development of a city by one of its citizens.

More to Come.

"Not only this, but I violate no confidence when I say that even yet our facilities are inadequate for the proper handling of our mutual business and still further increases are being planned which we are hoping financial conditions will so adjust themselves as to permit at least a start on this year.

"Over and through these terminals and your city has passed so far from the 1912 crop year, approximately 30,000 carloads of grain, and during the past fall and winter approximately 9,000 loads of coal were handled.

"Over the six great merchandise docks of this company there was handled during the season of 1912 very nearly half a million tons of freight.

"To perform its part in the handling of this great commerce requires a force of about 1,900 persons, whose earnings are about $150,000 per month, all of which goes into your business life blood.

"The facts and figures I have given in support of my claim to citizenship in this 'no mean city' for the Northern Pacific, and as an indication of the sincerity of its purpose to be no deadhead or drone in your future progress. On account of it we claim nothing except credit for what we conceive to be a fact—that is, that our developments have kept pace with the business development, and with all that makes for the best interests of our mutual city.

Function of the Railroad.

"You gentlemen represent the business interests of what I will call 'Greater Duluth.' Your business acumen and good judgment caused you to locate here and take advantage of your natural location at the head of inland water transportation; the function of the railway company has been to cooperate with you and take advantage of the conditions you have created, and to place themselves in condition to respond to the commercial demands of your business and that of all interests in this vicinity.

"We did not create these conditions, but we do undertake to respond to the demand these conditions make on us. We conceive that our first responsibility is to this city and to the other communities served by our line; to facilitate in every way commercial interchange between this community and those, and we are striving to maintain our service and facilities so as to do that.

"The Northern Pacific railway stands for the Northwest and has so stood for forty years. Your prosperity has been its prosperity and your adversity has been its adversity; today it exults with you in the splendid material results already achieved and the great prospects for the future. It can look around and, observing the splendid achievements of forty years mutual efforts, proudly exclaim: 'All of which I saw and part of which I was.'

"Then, continuing to take up and perform its proper and legitimate function with you for further advancement, we do so proclaiming: 'For I am a citizen of no mean city.'"

OHIO FLOODS RAISE PRICES

Fresh Vegetables and Fruits From Southern States Cost More.

Surplus of Water Interferes With Rail Shipments to the North.

The floods in the Ohio valley, interfering with rail transportation of fresh vegetables and fruits from the South to Northern markets, has caused a general stiffening of the prices of such products at Duluth. Many cars consigned for Duluth with such merchandise have been so badly tied up south of the flooded district that the Duluth merchants on whose orders the products were shipped have caused the cars to be diverted to Eastern markets and their contents sold there, rather than risk having products arrive at Duluth seriously behind time or in unsatisfactory condition.

Tomatoes from Florida have had quite an advance on account of this state of affairs. They are now selling at $2.50 for a six-basket crate, whereas a week ago they were at $3.

Louisiana strawberries, which a week ago were ruling at $2.50 to $2.75 for a 24-pint case, now sell for $2.75, and the market is very strong at that. The shipments of strawberries to Duluth have of late amounted to little, although the demand for them is quite keen. It would not be surprising to see them make a further advance in the near future.

Texas head lettuce and Florida wax and green beans have become so scarce that wholesalers decline to quote them. As soon as the general prices on these products become settled, a tremendous advance will without doubt be shown.

New potatoes during the past week have advanced from $3 to $3.25 per bushel hamper.

Home-grown cabbages are no longer on the market, the supply having been completely used up. In their place the market has Michigan cabbages, which are selling for the same price that the home-grown ones have been bringing.

Florida oranges are now practically out of the market, the season being about over. California oranges are higher. The quality is very fine. The oranges that are now being received are from what is known as the Duarte district of that state, not far from Los Angeles. The oranges of this region were not touched by the frosts that wrought such havoc in orange groves in other parts of California. The oranges that are coming from this district are the finest California navels that the market has had this year. A box of California navels of the size that brought $5 a week ago now sells for $5.25.

The grapefruit market is quite strong. The scarcity of oranges, by reason of the California frosts, has made the consumption of grapefruit uncommonly heavy this season.

The price of apples is quite stiff. The supplies on hand are no longer very large and the movement is still brisk. The strength of the apple market in the near future depends on the other fruits. As long as other fruits continue scarce and comparatively high, apples will continue to command at least as good a price as at present.

It is thought that pineapples will soon be arriving in full carloads lots from Florida. The pineapples now on the Duluth market are from Cuba and are probably much higher priced than the Floridas will be. Whether Florida pineapples will be plentiful or not remains to be seen. May and June are months when the Duluth housewives do their canning of pineapples, for the season is then at its height.

Bananas, the wholesale price of which at Duluth a week ago was 4 cents a pound, are now ruling at 4 to 4½ cents a pound. The price has stiffened as the advance of spring has widened the market and stimulated the demand. The wholesale price of bananas, delivered at New Orleans, is now $1.20 a hundredweight higher than it was a week ago.

Butter and cheese have been very steady during the past week and the price is just what it was a week ago. Eggs have gone up a little, the wholesale price at Duluth now being 19 and 20 cents, against 18 and 19 cents a week ago. The country roads have not been good and farmers have not done the usual amount of hauling to the country shipping points.

Poultry has hardly changed at all in price since a week ago. The market is very strong. There is hardly any live or fresh poultry to be had, though some has been obtained from Minneapolis during the past week. The demand is still being supplied almost entirely from the stock of frozen fowls which were put away late last fall and early in the winter. This stock is still fairly large. It is nothing unusual to see live and fresh poultry scarce at this time of the year. Farmers do not care to market their hens in the laying season.

Other kinds of meat are selling at the same high prices they commanded a week ago. The arrivals of livestock at the great packing centers of the country continue to be very small.

"BRIGHTEN UP" IS ROTARY SLOGAN

Unique Notice of Meeting Issued—Check for Relief Fund.

The next regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club will be held Monday evening at the offices of the Northwestern Paint company. The dinner will be followed by talks from several of the members upon different subjects dealing with the welfare of the city and its business interests.

It is the custom of the organization to send out notices of the meetings upon the stationery of the firm at which the next gathering is to take place. The notices this week have been varied with a neatly printed card on which the following cheery slogan is printed:

"To brighten up myself—to be optimistic, cheerful and good natured.

"To brighten up my home and to spread the brighten up spirit among my neighbors.

"To brighten up my business and to take pleasure as well as profit from it.

"To brighten up my town and promote its social, industrial and commercial progress.

"To promote the love of nature, sunshine and fresh air.

"To adopt 'Brighten Up' as my slogan."

G. H. Bate, secretary of the club, yesterday forwarded a check for $323.50 to the treasurer of the rotary relief fund, which is being devoted to aiding the sufferers from the recent floods. Contributions are being forwarded by Rotary clubs all over the country but the funds are used for the relief of any who are found to be worthy and in need of assistance. The clubs thus far have sent $7,000. It is expected that the total from Duluth will amount to $1,000. The local organization has about 130 members, but thus far only thirty have been asked for contributions.

Gray Hair Banished

It Can Be Nicely Darkened By a Simple Home Made Preparation.

A very simple preparation to darken gray hair, which can be made in your own house at very little expense, is made from one ounce of bay rum, a quarter ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. These ingredients can be procured at any drug store. You dissolve the Barbo Compound in 7 ounces of water, then add the other two ingredients, applying it once a week until the hair is darkened and then every two weeks to preserve the color and keep the scalp healthy. It is an excellent remedy for dandruff and other scalp disorders and keeps the hair soft and glossy. Unlike many store preparations, it does not rub off, make the hair sticky or color the scalp. It gives the hair a natural "young look," and there is really no occasion to have gray hair when this preparation can be so easily made. Insist on your druggist giving you Barbo Compound, for there is no other ingredient that takes its place in this mixture. He can always get it for you if you insist on it.

SEIDEL NOT ALLOWED TO SPEAK ABOUT STRIKE

Auburn, N. Y., April 11.—Emil Seidel, former mayor of Milwaukee, who was brought here by the Socialists in the interests of the labor forward movement, which Auburn business men blame for the riots and other disturbances growing out of the strike of the twine mill workers, was notified last night by Sheriff Bancroft before he started to speak at a mass meeting of the strikers that he would not be permitted to discuss the strike. Obeying this order, Mr. Seidel made no direct references to the local situation.

RECEIVERS OF STOLEN GOODS ARE CONVICTED.

Chicago, April 11.—Four members of an elaborate organization for the disposal of stolen goods, were convicted in the criminal court here yesterday on charges of receiving stolen property. Dr. Nicholas Kearn and Dr. Bismarck Stalhutte, were indicted as heads of the concern, which maintained warehouses and had complete catalogues and records of several hundred thousands dollars' worth of stolen property, customers to whom, it was sold and prospective purchasers.

Dr. Kearn was found guilty by a jury. Joseph Todd, Samuel Netherton and Fred Smith, a negro chauffeur pleaded guilty. Dr. Stalhutte is free under bond and is said to be seriously ill. R. O. Smith, a storage and warehouse owner, also under indictment, will be tried soon.

The stolen property handled by the "fence" organization, varied from automobiles to cigars.

STRIKE OF TELEPHONE OPERATORS AVERTED.

Boston, Mass., April 11.—A strike of the 2,200 telephone operators in the twenty-four exchanges of Greater Boston, which has been threatened for the last few days, was averted by a compromise agreement reached early yesterday.

Instead of the weekly wage increases, averaging $1 each, which the union demanded, the agreement provides for the establishment by the company of a plan of anniversary payments. These payments are to be $25 at the end of the second year, $50 annually from the end of the third to the end of the ninth year, and $100 at the end of each succeeding year.

The agreement also provides for the creation of an adjustment committee to consider all grievences.

EVANGELIST WILL END HIS WORK HERE

Procrastination and its consequences was the subject discussed by Evangelist Robert Whiston last night in the First Christian church revival. His remarks were based upon Jer. viii, 20. He said: "A man on fire for God in these days is often called a fanatic and a crank. The average man can't see anything in religion to get excited over. It is natural to be enthusiastic in business, in the lodge, in pleasure, but unnatural to be in earnest in the saving of souls."

The evangelist discussed man's responsibility for the rejection of Christ, and stated that if men were lost, it was not the fault of the church, of the preacher, nor of God. "Every man," he said, "may be saved or lost, according as he accepts or rejects Jesus Christ."

Tonight will be the last week night service. The evangelist announced he would speak on "The Priceless Pearl."

The Return of Blood Eruptions

No Reason Why Anyone Should Suffer With Such a Disheartening Experience.

No case of contagious blood poison is ever cured until the last particle of the virus has been removed from the circulation. The least taint left in the blood will, sooner or later, cause a fresh outbreak of the trouble, with all its hideous and destructive symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper colored splotches, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. No other medicine so surely cures contagious blood poison as S. S. S. It goes down into the blood and steadily and surely drives out every particle of the infection. It absolutely and perfectly purifies the blood, and leaves this vital fluid as fresh, rich and healthy as it was before the destructive virus of contagious blood poison entered the circulation. S. S. S. quickly takes effect on the blood, and gradually the symptoms disappear, the health is improved, the skin cleared of all spots, sores and other blemishes, the hair stops coming out, the mouth and throat heal and when S. S. S. has cleansed the system of the poison no trace of the disease is left. S. S. S. cures contagious blood poison because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, tested and proven in hundreds and hundreds of cases all over the country.

You will find S. S. S. for sale in all drug stores at $1.00 per bottle. Write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for private medical advice and a very instructive book on all blood diseases, sent free, sealed in plain wrapper.

ROAD WORK MAPPED OUT

Crookston Automobile Club Is Raising Money to Improve Highways.

Every Road Leading Into City Will Be Graveled This Year.

Crookston, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crookston Automobile club has started the annual canvass for good roads money. About $1,000 was raised the first day and the fund will be increased to $3,000 for this year's expenditures. The club now has a tractor engine, two reversible road graders, split log drags, etc., and will put on several ten-ton gravel trucks, and all the time the tractor is not busy smoothing off the roads it will be kept busy hauling gravel for the rural roads.

Every road leading into Crookston will be graveled. Many of the townships in this section will also gravel from one to ten miles this year.

Maple Lake Road Graveled.

The thirty miles of road to Maple Lake is now practically all graveled, the campaign having been started last spring, and continued during the winter, farmers hauling the gravel during the dull months for practically cost, the Automobile Club of Crookston paying the expenses, some of the intervening townships appropriating a few hundred dollars to pay a portion of the expense. The Crookston Automobile club is now working hand in hand with all the rural communities surrounding the city in the good roads campaign and more good roads work of a permanent character will be done this year than in any ten years in the past.

STARTS SEEDING NEAR CROOKSTON

R. T. Buckler, Whose Place Is Well Drained, Has Set Pace.

Crookston, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first 1913 seeding in the Red river valley was done yesterday near Crookston by R. T. Buckler. He is several days ahead of the majority of the farmers, showing what a perfect drainage system on a farm will accomplish, coupled with fall plowing. Most of the farmers plan on starting work in the fields Monday next, and if no more moisture falls next week will see work general. The high ground is all drying off nicely, but the snow of Sunday resulted in considerable moisture and where land is not perfectly drained there is water in the low places.

POPE FEELING MUCH BETTER

Pontiff Arises From Bed and Sits in Armchair for a While.

Complains of Some Pains Which Increase When Coughing.

Rome, April 11.—Pope Pius rose today and sat in an arm chair in the bedroom while his bed was being made.

The pope was feeling stronger today and expressed disappointment at not being able to receive the pilgrimage from Venice. He asked Cardinal Merry Del Val to receive the pilgrims for him and hand each of them a commemorative medal.

A sister and a niece of the pope visited him today and remained several hours in his room, while Mgr. Bressan, private secretary to his holiness, celebrated mass. The pope prayed sitting up in bed.

A rumor spread through the city during the morning that the pope was dead and this caused a rush of inquirers to the vatican where they found everything tranquil.

Complains of Pains.

The pope at times complains of pains in the small of the back, which increase when he sits up and when he coughs. These and other symptoms are attributed by the physicians to renal neuralgia, rising from influenza and remedies have been applied to insure freer action of the internal organs.

Prof. Marchiafava is apparently not quite satisfied with the progress of the recovery of strength. He is inflexible in his decision not to allow his patient to undergo any exertion.

The pope today expressed a desire to read the newspapers, saying that after what was invented when he was ill the first time, he was curious to see what they have been capable of doing after his relapse. Prof. Marchiafava, however, refused to permit him to read, whereupon the pontiff exclaimed:

"That shows they must have killed and buried me."

BIG YEAR FOR MINING MEN

Black Diamond Salesman Says Outlook Is for Great Activity.

Woodrow Wilson Increasing Confidence and Respect of Business Men.

According to the statement of Maurice S. Dessau, representing one of the largest black diamond firms of the East, mining business throughout the United States this year promises to outstrip operations of the past by a very appreciable per cent.

"Not only on the iron ranges of your state is this condition being made manifest by the advance buying of goods of our firm and others, but this condition is also true of the iron mines of Michigan and also the coal mines all through the East," said Mr. Dessau.

"It looks like the biggest mining year we have for a long time," pursued Mr. Dessau. "The black diamond business, generally a reliable barometer of the mining operations of the country, is very much larger at the present time than it was last year at this period. Not only this, but sections of the country where the mining operations were very light last year are right now working at capacity.

"In connection with business it might be stated that the East believes thoroughly in Woodrow Wilson. Business men of substantial resources have told me that the business world believes in the president. The general opinion is that Mr. Wilson is going to make the best president we have had for many years. He seems to be the kind of a man who knows when to talk and when to be silent. Besides this, he does things without making a lot of fuss about it.

"So far, judging from the attitude of the great majority of representative business men whom I have talked with, the tariff issue is not scaring any of the Eastern people. It has generally been recognized for some time that the tariff on certain commodities should be removed, and it seems to be the consensus of opinion that the duty on these necessary articles is going to be revised in a thoroughly sensible and business-like manner."

fered the worst flood, probably in its history; the recorded damage to property was about $250,000,000, 200 of our own people were homeless, fed, sheltered and saved by the Federal, state and local authorities; at least 200,000 at public or private expense for many months. Some of the breaks in the levees are not yet repaired.

"Why do our business associations spend so much money and send their representatives to the Orient to develop Chinese trade, the very elements of which they do not understand, when we have an undeveloped empire along the Mississippi river? The Mississippi valley containing 50,000,000 of the 75,000,000 acres of land that are now covered with swamps, would in a reclaimed condition add a great net actual land wealth to the country and would produce measured conservatively in one staple, twice the value of the unprecedented corn crop of 1912.

"Your attention is challenged to the fact that the drainage area of the Mississippi river and its tributaries contains 1,242,650 square miles, or about two-fifths the total area of the United States in which most productive portion of the country you are faced every year with the losses caused by floods, the interference with transportation and commerce, and the consequently reduced purchasing power of the people."

Begin Organization.

The delegates to the National Drainage congress began today the work of organizing the various local drainage boards and committees into a national drainage federation. Plans for such a federation were explained at one of the many side conferences held while the congress is in session.

A memorial conference at which the relation of swamp lands and floods to disease also was held today and the report was submitted to the general meeting of the congress before noon.

The executive committee was not ready to report its plan for the creation of a national department of public works under the supervision of a cabinet member. The committee has not yet reached an agreement as to what branches of the government service should be placed under the new department.

STATE REGULATION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL IS DEFEATED IN HOUSE

the other states where similar laws have been enacted.

That the house was determined to beat the bill was shown when it voted down a motion, by one of the friends of the measure, to postpone the special order until Monday afternoon. It was shown again when a number of amendments offered by Chairman Knapp of the general legislation committee, designed to meet objections that had been raised, failed of adoption by a tie vote, 38 to 38. The house organization was plainly arrayed against the bill.

With the knowledge that defeat was certain, the friends of the bill made the best fight they could for the principle involved in it. Representative Knapp justified the principle of state regulation as opposed to local regulation, which he said often means substantial dominance of local affairs by public utility concerns, leading to corruption and bad government. The aim was to take this question out of local politics and put it before an independent tribunal equipped with expert aid.

The bill before the house was drawn by a subcommittee consisting of Representatives Nolan, Lennon and Knapp and every attempt was made to create a fair and open bill which protected every public interest and facilitated municipal ownership wherever it was desired.

Representative Hopkins said that while he was not entirely satisfied with all the provisions of the bill, it was a step in the right direction and state regulation was sure to come. Representative Harrison took the same stand and Representative G. W. Brown made a strong argument for the bill, which was opposed by Representatives Child, Plaender and others. The debate ran into the afternoon.

Working Men's Compensation.

Representative H. H. Dunn, who yesterday tried to get the special order on working men's compensation postponed to next week, but failed, renewed his attempt this morning and failed again, and the bill will be voted upon this afternoon. Representative Dunn said he wanted time to draw amendments. Representatives Sanborn, Orr and Knapp opposed the postponement and the Dunn motion was lost.

The outlook this morning was that though there would be a hard fight against the bill, taking the form of amendments, it would pass without material change.

Control of State Lands.

The senate this morning passed under suspension of the rules a bill by Senators Boyle, Putnam and Marden, proposing a constitutional amendment taking the control of state lands out of the state auditor's office, in order that the legislature may create a department of public domain in which all the many bureaus and departments now handling that subject may be merged into an effective and co-ordinated whole. A similar bill was defeated in the house early in the session, but the apparent danger that no step whatever will be taken at this session toward the creation of a public domain department unless this bill passes has brought about a change in sentiment which may avail to put through the senate bill.

Veterans to Gettysburg.

The R. C. Dunn house bill appropriating $25,000 to send Minnesota veterans to attend the semi-centennial of the battle of Gettysburg in July passed the senate unanimously this forenoon. There was a good deal of patriotic oratory over the bill, and there was a pleasant interlude when the senate, standing, applauded Senator George P. Wilson of Minneapolis, a member of the First Minnesota in its early days.

The senate adopted the conference committee's report of the Clague bill extending the local option law to include fourth-class cities, and repassed the bill.

Frank Crassweller and Alfred Jaques of Duluth, representing the Municipal Ownership league, were present in the house chamber this morning to witness the defeat of the public utilities bill.

GOPHER IRON CO. INVADES CUYUNA

New Concern of Twin City and Deerwood Men to Start Operations.

Brainerd, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Gopher Iron company, incorporated in St. Paul by prominent landmen from the Twin Cities, Iowa and Nebraska and the Oberg brothers and Wilson Bradley of Deerwood, has entered the Cuyuna Iron range. The company has acquired a number of properties and taken over a lease on a mine on the west half of the southeast quarter of section 19, township 46, range 29, which will be developed with a view of mining it. So shallow is the ore that it promises to be an exceptionally good pit mine.

Oberg In New Company.

Prominent in the organization of the company is Frank E. Oberg, who has been closely identified with the range and is well known over the whole district. Other large stockholders are George Urquhart, a land man and capitalist of St. Paul; Donald Quinlivan, a well known dealer in Canadian lands, Minneapolis; O. B. FIGHTERS OF FLOODS ARE ENCOURAGED registered 54.4 feet here today, a fall of one-tenth of a foot since last night. Because of the continued high stage of the water, the levee patrol has been increased.

The Illinois Central railroad is getting trains through the flooded drainage district where the water is two feet over the tracks, thereby opening direct service between New Orleans and Chicago.

The relief expedition to the Wabash river bottoms returned last night on the steamer City of Cairo. Members of the party reported that conditions up the Ohio are deplorable. Only one or two points between Cairo and Mount Vernon, Ind., are above water. In many places the river is thirty-five miles wide.

Over 4,000 refugees now are camped at Wickliffe, Ky., and nearby hills.

Flood Bulletins.

Washington, April 11.—Special flood bulletins from the weather bureau follows:

The rainfall in the Mississippi and Ohio valleys is practically at an end for the present. The Ohio river has fallen sharply between Pittsburg and Louisville. Rains of the last few days, however, will check the fall, but an important rise is not anticipated. At Cairo the stage Friday morning was 54.4 feet, a fall of 0.1 foot in the last twenty-four hours. The Mississippi at Memphis Friday morning was at a stage of 44.7 feet, a fall of 1.8 feet in the last twenty-four hours, due to the effects of breaks in the Arkansas levees. The stage at Vicksburg was 47.3 feet, rise of 0.8 foot in the last twenty-nine hours. The stage at New Orleans was 16.7 feet, rise of 0.1 foot in the last twenty-four hours. The effect of the heavy rains in the Lower Mississippi valley will be to increase the crest stages in the New Orleans district, provided, of course, the levees hold. Revised forecast stages follow: Natchez, Miss., 53 to 54 feet; Baton Rouge, La., 43.8 to 44.8 feet; Donaldsville, La., 34.7 to 35.7 feet; New Orleans, La., 22 to 22.5 feet in the latter part of April or early in May. The extreme height at the latter station depends somewhat upon the winds.

Profitable Crow Wing Hog.

Brainerd, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—That it pays to raise pigs in Crow Wing county was clearly evidenced when Charles Clute of Fort Ripley brought to Brainerd a dressed pig, a Red Duroc sow, which scaled 419 pounds dressed weight. He obtained 9 cents a pound, or $37.71 for the pig, a price twice as high as was paid farmers ten years ago.

The Latest News Published on This Page — BASEBALL — EDITED BY BRUCE — ROWING — The Herald Sporting Gossip Is Reliable

THERE was a robust visitor in our midst during the present week, who, being a cosmopolite, spoke of certain things in a broad and sweeping symposium of thought. It is interesting to meet these travelers of the world, for they lift us from the rut of walled thought and give us a glimpse of the great beyond.

Now this man is of the opinion that legislation in this country has gone too far in the hampering of sports of the manly order. He believes that legislators have unwisely sought to curtail and destroy amusements that the majority of men desire; also, the cosmopolite sees a greater and more far reaching significance in the present drift of certain legislation.

For instance, he said, as he sat and talked, of many things:

"Today we are coming perilously near to being a finicky and meddlesome race of people, and I am confining my remarks to the field of sports for the time being.

"In London I sat at the National Sporting club and beheld Lord Lipton, Lord Duer, Lord Landsdowne, Lord Lonsdale, the very elite of the land, the biggest and most cultured men of the English nation, witnessing a manly and scientific contest between two boxers. These men were attired in evening dress. There was nothing of the brutal, the degrading, the debasing about the contest. It was the clash of two human beings; it was a contest that red-blooded men admire.

"Some man opposes a boxing contest. The chances are that man has never witnessed one of any sort or description. I have known men to screech out warning against the boxing of today, and yet I have known these same men to employ hundreds of human beings without a single compulsion regarding the frightful conditions under which these people go through the daily grind.

"Are we going to breed an effeminate race? If some of the drastic reformers have their way, the athletic pastimes of the present day are to be placed on the plane of ping pong and croquet. The pack of reformers have raised the hue and cry against the game of football; boxing is being called brutal and degenerating. If our athletic games of the future are to require neither courage or grit, then I for one feel sorry for the youth of the coming generation and their standards of manliness.

"In the complex life of today physical courage is being lost sight of. Long haired reformers are raising the barrier against every sport that calls for the exercise of physical courage, grit, determination and ability to take hard knocks. Reform has become a mania with us. We have been a vigorous country; a nation that has set its ideals upon the courage of its men. But if we declare that a black eye, a little blood, or bruises, are bad for the youth of the land, and that sport that is rough should be abolished, then, indeed, we are getting the yoke of effeminacy upon the young men of this nation, and are declaring that the body has little need for the red blood corpuscle."

THERE is a certain sporting writer of Minneapolis who talks of the "bush, the alfalfa section and the rube districts," when alluding in the least to athletic activities outside of the overgrown village of the Mill town. After the spavined old men of Joe Cantillon's tribe, with much eclat and the blowing of journalistic trumpets, went to Chicago and were trimmed to the tune of 12 to 0 by the Cubs, and this, too, with two second string pitchers doing the flinging for the big leaguers, perhaps this inflated individual will kindly explain how any team, even if it were from South St. Paul, could make a much worse showing.

Many alibis were sprung after the trouncing at Denver, but it will require some real ingenuity in explaining away this ludicrous showing against the Cubs.

NAP RUCKER has often been called the hard luck pitcher of the National league. The very fact that he is destined to spin out his baseball career with so lame duck an organization as the Brooklyn team, is tough pickings to start with; but when this sterling artist goes along and flings great ball and then has game after game tossed away through errors and bonehead work, it is quite enough to cause this Nap chap to curse the fates.

Billy Nolan probably figures that if Willie Ritchie doesn't fight that is no possible way to get the championship away from him.

DAVIS AFTER STAR CATCHER

Winona Manager Negotiating With Charles Comiskey for a Star.

Winona, Minn., April 11.—After a three-hour workout Wednesday, in which Lefty Davis and his crowd of youngsters chased the sphere to all corners of the League park, the players awoke yesterday morning to find the ground partly covered with snow and a drizzling rain coming down, which blasted their hopes of spirited practice. Lefty, however, was not to be foiled by the weather man altogether and set to work rounding up bats, suits and other material necessary to the first hard practice.

Despite the fact that the weather is most unpleasant, Manager Davis plans to have several of the players, at least, don their uniforms some time late today and do what practicing they can.

At present Davis is dickering with Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, for a first-class catcher, but nothing definite is forthcoming, and as Winona already has several fast men lined up for the position, it is doubtful if the ex-Chicagoan will land here. Several other applications from players who would like to have a chance to make good with the Winona aggregation have been received in the last few days, and it is probable that other players will come here for a tryout.

MINNEAPOLIS TEAM WAS MORE SCARED THAN HURT.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—The smallpox scare among the ball players of the Minneapolis club of the American association has about died out. Late yesterday physicians of the city health department made a thorough investigation of members of the team, and declared there was no cause for apprehension.

Ralph Comstock, the pitcher, who was taken to the pesthouse, has a very mild attack of the disease. He had not been with the other players since Friday night, coming away from Huckman at the same time the remainder of the team left for Memphis. One or two players who had accompanied Comstock are under observation and the vaccinating of the players will be confined solely to those who have been in contact with the sick man.

All of the baggage of the entire team was thoroughly fumigated at the clubhouse and the clubhouse subjected to a thorough cleaning and fumigation. With these prompt measures, the baseball camp is breathing easier.

Two physicians examined Wade Killifer yesterday and both declared that he did not have smallpox.

CHICAGO PLAYERS FRIGHTENED.

Minneapolis Baseball Team Used Their Club Rooms.

Chicago, April 11.—Members of the Chicago National baseball club were thrown into perturbation yesterday when told that smallpox had broken out among the Minneapolis players. The latter used the visitors' dressing rooms at the local clubhouse here Tuesday while playing an exhibition game, and while it is said Comstock was not with the Minenapolis club then, Killifer was.

No word of the outbreak of the disease was sent to President Murphy by the Minneapolis officials, but it was said he would take measures to protect his players and those of visiting clubs from contagion.

Dr. Herman Spalding, chief of the city bureau of medical inspection, ordered the vaccination of all the Chicago National league players except those who have been vaccinated recently. The stricken Minneapolis players must have been in a condition to spread the disease when here, according to Dr. Spalding.

McGOORTY GETS DECISION.

Christie of Milwaukee Unable to Cope With Oshkosh Wizard.

Fond du Lac, Wis., April 11.—Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh won a clear victory over Gus Christie of Milwaukee in their ten-round battle fought here last night. Christie opened up the fight with terrific speed, but was unable to hold out. McGoorty got a strong lead in the sixth and the bout ended with Christie stalling to prevent a knockout.

Christie opened the fight with terrific speed and forced the fighting for five rounds, but McGoorty proved too clever for him, and in the sixth round took a strong lead which he maintained to the end. In the seventh and eighth rounds, Christie went groggy, but came back in the ninth and tenth and by game fighting prevented a knockout.

STAYS AT HOME.

University of Chicago Football Team Announces Schedule.

Chicago, April 11.—The University of Chicago football team will play no games outside the conference this year, according to the schedule announced and excepting two, the games will be on the home grounds. The Maroon team will go to Minnesota and will cross the city to play Northwestern at Evanston. The list is as follows:

Oct. 4, Indiana at Chicago; Oct. 18, Indiana at Chicago; Oct. 25, Purdue at Chicago; Nov. 1, Illinois at Chicago; Nov. 8, Northwestern at Evanston; Nov. 15, Minnesota at Minneapolis; Nov. 22, Wisconsin at Chicago.

CLOUDY WEATHER FOR MILWAUKEE OPENING.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 11.—Weather permitting, the Milwaukee and Toledo baseball teams of the American Association were prepared to inaugurate the season in Milwaukee this afternoon.

A parade, band concert and the pitching of the first ball by Mayor G. A. Bading were scheduled as opening features.

Slapnicka and Hughes were picked by the Milwaukee management for the main points, while George and Livingstone were to do the honors for Toledo. The sun was far from being visible early in the day.

Clouds at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 11.—Threatening clouds early today made it impossible to tell if the American league season could be opened here this afternoon by Cleveland and Chicago. If there is a postponement it will be decided on at the latest possible moment. Mitchell and Land for Cleveland, and Benz, Scott or Lange and Schalk for Chicago were the probable batteries.

Gibbons Gets Match.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—Mike Gibbons of St. Paul will meet Labe Safro, the Minneapolis welterweight, in a ten-round match, to be held at Eau Claire, Wis., May 1.

SENATORS GET THE YANKEES

President Wilson Sees the Opening Game at National Capital.

Tosses First Ball From Grandstand; Close Contest With Protests.

Washington, April 11.—President Wilson forgot about the tariff and matters of state for two hours yesterday and watched Washington defeat the New York Americans 2 to 1 in the opening game of the season. He tossed the first ball from the grand stand. Vice President Marshall, members of the cabinet, and a great number of official folk were there, a notable part of the crowd of 15,000 persons who filled the ball park.

The president was cheered enthusiastically by the crowd.

New York scored in the first inning when Daniels was hit by a pitched ball, went to second on Gandill's muff of a hot grounder from Wolter, and tallied on Hartsell's single. The Washington team got men on bases frequently after that but was unable to get any gain from it until the seventh. In that inning Ainsmith, the local catcher, was hit by a pitched ball though Manager Chance protested from the bench that he had thrown out his arm deliberately. Shanks got to second on a high throw by McConnell, the New York twirler, Sterrett. McBride sacrificed, advancing both men. Walter Johnson fanned, but Moeller cracked a single to right that scored two runs and gave the Washington team the game.

The president stayed throughout the nine innings and then autographed several baseballs for the players.

Boston, Mass., April 11.—The world's champions lost to the former titleholders in the opening game of the season yesterday by 10 to 9. Mayor Fitzgerald put the ball into play from the pitcher's box. Six pitchers followed him during the afternoon. Joe Wood, star of last season's campaign, lasted but five innings during which Philadelphia drove out nine safe hits and scored seven runs. Strunk scored the last of these tallies by stealing home. Coombs developed poor form after three hitless Boston innings, the locals scoring five runs during his occupancy of the mound. Score: R. H. GIANTS BADLY BEATEN.

Boston Nationals Shut Out New Yorks, Scoring Eight Runs.

New York, April 11.—Boston defeated New York in the first game of the season here yesterday before a big crowd 8 to 0. The usual opening day ceremonies were omitted with the exception that Mayor Gaynor threw out the first ball. Sunless skies and a cold wind made conditions unpleasant alike for players and spectators.

Perdue had the home club at his mercy, and the champions made only two singles. Not one of McGraw's men got further than second base. Boston started to hit Tesreau in the fourth and from that inning on, they rapped the ball hard. Crandall was slaughtered in the ninth inning. Maranville, the recruit shortstop of the visitors, was the star of the game, both in the field and at bat. Score:

BAD WEATHER HAMPERS WORK

Winnipeg Baseball Players Encounter Rain at Ottumwa, Iowa.

Ottumwa, Iowa, April 11.—Manager Tim Flood and eleven of his flock of twenty embryo Winnipeggers, called down the vengeance of truly wrathful ball players, upon the elements, when leaving their downy couches in the Frazier hotel yesterday only to peep out the window and see the rain coming down in hateful torrents. The downpour prevented the first workout of the gents who are to remain here a brace of weeks for daily combats with the Ottumwa Central association champions.

The men who have reported thus far are: Robert Kahl, Colteville, Ill., second baseman; E. Fosberg, Rockford, Ill., right hand pitcher; James Schaefer, St. Louis, outfielder; Gomer James, St. Louis, catcher; Edward Fisher, St. Louis, pitcher; Ben Gardner, St. Louis, first baseman; Marvin Pierce, Rockford, Ill., infielder; Tim Flood, St. Louis, manager, infielder; Moe, Kellogg, Idaho pitcher; Kirkham, Ames, Iowa, infielder.

BIG SPITBALL STAR IS GOING BADLY

ED WALSH.

DULUTH'S SENIOR CREW SHOULD BE VERY FAST

With Hal Cheney Out for Crew and Possibilities of Roy Kent Being Back, Ten Eyck Has the Material for a Great Eight.

Prospects for one of the greatest senior eights in the history of Northwestern rowing are brighter than some two or three weeks ago.

While it is definitely known that Joe Lathrop will be lost to the crew, all hope has not been abandoned in the case of Roy Kent.

Some of the best news that Coach Jimmy Ten Eyck has heard for some time, is that Hal Cheney, one of the best oarsmen ever trying for a local crew, will be out for a place in the boat the present season.

The coach had one of those smiles that refused to be banished, when he heard that Cheney had decided to row this season.

Walter Glass should be a valuable man for the eight this year. He is rowing on the freshmen crew of Syracuse, and this training should make him about right for a seat in the senior boat.

According to the calculations of the officials, Thorburn, Thompson, Quimby, Bessenboschel, Grant, Mahan, and possibly Kent, will be material for the making of an eight. And then there promises to be Cheney, one star man, and Glass and one or two new men that may develop from the large list of candidates working on the machines.

Granting that the Winnipeg senior eight is one of the greatest rowing club products that has ever been developed in North America, which statement will hardly be disputed, it looks to the average man who has followed rowing here, that Duluth has just as good an opportunity of defeating the wonderful machine run by Con Riley as it possessed at any time last season.

Possibly the Winnipeg eight will be just as good this season as it was last. And possibly not. There is where the keenest element of speculation enters into the question.

The grand old eight can't go on forever. And on the other hand Duluth should, figuring after the manner outlined here, have a superior eight to the one that gave the Winnipegs so grand a race at the Peoria national.

Cheney is as good as any man in last year's junior eight, according to the opinion of most of those qualified to pass judgment. This chap could take the place of Joe Lathrop, with the possibilities that some star may be developed from the men trying out at the present time.

The eight race is the big contest of the regatta, despite all that may be said to the contrary. One of the ambitions of those who sat in the junior eight of last year, is to defeat the great Winnipeg crew. And to those who take an active interest in the doings of the rowing department it looks as if the opportunity is just as great the present season, if not greater, than it was at this time a year ago.

The statement from Cheney that he is coming out this season surely makes the rowing situation look brighter. And with hope bright that Kent may not be utterly lost to the crew, chances for the developing of a great senior eight are brightening up.

FAST BASEBALL BOOKED FOR NORTHERN LEAGUE

Minneapolis Team Is Receiving Players From Association Club.

All Managers of the New Organization Are Looking for Star Players.

With work on the addition to the grandstand at Athletic park due to start next week, it begins to look like the spring opening of baseball. Men are at work today moving back the third base bleacher. Material is being hauled for the construction of the addition of the stand. And with the construction of the grandstand will also go to the erection of a new ticket office, the bringing out toward the street car line of the fence and the general improvement of the park.

News has been received from Minneapolis of the release of Comstock and Lillvat by the Minneapolis American association team to the Northern league club. Catcher Werner of the big Millers has been with the Northerns for the past week, and he is expected to prove one of the star receivers of the league.

Fans over the circuit are beginning to awake to the fact that this is going to be some classy organization. While it is early to predict, it is the opinion of some that the team copping the bunting will have to be about the best ball club that has played in these parts for the past decade or more.

Just eleven days remain until the opening of the Northern league season. A trip to the office of the Duluth Baseball association would convince one of the vast preparations that are being made for this auspicious event. There are a hundred details to be arranged before the umpire shouts the old "play ball" thing, and the completing of these varied details is keeping President Blume and his assistants at this end of the league very busy.

Changed Conditions.

To realize the difference between the status of baseball in Duluth this spring and that of a year ago, one only has to think back coldly on the situation at that time. This spring we are having one of the finest parks in the league made and we are in an eight-club league, linked with three of the largest cities in the West. Last spring apathy rose up and yawned in the faces of the fans. There were but four teams in the league, while the fans were freely predicting that the league would be extremely fortunate if it weathered the storm until after the glorious Fourth.

People along the street are asking, "Are we going to have good baseball this year, do you think?"

Well, now, Bill, this human nature is the funniest thing in the world. For years we have been saying that if only we could get into the Twin Cities, baseball would come into its own here. We have accomplished what was considered impossible by even the most loving friends of the cause. Not only that, but an eight-club league has been organized, and some of the most famous baseball men in the country have charge of the various teams. If we don't have good baseball, why it should strike one as probable that no minor league in the United States will have good baseball.

It does hardly seem probable that the opening of the Northern league is but eleven days away, and yet such is the fact—count 'em yourself. With the big show started, and only the perversity of the weather holding the American association teams champing their bits at the barrier, the skidway has been nicely greased for the start of the season in the Northern.

It is probable that Darby O'Brien has all the players he will use during the present season, unless the opportunity should present itself for the acquirement of some star. This is not the case with all of the other teams of the league. Minneapolis will probably receive some more players of recognized worth from the team of that city, while St. Paul is also looking for some of the players of the St. Paul American association team who are in need of a trifle more seasoning.

Tim Flood is keeping a weather eye out for some more players, and this is true of Spike Shannon and Lefty Davis. Sam Foster has what looks like a corking good team lined up, and Superior is making claims of having some stars in the bunch that Fred Curtis has signed.

Duluth has the largest squad in the league, but there is little opportunity of getting a line on the candidates for the White Sox team.

However, the fact remains that the managers of the various teams as well as the fans are realizing that the race is going to be a strenuous one. O'Brien realized this fact some time ago, and he acted accordingly, for the Irish Orator claims to have the most likely looking squad that he has had under his command since he assumed the managerial reins here.

Mice and Jinx Combine.

New York, April 11.—The celebrated "jinx" of the New York American league team, instead of following the club on its trip stayed in town and visited the home of Third Baseman Roy Hartsell, who is with his clubmates in Washington. Fire was discovered last evening in the Hartsell apartments. Before the firemen quelled the blaze it had done $200 worth of damage to the ball player's belongings. It is believed mice started the blaze.

LOCAL SPORT NOTES

Last evening marked the opening of the Lakeside Athletic club. As in keeping with the celebration of an event that the members of the organization have long looked forward to, an attractive athletic program was put on. Several impromptu speeches also marked the opening of the gymnasium in the old Lakeside fire hall.

Walter Miller, who is the wrestling instructor of the club, worked out with some of the members of the wrestling class and also boxed an exhibition with Arthur L. Ryberg. The little Pole is there with the gloves as he is on the wrestling pad, and the exhibition between the president of the new club and its wrestling instructor was one of the events of the evening.

Regular work will be held every afternoon and evening.

At a meeting at the Quayle-Larsen store last evening the organization of the Quayle-Larsen Junior Baseball league was effected for the coming year. It isexpected that the organization will be even more successful than it was last season. Practically all of the crack junior teams of the city will enter the race. The Adams won the pennant last year after the most successful junior season in the history of the smaller teams. According to the plans that have been gone over, the prospects for even a better season are very bright.

The prizes won by the various rinks during the curling season are to be presented at the annual meeting of the club, Monday evening. It is especially desired to have a full membership gathering, as this meeting is a very important one.

Should the weather clear sufficiently it is very probable that a number of baseball teams of the city will hold their initial practice of the season on Sunday. Several of the clubs have attempted to get out, but the weather has been of the order of anything but baseball. The Stones are to get out on Sunday, if the weather man will but do the right thing, while several of the smaller team managers have also issued calls for the gathering of candidates.

WILL SENTENCE NEXT SATURDAY

Punishment Expected to Be Meted Out to Convicted Ones Then.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The criminal case docket for the present sitting of district court are finished and sentences on those convicted will probably be imposed before the adjournment of court Saturday. The civil case of R. J. Guile vs. William Smith is before the court today. It involves the possession of a gas engine, and will probably be finished this afternoon.

The outcome of the liquor cases tried during the week is watched with much interest, owing to the fact that the penalty involved is not more than one year in jail or a fine not to exceed $1,000. Many expect the maximum penalty will be imposed, since it is alleged that the law has been practically ignored for some time, both as to Sunday closing and selling to minors.

MANUAL TRAINING TEACHERS' MEETING

Those Engaged in That Work on Range to Gather at Gilbert.

Gilbert, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An association composed of manual training teachers on the Mesaba range is expected to be formed at a meeting to be held here in the high school tomorrow. The meeting was promoted by M. B. Elson and E. A. Voss, who are engaged in manual training here. They claim the organization of an association of manual training teachers in this section will work to the benefit of all.

The Range Manual Arts association has been suggested as a name for the organization and will probably be adopted. They also report that all eligible teachers on the range have been communicated with and that the response is encouraging. It is believed that every town will have representation at the meeting.

OPTION NOW IN CLOQUET HANDS

Sawmill Town Men Reported to Have Taken Over Ely Mine Work.

Ely, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is understood here that negotiations have been closed with the Gleason Exploration company for the transfer or the option secured by that company on the property in lot 1, between Long Lake and the Chandler mine to Cloquet men. J. C. Campbell and J. Long, both of Cloquet, have been here inspecting the property and getting in touch with the situation. The property is located close to the heart of the city, and the outcroppings indicate a good prospect. Work was begun on the property a few weeks ago, sinking testpits, with the idea of using the diamond drills as soon as the rock formation has been examined.

CHISHOLM HAS DONE VERY WELL

Financial Condition of Rebuilt Village Considered First Class.

Chisholm, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Auditor Otto Spies finished his work in the recorder's office yesterday and left for Faribault. Mr. Spies praised the manner in which the money of the village has been spent in the past year and his figures bore out the statement made by the village auditor showing that the village on April 1 was actually but $25,000 in debt. Not a cent of this amount is bonded, the entire amount being floating warrants.

On April 1 the council began on the budget passed last September which permits of the distribution of some $260,000, of which $25,000 will apply on the floating debt and at the end of next March the village will be on a strictly cash basis. The budget for this year's expenditures provides liberally for parks and street improvements and also for a disposal tank which will be built. Twenty-five thousand dollars is to be used for a library building which is also to be built. The present condition of the village finances is considered a great credit to the officials of the village since the great fire.

The big fire left the village with about $225,000 floating debt and several thousand dollars bonded debt besides with its streets strewn with debris and which had to be removed immediately so that the reconstruction could begin. This also meant the changing of street grades which added immensely to the expense of street improvements. All of this has been done and many hundred thousands of dollars has been put into permanent improvements since and the outstanding debt reduced until it is now as above stated. Each council since the fire has kept the proposition of reducing the debt to the front and each council has left the treasury in better condition. The water and light board has added materially in this respect also, showing a good credit balance in its portion of the budget each year. The tax levy has been raised but a trifle and the total amount of taxes levied has increased very little in comparison to the growth of the village. Chisholm is in the best shape of any town on the range, owing not a cent of bonded debt and having no liability except as shown above.

The total assets of the village are now close to $500,000.

VIRGINIA PLANT BEING INSPECTED

Railway's Power Plant May Be Used to Pump Chisholm Water.

Chisholm, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water and light commission met last night with Consulting Engineer J. S. Hirsch of Madison, Consulting Engineer J. B. To enable the village to more definitely decide the reliability of the source of electricity to be furnished Mr. Hirsch and Village Engineer F. C. Lang went to Virginia today to look over the plant of the Mesaba Electric railway, and another meeting will be held this evening. Manager Newton invited Messrs. Hirsch and Lang to go over their plant.

Mr. Hirsch advised the commission that several months would be required to get the new pumps ordered and set and appreciating this condition the commission is anxious to act.

This evening, after the engineers have returned from Virginia with their report, the commission will take definite action.

Kelly-How-Thompson to Supply Hibbing With Weather-Proof Wire.

Hibbing, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A contract for supplying Hibbing with 33,000 feet of weather-proof wire at $16.50 per hundred weight, f. o. b., Duluth, has been closed with the Kelly-How-Thompson company of Duluth by the water and light commission. This will be used in connection with the White way. Gus Lindern was given a contract for $444.60 for cutting out the cement along the curbing and installing a conduit.

The commission reduced the charges for electric light service to a flat rate of 6 cents for all consumers. The charge for electric power was left at the flat rate of 4 cents. Heretofore users of electric light have been charged 7 cents where less than 300,000 watts was used during the month and 5 cents where more than that amount was used.

RESINOL CURED AWFUL PIMPLES

Whole Face Covered, Now Clear.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 9, 1912.—"I was troubled with two or three pimples coming out on my chin. In a week or so my whole face was covered with them. Friends advised me to use different lotions and salves. I tried them, but they did me little good, if any. I finally washed the pimples with Resinol Soap and applied Resinol Ointment before going to bed. In the morning I found the swelling going down, and the inflammation gone from the pimples. I tried this treatment for about a week, and found that most of the pimples had disappeared. I kept the treatment up for about a month, and then my face was clear of all pimples. I have used Resinol Soap since, and find that the pimples do not come back." (Signed) Walter A. Stenstrum, 54 Willoughby Ave.

Nothing we can say of Resinol equals what others, such as Mr. Stenstrum, say of it. If you are suffering from itching, burning skin troubles, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, chapped face and hands, ulcers, boils, stubborn sores, or piles, it will cost you nothing to try Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. Just send to Dept. 15-T, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., for a free sample of each. Every druggist sells Resinol.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

A little more snow fell last night, but it was just enough to back up the weather man's prediction. Today dawned fair, but gray weather succeeded the early morning sunshine. Fair weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

Soft weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 5:27 and it will set at 6:51 this evening, giving thirteen hours and twenty-four minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Light to heavy rain or snow fell during Thursday or last night over Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Eastern Minnesota, Alabama, Tennessee, Ohio valley and South Atlantic states, the lake region and Eastern Canada. The temperature changes during the last twenty-four hours have been unimportant generally. The highest velocity of the wind at Duluth Thursday afternoon was at the rate of forty-eight miles per hour. No very decided temperature changes are expected as regards the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—The Aborn Opera company in "The Bohemian Girl."
ORPHEUM—Vaudevillo.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

Tonight the attraction at the Lyceum will be the Aborn Opera company in "The Bohemian Girl." A little over a year ago the Impresarii Aborn made the initial presentation of this remarkable production at the Boston opera house, where it made an instantaneous hit which was followed by an immensely successful tour of the principal cities. In keeping with their policy of "continual improvement" the Messrs. Aborn have exercised great care in the selection of the grand opera cast for this season, and those comprising it are said to fit perfectly their respective roles with the result that a finished performance is given.

One hardly associates horses, bears, geese, pigs, chickens and monkeys with grand opera, but still they are important features of the production.

It was only after due deliberation and many conferences with that wizard stage director, Edward P. Temple, who realized all of the earlier productions at the New York Hippodrome, that the latter assumed the stupendous task of staging Balfe's opera on such huge lines. Mr. Temple decided that if a truthful picture of the Gypsy life that "The Bohemian Girl" deals with so largely was to be given, all that was associated with it should be shown, hence the horses, geese, pigs, dogs and a band of real Gypsies.

A very decided change in the character of the musical entertainments that are presented for the especial delectation of jaded appetites as one may judge from the reports of its long metropolitan engagement, is "The Rose Maid," which is to come to the Lyceum Monday.

This new piece, headed by the famous English comedienne, Alice Lloyd, is defined as being set forth like an English Christmas pantomime of spectacular beauty with scenes of extravagant size and color, and in addition to the charm of its haunting Viennese waltzes and zestful marches, to having the fascination of the unexpected in all it presents.

The story of "The Rose Maid" was considered a little classic in continental Europe under its German name of "Rub oder Maedel" and was originally played with only the music which has since been developed by Grantchtaedten into the languorously beautiful "Rose Waltz."

One of the very few colored teams in first-class vaudeville ranks, is at the Orpheum this week.

When colored performers obtain bookings on the first-class vaudeville circuits, they do it on their merits only. While the booking managers claim to have no perferences, it is nevertheless the case that the colored performers rarely have any influential friends in the booking offices, and when they get "time" they get it purely on the merit of their act.

This is exemplified in the case of Miller and Lyles, the two colored performers on the Orpheum bill this week. They have been one of the real hits of the bill all week, and their burlesque boxing bout and eccentric dance have never failed to get an enthusiastic reception. The attendance at the Orpheum has been growing steadily since Monday night, and last night almost a capacity house greeted the performers.

Manager Billings announces a very heavy advance sale for next week, due to the interest in the talking motion pictures which will be given their first presentation Sunday afternoon, and will thereafter be a permanent feature of the Orpheum bill.

"We hope to have everything in shape to give a perfect performance Sunday afternoon," said Mr. Billings this morning. "The pictures will be run several times before they are shown to the public in order to insure a smooth performance. We want Duluth people to get a good first impression of the pictures, for we believe they are going to be as popular here as they are in other cities."

A complete new vaudeville bill was presented at the Empress last evening, to continue until Saturday night.

The midweek change brings some entertaining new acts to the popular little playhouse.

Bud Lawler and a clever young woman assistant who works from the audience open the bill. Mr. Lawler and his fair assistant sing several popular song numbers.

A well-written comedy sketch is presented by Harry Holman & Co. Mr. Holman, who is recognized as an excellent comedian, is assisted by a charming young actress, Miss Annabel Neilson, and by a clever young man, Frank Lucy. Holman takes the part of a corpulent and successful business man with a pretty daughter on his hands and the prospects bright for a son-in-law. The latter pair manage to outwit the old dad and after all he seems to like it so well that it affords the playlet a happy ending. The stage settings for the piece are complete.

Nixon's spirit paintings mystified the audience. The audience is asked to name pictures that are wanted, and almost as soon as the request is made the picture named is reproduced upon the large screen on the stage. It is a most puzzling and entertaining act.

Irwin and Herzog offer a very popular song act. Their songs are well given and the numbers are interspersed with some very amusing comedy patter.

Taken all in all the bill is stronger than that which held the boards for the first half of the week. Some good motion picture films are also presented.

A SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH

"Pape's Diapepsin" Overcomes Your Indigestion in Five Minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

SPOONER WANTS FERRY.

Village Council Considers Keeping Boat in the Service.

Spooner, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The newly elected village council had its first meeting Wednesday evening. It was decided to have the old town dock repaired and to have the foot bridge along the river repaired where needed.

The matter of the old town ferry was also considered as it seems the Federal immigration department is inclined to want it stopped though it is a well known fact that no inspection is ever made of any other ferry boats or private boats crossing the river, either at this place or any other along the river. At Eno a ferry runs regularly without any complaint. So far as known no undesirable alien ever crossed on either ferry and it is an injustice and hardship upon our local citizens to be compelled to travel across the international bridge to get home.

A board of health consisting of Dr. J. E. Corrigan as executive officer and Joseph Meloney and F. E. Rose was appointed.

AITKIN MAN'S ILL LUCK.

SENIOR CLASS WILL ISSUE AN ANNUAL

The senior class of the Duluth Industrial high school will publish an annual this year for the first time in the school's history.

For the past four months the students at the school have been conducting an active campaign for funds, with which to publish the annual. The seniors have been assisted in this work by all the other classes, which agreed to subscribe $25 each to the fund. Various candy sales, entertainments and concerts were held by each class during the winter to raise this money.

It was announced this morning that enough money has already been subscribed to insure the publication this year. With the advertisements yet to be secured and the sale of annuals, those in charge expect to leave a comfortable balance for the class next year.

The class of 1912 attempted to publish an annual, but the project had to be given up because of a lack of funds. Most of the material secured by the editorial staff last year is still on hand and some of this will be used in the publication this year.

Earl Brooks, editor-in-chief of the annual, will call a meeting of the staff next week. It is planned to have the annual come out during commencement week in June.

BOAT OWNERS ARE BECOMING RESTLESS

Members of the Western Boat club are already preparing for the coming season.

Yesterday several of the members went out to the bay front and began overhauling their motor boats and getting them ready for use. The boats have all been stored away in the small boathouses on the bay front during the past winter.

As soon as the warm weather sets in, it is planned by the officers of the club to start negotiations for the construction of a clubhouse. It is the aim to have the building finished by the time the boat season is in full swing. The building will be erected at the foot of Sixty-third avenue west, just off the Fairmont park addition.

Another tar dance will be given the latter part of this month by the members of the club.

Will Present Play.

The Drama League of the Duluth Industrial high school held a rehearsal this afternoon of the comedy play, "At the Corner Drugstore," which will be presented in the school the latter part of this month. Miss Effie White is in charge of the production.

CLUB MAY BE REORGANIZED

Now that the eleventh annual banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club is over, the members plan to turn their attention to the proposed reorganization of the club and the campaign for industries.

The reorganization was first proposed by A. G. Macauley, president of the club, at the annual election in January. At that time Mr. Macauley suggested that the members reorganize the club and incorporate it. In this way the club will be able to erect a clubhouse of its own and will also have the right to purchase property.

The following committee was appointed at that time to take the matter up, but it was decided to allow it to drop until the annual banquet was over: Thomas Olafson, P. H. Martin, L. A. Barnes, Charles Kauppi and M. J. Murray. The subject will be revived at the regular meeting this evening.

A proposal made recently by Judge Lanners suggesting that the club erect a structure similar to the Y. M. C. A. to be used for gymnasium purposes and social center meetings will also be considered by the committee.

The industrial committee, which consists of Emil Zauft, J. J. Frey and Charles Petruschke, will begin an active campaign at once for new industries to locate in West Duluth.

An Orderly Suburb.

But five arrests have been made at the West Duluth station since the first of the month. Of this number four were arrested on a charge of drunkenness and one for begging. According to Llut. Wilcox the number of arrests each month is gradually decreasing.

Revival Services.

O. Halvorson of Minneapolis, the travelling emissary of the United Lutheran church, who will begin a series of revival meetings this evening at the Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street, will preach at both services Sunday. He will also preach at Proctor in the afternoon. The revival meetings at the West Duluth church will continue until next Thursday evening.

West Duluth Briefs.

Rev. Allan Clark of the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street, is on a business visit in Kittson county. He will return next week.

F. J. Gottwald returned yesterday from Pensacola, Fla., where he spent the past winter.

Miss Lillian Sparks of 106 South Sixty-second avenue west, who was reported ill at her home, is improving.

Twin daughters were born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Keeler, 611 North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

Miss Jennie Hicks of Smithville is reported ill at her home.

Gust Viergutz of Smithville has left for Carlton, where he will make his home.

Miss Pearl Holmes of 422 North Fifty-third avenue west, who was reported ill at her home, is improving.

Miss Hulda Larson of 416 North Fifty-third avenue west has returned from a week's visit with relatives at Cloquet.

Watch repairing. Hurst, W. Duluth. Adv

The Young People's Society of the Swedish Mission church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Greene street, held a meeting in the church parlors last evening.

The Citizens State bank is open for all banking business from 6 to 8 p. m. Saturday evening.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

ONLY THREE GAMES BEING PLAYED

Rain Interferes With Baseball Schedules in Three Leagues.

Only three games are being played today in the three baseball leagues that have started this season. In the National league rain is falling in three cities, and in Cincinnati wet grounds make the game impossible. Chicago is playing at Cleveland and Detroit at St. Louis, but in Boston and Washington rain prevents any games. Kansas City is the only city in the American association with clear weather.

NEW BALL WHENEVER A FOUL IS CALLED.

Chicago, April 11.—A new plan for speeding up ball games in the American league was announced today by President Ban Johnson upon his return from Cleveland. According to this plan a new ball will be put into play every time a foul is hit, even if it does not go over the fence or into the stands. If it's a foul which the fielder cannot catch he will return to his position immediately so that the game may proceed, while the small boy retrieves the ball.

Will Make Debut.

San Francisco, Cal., April 11.—Jack Lester, the Washington heavyweight, will be introduced to an audience of San Francisco fight followers for the first time tonight when he steps into the ring to meet Al Kaufman, the local blacksmith, in a four-round bout.

Jimmy Howard, the Chicago middleweight, is scheduled to meet Willie Meehan of San Francisco.

Superior

Police Investigate.

A post-mortem examination held last evening on the body of Gust Johnson disclosed the fact that a blood clot on the man's brains caused his death. Johnson is the man who was found dying at the bottom of the steps in a boarding house at 1508 North Third street. The police are making an investigation of the man's death.

Athletes Banquet.

Fifty members of the Great Northern Athletic club held their annual banquet last evening at the Hotel Superior. L. A. Pickel acted as toastmaster following the dinner, and a program of addresses and musical numbers was given.

Alumni Banquet.

Prof. E. B. McGillivray of the Wisconsin university will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Superior Alumni association, to be held on May 2. A program is being prepared for the evening.

Lumbermen Feast.

The Duluth-Superior Retail Lumber Dealers' association held its annual banquet last evening at the Hotel Superior. About 100 members were present from both cities. C. T. Smith of St. Paul was one of the speakers.

Theater Planned.

A new motion picture theater will be opened shortly in the Webster block 1212-14 Tower avenue. Saxe Bros., who control a chain of theaters in Southern Minnesota and Wisconsin, are behind the project. The new talking pictures will be featured in the theater.

Girls to Declaim.

The annual girls' declamatory contest of the western division will be held this evening at the Nelson Dewey high school. Contestants have been entered from all the high schools in this part of the state. The winner will represent the district in the state contest.

NOTES OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT

Tonight will be "stunt" night at the boys' department Y. M. C. A.

There will be a variety to the program and some thrilling events are scheduled. The program will commence at 7:30.

Saturday afternoon the outing committee will conduct another Seeing Duluth trip. The party will leave the boys' building at 1:30 and take a trip to the Leithhead Drug company. After the trip there will be a swim.

The Knights of Sir Galahad will meet Sunday at 3 o'clock. The Sunday club for older boys will meet Sunday at 4 o'clock. The game tournament will commence Monday and registrations will close Saturday night. A tournament will be held in all the games in the club and any boy can enter. Five points in the Hustler club will be given to the champion in each game.

LAST DAYS OF "OPEN TOWN"

Lid Likely to Be Slammed Down Hard Next Monday.

New Commissioners Have Made Pledges on Law Enforcement.

The so-called liberal element is wearing a funeral expression on a long face these days. The coat lapels are decorated with crepe and all music seems to resolve itself into a dirge.

For they believe the days of the open town in Duluth to be numbered. They are counting them on their fingers—one, two, three, four. Friday, Saturday, Sunday and then—Monday. Today, tomorrow, the next day and up to the day the commission takes charge. That's Monday, April 14, at noon. As the clock tolls the hour of 12 the old will pass out and the new assume its place.

The fears of the liberal element are not groundless. They are not mere phantoms of the imagination, rearing spectral forms before them just to tantalize them. The new commissioners have made definite pledges. All the indications are that after the commission climbs into the saddle Duluth will become a closed town. In fact, there's scarcely any doubt of it. Duluth will be fitted out with a new lid and it will fit tight. It may be that the bonnet will tip a little here and there in the process of adjustment but no stone will be left unturned to locate any leaks in order that they may be plugged to stop the last drop.

The program which has been outlined will not permit of any favorites or any discrimination. It does not designate that some shall be sheep and others shall be goats. What's sauce for the goose will be sauce for the gander. One man's six will be equivalent to another man's half dozen.

Closed Once Before.

Duluth was closed up once before, not so many years ago. The lid was a kind of lid and it did fairly good service. But those familiar with the situation at that time know that parts of it might have been mistaken for a kind of a sieve. If the present plans of the commission carry, the old lid will look something like a poor imitation compared with that which will adorn Duluth shortly. Regardless of which man is commissioner of public safety it is asserted that the entire commission is pretty much of a common mind relative to law enforcement in Duluth.

Among other things it looks as though the old red light district on St. Croix avenue is doomed to be tossed into the discard.

Duluth hasn't been infested with gamblers, but the city has not been entirely free of them. If the commission has its way they will disappear entirely.

Duluth has some blind-pigs. That they are running is no secret, particularly in the downtown district. The blind-piggers will be hunted into their holes and driven out of existence wherever they can be located. Quite a number can be eliminated without much hunting.

The assignation houses and questionable rooming places will be watched and carefully checked up. They are due for a cleansing if not for elimination. If they are to continue in existence they will have to change their clothes and quit catering to certain classes or kinds of people.

The saloons will close up at 11 o'clock. And the clock will not be susceptible of manipulation. Eleven o'clock will mean just what the law says it means. And the bars will be closed Sundays. They will close their doors at 11 o'clock Saturday night and keep closed until 5 o'clock Monday morning.

It will be an administration of law enforcement which will be enforcement, without any "ifs" or "ands." That is the policy, it is said, which will be followed by the commissioner of public safety and the whole commission.

DOWNFALL BEGINS AT DANCE HALLS

Selling of Liquor and Providing "Friends" Has Ruined Many Girls.

Chicago, April 11.—Dance halls where liquor is sold to girls and where "friends are provided for those who want them,' were ascribed as the cause of the downfall of many young women by Mrs. Gertrude H. Britton, a social settlement worker, who testified today before the Illinois vice commission.

"In a thorough investigation we found that there are 200 dance halls in Chicago where liquor is sold to girls under 16 years of age," said Mrs. Britton. "In some of the other places the so-called soft drinks when analyzed by the city chemist were found to contain alcohol. In one dance hall on the North side we discovered that the proprietor had served notice on his patrons that a 'friend' would be provided for any girl that needed one. Our investigators learned that respectable dance halls were a good thing, for they provided diversion for many young people without endangering their morals, but about half of the dance halls are immoral. The selling of liquor to girls is often the first step toward their ruin."

"Myrtle S.," 17 years old, told the commission how a scolding by her father, the chance meeting of a "jolly fellow" and his giving her drugged beer led to her downfall. "When my parents separated I came to Chicago from Cleveland and, finding it lonesome to stay in my room at night I sought company," said the young witness. "A girl introduced me to a friend. At first we took soft drinks, but later I was induced to drink beer. One night the beer affected me strangely and after that I was a lost girl. I was convinced my 'friend' had drugged the beer. We often visited hotels, sometimes without any baggage, going to some in the downtown district that are considered respectable."

Proprietors of dance halls and hotels mentioned by witnesses were to testify later.

PREPARING CITY EXHIBIT

Charts and Photographs Show What Duluth Is Doing in Welfure Work.

Interesting and Instructive Collection Will Be Shown to Public.

Up on the fifth floor of the courthouse Miss Jean Poirier, as a representative of the Woman's council, has established a temporary office where she and others are working out plans for the big city welfare exhibit which will be put on during the week of April 21, under the auspices of the study class of the Women's council.

The exhibit, of course, will be free to the public, and if arrangements which have already been made are indicative of what may be expected when the finishing touches are put on preparatory to opening, the show will be well worth seeing. The exhibit will be held at the courthouse.

It is the aim of the study class to cover a wide range of city welfare subjects. Statistics of a valuable and interesting character have been gathered and will be graphically displayed on this occasion. Maps, charts and photographs are now being prepared to show what the city is doing and what it has failed to do along modern lines of thought in the city welfare work.

The exhibit will have eight general divisions classified as follows:

Civic Health.

Under this department will be shown charts, maps and photographs illustrating what is being done in Duluth to fight the white plague. Other exhibits under this general head will be infant mortality, milk inspection, water supply, garbage conditions and the smoke nuisance.

Public Safety.

This department will be devoted to the police and fire departments of the city. On display will be a number of photographs touching upon the local situation. An interesting feature will be a map of the city showing the number of licensed saloons, the number of churches and schools and the number of police stations.

Public Works.

Under this heading will be shown samples of paving, bridge building and street work. A special feature will be the paving. In this connection there will be on exhibit a number of different kinds of paving material. This is considered to be one of Duluth's problems at the present time and the display is expected to be viewed with interest.

Charities and Corrections.

This exhibit will be classified into the following divisions: (1) Juvenile court, concerning which there will be a number of charts showing number of cases handled and a classification of the causes of delinquency. (2) Humane society, photographs of homeless children cared for and a number of other interesting cases disposed of. (3) Board of public welfare and its field of endeavor. (4) Associated Charities and its methods of handling the local situation. (5) Parks, playgrounds and social center work, in which photographs of Duluth's progress along this line will be shown and compared with what is being done in other cities. (6) Commercialized amusements.

Schools.

The exhibit on schools will be a most interesting one. It will include maps showing in what districts children are truants, etc. It will show a chart illustrating how a dollar of school money is spent in administration expenses for the city schools. Other general subjects which will be touched upon will be school ventilation, medical and dental inspection of children, and other general statistics regarding Duluth schools.

Cost of Living.

This will be subdivided under the following general heads: (1) Weights and measures, the display being furnished by the state department and said to be very interesting to the housewives and those who buy the necessities of life. (2) The cost of delivery in the city. (3) Kitchen gardening and its relation to the cost of living. Homecrotting and what is being done along this line in Duluth will be exemplified here.

The Budget.

Under the department will be shown a number of interesting facts. With the aid of charts and maps showing comparisons, the following subjects will be taken up: (1) Sources of revenue. (2) How $1 of city tax money is apportioned. (3) Increase in administration expenses with a comparative table dating back ten years. (4) Comparative per capita cost of living in Duluth and in other cities in the country having about the same population.

The Commission Form of Government.

The last and newest feature of the exhibit will show the pictures of the mayor and commissioners-elect. A chart has been prepared which graphically points out the duties of each commissioner. A photograph of the city hall will also be a part of the display.

CUTTER HAVING HARD TIME WITH DERELICT.

Washington, April 11.—Battling a heavy sea with the helpless derelict, the schooner Batholmi, in her wake, the revenue cutter Seminole is having a tough tussle off the coast of Florida to reach port with her burden.

The Seminole discovered the abandoned schooner, a menace in the path of commerce, and endeavored to take her to Cape Fear, N. C. The wind and heavy sea soon toppled the schooner over and now she is bottom up, with the Seminole awaiting a favorable opportunity to drag her into port. The Batholmi was bound from Mobile to Macoris and the fate of her crew is unknown.

BELIEVED MINES WILL SOON RESUME

No Disorder on Cuyuna Where Situation Looks More Hopeful.

Brainerd, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is no disorder reported today on the Cuyuna range, where miners are on a strike and the opinion prevails that the trouble will be adjusted and that the mines will resume in a few days. State Labor Commissioner Allbright is here from St. Paul conferring with the men and with the mine owners.

H. J. Kruse, superintendent of the Rogers Brown Ore company, in a statement says: "The mining company is paying the miners as good wages as are paid any for such work. The men now are losing $6,500 daily in wages. The only dissatisfied ones appear to be a lot of young inexperienced miners, as the men with families, as a rule, are willing to return to work."

Fire at Pueblo.

Pueblo, Colo., April 11.—Fire early today destroyed the Swift block, one of the largest buildings here. Five persons living in the upper stories were injured and many had narrow escapes. The loss exceeds $300,000.

GOOD MARGIN FOR EXPORT

Duluth Spring Wheat Uncommonly Far Below Winnipeg Price.

Offers of Flaxseed Grow More Liberal and Price Declines.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 11.—Duluth May wheat closed today at a decline of ¼c, while Winnipeg May closed at an advance of ⅜c. At the close Duluth May was 3⅝c below Winnipeg May. This large margin caused a great deal of comment and was believed by many to mean a heavy export movement of American wheat as soon as the navigation of the Great Lakes opens. There were declines in May wheat today also at Chicago and Minneapolis.

Cash wheat at Duluth today closed 1c under May. Durum closed ¼c higher, oats ⅛c up and rye and barley unchanged. Duluth May flaxseed closed ¼c lower and July ½c lower.

Wheat worked lower on the American markets this morning, in spite of the strong export situation. The reports of crop conditions in the winter wheat belt were still most roseate, and this, together with the big stocks of wheat at the important market centers in all parts of the country, could not help depressing the price. The margin between the price at Winnipeg and that at Duluth was considerably increased today, as Duluth went down and Winnipeg went up. Duluth spring wheat was on an export basis without a doubt, and some of the wheat of American production that is in boats on the bay and can quickly be sent on its way to a European destination, was worked for export. There was a considerable export movement also in durum and Manitoba wheat.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 88¼c, opened at the same figures today, and at noon was quoted at 87¾c bid. Wheat was lower also at Chicago and Minneapolis but a little higher at Winnipeg.

Liverpool wheat at the close today was ⅛d higher to ⅛d lower. The glowing reports of the American winter wheat crop, less inquiry for cargoes and larger Plata offers were all bearish factors, but they were offset by the strength at Buenos Ayres, the forecast of lighter world shipments this week and continued reports of light stocks in Russia.

Flaxseed Goes Lower.

There were heavy offers of flaxseed on the Duluth market this morning, and this, together with bearish news from Winnipeg, sent prices down. Duluth May flaxseed at noon today was ⅜c lower and July was 1c off. Winnipeg May seed was ⅜c off at $1.13⅜, being 14⅜c under Duluth May. Minneapolis cash seed was ¼c under Duluth May. Buenos Ayres May seed last night closed ⅜c up at $1.22⅜. London-Calcutta April-June today closed 1⅜c up at $1.53⅞.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Peter Hoehn, owner and manager of a grain elevator at Casselton, Cass county, N. D., who was a visitor on the Duluth board of trade today, stated that prospects were excellent for a successful season in agriculture in that region.

"The snow is off the ground and some plowing has been done," said Mr. Hoehn. "I think seeding will begin after three or four days. The frost is not yet all out of the ground. The spring is a little late, but the delay in opening is not serious. The ground is in fine condition, being well watered, both by the rains last fall and the snows during the winter. There is not so very much spring plowing to be done, for about the usual amount of fall plowing was accomplished last year.

"The farmers of our vicinity raise wheat, barley and corn. They are going more and more into the cultivation of corn every year and I think the acreage of corn this year will be larger than we ever had before. There is never much corn to send away, as most of the crop is used to feed the cattle and hogs, which the farmers of our section are raising extensively now, on account of the high prices of meat. The barley that they raise is also used largely for feed, for it will not pay to market the barley at such prices as can now be obtained when it can be turned into meat and meat is so high. If barley were bringing such prices as it did two years ago, the situation would be altogether different. Farmers would, under such a condition, prefer to sell their barley, rather than feed it to the livestock.

"I believe the farmers will plant their usual acreage of wheat and barley. It may be that the corn acreage will encroach somewhat on the wheat. Little flax is raised in our neighborhood, as most of the land is old, and flaxseed does best on new land.

The Modern Miller says: "Only a few adverse reports are being received in regard to the progress of the growing winter wheat crop and the general outlook continues good. As the season is advancing and the condition of the crop is becoming more apparent, it is certain that there will not be much abandonment of acreage as a result of winter killing, or, for that matter, from any other cause, other than overflowing in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri, where crops in much of the lowlands have been drowned out. The only state that reports damage from winter killing to any considerable extent is Michigan, and there the plant shows irregular growth. The crop has received enough moisture to carry it along for some time. The plant generally has a perfect stand, being deep-rooted, with more than ordinary stooling. In some localities the plant is small, but is said to be coming along well. There have been rains and snow in some sections of Kansas and Nebraska, where the crop has been suffering because of drouth, and this has materially improved conditions there. The soil generally is in good condition for rapid growth with warm weather. There are reports of the presence of the Hessian fly and cinch bugs, but these pests are slow in developing, as the cold and wet weather has been against the propagation of all field pests."

The movement will be light from the farm and the cribs will be too damp to shell for some time."

The Chicago Paint, Oil and Drug Review says:

"The demand for linseed oil is more active this week than it has been for some time. Within the past few days some of the local crushers report the booking of more business than during the entire month of March. Most of the trading is for immediate or nearby delivery, though there is some contracting for futures. It is reported that there is a heavier call in the East for the long-deferred futures than there is here. Recently, advices told of a sale of 100,000 gallons September-January delivery in Philadelphia at 40 cents. There has been more demand for these long futures this season than ever before. Evidently buyers feel that the price is such that they can afford to take chances. Some have assumed that because of a big crop of flaxseed last year and low prices farmers are not encouraged to sow very freely this season and that this year's crop may not be as heavy as was the one of 1912. Forty-cent oil is cheap when compared with prices in recent years.

"The market at Chicago is generally 43 cents for spot oil. At this price there is a fair call. Taking oil on contracts is continuing active, and paint manufacturers are believed to have taken a larger percentage of their contract stuff than for the same season in many years past.

"Renewal of demand from the other side is reported in the linseed cake market. For the first time in several months foreigners are showing signs of wanting cake. There have been big offerings abroad, but none placed in store, and the consumption has about used up what the European brokers had American crushers are not anxious for foreign business just now, however, as they are finding a strong domestic demand for linseed meal, it being lower in price than cottonseed meal, something very unusual. Foreign buyers want cake for April-October at $22.00@22.50 per ton Minneapolis, or $23.00@24.00 Chicago, but brokers are having difficulty in getting Minneapolis crushers to make any offers."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Easier Cables and Ideal Domestic Weather Causes Easy Tone in Wheat.

Chicago, April 11.—Easier cables and ideal domestic weather caused an easy tone in wheat today. At the start speculative buying sent the price up a little, but the spurt was followed by a reaction to a little under the opening figures. Trades began with the market a shade lower to ⅛c higher. May was a shade lower to a shade higher at 91⅞c to 92c. After touching 92⅛c there was a decline to 91⅝@91¾c.

Corn eased off under liberal selling due to lower cables. May opened a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher at 55⅝c to 55⅞c, rose to 56¼c and then went a shade under the opening figures.

Oats, helped by the early corn strength, eased off under some selling pressure. May opened a shade higher at 35¾c, went up to 36c and declined to 35⅝c.

Advances in prices of hogs at the yards sent provisions up. The opening range was unchanged to 10c higher. May pork opened at $19.80 to $19.82½, lard at $10.87½ and ribs at $11.15.

UNDERTONE DEPRESSED

Prices of Important Stocks and Bonds Reach Lower Level.

Feeble Rally in Final Quarter Hour But Close Is Heavy.

New York, April 11.—Prices of important stocks and bonds reached a lower level today, although there was no severe pressure on the market, the volume of selling being curtailed considerably. Speculation was at a standstill at times.

Failure of underwriting syndicates to find a market for recent issues of securities and the indications that other offerings soon would be made stimulated bearish sentiment.

Large flotations are held up abroad pending settlement of the Balkan war, and at home a large amount of financing is awaiting favorable conditions.

Pool operations which were instrumental in bringing the average level from 5 to 15 points above the year's lowest prices have been suspended, owing to this phase of the financial matters.

Bonds were easy.

Trading was quiet at the opening of the stock market today and price changes were small. An easy tone developed in the first few minutes and most of the speculative leaders sustained small losses. Reading opened at a small advance, but fell below last night's closing on moderate offerings. Union Pacific and Steel also were heavy.

All of the stocks in which new security issues have been made or are contemplated lost ground, especially New York Central and St. Paul, which sold below recent low levels. Elsewhere the list showed little resiliency, Union Pacific, Amalgamated and Reading lost ½ or more.

Stocks in which there was any heavy trading of consequence, worked lower, notably New York Central, which touched 103, the lowest since 1911. Steady shading in prices of numerous 4 per cent bonds produced an unfavorable impression.

Further talk of impending security issues started fresh bear selling and many of the principal stocks yielded 1@1½; Reading was especially heavy.

The market closed heavy. Shorts were not impressed by the quality of resistance shown by the standard stocks and made no serious effort to cover their lines. Some stocks hardened in the final quarter of an hour but the rally was feeble and the undertone remained depressed.

COPPER STOCKS DULL AND LOWER

The bears had the better of it, though they did not make a great deal of headway, in copper stocks today. Butte & Superior closed $1 to $1.25 lower. Amalgamated had quite a slump and Hancock closed at considerable loss. Fort Butte showed a little gain, being a conspicuous exception to the general list. The strength of North Butte was due to recent favorable reports from the mines. The general stock market of New York was rather weak today and had a bearish influence no coppers, but the copper metal market was fairly strong. Spot copper on the London market today closed 7s 6d lower than it did yesterday and futures closed 10s lower. The Boston market today quoted copper at 15⅝c a pound.

Gay & Sturgis today received the following wire from Butte, Mont.: "North Butte has either cut Snowball vein on the 2,800-foot level or a rich stringer from vein. Miners are undecided which it is, but if it is the main vein, it is rich but smaller than anticipated. If only a stringer, the main vein is likely to be reached in a few days."

A London cable to the Boston News Bureau says: "The Amalgamated agency has raised the price of electrolytic to £72 (15⅝c). A very fair volume of business is being transacted and confidence is growing. There have been good withdrawals of copper from continental warehouses. Leading dealers say consumption is at record figures and they predict a repetition of last year's decline in surplus supplies. Consumers' stocks are practically nil."

RESOLUTION PASSED.

Wisconsin Measure Provides for Acquisition of Storage Warehouses.

Madison, Wis., April 11.—The assembly refused to postpone the Vint joint resolution providing for the acquisition and observation of storage warehouses by the state. The vote was 61 to 32. The resolution was engrossed.

Assemblyman Roethe vigorously objected to the Rosa resolution for a constitutional convention. He said it would cost $150,000 as in Ohio. The resolution was indefinitely postponed, 58 to 35.

The committee on excise and fees reported for indefinite postponement the Pfennig bill for the "divorce" of brewers from the retail trade.

The senate advanced to engrossment today the Bichler bill for the appointment of town road superintendents in all towns in the state having an assessed valuation of $500,000 or more. These officials are given supervision of all roads and bridges except those under state or county systems.

The senate killed Senator Linley's resolution looking to a 1-cent passage fare on railroads and the Burke bill forbidding the state university from entering into competition with private concerns in the sale of dairy products. The assembly bill increasing the penalty for assault with intent to murder or rob, from fifteen to thirty years, was concurred in by the senate.

MAN AND WOMAN FIGHT DUEL AT FORT WILLIAM.

Fort William, Ont., April 11.—Mrs. M. Benjamin, aged 18, and Sam Jacobs, aged 29, fought a duel with knives in the woman's home here today. Both are in the hospital, the woman with a gash in her abdomen and the man with thirteen wounds in his chest and stomach. The woman cannot recover and the man has little chance. Mrs. Benjamin claims that Jacobs attacked her.

Lose Their Eyesight.

Regina, Sask., April 11.—Two members of the teaching staff of the engineering department of a local college, A. J. Broderick and George Kidd, lost their eyesight following an explosion of a gas generator today. The flames struck both men full in the face.

WORK BOXES OF FAMOUS WOMEN.

The Sphere: Of all the exhibits at the royal amateur art exhibition, apart from certain small portraits in oil and pastels of the Eighteenth century, none was so interesting as the work boxes that have been used by famous women. The dowager countess of Normanton lent one which formerly belonged to Marie Antoinette, whilst the Hon. Mrs. Percy Miltford contributed a very handsome work box in tortoise shell mounted in silver, once the property of Princess Elizabeth, daughter of George III. There was one formed like a grand piano, with mother of pearl fittings, and a musical box lent by Lady Nora Hodgson, and the collection included an ebony box of Florentine workmanship that belonged to Monsignor Bartolucci, the great-grandfather of the dowager marchioness of Tweeddale, in whose possession it now is.

HUSBAND HAD AUTO, BUT FOR OTHER WOMEN ONLY

Alma Louise Russell claims to be a woman of fine feelings and a decidedly nervous temperament, which is one reason why she happens to be seeking a legal separation from her husband, Walter Russell, and for the filing of her suit for divorce in district court yesterday afternoon. But that is only one reason. Mrs. Russell also has something to say about her husband's conduct.

Mrs. Russell sets forth the claim that her husband entertained other women—strangers to her—by taking them out for an occasional spin in his motor car all the time forgetting that he had a wife and child at home, both of whom were desirous of having a ride in the same machine.

Mrs. Russell is naturally high strung, nervous and sensitive, or at least she states so. She charges that Mr. Russell has spent considerable time joy-riding with other women and that he has often refused to take her and their child out for a ride.

This is not all. She claims that she has to be contented with the bare necessities of life, while hubby has an auto, an expensive array of fishing tackle and guns and anything else his heart desires.

Russell, she claims, is possessed of an ungovernable temper and at times has treated her in a violent and ugly manner. She claims that this, with other things, has broken her in spirits and in health.

She also sets up the claim that Russell prefers to carry around large sums of money on his person, to putting it in the bank.

They were married in this city on July 4, 1900, and are parents of one child, Goldie, daughter, now aged 12. Mrs. Russell is 30 years old and he is 35. He is an electrician, capable she claims of making from $4 to $5 a day.

Upon plaintiff's application, Judge J. D. Ensign has signed a temporary restraining order which forbids Russell from visiting his wife or home at 15 Eleventh avenue west, or of selling or disposing of his property until a further order of the court.

In district court at the special term tomorrow Russell has been cited to appear to show cause why he should not pay his wife temporary alimony and suit money.

John H. Norton and James A. Wharton are attorneys for Mrs. Russell.

May Succeed Chandler Hale.

Washington, April 11.—Though the senate had adjourned until Saturday and no nominations were prepared at the White House, it was stated that Dudley Field Malone, son-in-law of Senator O'Gorman, would be appointed third assistant secretary of state to succeed Chandler Hale.

MUSIC FORBIDDEN IN HURLEY PLACES

Dancing and Gambling Also Come Under Ban in Saloons.

Hurley, Wis., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new town board, composed of Messrs. Lambrix, Voigt and Paul, met Wednesday afternoon and organized. The following appointments were made: Superintendent of police, Frank Dardag, at a salary of $70 per month; night watchman, Max Le Fave, at a salary of $55 per month; town attorney, A. L. Ruggles, at a salary of $12.50 per month.

The appointment of a fire steward and overseers of highways was laid over for the next meeting. The application of Henry Hill for a license to conduct a saloon in the building formerly occupied by Joseph Franci, was rejected because the applicant was not a citizen of Wisconsin.

The board gave the chief of police orders to notify all saloonkeepers that all forms of music will be forbidden in saloons, also dancing and all forms of gambling and that no immoral men or women are to be allowed in or about saloon premises.

OFFICER RAIDS "GREEN ONION"

Iron County Deputy Sheriff Catches Five in Hurley Resort.

Hurley, Wis., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Sheriff Welsh, with the assistance of several deputies, raided a place known as the "Green Onion" and arrested Harry Hunter, colored; Maggie Terry, colored; Julia Lockhart, William Smith and Mose Lavigne. All were arraigned in municipal court. Harry Hunter was charged with being the keeper of the place and pleaded not guilty and his preliminary hearing was set for April 15. His bail was fixed at $1,000, which has not been furnished. He has been employed at the Curry hotel in Ironwood as a waiter and porter for the past year.

Maggie Terry pleaded guilty to being an inmate of the place, but later admitted that she was the owner and keeper of the place, and was bound over to the circuit court under bail of $1,000. Julia Lockhard pleaded not guilty to being an inmate and her trial was set for Saturday and bail fixed at $100, which was not furnished.

William Smith and Mose Levigne, two lumberjacks, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct, and after a strong lecture by Judge Thomas were each fined $25 and costs amounting to $4.77 and thirty days in the county jail, and if the fine and costs are not paid they will serve sixty days in jail.

STEAMERS WRECKED BY ICE IN RED RIVER.

Winnipeg, Man., April 11.—Ice jams and high water in the Red river was the cause of wrecking the pleasure steamers Bonitoba and Alberta. The Alberta was swept from her moorings in an ice shove at the foot of Lombard street here today, and went over the street and locks to destruction. The Bonitoba was valued at $10,000 and the Alberta at $20,000.

Thousands of dollars' worth of damage was done along the river bank today through ice shoves.

In the woolen trade during the last ten years Great Britain has made nearly five times as much progress as Germany, and fifteen times as much as France.

TRUE SAMPLES OF NORTHERN WEATHER.

Why do you put up with this sort of weather? Why do you endure it?

HAVEN'T YOU HEARD ABOUT FLORIDA?

Would you like to know more about this land of low expenses, the state with the wonderful climate? Are you interested in learning about the money-making possibilities of Southern Florida? As one enthusiast said: "I would not trade my ten-acre tract on the Florida East Coast (they cost only $250, on $10 payments) for the best 80 acres in Northern Minnesota if I had to live there."

Land in the Palm Beach, Lake Worth, fruit and vegetable section is earning from $150 to $1,000 per acre. When you move down there you will meet old friends—300 satisfied buyers from Duluth and vicinity. You should know more about these lands. Write or call for free maps and interesting literature.

When it snows here in springtime, it's time to think of Florida. Cloudy, dismal weather the same. When a bright, pleasant day surprises you by its arrival, remember there are 200 such days each year in FLORIDA on the EAST COAST. Statistics show 105 in Duluth in one year.

NON-PARTISAN BILL IS LOST ON FINAL PASSAGE BUT IS RECONSIDERED

Made Special Order for Wednesday and Likely to Pass.

"Blue Sky" Bill Will Be Decided Next Thursday Morning.

County Division Bill Not Reconsidered and Is Now Dead.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another chapter was written this morning in the checkered history of the non-partisan election bill. Taking advantage of an extraordinarily light house, the opponents of the bill brought up the conference report and put the bill on its final passage with only eighty members present, and the bill was lost. A call of the house was promptly moved by the friends of the bill, and it had hardly begun when an attempt was made by the opponents of the measure to have it suspended. A roll call was demanded on this motion and it was lost, 54 to 36.

Representative H. H. Dunn then moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was lost, and his motion prevailed, 62 to 35. Then, because the house was still too light for safety, on motion of H. H. Dunn the bill was laid over to Wednesday afternoon, when it will be a special order and will probably be passed.

Conference Necessary.

A conference on the workingmen's compensation act will be necessary. When the bill as amended by the house last night came back to the senate this morning, Senator Albert Schaller moved that the senate refuse to concur in the house amendments, that a conference committee of five be appointed and that the house be requested to appoint a similar committee. This will be done immediately, and as both the presiding officers are friendly to the passage of a fair workingmen's compensation act, they will appoint on the conference committee men favorable to the bill. No difficulty in

"DAUGHTERS" COME FROM FAR AND NEAR

Annual Meeting of D. A. R. Will Begin in Washington Monday.

Washington, April 12.—Hundreds of women are pouring into Washington today and more hundreds will arrive tomorrow to attend the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which formally opens Monday. In the meantime, committee meetings are numerous and political conference and the rivalry for the various offices in the organization are keying up the delegates. For president of the society three candidates are in the field and a brisk rivalry marks the race for other places.

It was announced today that three meetings at least during the coming week will be secret. These will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and none but delegates will be admitted. Information as to the business to be brought up on those three occasions was refused. Matters of policy, it was understood, however, were to be discussed and a consensus of opinion concerning the proposed revision of the constitution would be sought.

A sharp fight is promised over the proposal that the government be asked to bear part of the expense of constructing Continental hall, which yet is unfinished. It is feared that if congress appropriates funds the organization's headquarters then would be subject to the control of the government. Many oppose such a proposition.

NON-PARTISAN LEGISLATORS

Practically Assured for Minnesota By Action of the House.

County Officers Also Will Go on Non-Partisan Ballot.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Non-partisan county officers, with non-partisan legislators thrown in, were practically assured for this state yesterday afternoon when the house instructed its conference committee on the non-partisan primary bill to stick exclusively to the only point of difference between it and the senate—the primary election date.

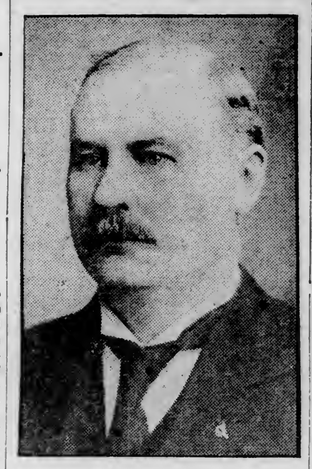

Whereupon the conference committee which has been deadlocked for a week, came promptly to an agreement changing the primary election date from the first Tuesday in October, the impracticable date fixed by the house, to the third Tuesday in June.

The report of the committee was made to the senate, which body ratified the report and repassed the bill, 36 to 15.

The senate's action was reported to the house later, but the house was working on the workingmen's compen-

COMPENSATION BILL PASSED

All Serious Amendments Defeated and Senate Likely to Agree.

Labor Men Say It Is Better Measure Than They Expected.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senate working men's compensation bill emerged a victor in the house last night after one of the longest and hardest fights of the session.

The final vote was 102 for and 6 against the bill, but before the vote was taken there was a bitter contest by a stubborn hostile majority, and at times during the seven hours or more the house put in on the bill the chamber was in a turmoil.

Practically all of the serious amendments were beaten, and one—the substitution of the Wisconsin law for the provision of the bill—the house rejected without consideration when it was offered.

Several amendments were adopted, all in the interest of labor, and while these may necessitate a conference

NOMINATIONS SENT BY PRESIDENT TO SENATE.

Washington, April 12.—Among the nominations sent to the senate today by President Wilson were:

To be third assistant secretary of state—Dudley Field Malone of New York.

To be counsellor for the state department—John Bassett Moore of New York.

To be United States judge for the Southern district of Florida—Rhydon M. Call.

To be United States marshal, Northern district of Texas—William J. McGould.

The last named served as the president's bodyguard during the recent campaign and is known as a deadshot and a stranger to fear.

SCOTT MAY BE THE NEXT ASSESSOR

Slated to Take Back His Old Position on May 1.

Deadlock on Attorneyship Between J. B. Richards and E. M. Morgan.

Campbell Will Be Auditor and Palmer City Clerk.

WILL THIS BE NEW SLATE?

Auditor—Ben J. Campbell.
City clerk—Charles S. Palmer.
Assessor—J. Allyn Scott.
Attorney—E. M. Morgan or J. B. Richards.

Speculation is rife as to the appointments which will be made by the new commission, which takes charge of the city government at noon next Monday.

The interest is second only to the division of duties of the commission and the policy as to law enforcement.

As it appears at present, W. A. Hicken will be commissioner of public safety, unanimously conceded to be the division which all wish to avoid. The policy of Mr. Hicken is not in doubt should he take charge of that department. Should that be the case, W. I. Prince will take public affairs; Leonidas Merritt, public utilities; Fred J. Voss, finance, and Roderick Murchison, public works.

The appointments have caused much comment. The commission is obliged to fill four positions—attorney, assessor, auditor and clerk. Charles S. Palmer will be city clerk and J. Allyn Scott probably assessor. Ben Campbell will likey be auditor. William S. McCormick, city comptroller for many years, was a candidate for the position, but it is not likely that he will be successful. Mr. Campbell has been employed in the comptroller's office for many years and is well fitted by ability and experience to fill the position.

City Attorney.

FATAL LABOR RIOT OCCURS IN CHICAGO

One Man Killed in Trouble Following Attempt to Get Men to Leave.

Chicago, April 12.—News of a fatal labor riot leaked out today when the death due to a bullet wound of Edward Paul was reported to the coroner.

Paul, a union painter, was shot yesterday while he and some companions were attempting to persuade non-union painters to leave a job at Belmont and Pine Grove avenues. Before his death Paul said he did not know who shot him.

Others engaged in the riot used their fists and bricks.

Charles Hanson and Helmat Lundin, said to have been with Paul, bear marks of the strife and are being detained by the police as witnesses.

FIRST TEST OF STRENGTH ON SUGAR TARIFF BEGINS IN DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Representatives of Louisiana Assail Duties Approved By Committee.

Aided By Michiganders Who Declare It Would Ruin Industry.

First Amendment Proposes Graduated Cut Year By Year.

VOTE DOWN AMENDMENTS.

Washington, April 12.—By an overwhelming majority the house Democratic caucus today voted down amendments to the sugar tariff schedule proposed by Representative Broussard of Louisiana and supported by members from the sugar states, to eliminate the provision for free sugar in three years, and provide an immediate 10 per cent reduction to be followed by gradual reduction for six years. The vote against it was 80 to 15.

Washington, April 12.—House Democrats today began their fight over the sugar tariff schedule. Opponents of the administration rates as proposed in the Underwood bill began a vigorous stand against the proposition for free raw sugar in three years.

Representatives from Louisiana, led by Representative Broussard and aided by members from Michigan and other beet sugar states, assailed the duties approved by the ways and means committee and President Wilson, as ruinous to the sugar industry in their states.

Chairman Underwood began the argument in defense of the schedule, detailing the long, careful study the committee had given to the sugar question. Amendment proposed by Representative Broussard were opposed by the flat free sugar champions, led by Representatives Hardwick of Georgia, who offered an amendment that raw sugar be placed on the free list at on without any gradual reduction. Mr. Hardwick's argument against a gradual reduction was that it was discrimination in favor of segregated industries in Louisiana and the beet states.

Representative Broussard's first amendment proposed a cut on 96 per cent sugar from Cuba of 20 cents per hundredweight at the outset, 25 cents in 1916 and 37 cents in 1919. On 100 per cent sugar his amendment would

MAYOR OF CIENFUEGOS, CUBA, ASSASSINATED.

Havana, April 12.—Ceferino A. Mendez, the newly elected conservative mayor of the city of Cienfuegos in the province of Santa Clara, was assassinated last night. A group of men waylaid him in the street while he was on his way home and riddled him with bullets.

The motive of the assassination is known to have been political, Mendez having incurred the bitter enmity of the defeated Liberals. Six suspected men have been arrested.

Fears are entertained by the authorities that the murder will be the beginning of a bloody feud.

RECOUNT COMMENCED; NET RESULT TO DATE IS LOSS OF ONE FOR M'EWEN

Inspectors Complete Only First Precinct of First Ward.

Work Is Being Done Behind Closed Doors at City Hall.

Disputed Ballots Will Be Passed On By the Courts.

A net loss of one vote by W. E. McEwen was the result of the recount this morning of the 220 votes cast for mayor in the First precinct of the First ward. With a late start, the inspectors in charge of the recount were able to go through only the one precinct.

Only three ballots, which were evidently counted to give Fay one vote, McEwen one vote and Silberstein one vote were challenged and were laid aside for submission to the court. All the other ballots were counted by the inspectors without dispute.

The presumption that the three ballots were counted as indicated is reflected in the difference between the official report and the recount of the precincts. The official count gave Fay 96, McEwen 68, Prince 82 and Silberstein 77, first, second and third choice votes. The result of the recount is Fay, 95; McEwen, 66; Prince, 82; Silberstein, 76.

The court will pass on the three ballots in question and determine how they shall be counted.

One ballot is marked first choice for McEwen and second choice for Fay and Kaplan. The McEwen vote was evidently counted.

Another ballot was voted first choice for Fay, second choice for Cullum and McEwen and third choice for Day and Dowling. The first and third choice columns were evidently counted by the judges.

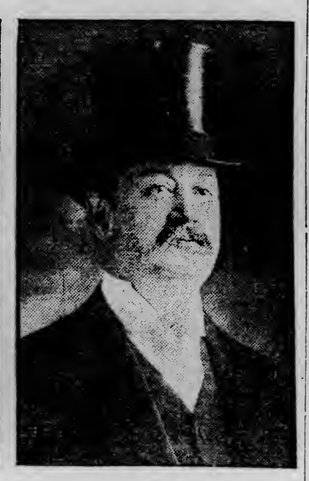

The third ballot was marked first choice for Day and Getchell, second choice for Fay and Prince and third choice for Cullum and Silberstein. Only

ACCUSED AND ACCUSER IN N. Y. SCANDAL

SENATOR STILLWELL.

GEORGE H. KENDALL.

Albany, N. Y., April 12.—Emphatically denying every allegation reflecting upon his conduct as a legislator, Senator Stephen J. Stillwell concluded his defense to the charges made by George H. Kendall, president of the New York Bank Note company, that Stillwell had shared in a $250 fee paid by Kendall for drafting a bill which the company desired introduced, and that he had attempted to extort $3,500 from Kendall to advance the legislation.

Stillwell's fate as a senator now rests with his colleagues. Counsel will present arguments before the senate in committee of the whole, probably on Tuesday, and a vote on sustaining the charges will follow.

CONSTERNATION IN RESTAURANTS

Guests of Two High Class Chicago Places Scared By Visit of Officials.

Chicago, April 12.—Agents of the Illinois vice commission, of which Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara is chairman, late last night and early today brought consternation to the fashionable guests of two downtown restaurants—Rector's and Stacy—against whose reputations there rested no question except the nature of their cabaret entertainments.

From these cafes only the managers and members of the cabaret shows were subpoenaed. They were questioned as to smutty songs which are alleged features of cabarets.

From the Tenderloin men and women sightseers out "slumming" were gathered and brought before the commission. One woman in hysterical fear of disgrace tried to jump from a window when the invaders with their subpoenas reached a restaurant in the vice district. Another fell on her knees and wept. A man jammed a roll of bills into the hands of an officer.

"Take this for God's sake!" he cried, "and let my partner go. You don't know what this means!"

Officers kept the rushing mob, some weeping, some laughing hysterically, from the doors and finally restored order. They then were bundled into automobiles and taken downtown to testify before the welfare commission.

POPE HAS A HIGH FEVER

Pontiff Suffers Another Relapse and Tracheal Bronchitis Develops.

At 6 o'Clock in Evening Temperature Reaches 103 Degrees.

Rome, April 12.—The pope has suffered another relapse. Tracheal bronchitis has developed.

6:10 p. m.—The pope's fever has reached 103.

The condition of the pope is regarded as grave, especially so on account of his weak state. This has caused the fear to arise that he will be unable to overcome the new attack.

The relapse is not yet generally known, even among the Vatican officials.

Only the sisters and a niece of the pope were notified of the relapse. They drove hurriedly to the Vatican.

The Osservatore Romanof, the Vatican official newspaper, published this evening the following bulletin:

"On April 7, the pope fell ill with a relapse of influenza with symptoms of tracheal bronchitis. The fever stopped three days ago but returned today with aggravation of catarrh in the thorax. There are no symptoms to cause alarm. (Signed) "MARCHIAFAVA. "AMICIE."

SENATE DOORKEEPER QUICKLY EXONERATED.

Washington, April 12.—It took the senate election committee less than fifteen minutes today to exonerate Carl E. Loeffler, assistant doorkeeper of the senate of Senator Gore's charge that he had been responsible for the disappearance of one of the important papers in the first trial of William Lorimer. Senator Gore did not appear before the committee.

LEVEE BREAK GIVES RELIEF

Crevasse in Old Dikes Takes Away Vast Amount of Water.

Will Serve to Decrease Stage of Water All Along the River.

Memphis, Tenn., April 12.—Relief for residents and levee workers on the eastern side of the Mississippi river was caused today by a crevasse in an old stretch of dikes forty miles from the mouth of the Arkansas river. The overflow will cover a stretch of country as far south as Lake Village and including the small towns of Lake Jefferson, Rosemary, Kelso, Macarthur and McGehee.

According to river statisticians, this break will serve to decrease the stage of water from the flood-laden Arkansas river, thus relieving the pressure on the Mississippi side of the river.

Encouraging Conditions.

Encouraging conditions were reported today from Memphis northward. At Memphis the gauge read 44.1, a fall of six-tenths in the past twenty-four hours. Helena reported 53.7 and stationary, while Vicksburg showed 47.9, a rise of six-tenths. The center of the flood fight has been shifted to the section below Memphis.

Relief work in the overflowed areas of Arkansas is being pushed by committees from Memphis, aided by Arkansas citizens. Refugees driven from their homes by the Wilson breaks are reported to have left their places for the camp at Memphis, but boatloads continued to arrive here today.

Conditions Improve.

Cairo, Ill., April 12.—River conditions here continue to improve. The stage of the Ohio this morning was 54.1 feet, a fall of two-tenths of a foot since last night.

Lieut. S. B. Buckner, U. S. A., will leave today on the government boat William H. King, for Hickman, Ky., and Memphis, taking with him a corps of non-commissioned officers.

The Chicago naval reserves and three crews of life savers will return to Chicago today. Permission has been granted saloons, moving picture shows and all business houses to reopen at noon today.

MODERNIZING SOUTH SHORE

Steel Bridges Will Replace Wooden Structures—New Equipment.

Phe-Historic Jokes About Road Will Be Pointers in Future.

The days of jokes on the South Shore road are passing. Soon the man who holds up his hands in mock wonder when informed that a South Shore train is on time will be frowned upon by loyal friends of the road. The roadbed no more will be likened to a corduroy road and the old joke about the cow beating the train will be placed in the scrap-heap.

The South Shore has taken on a new lease of life. The roadbed, buildings and equipment are being repaired, restored and rehabilitated. As rapidly as the work can be financed and carried out, the road is taking its place among modern railroads, with modern equipment and service.

Last summer, without much fuss or publicity, the South Shore went over the roadbed, making extensive repairs. It was the most complete overhauling the roadbed had received since it was first constructed. The South Shore is built for the most part through swampy territory and the difficulties in making a stable roadbed which the swamp land offered gave the South Shore its reputation for a rocky road. The roadbed is now in better condition than it ever was and is in about as good condition as any in this section of the country.

This year, the good work is to go on. The American Bridge company, of which Walter G. Zimmerman is resident manager with offices in the Wolvin building, has been awarded the contract for four bridges to replace wooden structures on the South Shore. One big viaduct 1,000 feet long will be placed over the Bad river near Shiloh, Wis., and another viaduct 700 feet long will go over Vaughn creek near the same town. Girder spans, each sixty feet long, will be constructed over the Montreal and Culver rivers near Saxon, Wis.

All four bridges will be of modern steel construction.

The South Shore has also ordered from the bridge company three big turntables to be installed at three new roundhouses to be built at Marquette, St. Ignace and Thomaston, division points.

After the construction of the steel bridges and the building of the roundhouses, the South Shore intends to add to its equipment several large modern locomotives. The strengthening of the bridges and the installation of the new turntables for larger roundhouses is made necessary by the proposed heavier equipment. When all the work is completed, the South Shore will hold up its end with any railroad in the country.

sation special order, and did not take it up.

The proceedings which settled this matter began when the house conference committee took the usual step of asking the house to instruct it as to whether it should confine its deliberations to the primary election date, or whether it might go beyond that and recommend striking out the provision for non-partisan legislators, leaving county officers on a non-partisan basis.

Representative N. J. Holmberg of Renville, a member of the committee, moved that the committee be given the authority it sought.

Representative H. H. Dunn moved as a substitute that the committee be restricted to the consideration of the primary election date, which was the only matter of difference between the two houses.

Representative G. W. Brown said that the conference committee had no business to go beyond this one point, and that if it could not agree it should report accordingly, so a new committee could be appointed.

The Dunn motion prevailed, 64 to 47, with most of the house organization voting against it.

The matter is settled so far as the senate is concerned. By the action of the conference committee the house receded from its amendment, and the repassage of the bill by the senate has put it up to the house, which can hardly reject what it has twice approved.

If the bill becomes a law Minnesota will have established a new precedent, for no other state has yet adopted the non-partisan policy to this extent by law, however prevalent it may have become in practice.

The bill also legalizes the Roosevelt party, and provides that no independent candidates may file for non-partisan offices. In addition, it provides that where only two candidates file at the primaries for a non-partisan office there shall be no primary contest, but that both candidates shall go on the general election ballot.

Municipal Ownership Bill.

A bill of interest and importance to municipal ownership advocates reached the final stage of its career, so far as the legislature is concerned, when the senate repassed it yesterday afternoon as amended in the house.

The bill, which is by Senator W. S. Dwinnell of Minneapolis, is intended to facilitate municipal ownership operations while at the same time restricting them to experiments of real value.

It provides that where the city council or other governing body by a three-fifths vote, submits a municipal ownership proposition to the people, and the people ratify it by a majority of those voting on the proposition, the city may issue bonds to the amount of 20 per cent of the cost of buying or building the plant, and certificates of indebtedness for the remainder of the cost. The bonds are to be a general liability of the city, but the certificates of indebtedness are to be a lien on the plant only.

"We expect this bill to work an advantage in two ways," said Senator Dwinnell yesterday afternoon. "By requiring that part of the indebtedness shall be a lien on the plant only, we require that municipal ownership experiments shall be wise; otherwise the securities will not be easily marketed. On the other hand, if the experiment is wise, not only will the securities be easily marketable, but they can be sold on favorable terms with a reasonable rate of interest."

The bill now goes to the governor for its signature.

As originally introduced, the measure applied only to Minneapolis, but it was amended so as to apply to Duluth and St. Paul, also.

Marriage Reform Bill Killed.

The senate judiciary committee yesterday afternoon killed the Southwick house bill reforming the marriage laws of the state.

The house committee on temperance yesterday afternoon favorably reported the Klemer bill prohibiting the issuance of liquor licenses for buildings owned by wholesale liquor dealers.

When the Woodmen's secession bill came back to the house yesterday afternoon as amended by the senate, on motion of its author, Representative D. P. O'Neill of Thief River Falls, the house refused to concur in the amendments and conference committees were appointed to thresh out the differences.

The first of the appropriation bills came into the senate yesterday afternoon, and there are four more to follow. This one covers salaries of all state officers. The most important changes in it are that the clerk of the supreme court, I. A. Caswell, goes from a fee basis to a salary of $4,500 a year, and the governor's private secretary, George F. Authier, undergoes the same experience. The committee provided, however, that the change should not be effective until Jan. 1, 1915.

The salary of State Treasurer Walter J. Smith was increased from $3,500 to $4,500.

committee between the two houses, it is not likely that they will put the bill in jeopardy. In fact, A. J. Rockne, who led the fight for the bill in the senate, says there will be no difficulty in reaching an agreement between the two houses. William E. McEwen of Duluth, who was quoted by several speakers during the debate, says the bill is in excellent shape and much better than he expected.

Amendments By Labor Interests.

Some of the amendments were offered in good faith by those representing labor interests, but they represented the extreme view which it was necessary to exclude in order to get a start made in this state on working men's compensation. They were willing that the amendments should be beaten rather than that the bill should be defeated.

As it stands, while the bill is by no means ideal, and does not satisfy all employers nor all employes, it is considered that it is an improvement on any other existing law on this subject, and it is predicted that in practice it will justify itself and those who worked for it so stoutly and through so many difficulties.

Other amendments were not offered in good faith, but grew out of a spirit of hostility to the bill and out of a hope that no working men's compensation bill whatever would be adopted, and that conditions might remain as they have been, with personal injury lawyers absorbing the lion's share of the cost to society of caring for injured working men.

The fight for the bill in the house was ably led by Representative John B. Sanborn of St. Paul, and he was helped in his fight by Representatives Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm, Charles N. Orr of St. Paul, John G. Lennon and S. R. Child of Minneapolis and others.

The fight against the bill—or rather the fight to amend it, for there was no open fight against it—was made by Representatives H. H. Dunn of Albert Lea, W. A. Campbell of Minneapolis and Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis:

The contest was opened by Speaker Rines, when the special order was reached, who instructed the sergeant-at-arms to see that the rule barring from the floor those not entitled to be there was strictly enforced.

The first amendment offered was adopted. It was by Representative W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis, and provided that it shall be the duty of the state commissioner of labor to see that workers are informed of their rights under the bill, to study its working and to report to succeeding legislatures any suggestions that he may have looking to its improvement.

The hardest and longest fight, and in reality the test of the strength of the bill in the house, came on the next proposed amendment, which was offered by Representative W. A. Campbell of Minneapolis, and which increased the maximum weekly indemnity under the bill from $10 to $15.

Representative Sanborn opposed the amendment, and appealed to the house to pass the bill as it stood. He said that while it was not claimed to be an ideal bill, it was as fair a bill as could be hoped for at this time, and that if it was not passed substantially as it stood no workingmen's compensation act could be hoped for at this session. It was the result of many conferences between those representing labor and those representing capital, and it represented as near an agreement as could be hoped for at this time. While the maximum of $10 might seem low, it should not be overlooked that only about one in eight of the workmen injured under present conditions get any compensation at all, and that when the whole burden is placed upon industry it must not be made too heavy at the start.

Representative H. H. Dunn of Albert Lea, in supporting the amendment, charged that this is "an employers' bill."

Would Kill the Bill.

Representative Lennon said that the adoption of the amendment would kill the bill, and that was why some members were supporting it.

Representative Knapp said that he would gladly favor the amendment if he were not convinced that it meant the defeat of the bill. Both the workers and the employers of the state, he said, demand a workingmen's compensation act, and the house could not afford to be the means of defeating their wishes. It is impossible to produce an ideal bill, or one that will be entirely satisfactory to every employer and every employe, but the pending bill came as near it as could be expected.

"The adoption of this amendment," said Mr. Knapp, "would sound the death knell of workingmen's compensation at this session.

After a debate of more than an hour and a half, a roll call was taken which showed the defeat of the amendment, 32 for and 81 against.

Representative Healy of Hibbing voted for the amendment, and the other St. Louis county members voted against it. Representative Hillman was absent.

Mr. Campbell then proposed an amendment providing that medical and surgical attendance should be provided by the employer for ninety days instead of two weeks and up to a limit of $200 instead of $100. While he was explaining this amendment the house grew impatient and demanded a vote. The amendment was lost, 64 to 47.

Representative H. H. Dunn then tried to put the special order over to today, but he was voted down.

Mr. Dunn then offered an amendment providing that the bill should not apply to railway employes, but this amendment shared the fate of those that preceded it by a vote of 81 to 30.

When the house reconvened after a recess which followed the defeat of this amendment it was in a more lenient, but at the same time more more boisterous and therefore dangerous mood.

The first amendment up, one by Lundeen exempting machinists from the provisions of the bill, was beaten 48 to 12.

Amendment Adopted.

Mr. Lundeen then got an amendment adopted. The bill provided that no compensation shall be given for the first two weeks after a man is hurt, the idea being to guard against malingering. The Lundeen amendment, which was adopted 60 to 40, provides that if the injury persists longer than thirty days payment shall be made for the full period.

This opened the door, and another amendment, offered by Representatives Nolan, Lundeen and Campbell, provides medical and surgical attendance for ninety days and up to $195, instead of two weeks and $100.

The house was tired by this time, and it adopted a motion for the previous question, cutting off further amendments.

Then the house reconsidered this motion, and threw the door open again.

Not much came through, but there was much excitement.

Lundeen offered his amendment, which had been expected, striking out all of the provisions of the bill and inserting bodily the entire Wisconsin law.

Representative Lennon moved that it be not received.

Lundeen insisted that he had not abandoned the floor, that he wanted to talk on his amendment, and that Lennon had not right to get in with his motion.

Speaker Rines recognized the Lennon motion, however; whereupon Orator Teigen broke in with a storm of his characteristic oratory, the house applauding tumultuously and facetiously, so that most of the time nobody could hear a word the orator was orating.

R. C. Dunn then moved the previous question on the Lennon motion, thus cutting off debate, the house very cheerfully adopting his motion.

A roll call was taken, and the house rejected the amendment, 65 to 35.

It was plain by this time that the house was tired of what had long before begun to look like a filibuster against the bill, and the opponents subsided. Several minor amendments, asked for by labor interests, were adopted before the final vote was taken.

One by Representative Nolan strikes out the definition of the word "accident" in the bill, labor having taken exception to its provision that an injured man must show objective symptoms.

Cole Six Cylinder "Sixty"—132-Inch wheelbase, Delco electric self-cranking, with Delco electric lights and Delco ignition. Price, completely equiped, $2485.

Once upon a time there was a man who had a beautiful little 4-room cottage.

"Our family is growing, John," said his wife. "We must have more room."

"Very well," said John, and he added two rooms to his house.

Now, it so happened that when the house was finished it was a sad disappointment to John and to his good wife, because from the outside the two rooms stuck out like a sore thumb, and the wife found the inside inconvenient and hard to heat.

MORAL: 4 plus 2 doesn't constitute a unit.

In order to build a six-cylinder motor the designer must think six-cylinder thoughts with a six-cylinder brain from the very beginning.

It took great corps of motor builders two years to perfect the sweet running six-cylinder Cole motor. It took the public two minutes to appreciate it.

Men have learned to recognize a success the moment they see it. That's why this Cole six-cylinder motor is today the most-talked-of power plant in America.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

Activities of Other Municipalities, Which Might or Might Not Be Copied in Duluth.

A NEW time switch system, manufactured by the Williams company, of New York, is being tested out by Superintendent of Construction Frank Dix, of the municipal lighting plant, and if it works on the downtown ornamental lighting scheme, one of the biggest problems in the extension of this character of lighting throughout the residence districts will have been solved. The switch is controlled by an alarm clock arrangement that is set so as to throw on the entire circuit at say 5 o'clock in the evening, then switch off the four bottom lights at 11 o'clock and the top light of each post at 5 o'clock in the morning. The clocks are eight-day affairs, needing attention but once a week.

Such a device could well be utilized in Duluth. White ways are becoming more common each year and a switch system whereby the burning of the lights could be regulated as described above would probably be a factor in increasing their number. Under the present system a man is required to turn out the lights as desired.

Man Accused of Stealing Jewelry Says He Is E. E. C. Von Klein.

Chicago, April 12.—"Jack Lewis," accused by two women of desertion and taking jewelry worth $9,000, admitted last night in the county jail that he is Edmund E. C. Von Klein, son of Prof. Carl Von Klein, a widely known translator. For four days he steadfastly refused to say who he was and confessed his identity only after several persons asserted he was Von Klein.

Von Klein, who has been described by those who say they were his dupes as "handsome and with winning ways," denies their accusations. He declared that Governor Eberhart of Minnesota and John J. Abbott, former president of the Clearing House association, are his personal friends. He said his acquaintances are among the best people in the nation and that at his hearing they will come forward and swear to his reputation.

Known by Governor.

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—Governor Eberhart stated last night that he personally was acquainted with E. C. Von Klein of Minneapolis, who is being held by the Chicago police.

"I haven't seen Mr. Von Klein for several months. So far as I know his reputation in the Twin Cities never has been questioned."

STRIKE OF BUFFALO CAR MEN SETTLED.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 12.—The strike of motormen and conductors of the International Railway company, which began last Sunday, was settled yesterday through the mediation of Mayor Fuhrmann. Both sides made concessions. The company consented to confer at the mayor's office with President William D. Mahon of the Amalgamated association, and the men receded from their demand that after the resumption of car service, the negotiations on hours and wages for which they struck should be carried on with a committee of the association. The strike leaders accepted the company's suggestion that questions which cannot be thus settled, be left to three arbitrators instead of having Mayor Fuhrmann act alone.

BUILDING BOOM IN PROSPECT

West Duluth Will Enjoy Season of Great Activity.

New Docks and Other Structures Will Break Former Records.

West Duluth will this year, enjoy a building boom.

With the construction of four large docks in this end of the city, one of these to be the largest ore dock in the world; the building of the elevators and warehouses for the Canadian Northern road; the continuation of work on the steel plant, and the erection of several stores and residences in this end of the city, the building record will easily be broken.

Work has already started on the lumber dock for the Canadian Northern road at Fifty-eighth avenue west and the D. M. & N. ore dock at Thirty-second avenue west. The Canadian Northern, the Berwind Coal company and the Zenith Dredge company will also erect docks during this year. The Carnegie, Island Creek and Pittsburg Coal docks are being completed this spring. The total cost of the new docks and those just completed is estimated at $5,000,000.

Work at the steel plant is progressing rapidly and the trip through the plant Thursday with Governor Eberhart and members of the West Duluth Commercial club disclosed the fact that a full force is now working daily on all the buildings. The large furnaces and generators are almost complete. There are more men at work on the plant than ever before, according to J. C. Hoxie, superintendent.

Both the Northern Pacific and Canadian Northern passenger and freight stations are being completed this spring. The former is expected to open May 1 and the latter, June 1. The two structures will cost about $20,000.

During the past month workmen began excavating for two large buildings in the center of the business section. These are the Colonial theater building at 321-3-5 Central avenue and the Filliatrault building at 5411 Ramsey street. The Foubister-Mallough Grocery company plans to start excavating for its new building at Grand and Fifty-sixth avenues before the first of the month.

Within the next six months seven churches will be erected in West Duluth and its suburbs. These will be the New Duluth Catholic church, the Midway Swedish Lutheran church, the Proctor M. E. church, the Christ's Episcopal church at Proctor, the Congregational church at Fond du Lac, the Holy Apostle's Episcopal church at Fifty-seventh avenue west and Elinor street and the Swedish Mission church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Greene street.

There will also be erected this year a parochial school next the St. James' Catholic church at Fifty-seventh avenue west and Kinnear place. Plans for the building have already been made.

The new Robert E. Denfeld high school, next to the Ely school, will be erected during the summer. It is expected that the contract will be awarded sometime this month and that active construction work will start by May 1, so that it will be finished by the opening of the school year next September.

Should the plans of the West Duluth Commercial club carry, a large club building and social center will be erected during this year somewhere in the central part of West Duluth. The structure will cost about $15,000.

Other buildings to be erected this year, but for which plans have not yet been completed, are the clubhouse for the Swedish-Finnish Temperance society at Fifty-fourth avenue west and Ramsey street, and the briquette plant for the American Carbolite company on Raleigh street.

WANT PRESIDENT TO SPEAK NEXT YEAR

President Woodrow Wilson is to be invited to the twelfth annual banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club next year. This was decided upon at the meeting of the club last evening, when the banquet held last Thursday was being discussed.

The members of the club congratulated one another on the success of the banquet this year, which was, without a doubt, the best the club has ever held during the eleven years of its existence. During the evening one of the members suggested the inviting of President Wilson next year and the matter met with the approval of all those present.

tI is planned to start negotiations with the president early next winter. It is the belief of the members of the club that he will accept, as he has never visited Duluth. Other prominent men in Washington will be asked to accompany the president.

Should the chief executive of the nation accept the invitation, the banquet would be held at a large hall and accommodations made for at least 1,500 guests. The present banquet committee of the club, which meets this evening, will prepare its report for next Friday, in which it will recommend the invitation to the president.

ANNUAL MEETING OF NEW BOAT CLUB

Plans for Season Will Be Discussed at Session Wednesday Evening.

The annual meeting of the Western Boat club will be held next Wednesday evening at the rooms of the West Duluth Commercial club.

The gathering will be one of the most important which has been held by the organization, as preliminary arrangements for the coming season will be discussed and passed upon. Officers will be elected and committees appointed. A smoker will be combined with the business session and it is expected that the meeting will be attended by the majority of the club members. All who are interested in boating or water sports of any kind, whether members or not, are invited to attend in order to inform themselves of the club's activities.

The club was organized last fall and is entering upon its first season with every prospect of becoming one of the most substantial social organizations of West Duluth.

Ely Alumni.

The Ely Alumni association will hold a business meeting next Thursday evening in the school, Central avenue and Sixth street. Plans will be made at that time for the annual banquet to be given next month in honor of the graduating class of this year.

Pastor Is Absent.

There will be no services tomorrow at the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street, owing to the absence from the city of Rev. Allan Clark, who is in the southern part of the state on business. The Sunday school will hold its regular session at noon.

Banquet Committee Report.

The banquet committee of the West Duluth Commercial club, which had charge of the eleventh annual banquet Thursday evening, will hold a special meeting this evening and report. These reports will be included in the general report to be made next Friday evening at the regular meeting of the club by Andrew Myles, chairman of the committee.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR, FIRST VEGETARIAN.

Kansas City Times: Somebody or other—maybe you remember who—once made the remark that there is no new thing under the sun. It was a trite remark, bromidic if you will, but there was a considerable element of truth in it. (Upon further cogitation and looking it up in the concordance, we have learned that it was Solomon who made the remark.)

Now, as to the truth of the saying, consider the case of H. M. Nebuchadnezzar, the Babylonian king, who was so enthusiastic an exponent of Hebrew immigration. Nebuchadnezzar, you will remember, was the first vegetarian; he was also an ardent advocate of outdoor sleeping and a splendid example of the simple life in general.

We find Nebuchadnezzar in various places in Holy Writ. In order to give the proper impetus to Hebrew immigration to Chaldea he came up with an army to Jerusalem, knocked down the walls of that city and carried the inhabitants and the gold plate from the temple away to his own country. And you will also remember, if your childhood training was all that it should have been, that "by the rivers of Babion, there sat we down."

It seems strange that a progressive king like Nebuchadnezzar would have had open streams flowing right through town, but then, we must not be too rough on him; remember that even an up-and-coming municipality like Kansas City has tolerated O. K. creek for a good many years.

However, we wander from our subject. At the time of the Hebrew captivity, Nebuchadnezzar was leading the iniquitous life common among kings of that day. He had wine with his dinner and roast meat and lived in a large, stuffy palace and worshipped overgrown brass gods with clay feet.

It seems to have been the prophet Daniel who first pointed out to the king the error of his ways. Daniel, with three comrades, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, was a regular habitue of the palace and was continually shedding gloom and guessing riddles and conundrums after the rest of the court had given them up.

Went the Whole Route.

It was about 570 B. C., historians figure, that the king became a vegetarian. And when he did give up the fleshpots, there was nothing half way about it. Nebuchadnezzar went out on all fours into a neighboring pasture and began eating grass and mooing at passers-by. And he slept in the open, and the Bible tells us the dew of heaven fell upon him "till his hairs were grown like eagles' feathers, and his nails like birds' claws." He must indeed have been an object of opprobrium to all the barbers in Babylon, though beards were the style in those days anyhow, long, black, square ones. You can find pictures of them in any Assyrian wall painting.

They said around the court that Nebuchadnezzar was crazy, and very likely he was, though the same accusation has been brought against all great reformers. It must have been a pitiful sight indeed to see the king tethered in the middle of a 10-acre lot, reaching out for a particularly choice morsel of clover while some faithful courtier, grateful for old time favors, came hurrying crosslots with a bucket of nice warm bran mash.

Tired of Being a Reformer.

Well, this thing kept up for seven years, and it became one of the regular stunts for citizens of Babylon who were entertaining friends from out of town to take them out to the park to watch Nebuchadnezzar grazing and let the children feed him peanuts and lumps of sugar. Finally the king got tired of it, or his mind came back to him, and he said to himself:

"Pshaw, these people haven't sense enough to follow my example; I have regained my health, and if I keep this thing up much longer folks will begin to lose their respect for me. One can be a vegetarian without mooing and as for sleeping out-of-doors, why I can build a sleeping porch."

So he pulled up his picket rope, rose up on his hind legs and walked in the front door of the palace just like a human being. And thereafter he ruled with much ability and vigor and gradually got back to a meat diet. But they do say that if there was one thing more than another the sight of which annoyed him, it was a humble muley cow, and that whenever some courtier wanted to make the king real mad, he would jump out suddenly from behind a curtain and shout "Moo!"

Dr. Albert Abrams, of San Francisco, predicts the early disappearance of surgery as a remedy for appendicitis. He says a massage treatment will displace it.

BOUNDARY IS DETERMINED

Decision in Case Against R. B. Whiteside Received in Duluth.

Dredging of New Channel By Government Did Not Change State Line.

The noted "dock" case brought some time ago by the Norton estate against R. B. Whiteside to determine not only his rights to dock property, but incidentally the boundary line between the states of Minnesota and Wisconsin along the St. Louis river, was decided by the United States court of appeals recently, as has been previously announced in The Herald. The full decision was received today by L. C. Harris, attorney for Mr. Whiteside. This morning, concerning it, Mr. Harris said:

"A copy of the decision of the circuit court of appeals in the case of the Norton estate vs. R. B. Whiteside of Duluth, involving the question of the boundary line between the states of Minnesota and Wisconsin, has been received, and the court holds that the Minnesota court had no jurisdiction for the reason that the property which the plaintiff sought to appropriate to himself was in the state of Wisconsin, and that the small island involved in the action belonged to the defendant by reason of the fact that it was located in the state of Wisconsin, and was appurtenant to his riparian rights by virtue of his ownership of Big Island which is admittedly located in the state of Wisconsin.

"The plaintiff brought this action in equity to have it declared that he had a right to wharf out and fill in from his land on the Minnesota shore to the artificial channel dredged out by the government, and which latter channel was 800 to 1,000 feet south of the Minnesota shore line.

"If the plaintiff were allowed to wharf out to the artificial channel this would necessitate his going over the old, natural channel, and over a small island which lies between the old, natural channel and the artificial channel.

Question of Jurisdiction.

"Mr. Whiteside contended the Minnesota federal court had no jurisdiction for the reason that that small island was in the state of Wisconsin.

"This plea to the jurisdiction of the court was made on the contention that, under the terms of the enabling act admitting the state of Wisconsin, the boundary line between the two states was the middle of the main channel of the St. Louis river; that the body of water between the lands of the plaintiff and the defendant was the St. Louis river; that the main channel of said body of water lies north of the small island, and, consequently, the Minnesota court had no jurisdiction to determine the title or status of the island, for the reason that it was in the state of Wisconsin.

"The plaintiff, on the other hand, contended that the body of water between the lands of the plaintiff and defendant, Whiteside, was not the St. Louis river, but an arm of Lake Superior, and that, consequently, the terms of the enabling act, defining the boundary line between the two states as being the middle of the main channel of the St. Louis river, was not applicable; and plaintiff further contended that the boundary line between the two states was the middle of the body of water itself, measured from shore to shore, that the small island, therefore, north of the boundary line, was in the state of Minnesota, and that the courts of this state, therefore, had jurisdiction to determine the title and status of said small island.

"The decision rendered by the circuit court of appeals upholds the contention of the defendant in his pleas as to the jurisdiction of the Minnesota court. It holds that the body of water between the lands of the plaintiff and defendant is, under the terms of the enabling act admitting the state of Wisconsin, the St. Louis river, and holds that the boundary line between the two states is the middle of the main channel of said river, and that as the said small island is south of said boundary line the Minnesota court had no jurisdiction.

No Right to Change Boundary.

"The plaintiff further contended that even if it were admitted that the boundary line between the two states was originally the middle of the main channel of the St. Louis river, that the boundary line had been shifted when the general government dredged the artificial channel several hundred feet south of the old, natural channel. The defendant contended that the government had no power to change the boundary line by dredging an artificial channel and the circuit court of appeals upholds the defendant's contention.

"Aside from the question of jurisdiction, and on the merits, the defendant contended that under the laws of Wisconsin he was the absolute owner of the small island. The plaintiff, on the other hand, contended that the defendant had no ownership in said island, but that the title to the bed of the stream and to islands growing thereon was in the state in its sovereign capacity.

"The court upheld the contention of Mr. Whiteside on the merits that he is the owner of the small island."

WOMEN SHOULD READ THE LABELS.

In the Woman's Home Companion John Phillips Street, pure food commissioner of Connecticut, writes a message to women, an extract from which reads:

"There seems to be a general impression that the pure food law prevents the manufacture and sale of impure food. This, unfortunately, is not so. The law simply makes it possible for us to tell the pure food from the impure.

"The manufacturers obey the law, but some of them obey only the letter of the law.

"Your part is to make the law useful, to protect your stomach and your pocketbook, by reading the labels which the pure food law compels the manufacturers to paste on their products.

"This is not so simple as it sounds. Manufacturers often try to befog the consumer by using complicated labels filled with long scientific terms, or by employing tricks of punctuation and printing. The housewife who can see through these tricks and correctly interpret these labels will always receive the worth of her money.

Adulterated food is not necessarily injurious to the health, but it is to the family purse. Any adulterated food product, properly labeled, may be placed on the market, provided that the adulterant employed is not deleterious. Pure food needs no label. An impure food often needs much explanatory data to make its sale legal. The more explanation a label carries, the more watchful and wary the housewife should be in examining it.

"It is the province of each housewife to decide whether she wishes such adulterants served on her table as a matter of economy. But it is ridiculous for her to pay for such adulterated food as much, or almost as much, as she would pay for a pure and wholesome article."

The wallpaper industry in this country is about one hundred years old, but the general use of wallpaper dates from 1852.

The praise for BITULITHIC comes alike from City Officials and Property Owners. The following statements don't spell "Failure":

THE FLEISCHMANN COMPANY.
Office of President. Executive Department.
Cincinnati, Jan. 23, 1912.

Messrs. Warren Bros., Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen—Your Cincinnati representative, Mr. John B. Keyes, makes inquiry of me with reference to the bitulithic pavement on Washington Avenue in this city. I take pleasure in saying that in my judgment IT IS THE BEST PAVEMENT EVER CONSTRUCTED IN THE CITY OF CINCINNATI. Yours very truly,
JULIUS FLEISCHMANN.

West Hoboken, N. J., December 2, 1912.

Hon. Jacob Edwards, Chairman Street Committee, City of Wenatchee, Wash.

Dear Sir—In reply to your favor of November 25th asking my views on the different pavements, it gives me great pleasure to state that we have Bitulithic, Sheet Asphalt, Brick, Granite Block and Ordinary Macadam in our town. We are using very little more granite block as it is so noisy and we only use it on very steep grades.

The pavements which we principally use now are brick, and bitulithic, but the brick has the disadvantage of being as noisy if not worse than the granite blocks, and there seems to be a growing disposition in our town to use more of Bitulithic. About eight years ago we used Bitulithic on quite a steep grade on what is known as the Hudson County Boulevard, and it has been wonderfully successful, both as to the surface footing, the general appearance and the durability. About four years ago we resurfaced an old sheet asphalt street, which was badly worn, with Bitulithic, and although not as old as the pavement on the Hudson County Boulevard, it has been most satisfactory and shows no signs of wear or disintegration, and it seems as if the Bitulithic construction had more nearly reached the ideal than any other form of pavement that we have tried.

Ordinary macadam is absolutely out of the question. After the first six months or so it needs constant repairs and even then it is impossible to keep it in proper shape.

I cannot give you any particularly definite answer on the approximate maintenance of Bitulithic as there have been no repairs needed on these pavements, except one or two insignificant repairs which were made by the contractor where the Bitulithic had slipped a little on the old concrete surface in the case of resurfacing the old asphalt street above mentioned. The contractor promptly attended to this and there has been no trouble since. Yours very truly,
SEBASTIAN MAULBECK, City Engineer.

(NIGHT LETTER)
THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY.
Portland, Ore., Dec. 6, 1912.

E. M. Tupper, Wenatchee, Wn.

Your wire 5th. Have had an experience extending over a number of years with brick wood block and bithulithic pavements. Consider bitulithic very superior on account of low first cost low maintenance and more desirable surface provided grades are not in excess of twelve per cent. IT IS NOT SO NOISY AS BRICK NOR AS SLIPPERY AS WOOD. J. W. MORRIS, Ex-City Engineer.

HEADQUARTERS OF FIRE DEPARTMENT.
Little Falls, N. Y., Nov. 27th, 1912.

Mr. Jacob Edwards, Chairman Street Committee, Wenatchee, Wash.

Dear Sir—In reply to your letter of the 18th inst., would say that there are five streets in this city paved with Bitulithic pavement laid by the Warren Brothers Company of Boston, Mass., all of which is laid either in business streets or streets adjacent to the business section and main arteries for traffic. All of this pavement is in first class condition, HAVING NEITHER REQUIRED NOR RECEIVED ANY REPAIRS SINCE BEING LAID, IN CONSEQUENCE OF WHICH IT HAS COST NOTHING FOR MAINTENANCE.

It is very popular with the teamsters and drivers of fire apparatus, and motor vehicles, as its gritty surface provides a good foothold for the former and prevents the latter from skidding, while the brick pavement is slippery and not as durable.

In conclusion would say that the Bitulithic pavement was adopted by the city officials and the property owners after a careful investigation of all kinds of paving materials, including brick and asphalt, laid in this and other nearby cities.

Trusting the above information answers your questions, I remain. Very truly yours,
E. J. COONEY, Chief Engineer, Little Falls Fire Dept.

THE CITY OF TOLEDO.
Department of Public Service.
Sub-Department of Engineering.
Geo. W. Tonson, Chief Engineer.
December 2, 1912.

Mr. Jacob Edwards, Chairman Street Committee, Wenatchee, Wash.

Dear Sir—Yours of November 25th inquiring as to pavements duly received.

The City of Toledo has a considerable area of Bitulithic pavement, some of which was laid with new foundation and some of which was laid on top of an old Medina sandstone. These pavements are giving satisfaction and give promise of good service for some years. The first pavement was laid in 1906 and they are all in good condition and HAVE COST THE CITY PRACTICALLY NOTHING FOR REPAIRS. The streets are under guarantee for five years and outside of service cuts, I do not think the contractor will be under expense for their maintenance. In 1910 we laid about a mile and a half of Bitulithic on Broadway, a main thoroughfare parallel with the Maumee River. The people along the street are very much pleased with this pavement and several other streets are to be paved with this material. It is preferred to sheet asphalt by the drivers of vehicles on account of its giving better foothold for horses than the smooth sheet asphalt. * * * Yours truly,
GWT.G. G. W. TONSON, Chief Engineer.

STATE OF OHIO.
Constitutional Convention.
Columbus, Ohio, January 23, '12.

My Dear Mr. Keyes—I wish to state that the bitulithic roadway laid by the Warren Bros. Co. on Washington Ave., Avondale, is in my judgment the best roadway in Cincinnati. It has been down about six years—IT HAS NEVER BEEN REPAIRED AND IS IN PRACTICALLY AS GOOD CONDITION TODAY AS WHEN FIRST PUT DOWN. I wish that Cincinnati had the same percentage of bitulithic roadways as has Boston, because I believe them to be the best for all general purposes. Sincerely yours,
GEO. W. HARRIS.

MR. JOHN KEYES, Cincinnati.

WESTERN UNION NIGHT LETTERGRAM.
Portland, Ore., July 8, 1912.

Chas. M. Angle, Richmond, Va.

I telegraphed Carter Jones, Dr. Clifton Miller, G. K. Pollock, Arthur Nelson, John F. Don Leavy, J. W. Moore as follows: There is one hundred twelve miles Bitulithic pavement in City Portland which I have personally examined and find to be best pavement I have ever seen. All of it is in perfect condition. Hope in view of this they will decide to lay Bitulithic pavement on Broad Street.
(Signed) JOHN BLILEY.

WESTERN UNION DAY LETTER.
New Orleans, La., July 20, 1912.

Mr. H. J. Kitchell, Greenwood, Miss.

Replying to your wire 19th instant. We have more than 172,000 square yards Bitulithic pavement. Oldest five years. Has been entirely satisfactory. We are now advertising for bids for more of this pavement and expect to use it largely in the future. Believe it will fully meet all requirements in your town.
(Signed) W. J. HARDEE, City Engineer.

STREET PAVING INSPECTED IN JACKSON.

Aldermen J. H. Stephen, Jno. A. Shute and D. E. Nichols, Street Commissioner William I. Carr and Street Commissioner-elect M. L. Stoddard, and the editor of The Commonwealth spent Monday in Jackson inspecting the street paving of the Capitol City. Jackson has done more paving within the past few years than any city in the state. That enterprising city has in use on its different streets five different grades of paving, viz: VITRIFIED BRICK, BITULITHIC, ASPHALT, WOOD BLOCK AND GRANITOID. The Greenwood officials inspected these different methods of paving for the purpose of familiarizing themselves as to the relative merits of each, in order that they might be in better position to vote more intelligently in the matter of awarding the contract for the paving to be put down in this city at an early date. The members of the Jackson City council accompanied the Greenwood officials on their inspection tour, pointing out the merits and demerits of each kind of paving in their city, and spared no time or pains in giving the visitors the benefit of their experience in handling the paving problem.

Street Commissioner J. N. McLeod of Jackson, who has held that position several terms, was interviewed by the writer as to the relative merits of the paving in that city. He was firmly of the opinion that from a standpoint of sanitation, noise, price and general consideration that Greenwood could not make a mistake in adopting Bitulithic. Mr. McLeod said:

"I was formerly an advocate of another form of pavement, but after personal experience with this material and all other standard paving materials, I have concluded that BITULITHIC IS THE HIGHEST DEVELOPMENT OF STREET PAVING FROM ALL POINTS OF VIEW. It has its faults, as have all other materials, but from a practical point of view it is, in my opinion, the best and highest development of paving of the present century."

Several leading business men of Jackson, who were formerly opposed to Bitulithic, told us that since it has been put down in front of their property they have been convinced of its superiority and would not exchange Bitulithic for any other form of paving.

We have no pavement here other than Bitulithic but in extensive traveling over the United States I have observed both brick and wood block and my preference is strongly in favor of Bitulithic, everything considered.

BITULITHIC WORTH MORE THAN BITUMINOUS CONCRETE

As continued refutation of the specious claim of the "substitutor" that bituminous concrete is "the same as" BITULITHIC, note that at Richmond, Va., after full investigation by the City Officials, contract was awarded for BITULITHIC AT $2.20 PER SQUARE YARD notwithstanding bid of $1.65 per square yard for bituminous concrete—proving absolutely that the officials were CONVINCED THAT BITULITHIC WAS FIFTY-FIVE CENTS PER SQUARE YARD BETTER THAN BITUMINOUS CONCRETE.

SPRING RAINS DISCLOSE MANY UNSIGHTLY PILES OF RUBBISH IN DULUTH STREETS AND ALLEYS

Duluth's spring cleanup is due to begin any day now.

There are some spots that need it. Two of them are shown in the accompanying pictures. One is on Fourth avenue west and Michigan street and the other was on First avenue west, just below Superior street, where a fire occurred about two weeks ago. Workmen got busy yesterday after the photographer had been around and cleared the latter place of the rubbish which has been an eyesore for two weeks.

These are but two samples of the rubbish heaps that mar the appearance of the city and one of the first problems the new commission will have to tackle will be the civic house-cleaning.

ACTIVITY IN STEEL WORK

American Bridge Company Has Big Contracts in This Territory.

Four Large Viaducts for the Steel Plant Transfer Railway.

Work on the Interstate Transfer railway, the outer belt line being constructed by the United States Steel corporation to connect all of the railroads at the Head of the Lakes with each other and with the steel plant, and on the Spirit Lake Transfer railway, which is to connect the steel plant with the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, making a direct connection between the mines and the plant, is progressing rapidly.

The American Bridge company, whose local office is in the Wolvin building with Walter G. Zimmerman as resident manager, is preparing to begin the erection of the steel bridges on both railroads.

There will be four large viaducts on the outer belt line, all on the Wisconsin side of the river. One will be 2,500 feet long, one of the longest railroad bridges in this section. The others will be 600, 800 and 600 feet respectively. About 3,000 tons of steel will go into their construction.

On the Spirit Lake Transfer railway three steel viaducts, 300, 400 and 100 feet long, are to be erected.

The American Bridge company will this week finish the strengthening of all steel bridges on the Duluth & Iron Range railroad between Duluth and Two Harbors. The change was made necessary by the recent addition of heavier locomotives to the equipment of the Iron Range railroad.

The bridge company has six crews at work on mine construction on the range and is just completing the erection of a 100,000-gallon water tank on a 100-foot tower for the new city water system at New Duluth.

Mr. Zimmerman says that the spring outlook for construction in this section is most encouraging and he expects that his company will have several crews busy through the summer season.

"BUNCOING" RETAILERS BY IMPROVING TRAIN SERVICE

Great Northern Schedule Lengthens Shoppers' Time in Duluth.

News Tribune Statements Regarding "Stub" Trains Are False.

People From Western End of Range Can Return Same Day.

Instead of depriving the people of Coleraine, Bovey, Holman, Marble, Calumet, Nashwauk and Keewatin of the opportunity of spending a little over an hour in Duluth, returning the same day, the new Great Northern service to be inaugurated Monday will give them three hours and thirty-nine minutes in Duluth.

Under the new service, the Great Northern train from those points will arrive in Duluth at 12:01 p. m., instead of at 12:50 as formerly. The returning train will leave at 3:40 p. m., instead of 1:55, as formerly.

There will be no service on the Great Northern between Virginia and Hibbing, a section that is now served by the Mesaba Electric company, which carries express and passengers, and the Duluth, Missabe & Northern. The only objections against the discontinuance of that service is that milk and other shipments to Virginia from the farming country on the Great Northern around Island will have to be transferred at Hibbing.

Under the old service the "Merry Widow" train left Grand Rapids at 6:40 a. m. and the "Wooden Shoe" left Virginia at 7 a. m. They formed a connection at Kelly Lake, the "Wooden Shoe" proceeding to Duluth via Swan River, arriving here at 12:50 and the "Merry Widow" going through to Virginia, arriving at 10:10 a. m.

Under the new service a train will leave Grand Rapids at 6:40 a. m., covering the same territory formerly covered by the two trains, except on the line between Hibbing and Virginia. It will run from Grand Rapids to Hibbing and will then run down to Swan Lake, making a connection there with the direct Grand Rapids-Duluth train, which will leave Grand Rapids at 8 a. m., arriving at Duluth at 12:01.

Under the old service, the "Wooden Shoe" started from Duluth at 1:55, just one hour and five minutes after it arrived. It ran through to Kelly Lake, making a connection there with the "Merry Widow" leaving Virginia at 5 p. m. The train from Duluth proceeded to Virginia and the train from Virginia went on to Grand Rapids.

The New Service.

Under the new service, the train from Duluth to Grand Rapids will leave at 3:40 p. m. At Swan River, a "stub" train will be started after a connection at 7:34. The Duluth train will proceed to Grand Rapids, arriving at 8:40 p. m. The "stub" train will go on to Hibbing, arriving at 8:40 p. m., and will run from Hibbing to Grand Rapids, arriving at Grand Rapids at 10:30 p. m.

The original intention of the Great Northern was to hold the "stub" train at Swan River in the morning only long enough to connect with the train leaving Duluth at 8:30 a. m. for points west, but that plan was later changed, and the "stub" will be held for connections with the Grand Rapids train leaving Duluth at 3:40 p. m.

Under the old system the people of Leighton, Stuart, Bengal, Acropolis and Goodland, on the Kelly Lake-Swan River line were compelled to remain in Duluth over night, as they could not do any business in the one hour and five minutes between trains. Under the new arrangement, they will have three hours and forty minutes here, and will be able to return the same day.

The same is true of the people of Nashwauk and Keewatin, who are dependent entirely on Great Northern service. The people of Coleraine, Bovey, Holman, Marbie and Calumet may travel on either the Great Northern or Duluth, Missabe & Northern and have plenty of time in Duluth to do business.

The Great Northern has found the line between Virginia and Hibbing extremely unprofitable since the Mesaba electric line started operations, especially as the Duluth, Missabe & Northern served the same territory. Therefore in putting on the through Grand Rapids train requested by the traffic commission of the Commercial club, the railroad dropped the Virginia-Hibbing service and improved the service of the towns dependent entirely or almost entirely on the Great Northern for connections with Duluth.

Mr. Barnes' Statement.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the traffic commission of the Commercial club, said today:

"I have read the two columns of this morning's News Tribune devoted to showing that Duluth has been 'again buncoed' by the Great Northern railroad. If all the facts they state were true (and they are actually false) the advisability of such newspaper advertising for Duluth is very questionable.

"The News Tribune article can best be dismissed by referring to the statement in their article containing the gist of their criticism, reading as follows: 'This arrangement makes provision for persons living between Hibbing and Grand Rapids to come to Duluth, but it makes no provision for their return the same day.'

"As a mater of fact, the Great Northern railroad has provided connection at Swan River with the afternoon train from Duluth so that all of this territory can return from Duluth the same day and will be able to spend in Duluth three hours and forty minutes instead of one hour and five minutes under the old plan.

"As to whether the Commercial club secured this new train or not, we can only state the fact, which is that on March 5 the chairman and the secretary of the commission, with Mr. Hart, representing the retailers of the city, made a request for this train to the vice president of the Great Northern railroad at a personal interview in St. Paul and shortly thereafter the service was announced.

"Our interest primarily is in improving the service in and out of Duluth and this the new train undoubtedly does. We should be glad also to help connections on branch lines outside of Duluth where we can and it happens that in this particular instance it is very hard to see anything but an improvement even in the branch line service because of the readjusted schedule. It certainly is a very great gain for our retail trade to have a passenger train that allows visitors to spend nearly four hours in Duluth and reach home the same day."

"BOHEMIAN GIRL" AT THE LYCEUM

Old Favorite Opera Is Given an Elaborate Production.

The tuneful old favorite, "The Bohemian Girl" has been revived by the Aborn Opera company, and the production shown at the Lyceum last evening is probably the most elaborate and expensive the Balfe masterpiece has ever received.

The Aborn company has produced the delightful old opera on a scale that is reminiscent of the circus, or that might be compared to the Hippodrome. The company is a very large one, and the producer has paid a most surprising amount of attention to detail. For example in the scene at the street fair the Aborn company has gone to the expense of engaging a special troupe of Arabian tumblers, and some clowns. The tumblers, by the way, are probably the most wonderful troupe of acrobats of this type ever seen in Duluth. Their work is nothing short of marvellous, and during the five minutes they were on the stage they aroused the audience to a pitch of genuine enthusiasm.

Three horses are used in the production, and the gypsy camp scene is made more realistic by a very lively little fox terrier, and a young pig. A monkey is also seen in the street fair scene.

The scenic investiture is on a par with this attention to detail. Some wonderful settings are shown, and apparently no expense has been spared either in costumes or scenery to give the opera the very best setting possible.

James Stevens, as Count Arnheim, does the most artistic work of any of the adequate cast of principals. Mr. Stevens has a rich baritone voice, and sings with intelligence and artistic finish. His rendition of the old favorite "The Heart Bowed Down" brought the most enthusiastic encore of the evening, and it was richly deserved.

Blanche Morrison made an excellent Arline, and also drew a well deserved encore for "I Dreamt That I Dwelt in Marble Halls." She has a full soprano voice of great range, and uses it intelligently.

John R. Phillips sang the role of Thaddeus. To him falls the third of the most popular song numbers, "Then You'll Remember Me" and he was also enthusiastically encored for this.

Claudia Albright makes a very stunning and convincing gypsy queen, and brings a rich contralto voice to the part. Joseph Florian is an adequate "Devilshoff" and Augustus Vaughn handles the thankless role of Florstein capably.

The chorus is a large and hard working organization, and the performance as a whole was a most creditable one. There are probably few regular theater patrons who have not heard the delightful old opera, but it is doubtful if any of them ever saw a more elaborate production, and those who have never heard it will probably never have another opportunity to witness such an excellent production of it as that given by the Aborn company. The company will be heard again at the Lyceum this afternoon and tonight.

ALL VETERANS NOT ELIGIBLE

Capt. T. H. Pressnell Explains Plans of Trip to Gettysburg.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I see by The Herald of last evening that the bill for the transportation of Minnesota veterans to the Gettysburg celebration next July, passed the state senate yesterday and now only awaits the governor's signature to become a law.

Owing to interviews in our city papers with some of the comrades, who evidently did not known the provisions of the bill, the impression seems to have obtained among the old soldiers that all of them, without reference to whether they participated in the battle of Gettysburg or not, are to be provided with transportation and subsistence. As this is not the fact please permit me to give the essential provisions of the law.

Those who are provided for are all surviving members of the First Minnesota Infantry and the two companies of Minnesota sharpshooters whose names were on the rolls of their respective organizations on July 1, 1863, or who were previously honorably discharged; the honorary members of the First Minnesota association; all surviving soldiers, Union and Confederate, who served in organizations from other states and participated in the battle on either day, and now reside in Minnesota; the governor and his staff; all ex-governors of Minnesota; the members of the Gettysburg committees appointed by the Minnesota department of the G. A. R.; the commanders of the Minnesota department of the G. A. R., and the Minnesota Loyal Legion, all medal veterans, and a suitable drum corps or band.

All arrangements as to transportation, etc., are to be made by a board of commissioners created by the bill and consisting of L. A. Grant, C. B. Heffelfinger, W. H. Harris and E. A. Stevens of Minneapolis; J. N. Searles of Stillwater; T. H. Pressnell of Duluth; and Samuel Lilly of Norristown.

This commission will organize at an early date and make the program of procedure, and notify all who are eligible under the law.

The train to Chicago will start from Minneapolis on a date to be fixed by the commission, who will also determine whether transportation is to be paid from the homes of those going to Minneapolis, and return thereto, or whether such transportation is from Minneapolis and return, only.

Each eligible person must be identified to the commission, and it has been determined by the general committee having charge of the ceremonies at Gettysburg that this can be done by the presentation of his discharge, pension certificate, a certificate from the adjutant general of the United States or state from which he enlisted, that he was a member of the organization in which he claims membership; or a certificate of the commander of the G. A. R. post (if any) to which he belongs, and attested by the adjutant thereof.

Provision has been made by the general committee for quarters and subsistence while at Gettysburg for all veterans who wish to attend but those who are not covered by the Minnesota law, but they will have to pay for their transportation out of their private purses.

That all who read this and are eligible under the law may not be overlooked I here request that they send me their names, the company and regiment to which they belong and a certificate from their G. A. R. post at once. Respectfully,

T. H. PRESSNELL.

BODY OF MORGAN RESTS IN LIBRARY

Will Remain Among Art Treasures Until Funeral Monday.

New York, April 12.—Almost buried in roses and twining ivy, the triple coffin that contains the body of J. Pierpont Morgan lies today in the west wing of the marble library which holds his books and many of his art treasures. There it will repose until 1,500 of his friends gather to pay final tribute to his memory at the funeral services in St. George's church Monday.

Only members of the family and a few intimate friends were admitted to the library. The police today turned away the curious who braved the rain, and until the body is removed strict guard will be maintained. Of many floral tributes only those given by the family will be taken to Hartford for the committal.

WOULD PUT ALL ON MERIT BASIS

Burleson Would Move the Postmasters From City to City.

Washington, April 12.—Postmaster General Burleson has determined to effect the most radical reorganization of the postal service ever proposed in the history of civil service in this country.

The plan upon which he is at work is distinguished by these features:

All postmasters shall be placed under civil service and required to pass examination for admission, retention and promotion.

Postmasters shall be appointed and transferred without regard to locality, so that, for example, a resident of San Francisco could be made postmaster of New York, and a resident of Duluth postmaster of New Orleans.

The new postmaster general has told his friends that his highest ambition is to take the postoffice department completely out of politics and make it an organization of the highest business efficiency.

He has submitted an outline of his plan to President Wilson, who has commended it enthusiastically and assured him that all the influence the administration possesses will be used to put it into effect.

Your Herald ad. should "stay in print" until it does the task you've set for it.

GEAR CONSTRUCTION—The Sidway gear construction is perfect. A man tipping the scales at 178 pounds was wheeled about in search of weak points. No tiny babe was used.

FABRIKOID LEATHER — The material used in the hood construction is a product of the E. I. Dupont de Nemours Powder company and carries their guarantee, as well as that of the maker of the cart and ours.

REAL RUBBER TIRES—Composition tires were good enough for unguaranteed carriages, but only real rubber tires could be guaranteed for two years. They did not exist, so they were made specially for the Sidway at four times the cost of the composition kind.

BALL BEARING, TANGENT SPOKE WHEELS—Another innovation in baby carriage construction, which, coupled with the perfect balance of the carriage itself, removes practically all the labor from baby's outing.

NEW CONGREGATION WILL BUILD CHURCH

The congregation of the Trinity English Evangelical Lutheran church has purchased the northwest corner of Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street, and a new church building will be erected there some time this year.

Rev. F. O. Hanson, pastor of the church, announced yesterday afternoon that subscriptions to the building fund are constantly being received from members of the church and others in sympathy with the new congregation organized last fall. The congregation first took an option on the property and this week purchased it. A large frame dwelling on the site is to be sold by the building committee of the church.

According to the present plans the basement of the church will be erected first and then furnished for use. In this way the congregation will be able to hold services here while the superstructure is being built. The large expense now incurred by holding services in the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street, every Sunday, will be done away with.

The church will cost in the neighborhood of $6,000. It will be two stories high and with an auditorium, seating 300 people. There will be clubrooms, parlors and the pastor's study in the basement.

The Trinity church was organized last fall by Rev. Mr. Hanson, who was then the field secretary of the English Lutheran synod, coming here from Omaha. There are 125 members in the church at present, with a Sunday school class of 150.

Lodge Anniversary.

Fridhen Lodge No. 43, Independent Order of Svithiod, will celebrate its second anniversary Sunday evening with an entertainment at the Sloan hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

The entertainment will be open to all the members of the lodge and their wives. During the evening a program of music and addresses will be given, after which refreshments will be served by the women.

Fridhen lodge was organized two years ago and now has a membership of nearly 300. Gust Hjerpe is president of the lodge.

THIRD STREET PAVING PLANS

West End and Oneota Clubs Join to Obtain Improvement.

If the West End Commercial club can secure a pavement on Third street from Piedmont avenue to Vernon street, the Oneota Improvement club promises to continue the pavement to West Duluth.

The above announcement was made last evening by a delegation from the Oneota club at the regular meeting of the West end club, held at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. The matter is to be taken up and a campaign started by both clubs. They already have the support, they say, of all the new commissioners.

Plans were also made last evening for two meetings to be held on May 2 and 3, when A. B. Hostetter of the Duluth Commercial club will lecture to farmers and gardeners on spring planting. Invitations will be sent to all the farmers in the vicinity of Duluth to attend the meetings.

The delegation from the Oneota club promised to boost for the proposed concrete bridge over Miller's creek at Lincoln park. The city engineer has estimated the cost of the bridge as ranging from $16,500 to $23,000.

WANT A ZOO IN LINCOLN PARK

That Duluth is in need of a zoo is the belief of many West end business men, who propose to urge the park board to establish one in the Lincoln park extension, which is expected to become a part of the park sometime this summer.

There is no zoo in Duluth at present and as result children of the city are deprived of the education such a zoo usually affords, say those behind the project. It is a matter of education, they say.

There will be considerable room in the park extension for the establishment of a zoo and garden, where a large collection of animals could be kept. A few of these would be purchased the first year or two and the collection thus enlarged each season. It is planned by those behind the project to bring the matter before the park board within the next few weeks.

BROTHERHOOD WILL CONDUCT SERVICES.

The Brotherhood Society of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will conduct the regular services tomorrow morning. Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the church, is conducting a series of revival meetings this week in Denver, Colo. Tomorrow evening Mr. Helter and several young men of the Y. M. C. A. will conduct the services.

Missionary Meeting.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Central Baptist church will meet next Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. B. Campbell, 315 North Twenty-fourth avenue west. Mrs. E. E. Churchill led in the discussion on "China's New Literature."

Chorus Gives Concert.

The Lyric Male chorus of the Gustavus Adolphus college at St. Peter, Minn., gave a concert last evening at the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. A large audience attended the affair.

Lectures on Gardening.

The garden committee of the West End Commercial club announced at the regular meeting of the club last evening that a series of lectures would be given in the public schools of the West end from now on. The lectures will be on gardening and spring planting. Monday, L. A. Simonson will talk at the Adams school and C. E. Roe at the Lincoln school.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Faculty Making Thorough Investigation of Expenses of Students.

Talk of Doing Away With Present Two Semester System.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—In order to be able to give an intelligent answer to the many inquiries as to the cost of a university education, the faculty is making a thorough investigation of the expenses of the students. Mr. Weld of the economics department, who is preparing the data in regard to the cost of living, said that the tabulation would be very correct and reliable, taking 90 per cent of the student body as an average to judge from. The figures when completed will show just what the average amount is which out-of-town students pay for board, room and general living expenses.

Each student has been asked to fill out a blank report itemizing their expenses for the present year. Each student signed his report, but his name is only required for a verification and is to be detached before the report is turned in or made public.

The authorities of the university receive many requests from persons who are contemplating attendance at the university as to the amount of money necessary for a student to spend and the cost of living. From this report it will be possible to state exactly how much it requires and such questions can then be intelligently answered. The report will be out in a few weeks.

The faculty of the various departments met in their respective rooms Wednesday afternoon to discuss the advisability of doing away with the present two semester system that is now in force at Minnesota and supplant it with a twelve-week system similar to that now in vogue at the University of Chicago.

The main idea of the system is that the entire year be divided into terms of twelve weeks each and that each student will be permitted to decide which terms he will attend. If he pleases he may go to school the whole year round, commencing each term immediately after the other, or he may stay for as many terms as he desires and graduate as soon as he receives the required amount of credits. A certain amount of credit will be given for each twelve week subject.

Under this system, if a student should fail in any twelve-week subject, he will be permitted to start in on the same subject the following term, keeping a clean record the following year to make it up as is the case now.

It is understood that this system is receiving some support among the faculty and there is a possibility that it will be adopted soon.

Saturday night the Masquers will present "The Watchers," a play written by a member of the senior class, Miss Enza Zeller. The play is in the nature of a modern domestic comedy and the parts are said to offer fine opportunity for the display of dramatic talent. The cast has been rehearsing under the direction of a professional coach.

Miss Zeller, the author, has appeared in all of the plays given by the club in the last couple of years in the leading parts. She played Portia in "The Merchant of Venice," as produced in Duluth last summer by the Masquers. She has also written many short sketches produced by the club but this is her first large drama.

Harold Louing, head of the college of music at Olivet, Mich., gave an illustrated lecture Friday afternoon at chapel on "The North American Indians and Their Music." He was appointed by President Roosevelt to look up Indian folk lore and music, and from his investigations he has become an authority on the subject, and gives a very interesting lecture.

On Thursday night the members of all of the professional fraternities banqueted together at Donaldson's tea rooms. There are about fifteen professional fraternities on the campus, and there were about 200 men at the banquet. This is the first time an inter-professional fraternity affair of any kind has ever been given. The banquet was suggested by the general inter-fraternity banquet, and its sole object is to get the men acquainted and have a pleasant sociable time. No effort was made to organize a permanent organization.

The camp orders for 1913 have been issued by the commandant. The days set for the main university and college of agriculture to drill and camp at Fort Snelling are from Sept. 10 to Sept. 16. The school of agriculture will be in camp from Oct. 2 to Oct. 7. It is not obligatory on the cadets to go to camp, but those who do go are excused from a semester's drill.

It has been decided to call the encampment "Camp T. P. A. Howe," in memory of a former university student who was killed in Manila during the Spanish-American war. He was awarded an officer's commission for gallantry, but was killed before it reached him.

Great preparations are being made for the University Weeks which will again tour the state after the close of school. This original idea of President Vincent's of carrying the university to the people, was so successful when first tried last summer, that very elaborate plans are being made for this year's trip, which will far surpass last year's one. Nearly every city and village in the state has asked for a visit, but only a limited number can be accommodated.

In addition to the great educational features under the "big top," many sideshows will be given by the students giving interesting side lights on student life. The Glee club will accompany the show and will give concerts in the towns visited. The Masquers club will have two troupes on the road, each giving a different play. It is not known what plays will be produced, but it will be something very good and substantial, after the fashion of the club's purpose. A debating team will also make the trip. Two teams composed of the varsity debaters will give a debate in each town on the subject of "Socialism." These are expected to be a few of the very interesting features of this unique carnival of learning.

President and Mrs. Vincent will give an informal reception on April 16, next Wednesday, in honor of the senior class. The informal feature has been especially emphasized by the hostess. The rest of the arrangements are in the hands of a committee of seniors. The committee has made an advance announcement that hob nail boots and dress suits alone will be barred.

The seniors will themselves be the entertainers and a program of stunts and special features will be given. All the talent in the class will be pressed into service for the occasion.

Saturday the annual Daily election will be held. There are two candidates for managing editor and a great many candidates for board memberships from the different colleges. Not much electioneering is being done and both the candidates for editorship are with the track team in Columbia, Mo.

Many unique features are to be introduced at the military ball which is to be given soon in the Armory. As usual the decorations will be magnificent. The gallery decorations will follow the design used in the famous Kensington opera house in London. The dance program will be composed of both classical and ragtime music. Special preparations have been made for those desiring to sit-out dances. Instead of the usual camp supper, a formal supper will be given this year.

LIGHTSHIP GOES ADRIFT IN HIGH SEA.

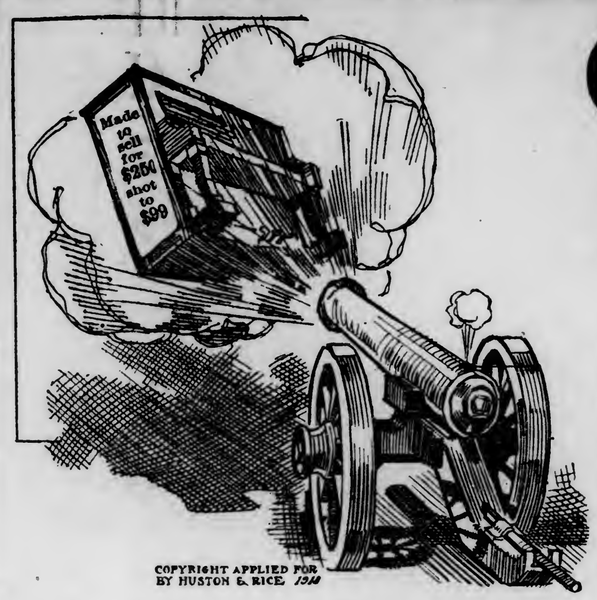

Washington, April 12.—Blown off her station with steering gear broken the Frying Pan shoals lightship floundered helplessly about in high seas off the North Carolina coast yesterday for twelve hours or more before she was picked up by the revenue cutter Seminole. S. O. S. wireless calls from the lightship brought the revenue cutter from Wilmington to her aid within a few hours. In the meantime the wireless had become deranged and when the cutter hove in sight the crew of fourteen aboard the drifting vessel had given up hope of attracting assistance and were attempting to work their way into port with emergency tackle.

The revenue cutter service here heard nothing further from the Seminole after a wireless report that the cutter was alongside the lightship. It is said, however, that the disabled vessel was taken in tow.

MILLERS CONDEMN PROPOSED TARIFF

Say They Do Not Want Protection on Wheat and Flour, But Justice.

Chicago, April 12.—The proposed tariff on flour and wheat was denounced in resolutions adopted yesterday at the annual convention of the Millers' National federation. The millers do not want any tariff protection whatever, but urged that if a tariff be placed on wheat, that an equalizing tariff be placed on the products of wheat, and that if the products of wheat be admitted free, that wheat also be admitted free of duty.

"The duty on wheat," said William C. Edgar, chairman of the resolutions committee, according to bills introduced in the house of representatives on April 7, will be 10 cents a bushel, the duty of flour 10 per cent advalorem, except when imported from a country which does not impose a tariff on American flour, in which case it is admitted free.

"This means that flour from Canada, Germany and other countries which maintain a tariff on flour, will have to pay a duty until they see fit to change the laws, but flour from Great Britain will have free access to American markets and in meeting British competition, American millers will be handicapped by a duty on their raw material of 10 cents a bushel. The duty on wheat and flour should be specific. If the duty on wheat is to be 10 cents a bushel, the tariff on flour should be 50 cents a barrel. If congress will make the duty on flour absolute, to apply on all flour admitted to this country, millers will still be handicapped by the free admission of by-products.

"The American miller asks for no protection, but demands justice."

The following officers were elected: President, Andrew J. Hunt, Wichita, Kan.; first vice president, Fred N. Rowe, Grand Rapids, Mich.; second vice president, A. C. Loring, Minneapolis; treasurer, B. W. Marr, Columbus, Ohio; secretary, A. H. Husband, Chicago.

CHINESE DECLARE THEIR INDEPENDENCE.

Washington, April 12.—The Chinese declaration of independence, which took the form of an address to the world, was cabled here from Pekin yesterday, and after being read in the cabinet meeting, was made public. State department officials declared that it reflected the influence of the young Chinese membership who have been educated in American colleges. The president and his cabinet praised it enthusiastically and formal recognition of the United States awaits only the actual organization of the constitutional assembly, which meets again tomorrow in Pekin.

WHAT MAKES A CITY?

The natural answer to the question "What makes a city?" is its population. No one can deny that a city is chiefly judged by the number of people living in it.

If in doubt about any city we may be discussing, we consult some reliable reference book to get its population. If the number is considerable, we say "Why it's quite a city. It has so and so many thousand."

When a city attains fifty thousand it begins to hold its head up and talk reciprocity to the small towns round about it. When it numbers seventy-five thousand it begins to feel its chest expand, gets busy with interurban lines, public utility corporations, improves its parks, longs for boulevards, in fact awakens to the various comforts and even elegancies any live, well grown town should afford its citizens.

If it is true that the city is made or rated according to its population, then those things that cause people to move to your town and persuade their friends and neighbors to come with them, are the things that make of it a city.

A very large majority of us are working people and we go where conditions are favorable for the earning of our bread and butter.

The population of Duluth has jumped forward in the last few years because our manufacturers and merchants have had faith in Duluth. They have risked their capital and have spent their energy and brain in making good their investment.

We owe them our support. We owe Duluth our loyalty.

We owe ourselves the joy of patriotism—remembering that patriotism, like charity, begins at home.

DRAFT FOR $200 IS REPUDIATED

Walter H. Allen Charged With Obtaining Money on Bad Paper.

Walter H. Allen, alias R. B. Nolan, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of having obtained $200 on a bogus draft made payable to himself. The alleged worthless paper was passed on a local bank and purported to be issued by the Texas company of Houston, Tex. In response to a telegram the firm repudiated the draft, after which Allen was arrested. He stated that he intended to use the money to furnish an office. The police state that his arrest may have prevented other swindles.

FARRELL BEGINS SEPARATE CONTEST

Claims Illegal Votes Were Counted for Hicken and Murchison.

James A. Farrell yesterday afternoon filed appeals in district court contesting the elections of Roderick Murchison and W. A. Hicken, who have been declared by the board of canvassers to be the commissioners-elect under Duluth's new form of government.

Mr. Farrell's grounds for a contest are purely general and do not differ materially from those set up in the contests against W. I. Prince for mayor. He declares that on the face of the returns he is elected and claims that illegal votes were counted for both Hicken and Murchison. He also sets up the general allegation that mistakes were made by the election judges and clerks.

The returns as canvassed officially were: Murchison, 2,877; Hicken, 2,858; and Farrell, 2,814. Mr. Farrell claims that a proper count would place him high man. Application is made for a recount.

The recount will be conducted separate and apart from the mayoralty contest and by a different set of referees.

Rockefeller at $5,000 per year.

FIRST TEST OF STRENGTH ON SUGAR TARIFF BEGINS IN DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

make a cut in the rate of 37½ cents per hundredweight now; 50 cents in 1916, and 62 cents in 1919.

Adds One Year.

Another amendment proposed was to extend the period of grace for free sugar to four years, thus throwing it beyond the next national campaign, when the question could again be publicly discussed.

Anti-free wool Democrats from nearly twenty states determined, if outvoted in the caucus, to exempt themselves from the binding caucus pledge and to continue the fight in the house.

They decided, when the wool schedule is reported, to introduce an amendment to place a duty of 15 per cent ad valorem on raw wool. This, the anti-free wool members insist, was the original judgment of the ways and means committee who yielded to President Wilson's desire when they decided to put wool on the free list.

"If we cannot get votes enough in the caucus," said Representative Adair of Indiana, "we will exempt ourselves from the caucus pledge and fight on the floor, hoping for enough Republican support against free wool to carry our point."

RECOUNT COMMENCED

the third column was counted by the judges, apparently.

If the ballots are counted by the court as they evidently were by the election judges, all candidates will maintain their position in that precinct except McEwen, who loses one third choice vote.

Behind Closed Doors.

The recount began this morning in the office of City Clerk C. S. Palmer. It was held behind closed doors, only the candidates, their inspectors, attorneys and the custodian of the ballots being admitted under the court order. Some time was lost in starting, and the progress was slower than was expected. The inspectors of ballots said after the session that they expect better progress as soon as they get the work systematized.

The recounting board will take the precincts in order, starting with the First precinct of the First ward. This afternoon they are engaged on the Second precinct and they expect to complete that and the Third precinct before adjourning until Monday. Under the court order they are required to work from 9 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 2 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. The hours may be extended at the discretion of the counters.

It is expected that three precincts a day will be counted on an average, which would complete the recount in about two weeks.

The recounting board consists of J. C. H. Engle, representing Mr. McEwen; R. F. Berdie, representing Mr. Silberstein; E. N. Schau, representing Mr. Fay, and Neil E. Beaton, representing Mr. Prince. The four candidates are also represented by their attorneys, J. B. Richards appearing for Mr. Silberstein, John B. Arnold for Mr. Fay, Walter F. Dacey for Mr. McEwen and Oscar J. Larson for Mr. Prince.

is divided as to the appointment of a city attorney, the two leading preferences being E. M. Morgan and J. B. Richards. The only certainty appears to be that H. A. Carmichael, present city attorney and a candidate for the place, will not be selected. Mr. Morgan was assistant city attorney under C. S. Wilson during Roland D. Haven's administration and made a record which has won him much confidence. Mr. Richards is an attorney of long and extensive experience and would be of valuable assistance to the commission.

Several candidates are in the field for city assessor. They include Roy Hood, William Fowler and John Cashin. J. Allyn Scott, former city assessor, is not a candidate but it is understood that the commissioners have proffered him the position. Mr. Scott, it is asserted, can have the position if he will accept it, provided he will not demand too large a salary. Much satisfaction has been expressed at the manner in which he made the recent revaluation of real estate and if the commission can induce Mr. Scott to work with them he will make the personal property revaluation which starts May 1.

The minor appointments are also coming in for considerable attention. Each commissioner will have several heads of departments and of these chief interest centers in the men who will be employed by the commissioner of public safety. At the present writing there seems to be no doubt but what C. H. Troyer will be chief of police and Joseph Randall chief engineer of the fire department. If a whole time man becomes health commissioner it would seem that Dr. I. J. Murphy would be health commissioner, as he has the almost unanimous indorsement of the medical society. If a physician supervises the department as has been done in the past it is not unlikely that Dr. H. E. Webster, former health commissioner, will be director of public health.

reaching an agreement is anticipated and the purpose of the conference is mainly to give an opportunity to check up the bill in order to see that no unsuspected harm was done by the house amendments.

"Blue Sky" Bill.

On motion of Representative Hopkins, the "blue sky" bill reported out by his committee was made a special order for next Thursday morning. Representative Child's bill being added to the special order on its author's motion. There was a fight on the motion, which was prolonged until Representative Bjornson, "in the name of suffering humanity," moved the previous question, when the motion to make the bill a special order prevailed, 63 to 17.

Against Future Trading.

The house acceded to the request of Representative Teigen that his bill prohibiting future trading be made a special order for Thursday following the "blue sky" law. Though the motion was carried by a practically unanimous vote, there is little probability that the bill will become a law.

The report of the conference committee on the Clague senate bill extending local option to cities of the fourth class reached the house this morning but because of the light attendance it was laid over until Monday.

Late last night, following final action on the working men's compensation bill, the house passed the bill by the senate committee on labor and labor legislation providing drastic regulation of machinery and working conditions for the protection of labor from injuries. The bill is a companion measure to the working men's compensation act.

Advanced to Calendar.

The senate in committee of the whole advanced the bills to the calendar:

By the house labor committee—Requiring all accidents to be reported to the state labor commission.

By Representative A. L. Warner of Duluth—Authorizing county boards to provide educational facilities for prisoners in county jails.

By Representative Ribenack of Duluth—Increasing the salary of the clerk of the juvenile courts in Minneapolis and Duluth to $1,800.

Representative N. S. Hillman of Two Harbors, who has been seriously sick with grip complicated by a threat of pneumonia, was able to be in his seat in the house this morning.

There was a light attendance in both houses and proceedings were largely routine. As the big measures are disposed of, there is a noticeable slackening of interest on the part of the members, and a full attendance is rare. There has not been anywhere near a full attendance in the senate since the vote on the county division bill, and Senator Boyle has been unable to get enough of his supporters together to move a reconsideration of its defeat. The time for reconsideration has now gone by and the bill is dead.

Marquette, Mich., April 12.—Miss Olive Farrell, who will be married shortly to James Deagon of Duluth, was tendered a shower Wednesday evening at her home on Rock street by a number of her friends. Miss Farrell received many pretty and useful gifts.

HAS ARTILLERY OF THE LATEST PATTERN

Secrets of Successes of Gen. Pedro Ojeda Are Discovered.

Naco, Ariz., April 12.—Aside from his daring and brilliant fighting for the last four days, two secrets of Gen. Pedro Ojeda's success in defending Naco, Sonora, were made known today.

One was the possession of artillery of the latest French pattern, throwing two explosive shells a minute. The other reason was that an Englishmn named John Dean, during the daring sallies of the Mexican soldiers, has been foremost in the fray. His presence has been kept a secret for "filibusterers" are in disrepute in the present Mexican revolution.

Dean, by his expert markmanship, was said to have been responsible for many of the hard defeats suffered by the horde of Constitutionalists surrounding the small Federal garrison. He was assisted in the artillery division by two American negroes, deserters from the Ninth United States cavalry.

Dean saw service for many years in the English army, fighting through the Transvaal and other campaigns. Ojeda has promoted him to a generalship.

THINK THEY HAVE CAUGHT ROBBER

Man Arrested in Pennsylvania Believed to Be Diamond Thief.

New York, April 12.—The police received word early today from Hazleton, Pa., that a man calling himself Joseph Stone, an Englishman, and two other men had been arrested there by New York detectives who have been at work on the theft of $250,000 worth of jewelry from the pawnshop of Martin Simons & Sons, on the East side here, a month ago. Deputy Police Commissioner George S. Dougherty said that two of his detectives had been trailing threo suspected men ever since the robbery. According to word from Hazleton, the men were found to have burglar tools in their possession.

The robbery of the Simons pawnshop was one of the most successful here in years. The burglars carefully avoiding alarm wires of doors and windows, cut their way into the Simons shop and dug their way through the thick wall of a stone and mortar vault to the wealth of booty, with which they easily escaped.

The men arrested at Hazleton are held, so far as known here, only on the local charge of carrying burglar tools.

TURKS MASSACRE MANY CHRISTIANS

Body of Ottomans Coming From Coast Fall on Kasteloryzo.

Athens, April 12.—A body of Turks coming from the coast of Asia Minor has massacred all the Christians among the inhabitants of the island of Kasteloryzo, southeast of Rhodes, according to dispatches received here today. No details were given.

Want Prince William for King.

Vienna, April 12.—Prince William of Sweden, second son of King Gustave, will be the first occupant of the throne of Albania, if the wishes of the triple alliance—Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy—are carried out. This announcement was made today by the Neue Freie Presse.

Dispatches today from Cattaro, the seaport of Montenegro, announce that the fortress of Scutari is being subjected to a severe bombardment by the Montengrin besiegers.

RED POSTERS CALL SOCIALIST STRIKE

Belgian Government Notice at Side Give Warning of Penal Code.

Charlerol, Belgium, April 12.—Billboards all over this city were covered today with great red posters on which was printed the Socialist call to the men to "strike for manhood suffrage and the equal vote" by laying down their tools on Monday, when it is expected that more than 300,000 men will quit work in Belgium. The placards added:

"This is a strike of folded arms and not of raised fists. Respect the liberty of those who wish to work and the authorities also will respect the freedom of those who wish to cease work."

Complete passiveness is urged upon the strikers by the Socialist unions, which tell them that "injury done to our opponents is injury done to our cause."

Government posters have been hung by the side of the Socialist placards and these quote in full article 310 of the penal code, respecting those interfering with the right to work.

FARMER'S BODY FOUND PARTLY DEVOURED.

Sparta, Wis., April 12.—Partly devoured by wild animals, the body of Grant Potter, aged 44, a well-to-do farmer, was found in a wood near Kendall, this county, last night. Potter had been missing a month. He left home on March 17 ostensibly for Monroe, Wis., and was never seen again. Authorities are of the opinion that he committed suicide.

Wants Investigation.

Washington, April 12.—Senator Kern today introduced a resolution calling for a Federal investigation of the coal strike in West Virginia and another to compensate employes of the United States who suffer injury or acquire occupational diseases in the course of their work.

MRS. PANKHURST RELEASED FROM JAIL

Suffragette Out on Probation; Her Condition Said to Be Serious.

London, April 12.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the suffragette leader, was released from Holloway jail this morning after having been on a "hunger strike" since she was sentenced, only nine days ago, to three years of penal servitude.

Mrs. Pankhurst was released on probation, under the terms of which she must report at frequent intervals to the police. In case she commits any misdemeanor she is liable to immediate arrest without a warrant and must then serve out her full term of conviction. The intention of the authorities is to allow her to be free until she regains her strength.

Condition Grave.

The condition of the suffragette leader was described by her friends this morning to be very grave. She was removed at once to a sanitarium.

The Women's Social and Political union, the organization of the militant suffragettes, did not learn in advance of the intended release of Mrs. Pankhurst and there was no demonstration when she left the Holloway jail.

Phillis Brady and Millicent Dean, two girls who were arrested on April 4 as "suffragette firebugs," were sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment each at the police court today. Miss Brady has been on a "hunger strike" since she was arrested and appeared in court today in an exhausted condition.

LEGITIMATE NEWS CAN BE GIVEN OUT

Secretary of the Treasury's Previous Order Was Misunderstood.

Washington, April 12.—Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department, has practically revoked his previous order by which subordinates were forbidden to give out news, except through the secretary's office. The secretary issued the following amendatory instructions to his assistants:

"The secretary's memorandum with reference to giving out news was not intended to prevent the publication of routine matters of legitimate interest to the public. Heads of bureaus and chiefs of divisions may give to representatives of the press any ordinary news, but matter involving views of policy or reforms in the department should be submitted to the secretary for his approval"

Spectacular Fire.

Columbus, Ohio, April 12.—A spectacular fire in the Chittenden block early today for a time threatened "wholesale row" and the Chittenden hotel, but it was extinguished with loss not exceeding $25,000.

The comedy farce, "Engaged," which will be presented by the senior class of the Central high school on Thursday and Friday evenings, April 24 and 25, is reputed to be one of the best productions attempted by the student Thespians for several years. The play will be staged under the direction of A. F. M. Custance, who has achieved quite a reputation as a producer. Eleven students make up the cast and they have been rehearsing daily for the past month in preparation for the play.

"Engaged" is a light comedy in three acts and deals with the varied fortunes of Cheviot Hill, a young man who possesses a happy faculty of proposing marriage as a matter of course to every girl he meets. The young man's father, fearing that an undesirable marriage may be the result of his son's affectionate disposition, allows Belvawney, a friend of Cheviot, $1,000 so long as the latter remains single, the money to revert at Cheviot's marriage to the boy's uncle, Mr. Symperson. The powers of the two men, of course, exert themselves upon Hill in opposite directions with accompanying funny situations.

That a self-help employment bureau will be instituted in the Duluth Central high school was announced to the boys of the school, following the regular chapel period Monday morning. The movement will be inaugurated in an effort to aid the boys to obtain positions while going to school, and is the result of investigations conducted by the boys' employment committee of the Duluth Schoolmasters' club. Some time ago a similar movement was begun to help the girls and an unqualified sucsess was a chieved, a large number of girls being placed in positions.

All boys desirous of securing employment while attending school have filled out blanks answering certain necessary questions including the preferred employment. These slips have been placed on file and as soon as a call is received for a high school boy they will be referred to.

The much-mooted question as to the supremacy in indoor baseball between the faculty and the seniors of the school was definitely settled at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium yesterday afternoon. In a fast and well-played game the seniors were returned the victors over the pedagogues by a 21 to 12 score.

A large amount of enthusiasm was manifest, one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed an indoor baseball game in the city being in attendance.

The students excelled in batting, fielding and base-running, in fact, surpassing their more experienced opponents in every department of the game except in the total number of errors made, the faculty making by far the larger number.

The books are kept for the use of the pupils after the completion of the day's laboratory work and also before and after school hours.

Such literature as Country Gentleman, Suburban Life, The Garden Magazine, Outdoor World and Recreation, House and Garden, Popular Mechanics, and Technical World are included in the library.

Professor Walter H. Benson, head of the chemistry department will accompany the boys of his chemistry classes on an observation trip to the Zenith Furnace company's plant at West Duluth next week. This trip as originally planned by Mr. Benson was scheduled for the first of April, but the continued inclemency of the weather necessitated its postponement. Professor Benson is negotiating for several more of these practical excursions to be taken in connection with the chemical work of the students.

A hotbed has been built on the little campus under the supervision of Professor Gibson, head of the biology department. The hotbed is to be used to explain means of "beating the season," on account of the short summers. These plants will either be distributed among the pupils concerned in the experiments or sold.

SHIRTS ARE LIKE WAISTS

Men's Styles This Year Encroaching on Woman's Realm.

Soft Dress Shirts, Purple Suits and Screaming Ties.

From present indications a revolution in the dress of man is predicted by many of the more prominent furnishers and importers in the East, according to P. H. Layland, who represents a large men's furnishing house in the West and who is spending several days at the Spalding hotel.

The old styles are fast being dropped and the customs of many years are disappearing, before the demand for novelty.

"If this keeps up," said Mr. Layland last evening, "the time will soon be here when men will be as bad as women. The shirts as an example are becoming more and more like women's waists, while those of the women are gradually drifting to the old style shirts worn by the men. Styles now change each season and a man is kept on a continual jump to keep in fashion, having even a harder time than do the women."

Mr. Layland showed a Herald representative his stock, in which are included the fashion styles for this summer and fall. Stiff dress shirts are done away with and in their place are silk shirts, with pleated fronts, soft silks and silk body shirts with shirred fronts. All of these are with French cuffs. The shirts are more comfortable than the old dress shirts, with laundered fronts.

The white dress vest for evening wear is also doomed. In its place is a white vest, with black edging and piping in every conspicuous place, even along the pockets. With this vest are worn white gloves, with black stitching. Only winged collars are worn with the evening dress, thus doing away with the conventional stiff collars. Even dress suits are now made in dark purples.

Soft Shirts.

Only soft shirts are to be worn in the future, for business or for pleasure resorts, with soft French cuffs. The shirts this year are all in stripes. Soft collars will also be much in vogue during the warm weather.

The popular blazers worn so much last summer on golf links and tennis courts are not to be worn as much this summer. In their place are new knit coats, which promise to become even more popular than the blazers. There are also knit top coats to be worn in very warm weather.

During the past winter at the various summer resorts and beaches in the East and South a rule has been closely followed out which prohibits playing tennis and golf in shirt sleeves. The men are all requested to either wear the sweater vests, blazers or their coats, as the former privilege has been rather overstepped, when the men were accustomed to walk about the clubhouses in their shirt sleeves and bare necks.

The white flannels, preferable with stripes, will be worn again this summer.

An interesting innovation in dress is the large silk bandanna, which is cut into a handkerchief, a necktie and a silk belt. These silk belts to match the tie and kerchief promise to be the rage at summer resorts and athletic and boat clubs.

Some Wild Ties.

The ties this year are all in stripes, the louder the better. Polka dot ties will also be worn, but not very much. The new English open front collars and the low Eton collars will be worn exclusively this year. These to give the desired English effect with the close fitting suits being worn this year.

The low English walking shoes, which made such a hit last fall, will be in style again this season. This shoe is also being worn by the women. Canes will generally be carried at all occasions.

The hats are all modeled after the Alpine hats worn by the guides in Switzerland. They are of a green shade, with the bows either in the rear or three-fourths back, to be more rakish. They are worn on the back of the head. Straws and panamas will be worn in the summer.

The only wearing apparel not changed this year is the dress silk hat, and this even a little in the flattening of the rim, modeled somewhat after the French fashion.

DULUTH NORMAL SCHOOL SENIORS PRESENT "SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER"

MISS PHYLLIS NESBITT, (Mr. Hardcastle.)

MISS BESSIE WARREN, (Young Marlow.)

MISS ELLA OLSON, (Hastings.)

MISS ESTHER STRAND, (Miss Neville.)

The first performance of the annual senior play, "She Stoops to Conquer," was given last evening in the auditorium before a large audience. The play is a difficult one, but the results fully justified the efforts of Miss Jack, the dramatic teacher, and the seniors who took part.

The scene of the play is laid in England in the early part of the nineteenth century, and the costumes of the period were used.

The first act introduces fussy, overdressed Mrs. Hardcastle and her old-fashioned husband. They are having a heated discussion about the merits of Tony Lumpkin, the scapegrace stepson of Mr. Hardcastle. His mother is blind to his faults, and when he abruptly enters entreats her "sweet, pretty boy" to stay at home. He, however, is expected by his companions at the "Three Pigeons" inn. Mrs. Hardcastle attempts to detain him forcibly, and during the struggle is carried from the stage. The next scene shows Tony and his convivial friends carousing at the inn. Hastings and young Marlow arrive at the inn on the way to the Hardcastle home, where a match is to be arranged between Marlow and Miss Kate Hardcastle. Miss Kate has been told of this plan, and has determined to win the timid young man. The rogue, Tony, knowing this, directs the travelers to his stepfather's home, but tells them it is an inn.

Act two shows Mr. Hardcastle coaching his farm hands to act in the capacity of house servants, in anticipation of the arrival of his expected guests. When they do come he is astounded at their presumption, and they in turn are astonished by the familiarity of their supposed landlord. Miss Constance Neville, whom her guardian, Mrs. Hardcastle, intends for Tony's bride, is secretly betrothed to Hastings, the friend of young Marlow. She, discovering the ludicrous mistake, tells Hastings, and they with Miss Kate's assistance, determine to keep young Marlow in the dark. The latter has been introduced to Miss Hardcastle, but stammering and distressed, has not so much as looked at her. Thus, when he sees her later, he thinks her a barmaid, and becomes madly infatuated with her beauty and wit. She, much amused, keeps up the deception in order to win his affection. Thus, "she stoops to conquer."

Tony, in the meantime, has agreed to help Hastings to elope with the fair Constance, and to that end has purloined her jewels from his mother, and given them to Hastings. Marlow tells his friend of the charming barmaid and his intention to treat her with all respect and honor.

After the arrival of Sir Charles Marlow, everything is cleared up. Tony is told that he is of age, and his first use he makes of his majority is to reject Miss Constance. Mrs. Hardcastle sanctions the marriage of her ward and George Hastings. Young Marlow discovers that the tall, squinting Miss Hardcastle and the winsome barmaid are identical, and the happy pair are formally betrothed.

The parts were all well taken. Miss Florence Olsen as the charming Kate played her part with grace and ease. Miss Esther Strand, as the fair, sarcastic Constance, and Miss Ruth Bjorge, the fussy old mother, were both pleasing. Miss Grace Hanneman, the senior president, as the scamp Tony, furnished the comedy part, and won a good share of applause. Miss Bessie Warren in the leading masculine role, that of young Marlow, was decidedly successful in her interpretation of the bashful suitor. Miss Matilda Runsvold, as stately Sir Charles, and Miss Phyllis Nesbitt as the garulous Mr. Hardcastle, were both good, and Miss Ella Olsen was well suited to the part of George Hastings. Miss Mabel Smith was charming in the role of Dolly, the dainty little maid, and the parts of the landlord and the awkward farm hands were well taken by Irene Campbell, Alphie Anderson, Callista Coffey and Bessie Weatherby. The play will be repeated again tonight.

To meet the man who had saved his life and whom he had not seen for the fifteen years since the rescue was effected, was the experience of J. K. Shaw, a traveling salesman who is at the Lenox, last evening.

THE FEAST OF THE PASSOVER

Jews of Duluth Will Observe Anniversary of Freedom.

Services Will Continue for One Week, Beginning April 21.

The Feast of Passover will be observed this year by the Jews throughout the world from Monday evening, April 21, until the following Monday.

The holiday is celebrated each year by the Jews in memory of their flight from Egypt and the rule of Pharoah, who had attempted to crush out the race for many years. Led by Moses, who later directed them across the desert, where they spent forty years, the Jews hastened out of Egypt in the night. They fled to the Red sea, where according to the Biblical story, the waters split and they marched safely across to the other side. The Egyptians attempting to reach them were drowned in the sea, the walls of which had receded, according to the Biblical story.

The Feast of Passover celebrates this escape from Pharoah and his despotic rule.

During the week of Passover the orthodox Jew eats out of separate dishes and does not touch bread, cakes or any leavened pastries. Only the unleavened bread or matzos is used during the week. This to remember the bread that the Jews were compelled to eat when they fled from Egypt. The housewives, ordered to rush out into the night, had no time to allow their dough to rise and as a result they ate the unleavened bread the next day.

On Monday evening, April 21, the first Sedar will be held. On this night a grand feast is held by each family, the father at the head of the table reading the Agadah and conducting the dinner. The tale of the flight from Egypt and the sufferings in the desert are all gone over by the father during the meal. The choicest wines are drunk during the evening.

Another Sedar is held the following evening. Services will be held in the orthodox churches on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings and the following Sunday and Monday mornings. On the opening Monday night a public Sedar will be held at the Temple Emanuel, where the Agadah will be read by Rev. Maurice Lefkovits. Service will be held the following morning also.

The matzos are not made by the housewives, but are purchased in the East, where factories for this purpose are located. A special flour, which is used to make cakes and pies, is also made by these manufacturers and bakers.

For several weeks they have been coming at the rate of from two to half a dozen settlers each week and a large amount of fine stock, horses and cattle are being brought into the country. Most of the newcomers are from Southern Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, South Dakota, Nebraska and Missouri.

Your Herald ad. should talk for you when the man with some money is looking for an investment.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

On Women Who Shun the Great Responsibility of Motherhood.

Of all the tragedies of life none appeals to me as being more pitiful than that of the woman or man who longs for children and yet appears to be forever shut out from that blessing. There are many good women who yearn for children and yet have them not; and it is a pity for them, and for the children, for they would make the best of parents. Nothing is more tragic, to me, than to see a couple grow old childless, with no sons or daughters to lean upon in their old age and to cheer their declining years. My heart goes out to these with a never ending sympathy.

But there is another class for whom my feeling is just the opposite. They are the selfish ones who wilfully shirk the responsibility of parenthood. There are many women who, aparently forgetting that they were born and reared by good mothers, who sacrificed much in bringing them into the world and nursing them through infancy and childhood to young womanhood, elect to have no children of their own. Children mean trouble, they say, and they will have none of them.

I have heard it said that one never pays for one's own rearing until one rears a child of one's own. Nothing could be truer. We can never repay our parents for what they have done for us. But we can do the same by our children. Such is the great plan of life. What can we say, then, of those who, situated so that they could rear children well, give them good homes and good educations, and rear them to be useful members of society, deliberately shun their responsibility through no other motive than pure selfishness?

There are mothers and fathers, too, but mostly, I believe, the mothers, who, having children, fail in their full duty to them through this same selfish spirit. They are so enamored of dress and society that they have but little time for their offspring. They do not abuse them, or neglect them to the point of cruelty, but in a hundred ways shows their desire to shirk their duty. It is such a mother who, rather than nurse her baby, as God meant her to, wilfully elects to feed it artificially so that she may be free to go on with her social "duties;" who turns her child over amost entirely to the care of a nurse, first, and a governess later, while she herself goes madly about her social affairs.

For such mothers, however, there may come a time of repentance and reckoning. How, when or where I know not. For those who have no children, deliberately, this time comes when age begins to creep upon them and they have no children to warm their hearts.

WORK OF DRAMA CLASS FOR COMING YEAR IS OUTLINED AND LAST YEAR'S WORK REVIEWED

MRS. J. C. H. ENGEL
Will Give Evening Lecture.

MISS MARY SHESGREN.

MRS. E. FRANK BARKER.

MRS. JOHN WALKER POWELL.

MRS. H. N. MacHARG.

MRS. ROBERT BRUCE LIGGETT.

AT THE last meeting of the year of the Modern Drama Class of the Twentieth Century club, held yesterday afternoon at the guild hall of Trinity pro-cathedral, the following program for next year presented by the chairman of the program committee, Mrs. Robert Spiegel, was accepted by the class and will be taken up in October at the opening of the club activities:

Modern English drama—Twenty-minute talk, "Granville Barker," Mrs. Henry Taylor. "The Voysey Inheritance," read by class under leadership of Mrs. A. H. Brocklehurst.

Modern Scandinavian drama—Ibsen's "The Master Builder," read by class under leadership of Mrs. C. H. Merritt.

Modern French drama—Twenty-minute talk, "Eugene Brieux," Mrs. C. E. Wallace. Two short Brieux plays to be read by class under leadership of Mrs. H. E. Mitchell.

Modern American drama—Twenty-minute talk on "Modern American Plays and Playwrights," Mrs. C. S. Mitchell. Booth Tarkington's "The Man From Home" will be read by the class under the leadership of Miss Margaret Glass.

Modern German drama—Twenty-minute talk, "Gerhardt Hauptmann," Mrs. J. F. Segog. "Honnel," read by class under leadership of Mrs. H. G. La Bree.

Modern Italian drama—Twenty-minute talk, "Gabriello D'Annunzio," Mrs. G. E. Diehl. "The Daughter of Jerico," read by class under leadership of Miss Grace Sheridan.

Dramatic Afternoon.

The following readers who delighted the class this year by their interpretations of various plays will again appear: Mrs. H. N. MacHarg, Mrs. R. B. Liggett, Miss Mary Shesgren and Mrs. John Walker Powell, whose dramatic readings have been so much enjoyed, will read Browning's "Pippa Passes."

Wilson G. Crosby will read a modern play and Mrs. E. Frank Barker will have charge of an afternoon of Spanish drama and music.

Evening Lecture Talks.

"The Modern Drama class of the Twentieth Century club has just completed its second year's study of contemporaneous dramatic literature.

"The plan followed last year of considering the drama of the different world literatures has been continued, the Russian having been substituted for the Italian.

"Mrs. Guy E. Diehl opened the year's work most auspiciously with her original and breezy treatment of Galsworthy as the representative of English literature, his play 'The Pigeon' being studied. The whimsical Ferrand with his keen insight into human character, his cynicism and his very accurate philosophy of life, serve as a fine foil to the 'Pigeon,' the artist Wellwyn, the dear lovable man whose very life is to serve to keep others, proved, as the central figure of the piece, a subject of great interest as well as the other characters each of whom is an adequate portrayal of a particular type. Miss Sparks gave the class an interpretation of this play and her reading was followed by a series of talks on certain characters and phases of the play.

"The study of Galsworthy was pleasantly completed by a special meeting which took the form of a tea at the Spalding, where Galsworthy as a novelist was presented by Mrs. Henry Taylor and as a poet by Mrs. B. H. Hayes and Mrs. J. E. Samuelson spoke of his theory of art.

Scandinavian Drama.

"From this characteristic Galsworthy play to the profound study of human motive and character of the great Swedish dramatist, "Strindberg's "Dance of Death," is a long step and the class took it with ease and general appreciation. Mrs. Ida Merritt opened the work with a fine paper on the subject of the day. The story of the struggle of the two human souls linked for life, who strove through many years of wedlock to overcome their mutual hatred under which lay a genuine love is one that makes a strong appeal to every student of life, and it made a great impression upon the members of the class. The truth at the heart of the play was brought out in discussion following its reading.

"The interest in this great playwright warranted a special meeting at which Mrs. M. Cook gave a most comprehensive review of 'The Dream Play,' another masterpiece, and Mrs. S. P. Stocker gave a short talk on "Mysticism and Symbolism in Art and Music," illustrated at the piano.

American Drama.

"William Vaughn Moody was taken as the representative of modern American drama. Dr. Mary N. Conrad gave a fine study of this brilliant young writer whose untimely death cut off what promised to be a great literary career. The lofty mystical enthusiasm and deep religious spirit of the 'Faith Healer' served as a fine contrast to the practical, hard-headed faith in a rational explanation of the universe based on what was well nigh a worship of the names of Darwin and Spencer of Mrs. Buler.

"Mrs. E. H. Dresser gave a very vivid account of her impressions of the only other play written by Moody, 'The Great Divide.'

French Drama.

"Mrs. Robert Spiegel's talk on Henri Becque opened the study of the French drama. She not only gave an account of the life and works of this dramatist but spoke generally of the high place the French take in the field of dramatic literature through national patronage of such means as the 'Theater Francaise' and the Academy. His play 'The Crows' was read and was followed by a discussion.

Spanish Drama.

"The play selected as representative of the Spanish drama, Galdos' 'Grandfather,' proved one of the strongest of the entire program. Its classic form and chaste atmosphere bring Shakespeare's great 'King Lear' clearly to mind. There are exquisite humor, touches of sarcasm, while arpund all is the atmosphere of deep pathos as the action develops induced by our sympathy with the disappointed old man.

Austrian Drama.

"One of the greatest treats of the year was the careful and comppehensive analysis of the American dramatist, Arthur Schnitzler, presented by Miss Frances Earhart. His keen psychological insight into character, his delicate and artistic treatment of difficult themes, the apparent cynicism, at heart only a clear appreciation of the frailties of human nature, were vividly portrayed by Miss Earhart and the best side of his work was exemplified in the reading of his play, 'The Light O' Love.'

Dramatic Afternoons.

"The work of the morning study class was supplemented by a series of suggestive and helpful lectures on dramatic themes and by dramatic afternoons on which the class enjoyed the pleasure of having an interpretation of representative plays by some of Duluth's talented dramatic readers.

"At the first of these, held at the home of Mrs. A. L. Warner, Mrs. Robert Bruce Liggett gave a wonderfully sympathetic reading of Ibsen's great masterpiece, 'The Doll's House.'

"Mrs. MacHarg who has always been one of Duluth's most popular artists gave the second of these readings, choosing Goldsmith's 'She Stoops to Conquer' which proved a great favorite with the club. She shaded her delineation of the many characters to bring out the peculiar qualities of every one in a wonderful manner effecting a 'Tout ensemble' which rendered her work a true masterpiece of dramatic art.

"This reading was given at the home of Mrs. J. H. Atwood and Mrs. C. P. Craig sang some old English ballads in her usual charming manner adding atmosphere to the afternoon.

"Mrs. F. A. Patrick read 'Rutherford and Son' at the third of the afternoon series at the home of Mrs. C. P. Craig and her deep insight into human motive and character made her differentiation of the various types of this most fascinating play a very significant element of her interpretation.

"Miss Mary Shesgren chose the difficult play 'Yolanda of Cyprus' of the talented American playwright Cale Young Rice as her subject. The passion and interplay of character was given a most satisfactory interpretation by her, at the pro-cathedral.

"The unaffected simplicity and deep feeling with which Mrs. George W. Morgan read Synge's stratagic masterpiece, 'Riders to the Sea' marked the fifth dramatic afternoon held at the home of Mrs. F. A. Patrick, as one of the most enjoyable.

"Maeterlinck, the great Belgian artist, was represented on our program by his 'Peleas and Melisande.' This play together with its musical setting in the exquisite DeBussy opera proved the theme of the last dramatic afternoon at which Mrs. Stocker gave to both play and music, artistic expression at the home of Mrs. G. A. St. Clair.

Evening Lecture.

"Dr. John Walker Powell gave the introductory evening lecture on 'The Drama as a Spiritual Force,' which was most stimulating and thought producing. One on 'Some Modern Scandinavian Dramatists' by H. Heitman was most instructive and interesting and Mrs. Robert Spiegel's lecture on 'Modern French Drama' marked the climax of the series. In a brief, concise and comprehensive manner she gave her audience an account of the dramatic literature of France from the early classic drama down to the present day and spoke, in a general way, of the influence of France as a nation upon the development of the art of the theater.

"The educational side of modern dramatic endeavor was treated in a thoughtful, suggestive lecture by President Bohannon of the state normal school on 'The Modern Theater and the Child,' and the series of lectures was closed by the study of 'Modern German Drama,' given by Rev. George R. Gebauer."

Spring Social.

The Young People's Society of the Swedish Bethel Baptist church, Ninth avenue east and Third stret, will give a spring social and program on Friday evening of next week at the church at 8 o'clock. An interesting program of music and readings will be given.

President of State "U" Will Speak at Y. W. C. A.

THE Psychology of Fashion" will be the subject of a lecture which Dr. George Vincent, president of the University of Minnesota, will give here next Thursday afternoon at the Young Women's Christian association assembly hall at 3 p. m., under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club. As this will be absolutely the last club event of the year the club will make it a semi-public affair, every member of the Twentieth Century club having the privilege of taking one non-member to the lecture and an invitation has been extended to the individual members of the Collegiate Alumnae, the Saturday club, the Lester Park Literary society and the Duluth Garden Flower society, admittance being on presentation of the club membership tickets.

Dr. Vincent's acknowledged ability as a speaker and the attractiveness of his subject promise a packed hall for the affair, and one or two good musical numbers will be added to the afternoon's program.

Prof. Sanford Coming.

The lecture committee of the club has completed definite arrangements for a series of two or three lectures by Prof. Maria Sanford on Oct. 2 and 3, which will be a most auspicious opening of the next club season.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Matinee Musicale Will Elect Officers Monday Afternoon.

An important club meeting planned for next week is the business meeting of the Matinee Musicale which will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. assembly hall for the reading of the annual reports and election of officers. All members of the club are urged to be present.

The meeting will be preceded by a special meeting of the board of directors of the club at 2 o'clock for the examination of candidates for active membership who want to get in before the opening of the club year next fall.

FOURTH LECTURE.

Tolstoy Is the Subject of Talk By Rev. Gebauer.

TOLSTOY, the Man and the Thinker," was the subject of the fourth of Rev. George R. Gebauer's lecture on the modern drama given last evening at the Unitarian church. He said in part:

"Tolstoy is one of these great souls, who do not belong to any one land or race, but belong to the world. He is a son of man. He is great not by what he accomplished, but what he tried to do; less by what he tried to do, than by what he inspired in others. He is eminently a preacher and prophet.

"Like all great prophets and reformers and preachers, he was carried away by his own gospel, yet his enthusiasm for righteousness, overstrained as it may have been, kindled the fire of love and justice in others. It matters in the end not so much if he gave us the correct interpretation of the teaching of Jesus or not; the important thing, that he quickened the Christ-spirit in the world and brought to humanity the necessity of taking seriously its profession of faith.

"Tolstoy may have been wrong in making love absolute and seeing in non-resistance the kernel of all the teaching of the master. He may have been wrong in his conception of marriage and divorce; yet he restated as no other in his time, the truth, that evil in the end is never overcome with evil, and that two wrongs never make one right. Non-resistance may be impractical, but the underlying ideal of love and of kindness is ever practical and may be and should be, part and parcel of all endeavors to bring about a better world. We may not believe in the absolute indissolubility of the marriage bond, but the preaching of Tolstoy on this point certainly ought to awaken us to the seriousness of our conditions. Indeed Tolstoy has awakened the world to its great sins and its great duties and he has become the prophet and inspirer of better things. He has left his influence for good everywhere. Though at times his teaching perhaps became the cause of bitter contention and excited revolt, and caused misery to some, it has leavened the world and our ideas of life.

"Indeed, in spite of many a foible, Tolstoy, the man and the thinker, has been one of the great forces, moral forces, in our day and his influence is going down the ages."

SPEAKS TO MATINEE MUSICALE ON "MUSIC OF THE PRESENT DAY"

MRS. E. L. SCHMIED.

ONE of the interesting features of the year of the Matinee Musicale was the lecture given by Mrs. E. L. Schmied on "Music of the Present Day" at the last of the meetings of the associated circle of the club held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. W. Hartman, 2400 East Superior street. She said in part:

"You are all more or less aware of the difference between a composition of Schumann and one of Haydn. Is the difference, however, only as general as Pater would have it? We must all agree that 'all good are was romantic in its day,' yet we confine romanticism in music strictly to the composers of the first half of the nineteenth century. In the first place Beethoven opened the door to the vista of subjective expression. From being serene, detached and impersonal music had come to express shades of personal feeling, of individual passion, of whim, fantasy and humor. This was one of the great functions of the romanticists; to elaborate this subjectivism and specialize expression. Like the Renaissance in art and literature, romanticism in a way means a rebirth of individualism and the shifting of emphasis from obedience to initiative, from skill to originality. This effort towards specialization runs through the lyricism of Schubert, the fanciful whimsicality of Schumann, the picturesqueness of Mendelssohn, the introspection of Chopin and the realism of Berlioz and Liszt.' Schubert was the eldest of the romantic group and, barring Mendelssohn, had the most classic foundation. His, however, was a lyric soul and his Bohemian existence expressed itself best in a riotous profusion of songs.

"Schumann carires us into a realm still more highly specialized and self-conscious. His Abegg variations, Kreisleriana, etc., make us acquainted with his flirtations, his critical sympathies, his artistic creed. And in his later works as the Quintet and F sharp Major Romance he becomes not less personal, but less eccentric.

"I wonder how many of you are familiar with the fairy tale of Mendelssohn's life—the care, the kindness, the appreciation with which he was surrounded? The correctness, the classic fastidiousness of his music are but the external shadow of his sensitive, delicate nature, so tenderly nurtured.

"Chopin, like Schumann, personal and eccentric, adds a remoteness, a pale white delicacy to the characteristics of romanticism. Chopin—to quote Liszt, that champion of the individualist—'imprinted on all his pieces one knows not what nameless color, what vague appearance, what pulsations akin to vibration,' and that 'his modulations were velvety and irridescent as the robe of a Salamander.'

"Two great figures stand out like granite boulders in the sea of nineteenth century music, Wagner and Brahms. To my mind there is little question that posterity will include them in the romantic group, although they must each stand forever as models of individual musical theories. Both have that in common with the romantic movement, i. e., the development of purely personal expression.

"Why do we feel that Brahms, although almost of own century, is so remote? He was one whose steady, quiet character, whose Homeric simplicity, even as his formal, carefully developed compositions, must belong rather to the classic than to the modern age. Like Wagner, he is solitarily grand; nor is his path one which modern composers have felt the impulse to follow."

GRAND OPERA PRIMA DONNA WILL BE HEARD IN CONCERT HERE

MISS INGA ORNER.

GENERAL interest is felt in the concert which will be given tomorrow afternoon at the Lyceum theater at 3 o'clock by Miss Inga Orner of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York and the Twin Ports Singers' Union under the direction of J. H. Flaaten assisted by Miss Valborg Gunderson, violin soloist. A program of unusual attractiveness has been arranged and a good attendance is assured.

Miss Orner has received the highest praises in concerts given in this country as well as in England and has sung prominent roles in many of the important operas.

The "Musical American" printed the following in regard to one of her recitals:

"Inga Orner, the young Norwegian soprano, of the Metropolitan Opera company, presented a unique program at her Brooklyn recital on last Sunday, the feature being a number of Scandinavian songs, of which she proved to be an accomplished interpreter.

"Four Grieg songs opened the program, among them being the setting of Bjornson's 'Fra Monte Pincio.' The same group included a Norse folksong, 'A Ola, Ola, Min Egjen Ungje.' All of these numbers were sung in the original tongue, with the text given in the program.

"Variety was added to the recital by four songs in English, 'An Open Secret,' by R. Huntington Woodman; Tosti's 'Goodby,' 'Sylvelin,' by Sinding, and the Rawlins Cottonet version of Robert Burns's 'My Luv's Like the Red, Red Rose,' all of which were most favorably received.

"An interesting number was Siebel's song from 'Faust,' as introduced by Miss Orner in her native tongue. Other characteristic songs were a number by Sibelius, the Finnish composer, and a serenade by Svensden. William Tyroler played the accompaniments for the eighteen numbers on the entertaining program."

"WHAT TIME, CENTRAL?"

The Question Causes Great Trouble to Telephone Companies.

New York Mail: "What time is it?" is the most expensive question asked in the world today. It costs the great telephone system of this country many thousands of dollars each year to answer it.

In New York alone the telephone company registers 250,000 subscribers, which makes it possible for that number of people to ask the question each day. But the telephone company is thankful that no such number of people use it for their timepiece. If they did, telephone service would soon be an impossibility, as most of the telephone operators would either go insane or would resign their positions, in fear of such a calamity befalling them.

It is estimated that it costs the company about 1 cent every time it answers the question "What time is it?" If, out of the 2,000,000 calls registered each day, only 1,000 people asked central for the time, it would then cost $10 a day to oblige them. At the end of the year this figure would mount up to $3,655.

And if we consider the whole of this country, instead of one city, we can form some idea of the vast cost of answering the question.

In the language of the telephone company, this query is called a "curiosity question." Everything is being done to dissuade people from asking it; for, besides costing the company thousands of dollars, it ties up the lines of communication and often is the cause of much loss to subscribers.

Other services are held as follows: First Baptist church, 7 p. m., Ninth avenue east and First street; First Presbyterian society, at the church, Third avenue east and Second street, at 6:45 p. m.; First Christian society, at the church, Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street, at 6:45 p. m.; Glen Avon Presbyterian, at Woodland; Union church at K. P. hall, 7 p. m.; Pilgrim Congregational, at the church at 5:30 p. m.; Highland Presbyterian, at Duluth Heights at 6:45 p. m.

The services at the county farm this month will be in charge of the following societies: April 13, Second Presbyterian; April 20, Westminster Presbyterian; April 27, Union church.

The First Baptist Endeavor society will hold a unique entertainment on Wednesday evening, April 16, in the parlors of the church, putting on a mock trial, an indictment of illegal voters at the recent municipal election. Judge Adair will preside and the attorneys taking part will be G. A. Andresen, Erling Mostue, G. M. Schaffer and Kenneth Olson. Refreshments will be served by the young ladies and a hearty welcome will be extended to all.

The Union church Christian Endeavor society, at the business meeting held last Monday, decided to organize a Bible study class with Rev. Bruce Black as leader. They will meet Monday of each week at the homes of the different members. The meeting for Monday, April 14, will be held at the home of Arthur E. Manthey, 1007 East Second street.

Endeavorers throughout the city are all looking forward to the quarterly rally to be held Friday evening, April 18, at the First Presbyterian church. Rev. J. C. Buswell, conceded to be one of the best speakers on Endeavor work in the state, will be the principal speaker and all who heard him at the big convention held in Duluth last June will surely want to hear him again. Another attraction will be the singing of the Norwegian Lutheran church choir, which will be a treat.

AMERICAN SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION SPREADING THE GOSPEL ON FRONTIER

SOME TYPES OF RURAL SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

In what the American Sunday School union calls the Northern district, consisting of Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana, that body, according to its annual report, just issued, has established during the past year 246 rural Sunday schools. These Sunday schools have a total membership of 8,959 persons.

Such little mission schools, which are really pioneer churches, being the beginnings of Christian institutions in new communities, now number in the Northern district something more than 700. More than 18,000 pupils are enrolled. Some of the schools are over fifty miles from any town or church.

These isolated houses of public worship are visited by thirty-five trained Sunday school men assigned by the American Sunday School union to the Northern district. Besides visiting these schools, the missionaries go to about 300 neighborhoods where for various reasons schools cannot be established.

During the past year these missionaries visited and aided 1,516 school sessions, came in touch with 74,256 pupils, delivered 2,789 sermons and addresses, distributed 4,121 Bibles and Testaments and made 21,493 pastoral visits.

The missionaries travel by team through the rural frontier and through all sparsely settled and heretofore neglected districts, to organize and maintain Sunday schools and prayer meetings, to hold evangelistic services in the new Sunday school centers and to care for the Sunday schools until they may be placed under the supervision of an evangelical church, acceptable to the community. The churches of different denominations are following up the Sunday schools and forty-four have recently become preaching stations.

The force of missionaries in the Northern district is to be enlarged this spring. New men are being located by the union in North Dakota and Montana, where calls have come from ministers and laymen for Sunday school workers.

The American Sunday School union works exclusively in the newer and rural settlements and has for eighty-eight years employed missionaries representing various churches to do home missionary work along Sunday school lines.

Hundreds of thousands of children and adults in the great Western country are waiting for some one to organize them into Sunday schools, which may later develop into churches. It is generally conceded that 80 per cent or more of the Western churches were first organized as Sunday schools.

GRAVE ANXIETY IN MEXICO CITY

Failure of Washington Government to Recognize Huerta Administration Makes Difficult the Floating of $50,000,000 Loan.

Mexico City, Mex., April 12.—The failure of the Washington government to accord recognition to the Huerta administration created grave anxiety in the Mexican capital, a condition which was noticeable, during the last week in March, even in government circles.

Under some circumstances Washington's coolness would not have been so serious, but with the impoverished state of the national treasury common knowledge, the distant attitude of the United States, according to the views of well informed observers, assumed almost the proportions of a national menace. Popularly it was assumed, and in high government offices it was not denied, that one little friendly nod from Uncle Sam would have rendered the work of the country's financiers who are trying to borrow 100,000,000 pesos ($50,000,000) comparatively simple.

Even the armed enemies of the government concede that President Huerta will pursue a determined policy in restoring order, but his closest personal friends admit his job is going to be increasingly difficult unless some means can be found for replenishing the national funds. A month after Huerta was made president there was not enough money on hand to pay the expenses of the government for any but a short period. He and his counsellors continued making their plans, however, on the assumption that the money necessary would be forthcoming in due time from some source or other. But it has not yet appeared, and people are now asking whence it can be expected.

There is of course no denying the fact that the withholding of American recognition makes it more difficult for Mexico to borrow. Local bankers do not hesitate to declare that if the United States persists in turning her back on Mexico, money loaned to the Huerta government would be a risk not lightly to be assumed, and that the possible overthrow of Huerta would leave the holders of the new bonds in an embarrassing predicament.

Two Bond Issues.

Realizing the delicate situation in which their country is placed a few young men and women attempted to inaugurate a popular movement to supply the nation with funds from the people's savings. But the amounts offered have been sums like $50 or less, and it has been pointed out to these patriotic and self-sacrificing persons that their efforts are not, after all, practical.

The government has asked congress to authorize two bond issues, one for 20,000,000 pesos ($10,000,000) and the second for 100,000,000 pesos ($50,000,000). It is proposed to use the bonds of the $10,000,000 loan in paying indemnities for damages incurred during the revolution of 1910-11; for covering subventions promised railroads; for meeting obligations in completing public works, and similar purposes. What the recipient does with a bond so issued is a matter of indifference to the government. He may hold it and collect the 5 per cent interest; dispose of it for what he can get now, or sell it when the country once again is at peace and the prices of securities consequently higher.

The big loan, however, is for the express purpose of getting money—cash. For this foreign bankers will have to be solicited. When Huerta was given the presidency there was a popular belief that the credit of the country had been greatly improved. This was based on the assumption that peace had come with the passing of the Madero regime. One month, however, has sufficed to show that peace has not yet come to Mexico.

Operate to Full Houses.

Civil war has never interfered seriously with Mexico's theatrical season, and the days following Easter Sunday, when the play houses are opened for the spring season, were no exception.

At three of the theaters opera, comic and grand, is being sung to full houses. At one of these Esperanza Iris, a Mexican soprano, is sustaining her popularity, which, in the past two seasons, was lucrative enough to enable her to buy the theater in which she sings. At another house the French opera of New Orleans is appearing.

Elections in July.

The success and the reverses of the army and the progress of the revolution continue to be the chief topic of interest in Mexico's capital, as they have been for the past three years, but politics is running a close second in general interest.

President Huerta assumed the presidency as provisional executive with the promise that as soon as peace had been restored throughout the country, he would call general elections for president and vice president. It was openly agreed that Gen. Felix Diaz, whose revolt and warfare in the streets of the capital brought about the change at the national palace, should have no active part in conducting national affairs at present, but would be a candidate for the presidency. No time for the calling of the elections was fixed, and to many it came somewhat as a surprise when the president sent to congress a decree, for approval, fixing July 27 as the date.

In the first days after the overthrow of Madaro it seemed not unlikely that Diaz would have as opponents some half-dozen men of considerable prominence, but a month later it appeared reasonably certain that the nephew of old Gen. Porfirio Diaz would have little real opposition. Most politicians now believe that when the elections finally are held, unless conditions change materially in the meantime, Diaz will get at least 75 per cent of all the votes cast.

OWNERS SEEK KNOWLEDGE

Demand for Instruction at Y. M. C. A. Auto School Increases.

Big Company Formed to Market Kissel Kar on the Coast.

As the warm weather encroaches on the community, the demand for more instruction as to the knowledge of cars increases. As a result the Y. M. C. A. auto school, conducted at 310 East Superior street, and 309 East Michigan street, is receiving many applications for membership. Within ten days a new class will be started and W. H. Healy, who instructs the class, says that all would-be students had better apply quickly, for the list of applicants is growing. The knowledge of one's own car—aside from the man who feels that he would like to be a chauffeur—is important. It saves bills and gives one a working knowledge of a machine that is not ordinarily picked up outside of practical instruction. Mr. Healy has proved himself adept in imparting knowledge.

With engine conditions normal, there is still much which the car owner should know and heed as regards the starting of his car if he is desirous of prolonging its life and usefulness. For it is much easier to start wrong than it is right. The first secret which should be learned is the proper method of engaging or disengaging the clutch on the low or starting gear, and it has taken many men many moons to even master this primary feature of motor car operation. The natural tendency after the gear lever has been placed in position is to throw in the clutch by a sudden raising of the foot.

What the Owner Should Know.

The inevitable result of such action is that the car gives a sudden forward jerk, which racks it from stem to stern and may be the cause of all sorts of future troubles. On the other hand, if the clutch is slid in gently by a gradual raising of the foot, the car glides off, and no perceptible strain is placed on the engine or the transmission and gears. The same truisms apply as regard the changing of gears and the going into reverse. Also as regards the use of the brakes, foot and emergency. Properly nursed, they will last a long while. Abused, they will burn out like so much tinder, and the facing has yet to be invented that will withstand wilful abuse for any great length of time.

The engine proper is, of course, the vital heart of the car, but just as truly the clutch and the brakes are the vital arteries, and the traveling and touring autoist and car owner must bear this ever in mind. Upon these arteries falls the greatest and most constant strains, and they require thought and frequent attention. Probably 90 per cent of the motoring disasters which have occurred since the gasoline-propelled vehicle came into more or less general use have been primarily due to a slipping clutch or brakes whose facing and holding power had been impaired and neglected.

There are a hundred and one other things which the car owner, regardless of his station, should familiarize himself with before starting on tour. He may never intend, or even contemplate, himself sitting at the steering wheel and acting as pilot, although by so doing he passes up the real delights of motoring, yet an emergency might arise where he would be imperatively called upon to act, and if he is a stranger to his own car he would be as helpless as an unborn babe. Intimate mechanical knowledge of his car is really the duty of every owner of a motor vehicle. Perhaps he may never need or wish to use it, but if he does, it will come in more than handy. And, possessed of it, he will be able to save himself many a dollar in tire and repair costs and in general touring enjoyment, even though his hands never touch the steering wheel. The hired chauffeur who knows that his employer knows is a doubly valuable employe.

J. T. Peacha, manager of the Interstate Auto company, returned this week from Hartford, Wis., where he visited the factory of the Kissel Kar. His visit was to make an effort to obtain more car allowance for this season. He may succeed. He, at least, is praying that he will. He is almost sold out and the Kissel people declare that they are about ordered out. But they may make a few more autos just for the sake of seeing them tour the roads of the country in profusion. In connection with this is an announcement received yesterday by Mr. Peacha from Los Angeles.

The big news of the Pacific coast automobile trade for many months came yesterday in the announcement from Los Angeles of the amalgamation of the Kissel Auto company of that city and the Standard Motor company of San Francisco under the name of the Pacific Kissel Kar branch. An idea of the extent of the operations intended by this new company may be gathered from the fact that the new corporation is capitalized at $500,000. This is the largest automobile company ever organized on the Pacific coast.

The incorporators are W. H. Hughson and G. W. Emmons of San Francisco, H. K. Butterfield and E. Roger Stearns of Los Angeles and George A. Kissel of Hartford, Wis. The latter is president and Mr. Butterfield is vice president of the Kissel Motor Car company, and the new organization is formed to market Kissel Kars in the Pacific coast territory. It is stated that the new company will establish headquarters in this city and at all other important points on the coast.

This latest manifestation of lusty growth on the part of the parent company, the Kissel Motor Kar company of Wisconsin, calls to mind the other recent steps of this concern taken in such rapid continuity within the last few months as to make its operations the topic of most discussion in trade circles.

In September last an addition of 40,000 square feet was completed to the parent plant of the company at Hartford, Wis.

In October a subsidiary factory of 250,000 square feet at Milwaukee was acquired and is now in operation.

In the early part of the year large Kissel Kar service buildings were dedicated at St. Paul, Minn., and Boston, Mass., and last week the largest sales and service building west of New York, containing 70,000 square feet, was opened in Chicago.

It is stated that the same famous service to Kissel Kar owners that characterizes Kissel branches in the East will be maintained on the coast under the new corporation's immediate supervision. The company will handle both Kissel Kar pleasure and commercial vehicles.

The improvement in the weather—to put matters flatly—has caused an improvement in the auto trade of the city which the auto dealers admit can hardly be described. One of them declared yesterday that everybody—right down to office boys, so it seemed—was looking for autos as a result of the weather.

The six-cylinder era in the motor car world has come. N. T. Blake of the Electric Service & Repair company, the Hudson dealer, crystallized the leap of the six-cylinder cars to a dominant position in the industry when he made public the news that in 1914 there will not be two automobile manufacturers of moderate priced cars who do not build a six-cylinder motor car.

Though the entire output will not be consummated for a few weeks more, orders for delivery of the new Hudson Six phaeton this spring have been tendered in such volume that the sixes the Hudson company has left to build will supply only a percentage of the demand, for motorists in every section of the country have placed their orders for them. Mr. Blake stated that the six-cylinder is the ultimate car; that it is merely a new stage of motor car development, for he points out that there is no such thing as standing still in a mechanical line.

Did I ever see anything to beat a Royfield carburetor?

Did I ever see a better axle than a Timken full floating?

Are not 37x4½ Goodyear tires just right for a car of 3,200 pounds?

Did I ever see any automobile more complete and better for the price than the Case?

Does the Westinghouse electric starter and lighting system ever give any trouble?

The World's Largest Builders of Six-Cylinder Automobiles

Hudson Six The New

Why It Should Be a HUDSON

Generally speaking, all good cars are best known because of one distinctive feature.

One is spoken of as being well built Another has a reputation for the beauty of its finish.

One maker has gained confidence because of the manner of treating customers.

Large volume is advanced by another as an explanation of quality at low price.

All these are sound reasons for consideration.

Each and all are essential in the policy of any company that succeeds.

But, if you look closely, you will find that while one lays greater emphasis upon one of these claims than upon others, all successful makers are in common in their position in such essentials.

All, to succeed, must build their cars well.

All must assure service to the owner.

All must combine luxurious finish with mechanical excellence.

Large volume is essential to any success, for without volume the value is not in keeping with the price that must be charged.

How 48 Engineers Made HUDSON Distinctive

And as every successful car is referred to with reference to the one feature for which it is best known, the HUDSON is famous because of its advanced design.

HUDSON cars have always been known to be leaders as the most advanced type of engineering skill

That means simplicity in design and operation. It indicates that essentials are less clumsily accomplished than in cars not so well designed. It assures accessibility.

Since the skill of designers is not confined to mechanical details; it also means more beautiful lines, a greater luxury, a richer appearance and an individuality as characteristic as artists put into their pictures or as architects work into their buildings.

The best engineering brains in the industry are responsible for the two new models of HUDSONS. The 48 experts, including Howard E. Coffin, who designed these cars, have had wide experience.

Combined they represent about all of value that is known in the way of motor car building.

Each man has influenced the design of the car only so far as he has proved his leadership

These men come from every automobile building country.

Most of them are regular employees of this Company. Some are associated as engineers with other institutions, and we used them merely in an advisory capacity. Some are consulted by other manufacturers.

Directing all these men is Howard E. Coffin, America's foremost engineer. Thus we have succeeded in producing cars that are distinctive and that have many features of advantage to the driver and owner not possessed by others, even though they give an almost perfect service.

Why a Six—Especially a HUDSON

It is electric self-cranking, electrically lighted and all any automobile can be in comfort, convenience, luxury, service, equipment and value

The "54" HUDSON supplies every demand made of any automobile, in speed, get-away, safety, power, luxurious equipment, distinctive appearance and comfort.

It is not merely a "Six" made so by the addition of two cylinders to a good four-cylinder car. It is capable of a speed far greater than you will ever care to call upon it to give. It will jump to a speed of 58 miles an hour in 30 seconds from a standing start. No grade is too steep for it. Its equipment, complete in every detail, includes the most famous system of electric self-cranking, electric lighting—dynamo type—and ignition device to be had, known as the Delco, patented. There is also an illuminated dash and extension lamp, mohair top, curtain, rain-vision windshield, speedometer, clock, demountable rims, 36x4½-inch tires, 127-inch whee base, etc.

The seat cushions are 12 inches deep. The finest materials are used throughout. No detail of finish or equipment is skimped or overlooked.

"54" HUDSON Models: Five-passenger Touring Car and Phaetons and Two-passenger Roadster, $2450 each, f. o. b. Detroit. Seven-passenger Touring Car, $150 additional. Limousine, Seven-passenger, $3750; Coupe, Three-passenger, $2950. Open bodies furnished with Limousine and Coupe at an extra charge.

The four-cylinder HUDSON—the "37"—is a masterpiece of its type.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

Despite all rumors to the contrary which have been freely circulated about the country, the Indianapolis motor speedway has not been touched by the flood which has held Indianapolis in its grasp during the past week, and the speedway management reports that not a dollar's worth of property connected with the big race track has been harmed. The speedway is situated on high ground northwest of Indianapolis and was several miles removed from the flood zone. The roadway which leads to the speedway from the central part of Indianapolis is of solid concrete and today is in as perfect shape as it was before the heavy rains began falling. The flood will in no way injure the third annual 500-mile international sweepstakes race scheduled for May 30, and despite the tremendous excitement caused by the flood interest in the great speed contest has never been lost sight of.

Those who have planned to tour to Indianapolis for the race have been assured that they will find perfect road conditions awaiting them. The Indiana roads are all in excellent shape, and with a few days' sun will be in fine condition for touring. The bridges damaged by the flood will all be repaired long before race day, and there is nothing which should detract from the success which will undoubtedly attend the greatest automobile race ever held within the history of the sport.

During the midst of all the excitement of last week the speedway management received an interesting entry from Johnny Jenkins, the veteran driver, who will make a desperate effort to be a victor this year at the wheel of a Schact car. Jenkins has made formal entry of the car himself, and announces that his mount, which is being rebuilt at the Schact factory, will be in shape for a tryout in a few days. It will be remembered that the Schact figured prominently in the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway last year, being driven by "Farmer Bill" Endicott and his brother Harry. Harry Endicott was given the credit for winning fifth place. Jenkins feels assured that with the improvements which have been put on the car under his supervision he will be able to do much better than did Endicott. "Johnny" Jenkins, who entered the racing game by way of the prize ring, is noted for his nerve and skill as a driver. He has piloted many cars including the White, which he drove in the 500-mile race last year, and the Cole which he drove the year before. He is almost as well known in Europe as he is in America, his debut as a race driver having been made when he associated himself with Venus, an Italian driver, who drove a Fiat car on the continent. During the races at Los Angeles in 1910 he distinguished himself as a driver. Jenkins at that time was driving a Cole car, and during the twenty-four hours race he had an unfortunate collision with the winning Fiat. He was injured, but did not lose his nerve, and after losing over two hours' time he re-entered the race bringing his car into third place at the finish.

When Jenkins' car comes from the factory it will be formally called the Schact special. It will have a bore of 4⅞ and a stroke of 6½, which will give it a cylinder displacement of 410.6 cubic inches. A coincidence connected with the entry of this car is the fact that it is entitled to racing number eighteen. This was the number of the Schact car last year, when it was driven by the Endicott brothers.

The new Chicago building of the Kissel Motor company at Wabash and Twenty-sixth street was formally opened to the public on Saturday, April 5. Attracted by the announcement that this is the largest building of its nature in the West, a representative body of motorists attended. The building includes two salesrooms of 10,000 square feet each, two garages of 13,000 square feet each, machine and paint shops and rest rooms. It is said to be a model of convenience and completeness.

That the money-saving possibilities of the motor truck are ever-varying is easily appreciated by an examination of individual conditions. There comes to hand the case of the I. Renaud company, wholesale grocers of Fall River, Mass. This firm has a great deal of haulage from one of the local freight stations, and to reach their warehouses from this point a long and steep hill must be ascended. A three-ton Kissel Kar truck, now doing this duty, replaced five horses. The firm declares that the truck's operation does not exceed $1.25 per day, which is less than the maintenance of one horse. At the same time labor and time are both saved. The truck has been in use since September, 1912, with practically no expense for repairs.

A new Kissel Kar for President George A. Kissel of the Kissel Motor Car company was shipped from the company's factory at Hartford, Wis., to Los Angeles, Cal. On the same day three car loads of Kissel Kars left the same point consigned to the Hunt Automobile company of San Diego, Cal. In the first instance, every precaution was taken to insure quick delivery, while in the other case no unusual course was taken. In spite of this, the Hunt shipment made the record time of thirteen days, while Mr. Kissel's carriage trailed along two days later.

"Every day we are being more and more impressed by the wisdom of our action in adopting center control for our cars," said Vice President G. W. We receive many compliments on the central control feature."

March sales of Packard trucks to actual users exceeded $900,000. This sum represents sales of 280 trucks, two, three and five-ton, specified for early delivery. This is an increase of more than $100,000 over the best previous month's record of Packard truck business and 31 per cent increase over the number of trucks sold in any similar period.

A large percentage of all orders received were from concerns who already have Packard trucks in service. The American Express company, the Standard Oil company, the Crane company and the W. J. Lemp Brewing company are some of the large users who have added to their Packard fleets.

The record made by Packard dealers in March is said to be the largest total of actual sales ever booked in any one line of commercial motor vehicles.

The Packard Motor Car company is now represented in China, having completed arrangements with H. S. Hongisberg & Co. as Packard dealers at Shanghai.

A well-known San Francisco society leader recently placed an order with the Abbott-Detroit agency of that city for a special coupe body to be built on a 44-50 chassis, which will be one of the most handsome and expensive jobs ever undertaken in motor car building.

Wonderful transitions have been witnessed in all lines of business activity during the past few years but nowhere has greater progress taken place than on the farm. People have always envied the independence of the farmer but usually stalled at the thought of the hard work attached to such a life. Times have changed and the present day farmer earns his independence and bank account with greater ease than the average office or factory employe. The tractor engine for plowing, the many automatic appliances and the automobile have reduced hard labor almost to the minimum and made wealth possible.

An interesting example of the economy and utility of the automobile is related of a prominent farmer living near Crystal, N. D., who owns a 30-horse power Abbott-Detroit car. Farmer Anderson recently wanted a large road grader in an adjoining township, ten miles away. A supply of horses not being available at the time, he decided to press his Abbott-Detroit into service. The place was reached in twenty minutes, whereas several hours would have been required had horses been used. Hitching the grader behind the car, Mr. Anderson started to make a record-breaking trip homeward. Such speed was attained that the axle bearings of the grader were soon sizzling like the hotbox of a railroad coach. This required frequent stops and generous supplies of grease on the bearings, but the motor in the Abbott-Detroit was not stopped once during the entire trip.

Mr. Anderson used his auto for farm work of all kinds and during the threshing season pulls large wagons loaded with sixty-five bushels of grain from the field to the granary. This car has been doing such service for two years and has never been in a repair shop.

THE event of the week was baseball. Who is so bold and hardened to say nay to this statement? Last week, in this brief, and let us hope, pithy review of the doings of a week, it was the office to herald the opening of the season; and now cometh the time to write feelingly of the "has come" stage of the proceedings.

An uncomprising grouch upon the part of the weather man has been responsible for a halting start of the teams of the majors. But if one of those drab brown swallows doesn't make a summer, it is likewise true that one or two baseball games don't in the leastwise constitute the race.

The great and immortal Walter Johnson got away in the lead. If the performance of Thursday is a presage of what this flourishing flinger may be expected to do in the remaining games he works in, surely this will be one of the best seasons he has enjoyed, and, Bill, since he trekked from Idaho he has been some pumpkins in the baseball doings of Ban Johnson's league.

Just to be facetious for the minute —pardon us—it might be stated that one of the events of the opening of baseball festivities or hostilities, depending upon the mood you are in, was the winning of a game by the Brooklyn team. It might be added that any time this aggregation wins a game it should be loudly chronicled as a feature; and when this awe-inspiring event transpires so early in the season, surely it is worthy of mention.

Some of you might have noticed that Jimmy Sheckerd has left the Cubs. The notice of the going of one of the greatest of all outfielders, one of the headiest of baseball players, perhaps one the deepest thinkers in the old game, was only a little one, tucked away in one corner of the page; but such is the nature of the going of those who have been great.

A new star comes blazingly forth to strut upon the stage, and lo and behold the world is his. Little, perhaps, does he think of the dark exit, and little do others think when one who has been great leaves the field of great achievements.

Jimmy Sheckerd was a part of the grand old Cub machine. Alas, how this aggregation of brainy players is scattered. Tinker has gone, the great Peerless Leader is also no more a part of what students have called the greatest of all modern baseball teams. Harry Steinfeldt is likewise gone, and the same is true of Artie Hofman, one of the greatest of all outfielders and also one of the most versatile players in the history of the game. Kling is gone. Brown is gone, Lundgren is gone, so is Pfiester. The aggregation that won four pennants in the National league is but a remnant of the gang of the past.

AND while on the subject of baseball it might be of interest to dwell upon some of the facts connected with the White Sox. During the greater part of the present week the Dooks have been working out at Swayne field, Toledo. This week the tents are to be folded and the hosts will leave for Madison, where the last work of the training season will be put in.

Looking over the first pictures of the Sox, it will be seen that Duluth has by far the largest team that this city has ever boasted of, though of course this must not be taken to mean that all of the giants on the roster at the present time will stick with the bunch until the season opens.

Judging from the appearance of some of the players with the squad at the present time, O'Brien has some real ball players with him. But a baseball player is something like the leapfrog, in that you never can tell by his looks.

But Darby sure has assembled some players that bear a striking resemblance to the real thing. We should think that we are going to have a swell team until the cruel exigencies of the situation compel us to change our minds.

LEACH CROSS and Jose Rivers clashed during the present week. Like the tricks of the conjurer, the more these boys do this little stunt the less the public knows of the superiority of either one. If the boys meet over a route that takes them beyond the limit posts of the ten round route it is possible that a decision may be arrived at.

As a matter of fact when two experienced boxers meet it is very hard to get a definite line on their relative abilities in the short and somewhat unsatisfactory ten round bout. Twenty-five rounds would prove the ideal distance, and if some of these reformers would ever get it into their heads that there is nothing brutal about the boxing contest when it is conducted before reputable clubs and boxers are matched with some regard to weight and skill, then it might be that the objectionable sneak fight, intimately connected with the selling of booze, would be driven from the list of things pernicious.

DURING the course of the present week Stanislaus Zybszko and Constant Le Marin were matched to wrestle a finish contest in Chicago. This is an event that Duluthians will take a lot of interest in, in fact several fans have informed the writer that they are planning to attend.

Both of the contestants are known here. Both have wrestled in this city during the past winter. Both are wonderful specimens of physical development, though it might be stated that neither possesses the knowledge of the catch-as-catch-can game that has made the wrestling of Frank A. Gotch a revelation to the modern lover of one of the most scientific games in the world.

FORFEITS UP FOR BIG MATCH

Managers of Zbyszko and Le Marin Post Appearance Money.

Chicago, April 12.—Articles have been signed and forfeits posted by the managers of Zbyszko and Le Marin for their finish wrestling match. The bout is to be held at the Coliseum in Chicago, on Wednesday evening, April 23.

The articles of agreement call for Zbyszko and Le Marin to wrestle, catch-as-catch-can style, the best two falls in three to a finish. The contestants will receive 65 per cent of the gross receipts of this amount, the winner will get 65 per cent and the loser 35 per cent; in addition to this each wrestler receives $500 for training expenses.

The articles further provide that the men must train in a public gymnasium to which the members of the press shall be admitted. The referee is to be Edward W. Smith, sporting editor of the Chicago American, and he will have authority to order a physician to examine the men daily and report as to their conditions.

Both Zbyszko and Le Marin have already begun preliminary training for the battle and it is safe to state that neither will leave anything undone in order to be in the best possible condition for the match.

Frank Gotch, the present title-holder, will be forced to meet the winner of this bout, if possible.

EMPEROR OF NORFOLK WAS THE PRIDE OF "LUCKY" BALDWIN'S LIFE

Underneath one of those grand old pepper trees that abound on the historic Baldwin ranch, Arcadia, Cal., with its leaves and branches tearfully drooping toward the ground as if in sorrow, is a grave marked by a stone indicating that underneath the sod lies the body of one of the greatest race horses ever known in this country, the many time winner and noted sire, Emperor of Norfolk. Those who saw this great horse after his retirement, as he was led from his stall, could not help but notice and appreciate the beautiful disposition he possessed, his playful character, the stout heart and determined bright eye he exposed, though he had passed his twentieth year when he died. His beautiful curly mane and almost human roguishness would sometimes make his admirers think he had a mean disposition. But such was not the case. He was simply high strung and seemed to appreciate his own importance and his surroundings, for his stall was built in a barn that was shaded by palm trees and drooping peppers, with a perfect carpet of flowers of the California variety.

Being led from his stall, he would snatch at his halter, as if anxious once more to try his speed. He would wheel around and rear and kick as vigorously as a 2-year-old colt. But a word from his groom and he would become as docile as a kitten. "Whoa, Emperor," the groom would say to him, and immediately the very much animated piece of racing machinery would become as gentle as a pet rabbit. To gain his friendship all one had to do was to show him a piece of sugar, and he would follow even the greatest stranger around the paddocks of the ranch from one end to the other. His old trainer, Mr. Cook, has frequently said that Emperor of Norfolk had more sense than many human beings.

Was the Children's Pet.

When this noted race horse died about five years ago all the big and little residents of Arcadia felt his loss as one does a house pet. Even the children on the ranch shed tears, for it was their wont to watch him and carry him little delicacies from the family sugar bowl and apples from the mother's cupboard. Hardened as was "Lucky" Baldwin to scenes of bloodshed and strife, much of which he went through in his earlier years, he broke down completely when told of the death of his favorite stallion, as if it had been one of his family. The incident recalled many of his great turf achievements, of which the American Derby of 1888 was one.

In those days the American Derby was of as much importance to an American horse owner as is the blue ribbon of the English turf. To win the Derby was an honor and the height of a turfman's ambition. Why then should not Mr. Baldwin have had a soft spot in his heart for the Emperor of Norfolk, which stamped the final seal on his turf ambitions by winning the great American classic?

It was a memorable day at Washington park, Chicago, in the year 1888, when seven of the best horses in the country filed out of the paddock gate to parade to the post for the Derby with an estimated assemblage of 60,000 or more lovers of a horse packing the grounds from rail to rail in the grandstands and in the infield. These horses were ridden by seven of the most famous jockeys of the day, including J. Murphy, Hamilton, Armstrong, Taral, Stoval, Lewis and, last, but not least, "Andy" McCarthy.

The cheers that rang out from the vast throng lasted until the horses had reached the starting post on the back stretch, for the race was over a mile and a half course. Mr. Baldwin had two entries, Emperor of Norfolk and Los Angeles, the former carrying 123 pounds, with Isaac Murphy in the saddle. That reliable trainer, "Bob" Thomas, had prepared Emperor of Norfolk for the race and had timed his work to the last minute. So universal was the opinon that he would win the race that odds of 4 to 1 were bet on his chances.

Horse and Rider a Team.

Thomas knew the horse and his extraordinary ability so well that all he said to Murphy as he lifted him into the saddle was to let the horse do as he liked, that he knew as much about the race and probably more than either his rider or trainer. He knew that Isaac Murphy and Emperor of Norfolk made a team without equal.

While the horses were waiting for a start and maneuvering, Mr. Baldwin and "Bob" Thomas stood side by side on the clubhouse stand. "Emperor looks to be mighty fit for a race," remarked his owner to the trainer.

"I don't think he could be in better condition," was the reply. "He seemed almost to know that he was being especially prepared for a big event. Many a time I have looked into his eye and it seemed to say to me, 'When is this big thing coming off, boss?' Then he would turn his head toward the tackroom, as much as to say, 'I am ready if you are.' I tell you Mr. Baldwin, the Emperor has brains and plenty of 'em, and I don't think anyone will ever know just how fast he can run or how far he will carry his speed. He never seems to be extended."

The cry, "They're off," stopped further conversation for the moment, but it was only a false break. Then Baldwin asked Thomas what instructions he had given to Murphy.

"I told him to just hang around until he thought it time to whisper to the horse. That was all," was "Bob's" confident reply.

"Do you mean to say you did not tell him just what to do and where to make his move?" asked the owner.

"They both know when to move," was the answer.

The Race Begins.

The words had hardly died in the atmosphere before the horses made a move, and the starter's flag had given the signal that the race had begun. A horse called White was first to show in front, followed by Los Angeles and The Lion; the others were strung out pretty well, with Emperor of Norfolk among the trailers. These positions were maintained until entering the backstretch where The Lion made a move and went to the front, followed by White and Los Angeles. To those who did not know it looked gloomy for Emperor of Norfolk.

All this time Murphy was sitting as comfortably on Emperor of Norfolk as if he had been idling his time in his old old-fashioned arm chair by the fireside. He was apparently content with the way things were going. So careless did he seem to be that it brought out an expression from Baldwin that was more forcible than elegant.

"What is that nigger doing? Does he never mean to make a move, or is he going to wait until the race is over?" asked Baldwin of his trainer in a rather excited manner.

"Don't worry, boss," answered Thomas in the most confident way, smiling as he said it.

"That be ——!" shouted Baldwin, getting more and more excited as the race proceeded and as he watched Murphy, who was still hanging back of the leaders with as little concern as if he was riding in a cheap selling race instead of a prize worth more than $14,000 and the honor of winning a Derby. "What does he expect that horse to do," he shouted, "make up five or six lengths in an eighth of a mile?"

"Let him alone and don't worry," tantalizingly answered Thomas.

"By the Lord Harry! Do you know what this race means to me and to my friends? That —— jockey has no license to be so far behind as he is. He can never make up the ground."

"Bob" Thomas Confident.

"You don't know your own horse," quietly answered the trainer.

The horses were now nearing the home turn, and the change that occurred in the positions will never be forgotten by those who saw the race. What Murphy said or did to the Emperor of Norfolk could not be heard or seen, but the bay colt seemed to fly past his opponents as if they were stricken with paralysis. In less than one hundred feet he went by the leaders, one by one, and took command in such a resolute fashion that the contest narrowed down into a one horse race in a few seconds.

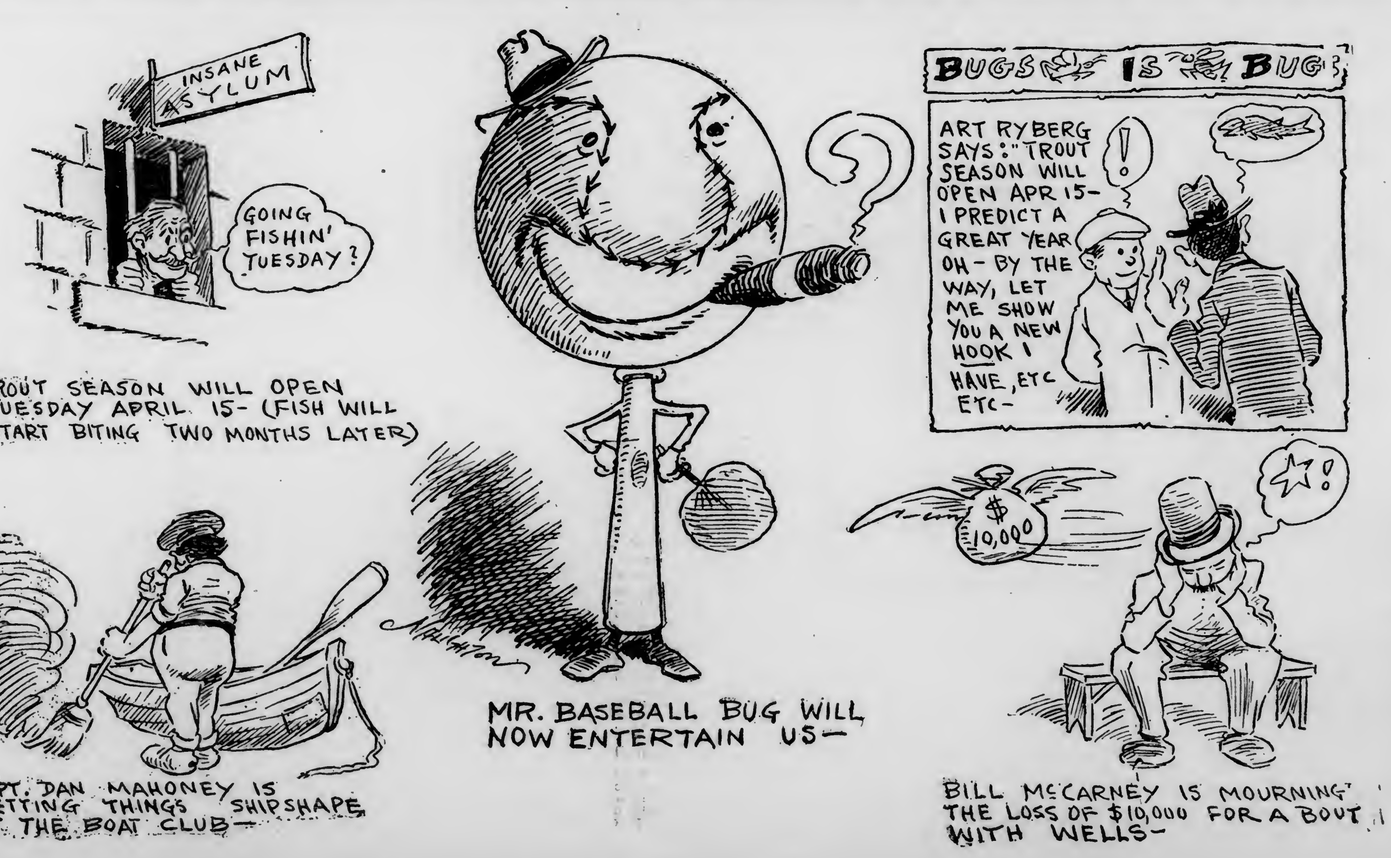

The crowd went wild. Hats, umbrellas, gloves and almost every conceivable thing in the garment line floated in the air. Once in the lead, Murphy rode as confidently as if he was taking park exercise. Not a hand or heel did he move, and amid a scene of wildest excitement he won the race practically pulled up.

Baldwin wiped the perspiration from his brow with his old red bandanna handkerchief and turning to his trainer, shook him by the hand, remarking "What a horse and what a rider!"

Emperor of Norfolk trotted back to the judges' stand to report, and notwithstanding he had run a mile and a half in 2:40½, he did not take a long breath. His trainer took hold of his bridle, stroked his nose and then patted him on the neck. "Well, old boy," said he, looking the Emperor in the eye, "now you know why you have been getting the best California hay and the finest oats—you have won the Derby."

And Emperor of Norfolk pricked his ears, pawed the ground and nodded his head as if he understood. He seemed as if he wanted to say something. But he was only a horse.

WHITE SOX CANDIDATES SHOW WELL IN PRACTICE

Attache Hersey Likes the Looks of Men O'Brien Has Signed.

Exhibition Games Scheduled for Several Northern League Teams.

A. J. Hersey, president Blume's representative with the White Sox at Toledo, writes that of the present members of the squad eight are over six feet in height. Shepline, the candidate for the job of holding down first base, is only 6 feet 6 inches in height, but he will try to get along the best he can.

According to the dope bundled home by Attache Hersey, Clyde Blancke is showing a lot of stuff. The chap was one of the very best pitchers in the Minny and again one of the premier performers in the Soo-Eye, and if his arm recovers from the wrench he will be one of the sensations of the league.

Fischel, behind the bat, looks awfully good, according to the story of Hersey. This is the boy who was secured from Middleton, Pa., and who came to the Sox with the highest of recommendations.

Elmer Smith, trying for one of the untenanted places in the daisy patch, is also one of the sweet-looking boys. Smith has the reputation of being some outfielder, for his record was a shining one before he was secured by the Orator. And while it is early as yet, Mons. Hersey would have us believe that Smithie, old scout, is some hard.

Buckholtz is another of the infielders who looks mighty good in the preliminary work. But, of course, the work to date has only been of the warming-up variety, the principal desire being to iron the kinks out of the systems of the candidates.

St. Paul Comes Across.

As was predicted in The Herald yesterday, the St. Paul American association team came across with several players to the Northern league club of that city. All of which leads us to the opine that the race in this league is going to be some sumptuous pursuit.

With Joe Cantillon and George E. Lennon naturally favoring Minneapolis and St. Paul of the Northern league as the farms for the players that need slightly more seasoning for the A. A. pilgrimage, it stands to reason that the Twin City representatives of the league will do some pretty pace-making during several stages of the race.

Spike Shannon has his brave band at Rochester, while wireless messages have located Fred Curtis and his braves in the wilds of La Crosse, which is somewhere in the state of Wisconsin.

Winona is scheduled to meet the Minneapolis Elks, that is the baseball team, you understand, on April 20. Reports from the city beautiful are to the effect that Davis is about to land a catcher from the Chicago White Sox squad.

A report from La Crosse, possibly sent out by the village operator, states that the pitchers of the Superior squad are showing "advance season form." This is very misleading. During the advance season of last year some of the pitchers of the team across the bay were showing no form at all. The operator will please be more specific.

While some of the other teams of the league are hitting flies to the outfield and warming up by tossing the pellet gingerly around, Fred Curtis will have his men in a real baseball contest.

Superior is to meet the Athletes of La Crosse today and tomorrow. These games are expected to show the manager of the Red Sox what he may expect from some of the youngsters he has signed.

Charley Jones, the genial manager of the St. Paul team, and by the way, it might be stated that he still is one of the greatest outfielders in the country, may have his men in games today and tomorrow.

The Jonsles are working out at the West side baseball park, and an all-star collection fo some of the best of the pastimers on the West side has been banded for the purpose of giving the Northerns a contest. Since the North boys left the western portion of St. Paul there has been a big hole in the crack teams, but the emeragency squad will do the best it can.

Again permit us to remind the fans of this city that the days between now and the opening of the season are rapidly lessening. With every team in the field and several of them with contests scheduled, it begins to look like the approach of the season. Interest has begun to recover its batting eye; the fans are beginning to discuss the opening of the Northern, for, truth to tell, it isn't so far away.

SHOOTERS ARE IN READINESS

Duluth Central Gun Club Has Prepared for Initial Shoot.

It is early spring and off to the east, as far as the eye can reach, stretches the ice of Lake Superior. The air is chilly and a bracing wind is blowing that requires thick sweaters and warm gloves.

But the fascination of the traps and the flight of the blue rock grips hard and the clubhouse is filled with enthusiasts, putting their guns together and filling their pockets with shells.

An expert watches the new shooter, gives suggestions, such as the proper lead for a "right quartering bird, or left quartering bird. Oftentimes the gun the green man uses is a poor fit. The expert quickly detects this and taking the gun and breaking it to see that no load is still in the barrel, he stands a few feet in front of the beginner and tells him to throw the gun to his shoulder. He quickly points out that the stock is too long, causing the gun to slide from the shoulder on to the upper arm, where the kick of the explosion quickly bruises, causing the flinch that destroys the aim. Or the drop is too much, so that the gun cannot be pointed properly. Borrowing a gun from another shooter about the build of the beginner the expert puts him in a new squad and after a few moments of instruction the green man has the keen pleasure of seeing the blue rocks disappear when he pulls the trigger.

Particular attention is being given to the new members by the Duluth Central Gun club, experts being on hand to give instruction to the new squads that are being formed. Their first shoot is taking place this afternoon at 2:30 p. m. on the grounds at Twentieth street and the lake front on Park Point. These grounds are conceded to be the best in the state, for shooting off over the level surface of the shore there are no trees, fences, or other distractions that confuse the shooter and destroy his aim, the clay bird rising against the lake and is sharply outlined and in consequence easy to hit.

The new squads are being formed and any one desirous of becoming an expert wing shot, capable of bringing back the game from his hunting trips, can get no better practice than that afforded by the advantages of this thriving club, which is entering its biggest year with new quarters and a greatly enlarged membership.

Shoots will be held both Saturday and Sunday afternoon this week at 2:30.

Junior Teams Busy.

At the baseball meeting of the Quayle-Larsen Junior Baseball league, seven teams were represented. The Quayle-Larsens, Johnson & Petersons, American Billiard company, the Aerials, Merritts, Maroons and the Pitwell Juniors were the teams that had representatives at the meeting. It is desired that the managers of all teams wishing to enter the league have their names in at the next meeting. At the next meeting officers will be elected and the schedule made out.

DULUTH SENIOR EIGHT SHOULD RACE WINNIPEG

It is stated, quite unofficially, to be sure, that there is some possibility of the Duluth Boat club not being represented by a senior eight this season. As a prelude to this announcement several bear stories have been sent out regarding the material in sight for the crews.

A story in the morning rag is to the effect that Hal Cheney, one of the best oarsmen who ever sat in a local boat, has not announced his intention of coming out. He has. Cheney offered his services to the coach and stated that he would be glad to be of any benefit whatever.

Isn't it funny what a change has suddenly taken place? Not so very long ago it was the general consensus of opinion, and this opinion originated with the coach of the local club, that the Winnipeg eight could be beaten; that Duluth came very near accomplishing this feat at Peoria—that it was the shining slogan of local seniors to this year defeat the Con Rileyites. Like England of old, Duluth expected each man to do his duty. It might be briefly, but pointedly added, that Duluth still would like to see this race.

If an eight is to be abandoned with the loss of two men, rowing is in a bad way. With Glass, Cheney and several new men out it doesn't seem that the situation is so terrible after all.

According to some of the rumors that are flying around, bear stories regarding the inability to muster a sufficiently strong senior eight are being handed out preceding the announcement that the Duluth Boat club will be represented by a senior four, a sculler and possibly a double. The shining slogan regarding the defeat of the Winnipeg eight is to be speedily forgotten.

With six seniors it would seem quite as easy to turn out an eight as a senior four and a senior double and single.

Regarding the chances of success of the senior eight, it might be stated that right at the present time it would seem quite as bright as the likelihood of the junior eight copping. St. Paul and Winnipeg will both have comparative veteran eights against the green junior crew of the Duluth Boat club.

ATTEMPTS BEING MADE TO REVIVE RACING GAME

The Sport of Kings May Again Come Into Its Own in Empire State.

New York, April 12.—Quietly and unostentatiously preparations have been made toward rehabilitating the sport of kings in the state of New York.

In the quiet little village of Saratoga, once known throughout the world as the mecca of Western racing men, the first warm days of spring found a small army of laborers ready, assembled to repair the weed-grown race course.

At Bennings, Gravesend, Sheepshead Bay and Belmont Park, which once harbored the kings and queens of the equine world and the elite of society, 700 thoroughbreds are in active preparation for the opening of the metropolitan season about June 1. Here also repair and restoration have been in progress for some time.

Owners Maintain Silence.

At the Aqueduct and Empire City tracks black hostlers, tar-heelers, West Virginians and Kentuckians are likewise engaged in putting their blanketed charges through their daily paces, while handlers loll about the paddock and swap yarns about past successes and failures.

Yet back of all these prima facie evidences of the resumption of the sport is silence—silence and a vacant stare when definite news is sought from racing magnates regarding the program for the coming summer. On the other hand, from among the ranks of anti-race track men rises a clamorous denial that the sport will again "ruin the young and breed bankruptcy among the old."

It is the old story of the hawk and the squawking parrot. "You pays your penny and takes your choice," between the denials of the clergy and the quiet acts of the owners whose good money is not to be jeopardized by an untimely word, but whose millions are responsible for the unmistakable evidences of racing activities to be seen today.

Court Decision Allows Bets.

August Belmont, who is regarded as the head of horse racing in this country; Phil Dwyer, owner of Gravesend and Aqueduct; James Butler, who controls the Empire City course, and William A. Engeman, who holds a heavy interest in the Brighton Beach circuit, are the men said to be the leaders, active in the movement to rehabilitate the sport in New York. Their provocation lies in the decision of the appellate division of the state supreme court that oral betting is legal.

Before this momentous decision was made the old Hart-Agnew anti-race track laws, which passed the state legislature in 1908, made it possible to direct prosecution against the owners of the race tracks for any infringement of the anti-betting law. It was this phase of the legislation which operated against the continuance of the sport. Under the Paul Shane ruling a form of betting will be possible without attendant prosecution.

As yet the utmost secrecy surrounds the plans of the racing magnates. They have made public no definite avowal of their intention to resume the sport, preferring to await legislative developments and proceed with caution till public sentiment has been sounded.

Following this course it is improbable that racing will at once reach the magnitude enjoyed by it during the years preceding 1907, when over $1,500,000 annually accrued to the various state racing associations in fees and over $5,000,000 changed hands in the betting ring. Rather a steady growth is looked for.

The monetary loss to the state through a four-year lapse of interest in equine gambols has never been estimated, and can never be, accurately. In Saratoga alone it is said that millions have been dissipated by the Hart-Agnew anti-racing laws.

Village Falls Into Decay.

The famous little watering place reaped a harvest from the annual meets held within its environs. Hotels were reared at enormous expense along its elm-shaded avenues, the municipality expended vast sums in improving its natural beauties and the inhabitants erected great shops to care for the trade that once a year flocked to its streets.

With the stoppage of racing realty values fell to a panic figure, shopkeepers were bankrupt, the hotels fell into decline and the busy town became a sleepy little village.

In the vicinity of other great tracks similar devastation was wrought on a smaller scale, while the farmers, who had been the recipients of over $200,000 annually from the tax on racing, to say nothing of the blooded stock put at their disposal by the breeders, found themselves pressed for funds with which to carry on their state fairs and robbed of their sales to the owners and handlers of horses.

CHAMPION FRANK KRAMER IS A GREAT ATHLETE

King of the Bicycle Has Held the Racing Title for the Past Twelve Years and Appears Today Unbeatable.

New York, April 12.—The daddy of all the bicycle riders of today is Frank Kramer.

Frank is over in Paris now giving the champions of the game on the other side a few little lessons in speeding. In that country bicycling is a twelve-months' game. Just like it was in this country about fifteen years ago, it's a craze over there. Every mother's son has a bicycle, and there is not one of them who wheels over the excellent roadways of Paris who does not cherish the idea that some day he will be the champion bicycle rider of his country. Every boy knows every renowned bicycle rider. Like a great baseball player or a fighter in this country has his followers and admirers has the French bicycle champion his worshipers.

In France, Frank Kramer is well liked, but not liked so well as he would be were he a Frenchman. But he is regarded as a wonder just the same, and comes in for a great share of applause whenever he puts in an appearance at the tracks, which are open the year around. The bicycle race patronage is big over there, and it's no uncommon thing to see a crowd of 10,000 at an ordinary meet on a Sunday. Every little town in the French republic has a bicycle track, and nearly every week there is a meet which is productive of very good box office results.

But France, with its splendid opportunities for developing stars, will probably never put forth the like of Frank Kramer. Story after story of one athlete or another has been written. Each and every one has been held up as the ideal, the model athlete.

Right here let us say that whatever was said of the highest type of model athlete that none stuck as strictly to his business as has Frank Kramer in the fifteen years he has been riding a bicycle for prizes.

Ordered to Bicycle.

When Kramer was a bit of a lad he was sickly. The bicycle craze was on then, and his physician prescribed a bicycle for him. He began by road-riding, and found that he was as good as the other boys on the wheel. Several of them had won prizes in track races, and Frank, with a little ambition burning in him, thought he would try the game. From the very first jump he was successful. In 1898, two years after he first mounted a wheel, he won the amateur championship, and he repeated the following year. He saw no future for himself in riding for medals. There was no coffee and rolls mixed in with the prizes, and he decided that the money fields were the places for him. He accordingly turned in his amatour card, and in 1901 he became a professional.

Right there Kramer laid down the plan he intended to follow during his career as a bicycle rider. No man without a big amount of will power could carry through the promise he made himself on the occasion of his advent to the professional game. There is temptation strong all along the path of the athlete. Kramer knew of these pitfalls, and it was his decision never to look sideways while he was in the game. As a matter of fact, he adopted the racing game as his life work and study, and just as closely as a leading light in any other profession had to play close to the boards to reach the pinnacle of success, just so did Kramer stick to his calling. With success came the "hurrahs" and the handclaps of the idol worshipers. Everybody wanted to do something for him. He was invited here and there. His company was sought at all sorts of funotions, but he bravely stood them off.

It was hard at first, but it wasn't hard to say 'No' after a while, and today, after about fifteen years in the game, only those who do not know Kramer will ask him to depart from his usual customs.

The young man from Newark has earned his reward, for he has held the American championship consecutively for more than a dozen years. In what other line of sport can a champion of such long standing be found? Frank Kramer has seen many a champion made, and seen the same champion undone, in the many years he has remained the premier of his sport. He believes that others in other lines could have been as successful had they but the will power to do what he has done. Today he is as fit as he ever was. He is hitting into the thirty-third year of his life now, and yet there is not a bicycle rider in the world who can successfully cope with him. The men he rides against declare that twenty years from now he will be just as good as he is today. Right there the theory that an athlete is growing old at 30 is blasted.

Follower of Simple Life.

Kramer's life is surely a simple one. Never has there been the flash of white lights for him. They do not appeal to him. Much more interested is he in the adjustment of the parts of his wheel for the next race. Unless its on business Kramer is never out of his bed later than 10 o'clock in the evening. That's his bed hour in France, because dinner is never served earlier than 7 o'clock, and Kramer guides his retiring hour by the last meal of the day. When he's home he's in the feathers at 9 o'clock. He's an early riser, always up at 6 or 7 o'clock in the morning.

The off-season does not change his habits. Once in a while he may "take in" a show, but it's only once in a while. Automobiling through the country in the off-season occupies all his time, and just to keep "geared up" he takes a spin along the roads on the bicycle.

When the racing time comes again he gets right down to business. The early part of the day finds him running on the roads for many miles, and he can go a distance, too. Then after a bath he gets his luncheon, which is most simple. After a reasonable rest its off to the track, where for a couple of hours he trains with the idea of perfecting his speed. When he is at this work there is none watching him more closely than his little trainer, Jack Neville. Jack is with him in France now and a great part of Kramer's success, Kramer himself credits to Neville.

The afternoon riding is not the hardest part of the day's work. The rub by Neville is the thing that would break down a man who had muscles of steel and sinews of wire.

Submits to a Rub.

It's a rubdown that the hardiest athlete can not withstand. Joe Fogler is one who says that there is not a man he knows who could stand for ten seconds what Frank Kramer does for an hour and a half every day that he is in training. That's how severe the treatment is. Yet Kramer thrives on it, makes no complaints, and only says that it's part of the game he must stick to if he destros to hold the place he does in his line of endeavor.

After a big race Kramer takes a night off. It's on that occasion that he "takes in the show," or he may visit some big restaurants and there partake of the fancy dishes that are served. But he never takes a drink nor does he smoke. Those things, he says, leave nothing but bad effects, and he just passes them up like he does other temptations.

When that evening's "debauch" is over Kramer rests the next day. He does nothing but walk ten or twelve miles, and then it's back to the old grind again, one which must grow monotonous on any one but a Frank Kramer.

In his career Kramer has won thousands of races. Never once has he "thrown" a race, nor even a heat. Any time he was ever beaten it was because the other fellow got the jump or something happened. It's worth any man's life almost to approach Kramer and ask him to toss a heat. Those who have known Frank since he has been in the game would never think of such a thing. The incentive of a bigger gate next time is no inducement to him. He says he started out to be on the level and he has found that it pays. He not only bears the respect of every person in his own game, but all who have ever met him. Besides, he has acquired a bank roll that puts him in the class of the independently wealthy. He owns one of the prettiest houses in East Orange and an automobile, which affords him all his dissipation! He has money invested in many secure stocks, and if he wanted he could retire tomorrow.

"But he will not," is the way Joe Fogler, one of his old rivals, puts it, "because he's married to that bicycle game, and when our youngsters are trying to win first prizes twenty years from now Kramer will be there taking them away from them."

NEWSPAPER MEN ON CHALMERS COMMITTEE

The makeup of the Chalmers Trophy commission, the body of baseball experts appointed to decide which two players in the American and National leagues are entitled to the Chalmers "Thirty-six" touring cars this season, has been announced by Chairman Ren Mulford, Jr., of Cincinnati.

There are four new members. Grantland Rice of the New York Mail takes the place of John B. Foster of the New York Telegram; Ralph S. Davis of the Pittsburg Press succeeds Charles B. Power of the Pittsburg Dispatch; Harry Nelly of the St. Louis Times replaces Myron F. Parker of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat; and J. Ed. Grillo of the Washington Star will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Joe S. Jackson, formerly of the Washington Post, now of the Detroit News-Tribune.

Other members of the commission are: I. E. Sanborn of the Chicago Tribune, H. G. Salsinger of the Detroit News, Tim Murnane of the Boston Globe, Jack Ryder of the Cincinnati Enquirer, J. C. Isaminger of the Philadelphia North American, Henry P. Edwards of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and Abe Yager of the Brooklyn Eagle.

The Chalmers trophy originated in 1910 when Hugh Chalmers offered an automobile to the champion major league batsman of the season. The contest attracted wide attention among fans and players and when Cobb of Detroit and Lajoie of Cleveland finished the season with the barest fraction of a point between them, interest was at fever pitch. Mr. Chalmers compromised by giving a car to each of them.

It was then decided to make the contest broader. The different pitching and playing conditions in the American and National leagues made a change necessary and in 1911 a car was offered to the best all around player in each of the major leagues. The men who, in the opinion of the members of the commission, were of the greatest value to their teams, were to be declared the winners. Cobb of Detroit was adjudged the champion in the American league, and Schulte of Chicago in the National league. Last year Larry Doyle of the Giants, and Tris Speaker of the Boston Red Sox became motorists via the Chalmers trophy route.

Points considered in judging the players are batting, base running, fielding, aggressiveness, aid to team play, quick thinking, conduct on and off the field, time of reporting to club and respect for club discipline.

The Chalmers trophy contest is to the individual players what the pennant race is to the clubs and really rivals the flag fight in point of general interest. Dopesters predict that this season's battle for the honors will be a closer one even than last year's.

THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BILL.

Word from St. Paul regarding the progress of the workmen's compensation bill is to the last degree encouraging. There were but few amendments made to the measure in the house, and the outlook is that there will be little or no difficulty in getting some agreement on it when it goes to conference. The bill passed the senate originally without a dissenting vote.

The progress the bill has made is the more encouraging because it is declared by those who have studied it to be unusually just in its terms. It is not all that the labor leaders demanded, but neither is it all that the employers sought to have it. It comes very close to striking a middle course that will be just to both sides, and as such it should prove one of the most advantageous laws ever passed in this or any other state.

The legislature has done some excellent work on the measure, and its final passage, which now seems assured, will put Minnesota well in the lead in the matter of legislation in the interests of justice to its citizens.

Among the other comforters in the new tariff bill is the reduction in the tariff on bedding.

THE SPIRIT DIES HARD.

Space is given by the Des Moines Register and Leader to an article entitled "Keep Iowa Republican." One wonders why.

In the article are recited the various acts by which the Republican party has shown itself out of sympathy with the people of the nation. The writer has gone back into history and found numerous incidents that reflect anything but credit on the G. O. P. And yet he calls on the voters to "keep Iowa Republican," though he wants that done by a rejuvenation and renovation of the organization.

There is only one reason why Iowa or any other state should be "kept" Republican or Democratic or under any other political classification, and that is that some people still cling to the old idea of party loyalty and find themselves unable or unwilling to pull away from it. By keeping the old name, the votes of this class will be secured for whatever candidates or principles are advanced by the party.

With them it is not so much a matter of present policy as of party loyalty; not so much a matter of public development as of sentiment. They cast their first vote with a given party because it seemed to them then that that party represented the things they believed should be done in national affairs. And they have voted with that party ever since, and they always will, so help 'em.

Of course there is one thing that these loyalists overlook—that it is possible for parties to fail to be up to date and in line with the best thought of the times. They vote blindly where they see the old favorite party name. And it is just this feature that the writer of the article referred to wants to take advantage of. But it is an unworthy advantage, and the advantage itself is bound to diminish rapidly.

For the age of party loyalty has given way to that of independent thought. If you doubt it, look at the returns in the last national election, in which some 4,000,000 voters broke away from their old party allegiances to support a brand new label. Such a defection would have been impossible ten years ago. It shows conclusively that the ancient fetich of party loyalty has lost its power.

So why try to keep any state under the banner of any given party? Far better to keep the state in line with advanced political and economic thought and development, under whatever label. Years of Republican misrule have made that name a byword throughout the country. It is difficult to understand what Iowa or any other state could gain by being "kept Republican." Iowa is generally known as a live state, in which the people's interests are always the paramount issue. If the agitators want to do the state a real service, they should see that it is "kept" in that line, no matter what party designations are put on its official tags.

The Des Moines Capital is commenting on the advisability of immediate free and unlimited coinage of rain checks. Which seems to indicate that the weather hasn't been more propitious in other localities than it has in Duluth.

FOR YOUR GARDEN.

Beginning on Monday, The Herald will publish twice a week some useful and valuable hints on city gardens. The papers will be prepared by C. E. Roe, who is conceded to be one of the most successful gardeners in Duluth, and whose work in the homecroft movement made him well known.

In the series of articles, which will appear every Monday and Friday, Mr. Roe will discuss the work that should be done at each particular part of the season now opening; what seeds should be put in and how the ground should be prepared for the various kinds of produce. He will give these directions in language intended for the amateur gardener, and The Herald believes that the series will prove of inestimable value to the hundreds of "back yard farmers" who are planning to get dividends out of the vacant portions of their home lots.

The Herald recommends these articles for the study of every man who has a few square feet of ground in his yard that he could just as well use for his physical and mental pleasure and his own personal digestive advantage. Remember, the first one will appear next Monday, and they will continue to appear on each succeeding Monday and Friday throughout the season.

By next week it will be time for that good old quadrennial test question, Who is the vice president?

AMERICAN ART SENSE VINDICATED.

America's sense of art is vindicated. For years we have been accustomed to denunciation by foreigners to the effect that we are lacking in the artistic sense; that however quick we may be to seize on the utilitarian value of an object, we had no time or use or appreciation for or of that which is truly artistic.

Within the last few weeks we have seen the advent of a new nickel. It is a hideous thing, in some respects. At least, it appeared so to many of the uninitiated. But we were told it was a work of art. The buffalo's figure on one side was particularly called to our attention as a rare specimen of the artist's skill. And yet it was feared and predicted that the new coin would find little favor.

Now all that fear is past and gone. For why? For thusly: The real and indisputable test of the value and appreciation of a work of art is that it is quickly copied. And now, in the nick of time (we almost put it "in the nickel of time") to save us from more accusations by our cultured neighbors, somebody has bobbed up with a copy of the new nickel.

It was a sublime inspiration that led to such vindication of our national sense of artistic values. It is a proof positive and irrefutable that we are NOT lacking in that most important of all human attributes, appreciation of the beautiful. What more striking example of the possession of such a sense could be given, except possibly the copying of the new bank notes when they shall have been issued? None whatever.

Let us rest in peace. Let us lie down at night with the consciousness that our nation is vindicated, that our reputation as lovers and appreciators of the artistic is made and saved. It remains only for the achiever of this national salvation to make himself known, that he may receive the recognition that is his just due. But with a modesty that is characteristic of such as he, this he has thus far refused to do. Unless he can be discovered by some means, this workman who has done us so great a favor and proved his skill so undeniably will remain an unknown. But it is not at all likely that he will be forgotten. Not he.

Sir Thomas is bound to have that boat race. Which induces one to murmur, "Tee-hee!"

TO BUILD UP FOREIGN TRADE.

One of the most striking features of the tariff bill presented to congress by Chairman Underwood and his colleagues is the section devoted to the purpose of encouraging foreign trade with the United States. It is a radical departure from the method prescribed by the Payne-Aldrich bill. That it will succeed even better than did the "max-min" plan of the present law seems a reasonable expectation.

Mr. Underwood stated the difference well when he declared the Payne law to be a threat and the terms of the new bill an inducement. Under the Payne law we said to foreign countries, "Here is our regular tariff schedule. If you show any signs of discriminating against us, we will raise the tax on goods imported from your territory." Under the new bill we say to these same countries: "Here is our regular tariff schedule. But if you will make some concessions to us in the matter of trade, we will meet you half way and give you like concessions."

There is another difference, which affects American citizens directly, for under the Payne law it was possible for a protected interest to make representations to the government at Washington to the effect that it was being discriminated against by some foreign country, and thereby lay the foundation for yet greater protection and consequent opportunity for still higher domestic prices, by the operation of the penal clause of the tariff law. Under the new bill the rates given in the tariff schedules are the maximum that can be levied on the various articles. If any increases are to be made that action must come about through the regular congressional channels, instead of by means of executive action.

The new plan is better in every way.

Now that Michigan has rejected woman suffrage again, look out for a movement to have the state adopt some less effeminate sounding nickname than "Wolverine."

THE ERDMAN ACT.

It is becoming more and more apparent that there must be some amendment of the Erdman act providing a means for the settlement of disputes between employers and labor. The work done under the present law has been notable and of vast benefit to the country. But in the course of the dispute between the firemen and the Eastern railroads much fault was found with the law, and some advantageous changes are being suggested.

In the first place, it is proposed to increase the number of arbiters, so that there may may be more than one representing each party to the dispute. That is a good move, since it gives the fuller opportunity for consideration and discussion of each step with a companion who shares the point of view of the arbitrator.

Another proposal is that means be devised for the keeping of records and data incident to disputes that come before the commissioners, for use and reference in later cases. This also is a valuable plan.

That the Erdman act has worked well in the past is to its credit, and stamps it as a valuable piece of legislation. But experience has shown that it can be improved upon, and has pointed out the steps to improvement. The only thing to be sought in legislation is efficiency, and since the proposed modifications of the Erdman act are to make the law more efficient, there is every reason to make the changes suggested.

There is yet to come to light any serious complaint against the shortness of the president's message.

THE TARIFF AND LABOR.

With the beginning of tariff debate at Washington there is sure to be a renewal of the ancient assertions regarding the benefits that American labor interests are supposed to get under the protective tariff system. It is interesting, therefore, to note the remark of the president of a big drygoods concern, quoted by the St. Louis Republic. This man, when asked as to the probable effect of the new tariff bill, if passed, on the earning capacity of the American public, said:

"I doubt if it will affect wages, because the protected industries are not the ones that pay big wages."

This is the deliberate statement of a man who knows, and it is borne out in the public records. Take for example the case of the New England textile mills, which have been given the maximum of protection under the Payne and other tariff laws. Indefensible though the tariff on the textile products and the raw materials was, it is on record that men and women were working in the mills no later than one year ago at wages of from $3 to $8 a week. Even some of those who were classed as "skilled workmen" were receiving only $6 or less a week.

There has been no benefit to the workers from the protective tariff. The benefit has been absorbed before it got to them, and in the mean time they have been compelled to pay higher prices for such of the protected articles as they had to buy.

At least the Washington police force will feel safe from being investigated regarding the Michigan election.

MR. WILSON'S "DECREE".

Minneapolis Journal: Mr. Wilson has decreed that our wool shall be raised in Australia and manufactured in England. This is going too far. It is a patriotic duty, not merely a partisan preference, to resist. If there is to be a Republican party worthy of restoration to power, it must get together on this proposition.

The Journal is urging a principle in one clause and denying it in the next. If there is to be a Republican party worthy of anything at all, it must join with the Democrats in at least so much of the new tariff bill as refers to the wool schedule.

Mr. Wilson's "decree" is not that our wool be raised in Australia and manufactured in England. If by that word "decree" the Journal means the tariff bill as it was presented to congress, it should have said that "Mr. Wilson has decreed that our inability to raise enough wool for our own needs demands that we allow our people to clothe themselves with wool raised elsewhere rather than compel them to pay a bonus to private interests every time they purchase a suit of clothes or a bit of woolen cloth." Certainly admission of raw wool duty-free for our manufacturers' use does not mean "manufacture in England."

Under the Republican tariff system the acute physical needs of the wage earners have been twisted and distorted into a means of profit for certain men who had the heartlessness to take advantage of those needs. It is conceded that we cannot produce enough wool in this country to clothe our people. It is the basest kind of injustice to compel our people to pay unearned tribute to private corporations just because we have the power to make them do so. Even President Taft, ardent high protectionist though he was, saw this, and admitted the fact in plain terms, calling the wool tariff "indefensible." The tariff board appointed by President Taft also saw the truth, and said so in its report. But it has remained for the Democrats to try to act on that truth, and it is unjust to both the people and to the proponents of the new tariff bill to try to stir up opposition to what has been conceded to be a necessary change in our tariff laws.

There are portions of the Underwood bill that will be attacked on the ground of expediency and for other excuses. But the wool schedule as framed in the original bill is so eminently just that it, at least, should be let alone.

Why doesn't the New York Yacht club move to get a prohibitive tariff on challenges for the America's cup?

HURRAH FOR THE SUNSHINE!

Nice day? Yes, very. Fine, in fact. And everybody is enjoying it. The sunshine is warm. It is drying up the wet spots and carrying off the snow that the winter has left, and in fact the brightness has cheered up everybody.

Somehow there is always a lot more pleasure in sunshine than in clouds. The spirits are lighter, the feet do not feel so heavy, it seems more worth while to be alive. Clouds have their purpose, of course. They give us the rain that keeps the ground from being baked hard and they furnish the means of driving people closer together when the rain falls and it is necessary to keep indoors.

But the world would be a pretty dreary place with no sunshine. And the world would also be a pretty dreary place with no sunshine in the faces and hearts of the people. That is one great reason for being cheerful and taking things in the best spirit possible. It not only means added pleasure for those who do it, but for those about them.

Compare the effect on yourself of meeting different people—those who look and act the part of the grouch, and those from whose faces and actions there radiates a kind of human sunshine. Which class do you like best to be with? And which class do you suppose enjoy life the most? The sunshine people, of course. Do you remember the character of "Glad" in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow?" That was her distinguishing trait—sunshine. And it shone even in the fog of London.

If you want to make life worth while, remember that, and put the theory into practice. You like sunshine. So do others. You like to have them cheerful. Does it ever occur to you that they like to have you cheerful, too?

The village of Long Prairie is advertising for "sealed bids for village marshal and street commissioner." It sounds sort of odd, but—why not?

BUYING PARIS LABELS.

Some interesting facts have been brought to light by investigators in Minneapolis, who have been looking into the cost of millinery. It appears that hats made in America have been put on sale in the Mill City with Paris labels on them, and have been bought by women there as Paris hats. The only difference that really amounted to anything between these hats and those that had no such labels was in the price, and it is declared by the investigators that the addition to price made on account of the label varied anywhere from $15 to $75 per hat.

Naturally some of the Minneapolis husbands are hopping mad. They have found that these labels are printed and sold by wholesale houses at so much a hundred, and that all a dealer had to do to multiply his profits from a given piece of headgear was to pay a cent or two for one of these labels and put it on the article in question. And any buyer who was obsessed with the idea that a Paris hat was a little—or a good deal—better than one that was not from Paris willingly paid the $15 to $75 difference and went home proud and happy.

It was only a little thing that the dealer did, of course. But think of the pleasure it gave the purchaser to think that she had a really imported article. It just goes to show how much the little things really count for in this vale of tears and sorrow. In these cases the man who sold the labels was happy because he made a good profit on them; the man who sold the hats was happy because he made a good profit on them; and the women who wore the hats were happy because they thought they were getting something especially fine.

It all looks very nice and lovely, when you look at it that way. But there is a fly in the ointment, of course, and now the fly has managed to crawl out and has spread itself around and spoiled the landscape generally.

Ah, well, it's all very sad and shocking, and incidentally a huge joke on somebody, of course—especially if it should turn out that some of those hats aren't paid for yet. Also incidentally, it makes one think of a certain remark ascribed to the late P. T. Barnum, and likewise to a well known and often quoted bit of birth statistics relating to the class of persons that is supposed to receive an addition every minute of the day.

REPLIES TO "T. G. L."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Under the caption of "As Worthy a Cause as Dr. John Warren's," T. G. L. in the Open Court in yesterday's issue feels "peeved" at the position taken by The Herald and "A Citizen." Without any attempt to enter into a discussion of their positions, from the tenor of the letter above referred to it may be inferred that they are "agin" Mrs. Pankhurst's "methods". That in these latter days the world has become shackled with conditions that become more and more unbearable, there can be no question. And as the spark of freedom becomes enkindled, blind efforts are made to remove them. Any observer of "the signs of the times" will agree that the necessity for a change is apparent and that equal rights for the sexes will appear full robed at no distant day. However, it is also apparent that two wrongs never made right. And the "criminal" efforts of so-called suffragists will simply prolong the agony and delay the appearance of much desired change. T. G. L. was unfortunate in her comparison, when she referred to the position of the Master in the court of Pontius Pilate, who, while he did not hesitate to expose error, "His weapons were not carnal but mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds" (of error.) He said, "He that taketh the sword must die by the sword." To the impetuous disciple who in one of the closing scenes of His earthly life, cut off the right ear of one of His persecutors, He said, "Put up thy sword," and at the same time healed the wound. A momentous question here suggests itself, "What is a Christian?" And the Master answers thereto, "Take up thy cross and follow Me." He showed us how to live. Who is willing to follow in His footsteps? Who is willing to suffer wrong rather than commit wrong?

If it happened that the career of Mrs. Pankhurst should end as intimated by T. G. L. the incident would be looked upon as an unfortunate misdirected effort by normal-minded individuals of both sexes. The efforts made by women on this side of the water to get what rightfully belongs to them, have been in the main dignified, and have resulted in great achievement as the "liquor interests" have discovered to their chagrin, although they in one of the "freed" states recently voted as "one man" with the "wets" because it helped "business (?)." It is to be hoped the ladies will reconsider and correct this mistake. That the status of woman in England is much different to that of her sisters here, there can be no question. And with all our shortcomings we have much to be thankful for. If, however, the American suffragist should develop the same Amazonian tendencies as her English sister, she would meet with as much resistance, if not more. This in response to the toast by T. G. L., "My foot is on the serpent's head." Respectfully,

R. C. B.

Duluth, April 11.

BOUQUET AND SUGGESTION FOR TRACTION COMPANY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

As Duluth is becoming one of the cities which entertains many summer visitors and is host to numerous conventions and excursionists, etc., all interested citizens are naturally desirous of making it in every way that they may, as agreeable and attractive as possible for the sake of these visitors as well as their own. One of the chief factors in civic improvement and one which has one of the greatest opportunities in this respect is the Duluth Street Railway company. Its service is good for a city of this size and is constantly growing better, but I should like to see an improvement or two added in the nearest possible future which to them would be a comparatively slight expense, but which would add infinitely to the comfort and convenience of the public, saving often not only much annoyance and waste of time but would also help to avoid confusion and sometimes discourtesy on the part of impatient street car employes. In many other cities the passengers may find signs "Cars stop here" placed at corners where there may be any doubt about it and so saves many the trouble of chasing a car for half a block or more before it stops, or else lose it altogether for another weary ten to twenty minutes, as so often happens at some of our vague and signless car-stopping places. Black poles are sometimes used with a deep white band painted part way to the top and the sign painted on that. Passengers just keep on a lookout for the white banded pole and so know what to do.

And may we not have a few shelter sheds with benches at crowded, windy transfer corners where so many cars stop? In this climate there are many months when they would be more than appreciated and might also tend to give to the city a well cared for and more metropolitan air of a prosperous city which is desirable, for "nothing succeeds like success."

We're All Spring Poets, at Heart

Edwin Pugh in the London Chronicle.

It was one of those rare mornings that we get occasionally at this time of the year—a morning of soft, warm breezes, perfume laden, and faint, golden sun rays. The vast field of the sky was blue and flecked with fairy galleons of cloud. The birds sang as if they would burst their throats. Chaffers had a bunch of violets in his buttonhole and Billy Simpson wore a new hat—a hat of such improbable size and shape and hue that his companion dared not look at it for fear of hurting his feelings.

"I've been reading poetry this morning," said Chaffers unexpectedly. "At breakfast. All about silvery rills and the bourgeoning bough and that kind of truck. Gave quite a new flavor to the eternal eggs and bacon."

"Ah!" said Billy Simpson, and sighed luxuriously. "Poetry has been described, I believe, as noble thoughts expressed in noble words."

"Yes," murmured Chaffers. "And I often wonder why nobody ever writes it nowadays."

Billy Simpson wheeled round sharply and stared hard at his friend.

"Why!" he cried, "the papers and magazines are full of it. I never knew a time when there was so much poetry about."

"Sometimes it isn't poetry, though," observed Chaffers.

"I suppose not," assented Billy doubtfully, and pondered. Then he brightened up again. "O, well," he said. "Never mind. Soon we shall have spring here, and—and isn't it Shakespeare who says that—that in the spring a young man's fancy——?"

"Lightly turns him down—if he doesn't get a new suit and discard the old, shabby overcoat," Chaffers broke in.

"Lightly turns to thoughts of love," said Billy Simpson, firmly.

"Yes," said Chaffers. "And 'dove' likewise. And 'stars above.' And all the other stock rhymes."

"That's just what I was telling you," exclaimed Billy. "There's really a terrible lot of poetry about. These poets are going it like anything just now, and——"

"And it's really too bad of them," Chaffers broke in again. "One can forgive the young man—not to speak of the young woman, who may safely be left to speak for herself nowadays—one can forgive them for being moved to literary transports by the waking beauty of the spring, with its green promise of summer and its tiny white flags of truce to the winter. (I am alluding now to snowdrops)."

"After all, though," ventured Billy Simpson, with a curious access of diffidence, "spring poets are human beings, I suppose, like other people. I don't see why all the comic fellows should be so down on them."

"Don't say they are like me," said Chaffers, and suddenly blushed.

"O, there's nothing of the poet about me, either," Billy put in hastily, and then his cheeks began to flame.

They exchanged a shrewd glance—and averted their gaze in confusion.

And just then they were overtaken by Mr. Busby, the city editor of a London daily, who clapped them both on the shoulder simultaneously and asked:

"What was that about spring poets? And why are you both looking so conscience stricken? Have either of you been writing poetry?"

"Not guilty!" faltered Billy Simpson.

"O, well," said the editor, laughing: "It wouldn't matter if you had. I don't mind confessing that I've often done it—perpetrated verse, that is—myself. And from what I can make out," he added, "most other people have, too."

Old-Time Cooking Directions.

Baltimore Evening Sun: The modern housewife, who apportions her foods and mixes cakes and cookery recipes with mathematical precision, can find nothing more amusing than some of the vague directions by which the old-fashioned cook of several generations ago prepared foods. These random sentences, taken from a little cook book that belonged to the great-grandmother of a Baltimore girl, suggest pointed examples:

"Take whatever quantity of rice you think proper, according to the size of your family; boil it in good broth and some lard; when cool mix it with as much flower as rice, a good deal of butter, some eggs to hold it together, and make a puff paste of it. Form into hot cakes of whatever shape and bigness you please, and bake.

"If your fire is not very quick and clear when the poultry is laid down to roast, it will not eat near so sweet or look so beautiful to the eye.

"According to the goodness of your fire, your meat will be done sooner or later.

"A few eggs, a little milk, a pinch of salt, sweetening to taste, flour to thicken, a good beating, and bake according to judgment. (These are directions for a breakfast bread.)"

The Motions of Wall Street.

Popular Magazine: George Howard, son of the late earl of Howard, possesses the title of lord, but he does not use it. One of the best things he does is to tell a good story, and this is his favorite narrative illustrating man's power for optimism when the luck is against him:

During the panic of 1907, a New York broker was hit hard. Day after day and hour after hour fate rose up and gave him a jolt by taking large bunches of money away from him. Tired out by a long day of big losses, he was stepping into his automobile when a friend hailed him and asked, with a sunny smile:

"Well, did you have a good day today?"

"Rotten," said the worn-out broker. "Everything I sold went up, and everything I bought went down. Thank goodness none of these things can go sideways."

Greatest Bartender in the World.

Popular Magazine: Jimmy Britt, who once worked as a bartender, was employed by a wealthy German in New York because he had been recommended as the greatest bartender in the world. The employer, wishing to see if he had made a wise choice, dropped into the bar one evening and watched Britt perform. He saw him mixing cocktails in one hand and a gin fizz in the other while, with marvelous dexterity, he would pause just long enough after a shake to make change, ring up the purchase on the cash register, and take the order for the next round.

The German watched the performance one hour and could stand it no longer. Rushing excitedly to the bar, he shouted:

"You are fired! Himmel! If you can do all that in one hour, how much will you be able to steal from me in a week?"

They Conceal What They Say.

Popular Magazine: When it comes to bad handwriting, the two men who have beaten all others in this regard in the entire United States for the last twenty years are Joaquin Miller, the poet, and Samuel G. Blythe, the humorist.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

At the Sign of the Hammer.

In the northern mythology Thor, god of thunder, was represented as wielding a red-hot hammer with which he punishes his enemies. Even when thrown, the weapon had the magical power of returning to the hand of the god to enable him to deal another blow. Our Scandinavian ancestors made the sign of the hammer much as Christians make the sign of the cross, to ward off evil or to secure blessings.

The hammer cult is not dead in our day. The race of "knockers" is a mighty and a growing one. The habitual mood and conversation of scores of our fellows number them as disciples of Thor.

There is doubtless a place for the critic, for the iconoclast even, in the life of society. He who, in righteous wrath, assails falsehood and denounces hypocrisy in any form may be doing God and men service. The fear of the unfavorable criticism of one's fellows is a moral police force not to be underestimated.

But the habit of criticism is one that must be held rigidly in bounds. The spirit of disapproval, become a ruling one, may be ungracious and unprofitable in the extreme. After an hour spent in the society of one governed by his disgusts one longs for the atmosphere of appreciation as for a whiff of fresh air after a stuffy season indoors.

Habitual critics often plume themselves on their superior discernment, but that claim is not to be allowed without question. It requires more character and greater ability to see the good than to see the evil. A genius will find plenty of excellent points in a person or performance loudly condemned by a tyro for some perfectly obvious fault or limitation.

Low-browed folk will come from the concert, ignoring its general worth but blatantly criticizing some minor deficiency of singer or player. Sabbath worshipers have even walked from church, quite unconscious of the preacher's profound spiritual appeal, of his strong and original treatment of his theme, but quick to confide to their neighbors that the dominie had mispronounced two words or had tied his cravat badly.

Mark Twain once made the facetious comment that Shakespeare may have been a smart writer, "but he couldn't spell." The jovial comment reflects a common mood with many of us. Our eyes are trained to see the sand specks in the marble columns of the Parthenon, our ears to hear the discords of the symphony.

He who allows this impulse toward making carping judgments on all that he sees or hears to get the better of him will eventually find himself in a very bare and dull world. It is far better to praise than to criticize as a fixed habit. A life ruled by admiration will be more interesting than one ruled by disgusts. The confirmed "knocker" suffers most himself in the long run.

As an alterative to a bad habit let one seek to practice for a whole week the glorious counsel of the apostle Paul: "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." The experiment, if honestly made, may lead one permanently to bury the hammer and to take up the harp.

THE PARSON.

News of the Greatest Importance.

Popular Magazine: The department of agriculture in Washington has made an announcement which nobody can afford to miss. It asserts without the fear of contradiction that, working for the last three years on the cattle of Wyoming and Montana, it has stamped out entirely a disease known as necrobacillosis—a word which is understood only by cows.

Woman's Home Companion: "Yes," said the old man, "I find my strength is failing somewhat. I used to walk around the block every morning, but lately I feel so tired when I get half way round I have to turn and come back."

HAVE YOU A BUNNY BLOTTER IN YOUR HOME? —By "SHERM"

A PHILANTHROPIST

By SAVOYARD.

Washington, April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Once there was a man in congress from Massachusetts—Elijah Adams Morse—better known as "Rising Sun" Morse, for a stove polish he concocted, manufactured and sold, having the device of a sunrise for a trademark. He made, or was reputed to have made, millions out of it, or rather out of the printer's ink he was shrewd enough to employ in the exploitation of it. Born in Indiana, he was reared in Massachusetts. He served four years in the national house of representatives, and nobody who ever saw him engage in a brand stunt of statecraft will dare deny that Morse was one of the most unique curiosities the American congress ever produced, and you will agree with me when you read this passage from a speech he one day delivered on a pension bill:

"Why did he weep? Why did he weep? I say, Mr. Speaker, why did he weep? I repeat, Mr. Speaker, why did he weep? His heart was broken. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I know this man. He died of a broken heart! He died of a broken heart. I repeat, Mr. Speaker, he died of a broken heart; he never smiled again. They refused him the pitiful increase of $2 a month on his pension. I say, Mr. Speaker, he never smiled again. I repeat, he never smiled again!"

And there were tears—sincere testimony of poignant grief—in the orator's eyes as well as in the orator's voice. You see it was this way. In 1893 Grover Cleveland went to Minnesota for a commissioner of pensions. He there found a man who had been a real soldier, one of the rank and file of the "Iron Brigade," the fightingest command of the entire Federal army. I believe his name was Lochren. He refused—or under his administration it was decided—this increase of $2 a month so pathetically dilated over by the Hon. Morse.

I never expected to see or hear of it, but the Hon. Morse has been eclipsed this rising sun obscured by a cloud. With the exception of old "Sawlog" Stephenson, Mr. La Follette's colleague in the United States senate from the state of Wisconsin, Francis E. Warren of Wyoming is possibly the master of more millions than any other senator. Mr. Warren was a soldier in the big war and report hath it that Mr. Warren is after a pension of $16 a month.

Mr. Warren says that he cares not for the money, that when the pension is granted he will bestow it on charity, that in his attempts to trace the military records of his ancestors who fought for faith and freedom in the war of the Revolution he was beset by many difficulties, and he wants his name on the pension roll in order that none of his posterity may be put to trouble to establish the fact that their ancestor fit on the right side in 1861.

Did egoism covered over with vanity as a mantle ever go further than that? For instance, here is a philanthropist, but he asks the American people to foot the bills of his charity. When in the hearing of the contested election of the first two senators from Montana it was revealed that one of them had repudiated a bill of a beggarly $2,000 for some dirty work undertaken at his special instance and request and for his advantage, the late Senator David Turple spoke of it in these withering terms:

"The natural tendency and bias of this somewhat remarkable character to corruption seemed to have been tempered by the shrewdest and most prudent parsimony. He may have been a dishonest man, somewhat unscrupulous, unprincipled, impure, defiled; he may be a political and social leper, loathsome with the stench and odor of a plague worse than his who washed seven times in Jordan to be cleansed, but he was no spendthrift."

Senator Warren is no spendthrift, either. When he would dispense a charity of $16 a month he seeks to saddle the cost of it on the American people en masse.

And the vanity of it! He was a soldier, and in order that there may be no mistake about it he charges the Federal treasury to the tune of $16 a month for the rest of his natural life to establish the fact beyond peradventure!

Now taxation in this country is based on consumption, and it is notorious that it bears heaviest on those who subsist on the cheapest necessaries. Thus Mr. Warren, to enable himself to dispense charity and feed a posthumous vanity, would tax the penniless woman who must toil at the washtub to earn the poor pittance with which to buy the little bread that feeds her and the scant raiment that clothes her. It is a frightful price he would thus pay for immortality. And what a worthless, what an odious, what an ignoble, what an abject immortality it is that is gained as such a cost!

I had never expected to see "Lige" Morse—he of the Rising Sun device—eclipsed. I had supposed the classic pathos I quoted in the first section of this article would forever stand alone.

But I reckoned without Warren, the flock-master who got many of his millions by the operation of a robber protective tariff on wool, an economic enormity that encourages disease, promotes squalor, invites want, profits the grave-digger, and makes business for the undertaker.

Morse, my dear man, your fame is snuffed out. Make way for the luminary from Wyoming! Give place! All hail the philanthropist—at public expense.

THE NEED OF WOMEN POLICE

They Are Necessary to Safeguard Girls Against City Dangers.

By LOUISE DE KOVEN BOWEN,
President Juvenile Protective Association, Chicago.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

In all of our large cities thousands of young people, weary from their monotonous work in shop or factory, seek the streets in the evening imperiously asserting their right to pleasure. Business enterprise has taken advantage of this natural desire for recreation and commercialized amusements have sprung up on all sides ready to cater to every taste of this childish multitude. Penny arcades, slot machines, moving picture shows, cheap theaters, amusement parks and dance halls are all attempting to lure children with every device known to modern advertising. Young people are thus without protection and exposed to temptation at the very moment when they are least able to withstand it.

Many students of municipal affairs believe that every large city should have morals police, of whom a certain number should be women, if it would properly protect young girls for whose unwary feet so many pitfalls are spread, if it would deal adequately with prostitution—that grave menace to health and morals.

We need women police in the theaters of every city to watch the girls who attend these entertainments and accept the invitations of young men offered with disreputable intentions. In the majority of cheap theaters the moving pictures are shown in a dim light and the danger to young people has been shifted from the stage to the auditorium. The darkened room affords opportunity for familiarity and there should be women police to see that conventionalities and decencies are observed.

There should be women police in our dance halls—the happy hunting ground of the white slave trader—to watch the girls and also the boys, to warn the girls when they are seen taking too much liquor and to watch that if intoxicated they are not accompanied from the hall by young men who have plied them with liquor for illicit purposes. They should also see that young unsophisticated boys are not victimized by professional prostitutes who take advantage of inexperienced youths who come to the city for the first time and visit the dance halls to "see the sights."

Women police should be stationed on pleasure boats and at bathing beaches and should ever be on the alert for conditions which demoralize children. We need women police in our amusement parks to mingle with the crowds at the gates and to save young girls from accepting invitations from men who hope to be repaid later in the evening. We need women police in such places to follow girls who are seen going to lonely parts of the parks accompanied by young men. In fact, we need women police to "mother" the girls in all public places where the danger to young people is great.

In our station houses we should have women police in whose charge girls should be placed. Women police could accompany the girls to trial and be with them when they are subjected to harassing questions so often put to them by attorneys. And women police should accompany girls to the institutions to which they are committed by the court. The work of the woman police officer would not be very different from that of the woman probation officer. The juvenile court officers investigate homes and neighborhoods, watch their wards to see that they attend school or are at work, and take charge of children after they have become delinquent. It would be only one more step, but one urgently needed, to have women police who would lessen the work of the probation officers by carefully watching for those causes which lead children into the courts, by reporting these conditions to the proper authorities, and by carefully supervising all places of amusement.

Women truant officers attached to the compulsory education department, the women adult probation officers connected with the municipal courts, the women factory inspectors, the women sanitary inspectors of the health department, the women school nurses, the women supplied by the Travelers' Aid association, the officers of the Juvenile Protective association and all other officers paid by private organizations are doing valiant work for the young people of our cities. But we especially need the police power which the city might vest in women trained for the work and which would give them the necessary authority to cope with certain dangerous situations with which private organizations have tried in vain to deal.

Women police are not needed to handle crowds, to regulate street traffic, to arrest drunkards and criminals, but they are sorely needed in order that they may adequately protect the thousands of children and young people who every day are exposed to the dangers of unsupervised and disreputable places of amusement and for whose safety and welfare the city is responsible.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

Started Wrong.

ONE WOMAN'S LIFE. By Robert Herrick. New York: The Macmillan company.

Milly Ridges got started wrong, and that was the cause of the rest of the book. At least, that seems to be the idea of the author, and he lays the faulty start at the door of the schools. In the case presented a very ordinary education in the common schools and later in a school for girls only, she has developed the idea that she and all her sex are of a little better brand of clay than is used in the masculine make-up. This idea she fosters until she becomes convinced that she herself is just a trifle better than anybody else, and that her interests are paramount to those of other people. Of course, she meets with many a hard bump, and some pretty severe tumbles, but she develops a parasitish instinct and at once that come to her rescue and pull her out of the clutches of what may be allowed to pass for a rather weak-handed fate, since she gets off safely in every encounter.

One after another of those near and dear to her are sacrificed to the ambition of that superior mortal, and then she reaches out to others and brings them to disaster through their trust in her. She uses people as a careless free lunch patron does a toothpick—to be handled with care until no longer needed, and then thrown into the discard. And she maintains throughout a belief in her own goodness, a calm and unshaken faith in the principles of superiority that have been inculcated in her by her early training. One character after another passes across the stage, only to fall victim to the school-taught parasite; and in fact the procession develops a machine-like precision and regularity that rather robs it of the human element. The parasite herself is the only really convincing character in the book, and she loses much of that quality when she is transferred from Chicago to the other side of the Atlantic, and made to practice her unconscious graft in other surroundings.

Ambitious Germany.

PAN-GERMANISM. A Critical Study of the German Schemes for the Conquest of the World. By Roland G. Usher. Boston: Houghton Mifflin company. $1.75 net.

Why is Germany seeking means of increasing her armed force? Why is she so vitally interested in the Balkan states and their victory over the Turk? In brief, what does Germany propose to do with this great power that she has been so many years in building up, and what bearing has the Balkan war on her own interests?

Dr. Usher, who is an associate professor of history at Washington university at St. Louis, believes that the real project is the conquest, first of England, and later of the whole world. This he puts under the heading of "pan-Germanism," and in this book he tells why he believes that is the Teutonic program, and what is being done to make its realization possible. He further tells of what the outlook is for the accomplishment of so great an ambition as this. His portrayal of England's power as he says it appears in German eyes is exceedingly interesting, if far from flattering. The German attitude toward France and Russia also is given in detail. Meanwhile Dr. Usher makes no bones of declaring that there is an understanding between England, France and the United States that this country would join in the war to help those two nations if Germany should openly attack them.

If the German people feel and think as Dr. Usher would have us believe they feel and think, it is hard to see how a great war between England and Germany is to be avoided, sooner or later. But he leaves a room for doubt as to the accuracy of the German understanding of the power of Britain, and so lays the ground for a great doubt as to the likelihood of pan-Germanism ever becoming an actual menace. But his book is interesting, both in matter and style, and it certainly gives one an excellent view of world politics.

Laugh and Keep Well.

COMMON DISEASES. By Woods Hutchinson, M. D. Boston: Houghton Mifflin company. $1.50 net.

Anybody who has read any of Dr. Hutchinson's magazine articles on the various ills that flesh is heir to needs no introduction to this book. It tells of the common ailments of mankind and how to avoid them, and does so in a form as thoroughly delightful as the most fascinating novel. There is nothing here of the technicality and mystery that so often bristle from the pages of works on medical matters. It is all plain, easily understood and simple. And Dr. Hutchinson is one who speaks with recognized knowledge of medical matters. He does not tell you what to do when you get sick, but what to do so you won't get sick. The manner in which he treats his entire list of subjects is well illustrated by the chapter heading: "Catarrh, Our National Nasal Luxury."

Dr. Hutchinson's book is one that could be read with profit in every household in the land. It explains much about disease that is a mystery to the majority of people, and it gives common sense directions as to how to take care of the body.

Imagination on a Spree.

A DAY OF DAYS. By Louis Joseph Vance. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.35 net.

Mr. Vance calls his book "an extravaganza." It is a good description of the story. In the first chapter or two we are shown P. Sybarite, a bookkeeper a little over 30 years of age, who has spent his life thus far in living down the name of Perceval. By an unexpected chance, a condescending, wealthy cousin sends him tickets for a box party to see "Kismet." He takes a fellow employe, the latter's "steady," both of whom room at the same boarding house as himself, and also includes in the party a newcomer at the boarding house, a mysterious glove clerk, who turns out to be a runaway heiress. The adventures start on the night of the box party, and last less than twelve hours. But in that time P. Sybarite has his "day of days," and experiences all the possible human emotions and experiences.

The book is written in a light vein that fits the matter admirably. It is as good purposeless reading as one could find, with which to kill an afternoon or evening. It has just the right touch for this class of matter, and anybody who could not get interested in it should give up all but the most substantial literary diet for all time to come.

In Defense of Wall Street.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE FROM WITHIN. By William C. Van Antwerp. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.50 net.

The ability of the trained newspaper man to show up the evils of an institution or system is generally recognized. Here is an example of such ability turned to the defense of an institution, for Mr. Van Antwerp refuses to see the faults generally credited to the stock exchange, or if he sees them, explains them. He brings to the support of his later profession all the skill he acquired in that of his earlier years. And he has turned out a book that is thoroughly interesting, and that throws much light on many features of stock trading that are exceedingly hazy in the minds of the public at large. His book is exceedingly timely owing to the investigations of one kind and another that have recently involved methods and members of the stock exchange, and owing to the movement now in progress to compel the incorporation of that organization.

Considering his work more in detail, we find in the first pages a strong statement as to the function of the stock exchange as the furnisher of a means of fixing prices of bonds and securities so that those who issue them and those who care to trade in them may know exactly what they can depend on in the way of market conditions, supply and demand, and the other data that necessarily enter into such transactions. His work in this line is thorough and convincing. Following this he takes up the subject of speculation generally, and declares it is in fact founded on what Stevenson called "the divine unrest." Even margin trading, he asserts, is not gambling in the ordinary sense of that term, and as for dealing in futures, he parallels that with the case of the farmer who contracts for his season's milk supply before it is taken from the cows, and with other even more commonplace transactions.

He takes up the work of the Hughes commission that investigated the operations of the stock exchange, and declares that the governors of the exchange have done and are doing all in their power to carry out the recommendations of that commission. He deplores newspaper and other criticism of the exchange, and declares that "the interests of the stock exchange are the interests of the whole country; its welfare depends upon an intelligent and thrifty people; its aims are public-spirited and patriotic."

Coming to the question of the relation of banks to the exchange, Mr. Van Antwerp finds that the banks are as necessary to the exchange as the exchange is to the country, and that the exchange also helps the banks by giving them a market for their money in which they are amply protected from loss. "Prevent the banks from lending money to facilitate stock market operations," he says, "and business ceases; interfere with it or hamper it and confidence is impaired, and when these things happen the industrial system collapses in terror."

He does not believe incorporation of the stock exchange would be an improvement, but that it would be a decided detriment. Under the present arrangement, he points out, the exchange exercises full control over its members and their affairs. If it were incorporated it would have no such power. And this, he believes, would be sure to lead to trouble.

Panics, Mr. Van Antwerp declares, are unavoidable. Nothing can be done that will prevent them. He says "it is idle to talk of a time when panics shall cease, because confidence and enterprise must ever push onward, speculation in material things must accompany them, supply must overtake demand, and human nature with its moods and caprices must finally pay toll." Further, he sees panics as much mitigated calamities, which "serve to place automatic checks upon extravagance and inflation, restoring prices to proper levels and chastening the spirit of over-optimism."

Dealing particularly with the panic of 1907, the author denies flatly that it was caused by or bred in Wall Street, asserting rather that it was forecasted by Wall Street, but that the people failed to heed the stock exchange's plain warning. Indeed, he denies that it is within the power of Wall Street or any other group of men anywhere to bring about such conditions. In this connection he pays his respects to Theodore Roosevelt as one whose untimely words wrought up the popular mind to a point at which the panic was made even more certain than it had appeared to Wall Street. As to the bankers having anything to do with it, he says:

"People who talk of New York bankers as a cause of the panic of 1907 or any other panic are blind to the fact that any disturbance of normal conditions is the one thing that bankers would avoid as they would avoid the plague."

He closes his book with some interesting comparisons of the stock exchanges of New York, London and Paris.

Romance, Socialism, Etc.

COMRADE YETTA. By Alberi Edwards. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.35 net.

If anybody doubts that the East side in New York city contains ample material for novel-writers, let him dip ever so slightly into this story and he will be convinced of his mistake. The trouble is that Mr. Edwards has allowed his Socialism to warp his story-telling power, and so has strayed far afield in the course of his novel. If he wished to write a treatise on Socialism and trade unionism he should have left some of Yetta's story out of it. If he wished to write of Yetta, he would have done far better to have omitted, or at least have reduced by some 99 per cent, the paragraphs here given over to debate and dialogue on the merits of socialism and other doctrine. He allows his characters to indulge in too much of that kind of thing, and when they once get started they never know when to stop.

And yet there are some things in the book that ought not to be missed. The descriptions of life in the sweatshops are appalling, yet they have been duplicated over and over again in statistical form, in which they fail to take the same hold on the reader that they do when he sees Yetta actually working in such surroundings.

Then there are some pictures of the way the white slave trade is built up that are wonderfully forceful, and explain a good deal more of the real difficulty, one is bound to believe, than the O'Hara commission in Illinois came anywhere near getting at. Edwards also does some excellent work in his account of the early relations between Yetta and her husband.

But that "Comrade Yetta" will be much of a success as a novel is hardly to be expected, since Mr. Edwards himself virtually abandons that character of writing before he finishes the book, and allows it to turn into a tract on Socialism. With his knowledge of East side conditions and people, it is rather too bad that he did not keep the tem feature more in the background. His work would be infinitely more readable to the average person, and much more convincing and far-reaching, than it is with its present controversial tendencies.

Another Farnol Story.

THE AMATEUR GENTLEMAN. By Jeffery Farnol. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.40 net.

Nobody who read "The Broad Highway," Farnol's novel, that made such a striking success two years ago, could pick up "The Amateur Gentleman," read a single page anywhere in the book, and make a wrong guess as to the identity of the author. Farnol has a style that is unmistakable, and the quality of his characters is equally distinctive. He does not gush over them, but he makes them plain and he makes us understand them and their circumstances and their motives.

In this connection it is interesting to note the difference in motive of his chief characters in these two novels. In "The Broad Highway" the hero sets out from home because he has been disappointed in not getting an inheritance to which he had believed he had a right to look forward. In this second novel Barnabas Barnes leaves his home and goes to London because he has inherited an unexpected fortune and he wishes to become a gentleman. Being a son of John Barty, ex-champion of the English prize ring, and still living in England, it is easily understood that Barnabas had something of a task before him. But he tackles it full of confidence and hope and with a fat bank account, and finally is convinced that he has "arrived."

There is much in the book that falls below the standard of the earlier novel. There are chapters that, it is certain, the author would have changed materially had he taken more time to the work. The action drags seriously in places, and if the last half dozen chapters had been compressed into two of minimum length the reader would lay the book down with much better satisfaction. The story is not particularly new. A husky young man using his fists on the way to general recognition as a man is an old theme. But there are some few quaint and new characters introduced. The style is unmistakably the same as that in which Farnol won his former success. But "The Amateur Gentleman," however interesting in plot and characters, is not in the same class with "The Broad Highway," though it might be made very nearly, if not quite, in that class by some hard and careful work on the part of the author.

In the World of the Bohemians.

THE IMPOSSIBLE BOY. By Nina Wilcox Putnam. Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.35 net.

This is both a tale of the open road and a rushing, rollicking novel of big, breezy, bustling New York. Gypsies and artists, society folk, reckless Bohemians, bold conspirators and one performing bear in particular (for there are several more or less important Bruins in the story) unite to keep things pacing down the road to Arcady. From the carefree, airy life of the wandering gypsies along the highway you are carried to the strangest, gayest spot in Gotham's fascinating Bohemia, where life knows no rules and is confined by no logical standards. It's an escapade, a joyous adventure to live in this wonderful world that Nina Wilcox Putnam has created in this captivating novel.

Romance of the Rebellion.

WAR, OR WHAT HAPPENS WHEN ONE LOVES ONE'S ENEMY. By John Luther Long. Illustrated by N. C. Wyeth. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.30 net.

It is just fifty years since the events occurred which form the basis of John Luther Long's notable new novel, "War"—fifty years since Gettysburg. He has not written of the tragic battlefield—but of ruddy hearths and rustic homes in a quaint setting of rural Maryland. And he has in mind not merely the war between the states, but a war of loves and loyalties and temperaments. Perhaps you know "what happens when one loves one's enemy." Perhaps the dedication includes you:

"To him who loves the woman—
Who loves someone else.
And, to the woman!"

So Mr. Long's "War" has a meaning for men and women of today. There are stirring battle scenes and incidents of unflinching heroism, yet the story remains a touching romance of the war between the states as its effects were felt in the countryside of the border—a romance tenderly retold by a quaint old German, Stephen Vonner—the story of the love of two stalwart Northern brothers for the same beautiful, imaginative, courageous Southern girl. One is held spellbound as he tells of his two sons, David and Jonathan, and their love for each other "passing the love of women"; of the dark-eyed Southern Evelyn and her great and strange sacrifice for the Southland; of the enlisting of the first company in the village; of the glowing appeal of the orator for the "dark, sad-eyed man in Washington"; of hosts of blue and gray hurrying by; of the wedding on the eve of battle; of the bloody fight in the lane.

Historical Romance.

JOHN O' JAMESTOWN. By Vaughan Kester. Illustrated by M. Leone Bracker. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.35 net.

The importance of "The Prodigal Judge" and "The Just and the Unjust" both in literary achievement and in popular success has imparted an extraordinary interest to all of the writings of Vaughan Kester. This has induced the republication of "John O' Jamestown," which on its original issue failed, through publishing accidents, to secure the circulation it deserved. For "John O' Jamestown" is written in that easy, personal, wholly charming manner so characteristic of Kester's later stories, and possesses all of those exceptional literary qualities that made his later books so popular. But it reveals the author moving with sureness and finesse in a new sphere—the happy realm of historical romance—and offers a splendid illustration of Kester's wonderful versatility.

A Travel-Novel Book.

MAGNETIC PARIS. By Adelaide Mack. Illustrated by George Desgins and Charlotte Schaller. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company.

Here is a travel book that every one will read with interest. It is not like the usual run of travel books. It has all the vivacity and snap, all the action and life of a novel. The author tells of Paris as she has seen it—living, driving, rushing, gay, clever, startling Paris. She gives an insight into the life of the native Parisian, the allen-dweller and the tourist that has never been offered before. She tells what nine out of every ten people who go to Paris want to know before they go. And added to the excellent text are more than ninety of the liveliest illustrations seen in a long while, by real Parisian artists.

Among the Magazines.

The Woman's Home Companion in its April number carries on vigorously and picturesquely its great fight for "Better Babies" by reporting the story of a contest just held at Colorado at which prizes were awarded to the finest babies in the state from the standpoint of health. The baby photographs that accompany this article are about as attractive as one could imagine. The April Companion, of course, contains many other interesting and highly useful articles. As for example, "A Healthy Mind in a Healthy Body," by Ralph Waldo Trine; an article by John Phillips Street, pure food commissioner of Connecticut, who shows housewives the importance of reading labels on the goods they buy; "Chickens in the Back Yard," in which Frank A. Waugh, an expert, takes up the subject of raising poultry on a small scale; "The Social Problems of a Girl," in which Christine Terhune Herrick presents some intensely practical and entertaining advice; and a baseball article which will furnish mothers a number of definite ideas about baseball which ought to be told to small boys at the beginning of spring practice.

In Harper's for April, Louise Closser Hale tells amusingly of a visit to the little French town of Montreuil. Coming entirely unknown to the hotel, the author and her husband were soon surprised to find themselves spoken of as Mr. and Mrs. St. James House. The article tells about the simple and laughable explanation. In the same number, Stefansson, the Arctic explorer who discovered "the blonde Esquimaux," tells of the discomforts of summer days in the Far North. The greatest suffering on the entire expedition, instead of from cold, was from the combined heat and mosquitoes of Copper-mine river. In his article on the Lido, the great playground of Venice, Harrison Rhodes gives an amusing picture of the gay life of the place and its curiously cosmopolitan character. James Thompson Bixby tells the story of the fourteen books which the boys of our grandfathers appeared in the Bible between the Old and New Testaments, and are now known as the Apocrypha. Among the interesting stories in this number are: "Pieces of Silver," by Clarence Badington Kelland; "The Little Web Foot," by William Gilmore Beymer; "Betty Bethune," by William John Hopkins; "Mr. Fitch," by James Oppenheim; "Olive's First Story," by Elizabeth Jordan.

One very interesting contribution to the April American Magazine is a report showing exactly how scientific management is working. Now that agitation of the matter has somewhat subsided, definite results have been obtained in factories where the invention has been put into actual operation. One of the cases reported is that of a government arsenal, where, since the adoption of scientific management, the cost of molds to the government, (that is, to the people), has been reduced from $1.17 each to 54 cents. The daily earnings of the molder have been increased from $3.28 to $5.74. "What My Boy Knows" is the title of a remarkable article written by a city father, who, because of what he has found out about his 16-year old, has decided to move away from the city to the country.

The April Ainslee's opens with a fascinating novelette by Kate Trimble Sharber. It is called "Children of the Sun." Under its compelling charm lies an obvious sermon. A doctor sends his patients—those under death sentence from overwork—to a beautiful, sunny, hilltop home, to spend their last days in absolute renunciation of worldly ambitions. This brings together a coterie of clever, diverse, and vitally interesting people. A dramatic love story runs through the tale like a golden thread. From the first introduction to the hero, the reader feels he is not as ignoble as appearances would indicate. And he isn't.

Taken altogether, Lippincott's Magazine for April is a characteristic and delightful number, maintaining all the excellencies of old-time reputation. The complete novel is a story of love and mystery, entitled "Don't Trifle With Money." Once started, it catches you in the grip of its strong currents and holds you there till the last page is read. A paper of importance is "The Economical Administration of the Campaign Against Tuberculosis," by Dr. Lawrence F. Flick. W. Dayton Wegefarth, a theater-manager, discourses amusingly on "The Passion for Passes." Edward Sherwood Mead contributes a financial article on "Industrial Preferred Stocks." "The Epoch-Making Auto," by George Allan England; "When Not to Tip," by Littell McClung; "Capitals," by W. T. Larned; and "Are Theater Prices Too High?" by Robert Grau, are brief but interesting papers to be found in the department "Ways of the Hour."

The Keramic Studio for April has an odd but unique color design of Pompano Fish for bonbonniere. Other studies in black and white, are an acorn pattern for nut bowl, both in and outside, designs for soup bowl, honey jar and cover, marmalade jar, plates, etc., with treatments for all. One, an Egyptian motif for a vase, is very pretty, and something out of the ordinary. Each number of the Studio grows more interesting with its numerous studies and treatment for same.

Readers of Conan Doyle's last book, "The Lost World," will be glad to renew their acquaintance with the redoubtable Prof. Challenger and his fellow explorers, Lord John Roxton, Prof. Summerlee and E. One of the leading articles in the April Wide World Magazine is Maj. Hans Schomburgk's description of his "Quest of the Pigmy Hippo." The pigmy hippotamus is believed to be the rarest creature in captivity today, and until Maj. Schomburgk penetrated into the dense Liberian forests and swamps and succeeded in bringing back to civilization living specimens of these strange creatures, they had never been shot or even seen, by white hunters. The article is profusely illustrated with striking photographs of pigmy hippos taken in their natural environment.

"The Bargain Counter," by Nalbro Bartley, opening novelette in Young's Magazine for April, deals with a problem which often confronts the young and gifted man or woman who is forced by poverty to battle against the forces of the world. Shall the brilliant but impecunious youth, discouraged by a brief struggle in the realm of commerce, flatter a wealthy, unloved woman into supporting him? Shall the beautiful but penniless girl seek the bargain counter of life, there to barter herself for the millions of a decrepit husband?

The April number of the Smart Set marks a decided breaking away from the conventional and formal in American magazines. Under the recent editorship of Willard Huntington Wright, a new spirit seems to have animated this publication—a spirit of genuineness, of sincerity, of fearlessness. Here at last seems to me the sort of magazine that the more civilized readers in America have been wanting for years. Its appeal is frankly to the better class reader, and its contents are not only unusual and unconventional, but reflect a new and vital policy in magazine editing. The April issue is more unusual and will create more comment than any number the Smart Set has ever published.

"The Present Trend In Golf," by Harold H. Hilton, is an article in the April Outing which no golfing enthusiast, whether expert or a tyro, can afford to miss. George M. Johnson has contributed a description of the latest thing in motorcycles, with some account of the development of this little brother of the automobile, and Raymond D. Little in his "Quick Thinking in Tennis" gives some valuable hints on the psychology of the game and how to get the best of one's opponent by "headwork."

A strong story by Richard Harding Davis, called "The Miracle of Las Palmas," opens in the April Metropolitan. Will Irwin has a timely article called "Wilson and the Bull Moose," and Louis Sherwin, the dramatic critic, has some interesting things to say about some of the younger actresses in "Just Arrived!"

President Wilson writes in the World's Work for April, under the title, "Benevolence, or Justice?" his reasons for objecting to commission control of the trusts or to Federal recognition of them at all. William Bayard Hale, in "The Biggest Job on Earth," pictures the colossal size of the Federal government, with its 500,000 employes and its annual expenditure of $1,000,000,000, and shows how the government now touches the life and pocketbook of every American citizen. Leo L. Redding, from a personal interview, records "Mr. F. W. Woolworth's Story"—the rise of a farmer's boy from a clerk in a country store to the control of a chain of Five and Ten Cent stores that do $50,000,000 worth of business a year. "A Farm Revolution That Began in a Greenhouse," is J. G. Pyle's description of J. J. Hill's work to increase the efficiency of Northwestern farmers by 50 per cent through soil analysis and growing tests carried on in the conservatories of Mr. Hill's private residence in St. Paul. Governor Adolph O. Eberhart tells "What I Am Trying To Do" to keep the farmers of Minnesota on the land by making the country schoolhouses centers of social recreation and of practical instruction.

"Reminiscences of an Old-time Cowboy" is the first title in Sports Afield for April, and the writer treats of the real cowboy as many of us have known him in actual everyday life, not of the stereotyped stage or moving picture conception—all hat and "chaps" and six-shooter. At the Lyceum

A more interesting promise of musical delight than that offered by Werba & Luescher in the announcement that Alice Lloyd, most noted of English comediennes, is to come as the star of the much praised new operetta, "The Rose Maid," has rarely been given. Both the dainty star and this important new music piece have become famous.

"The Rose Maid" is another Viennese importation and, like its sister opera, "The Spring Maid," it took New York by storm on its opening night. It is announced for the Lyceum next Monday night.

The authors happily christened "The Rose Maid" in honor of Daphne, the captivating little rose girl who charms the gallant duke of Barchester in the romance that forms the plot of the opera. Daphne wins him from his selfish fiancee, the Princess Hilda, and is finally instrumental in restoring his fortune.

This latest Werba & Luescher success is famous for its many catchy melodies including "Roses Bloom for Lovers," "When Two Little Hearts Beat Together," "The Happy Family," and "The Course of True Love," all of which became whistling favorites during the opera's record-breaking run at the Globe theater, New York.

Reports assert that tradition has been cast to the wind in this latest offering. Both acts are invested with an atmosphere of youth and joyousness that starts with the rise of the first curtain. The first act pictures the magnificent salon of the truly regal town house of the young duke of Barchester. There is a gay revel to celebrate the duke's betrothal. The stage is filled with beautifully gowned women and gayly assembled guests. A group of Tivoli dancers flash in and out over tables followed by the merry guests.

In the second act Ostend, the famous Belgium summer resort, is shown with dinner tables dotting the lawn in front of a monster hotel. Guests throng the main entrance of the latter and the picture includes the broad stairway, lined on either side by huge marble pillars, wonderful porches covered with brightly colored awnings. Upstage extend the richly furnished corridors that remind one of the celebrated "Peacock Alley" of the Waldorf-Astoria of New York. The climax of this act is a great cavalry tournament in which gayly uniformed cavalrymen and women of all nations participate in a kaleidoscopic scene of color and action.

Werba & Luescher announce their famous New York singing organization headed by Alice Lloyd, the most important prima donna light opera has known in this country, with Juliette Lange, Ida Van Tine, Jeannette Bagard, Arthur Clough, Edwin Clark, Harry Lester Mason, Leo Stark, Harley Knoles, H. Tyler Brooke and the little group of "Kute Kiddies," the "Rose Maid" orchestra and the "Rosebud Garden of Glorious Girls," making the largest light opera organization of the present theatrical season.

Gus Hill's production of Bud Fisher's peculiar character creations, "Mutt and Jeff," is claimed to be entitled to the well worn and oft used expression "The most talked of play of the year." This is one instance when a play, or at least the inspiration for a play of the same title, was immensely popular before it was ever written. The "Mutt and Jeff" cartoons now running in hundreds of daily newspapers throughout the United States, have reached a point of popularity never before achieved by any other series of cartoons in the history of journalism. A few off-hand dashes of a piece of chalk in the hands of a clever artist has made two continents indulge in a daily "laugh fest." Gus Hill is sending to the Lyceum on next Thursday for an engagement of three days with a Saturday matinee, a company of fifty people, especially fitted to present "Mutt and Jeff" in a musical comedy form. It is openly acknowledged by all that this is the real novelty production of the current year. Much is expected by admirers of Fisher's peculiar studies.

William H. Crane, who is booked for an early appearance here in his newest hit, "The Senator Keeps House," opened the most extensive tour he has made in years in the East the latter part of September. By the time the tour ends in June Mr. Crane will have covered every section of importance in America and will also make his first visit to the Pacific coast in several years.

At the Orpheum

Next week the "Talkies" will reign in Duluth by way of the Orpheum.

Probably no invention of recent years has caused the widespread interest and amazement that this latest triumph of the wizard Edison has, and Duluth has eagerly awaited, with the rest of the country, the opportunity of enjoying the wonder. Certainly it would seem that the seven wonders of the world would of necessity be revised or increased in number to include this triumph of Thomas A. Edison's inventive genius.

The talking motion pictures are a perfect combination of two of Edison's former products, the motion picture and the phonograph. The new marvel simultaneously projects sound and motion producing an effect that is truly wonderful.

"I've been working on the invention for twenty-five years," said Mr. Edison recently in speaking of his invention to a representative of the Kansas City Star. "At least I began to do desultory work upon it that long ago. For six years I have been working at it day and night. It was my aim from the beginning to so perfect motion pictures that they would exactly simulate the stage and indeed real life in words, sounds, as well as motion.

"Now there were several difficulties confronting the perfecting of the invention. First, to synchronize both motion picture machine and phonograph so that each word spoken by the actor on the screen should be exactly contemporaneous with his appropriate action. This presented several difficulties; ordinarily the speaker must talk right into the horn of the recording phonograph. But I found that I must have a recording medium of sufficient sensitiveness to make an accurate record at a distance of forty feet; otherwise, the recording phonograph would show in the motion picture."

That every difficulty was overcome has been proved to those who have already been interested, entertained and marveling admirers of the invention. The Edison motion talking pictures are destined to completely revolutionize the amusement world, as through it eventually the greatest theatrical and operatic stars and productions, the discourses of the greatest scientists, statesmen and politicians may be heard and seen in the remotest hamlet, or preserved for posterity.

Here is the way the Kansas City Star man tells about the invention:

"But what is the kernel of the invention?' queried the visitor, too curious to await developments.

"'It is the absolute synchronization of the movements in the motion pictures with appropriate sounds,' replied the wizard, as the lights went out, 'and that whether it be the human voice or—'

"Just then there burst upon the ear the opening strains of 'Il Trovatore.' Not in the harsh metallic timber of the phonograph, but clear, clean and resonant, as from an orchestra, many toned and perfectly balanced. The next instant there flashed upon the screen the opening scene of the great opera. From the crowded stage came the full-throated voices of the singers, blended in perfect harmony with the orchestra.

"Rising, swelling and sinking in cadence, all in faultless rhythm with every motion and gesture of the picture singers, the mingled music of voice and orchestra floated forth from that picture stage in an illusion that held the visitor spellbound. Not a false or harsh note! Not a single, ill-timed movement, nor a belated gesture from a single one of all that life-like throng; gathered there on the platform stage; but all in perfect keeping—perfect beyond perfection—with the strains of voices and instruments.

"But what struck him as strangest as he sat there trying to collect his scattered wits while the great opera proceeded to its tragic end, was the magical modulation of the sounds. The absence of any rasping, phonographic metallism was wonderful enough. The perfect coincidence of gesture, with the appropriate words, was marvelous indeed. But by what magic was it that the voices of the singers were trained so delicately as to be in keeping with every position they took, whether up—or down—stage; whether with backs or faces to the front?

"The modulations of melody and harmony of voices and orchestra, so different from the screeching of some phonographs, with their dull, flat monotony of timber, were reproduced with an exactness and reality worthy of a finished opera troupe."

The remainder of the bill has in no way been slighted in the interest of the new invention. Bob Mathews and Al Shayne will appear the entire week in an act which they call a tabloid fantasy, "A Night on the Bowery." The audience is first shown a picture of the famous district and Mathews as a dreaming wreck who has with the aid of a drug just wafted himself to scenes of bliss, and Mr. Shayne, as a typical East side Hebrew, but adds to the realism of the scene's setting. Songs and parodies and jokes combine what has been termed a most pleasing act.

Harry De Coe is the man with the tables and chairs and he thinks nothing of holding two heavy chairs at arm's length while seated on another which is balanced on a broomstick, the other end of which rests on two other chairs that are placed on top of a table. This is one of De Coe's simplest feats of balancing and when he gets on top of four chairs piled on as many tables the audience does its unconscious best to assist him by holding its breath collectively. As an equilibrist, De Coe is without a peer.

The Chadwick Trio which will also be a part of next week's bill are well known vaudeville performers and Ida May Chadwick, "The Hee Haw Girl," is known to vaudeville patrons the country over. The trio consists of the Hee Haw Girl and father and mother. The name of their sketch this year is "For Sale, Wiggins' Farm." Ida May Chadwick is a buck and eccentric dancer of much ability, having won a ring and a medal, which testifies to that ability.

Irene Bercseny, billed as "The Hungarian Gypsy Queen," is making her first tour of America. The cymbal is her instrument, which is said to have much the same appearance as a xylophone, but a quite different and individual tone. "The Hungarian Gypsy Queen" is assisted by Yoska, violinist, and some pleasing melody results.

The Five Hursleys, three men and two women, have just returned from a European tour and for rapidity and height gained in their work of lofty somersaulting, they have few rivals. They will be seen on next week's bill.

Johnny Johnson, who will be a performer on next week's bill, will give the entire overture of "The Poet and the Peasant," with comedy words of his own, in a manner that has immensely pleased vaudeville audiences throughout the country. This act should most satisfactorily provide the musical balance of the bill.

With the eclat and abandon of the Spanish dancer, Clara Ballerin whirls on to the stage for her act of trapeze work and swinging. The act is prettily costumed and set and the performer is said to be versatile and talented.

The regular numbers by the Orpheum concert orchestra will complete the week's bill which will be presented every afternoon and evening of this week, beginning with the Sunday matinee. The heavy advance sale indicates that the "talkies" will pack the theater all week.

At the Empress

The announcement that Duluth will see one of America's most popular comedians, Max Bloom, in the musical farce "The Sunny Side of Broadway," at the Empress for one whole week commencing Sunday matinee and giving three performances a day, will awaken more than the customary anticipation of enjoyment among the patrons of the Empress, inasmuch as this is one of the notable tabloid successes of the season. It is a performance in which thirty comedians, singers and dancers take part. Wherever "The Sunny Side of Broadway" has been presented it has made a hit of the kind which is talked about for a long time, not only on account of the clever comedy interpretation of Max Bloom, but because of the fine quality of the entire ensemble and the beauty of the scenery and electrical effects which cost many thousands of dollars. The costumes are creations of the Parisian dressmakers' art, and many stunning gowns are worn by the young women in the cast.

Terese Miller is with Norman Friedenwald's "A Girl from Dublin," which broke all records at the Family theater at Moline, Ill., last week, getting notices that make other tabloid folks envious. The show was a hit from the very start. It began its tour at the Americus, in Chicago, and the attaches of that house still speak of it as the best show that has played that theater. It is coming to the Empress for the week of April 20.

Minnie Palmer's tabloid musical show, "Running for Congress," an attraction holding all laughing records in other cities, comes to the Empress soon. It is an exhilarating frolic and is claimed to be the best musical entertainment ever presented in this section of the country at popular prices. It waives aside all the combinations of the same character over seen in the South. There is a chorus of pretty girls who chirp melodiously; there is a bunch of comedians who follow rattling good songs with amusing stunts; there is a bevy of principals who display talent of a high order and there is scenery that pleases the eye.

No musical show ever written has ever contained as many song hits as the "Time, Place and Girl," which will be seen soon in tabloid form at the Empress theater. Everybody remembers the song hits, "I Don't Like Your Family," "Thursday is my Jonah Day," "Blow the Smoke Away," and "Don't You Tell." Besides these universal hits which originated in this production at the La Salle theater, Chicago, a couple of big novelty numbers have been added.

No play ever presented at the La Salle opera house, Chicago, with the possible exception of the "Time, Place and Girl" has ever achieved the success that the "Girl Question" has. The "Girl Question" in tabloid form is the same big success as it was originally. It has a beautiful story which retains the interest of all throughout an hour and a quarter performance. It is also rich with comedy and musical situations. The cast is claimed to be the best of all tabloid musical comedies.

Raymond Paine (late star of the "Candy Kid") and Mae Taylor (featured with "Louisiana Lou") are the most prominent in the cast.

The production was staged by Al Laughlin who was stage director at the La Salle opera house, during the run of the "Girl Question."

The costumes and production are lavish and in keeping with the general excellence of the piece.

Empress Notes.

The tabloid musical shows, which have proved such big money getters for managers in the Middle West and South, will go West this summer, but on a different basis from that first arranged. Instead of opening at the Tabor Grand, in Denver, this week, as proposed by Boyle Woolfolk, the initial date has been set back six weeks and the opening arranged for Duluth, Empress. Instead of six shows and six weeks' time, it has been arranged that fifteen or twenty companies will make the trip and that they will guarantee fourteen weeks, with railroading from the Missouri river to the coast and back to the Missouri river.

Rube Welch and Kittie Frances, in "The Frolics of 1912," were originally scheduled to lead the shows West. When the Cort time was put back Dick Allardt busied himself, and as a result, the Majestic, in Indianapolis; the Hippodrome in Omaha; the La Salle in St. Louis; and other houses play the shows for the six weeks postponed by the new contract with John Cort. "The Frolics" went into Indianapolis, but the floods made it impossible to get any line on what business may be expected. It was the same in Omaha, where a cyclone tore up the city on the night following a successful opening.

Tabloids had their first showing at the Ashland, in Chicago, last week, and the venture was a very successful one, Harry Lewis' "The Country Girl," with Marjorie Lake in the title role, was the attraction. It is a dandy laughing show, and caught on fine there. T. Dwight Pepple's "The Girl From Maxim's" is the current attraction at the Ashland, booked just as soon as it was seen that "The Country Girl" had caught on. This company has been out some time, playing Eastern territory, and appeared first in Chicago, at the Franklin, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

A test is to be made of the drawing powers of the tabloids in one-night cities, and Ned Alvord selected Norman Friedenwald's "The Girl From Dublin" as being one of the attractions surest to please. Frank Mohara consented to pilot the company, and reports a splendid outlook in the cities of Wisconsin.

Hattie Kirschner, a violinist, has made such a big hit with "Along Broadway," that she almost ties Will Stanton for honors. She is averaging as many as eight encores, which shows what a happy selection of talent can do for an attraction.

William Gross, of Gross and Jackson, who plays the politician in "Running For Congress," is scoring a big success with that company, which is now on the Thielen time.

Charles Le Roy is directing the rehearsals of "I Should Worry," the latest offering of the Inter-State Amusement company, and those who note his progress speak in his praise of his ability and of the merits of the attraction now rehearsing at the Westminster hotel on the North side, Chicago, Ill.

"Lower Berth, No. 13," in which Armour Deming is featured, played Blue Island the early part of this week, and is now at the Red Mill theater, in Vincennes, Ind.

One of the first offerings of the Interstate Producing company, for next season will be, what will be styled, "A Society Circus." It will be a review in which some prominent society woman of every city played will appear. There will be contracts signed in advance, by which some well known singer or speaker will appear during the engagement of the attraction in her home city.

Sarah Bernhardt's farewell appearance in America will be made at the Palace theater in a few weeks. Mme. Bernhardt's tour, which has been an immensely successful one, will end shortly. She will then come to the Palace, where she will remain until taking the steamer for Paris. The management of the Palace is making an effort, also, to place Ruth St. Denis under contract for an engagement of a week or more.

One of the first sailings booked by any well-known American actress this season is that of Miss Marie Doro, who will leave for Europe the end of May to see foreign performances of two plays, in one of which she will be presented in America by Charles Frohman next season.

Philip Bartholmae's musical comedy, "When Dreams Come True," which opened at the Garrick, Chicago, Sunday, is booked to come into the Lyric, New York, Aug. 18.

In spite of the fact that Werba and Luescher not so long ago forfeited the American rights of "Der Fidele Bauer" ("The Jolly Peasant"), they have renewed their interest in the musical piece and will give it a production late next fall. To this end they yesterday made a contract with David Bispham, the noted baritone of grand opera and the concert stage, to star in it. The score of "Der Fidele Bauer" is by Leo Fall, the book by Victor Leon. At various times several managers have disclosed an inclination to produce it, but thus far it has remained unknown to the American public except as given by the German Theater company in Cincinnati.

At the conclusion of the engagement of "Liberty Hall" at the Empire theater John Mason will return to his love of the early season, "The Attack." On April 14 he will restore that play to the stage at the Broad Street theater, Philadelphia. This means that "Liberty Hall" is to be allowed a run of five weeks at the Empire.

Raymond Wells is to be the Cassius in Tyrone Power's production of "Julius Caesar." After years of valuable training in stock companies and road organizations, he had the opportunity to join E. H. Sothern, and appeared with him for a season, afterward appearing in "The Road to Yesterday." In addition to this he has had several successful engagements with English companies.

Francis Wilson's "The Spiritualist" has gone into the storehouse. John Cort's name was linked with the production, but it is believed Wilson lost the greater part of the money expended in its presentation. "The Lady From Oklahoma" succeeded it at the Forty-eighth Street theater.

It is rumored that William Collier will return to the management of Charles Frohman next season. Collier has been playing with Lew Fields as his presenter for some seasons. It is said Mr. Fields offers no objection to Mr. Collier taking the step.

"Le Minaret," by Jacques Richepin, has just been produced by his wife, Cora Laparcerie, new lessee of the Renaissance theater, enjoying a fair reception.

Henry W. Savage has refused to release "Everywoman," "Madame X" and several of his other productions for picture purposes. When they have exhausted their road and stock value there may be a chance.

A. G. Delamater has secured from Channing Pollock his play, "The Inner Shrine," from the novel of the same title. The piece will have a spring production out of town and will later be brought to New York.

In the Broad Street theater (Nixon and Zimmerman, managers, Philadelphia), George Arliss and company in "Disraeli" gave a benefit performance for the Ohio flood sufferers Tuesday, April 1. The entire proceeds, consisting of $600, were wired by George H. Atkinson, acting manager of the company, to Col. M. L. Wilson, Ohio flood relief commissioner, Columbus, Ohio, early in the afternoon before the performance was over so that the funds were in the hands of those for whom they were intended during the actual presentation of the play.

During Lillian Russell's Boston engagement the big organ in Symphony hall was used to play the incidental music for the kinemacolor pictures illustrating her lecture on "How to Live 100 Years," which led a wag to suggest the following program of appropriate selections:

Overture, "The Hymn of 100 Years;" awakening scene, "Rise Up, William Riley;" bag-punching scene, "Throw Him Down, McCloskey;" hair-brushing scene, "Silver Threads Among the Gold;" Lillian Russell poses, "Come Down, My Evening Star."

N. B.—The wedding march will be omitted by request, since Miss Russell declines to respond to any more encores.

Eugene Walter's claim that he alone is entitled to the credit of writing "Fine Feathers" received the judicial O. K. of the supreme court last week, when Justice Cohalan denied an application of Walter Hackett, a playwright, for an injunction restraining Walter and Harry H. Frazee from producing the play unless they mention Hackett's name as co-author. Furthermore, the court held there had been no evidence that Walter had fraudulently deprived Hackett of his rights in the piece.

The Shuberts' production of "The Man With Three Wives" is no more. It died a lingering death and the company has been disbanded.

Miss Geraldine Farrar, the famous opera singer who has the distinction of being mentioned by name in the epoligue of Edward Sheldon's new play, "Romance," which is now being presented under the management of the Messrs. Shubert at Maxine Elliott's theater, attended the performance with a party of friends recently. After the performance, Miss Farrar went back on the stage to meet Miss Doris Keane and William Courtenay, who play the two leading roles in this piece.

The Messrs. Shubert have already begun selecting the cast for the next summer revue at the Winter garden. It will be entitled "The Passing of 1913" and will have its first presentation in June.

Miss Alma Belwin, who is playing the leading ingenue role in "The Five Frankforters" at the Thirty-ninth Street theater, was last seen in "The Passers-By." Before that she was under the management of Cohan & Harris. Miss Belwin is a native of San Francisco.

Miss Roszika Dolly and Monsieur Emile Agoust were at the last moment added to the cast for the all-star revival of "The Beggar Student," which opened at the Casino theater last Saturday. They do the special ballet dance in the palace scene of the second act and are assisted by a large and specially trained ballet. Miss Dolly was until recently in "The Merry Countess" and Monsieur Agoust will be remembered in connection with his appearance at the Winter garden. He was formerly the ballet master at the Alhambra in London.

The following productions are now current at shubert theaters in New York city: Gilbert & Sullivan Opera company star revival of "The Beggar Student" at the Casino; nine-star revival of "The Geisha" at Weber & Field's Forty-fourth Street theater; Sam Bernard in "All for the Ladies" at the Lyric; "The Five Frankforters" at the Thirty-ninth Street theater; "Romance" at Maxine Elliott's; "The Honeymoon Express" at the Winter garder; "Under Many Flags" at the Hippodrome; "Fanny's First Play" at the Comedy, and Emma Trentini in "The Firefly" at the West end.

H. B. Warner of "Alias Jimmy Valentine" fame has registered one of the real successes of the season in Maurice Campbell's production of "The Ghost breaker," a new romantic melodrama by Paul Dickey and Charles W. Goddard. If applause can be counted upon to make a play a success, then this one surely is. Three or more curtain calls are given after each act, the third act in particular being the biggest applause getter, no less than ten curtains being credited to Mr. Warner and his supporting company at nearly every performance.

The story tells of one Warren Jarvis of Kentucky, who ends a feud by killing his enemy in a New York hotel. To escape the law he forces his way into a room in the hotel occupied by a Spanish princess, and is protected by her in consideration of his promise to accompany her immediately to Spain and solve the mystery of her haunted castle, in which vast sums are secreted. Jarvis sails for Spain, and after many thrilling adventures, makes good. He falls in love with the princess and all ends happily.

man has a long description of life and sport in the Southland, but one does not realize its length as he reads.

The leading fiction number in Woman's World for April is the beginning of a two-part story, "The Devil's Tombstone," by the late Charles Major. This is probably Mr. Major's last story to be accepted by any magazine. The illustrations are by C. H. Taffs. Gouverneur Morris' serial, "Under Pressure" is concluded in this number, there is another "Lanagan" story, "The Conspiracy of One," by Edward H. Hurlbut, and a "Golly-Golly Land" story by E. R. Lipsett. Burns Mantle retells the story of the detective play, "The Argyle Case."

We have heard much of the Progressives, but little of the definite philosophy which underlies that movement of protest. The intellectual basis of the movement is explained in the April Atlantic in a surprising article by Brooks Adams, entitled "The Collapse of Capitalistic Government." Mr. Adams believes that owing to the foolish policy of standpatters all barriers which conservatism has placed about property have been overthrown with the exception of the judiciary, and this final defense will be leveled unless in the interests of true conservatism radical reconstruction of the courts be undertaken. "Constantinople in War-Time" is the title of a vivid and interesting paper by H. G. Dwight, long resident in the capital of the Nearer Orient. His descriptions will do much to modify the ordinary reader's notion of the "unspeakable Turk." An important paper in this issue is George P. Brett's article on "Book-Publishing and its Present Tendencies."

The number of a magazine which has contributions from John Galsworthy, Edith Wharton, Price Collier, and Charles Eliot Norton is sure to be interesting and distinguished. The April number of Scribner's Magazine reveals these eminent writers at their best. Galsworthy's serial—"The Dark Flower (The Love Life of a Man)"—leads the number with one of the most idylic English love-stories since Meredith's early chapters of "Richard Feverel." The late Charles Eliot Norton of Harvard knew the most distinguished men of his time and was their intimate correspondent and literary confidant. From his letters and journals there begins in this number a presentation of his "English Friends." Price Collier in "Germany and the Germans from an American Point of View" discusses the imperative necessity of an army for German national life and growth. The text is Bismark's saying, "Without an army, no Germany." In Edith Wharton's serial, "The Custom of the Country," there comes to the front Van Degen, the modern millionaire, who believes that "There is nothing cash won't do."

The Popular Science Monthly for April contains the following articles: "The Influence of Forests Upon Climate," by Prof. Robert DeC. Ward; "Goethe and the Chemists," by Roy Hirshberg, M. D.; "A Soldier's Letter From Shiloh," a hitherto unpublished document written by Maj. Robert Barry; "Three Poets and Their End," by Herman Scheffauer; "From Desks to Benches," by A. Maurice Low. This issue contains the usual editorials, illustrated accounts of current events, including the floods in the Middle West, cartoons, finance, book review, and humor features.

The April Century contains a careful analysis of the Balkan situation by Andre Tardieu, editor of the Revue des Deux Mondes, and of the Bulletin of Foreign News, in the Paris Temps. This diplomatic expert here explains the international chess game that is going on, and tells just what moves the powers are making. Other articles of special interest are Annie Payson Call's "The Spoiling of Servants," in which she offers some helpful suggestions toward solving the housekeeper's most trying problem; "Realism and Reality in Fiction," by William Lyon Phelps, showing that the sum total of true details may be a false picture of life; "In and Near Athens," a brightly colored travel article by Robert Hichens, and two significant chapters of Southern history, "The Aftermath of Reconstruction," by Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, and "How We Redeemed Alabama," by Hilary A. Herbert, secretary of the navy in Cleveland's second administration.

In the April issue of the Engineering Magazine, the leading place is devoted to an illustrated description of the new Los Angeles aqueduct, by Burt A. Heinly. While this aqueduct is not physically or financially as large as some other works prominent in public notice, yet it is very interesting to both the engineer and layman because of its combination of water-supply, irrigation and power uses in a single project, and because of its peculiar topographic setting. Among the other interesting features of the April number may be mentioned a paper by L. F. Loree on the deficient use of freight cars—Mr. Loree states that a "car is in actual train movement less than two hours and a half out of each twenty-four hours," a startling statement. A. Hamilton Church presents his fourth paper on "National Management" by a study on Personal Effectiveness. W. P. Anderson, president of the Ferro Concrete Construction company, describes in great detail the cost-keeping system adopted by that company.

In the issue of Harper's Weekly for April 5 appears an article by John D. Lamson entitled "What Is the Matter With the Currency?" Other articles in this issue are: "The Automobile In Court," by Theodore M. R. von Keler; "That Tired Feeling," by Leonard K. Hirshberg, M. D.; "A Soldier's Letter From Shiloh," a hitherto unpublished document written by Maj. Robert Barry; "Three Poets and Their End," by Herman Scheffauer; "From Desks to Benches," by A. Maurice Low. This issue contains the usual editorials, illustrated accounts of current events, including the floods in the Middle West, cartoons, finance, book review, and humor features.

Climate and Health.

That climate has a powerful influence on man's welfare is evident, when we compare the weakness and indolence of tropical races with the strength and energy of peoples inhabiting the temperate zones; and this difference is apparent in both the physical and mental vigor displayed. It may be true that man, since earliest times, has exaggerated the effect of climate on disease, believing that infections were nearly all air borne; that malaria, yellow fever, small-pox and plague were carried by winds from swamps and other infected grounds, but, nevertheless, climate has a place in both curative and preventive medicine. In considering climate, it is clear that of the four or five elements which must be considered, air is the one of greatest importance; and, as the chemical composition of air differs only slightly in different parts of the world, it must be the physical properties which make for differences in climate. Of the physical properties—temperature, pressure and movement, as well as humidity present—the important factor is temperature; bearing, as it does, such a close relation to both pressure and humidity. Temperature of the air affects man in two ways—through the effect on the skin nerves, and through them on the whole nervous system, and, by its effect on the volume of oxygen contained in the air that is breathed. The average man requires each twenty-four hours over 360 cubic feet of pure air, containing 20 per cent oxygen, and this amount must be increased where hard labor is done. Cold air contains considerably more oxygen to each cubic foot than warm air, and air at low levels much more than at high altitudes. So, other things being equal, air at sea level, at temperature sufficient to carry a moderate amount of moisture without excessive relative humidity, would appear to be ideal. This would mean temperatures averaging 65 deg., and relative humidity of 50 or 60 per cent. It has been shown recently, however, that air of too even temperature lacks the stimulating effect on the skin nerves which is so necessary to both bodily and mental vigor, and to try to keep oneself in a glass case, to speak figuratively, would only end in disaster, because constant stimulation is necessary for the enjoyment of best health. Only second in importance to air temperature, comes the average amount of sunshine; for sunlight has a mighty influence in the destruction of man's great enemies, germs, as well as exerting a decidedly stimulating effect on general metabolism.

The configuration of the earth and the proximity of large bodies of water play an important part in climate, but mainly on account of difference in temperature and relative humidity. So, in choosing a climate to suit any individual who may be suffering from disease, the mean temperature is of first importance, the average amount of sunlight second, and the relative humidity third. After these are considered, the aesthetic surroundings of the locality are of some import, especially in cases of nervous disease, where the mind as well as the body requires treatment.

The diseases for which change of climate is most frequently prescribed are lung and kidney diseases, and in the former class tuberculosis takes first place. Within recent years, however, it has been found that beginning tuberculosis can be treated and cured in climates which may be found anywhere in the temperate zones, and at sea level air pressure, just as satisfactorily as in high altitudes or warm temperatures.

Chronic kidney disease with its accompanying heart and blood vessel lesions, on the other hand, may be much benefited by residence in a warm climate with equable temperature; but this is because sudden changes in temperature put a strain on the diseased vascular system, while cold applied to the skin throws an extra burden on the kidneys. For advanced tuberculosis, dry, warm climates having lots of sunshiny days are probably the best, while for beginning cases cool air is of the greatest advantage, provided there is also plenty of sunshine.

The practical point, worth noting for winter use, is: Attempt to make inside air approach as nearly as possible the most desirable climate for any particular malady that may be present; and, when it is simply a matter of keeping well, see that inside air is neither too hot or too dry, but approaches the ideal mentioned above, 65 deg. temperature and 50 or 60 per cent relative humidity.

Questions and Answers.

Wasserman Negative.

J. N. G. wants to know what is meant by the term Wasserman negative.

REPLY.

The Wasserman reaction is a blood test made in the clinical laboratory. When negative it is considered presumptive evidence that there is no active syphilitic disease present in any part of the body. In suspected syphilis, it is usual to make three tests, a week or so apart, and if all are negative it is almost positive proof that the patient has no syphilic taint.

Relative Humidity in Asthma.

W. D. writes: Should the relative humidity of the air be high or low, for a person who suffers from asthma?

REPLY.

About 40 to 50 per cent is quite sufficient in most cases. Too much dry air is irritating to most cases, while an air over moist is too depressing. Each case must be studied on its own account.

Consumption and Humidity.

J. H. R. writes: In the advanced stages of consumption, is it advisable that the patient breathe a moist air? I have been reading your talks on humidity with some interest and have bought a hygrometer. My wife has advanced tuberculosis of the lungs, and believing that the air in the house should be kept moist. I have attempted to keep relative humidity up to about 70 per cent. She, however, says that the air feels uncomfortably damp. Please inform me what would be right for both temperature and humidity.

REPLY.

Advanced cases of tuberculosis, where there is no implication of the larynx and the expectoration is profuse, always do better in comparatively dry air, but it should be fresh and cool. Relative humidity of 30 or 40 and room temperature of 65 or 66 would be about right for such a patient. Care should be taken, however, to see that sufficient clothes are worn, so that there is no chilling or discomfort, and she should sleep with head in a window tent, so that all night long she will breathe outside air, while the body rests in a comfortably aired room. In cases where the throat becomes infected, the breathing of moist air is of great advantage and then 65 or 70 per cent humidity is not too much.

Polyneuritis.

Reader inquires: What is a polyneuritis and what is it caused from most frequently?

REPLY.

Polyneuritis is an affection of several of the nerve trunks, producing great pain at first, and consequently more or less permanent paralysis. It is caused from some poison circulated in the blood. Occasionally this may be rheumatic poison, but it is much more frequently alcohol, taken by the patient as a beverage, in small but continuous quantities.

CHILDREN IN FIVE DULUTH SCHOOLS ARE LEARNING TO GOVERN THEMSELVES UNDER COMMISSION PLAN

A Girl Police Chief and a Husky Truant Officer at Whittier School---"Welfare Board" Keeps Backward Students in Line---Girl "Mayor" in West Duluth.

COMMISSION OF WHITTIER SCHOOL IN SESSION. —Photos by Gallagher.

WILLIAM SHEARER,
Truant Officer, Whittier School.

EARL ROBERTS,
Mayor, Whittier School.

ELLEN JOHNSON,
"Husky" Police Commissioner, Whittier School.

Duluth children are learning by experience to be good citizens. They are learning the uses and abuses of the ballot, the duties and the privileges of citizenship and the joys and difficulties of officeholding.

In at least five Duluth schools, self government is exercised by the students, and the principals and teachers who have had experience with it declare that the discipline is more rigid and enforced with greater satisfaction all around than was ever the case before.

The boy who thinks it "smart" to "put something over" on the teacher or principal will think twice before incurring the displeasure of his fellow-pupils charged with the maintenance of discipline. Experience has proved that the great majority of students are proud of self-government and jealous of their privileges of making and enforcing their own rules of conduct. The boy or girl who jeopardizes those privileges is taking chances on incurring penalties that are more wounding than physical punishment.

Fundamentally the self-government plans in the five schools are very similar. As the Duluth city government is by the commission, the commission plan has been adopted by the schools as most instructive for the children, and most efficient in its operation. The children elect their own officers, and keep rigid control over them. Twice in this school year the recall has been exercised in Duluth schools, once at the Whittier and once at the Ely. In each case the commissioner involved had not lived up to the standards of conduct required of the great body of the students, and summary action was taken to obtain commissioners who would by their own conduct inspire respect for their rules from others.

In Five Schools.

The schools in which self-government is in operation are the Whittier, Bryant, Longfellow, Ely and Industrial high school. In each school the principal acts in a supervisory position, but there is little need for direction from the teachers. The students know what is required of them, and they often go to lengths in discipline that the teachers would hesitate to attempt.

In each case, the commissioners elected by the children are held in high respect. The children are proud of their officers and with very few exceptions they uphold their hands in every action.

Down at the Whittier school on Park Point, the self-government plan has been in operation only a few months, but they have been eventful months. The recall has been exercised once, several pupils have been on trial for infractions of the rules, and penalties were inflicted to fit the crime.

The officers are: Earl Roberts, mayor; Ellen Johnson, police commissioner; Helen Murray, finance commissioner; De Witt Durbrow, property commissioner; William Shearer, truant officer; Helmie Christopher, Margaret Neville and Arthur Beatty, welfare board.

Mayor Earl Roberts is a manly young chap, with a broad conception of the duties of his position.

"How do the children like governing themselves?" he was asked.

"They like it all right," he said. "We don't have any trouble getting them to mind our rules. We're all working together, anyway."

Girl Policeman.

Ellen Johnson, the police commissioner, is one of the smallest girls in the upper grades. The idea of feminine rule doesn't seem to be unpopular at the Whittier. In fact, Ellen was elected police commissioner by an overwhelming majority, and it is a hardy student who would attempt to get away from her influence. She's a little mite with a big mind, and she doesn't tolerate what the children call "funny work."

Ellen has a police force that inspires awe, as well as respect for the department. It is headed by William Shearer as truant officer. William is a real truant officer. When one of the children fails to show up at school for a day or so, he visits the home and finds out what's wrong. If it's a case of delinquency on the part of the pupil, the truant officer soon remedies it. If the parents are at fault, he reports to the police commissioner and she to the principal. William has the physique to go with the job, and his energy has almost wiped out truancy at the Whittier.

The work of the welfare board at the Whittier is worthy of note, not only for its actual accomplishment, but for the example it sets to other schools. The welfare board is what its name implies—it is organized for the school welfare, and that includes the holding of students up to educational standards. The board has taken several backward pupils in hand and has brought them to a state of efficiency in studies by careful and sympathetic coaching. The members of the board are greatly interested in their work and have shown themselves always willing to help a backward pupil.

"Hall discipline is enforced entirely by Ellen Johnson's force and the teachers have been relieved of a great burden," said Miss Susan House, principal of the Whittier. "The children have a great respect for the officers they elected and the officers have great respect for their positions. The result is a school spirit that is more effective in maintaining discipline than any supervision by teachers outside of the school rooms."

A Girl Mayor.

Just as a little girl wields the power of the police commissioner at the Whittier, so did feminine grace win its way to power at the Industrial high school. Agnes Keller is mayor and thus far during her administration the children have made no complaint on feminine domination.

The Industrial high school commission consist of eight members besides the mayor. The others are: Mabel Mellin, Esta Crosby, Vivian Nichols, Edwin Pearson, Harry Randall, John Davis, Charles Nichols and Erland Larson.

The officers are subject to the initiative, referendum and recall, so that the students have absolute power. The supreme court is headed by Principal S. A. Foster and it passes on all bills passed by the council in order to determine their constitutionality and conformity with the rules of the board of education. The children administer their own government, enforce their own rules and inflict their own penalties.

Roy Winness is mayor of the Longfellow school government and his official staff consists of the following: Alvin Peterson, chief of police; Wesley Perrin, park commissioner; Cecil McLyman, clerk. The school also has a court of nine judges with Frank Martin as chief justice.

Harry Nyman is mayor of the Ely school and the commissioners are George Bothwell, Leo Kramer, Carl Johnson and Ralph Secley. The board is elected by the students and has absolute charge of hall and yard discipline. The council meets every Thursday afternoon to transact business. On petition of 10 per cent of the students any officer may be recalled and the school also has the initiative and referendum.

The Bryant school also has a junior republic, with the officers elected by the students.

In all five schools the teachers say that the system has worked out well, not only in the maintenance of discipline, but in the cultivation of a school spirit. The "honor" system has prevailed and children formerly frequent violators of school rules have become model pupils through their respect for the government of which they are a part.

Aside from the immediate result in discipline of the schools, the pupils learn to appreciate what self-government means. The government is even closer to them than is the government of his city to the ordinary citizen, for they come into contact with their officers every day, and in simplified form they are learning the functions of government in the most impressive manner—by actual experience.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. LATE KING GEORGE OF GREECE

Particularly Averse to Being Under Surveillance of Detectives and Frequently Eluded Them---Incident of His Unaffected Kindliness.

Paris, April 12.—The late King George of Greece was particularly averse to being under the surveillance of detectives, and he often derived amusement, when traveling abroad, in concealing his movements from the men who were asigned to watch and protect him from just such attacks as resulted in his death at the hands of an assassin at Salonika last month.

French detectives tell many stories of the king's devices to elude them. It was his majesty's custom to go every year to Aix-les-Bains for the waters, and the French government always charged itself with the responsibility for his safety. The king would, from time to time seek out the men charged with his protection and expostulate on the futility of following him. The answer always was an apology, coupled with the explanation that the orders of superiors had to be obeyed.

One day at Aix-les-Bains King George was walking along the road up Mount Revard when he noticed two men of the Paris political police shadowing him. Here was an opportunity to play the sleuths a trick. The king entered a little roadside wine shop, placed his hat, stick and gloves on the sill of an open window, sat down at a table just out of sight of the window, and ordered a glass of beer. In a few moments he slipped quietly out a back door, pulled out of his pocket a cap to take the place of the hat he had left behind, climbed a fence, and got away unnoticed.

The watchers soon discovered their mistake and began at once a search for the trail. They found the king three hours later talking to some wood choppers on the high cost of living.

Caught the Canary.

The tragic death of King George has brought out many other reminiscenses of this democratic monarch. Another is centered in a photograph which shows the king climbing over the seats of a railroad passenger car in an endeavor to catch a canary bird fluttering against the roof.

The scene took place in the express from Paris to Frankfort. An old lady was traveling in company with her pet canary: the door of the cage slipped open, and the bird escaped. The king, traveling incognito, was in the next compartment. Hearing the clamors of the old lady, he came in and after a long chase succeeded in capturing the fugitive bird and restoring it to its delighted owner. In the meantime some one took a snapshot of his majesty.

The little incident is characteristic of the unaffected kindliness and courtesy of the late king.

Do Not Charge Waiters.

Paris restaurant keepers have discontinued the custom of charging waiters from $1 to $2.50 a half a day for the privilege of serving their customers; henceforward waiters may wait for nothing, so far as the owner is concerned, and keep all their tips. This is tantamount to a considerable increase in pay, and waiters today are about their business with cheerful faces.

The waiters' fight for the right to wait for nothing, however, has been a long one and bitterly fought. It took several years of agitation to bring success, the owners capitulating only when they were beaten.

Another concession gained by the men is the right to eat their lunch elsewhere than on the premises. Now a waiter need no longer eat the food he sees prepared in the kitchen and serves for the house; he can go home, or to another restaurant, for his lunches and dinners.

Tuberculosis Decreasing.

Lecturing before the Lyceum Club of France, Prof. Metchnikoff declared that tuberculosis was decreasing, and had been doing so steadily for the last forty years.

This satisfactory state of affairs was particularly noticeable in London, Boston, Copenhagen and Hamburg, the professor said. In the last named city the number of cases has dropped from 24 to 13 per 10,000 inhabitants in eleven years. M. Metchnikoff believes that the unconscious absorption of attenuated virus has a great deal to do with the immunity noticed among persons living in constant contact with centers of infection. Tuberculosis will probably disappear, he said, in the same way as leprosy, which has long ceased to be contagious. That day, however, is a long way off yet, and there is still much work to be done by scientists in the laboratory and physicians in the sick room.

Tricentenary of Le Notre.

Next month will be celebrated with fitting ceremonial the tricentenary of Andre Le Notre, creator of French landscape gardening, who designed the parks of Versailles for Louis XIV, as well as the gardens of most of the royal palaces and noble mansions of the Europe of his day.

A bust of Le Notre by his contemporary, Coysevox, was recently discovered in a dark corner of the old church of St. Roch, in the rue St. Honore. Le Notre was buried in St. Roch, but his ashes were disinterred during the troubled times of the Revolution and scattered to the four winds. This bust, which probably stood over his tomb, will be placed in a prominent place in the Tuileries Gardens, one of his masterpieces, and solemnly inaugurated during the commemorative fetes.

Not a Sinecure.

The post of permanent secretary of the French academy, to which M. Etienne Lamy has just been elected, is by no means a sinecure.

It is the duty of the secretary to organize and supervise the work of the various committees, which every year distribute between $20,000 and $25,000 in literatary prizes; to allot something over $20,000 a year as rewards for meritorious actions; to seek out and offer suitable assistance to authors whose work may be deserving of encouragement, and to devise means of helping numerous hidden talented sufferers, whose pride forbids them to make their hardships known to the world.

One of the permanent secretary's hardest tasks is to read the very considerable number of books which are submitted every year in the various literary competitions fathered by the academy.

MIRROR FOR SKIRTS (OR TROUSERS!)

Woman's Home Companion: "A mirror attached to the inside of the closet door near the floor will be found useful for dressing or dressmaking. The glass measures about eight by fourteen inches and rests on two curtain rod hooks screwed into the door about four inches from the bottom. The upper edge of the glass can be securely fastened by a tack. Much depends upon the angle at which the mirror reflects—the longer the hooks the better the results when the glass is in place."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MINNESOTA RICH STATE

Wealthiest Commonwealth in World, According to State Auditor Iverson.

Citizens Inherit in Name of State Endowment of $250,000,000.

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—Minnesota is the richest state in the Union; it is the richest commonwealth of like character in the world; Minnesota citizens inherit in the name of the state an endowment of $250,000,000; no other state holds in trust for its people such tremendous wealth in natural resources.

These may appear startling statements, but they are borne out by a statement issued by State Auditor Samuel Iverson.

"The Richest State in the World," should be the trade-mark of Minnesota, and this motto should be heralded from coast to coast, according to Mr. Iverson.

Minnesota's astounding wealth is in its public lands. Nearly all of them are dedicated as a personal endowment for its common schools and the university.

Uncle Sam Was Generous.

Figures at the best are dull, but there is romance in those Mr. Iverson has prepared to bear out his statement. They show at a glance how the United States was most generous in setting aside land for the use of the state and the ultimate value of this rich gift in comparison with what others have received. Here is a table taken from the auditor's statement:

States—	Acres in Land Grants.	Total Already Realized.	Acres Unsold.
Iowa	6,384,070	$4,788,817.56	200
Michigan	9,122,093	5,805,459.97	.....
Illinois	6,114,034	1,165,407.32	.....
Wisconsin	6,366,021	4,381,684.41	16,600
Total trust fund, four states		$16,141,369.26
Minnesota	8,473,180	29,743,768.29	2,551,850

Gave Much Land to Railroads.

Prior to 1881 the legislature gave away to railroads and other companies 2,892,961 acres. The proceeds from 500,000 acres granted to Minnesota by the United States for the internal improvement fund, to the amount of $2,360,000, were used to help pay the old railroad bond debt in 1858.

The actual acreage sold prior to Jan. 1, 1913, is 3,228,369 acres. There are now under lease 23,688 acres of iron ore land.

These ore lands are richer than gold mines. A total of 160,000,000 tons are listed now for taxation, which will at least add $40,000,000 to the trust funds.

Millions to Schools.

"It is estimated," said Mr. Iverson, "that the unsold lands, timber and iron ore on undeveloped land will increase the school trust funds to $200,000,000 at the lowest estimate, of which $25,000,000 will belong to the University of Minnesota."

In addition to all this there is undeveloped water power and other natural resources owned by the state for the benefit of its school children estimated to be worth at least $50,000,000.

Some idea of the vast estate held in trust for the people can be gained from the following comparisons.

Unsold land greater than all of Delaware.

Original land grant twice as large as New Jersey.

Ultimate endowment four times the wealth of Harrimann.

Government Owes Minnesota.

In addition to the land now owned by the state the Federal government still owes Minnesota approximately 500,000 acres of rich, fertile soil and this is gradually being patented in the name of the people and in trust for them and their children.

But this is not all. The rapid extension of the iron range has each year developed more wealth in state property and as Mr. Iverson says, "there appears to be no limit to the possibilities."

The statistics given are from the known and developed ore land leases. The state has now 224 leases in force. The estimated royalties from the developed lands reach $50,000,000. The estimated income from the lands leased but not developed is $150,000,000.

From unknown ore bodies owned by the state there is no limit as to what may be derived. Texas is the only other state which approaches Minnesota in the wealth of resources owned by the people. The trust fund in the Lone Star State is, however, but $80,000,000, approximately one-third of that of the heritage of Minnesota.

LATEST ARBOR DAY ON RECORD

Governor Eberhart Urges Minnesotans to Plant Trees on May 2.

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The snow-covered capitol grounds did not deter Governor Eberhart from waxing eloquent yesterday afternoon over the good results from planting trees when he issued the annual Arbor and Bird day proclamation, fixing May 2 as the date, said to be the latest Arbor day in the history of the state.

The governor praises trees and continuing says in part:

"Minnesota has the greatest timber resources of any state east of the Rocky mountains. She is fortunate in having such forests as will leave a splendid stamp on the character of her citizens. The big woods, with its beautiful oak and maple and basswood, met our earliest pioneers. Our pineries, still unconquered, contend with the lumbermen, calling for and developing in them the maximum of human energy and skill. Beyond the pineries lies the dense, dark forests of spruce and cedar and birch and the ruggedest wilderness. Our state, therefore, has the deepest interest in trees.

State Appreciates Forest Problems.

"Minnesota has been progressing toward a better appreciation of her forest problems. She is still making pitifully small provision for protecting and perpetuating the forests which maintain the second industry of the state, and which, without detracting from our agricultural developments, can be made to produce more timber than we are cutting today.

"That the town which man has made may compare with the country God gave, vigilance must be exercised to preserve the native trees, protect the wild flowers and wild birds, the planting of fruit and shade trees, vines and shrubs is necessary to repair in part at least the losses wrought by carelessness, ignorance and greed."

Couderay, Wis., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the special spring election in the newly created town of Edgewater, near here, there were three full town tickets in the field and only twenty-one votes cast. With ten candidates for office on each ticket, every voter was an officeseeker and several were running on all tickets. Now the defeated candidates have taken steps to have the election declared illegal and want another town election.

ENGINES BUMP AT SANDSTONE

Passenger From Twin Cities and Freight Collide—One Woman Hurt.

Sandstone, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local passenger train from the Twin Cities that reaches here at 8:25 p. m. was in collision with a freight engine about 300 feet south of the depot here last night and a bad wreck resulted. Both engines were badly damaged while the fifteen passengers in the one coach were shaken up and one, Mrs. T. C. Lewis, wife of a local druggist injured quite seriously. None of the crews of the two engines was badly injured.

Passenger Without Headlight.

The passenger train was running late and it is said without the headlight lighted. The freight had arrived ahead of the passenger and the freight engineer had uncoupled his engine from the balance of his train on the siding and started down the main line for the roundhouse when his engine crashed into the approaching passenger train consisting of a locomotive, baggage, mail car and passenger coach. The mail car was derailed but the clerk was in another car and was unhurt. The passengers were standing on the platform and in the aisles ready to leave the coach when the collision occurred and all were hurled about, one traveling man saying he felt he was thrown fifteen feet in the air. Several were more or less bruised and cut, Mrs. Lewis being the worst injured. The crews of the trains were ordered to St. Paul today for an investigation. The wrecker from Superior worked all night and got the track ready for traffic about 10 this morning.

How American Women May Keep Faces Young

"The American smart woman ages early, far earlier than the English woman," says Christian Miller, F. C. I., the famous English health expert. She adds that our climate "so exhilarates that you over-exert yourselves and grow old before you know it. That same exhilarating air dries the skin. The skin that lacks moisture grows pale and withered looking and soon forms wrinkles.

"The American complexion" is best treated by applying pure mercolized wax, which causes the faded, lifeless cuticle to flake off in minute particles, a little each day, until the fresh, young skin beneath is wholly in evidence. Every druggist has this wax; one ounce is sufficient. Spread on at night like cold cream, washing it off next morning.

For wrinkles, dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel; bathe the face in this. Immediately every wrinkle is affected, even the deeper lines. Both treatments are remarkable facial rejuvenators.

Hooray! Baby To Rule the House

No Longer Do Women Fear The Greatest of All Human Blessings.

It is a joy and comfort to know that those much-talked-of pains and other distresses that are said to precede child-bearing may easily be avoided. No woman need fear the slightest discomfort if she will fortify herself with the well-known and time-honored remedy, "Mother's Friend."

This is a most grateful, penetrating, external application that at once softens and makes pliant the abdominal muscles and ligaments. They naturally expand without the slightest strain, and thus not only banish all tendency to nervous, twitching spells, but there is an entire freedom from nausea, discomfort, sleeplessness and dread that so often leave their impress upon the babe.

The occasion is therefore one of unbounded, joyful anticipation, and too much stress can not be laid upon the remarkable influence which a mother's happy, pre-natal disposition has upon the health and fortunes of the generation to come.

Mother's Friend is recommended only for the relief and comfort of expectant mothers, thousands of whom have used and recommend it. You will find it on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle. Write to-day to the Bradfield Regulator Co., 130 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a most instructive book on this greatest of all subjects, motherhood.

CLEVELAND'S CORRECTION FARM

Good Opportunities for Prison Labor---Treatment Arouses the Normal Man---Are More Anxious to Go Back and Take Their Places in Society and Industry.

By HARRIS R. COOLEY,
Commissioner of Charities of Cleveland, Ohio.

The correction farm of Cleveland is a part of a great tract of nearly 2,000 acres, or more than three square miles, on which are the tuberculosis group, the almshouse group, and, also, an extensive municipal cemetery to be graded and developed by prison labor. The area is so large and diversified that the almshouse group is a mile and a half from the correction group, and 200 feet higher. Each of the four divisions is distinct on its own estate of 500 acres. In seven years, over 8,000 men have served time out on the farm.

We have found it an especial advantage that the correction farm is a part of a group of four estates comprising the 2,000 acres. It secures the absolute control by the city of a vast environment of more than three square miles. In the colony or almshouse group and the tuberculosis group, there are many who can only do light work. If there is to be furnished a large opportunity for light work in the fields and gardens as a basis for this, there must also be a large amount of rough, heavy work. This can readily be supplied from the strong, hardy men of the house of correction. Thus the institutions supplement each other in the fullest development of the farm.

If there comes as a prisoner an expert carpenter, we can set him to work in the light, airy shops of the correction buildings, making mission chairs and tables for the old people. He is working at his best which is good for him. In addition, he is conscious of adding to the comfort of some aged, or crippled, or sick resident of the farm.

How It Started.

In the spring of 1905, we began in Cleveland the outdoor treatment of crime by taking "trusties" and other prisoners from the city workhouse to our farms, and lodging them in the old scattered houses. Our farmer neighbors were frightened. Our friends prophesized that the prisoners would all run away. The plan worked. Most of the men completed their sentences, giving faithful and willing service. We ourselves have been surprised at times at the results of some of our ventures with these men. The confidence placed in them, the useful work in garden and field, the tonic of the sky and trees developed a new sense of honor, and a common sentiment that it is a mean and cowardly thing to run away from the farm.

A visiting judge said to me: "It is so fine out here, I should be afraid some of the prisoners would want to stay." Nearby a group of the men were shoveling dirt into a grading wagon. I said to him: "Judge, you see those men at work; they are drinking an abundance of pure water, they eat heartily, they sleep well. They say to themselves, 'This is not "made work," this is real, genuine work. Free men right over there are getting $1.50 a day for doing this.' The old prison cell, the food, the confinement of their labor, tended to depress them and to make them helpless. This treatment quickly brings them to themselves, and arouses the normal man. There is a psychological element which you have not thought of and which we did not fully foresee, which makes these men more anxious to go back and again take their places in society and industry. At the expiration of their sentences, they go out without the prison pallor, stronger in the face of temptation, and ready at once to do a full day's work."

Difference in Feeling.

There is a marked difference in the feeling of the prisoners. They work much more heartily. Some of them take great interest in the animals and the growing fruits, vegetables and grains. They are freer from jail sullenness and hang-dog ways.

When the contractor was ready to start on our correction square, there developed an unexpected scarcity of water. We built a concrete dam, dug out the earth for a pond, and laid over a mile of two-inch pipes, and in five and a half days had an abundance of water with forty pounds gravity pressure. The workhouse men entered into this emergency work with as much earnestness and enthusiasm as if it were their own. This spring, out of group of fourteen prisoners, we asked for four men to volunteer to work on Sunday in the sugar camp. The entire fourteen freely offered their services in the saving of a large run of sap.

The trust and confidence which we, of necessity, place in them call forth the remnant of manliness which asserts itself. Its whole tendency is to develop in them a spirit of honor to do one's work and to put away the thought of escape. Their language about it changes to break out of the old prison is a "getaway," to run away from the farm is to "take a sneak."

They have better air to breathe and better food to eat, and, like the rest of us, their dispositions are therefore more agreeable. They have an abundance of fresh vegetables in season, for they raise them by their own labor in their gardens.

Development of Courtesy.

Of these opportunities for useful work, one of the most promising is the development of the cemetery. When developed, this will be a magnificent municipal cemetery of 500 acres, which will bring back several millions to the city's treasury. The development is largely along the line of walks and drives, and the planting of trees and shrubs. Prison labor is most effective in building roads, according to government statistics. These roads, as private property, are thus free from the objections of the public highway. Again, working in the cemetery may have some moral effect on the prisoners.

Allowing more than an acre for drives and planting, there would be 20,000 feet still to be sold as lots. Fifty cents per square foot is a moderate amount to be paid for a burial lot in a large, well-kept cemetery. This would amount to $10,000 an acre. This amount, of course, is not realized at once, and must include and provide for future maintenance, but to those municipalities which maintain cemeteries, it presents an opportunity for the profitable use of prison labor. It is good for the prisoners to work in the open, and, because of its returns, it will justify the municipality in paying at least a part of what the prisoners earn to their families.

There are limitations, of course, to the outdoor method of treatment. Not all of the men committed can be trusted to work in the field. Besides those who are locked in, we must have two classes, the trusties and the semi-trusties. The semi-trusties will work in gangs of twenty or thirty with guards, or, rather, foremen always be kept in the present. They are to be kept in the enclosure Sundays and holidays. We seldom have a man drop his tools and run. The temptation comes when not working. The trusties work on the farm sometimes entirely alone.

With this method I am confident that one-half of the men can work under the open sky. Near the close of their sentences, it is usually safe to assign outside work even to the more serious offenders. All of the men can at least be allowed the freedom of the great open court.

Many Committed for Vagrancy.

In Cleveland, we have many prisoners sent to the house of correction for vagrancy. Some of them are self-committed. If the men run away and take care of themselves, the purpose of the law has been accomplished. If they disappear, the result is much the same as when the court orders them to leave town. If they are really seeking work, they stay with us as we can help them to find employment. These cases make our reports of escapes, which are 10 per cent, seem large but it has proved the best method of dealing with the problem.

A penitentiary or state reformatory must, of course, be organized and managed differently. The general method has been tried in many places. At Witzill, Switzerland, is a large tract of nearly 2,000 acres with 250 prisoners with sentences as long as five years.

At Merxplae, twenty-five miles from Antwerp, is a great estate with 5,000 prisoners, some of them with sentences as long as seven years. These 5,000 irregulars and unfortunates are controlled and directed by a staff of only eighty wardens. Out of a barren waste, they have made a $1,000,000 estate.

In the Berlin labor house at Rummelsburg, out of 2,000 prisoners, 1,000 work outside on the great sewage farms owned by the municipality. In France, Holland, Hungary and Italy the government has made successful experiments with the colony system for the treatment of offenders. On this side of the Atlantic, in the province of Ontario, in Colorado, in Missouri, in California and in the city of Washington a similar work is carried on.

Much Depends on Warden.

Of necessity much depends on the personality of the warden, and his ability to have his subordinates of like spirit. Too much emphasis cannot be given to the attitude and the personality of those in charge. With the right spirit and wisdom in the officials there is no reason why this outdoor method may not be adopted in all of our penal institutions.

The growing feeling of interest on the part of the public to the work of the farm, and the fact that the men are really doing useful work is now raising the question whether society ought not to allow the family of the prisoner at least a part of what he earns, and also whether he should not have something paid to him at release so that he will be better fitted to take again a normal place in life. This awakened feeling toward prisoners is expressing itself in probation and parole, in prison schools, in homes and in employment bureaus for released men. It is also strengthening public sentiment that prison management should be utterly divorced from partisan politics.

At Cleveland, the most important thing the correction farm has demonstrated is that the city has become kinder and broader with its more rational and humane treatment of its prisoners. The heart of Cleveland has grown in its sense of right and justice. Instead of contempt and malice, there has come a desire "to know the path up which crime has come," and the general disposition to give opportunities for normal lives. The reflex influence is largely the real benefit. For its own sake, society cannot afford to be cruel and brutal to its meanest and most unworthy member. Russia is to reap a more bitter harvest than her exiles. Love your enemies is a good social law. Even though all the prisoners do not at once respond to this treatment and "make good," this does not destroy to society the quality of this mercy. Old methods often made institutions of detention breeding places for disease, and schools for crime. Recent research has brought to light the fact that there is three times as much tuberculosis among the prisoners as in our general population. The moral contagion is revolting.

"The vilest deeds like poison weeds
Bloom well in prison air;
It is only what is good in man
That wastes and withers there."

Civilization and progress no longer halt at the prison doors. Winston Churchill declared in the house of commons that "the attitude of the public in regard to the treatment of crime and criminals is one of the best tests of the civilization of any country." The general movement of which the colony is a part is both timely and wise.

ERUPTION ON LEGS, BACK AND HEAD

Also on Fingers. Like Little Boils. Throbbing and Burning Pain. Had to Cut off Hair. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Entirely Cured In Six Weeks.

Bloomingdale, Mich.—"I had sores on my legs, back, on my head and on the tips of my fingers. They looked first like little boils and had pus in them. They started with a throbbing and burning pain. They opened and formed a scab and would spread to the size of a silver dollar. My mother had to cut off my hair because we couldn't comb it, it pained me so badly and besides it was stuck together with pus. My underwear would stick to the sores on my body. My mother had to soak the clothes off of me. The clothing irritated my body. I had to go bare-footed for four weeks because I could not get on a shoe or a stocking. They would stick to the sores, and I could not get them off.

"The trouble started two weeks before my mother tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I was a little relieved in three days and was entirely cured in six weeks by Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Miss Olive Dalton, Sept. 23, 1912.

For treating poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have been the world's favorites for more than a generation. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

FRENCH LABELS IN AMERICAN HATS

Women of the state are much aroused over the recent disclosures made by the vigilance committee of the Minneapolis Advertising forum of the fact that millinery and modistes of the state and in cities and country towns all over the United States have been defrauding their customers by sewing French labels in hats and gowns made in America and selling them at Paris prices.

Labels may be purchased from wholesale houses at 1½ cents apiece and sewed in that hat or gown they add from $15 to $75 to the price of the garment.

It is estimate by the committee that one hat in 100 marked as Paris hats is truly an importation.

WILL HOLD DEDICATION.

Evangelist Whiston to Preach Again at First Christian Church.

A formal dedication of the first story of the new edifice of the First Christian church at Twelfth avenue east and First street will take place tomorrow. The dedication exercises will be held at the morning service, beginning at 11 a. m. The principal speaker will be Evangelist Robert Whiston, who has been holding a series of revival services at the church. His topic will be "Vision and Surface." A responsive reading will be conducted by Evangelist C. E. Osgood. Prayer will be led by Rev. Ray E. Hunt, pastor of the church. A vocal solo, "Be Merciful," will be rendered by Mrs. G. K. Compton.

Tomorrow is known to the members of this church as the Climax day, as Evangelist Whiston will preach the last of his series of revival sermons. At the evening service, beginning at 8 o'clock, he will preach on "Face and Form." Mrs. C. G. Compton and the evangelist will sing.

The day's services will begin with a wide-awake Bible school session, conducted by Clyde Cordner, the superintendent, at 10 a. m. At 6:45 p. m. the Young People's society will meet under the leadership of Aubrey Tidball.

The congregation will hold a reception in honor of Evangelists Whiston and Osgood on Monday or Tuesday night.

Evangelist Whiston preached last evening at this church on "The Priceless Pearl." He said that the popular version of that parable was erroneous, that the soul of man was the pearl of great price rather than the Savior, that Christ came to seek and save the soul which was lost through sin, and that, in a literal sense, he gave His life for the soul.

Boys' Club Organized.

The Franklin Boys' club was organized last night at the Franklin school, Seventh street and Fifth avenue east. Various features, such as athletics, banquets and other diversions, are planned for the new organization and the promoters feel that they have advanced a step toward the solution of the problem of withholding boys and young men from evil paths.

The club was organized last evening and a banquet was held. E. A. Mooney, principal of the school presided, and various citizens interested in boys' work spoke. The following were elected officers: President, Edward Conkey; vice president, Edward Houck; secretary-treasurer, Herbert Rhunke.

YOUNG GIRL TAKES ACID

Tries to End Life When Sentenced to Reformatory.

Mary Cebulski, 15 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cebulski, 416 Tower avenue, attempted to commit suicide this morning when told that she had been sentenced to the state reformatory for girls at Milwaukee. She will live.

Mary was sentenced by the court to the reformatory on the request of her parents, who claimed that they were unable to do anything with her. A deputy clerk was sent by the court to inform the girl and to take her to Milwaukee. Just as he came into the house the girl drank some carbolic acid.

The deputy clerk and Mrs. Cebulski rushed to her side at once. A doctor was called and the poison pumped from her stomach. She is now at St. Mary's hospital, where she is expected to recover within a few days.

"THIRTY" FOR "GUS" BERGSTROM

Veteran Printer Hears Final Summons at St. Luke's Hospital.

G. A. Bergstrom—"Gus," as he was known by those of the craft and those who knew him generally—died at noon today of uraemic poisoning at St. Luke's hospital. He was taken there last night, after having taken convulsions at his home at 1023 East Third street. Mr. Bergstrom has been superintendent of the mechanical department of the Duluth News Tribune for years and was considered one of the premier printers at the Head of the Lakes. He was 44 years of age and married. No children survived him. Aside from his widow there are left his father, who lives on a farm at Cloquet river, and two sisters, who reside in the city.

The passing of "Gus" Bergstrom is the subject today of every "chapel" of printers. He was one of the oldest in point of service in Duluth and was one of the best liked, both by his associates and the members of The Herald chapel. It is likely that Ionic lodge, No. 186, A. F. & A. M., of which he was a member, will have charge of the services.

PRISON TERMS FOR TWO PRISONERS

Pyykko and Osborne Will Probably Get Indeterminate Sentences.

In district court before Judge Cant this afternoon, sentence will be passed on Hugo Pyykko, self confessed slayer of Mat Kemp, Midway farmer, and William Osborne, convicted of the crime of carnally knowing and abusing a female child of 14 years.

Both men will probably receive penitentiary sentences on the indeterminate plan. The crime for which Pyykko will be punished is manslaughter, first degree, the penalty for which is from five to twenty years in Stillwater. Osborne's crime is punishable with from one to seven years in state's prison.

SETTLER FOUND DEAD IN CABIN

John Bergman, a farmer living about two miles from Proctor, was found dead at his home late last evening.

Bergman, who was 65 years old, was living alone in his home on the farm and several days ago was taken ill. He had no way of communicating with any one, until early last evening, when a neighbor dropped in on him. The neighbor immediately rushed to the nearest telephone to call a doctor, but when he returned Bergman was dead.

Bergman had lived on his farm for the past fifteen years and was well known in that vicinity. He is survived by Charles Forsell of Duluth, a cousin and a nephew, of Joliet, Ill., who has been notified of his uncle's death.

PRESIDENT WILSON READING MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

At the reading desk in the center of the scene, the photograph shows the chief executive of the United States addressing congress in the chamber of the house of representatives, where the house and the senate met in joint session. Speaker Clark and Vice President Marshall are seated on the rostrum, beneath the flag. The presence of the president in the congress chamber marked the first time in a period of 112 years that a chief executive of the nation has personally addressed congress. The precedent was established by Washington and continued by John Adams, the second president, with whom it died.

MILWAUKEE ROAD BRANCHING OUT

Expensive New Office for Its Agent in Duluth.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company's office, which has been located on the ground floor of the Palladio building for some years, will be moved May 1 to the first floor of the Torrey building, in the quarters formerly occupied by Paine, Webber & Co.

C. L. Kennedy, general agent of the Milwaukee road, says his new office will be the finest railroad office at the Head of the Lakes. The company has recently increased its city force, and that together with the increase in business made it necessary for the company to seek larger quarters.

"An expansion of this kind shows the expansion in railroad business at the Head of the Lakes," said Mr. Kennedy today. "The old quarters were ample at one time, but now we can't take care of the increased business, and now we have to have more room to place ...e force."

"STUB" TRAINS TO BE TAKEN OFF

Traction Line Has Hurt Local Passenger Traffic on Range.

Beginning tomorrow, all "stub" trains between several towns on the ranges will be taken off because of the interurban service of the new electric line, by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern. Officials of the road say that the reason for the new move is that the electric line has practically put the stub trains out of business. They do not average half a passenger a trip, it is claimed. The service to be discontinued is between Hibbing, Chisholm, Virginia and Sharon.

TO IMPROVE DEPOT.

M. & I. Railroad Will Fix Up Station at Pine River.

Pine River, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Extensive improvements will be made by the M. & I. railway on their property here this season. The depot will be remodeled and enlarged and a new brick platform will be laid. The short spur track to the stockyards will be extended 1,200 feet to give better loading facilities to the potato warehouse and the Mahlum Lumber company's yards and other improvements made in the yards. Work will commence in about thirty days.

WILL SPEND HUGE SUM IN CANADA.

The Canadian Pacific railway will spend $46,000,000 in Western Canada this year, according to an announcement recently made by one of the officers of the company.

Last year the company spent $19,000,000, but the present year promises to eclipse anything before attempted by this company. Of course the sum mentioned will be expended chiefly in construction work and the main work will include a tunnel through Roger's pass, to cost somewhere between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000, the continuation of work on the double track system which the road is installing and yards and terminal facilities at various points.

DAUGHTER OF THE PRESIDENT TALKS

Miss Jessie Wilson Gives Address at Y. W. C. A. Convention.

Richmond, Va., April 12.—Miss Jessie Wilson's address on "What the Young Women's Christian Association Means to the College Girl" was the principal feature of the program at the association's national convention today. The president's daughter has been an interested attendant at all the sessions.

A series of outdoor tableaux illustrating the activities of the association throughout the world, were given in the horse show building. At the business session of the convention, Mrs. E. H. Passmore of Minneapolis and Miss Harriett Taylor of New York, led discussions.

The woman suffragists at the convention have vainly attempted to get from Miss Wilson some expression of the attitude of herself and the other women of the president's family toward "the cause." She steadfastly refuses to discuss political questions.

CUYUNA STRIKE IS UNCHANGED

Men Still Out and Four Mines Involved Are Not Working.

Brainerd, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is no change in the Cuyuna range miners' strike. The men are still out and the four mines involved are not working. The miners and officials had a meeting last night.

A Soo special train brought many mining investors on the range to Crosby.

U. C. T. Minstrels.

The U. C. T. Minstrels are working hard on the rehearsals of their performance to be given at the Lyceum Saturday evening, April 26.

The members of Zenith council will go in force to the annual convention at Crookston next June and the minstrel show is to be given to raise money for the band and other expenses of the trip. The show is an annual affair and always draws a big crowd, for the knights of the grip are real performers on the stage.

Parcel Post Business Big.

Washington, April 12.—Seven million parcel post packages were handled in the Chicago postoffice during March. That was the greatest business done in the country. The least was done at Emmons, W. Va., where only one package was mailed.

BOUND TO BE MISSED.

Kansas City Journal: "Will anybody miss me when I'm gone?"

"Plenty of people. There's the piano man with his dollar a week, the encyclopedia man with his dollar and the insurance agent with his 50 cents."

Motor cars for laborers have almost entirely displaced handcars on railroads. They are economical because they deliver the men at the place of operation in good condition.

HOUSING ORDINANCE IS ATTACKED AND DEFENDED

"Certain people are opposed to the housing ordinance because it hurts their pocket books," said Robert R. Grant of the health department, this morning. Mr. Grant is the health department deputy who has been passing upon all building plans in conjunction with the building inspector.

"Some extra expenditure may be necessary to comply with the provisions of the ordinance, but the additional expense is so small compared with the benefits to be derived, that it should only be considered in sufficient degree to invalidate the regulations," continued Mr. Grant.

"The housing ordinance is a most salutary measure. There may be some sections which are susceptible to amendment but on the whole it is for the best interests of the city. The ordinance requires proper light and ventilation as well as satisfactory sanitation. Those provisions are in the best interests of public health. If owners and builders are allowed to have their way Duluth will be infested with unventilated, unlighted tenements and homes. The people with the capital to build them for rental purposes will reap the financial harvest and the man who is compelled by circumstances or adversity to rent them will suffer the penalty of ill-health and disease."

The Central Hillside Improvement association last night passed a resolution demanding the repeal of Duluth's new housing ordinance. The measure was roundly scored and denounced by several speakers, as was C. Dinwiddie, secretary of the Associated Charities and the Welfare board, credited with being the author and sponsor of the ordinance. It was claimed that one of the chief objections was the difficulty of building 5-room flats on 25-foot lots. Building Inspector Kielley defended the ordinance, as did several others, but they were overruled by the majority. A committee was appointed to meet with the new commission relative to the construction of a bridge over Chester creek on Sixth or Seventh streets.

Sealed Verdict In.

A sealed verdict was returned late last evening by the jury which is trying the personal injury action which John Pajonen has against the Oliver Iron Mining company in which $15,000 damages is sought. The verdict will be opened and read in Judge Fesler's court on Monday morning. Pajonen claims that while working in one of the company's mines a load of iron ore was dumped upon him, through the negligence of his fellow workers.

Sues Railroad.

E. A. Johnson, as administrator for the estate of Carl F. Johnson, in district court this morning filed suit for $15,000 against the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company. It is claimed by plaintiff that Carl F. Johnson was killed by a train at Negaunee, Mich., on Nov. 11, 1911. The action is brought for the benefit of his heirs.

ALFALFA, CHAMPION HAY CROP.

Statistics Indicate That the Legume Yields Twice as Much to the Acre as Red Clover and Grasses and in Addition Is a Soil Builder---Reports From Widely Separated States Show How Alfalfa Increases Crops Which Follow It.

Joseph E. Wing in Meadows and Pastures: There are three principle hay plants in the United States: Timothy, red clover and alfalfa. By the twelfth census the production stood: Alfalfa, 2.5 tons per acre; red clover, 1.3 tons; cultivated grass (mainly timothy), 1.1 tons.

Since then alfalfa has made great advance. It has passed the experimental stage. There are now no serious problems of alfalfa growing to be solved, and men are sowing it more largely than ever before, while at the same time the demand for the hay increases faster than the production. For all classes of animals it is the best forage that can be grown in America, and at the same time it is the most efficient soil enricher.

Improves the Soil.

Spillman reports that in Nebraska alfalfa has increased the yield of corn grown on sod 75 per cent. In Ohio we have repeatedly grown 100 bushels of corn per acre and more on alfalfa sod. The same land would have produced about 60 bushels before it had been sown to alfalfa.

In Idaho wheat has increased in yield from 25 to 75 bushels per acre after alfalfa. In California orange groves twenty-five years old show markedly where alfalfa once stood, the portion of the orchard on alfalfa sod producing one-third more and the trees larger and thriftier, and this despite the fact that the trees not on alfalfa land were given more fertilizer.

Rightly managed, an alfalfa field is a mine of fertility by which little by little a farm may be redeemed and made rich. If the hay is fed or pastured, if the manure is returned and the phosphorus is brought as needed, there should be small difficulty of doubling the productiveness of an average farm.

FIRST BOAT ON APRIL 27

Easton or America Will Start Then, Weather Permitting.

Daylight Service to Isle Royale Will Be Given.

L. D. Rosenheimer of Chicago, general traffic manager of the Booth lines is here for a few hours today and announces that the company expects to start its first boat out of Duluth on April 27, weather permitting. He says that while he has not the full schedule arranged for the coming season, but will have very shortly, there will be improved service on both the north and south shores and the steamers Easton and America will alternate on each run."

We regard conditions for the coming season as very bright, but both in a passenger and freight way, and we really and truly expect a much better hand-out of weather during the season about to open," said Mr. Rosenheimer. "Among other things, we will offer our passengers a daylight service to Isle Royale and its environments, and we will continue the moonlight trips also.

"You know, although I reside in Chicago and the headquarters of the company are there, we regard ourselves as a Duluth concern purely. Maybe you noticed and maybe you didn't that last year we changed the name of our line to the Duluth-Port Arthur line. That's the way we feel about it, and we operate solely on the basis of being a Duluth line. In short, we like Duluth."

TUGS MAY BE RUNNING MONDAY

Tugs may be operating in the Duluth-Superior harbor on Monday. The Union Towing & Wrecking company knows nothing about it as yet, but a representative of one of the vessel agencies said today that if the present weather continues ice-breaking tugs will be employed to release the vessels in the slips. The tug company has had several tugs ready for several days but the vessel people have, so far, been playing shy of the expense.

SACRED TO BROWNING'S LOVE

Shall the Letters Containing the Outpourings of His Heart Be Knocked Down to the Highest Bidder?

London Mail: It is announced in the public prints that the love letters of Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning are presently to be knocked down to the highest bidder at public auction. These messages of affection, now tarnished by the years, plainly meant a vast deal to those who received them, and the mere thought that they should fall into strange hands comes upon us as a shock.

The paper which their fingers touched, the words which expressed the emotion of their hearts, will be scanned by the curious and lightly turned to the purpose of an ardent speculation. The first comer who can afford the price may amuse his leisure with these familiar pledges of another's love. He may intrude upon the sanctity of an ancient shrine. And that he does it not with shame but with a kind of zest is an unamiable comment upon the practice of these days.

It is the actual material of ink and paper, not the beauty of a literary style, which excites the cupidity of the speculator. He takes a pride in handling what was never meant for him to touch. He boasts to his friends the possession of something that is at once intimate and unique. And in thus boasting he shows another interest than that which we may legitimately take in published letters.

There are books not a few composed of these private spoils, which we would not willingly miss from our shelves. The hasty publishing of letters can not be avoided. I would not protest too loudly even against the dragging of Browning's love into the light of day. Notoriety is the sad penalty which will be exacted of grandeur until the end of time.

The public gambling for scraps of paper is a vice of another complexion. It is prompted not by literary enthusiasm but by a kind of curiosity. As an occupation it may be classed with the collection of postage stamps or the treasuring of the "prince's cherry stones." And so far is the pursuit pushed today that we expect before long to see the letters of the great quoted on the stock exchange. To find a reason for the varying price is not easy. Rarity, of course, effect it, and the casual popularity of the moment.

A recent death is a wonderful stimulus to business. Merediths and Swinburnes are still keeping up their price, and are even threatening the supremacy long held by Stevensons. A letter written by Talleyrand fetches no more than 30 shillings. And once he shook the world.

It is not a pleasant traffic. The best excuse that may be found for it is that it took its origin in a kind of worship. We no longer visit shrines nor reverence the relics of saintly men. So we mumble inarticulately over the scribblings of poets and back our faith in the auction room.

As for the love letters of the Brownings, their one decent abiding place is a public library. Should they come into the market they will doubtless fetch a comfortable price, because they contain secret intimacies which the tact of their editor has suppressed. This seems an insufficient reason for a perilous indiscretion, nor is it easy to see where the curiosity of busybodies shall cease. Shall they drag the bones of the victims from their coffins, or gambol in the rags of their wornout clothes?

Los Angeles expects to capture in 1913 about thirty conventions of national importance.

HEARING SET FOR APRIL 17

Duluth Attorney Will Answer Disbarment Proceedings There.

Three Separate Charges Have Been Made Against Him.

Miss Gretchen F. Roecher, public stenographer, 509 Sellwood building, has been appointed referee to take the testimony in the disbarment trial of Joseph De La Motte. The appointment was made by the supreme court and the date for the trial has been fixed for April 17.

It is understood that Marion A. Douglas and Joseph W. Reynolds, both attorneys of this city, will appear at the hearing as counsel for Mr. De La Motte. Ell Southworth, secretary of the state board of law examiners, will prosecute the charges against the local attorney.

Three charges have been made against Mr. De La Motte. One is that back in 1905 he was convicted in district court of the crime of preventing a subpoenaed witness from testifying before the grand jury. The second charge deals with Mr. De La Motte's connection with the Golik case. The third relates to his connection with the well-known series of "fire cases." It is claimed that he settled a large number of causes of action for $1,500 and failed to pay his clients anything.

TELLS COURT IT IS "TOO MUCH"

Walter Russell Objects to Paying $40 Monthly to His Wife.

When Walter Russell, defendant in a divorce action, was ordered to pay his wife, Alma Louise, $40 a month temporary alimony by Judge Cant this morning, he coolly told the court that $40 was too much and that he guessed about $20 would fill the bill.

Just as a matter of information, Russell was immediately informed by the court that it would be best for him to obey the court's orders, without quibbling. If the court ordered him to pay $40, he was to pay it. If the court allowed $75 a month alimony, the same rule would apply, declared the court.

In addition to the $40 a month alimony, Russell was ordered to pay $30 for attorney fees and suit money. Russell is an electrician residing at 15 Eleventh avenue west. His monthly income, he stated was about $80.

Mrs Russell is suing on the grounds of cruel treatment. Among other things she claims that her husband takes other women out in his automobile and refuses to take her or their child.

NO PROBATE CASES TO COME UP MONDAY

Owing to the absence of Judge S. W. Gilpin from the city, there will be no calendar in probate court Monday. Judge Frances E. Watkins of the Carlton county probate court will be in Duluth Tuesday to hold court here. The following calendar will be disposed of at that time: Final account, Carl E. Johnson; claims, Fransizek Chon, Katherine Neal, W. B. Silvey; appointment of guardian, Martha Beckman; guardian's account, Lillian McCarthy.

Judge Gilpin left this week for Pennsylvania for a short vacation trip. He will return the latter part of the month.

LAND IN NEW YORK.

Guy Bjorge and William Taylor on Way Home From Venezuela.

New York, April 12.—Fresh from the wilds of Venezuela, where they were attacked by a band of hostile Indians and had a narrow escape from death or capture, William Leslie Taylor and Guy N. Bjorge of Duluth, Minn., reached here last night on the steamer Zulia from Maracaibo. The pair were exploring oil lands for a New York company when they were set upon by the savages.

Neither Taylor nor Bjorge would talk of their experiences, but fellow-passengers said the former had been severely wounded by arrows during the skirmish. The attacking party was finally driven off by a hot fire from the Americans' automatic pistols after two members of the hostile band had been killed.

THE SUMMER GIRL OF 1913 MUST BE DRAPED AND WEAR A SMALL HAT PULLED DOWN OVER HER EARS

SPRING STYLES IN THE SHOPPING DISTRICT.

What will the summer girl of 1913 look like?

The spring girl gives an idea.

First she must be draped. The skirts will be tighter than a New England farmer on market day, but they must be draped, here and there, to show there was more material of the kind if the architect who built the dress had wanted to use it.

The hats will be small and pulled down over the ears. A wisp of hair must show on the left hand side. If it shows on the right the owner of the wisp is from Canada and is not fully civilized yet.

The Herald photographer tried to catch some of the new styles in the shopping district on Superior street yesterday, but, mere man that he was, paid no attention to styles and simply picked out the prettiest young women he met. He forgot to look for drapes entirely and at least three of the young women in the picture have smart tailor-made suits that look almost sensible.

ASSESSORS ARE COMING

Will Gather in Duluth to Get Blanks and Instructions.

Seventy-Five Men Will Put Value on Personal Property.

City, village and township assessors from all parts of the county—seventy-five in number—will come to Duluth on April 24 to get their assessment books, blanks and instructions. The necessary paraphernalia for the work of the 1913 assessors is now being assembled by County Auditor Odin Halden.

The assessment books are made up each year in the auditor's office. The books give the description of all taxable property in the various taxing districts. It is the duty of the assessors to fill out the values and return the books by the fourth Monday in June.

The state tax commission this year has made some change in the personal property tax schedule. The list of items properly taxable as personal property has been reclassified as to include thirty-seven departments instead of thirty as formerly.

Some of the most distinctive changes are the classifications under separate heads of the following: Automobiles and auto trucks, motorcycles and bicycles, street railway cars, locomotives, steamshovels, machinery and equipment used in mining operations, and iron ore in stockpiles.

NEW TRIAL IS BEING SOUGHT

Court Claimed to Have Erred in the Rensaa Case.

A new trial is sought in the Rensaa case, in which a jury at this term of court returned a verdict of $7,488 against Gust Egdahl, saloon keeper and his sureties in favor of Mrs. Inga Rensaa at this term of court.

The case is one in which Mrs. Rensaa claims that her husband was brutally assaulted and blinded in the defendant's saloon. She charged him with responsibility in that he allowed dissolute characters to congregate about his place of business, where Rensaa is claimed to have received his injuries.

The new trial is asked by the defendants on five grounds, viz: First, that the court erred in allowing the jury to visit the premises; second, that the verdict was not justified by the evidence or warranted by law; third, that the court made errors of law; fourth that the verdict was excessive, and fifth that new evidence has been found which could not have been produced at the first trial.

TILTING THE LID IN A DRY STATE

Ingenious Devices of the Thirsty in Dryest Maine to Get Their Liquor.

Portland, Me., Press: In this land of state-wide prohibition it is very common to hear light talk of how easy it might be to enforce the law if the officers were only honest; if they conscientiously tried to do their duty. In this story there is no intention of considering the question of the practicability of enforcing the prohibitory law. That has been argued again and again. Millions and millions of cubic feet of oratory have been devoted to it, while paper enough to make a New Forest beside which William the Conqueror's would have seemed a garden orchard have been sprinkled with words which have told in burning sentences why the sale of liquor can or cannot be prevented. And with all this oratory and all these printed arguments we are no nearer an agreement than we were when Neal Dow first proclaimed the principle of prohibition more than sixty years ago.

But we may interest the reader, if we do not convince him, by telling some of the difficulties that all officers, no matter how honest or how determined, encounter when they undertake to suppress liquor selling in a community where every hand is raised against him, and where every man, woman and child is a spy and in collusion, in sympathy at any rate, with those who are attempting to do what they have sworn to do.

Actual Experiences.

This story of the liquor hides comes from the lips of those who have been concerned in the illegitimate sale of liquor from their boyhood up, and who know the inside and out of the business, as it has been conducted in Portland, as few others do.

They have told things that have never been told before in print and which are not known even to the officers themselves, to say nothing of those of us who vote for prohibition year after year and who believe in the principle if we are not always convinced that it is practical to enact that principle into a workable law.

Bear this in mind, however, that there has never been a time when liquor was not sold in whatever quantity the would-be purchaser had the money to pay for it in the so-called ends of the city, and that the officer who goes into these ends and undertakes to suppress rum selling invades a country where every hand will be raised against him.

Battle of Wits.

Nor is that all. It is not altogether forcible opposition that he will encounter. There are bright minds employed in this business of the illegal sale of liquors, and while the officers are working and working, they are studying and studying to devise means to defeat them.

There are any number of tenement houses, shops and hotels in Portland which are fairly honeycombed with so-called liquor hides. Many of these have been found and more have not and are not known to this day. Some of those that we shall describe may not even be known to the proprietors of some of these places to this day.

Practically every liquor hide in Portland was made by one man, and that man is now dead. His name is known to every liquor seller in the city, and to about every officer. He built hundreds and hundreds of these hides, and when he passed away a few years ago he left quite a comfortable fortune which he had accumulated by selling his wonderful mechanical abilities to those who were engaged in a warfare upon the laws of this city and state.

These hides were constructed in cellars and attics, in between ceiling, in blind partitions, in outhouses, even in gardens and under doorsteps. They were marvels of ingenuity, and had the builder turned his talents in more respectable directions he might have acquired fame and fortune.

Cash and "Royalty."

This man had one price for his liquor hides, big or little, plain and simple. It was $50, and $5 a week thereafter from the rumseller, until the hide was found.

If it was discovered, then the liquor dealer had to have another hide and it was a case of another $50 and a further weekly royalty of $5. The newspapers contained frequent items telling of the discovery of hides by the sheriffs or the Sturgis deputies in the days when open barrooms were not permitted, but when one figures that this master builder was employed about all of his time in building them, it can be easily seen that where one was discovered many others remained hides and are hides to this day, or would be were there any necessity of hiding anything in the rum line.

Not long ago a building was torn down in the center of the city which had been used for years for the sale of liquor, and as the partitions were ripped away one after another of these places of concealment were found, and every one of them was built by this man.

They were surprisingly ingenious and must have counted up into many hundreds of dollars at 50 per, to say nothing of the royalty of $5 weekly.

Place in Every Room.

There is today a hotel in this city where liquor is at present dispensed over the bar and where hides are about as useless as a coat of armor in a snowballing game, where practically every room contains a place that has been built in for the purpose of concealing alcoholic drinks. They are not in use now; there may come a time when they will be.

In another hotel there is a hide which is one of the most remarkable of its kind in this city and which, so far as is known, no officer ever suspected the existence of. It was built by the master hide builder, and it took him three days and nights to complete. Entrance is obtained from a bathroom, from which there runs a passageway to another sleeping room. Between the bathroom and the chamber there is a blind partition about three feet wide, which runs the whole length of the house. It is rather narrow, but a man can easily walk up and down the place, and it is sufficiently roomy to accommodate liquor enough to keep a good business going for several months.

"Plumbing Out of Order."

When the hide builder began work on it he went into the bathroom and locked himself in and remained there night and day until it was finished, sleeping on the floor and dodging out when he got a chance to get a bite to eat. On the door was the sign, "Plumbing out of order." About two feet of the width of the wainscot paneling was taken out and secured together. Then a board frame was built around it and into this frame was cemented a course of brick. This was all hung on heavy but easily moving hinges, and the whole made a door of great weight, which was so nicely balanced that it swung as easily as a jeweler's scales.

When closed it fastened from the top with a small spring concealed within and which could only be reached by pressing a bent hairpin or darning needle into the crack. To all outward appearances the door was a part of the wainscoting. The object of the course of brick was to prevent the officers from finding the place by sounding on the walls, as they frequently did. By running along and tapping the walls where it was suspected a hide might be concealed, the locality was often found by the hollow sound that was given out. Of course, there was no hollow sound from behind this door of solid masonry. This is intended as no tip for would-be enforcers of the law, but the hide is there now, and if ever the lid is restored it will be put into use.

Locked in the "Hide."

Once when the Sturgis disputes called at this place a man was in this hide to procure some whisky for a customer. Of course, the door was shut forthwith, and he remained there in the dark with his rum until the investigators had given up the search and left.

There is another hide in existence today that is even more elaborate than this one of the brick wall. In the cellar of a certain shop the cement was broken up and an excavation made of sufficient depth to accommodate a whisky barrel. This was sunk into the ground and securely packed in cement so that no water could get at it and which would be sufficient to serve it for years, if not forever. From two opposite sides pipes led out to the partitions and up through them to the room above.

The pipes and barrels were then buried and cemented over. Then on top of the barrel a furnace was set. One of the pipes was used to fill the barrel and the other to empty it as the barrel and the other required for marketing purposes. There was never a suspicion of it, although the officers knew that the house must contain a supply of liquor somewhere. They searched and searched, but nothing could they find, and if any of them reads this article today they will learn for the first time why they were defeated.

SUPERSTITIONS ABOUT SALT

Odd Beliefs in Power of the Condiment of European and the Far Eastern Countries.

Rehoboth Sunday Herald: Salt has ever been the subject of much superstition. From the mythical lore of Finland we learn that Ukko, the mighty god of the sky, struck fire in the heavens, a spark from which descending was received by the waves and became salt. The Chinese worship an idol called Pheio, in honor of a mythical personage of that name whom they believe to have been the discoverer of salt and the originator of its use.

Among the Mexican Nahuas the women and girls employed in the preparation of salt were wont to dance at a yearly festival held in honor of the Goddess of Salt, Huixtochituatl, whose brothers, the rain gods, are said, as the result of a quarrel, to have driven her into the sea, where she invented the art of making the precious substance.

First Biblical Reference.

The earliest Biblical reference to salt appears to be in connection with the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah.

In Eastern countries it is a time-honored custom to place salt before strangers as a token and pledge of friendship, and good will. Homer called salt divine, and Plato described it as a substance dear to the gods. Perhaps the belief in its divine attributes may have been a reason for the employment of salt as a sacrificial offering by the Hebrews, Greeks and Romans, all of whom regarded it as an indispensable relish.

"Evil spirits," wrote the Abbot Richalmus, "cannot bear salt." When he was at dinner and the devil had maliciously taken away his appetite, he simply tasted a little salt and at once became hungry.

Hungarian Stories.

In Hungarian folklore, contrary to the usual opinion, evil personages are fond of salt, hence appears to have arisen the popular notion among the Magyars that a woman who experiences a craving for salt in the early morning must be a witch, and on no account should her taste be gratified.

The peasants of Russia believe in the potency of salt against witches and their craft. They believe that on St. John's eve witch butter is maliciously smeared on the doors of their farm buildings in order to spread sickness among the cattle. When, therefore, an Esthonian farmer finds that obnoxious butter on the barn door or elsewhere, he loads his gun with salt and shoots the witch germs away.

Among the Hebrews the covenant of salt is the most sacred possible. Even at the present time Arabian princes are wont to signify their ratification of an alliance by sprinkling salt upon bread, meanwhile exclaiming, "I am a friend of thy friend, and an enemy of thine enemies." In the East at the present day compacts between tribes are still confirmed by salt, and the most solemn pledges are ratified by this substance. During the Indian mutiny in 1857 a chief motive of self-restraint among the Sepoys was the fact that they had sworn by their salt to be loyal to the English queen.

When We Spill Salt.

Some of us shiver when we spill salt. In Da Vinci's picture of the Lord's supper, Judas is shown overturning the salt, and this may have given new life to the superstition. There is an old idea that by throwing salt over the left shoulder one appeases the devil.

Any one having the misfortune to spill salt was formerly supposed to incur the anger of all good spirits and be rendered susceptible to the malevolent influences of demons. When, in Oriental lands, salt was offered to guests as a taken of hospitality, it was accounted a misfortune if any particles were scattered while being so presented, and in such cases a quarrel or dispute was anticipated.

Bishop Hall, in 1627, wrote that when salt fell toward a superstitious guest at dinner, he was wont to exhibit signs of mental agitation and refused to be comforted until one of the waiters had poured wine in his lap.

German Saying.

The German have a saying, "Whoever spills salt arouses enmity," and in some places the overthrow of a saltcellar is thought to be the direct act of the devil, the peace disturber. The superstitious Persian, when he meets with such a misfortune, tosses a little of the spilt salt behind him in order, if possible, to hit the invisible devil in the eye, which, temporarily, at least, prevents him from dong further mischief.

When salt was spilled at the table of a pious Roman, he or she was wont to exclaim, "May the gods avert the omen!" Among the Greeks it was customary to present salt to the gods as a thank offering at the beginning of every meal. According to a popular Norwegian belief, one will shed as many tears as may suffice to dissolve the quantity of salt which has spilled, and in East Yorkshire, also, every grain of spilled salt represents a tear to be shed.

Crawl Under Table.

In Bucks county, Penn., and many other rural districts of the state, in order to avert ill luck after salt has been spilled, one should not only toss a pinch of the spilled salt over the left shoulder, but should also crawl under a table and come out on the other side. In New England, to break the evil spell of spilling salt, every particle is supposed to be collected and thrown on the stove to be consumed.

In the northern counties of England, and, indeed, quite generally in Anglican countries, it is reckoned unlucky to be helped to salt at the table, and this idea has found expression in the popular couplet, "Help me to salt, help me to sorrow." In Russia there is a superstition against helping one's neighbor to salt at the table on account of the liability to quarrel thereby incurred. For in so doing one is thought to have the air of implying, "Well, you have your allowance of salt, now go away."

In Italy the helping of salt by one person to another was considered undue familiarity, and when salt was offered by one gentleman to the wife of another, it was sufficient cause for jealousy and quarrel.

Talisman Against Evil.

The natives of Morocco regard salt as a talisman against evil, and a common amulet among the Neapolitan poor is a bit of rock salt suspended from the neck. The peasants of the Harz mountains, in Germany, believe that three grains of salt in a milk pot will keep witches away from the milk. Peculiar notions about the magical properties of salt are common among the colored people of America. In some regions a new tenant will not move into a furnished house until all objects therein have been thoroughly salted, with a view to the destruction of witch germs.

A salt spell in vogue in the South of England consists in throwing a little salt into the fire on three successive occasions Friday nights while saying these words:

"It is not this salt I wish to burn,
It is my lover's heart to turn,
That he may neither rest nor happy be,
Until he comes and speaks to me"

On the third Friday night the disconsolate damsel expects her lover to appear.

Every one is familiar with the old saying, "You can catch a bird with your hand if you first put salt on his tail." This quaint expression has been thought to imply that if you can get near enough to a bird to put salt on his tail its capture is an easy matter. The Germans in Buffalo valley, in Central Pennsylvania, believe that a boy may be cured of homesickness by placing salt in the hems of his trousers and making him look up the chimney.

In Scotland salt was formerly in high repute as a charm, and the salt box was the first chattel to be removed to a new dwelling. The salt cellar has always been an object to which superstition was attached from very ancient times. As the Romans considered salt to be a sacred article of food, it was a matter of religious principle to them to see that no other dish was placed upon the table before the salt was in position. In fact, it was also supposed to be the last article to be removed from the table. Salt, more than any other object of food, is surrounded with superstitions of all sorts and characters.

BRIEF DECISIONS.

Judge: Advertising is a powerful incentive, but there are successful men who do business on pneumatic tires.

Even the clever chap who can pull rabbits out of an empty hat has to work to get the money.

The fair flirt believes in being fair to everybody.

If you want to make a woman nervous, tell her a secret.

Checker playing, on its merits, seems to be a waste of time; yet such mental discipline sometimes make a good horse trader.

AT NIGHT.

Has oft been said.
At night you'll find it lying everywhere
But on her head.

The Problems of Power

The danger of a breakdown, the smoke, dirt, noise and vibration, the tremendous loss of power from friction of transmissions, the problems of expansion, of fuel purchase and ash disposal, the excessive cost—these are only a few of the myriad of expensive vexations inseparable from private power plant operation. They can all be eliminated by using Central Station Service.

Unfailing Central Station Power

It is always ready, day or night. Just a turn of a switch and you have power to run one machine or one hundred and you pay only for what you use. Many machines are used intermittently—many times you would like to work one department or one machine overtime. Think of the enormous waste if you have to operate a private power plant for this. Central Station Power will save you money.

MEN'S DISEASES

We Take Only Curable Cases and Guarantee to Treat You Until You Are Cured, For the One Fee.

We treat our patients generously and fair, carefully studying each individual case in order to bring about as speedy a cure as possible, and at the same time a permanent one, effectually eradicating all reflex complications.

SPECIFIC BLOOD POISON.

This most hideous of all blood diseases can no longer be classed as incurable. The idea that the limit of medical aid is to keep the disease dormant by persistently dosing the system with mineral poisons is as incorrect as many other ancient theories to which many of the profession cling. Such treatment not infrequently results in the virus being driven deeper into the system, where it attacks and destroys even the very bones of the sufferer. The cure is thorough, and the disease vanishes forever. We use harmless blood cleansing remedies heretofore unknown in the treatment of this disease.

CURE OF CHRONIC MALADIES OF ALL VARIETIES.

Heart Trouble, Rheumatism, Bright's Disease, Gall Stones, Gravel, Headache, Lumbago, Sciatica, Bladder Trouble, Hydrocele, Rupture and Rectal Diseases, we cure without operation by Hypodermic injections and dissolving process. COPIES SENT TO U.S. STEEL DIRECTORS

Sermon By Duluth Pastor on Late J. P. Morgan Considered Worthy of Preservation.

So glowing a trbute to Morgan, the man and financier, was the sermon preached last Sunday by Dr. A. W. Ryan of this city, that copies were sent to each of the directors of the United States Steel company.

Dr. Ryan, in eloquent and eulogistic terms paid a warm tribute to the sturdy character of the dead magnate, whose charity has been felt through liberal donations of money to St. Luke's hospital and to the Episcopal diocese here. Of the scores and scores of tributes paid to the memory of one of the greatest of latter-day Americans, it is believed that the one paid by Ryan was one of the most eloquent and most touching.

The sermon was as follows:

"'Riches are not comely for a niggard, and what should an envious man do with money? He that gathereth by defrauding his own soul gathereth for others, that shall spend his goods riotously. He that is evil to himself, to whom shall he be good? He shall not take pleasure in his goods. Ecclus. xiv: 3, 4, 5.'

"We have within a week read of the passing of one of the gigantic men of all time. There may be many questions of economics, of politics, of a passing form of business, when we come to realize this life. But it must be conceded that here we have an illustration of one of the very ablest lives ever lived on this earth and many lessons for us to learn therefrom. It may well be that there has been criticism of him and his ways and into that we shall not presume to enter. There were doubtless many great defects in him, as in all of the rest of us. We would not presume to pass a final judgment on him and his career. Probably that will not be arrived at for years to come, until the proper perspective presents itself. But that he was great is beyond any question, one of the very greatest that the world has known, great in a new way, and fortunately great for us probably more so than we shall be able to realize in the rush of life.

The Great Revelator.

"Death is a great revelator. We walk beside a man, or hear of him constantly, and we say that we know him. We have our definite feelings about him and estimate him more or less, and have our impression of what he is worth. But there is always a measure of incompleteness and indefiniteness about all this. But let death come, and somehow we get clearer ideas and read the man and his character in a new and better light. We have known of Mr. Morgan for many years. He has stood for much to us, and yet he has been a far-off sort of man, was that to his intimates, even, it is said. We knew somewhat of his many doings, but few of us ever had any notion of what a tremendous man he was, and how much we all owed to him and at a perilous time in the development of our country. It is said that he is the last of the money barons, but that is presuming to say much, for money barons there will probably be for many generations to come. But he was a beneficent baron, when it might easily have been true that he could have used this country for his own ends and no one have been able to say him nay. He was great in the right way. He was born rich; could have multiplied his millions indefinitely, probably, and did multiply them, but with a stern sense of his responsibilities to those whom he was leading.

"The story of his life is familiar to all of us. He began as the son of a rich man, not conspicuous for his ability, took common courses here and at Gottingen, as was the custom then with all those who sought the best in education. He did show some extraordinary ability there in mathematics, and was offered a professorship. He came back and began business, but with such silence that he was supposed to be impossible as a business man. Then he made a coup as against some of the railroad buccaneers of the time and made good. Then followed many an adventure into the world of finance, mostly successful too, until his great effort in the creation of the Steel corporation, which has since made good. He was not always successful but for the most part he did a business that did not fail. He had an eye on business advantage, but was careful to a fault as to the principles involved. He had the fortune of those at heart who followed his guidance, and granted that the financial methods of the day just gone were right, he was a true man in all regards. It may be that we have come to a better day but that is yet to be proven. Sure it is that Mr. Morgan did not do business for himself alone. He thought of his followers, of his country and especially of what he considered right. That was much in a man who could easily have taken advantage of the many about him who could not follow his quick movements, of the vast populace who would never know whither they were going. But to make his moves in such a way as to bring advantage to all concerned, to have made the insolvent solvent, the weak strong, was the deed of a magnificent man.

Diverse Interests.

"Then just think of his diverse interests and gifts. He was a dog fancier, a breeder of horses and evidently cows, he was a yachtsman and loved the water, he was an art connoisseur, reaching out into curios, antiques, tapestries, paintings, sculptures, bronzes, rare bindings and books of incalculable value. It is said that he has anywhere from $50,000,000 to $125,000,000 invested in such art treasures, which are in this country and will be for us a vast incentive for development and education for all time to come. Then beside all this there was the patent fact that he was a churchman, with all that that implies and that is a good deal. He was a member of our general convention for many years past and no one who came first to that dignified body was more eager to be present and to take his intelligent share in the proceedings, but he was always a silent hearer but a faithful agent of any duty given to him. It was an inspiration see him, all the time during the panic of 1907, sitting day by day in his place in convention, apparently absorbed in the proceedings when such vast problems were threatening the financial world and in which he took a notable part even then. It was a vast commentary on the attitude of many men who thought it no small duty to be busy about His Father's business, and they, little pigmies in comparison, are pettily busy with that which will only profit for a day and will let the really important things of life slip away from them.

"Mr. Morgan was a big man, physically. He impressed one as a mighty force, though he was mostly a silent listener at all gatherings. He spoke little, but to the point, as one could see in committee meetings. He was a dominant force, was quite apparently dominant and willing to be so. He never would have been the man he got to be without this characteristic. He was strong in his convictions and let that be known, too. But it is said that he was a delightful host, a genial man when he was let down from his great affairs. He was one of the best known men in our world and was respected far and near and held to be a man of character. He is called magnificent, a prince of finance, a Maecenas of our time, a money baron, and the like. It all goes to show what a tremendous hold he had on our life and interests and the manifold words of commendation spoken of him are proofs, not that he was the great man of wealth, for there are such now who have greater resources, probably, but who will go out with small commendation from those sources which now speak well of Mr. Morgan.

Some Lessons.

"Let us turn now to some lessons which we may draw from his life.

"It is a common thought that he was a man of integrity. When he was giving his evidence before the investigating committee lately, he said that the great asset in business now was 'character.' That was a notable saying and one which gave the keynote to his life and an understanding of his character. Some may say that his system was wrong. Time will tell that. But so far as he was concerned, he was honest and desired to be so above all else. It is an interesting aspect of the case that there are many men far wealthier than himself, who do not count anywhere nearly so much as did Mr. Morgan in the business of our time, simply because people could trust him. He used his own money and that of others far richer than himself, because he would use what he had with unselfish discretion. It means much for the rank and file of us that Mr. Morgan, the leader in banking business of our day, was an honest man. The panic of 1907 might easily have been used by an unscrupulous man for his own enrichment, for an unscrupulous man can take advantage of the ruin of general business, just as much as of the greatest prosperity. By letting the country go, he could have executed a coup by which he could have gathered the most of the good securities into his own hands and left the general people stricken with poverty and it all would have been perfectly legal. Then it means that for the most part those who followed his competent leadership found that they had profited thereby, and this was a great contrast to what had gone on before his time in this country. And it means much to have the biggest business man declare aloud to our time that the greatest asset of business is character, when sometimes it seems that character is the last thing that some consider to be of value.

"Then he was a big man physically. It needs some such example as this to show us what is to tell the story in the hurrying times to come. He had great physical strength and he was a sort of dynamo for his business and his associates. He radiated out power, he needed power and he had it in conspicuous degree. He conserved this power and while he did much of himself, he was, as a big man might be, impatient of immaterial details. He left them to small men who loved them and were worth nothing really much. It is said that he has worn out a troup of men in his time, five generations, some one said. The rest have gone to the wall, warn out, dead, or retired. But all the time he was conserving his strength, using it for great purposes, preserved for some of his best work at 70 and thereafter. It all goes to show the young man, who expects to keep up, that good health is worth while, that it is a main point to have a strong body, that one has to save himself in immaterial things, if he is to abide the fiery stress of modern life and win out.

And His Diversions.

"Then he taught us another valuable lesson. He had his diversions, had learned his lesson in the enjoyments of his life. He took business hard, but he took his relaxations easily. He had diversions, his dogs, his horses, his yacht, his busy church life, his art diversions and his books. Think what it must have meant to him after a busy day's work to retire into that private room of his in his library and there look over the veritable volumes that were once handled by some of the notable names in government, society and religion. Think what the lives of so many of us are, naught but the meanest drudgery, because we have never learned to indulge ourselves in that which profits while it rests us. All men should be busy, but all men should have their diversions which they have taken time to learn and love, while they are young and adjustable to life. Think of a big man like this, loving a delicate binding, some book owned once by a famous beauty and social leader, or a curio from Egypt or Greece.

Doing Big Things.

"Mr. Morgan was a big man, partly because of the time in which he lived. It is no harder to do big things than small ones, if one only goes at it aright. He made use of every available assistance, the telephone, the telegraph, the secretary and stenographer, the expert and the well-informed. It makes one impatient with the dilatory methods of modern-day churches, to see them a hundred years behind the methods of business and yet trying to justify it all. 'The children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light.' We are seeking to do the work of the church, which is vastly more valuable than any business with the antiquated methods and assistance of an older generation and that is one reason why the best young men are seeking an outlet for their minds in channels which will pay them and help them to their best. We burden a minister until he cannot carry the burden and then cast him aside as useless when he is worn out. But Mr. Morgan utilized all aids and paid them and got the best out of them and created a novel and wonderful leadership.

"He has been called a prince and a prince he was with what he had. Some may feel that he gave little but it all counts up enormously. We here have certainly gained by his help in this city, in the hospital and in the endowment for the diocese. It is probable that he gave for the first twenty thousand dollars that we had to raise for the endowment here before we could have a bishop. But he gave as few men did and in manifold ways, though there are many who would have liked to dictate to him what he should have done farther and larger. As we see the man now in perspective, though near to him still, we can see that what he really made his was what he gave directly and indirectly to his kind. It was much for the artistic development of this country that he gathered such treasures to our land and made them free in a sense to our people, and gave an assurance that he would look after any deficits for a period of time, say five years. It is all such giving and such assistance, that makes a man's memory keep green, and his influence play far and wide on his time and fellows.

"It is notable, too, that a man of such capacity and experience was a communicant in our church. It appears to many that the day of religion is past, while it is always coming. And the larger the man the more it will appeal to him that he needs the church and what she can bring to him. Money is a great peril and only the few recognize that. It is much to be kept from the temptation that so easily besets us the very characteristic in which we are strong. And the church, leveling all up at her altars, keeps one in the proper frame of mind to see his own insignificance in the eyes of the Eternal and the perennial need of the human heart for food that is spiritual and divine.

"It is pathetic to read the story of his end. There came the day when all the experts could not stay the onrush of that final enemy of our kind. The best of minds could not resist, nor the best of skill could not reinforce. At the last, he starved to death, as if he were some pauper in need of money. What a commentary that is on our common life, the poverty of it all in reality and the dependence after all! His body driven by a great and restless mind finally refused to be driven any farther and the digestive tract gave out and starvation followed. The mighty frame and the dynamic mind had done to their uttermost and then collapsed like any of the rest of us and death came to close the story. How little we are and how much dependent always! We weakly fancy that we are much, but when one of the greatest of our time or any time comes to his last, then we see how alike we are and how small in the hands of God. And so we all turn to Him, the wiser turn the earlier, that is all. But God is our hope and our refuge, the safe haven in the times of stress and storm and of death. Thanks be unto God who giveth us the victory through Jesus Christ our Lord.'"

TOOK OUT LICENSE WITH ENGAGEMENT

Son of Duluth Man Does Not Propose to Lose His Fiancee.

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—How Lloyd M. Green, son of a prominent attorney in Duluth, clinched his engagement to Miss Blanche M. Goudey of St. Paul, by taking out a marriage license without the knowledge of his fiancee has just come to light.

It happened early last March when Green was a student at Macalester college. The wedding has not taken place.

The bride's mother says the taking out of the marriage license was merely a boyish prank to make the engagement more sure as Miss Goudey sometimes received attentions from other suitors. Both Miss Goudey and her mother say that the wedding will take place in the near future when the license taken out over a month ago will be used. Green is now in business here.

Lloyd Green is not known in Duluth, and no Duluth attorney of that name has any children in St. Paul.

FIRE BREAKS OUT IN KANSAS PENITENTIARY.

Lansing, Kan., April 12.—Fire broke out in the twine plant of the Kansas state penitentiary here shortly after noon and is burning fiercely. The plant is the largest prison twine manufactory in the country. There are more than 1,000 prisoners in the penitentiary.

At 1 o'clock the twine plant, tailor shop and engine room had been destroyed. At that hour the fire was within 200 feet of the cellhouse, but was believed to be nearly under control.

News of the fire soon spread to Leavenworth, three miles distant, and hundreds of persons began streaming out to the prison, anticipating an outbreak.

In fear of a mutiny, prisoners working in the mines were kept below ground, and others who were outside were rushed to the cellhouses.

TROUBLES OF AMERICAN CONSULS

Representatives of Uncle Sam Are Supposed to Be Human Encyclopedias.

New York Times: At 3:30 o'clock the American consul looked at his watch and thanked heaven that another half hour would bring this particularly wearisome day to an official end. In thus calculating the consul overlooked the vagaries of his globe-trotting countrymen whose day rarely coincides with the rounds of the clock or the customs of strange lands. At 3:45 the consul's doorway framed a figure whose height was modified by a slight stoop and whose native twang was modulated by an assortment of broad English a's.

"May I come in?" said the stranger. "Come right in," said the consul.

Both question and answer were superfluous, for like every other consul in the service that particular consul kept literally an open door. In the outer office that gave on to the building's public hall numerous clerks labored behind numberous windows marked "Exchange," "Correspondence" and "Inquiries." The caller had stopped at the inquiry window, but only as a matter of form, for the clerk could not tell him what he wanted to know, and, anyhow, the consul's door stood wide open, disclosing an inviting array of soft red rugs and soft red chairs, on the softest of which sat the American consul. The stranger appropriated the next softest chair and said he, with national directness:

"What is the dog tax in New York?"

Human at Last.

Instantly the consul's bored look vanished, he straightened up, his eye kindled.

"My dear sir," he said, "that is the first human question that has been asked in this office today. I cannot answer it, but I am glad you asked it, just the same. I had a dog when I lived in New York, a fine dog, a ratter, that wasn't afraid to tackle the biggest rat that ever fattened on my neighbor's corn crib, but I kept him out in the suburbs, where inspectors were not very vigilant, and so'—

"Exactly," said the stranger. "Neither did I. I had two dogs that I formerly owned when I resided on a farm in the heart of Staten island, where knowledge of the dog laws had not yet penetrated; consequently I escaped personal encounter with the tax collector. Hence my ignorance. Last night my landlady complained about having to pay a tax of 7 shillings 6 pence on her ragged little terrier. 'But I suppose,' said she philosophically, 'that I'd have to pay a good deal more than that if I lived in America, everything is so high over there. How much is the dog tax in New York, anyhow?'

"I said I thought it was $2, but I was not sure.

Landlady Not Surprised.

"The landlady was not surprised at my not being sure. She said she had often observed that peculiarly in Americans; they were accounted a practical people, yet they never were sure of anything that pertains to common, every-day living. Stung by her rebuke I determined to make sure of the dog tax. So I applied at the consulate. This is where everybody comes, I believe, when they want to find out anything about the United States that they should have learned before leaving home."

The consul drooped again.

"Yes," he said, "this is where they come. The dictionary says that a consul is 'a person commissioned to reside in a foreign country as an agent or representative of a government to protect the rights, commerce, merchants, and seamen of the state, and to aid in any commercial, and sometimes diplomatic, transactions with such foreign country.' Well, dictionary makers don't know everything. That definition is all right as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough.

"The real business of a consul is to turn himself into a general information bureau for his compatriots abroad. If everybody wanted to know about dogs I wouldn't mind, for dogs are an interesting subject, but they don't. Just guess what fool question was fired at me by the man who left about half an hour before you came in."

The range of "fool" questions possible to American investigators being too vast for speculation the stranger did not venture thereon.

A "Fool Question."

"He wanted to know," the consul proceeded, "how many times Bryan had run for president. Some Englishman had asked him, and he couldn't remember whether it was six or seven. He was startled when I told him it was only three. He didn't believe it. He declared that one of his earliest recollections was Bryan's name and face placarded on board fences, and he is now a middle-aged man. I insisted upon three times, and that man went away convinced that of all American consuls I am the least fitted for the job.

"Just for variety I was expected this morning to enlighten a lady caller on the religion of the chaplain of the United States senate. Church of England friends had professed themselves unable to comprehend a government that has no state religion, and the lady in endeavoring to prove that we are not a nation of heathens had herself floundered into a morass. How does the chaplain get his appointment, she asked. 'Does his denomination count, or is personal fitness alone the criterion? Is the daily assembling of the senate an occasion for prayer? Do they ever pray in the house?' Maybe you can answer these questions right, but I am not easy in my mind yet about some of the answers I returned to that diligent seeker after truth.

About Once a Week.

"On an average of once a week some American whose foreign friends have attempted unsuccessfully to turn him into an encyclopedia pops in here for information on the copyright laws and the taxation of church property in America. Yesterday a lady who looked like a whole board of education in herself wanted me to tell her whether the Bible is read in the public schools at home. I told her it was when I was a youngster, but heaven knows what they read there now. The lady was dissatisfied with that inconclusive reply, but it was the best I could do."

From affairs of church and state to slang names for money is a prodigious leap, but the persons who apply to a United States consul for information have accomplished it.

"It was a man who floored me on that subject," said the consul. "An Englishman had asserted confidently that English currency is richer in slang equivalents than any other coinage on the face of the earth. The American had disputed it without being able to back up his contention, so he applied to the consulate for proof that Uncle Sam has names for his money quite as beautiful as 'quid,' 'bob' and 'stiver.'

"Not for a minute did I doubt that he was right, but like him I could not recall any of those expressive terms. I had read them in newspaper correspondence, a quarter of a column of them in fine print, but the cares of managing a consulate had driven them all out of my mind, except 'long green' and 'spondulix.'

Would Write Home.

"The man knew that much himself, and because I couldn't tell him more he went out vowing to write home that I was not worth my salt."

Lest the mind of a United States consul grow dull through lack of exercise his compatriots frequently ply him with still another order of questions. "Have we an income tax in America? Have we death duties? If we have not got them, why haven't we, or if we have got them, why have we?" A surprisingly large percentage of traveling Americans leave their native shores without first ascertaining the president's salary. Scarcely have they landed on foreign soil when some person who yearns to escape the burden of supporting a royal family descants on the beauties of citizenship in a land whose ruler draws only— Then follows an embarrassing pause.

"By the way," says the tax-ridden foreigner, 'what does your president get a year, anyhow?'

The American expatriates stand confounded. Their ignorance has found them out. Only the United States consul can restore their self-respect, so to his office they repair on the run.

"It used to be $50,000," the Americans gasp. "But there was talk of raising it. Did they raise it? Is it $75,000, or $100,000, or what?"

In his reminiscences to the man who had developed an interest in the New York dog tax the consul related story of the lady who upbraided him for keeping an American cook book in the consulate, and of several ladies who, having never kept house at home, do not know whether bread, potatoes and other provisions are sold by weight or measure in American markets.

Three Poems.

Also he mentioned three recent questions that had set the whole office force grubbing for an answer.

"Do you have to pay in America to get lost property out of the policeman's station? You have to here. If a man's house burns down in America is he fined by the municipality for allowing it to burn? He is here. Are American soldiers forbidden to wear buttonholes and required to carry canes outside the garrison? They are here.

"Now, if some one should put questions like that to you," queried the consul, "what would you do?"

"Resign my job," said the stranger.

"That is what I felt like doing," said the consul. "Yet I sympathized with my inquisitors. Their questions may have sounded foolish, but the persons who propounded them were not fools. On the contrary they were very intelligent. They were simply grappling with new experiences.

"At home they never had occasion to inquire at a police station for lost property, they never lived in a garrison town. Nothing ever occurred to awaken their curiosity. Like us smart Chaps who owned dogs on which we never paid taxes, they just walked around with their eyes shut.

"When confronted with new conditions they waked up and began to make comparisons. Were things like this at home? They may have been. The sleepers had not noticed. They want to know. And in their efforts to find out, why not apply to a friendly consul?

GROWN PRINCE LIKES WINTER SPORTS

CROWN PRINCE OF SIAM AT MURREN.

The crown prince of Siam has been one of the attractions at Murren, Switzerland, where he has been enjoying winter sports. His full name is Prince Chowfa Chakraponse Poowanarth, and he was born March 3, 1881. He is a brother of the present king. The royal dignity of Siam is nominally hereditary but does not descend always from the father to the eldest son, each sovereign being invested with the privilege of nominating his own successor. On Nov. 24, 1910, it was officially announced that until the new king has male issue, the succession will pass presumptively through the line of the queen mother's sons.

SANER VIEW OF LAW.

Algernon Lee in the Metropolitan Magazine: "We don't call them courts of justice now; we call them courts of law," says the attorney in Bayard Veiller's play, "Within the Law"—and the audience applauds with startling vigor.

Americans can truly be called a law-abiding people. In big matters and little, by force and by fraud, for gain and for fun, we evade and violate our laws with a cheerful alacrity that has made us the wonder and the scandal of the nations. But what we lack in obedience to the law in the concrete, we have been in the habit of making up by the fervor of our reverence for law in the abstract.

Law is simply the will of the sovereign, whoever the sovereign may be. Judges are men like other men—creatures largely of class environment and spokesmen chiefly for class interests. There are no eternal and absolute principles involved. The question always is, Whose will shall be law? Who shall, in fact, be sovereign?

The playwright "shows the form and pressure of the time." If that speech about the courts brings down the house, it is because the American people are beginning to get rid of the legal mysticism—the habit of thinking of law and justice as abstract and transcendental things beyond human control—which has so long made them impotent to solve their social problems by lawful methods.

Whenever they clearly see that law is just what the wielders of power wish it to be, the way is open for them to make it what they wish.

"MRS." THE FINEST DEGREE.

New York Tribune: Prof. Robert McElroy told the graduates of Wells college at their annual luncheon at Sherry's recently that the finest degree they could ever win was "Mrs."

"A. B. and A. M.," he said, "are all very well. From Wells college they are decidedly worth having. I understand, however, that 85 per cent of your graduates acquire the 'Mrs.' This is the finest degree any woman can win."

ORE SHIPMENTS FROM THE LAKE MINES HAVE STARTED

Expected That Output This Season Will Pass 50,000,000 Tons.

Shipments From the Cuyuna Will Approximate 900,000 Tons.

Ore shipments from the Lake Superior iron mines to the docks for the season of 1913 have started. The first trainloads of the stream of mineral that will go forward until 50,000,000 or more gross tons have been delivered at the great piers on the water front have been dispatched and have been dumped into the pockets of the docks, later to be transferred into the hulls of the big bulk carriers that will ply the inland seas as long as navigation is possible. It is hoped there will be no serious interruption of the movement and that Dec. 1 will see the shipments for the season practically completed. As usual of late years, the first ore sent out has come from the Mesaba range. Approximately, too, since it is this line that will handle a bigger traffic than any other in the region, the initial shipments have gone out over the Great Northern railroad, estimates of whose prospective tonnage for the season range up to 17,000,000 tons. The transportation facilities in general were never greater. There are more and better equipment and more double trackage than ever. The United States Steel corporation's Duluth & Iron Range road, for instance, is about to receive 1,030 new steel cars and ten additional locomotives. The same company's Duluth, Missabe & Northern line has in service or in readiness no less than 150 engines, all of which had been thoroughly overhauled during the winter. Each and every road is prepared to handle its full quota of the season's traffic. The first ore has come from the Stevenson, Croxton, Albany, Shenango, Webb and Leetonia mines, all on the Mesaba. Other shippers are being added to the list, and soon dozens of producers will be active in the movement.

Drilling Near Grand Rapids.

An event of importance in the extreme western part of the Mesaba range is the institution by the Jones & Laughlin Steel company of drilling operations south of the village of Grand Rapids. Eleven tracts comprising 440 acres are under option to the big Pittsburg concern. The land lies between Lake Pokegama and the Mississippi river and formerly was held by the United States Steel corporation as part of its so-called Hill properties. With the cancellation of the much-discussed lease, the acreage reverted to the fee owners, who principally are Grand Rapids, Minn., men, and subsequently was optioned to the Jones & Laughlin interests. It is known that ore exists in the tracts, a fact determined by Steel corporation exploration, and it is to ascertain the probable extent and the quality of the deposits that the drilling now in progress will be done. Unofficially, it is said that not less than 30,000,000 tons of ore have been proved up. How much of the mineral can be mined by the open pit method and how much by the underground system; how much of the product will have to be washed to make it merchantable, and, finally, whether mining at all would pay, are questions awaiting solution. It is the understanding that much of the ore is of the same sandy class as that found in certain localities of the Western Mesaba by the Steel corporation and the International Harvester company. In this event, should the options be exercised and the lands taken over for development, Lake Pokegama will be the location of the Lake Superior region's third big washing plant. It is the general belief that at least some of the tracts will be leased and development work started this year, with the intention of starting shipments next season.

Morris Mine to Resume.

The Steel corporation's Morris mine, formerly one of the biggest shippers in the Hibbing district of the Mesaba, but which had practically been out of commission the last two years, will send out a considerable tonnage this season, it is expected. The Morris is an open-pit property and is capable of producing 2,000,000 tons a year. Its largest annual outgo to date was 1,850,000 tons in 1909. It is not expected that operations will be resumed this year at the Steel corporation's Sellers mine at Hibbing. Litigation with the owners of adjacent private property claimed to be damaged because of the mining work is still pending. Besides, the Sellers ore will not be needed. The Arthur Iron Mining company, under which name the Great Northern interests are stripping three open-pit properties on the Mesaba, will, it is expected, open an underground property in the Hibbing field. This prospective producer is directly south of the Buffalo & Susquehanna pit. It was drilled several years ago and will be drilled again for the purpose of more thoroughly mapping out the deposit. The Great Northern interests have protested against the assessments placed on certain holdings in Itasca county, western Mesaba, and have instituted proceedings looking toward a reduction of the tax. A rebate of $35,000 is asked, on the ground of alleged excessive valuations. A new mine in the Virginia field of the Mesaba is to be opened by a syndicate of Minnesota men, headed by William Merrill of Virginia. The property is in section 32, 59-17, near M. A. Hanna & Co.'s Sliver mine. It is said to contain in the neighborhood of 500,000 tons of Bessemer ore, the existence of which was not determined by earlier explorers for the reason the deposit lies beneath a ledge of taconite, below which it was regarded as useless to search for mineral. The property has been leased from the Merritt interests of Duluth. The mine will be an underground producer.

On the Cuyuna Range.

Labor troubles on the Cuyuna range, resulting in a strike of mine workers at several of the principal properties, while annoying to the operators affected, are not expected to seriously retard production in this newest Lake Superior mining district. It is estimated the shipments from the field this season will approximate 900,000 tons. The Cuyuna labor troubles are not expected to spread to the other ranges. Work is plentiful and men are scarce, it is true. At the same time, wages were never on a higher plane nor has the welfare of the employes been better conserved. The result is a degree of general contentment never before attained and a belief that the possibility of serious strikes is decidedly remote. The season's prospective shipments from the Cuyuna are estimated as follows: Rogers, Brown & Co., 200,000 tons from the Kennedy mine and 175,000 each from the two Armour properties; Tod, Stambaugh & Co., 100,000 tons from the Pennington open pit; M. A. Hanna & Co., 50,000 tons from the Thompson; Cuyuna-Mille Lacs company, 50,000 tons; Cuyuna-Duluth company, 50,000 tons, and the Cuyler Adams interests, 50,000 tons; total, 900,000. Several other concerns may make small shipments, among them the Iron Mountain Mining company. Soo Line surveyors are in the field and it is expected this railroad will materially extend its Cuyuna trackage this season.

To Drill in Virgin Territory.

Exploration in a virgin territory tributary to the Menominee range is to be undertaken by the Florence Iron company of the Ladenberg-Thallman interests of New York. A tract in Forest county, Wis., has been optioned from the Forest Mining company, an organization of Menominee range men, and will be tested with the diamond drill. It is said that cursory work by the Forest company has disclosed the existence of ore, the quality and the extent of which are matters still to be determined. The property is in the town of Alvin, southwest of the Iron River district of Michigan. The Florence company is exploring in the Mastodon field of the Crystal Falls country, but with what result is not known publicly. It was in the Mastodon region that the Pillsbury-Lonyear-Bennett interests found the big deposit of ore that is now being blocked out and in which work more than a dozen drills are engaged. In the adjoining section 12, 43-32, the Steel corporation is operating one drill in Michigan Iron & Land company land, where it has a body of ore presumably of considerable proportions. The drill is engaged in proving up the deposit. The Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, which is exploring in the same vicinity, has increased its effort in this particular and now has two drills employed. Swallow & Hopkins, who some time ago made arrangements to test a tract in section 36, 43-33, southwest of Crystal Falls, have not yet started the work, pending the amendment of the terms of the proposed lease. A diamond drill is on the ground. The tract is west of Hanna & Co.'s new Carpenter mine and is considered of much promise.

Exploring on Peterson Farm.

On the Marquette range, the Cleveland Cliffs company has commenced the exploration of the Peterson farm, four or five miles west of Ishpeming. One diamond drill is being operated. The property is a short distance east of the Chase mine and has long been regarded favorably. Only recently were the negotiations for an option completed. The district west of Ishpeming has been looming up prominently the last few years. Several mines are undergoing development and that other properties will be added to the list seems certain. The Cleveland Cliffs company has been the most active in the work of opening the territory. Coincidentally, Hanna & Co. have attained notable success at the American mine, the growth of which is the result of testing the formation at greater depth than had been attained in the old days. That other mines will be found on the strike of this iron-bearing stratum and between that point and Champion is probable. Ore has been found in pits, but the regular, larger deposits evidently lie deeper than has thus far been reached in exploratory work in the vicinity.

HOLDERS OF MINE SHARES REWARDED

Record Made in Dividends During First Quarter of 1913.

American mines and metallurgical works, according to returns made to the Mining and Engineering World, made a record during the first quarter of 1913 when 114 companies disbursed dividends totaling $23,304,820. This compares with the disbursement of $21,700,390 by 83 companies during the same period in 1912 and with $21,849,031 in 1911. Since incorporation the above-mentioned companies have to their credit no less than $712,197,042. This is a return of $108,629,690 in excess of the combined issued capital of the 114 companies and is a record of achievement equaled by but few industries.

The copper properties had much the better quarter, for with only 25 contributing, the quarter's disbursements reached a total of $11,423,187. These 25 properties have had a remarkable career during the years of their operation, for no less than $372,451,675 has been divided among fortunate shareholders. All but about $13,030,000 of this amount came from companies operating in the United States, British Columbia properties contributing approximately $5,000,000 and Mexican properties $8,000,000.

Included in the 114 companies paying dividends in 1913 are 84 which are classified as gold-silver-lead-zinc producers. These 84 companies disbursed $8,905,778—$4,366,026 of which came from 54 properties in the United States, $3,537,574 from 18 Canadian properties and $1,062,178 from 12 Mexican properties. During the years of their operation these 54 United States companies have paid dividends totaling $148,364,988; the 18 Canadian companies $44,188,937, and the 12 Mexican companies $22,742,057.

The dividends of five metallurgical companies are included in the total for the quarter, these having paid $2,915,855. Since incorporation these five companies have paid dividends totaling $124,449,385.

Eight securities-holding corporations had a very successful quarter, for $5,698,877 was divided among shareholders. This compares with $3,839,751 during the same period in 1912. To date these eight companies have shared with stockholders $157,375,351.

BIG ORE STRIKE MADE IN IDAHO

Fifteen Feet of High-Class Rock in Ivanhoe Mine.

Another mining excitement has broken out in Idaho in another place. This time it appears in the vicinity of Halley, in Blaine county. Already there is a small stampede on in the southwestern part of the state, in Owyhee county, near famous old Silver City.

While there has been more or less mining in other parts of the state for years, in fact, ever since Idaho included Montana within its bounds, the panhandle country has held first place. In the Coeur d'Alene districts big enterprises have proved to the world that the state is a prominent producer of mineral wealth.

Now the southern part is coming in for attention and some very rich strikes have been reported. The latest comes from Hailey and says that a rich strike is authentically reported from Rock creek in a mine called the Ivanhoe. This mine is only a few miles from Halley, in the Camas Prairie direction.

Last week the miners cut into a vein carrying 12 feet of fine ore that will concentrate seven into one and be worth about $80 to $110 per ton of concentrates, the first-class ore shipped from the mine having yielded an average of 100 ounces in silver and 60 per cent in lead per ton.

The Ivanhoe is owned by George Westlake, Al O'Neil and Pat Clark, all of Hailey, and they have been prospecting it for three years.

Last winter they commenced a new tunnel almost parallel with the one already dug and found the vein much sooner than they expected to.

Mr. Westlake has large mining interests in Silver City which keeps him there most of his time, but the other owners will develop the Ivanhoe on a larger scale this summer.

LAKE COPPER PRODUCTION

Output in March Handicapped By Unfavorable Weather Conditions.

Hancock Is Not Likely to Ship Regularly Before Midsummer.

Houghton, Mich., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The production of the Lake Superior copper mines for March is estimated at 16,711,904 pounds, which compares with a production of 15,781,976 pounds in February, and with 19,542,643 pounds in March, a year ago. Production in March, as in February, was handicapped somewhat by unfavorable weather conditions, and in many instances shipments were entirely suspended for several days. The Hancock mine is again shipping at irregular intervals, and the production is small. The regular producers and their estimated outputs are shown in the appended table:

Algomah.

The Algomah Mining company has started drifting on an unidentified copper bearing amygdaloid lode recently encountered in crosscutting west on the 210-foot level. The lode lies approximately 800 feet from the exploratory shaft sunk in the Algomah ore body, and a few hundred feet west of and parallel to a narrow copper bearing bed in which a limited amount of drifting was done during the past winter. Both lodes were previously disclosed in diamond drilling. The new lode is not at all showy and does not carry copper in unusual quantity where intersected by the crosscut, but is altogether of excellent character and promises well. The shaft, which has been bottomed at a depth of 210 feet for some time, is again sinking, and is now a little over 250 feet in depth. The company is without funds, excepting such as are borrowed from month to month, is spending at the rate of $3,500 monthly, and must soon do some financing. An assessment at an early date is altogether probable.

Indiana.

The Indiana is cutting a plat at a depth of 1,398 feet in the vertical shaft, which is sunk to develop the so-called Indiana felsite bed. The shaft, which in the course of sinking checked the almost perfectly with results obtained in the No. 9 drill hole, has passed out of familiar ground, and for more than 100 feet reveals a formation as yet unidentified. The company proposes to crosscut from the present bottom of the shaft, but before doing so will search the surrounding country by means of the diamond drill, this course being advisable for the reason that the exact or even approximate location of the copper bearing power rock in the Indiana felsite bed is unknown and other data is insufficient to be of material aid in determining the exact course in which the crosscut should be driven. The drill hole yielded exceptional showings at about this depth, and a disclosure of rich copper rocks is anticipated in the crosscut which will shortly be under way.

Hancock.

The Hancock has made a second shipment of fifteen cars of copper rock, the last previous shipment being made about a month ago. Other shipments of a like tonnage will be made from time to time to keep the underground workings clear of dirt broken down in the course of development work. Regular shipments will probably not be made before mid-summer, as work is being prosecuted in the Centennial-Allouez mill. There have been no further developments of importance in the so-called No. 6 lode recently opened by crosscut and drift on the forty-ninth level in the No. 2 shaft. The lode has been opened 8 feet in hanging and is now being further developed by drift. It carries a width of seventeen to eighteen feet, and is well charged with copper. Work elsewhere is centered in cutting out stopes for the purpose of developing a rock tonnage. Crosscuts are driving on several levels to intersect the No. 4 lode and others lying to the east of it, and a raise on the eighteenth level is being pushed up to the sixteenth in the new lode encountered a few months ago in the crosscut east on this level. This lode has received some attention in the way of drifting, and is showing fairly rich within a rather limited area opened.

Mohawk.

The Mohawk's new rockhouse at the No. 6 shaft is rapidly nearing completion, three months more will see the structure in service. The rock bin has been completed and the superstructure is now in the course of erection. A month or six weeks will be required to finish this job, and will be followed by the installation of motors, crushers and other machinery. The new hoist, a Nordberg of the standard type used at the "Lake" is on the ground and will be ready for service about the time the rockhouse is completed. Work in the shaft is naturally handicapped by the improvements being made on surface, and progress has been slow. The shaft is sinking below the eleventh level in a very fair showing of copper ground. The No. 3 shaft, which has been bottomed for several years, will probably be abandoned in favor of the newer No. 6 shaft. Ground tributary to No. 3 shaft can be handled with economy through the adjoining Shafts Nos. 2 and 4.

New Arcadian.

The New Arcadian has attained a depth of 500 feet in the shaft sunk in the horizon of the Isle Royale-Portage lode. A station will be cut at about this depth, and crosscuts started east and west to intersect copper-bearing lodes previously disclosed in diamond drillings. The east lode should be reached at a distance of about 300 feet from the shaft, and the west lode at a distance of about 150 feet. The third lode in which the shaft is sinking will be opened by drifts on same level. Development work since ground was first broken for this shaft, nearly ten months ago, has been altogether satisfactory. The shaft started in a fair showing of copper and has been in and out of copper ground of commercial grade to its present bottom. A deposit encountered at a depth of 435 feet carried copper in exceptional quantity. The work planned on the 500 level will not be allowed to seriously interfere with the sinking. The shaft will be pushed to a depth of 1,500 feet with all possible speed.

CORBIN COMPANY IN BUTTE FIELD

Deep Shaft to Be Sunk on the Gambrinus Lode.

Butte, Mont., April 12.—One of the latest companies to actively enter the Butte mining field is the Corbin Copper company, which owns some valuable property in the camp on the west side. Heretofore the Corbin Copper company has directed its energy to mining at Glenberg and other outlying camps.

R. M. Edwards, president of the company, was in the city for some time making arrangements for the opening of work, which is to be the sinking of a shaft on the Gambrinus lode. The Belcher is another claim owned by the Corbin Copper company, and together the claims comprise about fifteen acres.

According to the plans outlined a shaft will be sunk on the Gambrinus about one hundred feet on the south side of West Copper street, and about one hundred feet from Excelsior avenue. This shaft may go down 1,700 feet or deeper still. The plan is to reach the Gagnon vein, which mining experts believe runs through the Gambrinus claim.

The shaft will be a three-compartment one and between twenty and thirty men will be employed in this work.

T. A. Varden is local manager for the Corbin Copper company and though the shaft will be sunk in the residence district, Mr. Varden states the work will be done in a manner that can find no objections. Noise and refuse about the mine will be eliminated as much as it is possible to do.

The annual report of the Corbin Copper company showed a deficit of $62,502 on Dec. 31, last, but this was expected as the company has been to heavy expense in purchases and other items and some of its mining properties have been in a state of development, entailing more expense.

EARNINGS OF MIAMI COMPANY

Net Profits for Year Show an Increase of $1,540,000.

The Miami Copper company produced 32,832,609 pounds of copper in 1912 and sold 32,477,923 pounds of metal at an average of 16.582 cents a pound, which compared with sales of 14,970,557 pounds in 1911 at an average price of 13.03 cents a pound. Net profits for the year were $2,029,765, an increase of $1,540,160. Dividends were $1,100,112, the same as in the preceding year, leaving a surplus of $929,653 for the year and a final surplus of $1,523,218.

The balance sheet for Dec. 31 shows: Assets—Mine property, $1,629,526; development, $522,226; construction, $2,846,736; ore on hand, $11,462; metals on hand, $1,126,372; materials and supplies, $273,776; unexpired insurance, $1,103; stock investment, $75,000; cash, $654,594; accounts receivable, $312,371; total $7,667,167. Liabilities — Capital stock, $3,724,085; bonds, $58,000; premium on shares less expense of issue, $1,967,882; accounts payable, $393,984; surplus, $1,523,216; total, $7,667,167.

Parke Channing, consulting engineer, reports that the equipment of the mill and power house has been completed and the development in 1912 more than kept pace with the ore extracted. The ore reserves increased to 20,800,000 tons of ore averaging 2.48 per cent copper and in addition there have been developed in two years, by drilling, 17,200,000 tons of low-grade material averaging 1.21 per cent copper.

CABLES WEAK; WHEAT DROPS

Sole Support of the Bulls in American Markets Gives Way.

Demand for Flaxseed Is Very Slack and Prices Move Lower.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 12.—Wheat went lower on the markets of this continent today. The sole support that the bulls had, namely, the strong export situation, gave way to a considerable extent and there was a general, though not a sensational, downward movement. There seemed to be absolutely nothing to hold the price up when the bearish cables came from Liverpool. The reports from the winter wheat region were still favorable. The American primary receipts were still large, compared with those of a year ago. These conditions, together with the large amounts on hand in the elevators at the principal grain handling points of North America all made the wheat market very heavy, notwithstanding recent declines.

Duluth May wheat today closed at a decline of ⅝c to ½c and July closed ⅝c off. There were also declines at Minneapolis, Chicago and Winnipeg. Duluth May, closing at 87¾-½c asked, was 3½c to 3⅝c below the Winnipeg May price, thus having a good margin to compete with the Canadian wheat for the export trade to Europe. There seems to be little room for doubt that as soon as navigation opens, a great deal of American grown wheat, now in the boats and elevators at Duluth, will start on its way to Europe.

When this opening of navigation will take place is still a matter of conjecture. It was freely predicted today by Duluth traders that the tugs would be moving about the bay next Monday, provided such weather as prevailed today continued that long. If these predictions are right, the movement of vessels about the bay will give the Duluth elevators the relief that they have long needed, for they are almost packed with grain now, and it keeps coming, notwithstanding the fact that its shipment to Duluth has not been encouraged for some weeks.

Duluth cash wheat today closed 1c to 1¼c under May. Durum closed 1c lower, oats ¾c off, rye ½c off and barley unchanged.

Liverpool wheat today closed ¼d to ⅜d lower. The market was beared by the expectation of liberal American shipments this week, as shown by Bradstreet's report, the Modern Miller's report, the favorable American wheat crop accounts, favorable Russian crop advices and the abatement of the cargo demand. The decline was checked to some extent by the strong closing at Buenos Ayres yesterday, firmness at Winnipeg and the firm holding of Canadian offers.

Flaxseed Works Lower.

A slack demand on the flaxseed market caused prices to sag today, although offers were not large. Little business was done. Duluth May seed closed at a decline of 1½c and July 1⅛c off. Minneapolis cash flaxseed today closed at the Duluth May price. Winnipeg May flaxseed closed 1⅛c lower at $1.12¾, being 14⅝c under Duluth May. Buenos Ayres May seed last night closed ⅜c off at $1.22¼. London-Calcutta April-June seed today closed unchanged at $1.53⅞.

New York, April 12.—May wheat closed 98⅝c.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Lower Cables and Crop Reports Send Wheat Off.

Chicago, April 12.—Lower cables sent wheat off today at the opening, but some buying on reports of killing frosts in Kansas caused a brief rally. Profit-taking sales on the upturn sent the market still lower. At the start prices were ⅛c to ¼c lower with May showing that range at 91⅜c to 91½c. May on the dip touched 91⅛@91¼c.

Reports of fair export sales failed to help prices. The close was weak with May at 91c, a net loss of ⅝c.

Clearing weather sent corn down. May opened unchanged to ⅜c lower at 55⅜c to 56⅛c and steadied within that range.

The market continued narrow. The close was weak with May at 55⅝c, a net decline of ½c.

Oats eased off with corn, May opening ⅛c to ⅛@¼c lower at 35½@35⅝c to 33⅝c and declined to 35½c.

Purchases by shorts sent provisions up, the net advance ranging from 2½c to 12½c. Opening prices on May options were: Pork, $19.95 to $19.87½; lard, $11.00; ribs, $11.32½.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Favorable Weather in Northwest for Seeding Causes Wheat to Decline.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 12.—Favorable weather for early resumption of seeding in the Northwest caused a decline in wheat today. Excellent crop reports from the Southwest and lower European markets added to the weakness. Rumors of export business failed to create any strength. May closed ⅝@¾c lower than yesterday, July ⅝@¾c lower and September ⅞@1c lower. Local elevator stocks decreased 25,000 bushels for one day.

May opened 86⅝@86½c, high 86⅝c, low 86c, closed 86⅛c. July opened 88⅞@88¾c, hight 88⅞c, low 88⅜c, closed 88⅜@88½c. September opened 89½c, high 89⅝c, low 89⅛c, closed 89¼c.

Cash wheat steady; No. 1 northern sold ½@1½c above May. Millstuffs—shipments, 1,474 tons; demand fair; offerings moderate; prices unchanged.

Cotton Market.

New York, April 12. — The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 4 to 7 points and sold off another point or two right after the call under liquidation and bear pressure inspired by disappointing cables and forecasts for good weather in the belt over Sunday. Realizing by scattering shorts and moderate trade buying furnished the market some support and was encouraged by reports of spot sales in the South late yesterday as well as by continued nervousness over the situation in the Lower Mississippi valley, but offerings were sufficiently aggressive to give the market a very unsettled appearance during the early trading.

Futures closed steady; bids: April, 11.93; May, 11.94; June, 11.85; July, 11.83; August, 11.71; September, 11.47; October, 11.40; December, 11.43; January, 11.39.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 12.50; middling gulf, 12.75. Sales, 100 bales.

STOCKS HAVE BRISK RALLY

After Being Depressed During Morning, Declines Partially Recovered.

Liquidation on Large Scale In Some New Industrial Combinations.

New York, April 12.—Most of the stock market leaders declined fractionally at the opening today. There were large offerings of Reading, Steel and Amalgamated. Canadian Pacific was exceptionally strong, advancing a point on an initial transaction of 1,000 shares.

Extreme weakness in several specialties which made new low records contributed to the heaviness of the general market. Rumley and the petroleum shares were offered down steadily and International Agricultural Chemical preferred dropped 26 points on an official statement that the next dividend probably would be passed. Active stocks rallied briskly just before 11 o'clock.

The market closed firm. A brisk rally occurred before the end of the session, after stocks again had been depressed by the influences which have proved unsettling recently. The conviction that a general readjustment of values of old established issues would be necessary to conform to the new basis of financing caused increased selling of high grade bonds.

The statement by trade authorities that business was slowing down and reports of new activities on the part of the government to enforce the anti-trust law encouraged spectators to take the short side of the market. Liquidation was on a large scale in some of the newly formed industrial combinations. The effect on the standard stocks, however, was comparatively slight and in the last hour there was considerable covering of shorts. Bonds were irregular.

STOCKS ON WHICH A LOT OF MONEY SHOULD BE MADE

I CALL ATTENTION TO PROPERTIES OF REPUTATION

BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT

Is fast reaching a point where it should soon become one of the greatest producers of high-grade copper and silver ores in Montana.

I earnestly advise the purchase of this stock for it is now only a question of days before a big new ore body should be opened up below the 1,900.

FLORENCE MINING & MILLING.

Here is a great new proposition that is making good far beyond anything ever expected. Am I right or am I wrong?

A short time ago I visited this mine at Niehart, Mont., and came back and advertised it as one of the coming new mines that should become a great earner of money, but I did not say that cars would bring back over $1,600.00 net, for I thought if these ores would run $400.00 that the mine would, when opened up, be a good dividend payer. What is there for me to say now when carload after carload is running from $1,300.00 net to over $1,650.00, and unlimited territory yet to be developed? Can you blame me for saying that this Florence is developing into one of the richest producers in Montana. A few days ago a check came in from the East Helena smelter for $1,654.00 and today a check came in for $1,467.76, and several cars just ahead of these ran over $1,300.00. Florence stock is being heavily bought at 70 cents per share and it is worth, I believe, at least $2.50 on present showing at mine and much more on future possibilites. It reminds me of the days Scott was selling around $3.00. I fairly begged you to buy it. I was right on Scott and I am right on Florence. I sincerely advise the purchase of these shares. Some of the most able mining men in this country say Florence is a wonderful mine.

CALUMET & SONORA.

Only a question of time when this property will attract national attention. Not long ago I visited this mine. It is rich and worth, I believe, millions upon millions of dollars. When the war cloud is out of the way this stock should simply bound to high levels. It certainly is worth five times what market shows today.

MOONLIGHT MINING COMPANY.

In the Coeur d'Alenes, is expected to hit big ore body proven by the Hercules. They are now getting to a point where every blast is watched with interest.

PURITAN MINING COMPANY.

Buy this stock. Big men are now developing this great property. I know of nothing better. This one, I believe, will develop into one of the greatest lead silver producers in the Coeur d'Alenes.

Will gladly give you information on any property. I have personally visited many mining camps.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE

New York, April 11.—Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says:

General trade is quiet for the time being, many railroads and industrial centers not having as yet fully recovered from the effects of the Western floods. Satisfactory progress, however, is reported at many points. The readjustment of the tariff, now in progress, produces more or less hesitation in some trades but in spite of these two unfavorable factors there is no indication of a permanent setback in business. An encouraging development of the week was the very favorable report on the condition of winter wheat, which is far above the average. Bank clearings this week were 5 per cent under those of last year, but 3.7 per cent above 1911. The prevailing dullness in the speculative markets no doubt accounts in part for the decrease. Railroad gross earnings in March were 5.5 per cent better than last year.

Pig iron output during March showed a falling off from February, while the Steel corporation's unfilled orders at the end of March were 187,758 tons less than at the close of February. The copper situation has improved materially. Better weather favors building operations. The dry goods markets are experiencing a steady, though quiet trade. Lumber shows steady improvement. Foreign commerce maintains its imposing dimensions, statistics for the latest week at New York showing a total trade in and out of $38,189,413, against $36,227,770 last year and $34,488,872 in 1911.

COPPER STOCKS GAIN A LITTLE

There was not a great deal of business in copper stocks today. The trend, however, was somewhat upward. Higher closes were made by Amalgamated, Butte & Superior and North Butte. The New York general stock market closed at some advance today.

During the week closing today the trend of the copper stock market has been irregular. Amalgamated today closed 75c higher than it did a week ago. Butte & Superior closed $2.25 lower. North Butte made a gain of $1.25.

The changes that have taken place on the Duluth curb market have been likewise irregular. The bidding prices at the close today varied since a week ago as follows: American Saginaw, up 12c; Butte-Alex Scott, up 25c; Carman, off 3c; Florence, off 3c; Keating, off 4c; Red Warrior, off 6c; Sierra up 5c.

I. J. Sturgis in a telegram at Boston, sums up the market conditions of the past week as follows:

"The holders of securities except copper shares have not had a great deal to cheer them the last few weeks beyond a small rally in prices.

"The monetary condition throughout the world has eased somewhat but the first sign of any supply of funds was the signal for announcement of new security issues so large as to fully offset the supply of money obtainable. These issues have not been received with any indication of enthusiasm by investors and in London have met with a pitiful response. Every one knows that the definite termination of the European war, which is no doubt very near, means an increased supply of money but the question remains as to how much of these hoarded funds will be necessary to replace the large destruction of property which has taken place and to open up and commercialize the Turkish territory conquered.

"Copper shares are in the best position of any group of securities. The metal is finding a healthy and legitimate market with a good price. The shares are more widely scattered than ever before and less speculatively held."

LEADS AMERICAN CITIES IN GAIN IN BUILDING

Duluth Heads the List for First Quarter of Year.

Contracts Let During the Week for Many New Residences.

Duluth leads all American cities in the percentage of gain in building activity druing the first three months of the year 1913, as compared with the first quarter of 1912. The enormous gain of 558 per cent is shown. St. Joseph, Mo., is second with 179 and Nashville, Tenn., third with 143 per cent.

Figures which were given out this week indicate that Duluth was also one of the leading cities in the country with reference to gain in building activity during the month of March. The country at large, represented by forty-five leading cities, shows a gain of 5 per cent for the month. Duluth's gain for this month is 94 per cent.

Recent large permits for dock construction in this city have been responsible for the swelling of the figures. During the past week, twenty permits to build have been issued representing an expenditure of $28,100.

The plans for the block were prepared by Holstead & Sullivan.

DWELLINGS ARE SCARCE

Vacant Houses of Better Class Hard to Find in Duluth.

Modern Office Buildings Are Also Well Filled This Spring.

Dwelling houses of the better class, such as would rent from $40 to $60 a month, are at a premium in Duluth this spring. Local rental agents declare that there never has been a time in the history of the city, when there has been such a noticeable scarcity in this class of residences.

Five and six-room bungalows, nicely located in the suburban districts are also in great demand, according to the rental agencies. This condition has existed both with reference to the bungalows and to the better class of residences during the past several months. With the coming of spring, no improvement has been noted.

No one pretends to say that there are no vacant houses in the city. The vacant houses are, however, not of the desirable sort and are for the most part either tumbled down affairs or dwellings with few if any modern appointments.

In the downtown district as well as in other business centers of the city, there have been a number of vacant stores during the past winter. This, however, is nothing unusual and is not in the least alarming. It is a natural condition of affairs for any growing city. If there were no vacant store buildings the city could offer no inducement to the prospective merchant. In nine times out of ten, he would seek another location rather than be obliged to build here.

Offices Well Filled.

Office buildings are fairly well filled. As one building manager puts it, the buildings that are usually filled up are the ones that are still getting the business. The reason for this, he says, is because they are furnishing up-to-date service, and that is the secret in renting the modern office building.

Twelve years ago Duluth lost a chance to become the home city of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad through the fact, it is said, that in this city there were not enough vacant houses to accommodate the increase in population were some 150 families to move here.

The history of this incident briefly is that the South Shore railroad about that time figured on moving all of its general offices to Duluth. When an attempt was made to secure office accommodations here, it did not meet with the success that was expected. A committee from the general office employes, who were then located at Marquette, came to Duluth to find what the prospects were for securing homes. Unfortunately they found that there were not, at that time, suitable houses for more than twenty families.

"DECORATIVE TILE PRODUCTS"

"Decorative Tile Products" was the subject of an interesting address which was delivered Thursday night before the members of the Duluth Architectural club by Lloyd H. Williams of the Thomson-Stewart company of this city.

Mr. William dealt at some length with the manufacture of the various kinds of tile products and gave a brief sketech of the history of the material, tracing its origin back nearly forty centuries.

The club's winter course of lectures is nearly concluded and plans are already being laid for an active summer. Among other things the architects are anticipating visits to a number of buildings now under course of construction and to completed buildings which are of interest from an architectural standpoint.

REALTY MARKET BELIEVED TO BE DUE FOR REVIVAL

Steady Influx of New Citizens and Investors Reported.

Work Is Resumed on Road to the Steel Plant.

WEEKLY REALTY RESUME.

	Number of Transfers.	Known Considerations.
Monday	14	$13,250.00
Tuesday	18	2,790.00
Wednesday	18	6,420.00
Thursday	22	11,320.00
Friday	21	11,451.00
Saturday	19	5,433.00
Total	112	$50,664.00

With the steady influx of new citizens and investors in the western end of the city, with all important branches of business making substantial and steady gains and with one of the greatest periods of building activity in the city's history, it is unlikely that the local realty market will remain much longer in a state of comparative inertia.

Trading has been somewhat sluggish during the week past, but indications are that the inactivity is but a temporary state of affairs. In spite of this inquiry has continued to be as brisk as ever and the investing public seems to be even more optimistic than usual.

Dealers are satisfied that it has been the prolonged period of inclement weather that has contributed most to the backwardness of the realty situation and it is their firm conviction that with improved weather conditions there will be a good movement in all kinds of properties. Many of the larger Duluth firms have several good prospects lined up and not a few good sized deals are already under way.

Inducements for speculative buying are as good, if not better, now than ever before and it is also a fact that investment opportunities in Duluth are better now than they have been for years.

Work started this week on the Eighty-first avenue west fill on the road between West Duluth and the steel plant. The improvement is one which has been needed for some time and the news that the highway is being fixed up at this spot is welcome to those engaged in traffic between the city and the extreme western suburb.

At Gary this week lot selling and building activity continues at a rapid pace. The indications are that Gary will assume the aspects of a real town during the coming summer. During the past week, A. W. Kuehnow sold lots, five of which were picked up by Gary, Ind., purchasers.

The Steel Plant Investment company, represented by H. H. Peyton, disposed of two lots in block 26 and one lot in block 27, and the Home Realty company also closed up on a few sales. T. J. Beyenka of the latter company advises that the situation never looked better than at the present time.

Twenty-six new residences and business blocks are now under construction there.

The L. A. Larsen company reports the usual spring activities in rentals and renewing leases. Among the sales so far this month are:

Lot 194, Lake avenue, upper Duluth, to Mrs. Jennie Clements, $600.

Two lots at 3808 West Fourth street from Annie C. Selp to C. E. Lundberg, $600.

A lot on Grand avenue near Fortieth avenue west, for a new business enterprise, upon which a brick building is to be erected this season.

Among the acres sold are eighty acres in section 14, township 51, range 13, to Walter Turle, who is building a bungalow on the land now. The purchase by Mr. Turle of this eighty acres, upon which are some of the finest native pines, birches and spruces, disposes of the last river frontage now available on Talmadge creek. It is a good sign when people of means take up well wooded tracts with streams upon them for country homes, putting Duluth in line with other cities in this country and the older world. Mr. Larsen thinks the outlook for mixed business is quite satisfactory and that the advent of fair weather will help matters considerable.

Better inquiry for acreage and in particular for lands tributary to Duluth is reported by D. M. Cole, sales manager for the land department of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad. Mr. Cole advises that several sales have been effected during the past few weeks to Wisconsin dairymen in the vicinity of Meadowlands and Floodwood. There has also been considerable activity in the vicinity of Kelsey and in Aitkin county.

The Harris Realty company advise the receipt of earnest money on the sale of the southwest corner of Fourth avenue west and Fourth street, a residence property, from Dr. Lower to Maurice Veiner and Maurice Even for a consideration of $6,000.

A frontage of 100 feet at the northwest corner of Twenty-second avenue east and Third street was sold this week from Edgar A. Bush to Francis A. Cokefair. The consideration was $5,000.

Nels Backstrom has disposed of his residence, fronting thirty-five feet on the east side of Twenty-second avenue west between First and Second streets, to Frank A. Dardis for $4,200.

Louis Knichrem has purchased from Joseph Vertelney for $4,000 a residence on the east side of Fourth avenue west between Second and Third streets.

Eva Harbour has sold to Jean L. Samsam for $3,800 a fifty-foot building lot at the northeast corner of Fifth avenue west and Fifth street.

A frontage of 100 feet at the northeast corner of Eighth street and Eighth avenue east has been transferred from C. E. Wolfe to Clarence D. Asling for $2,500.

Joe London has purchased from the Clarion Land company for $1,400 a house and lot on the lower side of Eighth street between Third and Fourth avenues east.

A building lot fronting fifty feet on the upper side of Sixth street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues east has been sold from John B. Rundquist to John Backman for $700.

LOCAL LAND COMPANIES WILL BE AMALGAMATED

To those who are watching Duluth's progress as a city of homecrofters and to the investing public in general, there will be much of interest in the announcement of the amalgamation of several land companies formerly operating through the Alliance Real Estate corporation. A reorganization has been effected with all of the concerns combined under one management and with a large capitalization.

The Alliance Real Estate corporation and allied companies have during the past two years been actively engaged in the handling of suburban acre tracts on a large scale. A homecroft campaign has always been featured and the reorganization of forces is taken to mean another step ahead in the realization of George H. Maxwell's plan to settle 1,000,000 homecrofters on 5,000,000 acres tributary to Duluth.

The reorganized company will be known as the Alliance Real Estate company. It will have a capitalization of $300,000 and will be under the management of George E. Lynott. Mr. Lynott and the other officers of the company are extremely optimistic over the future of Duluth, and when interviewed, admitted that they intended to increase their holdings whenever opportunity offers and that a large selling force will be organized with a number of outside agencies.

Mr. Lynott stated that in order to keep this force busy during all seasons, and at the same time take advantage of the present activity in Southern lands, it was proposed to aequire some of the large plantations in the South and to subdivide them for colonization purposes.

OLDEST PUBLIC BUILDING

Residence of New Mexico's Governor Built 300 Years Ago By Spanish.

The residence of the governor of New Mexico in the city of Santa Fe is the oldest and one of the really historic public buildings in the United States. For three centuries it has been the gubernatorial residence of this state. It was erected by the Spanish when the greater part of the western world was theirs, and was the finest house in the colonies. According to legend millions of dollars were spent on the quaint old building. Most of the material in it was brought from Spain and it was built by the best builders to be found among the Dons of that period. The ships that brought over the material had convoys to ward off pirates and other enemies of Spain who scoured the southern seas in search of Spanish ships.

Besides building materials and builders to shape the structure in accord with the wishes and whims of the Spanish governor the ship brought many art treasures which were to decorate the finished house.

In this house, one of the sights of old Santa Fe, which, by the way, is the second oldest city in the United States, were planned many daring expeditions of the Spaniards in this country.

After the Spanish went the Mexicans used the house as a governor's palace. With the overthrow of the Mexicans by the American government it was continued as the residence of the head of the territorial government that was formed. When New Mexico became a state no attempt was made to give the governor a modern residence. Such a move would have been met with much disfavor in the old city on the famous Santa Fe trail. The house is still in use and there is every reason to believe it will continue to house many of New Mexico's future governors. Governor Prince of New Mexico is credited with saying the old building is "the most historic in the United States."

DISFIGUREMENT AS AN ADVERTISEMENT

In the current issue of Building Management, a New York publication, Whitney Wall, a building manager of this city, has an article on "Turning a Disfigurement Into an Advertisement."

The article refers to the canopy which was built and used during the time alterations were being made in the Providence building, Fourth avenue west and Superior street. Two illustrations of how the canopy looked accompany the story.

Among other things, Mr. Wall in his article says: "The cost of the erection and maintenance was a little less than $300 and I know of no way by which the building itself could have received a better advertisement than by the erection of this canopy, because it caused considerable talk, and we did not miss the opportunity to impress upon the minds of the public that the care taken on the outside of the building in making the improvements was only a sample of what we intended to do in the way of alterations on the inside of the building for the comfort of the tenants of said building."

HOME AND A CAREER.

Mme. Louise Homer Proves the Old Idea Is Fallacious.

American Magazine: Mme. Louise Homer sings on an average of ten times a month in the New York Metropolitan opera house, where she has for many years held place as leading contralto—working hard and giving time and energy to her art. Mrs. Sidney Homer, in her uptown New York home, is an exceptionally watchful and devoted wife and mother—personally supervising the welfare and training of her five children. This woman is singularly gifted in each capacity; combining the two as she does, she becomes truly exceptional.

The home life of the Homers has been ideally happy; one has but to listen to the beautiful songs Sidney Homer has composed and dedicated to his wife in order to realize that. And, apropos of these songs, outside of Mr. Homer and two celebrated professional pianists, Mme. Homer has found that her daughter Louise can play the difficult accompaniments very creditably.

Louise is the baby that went along on that first trip to Paris, but who now, grown to 16 years and herself possessed of a lovely, promising mezzo voice which is to begin training next year, writes home from her school at Westover that her ambition is to be able to play the accompaniments when her mother sings her father's songs in public How would that be for a delightful combination?

Neither Mr. nor Mme. Homer wish to force or urge their children to study music, but believe in helping them to develop any talent they may have.

But Louise is not the only musically talented one of the children. Little Sidney, 10 years old, is showing himself musical. He was only 4 years old, a baby, when he sat through an entire "Parsifal" performance, quietly and enjoying it.

Katherine, the beautiful child with a face like an old master's painting, and Anne are 5-year-old twins and have not yet had much opportunity to betray their gifts; but little Anne, nevertheless, is histrionic and energetic to the degree that she frequently entertains her little sister in the nursery with make believe operas—going through the various parts, singing gibberishly, simulating applauding, taking curtain calls and explaining whatever necessary.

Louise Homer's operative career has had absolutely no effect upon her home life, say her friends. Homers' is an old-fashioned home in that it is ruled over by love, and in that the father and mother love to share and share alike their joys, sorrows and responsibilities. A glimpse at it renews faith and courage, for it proves that an artist, if she is determined and strong, can have both a home and a career.

MODERN METHODS.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "I believe I'll give that poor stray cat a piece of meat."

"What, and pauperize the cat! Always help the poor to help themselves. Scatter some crumbs on the sidewalk. They may attract a bird for the cat to grab."

TRUE SAMPLES OF NORTHERN WEATHER.

Why do you put up with this sort of weather? Why do you endure it?

HAVEN'T YOU HEARD ABOUT FLORIDA?

Would you like to know more about this land of low expenses, the state with the wonderful climate? Are you interested in learning about the money-making possibilities of Southern Florida? As one enthusiast said: "I would not trade my ten-acre tract on the Florida East Coast (they cost only $260, on $10 payments) for the best 80 acres in Northern Minnesota if I had to live there."

Land in the Palm Beach, Lake Worth, fruit and vegetable section is earning from $150 to $1,000 per acre. When you move down there you will meet old friends—300 satisfied buyers from Duluth and vicinity. You should know more about these lands. Write or call for free maps and interesting literature.

When it snows here in springtime, it's time to think of Florida. Cloudy, dismal weather the same. When a bright, pleasant day surprises you by its arrival, remember there are 200 such days each year in FLORIDA on the EAST COAST. Statistics show 105 in Duluth in one year.

NEARLY ALL MEASURES OF IMPORTANCE PASSED OR ALMOST COMPLETED

Minnesota Legislature Enters Upon the Ten-Day Home Stretch.

Non-Partisan Primary Bill's Fate to Be Decided Wednesday.

Workingmen's Compensation and Recall Bills Are Nearly Through.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The legislature enters upon the ten-day home stretch with smallish possibilities of excitement and smaller probabilities thereof.

Practically all of the big measures are either disposed of or so nearly completed that there is little fight left in them.

This week should see the last of three of the largest measures on which there has been a fight.

Workingmen's compensation goes to conference immediately, and should be finally passed and put up to the governor within a few days. The senate has refused to concur in the house amendments to the bill, and has asked a conference committee. This conference will be as much as anything to check up on the bill to find out just what shape the house left it in, and while there will be a dispute about

DISAPPEARANCE STILL A MYSTERY

London Police Think Missing American May Be in Hiding.

London, April 14.—Mystery still surrounds the disappearance of Joseph W. Martin of Memphis, Tenn., who has been missing since April 3. While the discovery of his torn pocketbook first suggested to the police that the American had been murdered and his body thrown into the Thames, they are now inclined to the theory that he is still alive and for some reason is keeping his whereabouts secret.

The opera hat which the workman who picked up the pocketbook saw in the road but left there has been turned over to the police by a boy who found it the same morning. The boy took it to work with him and it was used by him and his companions as a football and afterward put in a horse's nosebag, where it remained until this morning.

The river police continue to drag the bed of the Thames and to keep a sharp lookout for the body. All the hotels in London have been visited for evidence and the police are now making a house to house search among the lodging and boarding houses. They are working on the theory that Martin has left the country and for purposes of his own is keeping his movements secret.

The pocketbook and hat have been thrown from the window of a train, the police say. Expert criminals, the police believe, would have destroyed them. The only credit Martin ever had at a London bank was exhausted on the occasion of a previous visit, but it is believed he carried credit notes.

JOYFUL OVER KING'S ESCAPE

Alfonso Warmly Greeted By Subjects as He Rides in Park.

Ruler Has Close Call From Bullets of an Assassin.

Madrid, April 14.—King Alfonso took a ride through the park this morning and warmly saluted the crowds who noisily expressed their joy that the king had escaped the bullets fired by the anarchist, Rafael Allegra, yesterday.

Allegro still was in a merry mood today. During his examination he forced the guards surrounding him and the interrogating magistrates to laugh at his witty comments.

Inquiries made by the police in Barcelona show that Allegro was recently rejected from the Spanish military service owing to his suffering from nervous attacks. He had been frequently without employment. His wife, it was learned today, is a woman of noble birth.

Third Escape.

For the third time in his reign, King Alfonso narrowly escaped yesterday being the victim of an anarchist attempt against his life. Three shots were fired at the king yesterday afternoon in the streets of the capital by a native of Barcelona, Rafael Sanchez Allegro, who was immediately overpowered.

King Alfonso owes his escape to his own courage, quickness and skilled horsemanship. Accompanied by his staff, he was riding along the Calle De Alcala returning from the ceremony of swearing in recruits, when a man sprang from the sidewalk and seized the bridle of the king's horse with one hand, presenting a revolver point-blank with the other. The king, real-

POPE SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Temperature of the Pontiff Has Decreased to 98 Degrees.

Physicians Satisfied That Bronchial Inflammation Has Not Increased.

NO TRACE OF PNEUMONIA.

Rome, April 14.—At 5:30 p. m. it was stated that the condition of the pope had remained stationary during the afternoon. His temperature had not risen, which was considered a certain proof that there was no trace of pneumonia and also of the certainty of the pope's recovery unless there are complications.

Rome, April 14.—The pope's temperature decreased at 1 o'clock today to 98 degrees. The disappearance of fever is interpreted as a sign that there is no more fear of pneumonia.

The improvement is considered most encouraging. Last night was the seventh since the first relapse suffered by the pope and the gravest anxiety had been caused by his increasing weakness and malnutrition.

It now appears that the access of coughing suffered by the pope last night greatly relieved the pontiff and enabled him to obtain a long and restful sleep.

Rome had been thrown into depression at the announcement of this attack and many thought the pope had reached the last extremity until Cardinal Merry Del Val reassured them.

Temperature Decreases.

During the night the pope's temperature gradually decreased until it went down to 98 degrees.

Prof. Ettore Marchiafava again submitted the pontiff to a long and minute examination today. He gave special attention to the condition of the heart and the aorta. He was satisfied that the bronchial inflammation on the left side had not increased.

Although the pope rested quietly during the forenoon, the physicians were somewhat concerned about his increasing weakness. His heart, however, showed no symptoms of valvular lesion this morning.

The pontiff took little notice of those around him. For the most part he remained silent and passive.

Condition Stationary.

Dr. Amici visited the pope twice after the departure of Prof. Marchiafava. According to an understanding between the two physicians he did not call Prof. Machiafava again as he considered the pope's condition stationary. Prof. Marchiafava is to see the pope again tonight.

Rome is taking the pope's illness

FRANK L. POLK TO BE COLLECTOR OF N. Y.

Appointee Is Lawyer and Ex-Chairman of N. Y. Civil Service Commission.

Washington, April 14.—Frank L. Polk, a New York lawyer and former chairman of the New York civil service commission, has formally accepted President Wilson's offer to become collector of customs at New York, succeeding William Loeb, Jr., and his nomination is expected to be sent to the senate when it meets tomorrow.

Secretary McAdoo urged the president to apoint him.

VERITABLE SLAUGHTER OF MEXICANS

Gen. Ojeda Unable to Withstand Attack of Yaquis, Flees Across Border.

Over 100 Bodies Strewn About Fortifications of Naco Sonora.

General Surrenders Shattered Remnant of Forces to American Troopers.

Naco, Ariz., April 14.—Gen. Pedro Ojeda, commanding the remnants of his Federal garrison of 300 troopers at Naco, Sonora, surrendered to the United States troops on border patrol here yesterday after having withstood a siege of the state troops, which lasted for five days and in which more than half his men were killed.

The surrender was hastened by the attack upon the Federal garrison by the band of Yaqui Indians under Gen. Alvaro Obregon, commanding state troops, who, at dayoreak, burst in upon the little garrison across the border and fought viciously. The dead on both sides has been estimated at 200 and the fortifications at Naco, Sonora, are veritable slaughter pens. About the buildings are strewn more than 100 bodies, shot, cut and horribly mutilated.

Attempt to Cross Border.

Gen. Ojeda, through his promise, refused to surrender to the state forces, and while the fighting was at its height he attempted to march across the border with his band of faithful

AUBURN MILLS TO BE MOVED TO GERMANY

Intimidation Prevents the Strikers From Returning to Work in Twine Works.

Auburn, N. Y., April 14.—Intimidation by a hundred strike pickets at the International Harvester company's twine mill, prevented 500 operatives from returning to work this morning. After sixty-eight employes had struggled through the lines of militia and entered the mill the local officers posted an order to close the mill permanently and to dismantle the machinery for shipment to Neuss, Germany.

In reply to an inquiry for a positive statement, as to the future of the big industry, General Manager Alexander Legg said:

"You may say that we have shut down permanently here. The machinery will be shipped at once. The machinists are now taking it apart. The buildings will probably be used for storage purposes."

The strikers, evidently regarding the company's threat to move away as a bluff, continued to jeer and the whistle blew this morning and marched away laughing when the militia announced that the mill was closed.

The city, however, has finally awakened to the seriousness of its industrial situation and a mass meeting has been called for tonight. In many pulpits last night the labor agitators were roundly denounced. Several strikes are imminent in other industries.

COMMISSION IS A UNIT ON THE QUESTION OF LAW ENFORCEMENT IN CITY

Hicken Says the Lid Will Be Clamped Down Hard.

New Commissioner of Public Safety Makes First Statement.

Red Light District and the Assignation Houses Must Go.

Duluth is going to have a lid which will fit tight and not be subject to manipulation.

William A. Hicken, commissioner of public safety so declared this afternoon.

"There must not be any uncertainty about any statement which you may make relative to the policy of the commission on law enforcement," said Commissioner Hicken today, when asked for an interview as to his position on that subject.

"I am not able at this time to go into the matter in detail. All that I can say at present is that the law will be enforced without fear or favor. I do not know where The Herald got its information but the statement printed last week covers the situation, for the whole commission is a unit on that proposition."

Further than that Commissioner Hicken refused to go. He explained that everything cannot be done at once but that each subject will be taken up without delay and handled without gloves.

All of which means that the bonnet which is to be placed on the Zenith City will be one tailored to order. It will not allow of any secret leaks if those in charge of the city can prevent it. The saloons will be obliged to close

MICHIGAN MAN WILL RECEIVE $2,000,000

Elvin Laschappelle, Aged 21, of Grayling, Heir to Big Estate.

Detroit, Mich., April 14.—From poverty and the obscurity of a little country town to the possession of a fortune of $2,000,000 is the Aladdin-like story of 21-year-old Elvin Leschappelle of Grayling, this state. Within a few weeks he will receive his share of the estate left by his father, a millionaire lumberman of Northern Wisconsin, whom he never has seen.

The young man's parents, Joseph Leschappelle and Mary Taylor, quarrelled within a month after their marriage. The husband left Grayling and never returned.

After the birth of her son the young mother secured a divorce and remarried, leaving the child with her father.

Joseph Leschappelle went to Wisconsin where he engaged in the lumber business and became wealthy. He also remarried and one son was born from this union.

The millionaire recently died. His estate is being wound up and will be divided between Elin and his half-brother.

MORGAN MONUMENT AT HARTFORD

Mr. Morgan superintended the construction of the monument here pictured, which is in Cedar Hill cemetery, Hartford, Conn., and often visited it. The plot stands at the brow of a hill overlooking one of the most beautiful views in the cemetery. It contains a monument and five small headstones. The monument is of reddish Nova Scotia granite and is fifteen feet long, ten feet high and eight feet wide. The pedestal is divided into three steps of gray granite. The monument was begun in 1888 and finished in January of the next year just before the death of Mr. Morgan's father.

LEADERS STILL IN CONTROL OF TARIFF

House Democrats Begin Second Week's Consideration of Bill.

Washington, April 14.—With Chairman Underwood and other administration leaders still in control of the situation, house Democrats today began the second week of consideration of the new tariff bill in caucus.

Having withstood the test of vigorous opposition to the sugar schedule Saturday, the prospect was today that no material changes proposed to the bill could get enough support to be effective, not excepting free raw wool against which a definite opposition has developed. Consideration of the wool question probably will not be reached for several days. The "market basket" attracted attention of the legislators today, the agricultural schedule having been reached. Wheat and citrus fruits were particular targets for some of the members from milling and fruit-bearing states. Flour has been placed on the free list in the administration bill, while a duty of 10 per cent ad valorem is left on wheat. Representatives from milling states claim that is a discrimination against the millers and they propose to make a fight either to put wheat on the free list or to place a compensating duty on flour. Opposition developed also to the free listing of potatoes.

The senate finance committee which resumed consideration of the bill, also had the same question before it, some senators proposing to place a duty of 50 cents a barrel on flour on the basis of five bushels of wheat to the barrel.

FUNERAL OF J. P. MORGAN

Elaborate Services Are Held in St. George's Church, New York.

Body Later Conveyed to Hartford, Conn., for Interment.

New York, April 14.—Funeral services over the body of J. Pierpont Morgan were held at 10 o'clock this morning in St. George's Protestant Episcopal church, where he had worshiped for half a century. Afterwards a special train conveyed the funeral party to Hartford, Conn., for final services at the Morgan mausoleum in Cedar Hill cemetery.

Blanketed by a covering of 5,000 red roses, Mr. Morgan's favorite flower, the coffin left the Morgan library, where the body had laid in state since Friday night, shortly before 10 o'clock, for the church. A vested choir of 250 voices preceded the funeral party into St. George's. Behind the choir came the clergy, then the pallbearers, the coffin and the final.

Notable Gathering.

Fifteen hundred persons, one of the most notable gatherings New York has seen for many years, were crowded into the church. Admission was by card only. So great had been the demand for tickets that many hundreds could not be accommodated. Not half of the congregation of St. George's, with whom Mr. Morgan had worshiped, obtained admission.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's, the Right Rev. William Lawrence, bishop of the diocese of Boston; the Right Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, bishop of the diocese of Connecticut, and the Right Rev. David H. Greer, bishop of the diocese of New York. These were the clergymen chosen by Mr. Morgan in his written instructions made some time before his death.

BAKERS MUST QUIT USING "ROTS AND SPOTS"

Chicago, April 14.—Confectioners and bakers who use old eggs and dealers who try to sell them to unsuspecting consumers were warned by the city's department of health today that traffic in "rots and spots" must cease. Five dealers recently have been fined $25 to $100 each for using such eggs in bakery products.

"'Rots and spots' are eggs so decayed, mildewed and foul that they are almost ready to explode," said the health department's announcement. "Nevertheless there is an active trade in them between certain wholesalers and certain bakers and confectioners."

SAME OLD SPRING SYMPTOMS.

CITY GOVERNMENT NOW IN THE HANDS OF FIVE NEW COMMISSIONERS

New Officers Take Charge on the Stroke of 12.

Assignment of Duties as Already Announced in the Herald.

Choice of City Attorney Brings the First Disagreement.

MAYOR'S STATEMENT.

"The commission asks the cooperation of the people of Duluth.

"We wish to give Duluth the best possible administration, financially and morally.

"To attain the greatest success we need and ask the assistance of the public. We desire to fulfill the wishes of the people, doing the greatest good for the largest number. We heartily and sincerely intend to keep in touch with them at all times and trust that they will confer and work with us to the same extent that we want to consult and work with them."

Statement of W. I. Prince upon being inaugurated mayor of Duluth at 12 o'clock today.

Duluth is now under the commission government.

When the clock tolled the noon hour the Zenoth City passed under the new form with the most liberal charter which has ever been approved by a municipality.

After the mayor and the four commissioners had taken charge at 12 o'clock, an adjournment was taken until 1 o'clock, when the first official business was transacted. Chief interest centered upon the division of duties, the assignments of which were as published last week in The Herald.

Mayor W. I. Prince became executive officer and commissioner of public affairs; Fred J. Voss became commissioner of finance; Leonidas Merritt was named commissioner of public utilities; W. A. Hicken was elected commissioner of public safety, and Roderick Murchison was chosen commissioner of public works. The department of public affairs includes the welfare work and the parks, as well as the duties which fall upon a municipal executive. The department of finance includes all matters pertaining to the bookkeeping and financial end of the city. The commissioner of public utilities will preside over the water and light department and any other utilities which may be acquired by the city. The commissioner of public safety will supervise the police, the fire department and the health department. The commissioner of public works will have charge of all improvements, including pavements and sewers.

Fireworks Begin.

The sessions of the commission will be interesting. The fireworks started almost as soon as they had been seated and came to the appointments.

"I serve notice now for all time that I am unalterably opposed to going outside of the city for men to do our work," was the declaration of Commissioner Leonidas Merritt.

The proposed appointment of E. M. Morgan, city attorney was up. Mr. Merritt vehemently protested. "This man is not even a resident of Duluth," he said. "I don't know him. I don't know anything about him, but it seems that in the bar of Duluth we ought to be able to find a city attorney."

Mr. Morgan was elected by a vote of 3 to 1, Hicken, Voss and Murchison voting for Morgan, and Mayor Prince and Merritt in opposition. No other names were presented.

Mr. Merritt repeated his protests when a resolution came up fixing the

VAST STRIKE IN BELGIUM

Political Protest Planned By Socialists Has Begun.

At Least 250,000 Workmen Quit Work During the Morning Hours.

Brussels, April 14.—The vast political strike, planned by the Belgian Socialist unions, began at dawn today. The first workmen to take part in the movement were the night shifts of the mines and mills throughout the country. They left the various plants in charge of a few caretakers, told off by the Socialist leaders to keep the property from deteriorating

At least 250,000 men laid down their tools during the morning. There were numerous exceptions to the general walkout in many districts, however.

The strike is complete in such places as the mining districts, but is scarcely discernible in some localities.

Must Be Looked For.

In Brussels itself the strike must be looked for in order to be found. Probably one-fourth of the workmen engaged in the suburban factories did not report for work today. The Socialist committee here estimated at 11 o'clock that 20,000 men had struck in the capital.

Reports from the provinces tell of complete or nearly complete stoppage

LITTLE FALLS CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

Little Falls, Minn., April 14.—The 6-year-old daughter of Louis Glubka of this city died Saturday from burns received when her dress caught fire from a bonfire.

Both Can Be Prosecuted.

Madison, Wis., April 14.—That a bartender, as well as a saloon keeper may be prosecuted for the same offense is the effect of an opinion given out by Attorney General Owen to J. F. Malone, district attorney of Dodge county. In the same opinion it is held tht neither can claim immunity from testifying on the ground that it would incriminate him. He also held that a man who gives a bond for good behavior violates the bond if he sells liquor on Sunday.

"Every Little Olive Tablet Has a Movement All Its Own"

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactivo bowels an dliver. Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

CITY WILL REAP WHAT IT SOWS

Pastor Decries the Segregation of the Social Evil.

Taking his text from "God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap," Rev. W. H. Farrell of the Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street, in his sermon yesterday morning, scored the present conditions which permit the social evil and segregation of vice to exist.

He said in part:

"Segregation of the social evil and high license of the saloon must have had their birth in hell.

"We have been planting the saloon and brothal, thinking we would reap sobriety and purity. Just as well propagate rattlesnakes and turn them loose and expect no one to be bitten.

"It hardly seems possible that men with power to think and knowing the law as set forth in our text, would be guilty of standing for either license or segregation."

NO ROAD TO STEEL PLANT

Impossible to Reach River Suburbs Even With Light Buggy.

Traffic Between City and Its Biggest Industry Completely Shut Off.

So deep has become the mire in the "mud trail" through the suburb of Ironton that team traffic between Duluth and its extreme western suburbs of Smithville, New Duluth, Gary and the steel plant has practically been abandoned. It is almost impassable to pedestrians.

The mud hole at the Eighty-first avenue west "fill" has been a sore of long standing with those who have occasion to use the public highway between Duluth and the steel plant during the past few months. The suburbanites are up in arms and are demanding that the city give them consideration in the matter.

It is claimed to be a case of shameful neglect traceable either to the city engineering department or to the contractor who was awarded a contract to make fill in the ravine at Eighty-first avenue west or perhaps in some measure to both.

Sometime last August, the city awarded to Contractor McLean the contract to make the fill at Eighty-first avenue west. Instead of starting to work at once or within a reasonable time, the job dragged along for several weeks. It was the latter part of September when the first attempt was made.

Suburbanites believe that the city made a big mistake in tearing down the old bridge and directing traffic on the road through a mud hole. Later Contractor McLean sub-let the contract to Gulbrandson Bros. The subcontractors had to build falsework where the bridge stood. This could have been easily avoided, it is claimed.

On two occasions, the false work broke, causing delays. Little work has been accomplished on the fill up to this time and it is understood that the work has been taken out of the hands of the sub-contractors and is now to be handled by Contractor McLean himself.

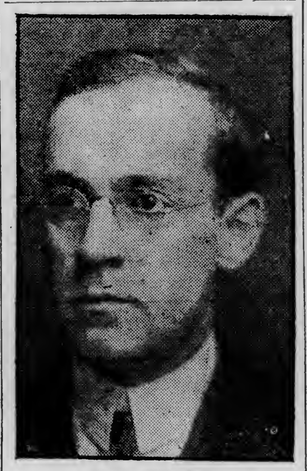

In the meantime, light rigs are being stuck in the mud and pedestrians are sinking down over their shoe tops in the mire. And the highway is the only one between Duluth and the steel plant.

is to land and also who is to be collector of internal revenue.

Mr. Lynch is to see Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department before he leaves, and at the conference the internal revenue collectorship is expected to be touched upon at last. The conference with Mr. Burleson is slated for 4 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Lynch will see President Wilson before he leaves but no time has been set for that interview according to a White House statement today.

GATHERING STATISTICS ON THE PARCEL POST

Details will also be noted as to zones in which the parcel started. As a result, the postoffice department at Washington will be supplied with a pretty full list of facts as to the expense and income of the new departure.

THE OPENING IS SET BACK

Ice Conditions Are Bothering the Vessel Controllers This Year.

Break Not Expected Before April 25 and Maybe May 1.

In the city today are a number of vessel captains, two of whom are on their way to Port Arthur. These are Capt. Frank Nemo of the Monroe C. Smith, commonly called "Little Nemo," because he isn't; and Capt. Charles Caughill of the H. S. Wilkinson. The day of opening has been set back a few notches recently, and these vessel masters are extremely conservative. They are on their way to fit out their boats with the necessities of the season but they do not expect an immediate opening of navigation. A few days ago the date expected was April 19, then it became April 25, and now the betting is going to the date of May 1.

The tugs Minnesota and St. Clair started out this morning to break ice in the channels of the bay and at noon were above the Northern Pacific bridge cutting their way to the entrance to the slips on the Superior side. Their crews will this afternoon inspect the situation of the W. P. Snyder, Jr., and may make an effort to get her out of the ice.

This is the first time this year that tugs have moved. They have been awaiting orders from vessel owners for some days, but these orders have been delayed because of the slowness of the opening of the Soo canals.

One vessel master advanced the opinion today that the question is not so much the opening of the Soo as it is the matter of ice conditions around Whitefish Point and across from there to the Canadian shore. It is said that the ice conditions there are very dangerous, for in spots ice, windrowed as it is, is twenty to thirty feet thick. Winds from the northwest blowing it down and either piling it on top of the ice already there or shoving it under when piling became impossible. The situation there, it is claimed depends on the winds more than on any other condition.

FIRST ORE TRAIN REACHES DULUTH

The first train of ore to arrive in Duluth this year, was unloaded at the Missabe ore dock on Saturday afternoon. Other trains are being loaded at the mines today and it is expected that just as soon as news is received that the Soo is opened there will be a rush of trains for the various docks at the Head of the Lakes.

ORE DOCK CAPACITY ON LAKE SUPERIOR.

The annual report of W. A. Clark, chief engineer of the Duluth & Iron Range road, has just been issued and in it he sums up the amount of ore dock capacity to be found on Lake Superior.

There is not much difference in this capacity from that of a year ago, but Mr. Clark comments interestingly on the difference in the construction ideas from past years. Now all the leaning is toward concrete construction, whereas in the past wood has been exclusively used.

Following is the statement given in the report of the ore dock capacity on Lake Superior shores:

Railways—	No. Docks.	Storage Capacity Gr. Tons.
C. & N. W. Ry., Ashland	2	337,300
D. & I. R., Two Harbors	6	200,100

GETTING IN READINESS.

Railroads

IMPORTANT RULING ON FREIGHT RATES.

Washington, April 14.—In connection with a consideration of freight rates on pig iron from points in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan to destinations in other states, the interstate commerce commission laid down this general principle:

"An investment made in an industrial enterprise in reliance upon an existing rate or relation of rates cannot act as a bar to the readjustment of the rate structure found to be unreasonable."

Increase Suspended.

Washington, April 14.—A proposed increase by the Rock Island road on rates on wheat and corn, 5 cents a hundred pounds from Omaha and other Missouri river points to Wisconsin destinations, where the grain would be milled for shipment east, was suspended today by the interstate commerce commission until Aug. 13, pending investigation.

Monon Trains Resumed.

FISHERMEN UNDAUNTED

Though Prospects Are All Against Catches, Some Are Hopeful.

Season Opens Tuesday and Real Enthusiasts Will Be Out.

Though the general impression prevails among fishermen that there will not be any fishing to speak of until the snow water is out of the streams, there will be quite a large number of the real enthusiasts of the rod and reel who will seek the trout streams during the first week of the season, for tomorrow marks the start of trout fishing.

Among those who will go out tomorrow or soon after are: Arthur L. Ryberg, James Lowry, H. L. Smith, "Billy" Bates, Dr. T. L. Chapman, Dr. G. H. Jones, Frank Brooks, Dr. Ned McNulty, Henry Dworschak, Walter Harris, Walter Miller, Paul Nebling, Bill Rigg, Don Gearhart, G. McCarthy, Rex Weisenberger, G. D. Anderson, J. Douglas and a host of others.

G. H. Huseby, one of the game wardens of this district, declared today that practically all of the trout streams in this neck of the woods were covered with ice, the shallow water running over the top of the ice. He declared that it would be little use in the fishermen going out to the streams, as under the circumstances is would be quite useless to fish.

Despite this fact there will be some of the more devoted followers of Isaak Walton hitting the old trails this week, though, as has been stated, even these genial souls admit that it is little use to fish with any hope of success for another two weeks.

There has been an unusual amount of snow and ice this winter. Consequently the good fishing will be postponed. Until the snow water leaves the trout streams the biting is very uncertain. Those who have come from the various streams in this district report that it will require another fortnight to bring about this result.

Despite conditions, despite the fact that there is little likelihood of making a catch, there are always those of the more enthusiastic class of fishermen who are off for the streams with the opening of the season. Perhaps it has become a habit with this class.

On Trip Around World.

Chicago, April 14.—Forty boys, members of the Boys' Achievement Club of America, arrived here for a two days' sojourn. The youngsters, selected as prize representatives of communities between San Francisco and Chicago, are on a trip around the world. A local boy will be added to the party here and others at various cities between here and Boston. The entire party is to sail from Boston May 7.

PRINCE'S POSITION IS SLIGHTLY STRENGTHENED

Mayor Gains One; McEwen Loses One in First Ward.

No Serious Errors Revealed By Recount of Four Precincts.

With four out of the forty-four precincts in the city recounted, W. E. McEwen is now eight votes behind W. I. Prince, B. Silberstein is seventeen votes behind Mr. McEwen and M. L. Fay is forty-four votes behind Mr. Silberstein.

Several errors were uncovered in the third precinct of the First ward this morning. Fay lost four votes, McEwen lost one, Prince gained one and Silberstein will probably gain one on one of the disputed ballots.

Five ballots were held out. Two show-first choice votes counted for Prince, one shows a first choice vote and another a third choice vote for McEwen and the other shows a second choice vote for Silberstein. They are included in the summary of the present standing of the candidates.

This afternoon the fifth precinct of the First ward, with 557 votes, is being recounted. That is the precinct in which the 100 Prince votes not reported unofficially were revealed in the canvass. The heavy vote in the precinct and the long hours put in by the judges lead some people to believe that some changes may result from the recount.

Saturday the first, second and fourth precincts of the First ward were counted.

The net result Saturday was the gain of one vote by M. L. Fay, W. E. McEwen, who lost one in the count of the first precinct, picked it up again in the fourth precinct, evening matters up for the day.

The second precinct checked with the judge's figures and no ballots were held out for submission to the court. In the fourth precinct, Fay gained one second choice vote and McEwen gained one third choice vote, over the judge's figures.

Two ballots were held out. One gave Prince first choice, Silberstein second choice and all other candidates third choice. It was counted by the judges in the precinct. The other ballot showed first choice votes for McEwen and Fay, no second choice vote and a third choice vote for Day. It was not counted by the precinct judges, but will be submitted to the court by the attorneys for McEwen and Fay on the theory that the voter intended one of the crosses in the first choice column for the second choice column.

STATE LAND TO BE SOLD

More Than 80,000 Acres Will Be Offered Wednesday.

First of Eight Sales to Be Held During Year.

Several hundred descriptions, embracing upwards of 80,000 acres of school and other state lands are offered on the list of acreage to be disposed of at the first sale of state lands to be held in St. Louis county this year. The sale will be conducted by State Auditor Samuel G. Iverson Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the county commissioners' room at the courthouse.

Approximately 50,000 acres more of state land in this county will be offered for sale this year than last. The state land department of the state auditor's office has had appraisers working on the various descriptions for several months. As a result, the number of descriptions offered will be considerably larger than ever.

Judging from the number of inquiries for lists of the lands which have been received at the office of Olin Hadden, county auditor, during the past few weeks, it is believed that the land sale Wednesday will be well attended and that there will be some spirited buying. The state auditor has already conducted sales in Cass and Beltrami counties, and today is holding a sale in Koochiching county. After the sale of St. Louis county lands, to be held Wednesday, the following dates for state land sales in other counties will be kept by the auditor: Aitkin county at Aitkin, April 18; Itasca county at Grand Rapids, April 21, and Roseau county at Roseau, April 28.

No more lands will be sold for less than $5 an acre, and the appraised value of the timber, if there be any on the land, must also be paid at the time of sale. All mineral rights in the land are reserved by the laws of the state. Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser.

The terms of purchase are: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on balance to June 1, 1914, must be paid down; the balance is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years, the rate of interest on the unpaid balance being 4 per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1 of each year.

The dates of the St. Louis county state land sales for the year are as follows: April 16, May 21, June 18, July 16, Aug. 20, Sept. 17, Oct. 15 and Nov. 19.

INSTRUCTOR KOHLER LEAVES UNIVERSITY.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alfred S. Kohler, instructor in horticulture at the university farm, has tendered his resignation to Dean A. F. Woods. Mr. Kohler will leave the station work this week. He said this morning that his plans are at present to visit the Eastern states during the summer, investigating various commission houses, farmers' co-operation selling associations, evaporating plans and getting in touch with the growers of fruits, seeds and vegetables. His successor has not yet been selected.

APPROPRIATION BILL INTRODUCED

Sundry Civil Measure, Vetoed By Taft, Again Presented to House.

Washington, April 14.—Providing that none of the appropriation shall be used for Sherman law prosecution of farmers' co-operative organizations or labor unions, the sundry civil appropriation bill was reintroduced today in the house. Former President Taft vetoed the bill in the last hours of his office because of that provision, which he characterized as "class legislation of the most vicious sort." The bill also carries appropriations for various branches of the government totaling $116,000,000.

While not willing to make any formal announcement of his views, President Wilson told some of his callers today that he would not object to the passage of the bill in the same form as Mr. Taft vetoed it.

President Wilson does not favor attaching general legislation to appropriation bills, but he does not regard the particular provision to which objection was made as one that establishes a rule of future law with respect to labor unions or farmers' organizations. He looks upon it much as did many members of congress, as a provision effective only during the life of the bill, and not as affecting substantive law.

The whole question of whether labor unions may be prosecuted for operations alleged to be in restraint of trade, under the Sherman law, is likely to be taken up when a revision of the anti-trust law is formally recommended by the president and until the point is definitely determined, it is said that Mr. Wilson does not believe such a provision could be regarded as class legislation.

The plan is to pass the bill and also the Indian appropriation bill which failed of passage in the closing hours of the last congress, and which has been reintroduced by a special rule to expedite passage.

LYNCH SLATED FOR PUBLIC PRINTER

Head of International Typographical Union Will Probably Get Job.

Washington, April 14.—J. M. Lynch, president of the International Typographical union, with headquarters at Indianapolis, is slated for public printer. Senators Hughes and Martine and the New Jersey delegation in congress, who came to urge President Wilson to select Cornelius Ford, president of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor, were told that Lynch practically had been decided upon.

Senators Simmons and Overman of North Carolina were consulted by the president as to the appointment of William H. Osborne of Greensboro, N. C., to be commissioner of internal revenue. They approved the nomination and it is to be sent to the senate tomorrow.

Shows, But No Drinks.

New York, April 14.—Mayor Gaynor's interpretation of the liquor laws was contradicted today by the court of special sessions, which decided that restaurant keepers may stage cabaret shows after 1 a. m., provided no drinks are served after that hour.

HUGE DEAL IN TIMBER

Three Cornered Transaction Said to Involve About $2,000,000.

Backus-Brooks Interests Acquire Big Shevlin-Mathieu Tract.

The Weyerhaeuser, the Shevlin-Mathieu and the Backus-Brooks interests figured within the past week in one of the biggest sawmill and timber deals that have been put through in this section in years. The International Lumber company, the Backus-Brooks corporation, which already operates a large mill at International Falls, on the Rainy river, has purchased from the Shevlin-Mathieu Lumber company its mill and timber at Spooner, farther down the river. With the mill go saw logs, timber and a townsite at Spooner, with a hotel and forty houses. A large tract of timber tributary to the Spooner mill goes with the mill, and the transaction is understood to involve about $2,000,000. It gives the Backus-Brooks interests control of the lumber situation along the international border in Minnesota.

The mill at Spooner probably will be enlarged, and two railroad projects are in view, which will give it a better railroad oulet. The Minnesota, Dakota & Western railroad from International Falls to Loman now comes within forty-five miles of Spooner, and has ben surveyed westward to Thief River Falls. When this line is built a short branch will connect it with the Spooner mill and give both the Backus-Brooks mills a direct outlet to the Dakotas. An extension of the Kelliher branch of the Minnesota International northward to Spooner also is contemplated and would give the mill a direct line to Minneapolis and markets farther east.

It is understood that this is also a three-cornered deal, which is really a trade, made in order to give the respective companies involved control over timber that will be the most convenient for their cutting.

Another large deal in Canadian timber in which the Shevlin-Mathieu company figures prominently is rumored but nothing as yet has been given out.

EVELYN THAW MUST PAY FOR HER OWN CLOTHING

New York, April 14.—Evelyn Thaw's plea that her husband, Harry K. Thaw, was responsible for the clothing she bought during 1908, was disregarded today by the supreme court, and a firm of outfitters were awarded judgment against her for $3,746.

The itemized account shows that Mrs. Thaw paid from $30 to $85 for her hats and as high as $350 for her gowns.

Hold Farmers' Institutes.

A. B. Hostetter and W. A. Dickinson have returned from McGrath on the Soo line, where they conducted a farmers' institute Saturday. They had 107 farmers at the meeting and a farmers' club was organized. The members of the club will grow Burbank and Early Ohio potatoes, and will have several cars for shipment next fall. Preparations were also made for more extensive dairying.

Mr. Hostetter and Charles Nelson also conducted institutes last week at Arthyde and Salona.

Superior

Must Make City Dry.

Superior may become a dry city if the present amendment before the legislature passes. The amendment provides that there shall be no saloon within five miles of a state school or institution. As the normal school is in the center of the city, there will be very little opportunity to establish a saloon within the city limits.

Pure Milk Supply.

THE KAISER'S LONG PEDIGREE.

London Chronicle: Among the curiosities of the New Palace, Potsdam, which has been the scene of a fire, is a genealogical tree showing the name of king David engrossed at the root of it, with that of the kaiser at the top, the descent being traced through his mother's family.

According to this genealogy the reigning house of Great Britain is descended from David through the eldest daughter of Zedekiah, who fled to Ireland in charge of the prophet Jeremiah, and eventually married Heremon, king of Ulster. Apparently the kaiser is fond of gazing upon this proof of his ancient lineage, for it occupies a conspicuous position in his study.

HOW HIGH WAS HAMAN HANGED?

Fate of Biblical Character Who Was Double-Crossed By His Greed of Power Recalled By Wilson's Threat.

Kansas City Star: Some little time ago President Wilson—he was then Woodrow Wilson, president-elect—referring to certain men in Wall Street, offered to "hang them as high as Haman" if they should ever get together and maliciously start a money stringency. And a good many persons applauded Mr. Wilson, though it is probable that some of them had rather a hazy recollection of just who Haman was.

As a matter of fact, the hanging of Haman was one of the grimmest bits of ironic humor of which the Bible contains any record.

Haman was an ambitious courtier and princeling in the court of Ahasuerus; one of the most powerful of the Assyrian kings. The king had loaded him with honors, until Haman, like many another favored underling before his time and since, began to fancy that he, Haman, was the real power in the kingdom. And one way in which he hoped to make use of his power was to cause a general slaughter of the Jews throughout Assyria. This was because he hated the Jews in general and in particular a certain and inoffensive man named Mordecai, a habitue of the Assyrian court.

Haman's Story.

The whole story, rich in romance, mystery, plot and counterpart, is told in the Book of Esther. Esther, Ahasuerus' lovely queen, was Mordecai's niece, although the king did not know it, for Mordecai had charged his niece to keep her nationality and her kinship to him a secret.

Now, Haman had Mordecai, and the chief reason for his hatred was that the Jew refused to prostrate himself upon the ground when the king's favorite passed by. It galled Haman's vanity to think there should be one man who dared ignore his greatness. Wherefore, with characteristic Oriental cunning, he set about to revenge himself, not only upon Mordecai, but upon his whole race. So Haman went to to the king and told a story, cunningly devised, of how the Jews throughout Assyria were traitors, refusing to obey his laws and continually plotting to overthrow and slay him. Also, he besought the king to decree a day when the Jews should be massacred; and he, Haman, would gladly pay the necessary money to those who should undertake the slaughter. And Ahasuerus, without waiting to find out whether there was any truth in the statement, granted the request and issued the decree.

Built the Gallows.

So Haman went home in high glee and built a gallows in the courtyard of his own palace, whereon he should hang his chief enemy, Mordecai. And there the grim humor begins.

Now, the very night when the gallows was completed king Ahasuerus, in his palace, was troubled by sleeplessness. And after tossing two hours or more upon the royal pillow he arose, and since the king could not sleep, most of the court was not allowed to sleep either. The king commanded that the book of palace chronicles be brought and read aloud to him, believing, possibly, that the writings of the court historians could put him to sleep, if anything could.

However, the reading did not have the effect. And along toward morning they came in the reading of the account of how Mordecai, the Jew, had once overheard a plot between the two doorkeepers, who had plotted to kill the king, and how Mordecai had told the captain of the palace guard and the two conspirators had been arrested and put to death before they had a chance to carry out their plans.

"What hath been done to reward this man Mordecai?" the king inquired. He had never even heard of the plot before.

And the courtiers told him that nothing had been done.

Entered at the Wrong Moment.

Now, at the very moment Haman came into the palace, for, though it was still early morning, he had got from Ahasuerus permission to hang Mordecai on the gallows he had built, for Haman was not willing to wait until the day of the general slaughter of the Jews, but wanted to kill Mordecai at once.

And when they told him that the king was with his courtiers, the favorite, surprised and pleased, for he supposed he would have to wait, went direct into the royal presence. We may imagine the king sitting there in his richly carved chamber, surrounded by his weary courtiers, but Ahasuerus himself had forgotten his weariness, his interest captured by the story of Mordecai, who had saved his life and got no reward. And he smiled to think how he would surprise and delight the worthy Jew by rewarding him at this late date. Perhaps there were still torches burning in the chamber, while the first yellow light came peeping in at the high stone windows.

At any rate, when Haman came before the king heh found him in good humor. And the king smiled and said:

"Thou shalt settle it. What shall be done unto the man whom the king delighteth to honor?"

His Advice to the King.

And Haman thought to himself, "I am the man. For who is there who stands in higher favor with the king than I?"

Wherefore he smiled in mock humility and said:

"If it please the king, for the man whom the king delighteth to donor, let the royal apparel, the robes of state, be brought, which the king is accustomed to wear, and the horse that the king rideth upon, and the crown royal, which is set upon his head; and let this apparel and horse be delivered to the hand of one of the king's most noble princes, that they may array the man whom the king delighteth to honor and bring him on horseback through the street of the city, and proclaim before him, 'Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delighteth to honor.'"

And the king smiled once more and said:

"Thou hast spoken well. Take thou the apparel and the horse and array Mordecai, the Jew, which sitteth in the gate, and lead him through the city."

The Fate of the Plotter.

So Haman, in great rage, did as he was bid, for he feared to do otherwise, and he saw that now was no time to ask the life of Mordecai. And when he had done leading Mordecai, he went to the house; then there came a messenger bidding him dine with the king and Esther, the queen.

And the queen was very beautiful and very gracious and when the meal was done, the king, still in his mood of graciousness, turned to her and asked if there was any special favor he might grant her. Then Esther told how there was a man within the kingdom who sought her life and that of all her tribe and plotted against them. And the king frowned and said: "Who is this man?"

The queen answered:

"The adversary and enemy is this wicked Haman."

Then the king in great wrath caused Haman to be bound; the queen told him the whole story and confessed that she had hidden her nationality from him and that Mordecai was her uncle. And the king forgave her small deception freely but his anger burned against the false Haman, and he caused him to be taken out that very day before the going down of the sun and hanged upon the gallows Haman had prepared for Mordecai. The gallows was 50 cubits high, which is about 75 feet. And this is how high Haman was hanged.

CHURCH SERVICE IS INTERRUPTED

Temporarily Deranged Man Distributes Tickets to Motion Picture Theater.

Rev. A. W. Ryan, pastor, and the congregation of St. Paul's Episcopal church were both surprised and embarrassed yesterday morning when a visitor got up from his seat, persistently attempted to engage different members of the congregation in conversation and passed up and down the aisle trying to distribute admission cards for a local moving picture theater.

When the man stepped up to the choir box and attempted to hand out the pasteboards to the choir boys he was taken in hand by two ushers who led him out of the church. The man was at first thought to have been intoxicated. It has later developed that the visitor has been ill recently with typhoid fever. It is believed that he suffered from a mental relapse yesterday and that his demonstrations in the church were brought about through a temporary unbalanced state. Dr. Ryan stated after the service that he knew the man and that he was not intoxicated.

SAYS SOUTH IS PROSPEROUS

Duluth Man Comments on Rapid Growth of Houston, Tex.

H. J. Atwood, a member of the board of trade, who returned last week from a Southern trip, says that Houston, Tex., struck him as the most progressive city in that section, judging by the amount of building under way and the general air of prosperity. Mr. Atwood says that old landmarks are being torn down to make way for modern office buildings, and the residence portion of the Texas town is being made up to date in every way. The Duluth man says that the sections of the South he visited seemed to be generally prosperous. The Mississippi river promises to cut the usual antics in the way of high water, and was unusually high way down to New Orleans as the Zenith City man returned. "The entire Mississippi and Ohio river valleys never got such soakings," Mr. Atwood said. "In the Hoosier state there is hardly a depression that is not a mud puddle. Farmers will be backward in planting, but of course the soil will be in unusually fine shape."

Woman's Realm

NEW PRESIDENT OF MATINEE MUSICALE

MRS. JOHN A. STEPHENSON.

With the annual business meeting of the Matinee Musicale, held this afternoon at the Young Women's Christian association building, the season for that organization was closed. Reports of the officers and chairmen of the various departments proved of vast interest to the members of the club and officers were elected for next year.

Mrs. John A. Stephenson was elected president for the coming year by a unanimous vote to succeed Mrs. George S. Richards, who, as president for the past two years, has broadened and extended the work of the club in a most satisfactory manner but who refused a renomination to the office.

Besides the secretaries' and treasurer's reports reviews of the department work were given by Miss Josephine Peyton, chairman of the philanthropic committee; Mrs. Millie Bunnell, chairman of the department of hall and hospitality; Miss Josephine Carey of the teachers' round table; Mrs. E. L. Schiem, chairman of the associate circle; Mrs. Ernest Lachmund, chairman of the auditing committee; Mrs. J. A. Stephenson, chairman of the membership committee, and Miss Carlotta Simonds, chairman of the study class.

Treasurer's Report.

Miss Bernice Crowley, treasurer of the club, presented a most comprehensive, as well as a detailed report of the affairs of the office of which the following are the main points:

Received from membership, active, student, special and associate	$ 20.56
Received from guests at artists concerts	323.50
Received from guests at regular programs and from sundries	249.93
Total receipts	$2,629.45
Balance from last year	118.22
Total	$2,747.67
DISBURSEMENTS.
For four artists concerts	$1,418.10
For current expenses	726.35
Total disbursements	$2,144.45
To the sustaining fund has been added	500.00
Total	$2,644.45
Leaving a balance on hand April 11	$ 103.22

Miss Crowley has been treasurer of the club for three years, filling the office in a most capable and satisfactory manner, the exacting duties being performed with satisfaction. She was also a charter member of the club and was secretary for six years and retired director for one year, serving faithfully and her work has been much appreciated.

Mrs. E. D. Edson, recording secretary of the club, presented the following report of last year's work, covering all departments as follows:

"Contrary to the prevailing superstition against a so-called unlucky number, the thirteenth season of the Matinee Musicale opened auspiciously, and has brought to the eve of closing the events of another successful year.

"The various innovations of the previous season, the outcomes of which were largely speculative, have proven as practical in their benefits as they promised, so far more than realizing the possibilities of good society recognized in them.

"Fortunate indeed was the club in being able to persuade Mrs. Richards to renew her obligations as its head officer. Through her consent to remain in office another fortunate incident took place—the falling in line of Mrs. McKindley in her unchallenged position of musical director. Under her tactful management otherwise hopeless tangles are straightened out, substitutes provided at the last minute for delinquent performers, and trying situations brought to happy terminations.

Opening Program.

"The formal opening of the society on Oct. 7 was a noteworthy occasion. The club overflowed its doors and Mrs. Richards delivered her greetings to the largest audience in the club's history.

"The announcement that Mrs. Brearley, recently returned from two years in Vienna and Berlin, would give the piano numbers brought an enthusiastic audience. She was assisted by Mrs. Charles Weyerhaeuser, a one-time Duluthian, whose charm of personality and beautiful singing combined to complete a distinctive program.

"Following this initial triumph was a concert hardly less attractive. Mrs. Millen and Mrs. Stephenson in their interesting two-piano work showing the splendid results of months of conscientious preparation. Mme. Fischer-Zarad, a visiting artist of reputation, gave a group of songs and added to an already earned popularity to which her previous appearance in Duluth had entitled her.

"Lack of time forbids special comment of many programs that have reflected credit on their performers. Special mention should be made of the Christmas concert at the Endion Methodist church.

"On Jan. 27 the Aronsky trio, written for 'cello, piano and violin, was played by Mrs. Erd, Mrs. Bradbury and Miss Gunderson, and was one of the most highly satisfactory productions of the year. So infrequent are the privileges of hearing chamber music in Duluth that the excellent rendering of this impressive trio gave keen delight to a deeply appreciative audience.

Exchange Programs.

"Finished and artistic programs from the Twin Cities in accordance with our established custom of interchange, have been given, these concerts now being eagerly anticipated by our members as two of the assured attractions of the year. Of special interest was the singing of Miss Petersen of the Schubert club of St. Paul, who won the good will of the audience by her exquisite rendering of two contrastingly beautiful songs by one of our local musicians and club-members—Ernest Lachmund.

"Our local representatives, consisting of Mrs. Brearley, Miss Heymar, and Miss Reynolds, soloists, with Mrs. Kindley and Miss Brown, accompanists, in return gave entirely satisfactory programs in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

"Our students, now an active body of earnest young musicians, are among our most enthusiastic members, and are regular attendants to our programs. They have given two recitals this year, some of the numbers being delightful surprises to those who were enough interested to attend. It is a matter of regret, however, that these performances are not better patronized. "A Student Frolic," arranged by Mrs. Lachmund and Mrs. Stephen Jones was recently given, through this medium the relief from the tension of the year's work is enjoyed, and the reaction necessary to growing minds allowed to take form in unrestrained and wholesome merry-making; a unique and entertaining vaudeville performance open for a small fee to anyone interested and followed by a tea served by the student members themselves concluded an afternoon of pleasure.

"Through the exceptional generosity of one of our associate members whose wish forbids the disclosure of her name, on the second of November, Leon Rice, a New York tenor of reputation, assisted by Miss Gunderson, was heard in concert at the Lyceum theater. The Matinee Musicale assumed the management of this affair, which was under the personal direction of Mrs. George Herbert Jones.

Artists' Concerts.

"Taking into consideration the large clubs of the state, the Matinee Musicale is exclusive in its custom of including the artists' concerts in the price of the membership ticket. In addition to the Leon Rice concert, four other professional programs have been enjoyed by our members this year, which, taken as a whole have been entirely satisfactory.

"Proof of the advance of musical culture in Duluth is the increasing desire for chamber music; the Flonzaley quartet, with their wonderful seriousness of purpose and perfection of ensemble, added to a rare impression made on our members last year, the audience itself being a marvel of attentive appreciation.

"Following this was given a joint song recital by Mme. Corinne Rider-Kelsey and Claude Cunningham.

"After these the Swainson Sisters appeared in lecture recital with illustrations on piano and 'cello—their theme—Modern French Music.

"On March 5 Josef Lhevinne, with his bi, unostentatious, but impressive personality, gave what was voted by many to be the greatest piano concert ever heard in Duluth.

New Members.

"Through the organized efforts of the membership committee, of which Mrs. John Stephenson was chairman, assisted wonderfully by the individual aid of interested club members, our numbers were enlarged this year from 349 to 483—a gain of 134. Early in the season circulars taking the form of greetings were mailed to a large list of people inviting them to membership. Plans are already under way to increase still further next year's membership, one of which was the giving of the annual request program on the evening of April 7 and allowing each member the privilege of bringing a guest, preferably a prospective member. At this time some of the finest talent in the club, chosen from those who have appeared on this season's programs were heard.

"This was given in the Congregational church in the presence of a capacity audience. Our president made the initial appearance on the program with an address of gracious welcome to which she added an interesting and inclusive statement of the Club's advantages, object and plans. Following was a program showing at their best those to whom the compliment of choice was granted. The Matinee Musicale felt that the success of this affair ably managed by Mrs. D. H. Day, Mrs. G. Herbert Jones, and Mrs. Stephen H. Jones was a fitting climax to the crescendo of the year's proceedings.

Miss Pearson has had charge of the press affairs this year; this is a very demanding responsibility and Miss Pearson has managed it capably.

"The philanthropic department is one of the finest divisions of the society.

"Until her personal demands forced her to resign in December, Miss Ruth Rogers continued her chairmanship of last year, which she had so successfully superintended, when Miss Peyton was appointed to fill her place. In addition to the Leon Rice concert, already referred to as largely philanthropic in its purpose, eighteen programs will have been given at the end of the club year. These have been before schools, hospitals, and other institutions where, owing to disadvantageous neighborhood or other unfavorable conditions, the scarcity of good music is evident or its influence most needed. By a peculiar coincidence the number of programs given through this department exactly corresponds with that enjoyed by our members, thereby well demonstrating a good portion of our club's benevolences.

A New Committee.

"A comparatively new committee, that fills a long felt want is that of hall and hospitality. Throughout the competent management of Mrs. Bunnell and her assistants, the stage, its equipments and decorations are prepared for the concerts, the church properly lighted and ventilated the arrangement of entertainment of our out-of-town guests looked after and the securing of the autos for their comfort and convenience between trains and places of entertainment attended to. Hostesses have also to be provided for receptions, and the details that were formerly responsibilities for the president at those times when her mind was most engaged, are now assumed by this committee.

"To think of the study class apart from Miss Simonds would now be difficult. Her studio on the Mondays alternating with regular programs is a center of educational activity, and is open to any club member seriously desiring self improvement along the lines of musical research. This year the class has studied the lives of composers and their works, departing incidentally to take up any line of study suggested by the artist's recitals, or other local concerts.

"Our Special Department, an innovation of last season, has resulted in a larger proportionate increase of membership than any other division—from 25 to 67. Through the courtesy of Mr. Denfeld, our president was given opportunity to review the benefits of this department before a meeting of the public school teachers at the high school. Through this department teachers and others employed through the day, professionally or clerically, may secure a membership ticket entitling them to hear our artists for a sum averaging a dollar a concert, the same price asked for men and non-residents, and personal expressions in appreciation of this privilege are frequently heard by those who, under the former club regulations, were excluded from our professional concerts.

Teachers' Round Table.

"Another of the new efforts of the year was the organization of the Piano Teachers' Round Table, under the direction of Miss Josephine Carey, meeting once a month for the discussion of modern educational methods and mutual interchange of ideas and experiences, the aim of each member being to strengthen herself where she recognized personal weakness, and by co-operation with others to broaden her outlook and make herself more qualified in the profession in which she labors.

"Following the death in August of our fellow worker and musician, Horace W. Reyner, his valuable library of music and musical works was offered by his widow as a gift to the Matinee Musicale for loan at its discretion and pleasure, under specified conditions. This was gratefully accepted, an appropriate cabinet purchased for its preservation, and embellished by the addition of a silver plate on which are inscribed the words 'Reyner Memorial Library.' To Mrs. Wanless, our librarian, who spent hours of labor in arranging, listing and classifying this collection, an expression of appreciation is due.

"We are proud to say that the Matinee Musicale belongs to the National Federation of Musical Clubs, which accession puts us in touch with all the large musical organizations in the United States.

"The federation stands for the advance and support of American music and our society was able to contribute a generous fee this year toward the prize fund for the best American composition, to be awarded at the biennial convention, to be held in Chicago April 21 to 26, to which we are sending Mrs. Richards as delegate. Our club is honored by having one of its members in office of the federation, Miss Carlotta Simonds being vice president for the state of Minnesota. Mrs. Ostergren is our correspondent. Miss Clara Stocker sends the programs which, together with our year book, will be displayed at the bieninal meeting in Chicago.

Associate Circle.

"An innovation of this season is the forming of a circle of associate members of our society. Mrs. Schmied was given its chairmanship, our president recognizing in her the particular attributes to its success.

"The object of the circle is chiefly to prepare the associate members for better understanding of our programs, and especially the artists' concerts, and that their enjoyment may be from an intellectual as well as an emotional standpoint. Its secondary object is the furtherance of social activity by bringing this department into touch with the active circle, to co-operate with it, and thereby become itself an active force in the club. The circle has met in private homes large enough to accommodate the membership, whose owners have hospitably opened their doors and where an atmosphere of informality which would have been unattainable in public surroundings brought the members in closer contact.

"It is a matter of regret that Mrs. Richards who has managed the affairs of this society with such wonderful efficiency, finds her already long-laid-aside personal claims prevent her continuing in charge as its first officer; but taken from an unselfish viewpoint we can but congratulate her upon the prospect of a much-needed and well-deserved rest, feeling we hope that the personal sacrifices she has made in the interest of the Matinee Musicale may re-act on herself bringing in return the satisfaction of faithfully discharged duties, and of the fulfillment of accomplishments invaluable to the society, receiving in turn the cordial gratitude, and hearty appreciation of its members, both as an organization and as the individuals of which it is composed. She sets her stamp of approval, as do we all, on our president-elect Mrs. John Stephenson, who has already proven her ability to take up the threads of Mrs. Richards' weaving, working the ideas of her own fertile mind into the pattern.

"The Matinee Musicale stands for the best and highest in music. Let us prove the uplifting influence of our art by right attitudes and co-operate to further the welfare of our society in the club-spirit so essential to its continued success. Respectfully submitted.

"M. CORNELLE EDSON
Recording Secretary.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

The Use of Medicine for Real or Imaginary Ills is Overdone.

With the coming of spring, there are the usual number of people who seem to think they are in need of medicine or a "spring tonic," as it is called. It is true, too, that after a long winter of hearty eating and confined living, the blood and general system may be benefited by some of the simple remedies that have been handed down to us from our grandmothers and great grandmothers.

Ther may be no harm in a "spring tonic," but the point is that as a class the American people are given to taking medicines for both real and imaginary ills, with a strong leaning toward the imaginary. Many people—and particularly is this true of women—fill their stomachs with all kinds of questionable remedies, which are warranted to cure every ill that flesh is heir to, and are benefited not so much because the medicine has a salubrious effect, as because the taking of medicine, in some form or other, satisfies some peculiar twist of the mind.

The main point with a large percentage of the women who take medicine for any cause whatever is, that they are taking medicine. The mere knowledge that they are taking something that a physician has prescribed for them, or that some of their friends or fellow sufferers have recommended as being magical in its effects upon certain ills which they may or may not endure, is sometimes sufficient to work a cure.

Many of us have heard it affirmed that in very many cases where doctors are called upon to recommend a course of treatment or a remedy, they prescribe to relieve the mind, and not to cure a real physical disability. Very often none exists, except that which the imagination and a life barren of an aim creates. Though we are quite familiar with this state of affairs, we seldom apply the truth of it to ourselves. Nevertheless, perhaps many of us who least suspect it have taken our share of the harmless sugar and water mixtures which physicians are often forced to prescribe in order to hold patronage and preserve their professional reputations.

Tonics may be necessary in some cases at this season. But let me give you a prescription that none will gainsay, and that will do you more good than any which a physician can write, if there is nothing serious the matter. It is concocted of fresh air, sunshine and exercise. Pin your faith to these and see if they do not serve you, ordinarily, better than powders and pills.

CONCERT AT LYCEUM.

Miss Inga Orner Assisted By Large Chorus.

The concert given yesterday afternoon at the Lyceum theater by Miss Inga Orner, the Norwegian lyric soprano of the Metropolitan opera company of New York and the Covent Garden opera company of London, assisted by the Duluth-Superior Singers' Union, a chorus of seventy voices under the direction of J. H. Flaaten, was a decided success every number being received with enthusiasm and the singers were forced to repeat or give encore numbers.

Miss Orner's voice with its qualities of freshness and sweet clear tone and her delightful enunciation of the English as well as foreign languages, made her numbers a treat and she was ably assisted by Mrs. Gustav Flaaten, who played her accompaniments artistically.

Miss Valborg Gunderson, violinist, was also received with enthusiasm in her playing of the Sarasate "Faust Fantasia" with her usual charm, Miss Louise Murehison playing her accompaniment.

The chorus numbers were well done, harmony and unity being the special atributes of their numbers.

The concert will be repeated in Superior tonight.

CEREMONIAL MEETING.

Camp Fire Girls Gather Round Council Fire.

One hundred and thirty campfire girls, representing ten groups, held a ceremonial meeting on Saturday afternoon at the Young Women's Christian association building under the leadership of Miss Mae C. Anders. They opened the ceremonies at 3 o'clock with a march from the gymnasium to the lobby of the building singing the Wohelo call of the campfire maidens, gathering around their own guardians for the rest of the ceremonies which consisted of the giving of the fire-makers' degree to two girls—Marion Medd and Winnifred Crawley—who have covered the fourteen required honors and twenty additional elective honors. These two girls were then appointed to kindle the council fire, and all the girls recited the "Ode to the Fire."

About thirty new members were given the wood gatherers' degree, the first degree, and after that honor beads were awarded by the guardians to the girls in their own groups.

Pine boughs, the symbol of membership in the campfire groups, were used in decorating the building, and after the ceremonies, Miss Della Smith, in full campfire costume, told an Indian story seated in front of the open fire.

Following these ceremonies the girls of each group entertained with a stunt program in the assembly hall and the afternoon closed with the serving of refreshments in the gymnasium.

Mrs. E. D. Field, chairman of the committee on junior work of the association, assisted in the arrangements for the afternoon.

The next ceremonial meeting will be held in June when about seventy-five girls will take the second or firemakers' degree.

NEW SERVICE IS HELD UP

Agitation Prevents Merchants Getting Benefit of Shoppers' Train.

State Commission Will Probably Indorse It on Learning Facts.

Agitation based on ignorance of the facts, or their misrepresentation by the morning paper, caused some range people Saturday to protest to the state railroad and warehouse commission against the proposed improved service on the Great Northern from the Western Mesaba to Duluth, and the new service did not go into effect today.

Saturday the commission issued an order suspending the service and ordering a hearing, which is being held in St. Paul today. Great Northern officials expressed the belief that as soon as the true facts are known to the members of the railroad and warehouse commission the suspension will be raised and the new service will be instituted and welcomed.

The objections are directed against the proposed abolishment of Great Northern passenger service between Virginia and Hibbing. Since the service of the Mesaba Electric company has been added to the Duluth, Missabe & Northern service between Hibbing and Virginia and from all towns in that section to Duluth, there appears to be no further need for the Great Northern passenger service. The Great Northern officials took that situation into consideration in preparing the schedules for the new service.

By eliminating the service on the line between Hibbing and Virginia, the Great Northern will be able to give the people of the Western Mesaba west of Hibbing much better service in and out of Duluth. The proposed new service would enable people in that territory to come to Duluth, spend three hours and forty minutes in the city, and return home the same day.

Merchants Want It.

People on the Western Mesaba are well pleased with the proposed new service and anxious to have it go into effect. Duluth merchants and others interested in having adequate facilities provided for people in nearby territory to come to Duluth are also anxious to have the new service instituted. It is expected that the objections based on the elimination of the service between Hibbing and Virginia will not have much weight, when the service on the D. M. & N. and the Mesaba Electric railway is considered and that the state railroad and warehouse commission will lift its ban after the hearing today.

The new service on the Great Northern was requested by the traffic commission of the Commercial club only after a thorough survey of the situation and after the establishment of the fact that the new service would bring Duluth into closer touch with the territory to be served. The members of the traffic commission are satisfied with the arrangements made by the Great Northern and are hopeful that the state railroad and warehouse commission will allow the railroad to begin its service soon.

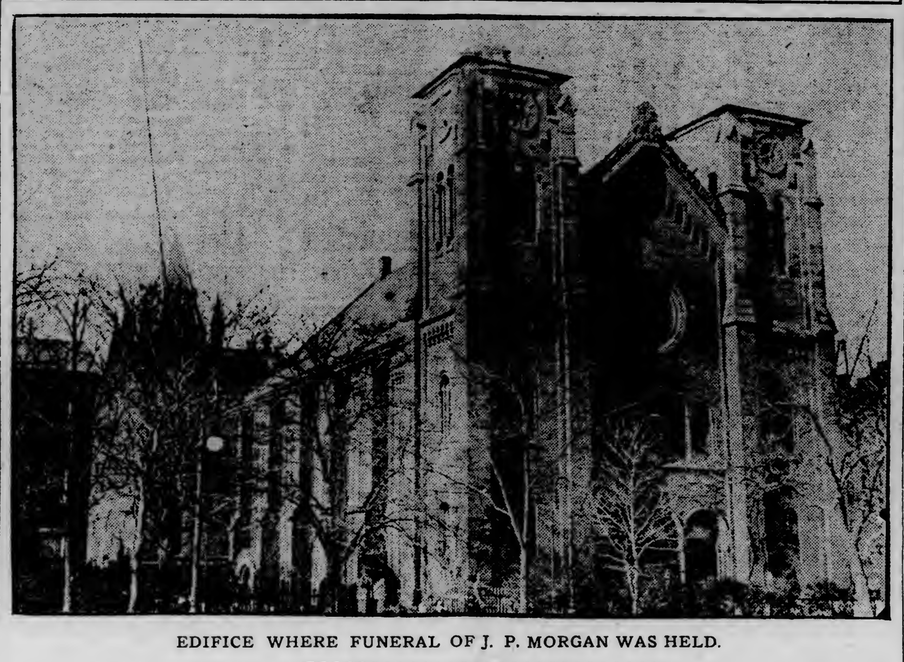

YOU MAY have noticed we have not been saying much of late; the reason was that we have been changing several of our departments around and were not in shape to care for you as we would like.

Now all this rearranging is practically over and we especially invite you to come and join us at our Special Opening next Thursday and Friday Afternoons, and see the big improvements made for your special convenience.

at 11 o'clock at night and keep closed until 5 o'clock in the morning. There'll be nothing doing on Sundays. The blind pigs which are claimed to have been existing in Duluth will be wiped out. The redlight district will be closed. The assignation houses which have been catering to a doubtful class of trade will no longer be able to run unless they do a legitimate business.

"Have any orders been issued?" Commissioner Hicken was asked today.

"No orders have yet been issued," was the answer. "I wish to thoroughly investigate the situation before any specific orders are given on definite things. The sure thing is that there will no violation of the law and that is the policy which goes into effect immediately."

The so-called liberal element has been in a mournful state of mind since the election. They have felt that the law would be enforced but that they have been hoping against hope that some straw would float before them to enable them to continue their hold upon the present situation with its financially helpful laxity. The story in The Herald last week expressed the fulfillment of their fears but they did not wish to credit the situation as set forth. The assertions of Commissioner Hicken of the public safety department eliminates all doubt and confirms what was printed relative to the enforcement of the regulations.

Banked High.

The chancel was banked high with floral offerings, but these were only a small part of the hundreds that have poured into the Morgan home. Most of those were left behind and will be distributed to the hospitals. Among the flowers there were orchids and palm leaves from the emperor of Germany; a gold maltese cross beneath a crown of palms from the French republic; a garland of violets and lilies of the valley from the British ambassador; a wreath of orchids from the Italian government. About fifty floral pieces were selected to be taken to Hartford.

There was no variation in the services from the Episcopal ritual. "Calvary" was sung as a solo by Harry Burleigh, the baritone of St. George's. As the funeral party left the church the choir sang the recessional, "For All Thy Saints Who From Their Labors Rest."

Thousands of Spectators.

A crowd that the police estimated at 25,000 persons choked the thoroughfares leading to the church. Across Second avenue, in Stuyvesant Square, directly opposite the entrance to the church, 5,000 more had been waiting for hours. One hundred policemen kept back the throngs. So great was the throng when the bells began tolling as the funeral party left the Morgan home that for several blocks in each direction the police stopped all vehicle traffic.

The crowd stood patiently during the long services and disbanded without incident at the close.

Services In London.

London, April 14.—A cosmopolitan congregation attended services for the late J. P. Morgan in Westminster Abbey today. King George was represented by Capt. Sir Walter Campbell, groom-in-waiting and Queen Mother Alexandra by the Hon. John Ward, equerry to the king.

Official, diplomatic, financial, art and church circles were present in force and large numbers of Americans both resident and transient, attended.

The dean of Westminster officiated, assisted by a number of clergy. The service duplicated the funeral service at New York. At the conclusion Sir Frederick Bridge played the "dead march" on the great organ, the whole congregation meanwhile standing. The chief mourners were distant relatives of the late J. P. Morgan and representatives of his London banking house.

Federals. The fire from the enemy was demoralizing and Ojeda and his men scattered, running to the railway tracks which separate the two border towns. Not even then did the firing from the rebels cease and Gen. Ojeda shouted to the American soldiers watching the fighting from a distance.

Capt. H. A. Severat's Company A, Ninth United States Cavalry, ran at once to his assistance. The American officer grasped the Mexican general by the arm. Together they ran through the hail of lead to where an ambulance was waiting.

Cover Ojeda's Flight.

Capt. Figarua of the Federal garrison, with fifteen men, remained behind to cover Gen. Ojeda's flight. One by one he and his fellows died in the barracks, surrounded by a horde of yelling, slaughtering Yaquis. When the Indians burst into windows and doors, and crawled through shell-made apertures in the building, there were no living Federals to greet them.

Gen. Obregon entered the barracks from which the handful of Federal soldiers had wrought so much havoc among his overwhelming force, and picked up the sword which had fallen from Capt. Figarua's hand. Such was the condition of surrender to the state forces.

Spiked Cannon.

Gen. Ojeda before leaving the Sonora town spiked his cannon and burned all the supplies. Little was left for the victorious rebels. Personally leading his small group of men, he went from building to building wrecking and destroying everything which might have been needful to the rebels. But not until his ammunition had become exhausted, did the Federal commander give the word for flight.

Sixty-five wounded from both sides were hurried to this town and placed in the army hospital. The dead remained piled in the streets and hanging from the windows of buildings as they fell.

Forty-five wounded Indians picked up in the streets of the Mexican town told what the Yaquis had accomplished.

SEVEN DEAD IN WRECK IN CANADA

Excursion Train Derailed on Branch of Central Vermont Railway.

Montreal, Que., April 14.—Seven persons are dead and fifteen were injured as the result of the derailment of an excursion train yesterday afternoon on the Montreal-Chambly branch of the Central Vermont railway, about four and a half miles out of St. Lambert.

The train was carrying about 700 passengers who had taken advantage of the free trip given by a real estate firm to prospective purchasers of lots at Albani sub-division, and were returning to Montreal at a speed of between twenty and thirty miles an hour, when, from some cause unknown, the engine and the three first coaches left the rails.

Ends Telescoped.

The telescoping of the ends of the derailed coaches caused most of the fatalities, nearly all of which occurred in the first two cars. Escaping steam from the boiler of the locomotive which was thrown over on its side, filled the coaches and hampered passengers in escaping.

The passengers from the other cars formed a rescue brigade and worked hard to extricate the dead and injured from the wreckage. Their efforts were fruitless in the case of some of the victims whose bodies were so firmly wedged in the shattered remains of the coaches that it took a wrecking crew hours to release them. The dead are:

The Dead.

J. MOSES, fireman, Montreal.
J. LACOSTE, Montreal.
MARGARET DEER, 10 years old, Point St. Charles.
UNIDENTIFIED MAN, supposed to be Christie, Canadian Pacific railroad engineer.
UNIDENTIFIED MAN, supposed to be named Rochon.
MARTIN WHITE, Montreal.
UNIDENTIFIED MAN.

As the train was crowded, many persons were standing on platforms and many of these were killed or injured. Between the first and second coaches, two bodies were crushed, one being that of Maggie Deer.

Watched by Mother.

This little girl's mother, herself slightly injured in the accident, stood near the rescuers for hours as they tried to extricate the child's body and pleaded pitifully with them to hurry their work.

The man supposed to be Rochon was pinned under a truck and also fatally injured, lived for several hours, while efforts were made to effect his release. He never recovered consciousness.

The accident is supposed to have been caused by spreading rails.

with outward tranquillity. There is a widespread conviction that if the end is approaching it will not come for some days at least.

The churches are not unusually crowded, but all who visit them pray fervently for the head of the church.

Tourists Visit Some Galleries.

Ordinary tourists still are allowed to visit some of the galleries of the Vatican. Carriages drive up frequently conveying cardinals, ambassadors and high prelates to inquire about the pope's condition.

Inside the Vatican all is tranquil. This is in marked contrast to the time when Leo XIII was on his sickbed, when everything was at a standstill; great confusion existed, even before his death, arrangements for the conclave of cardinals were being pushed forward.

It is said in Rome that if any conclusion is to be drawn from the present quietness, it must be that those around the pope do not expect him to die.

of work at Liege, Charlerol, Mons, La Louviere and smaller cities. At Mons there are 40,000 strikers and at La Louviere 20,000, most of them belonging to the metal, carriage building and tobacco trades.

At the great seaport of Antwerp the strike did not appear until late in the day and then only affected a part of the dock laborers.

Coal Mines Shut Down.

Charlerol, Belgium, April 14. — The suspension of work at the coal mines in this district was complete this morning. Sufficient men remained at their posts to keep the machinery in good order and the pumps working.

The metal workers of the vicinity have only partially quit their employment, but it is understood that tomorrow the remainder of the men in this trade will lay down their tools.

General at La Louviere.

La Louviere, Belgium, April 14.—The miners' strike here was general this morning. All the factories closed their doors except a pottery which was running full force. The street cars were operated as usual during the forenoon as the strike of the motormen and conductors was timed to begin at 7 o'clock this evening. Some attempts were made early today to cut telegraph wires in the vicinity.

Antwerp Not Affected.

Antwerp, Belgium, April 14. — The strike has not affected this port in any way. Work on the docks and everywhere else in the city continued as usual this morning.

Out at Mons.

Mons, Belgium, April 14.—Of the 35,000 coal miners in this district all have quit their work except 2,000 who are keeping the machinery running. All the machine shops, potteries and other factories are idle.

Everything Closed.

Quievrain, Belgium, April 14.—Everything is closed here. Half the workmen have gone over the frontier into France to find temporary occupation.

ALL DISEASES CAN BE TREATED AT ONE TIME

The body that lives close to nature knows nothing of disease, therefore it is claimed that the logical relief for any ailment is to feed the nerves with the vital elements of nature. This can be done with ELECTRO MEDICAL OZONE.

Nervous debility is a weakness of the nervous system brought about by overtaxation. It causes the various organs to get out of harmony with the brain.

A peculiar symptom of this disease is that the subjects to it invariably imagine they are suffering from some organic disease. They will magnify the smallest troubles into acute ailments, become "blue" and have no confidence in themselves; or they may worry at the smallest misfortunes and find sleep at night broken and restless. Finally, when they have cultivated some disease by the aid of their imagination, they will become speedy preys to it.

Electric Ozone is the logical relief from this insidious disease. Its action on the nerves is like that of rain on parched flowers.

The average man or woman should be able to live out the alloted three score and ten years; provided their nervous systems are healthy.

A few symptoms of nervous debility are: Sense of fullness after eating; being perpetually tired or a general feeling of being run down.

attorney's salary at $4,000 a year, an increase of $1,000 over the salary of the attorney under the old system. The addition of $600 paid by the state for municipal court work will bring the salary up to $4,600 instead of $3,600 under the old system.

Merritt Protests.

"I don't know this man from sole leather," said Mr. Merritt. "He may be a good attorney, but I would like to see him and talk to him before increasing his salary. It seems to me we ought to get a line on a man's work before we raise his salary."

Mr. Hicken and Mr. Voss explained that it was the understanding that the new attorney would give his whole time to the city. It appeared from the talk that the question of the attorney's salary had not been mentioned in conference, and the $4,000 proposition was a new one to Mayor Prince, Mr. Merritt and Mr. Murchison. When the vote was taken, Mr. Murchison voted with Mr. Hicken and Mr. Voss for the $4,000 salary, with Mayor Prince and Mr. Merritt in opposition.

Appointments Confirmed.

The most important business was the confirmation of the appointments. E. M. Morgan was elected city attorney at a salary of $4,000 a year. J. Allyn Scott was named city assessor at $4,000 a year. Charles S. Palmer was chosen city clerk at $2,000 a year. Ben F. Campbell was selected as city auditor at $2,000 a year. Grant McLean was selected as city treasurer at $2,000 a year. C. H. Troyer will continue as head of the police department and Joseph Randall as chief engineer of the fire department. The salaries were unchanged. It was stated today that the salaries of the sub-heads and employes of the department will not be changed for several months, at least. Dr. H. E. Webster will be director of public health and H. B. Inman will be harbormaster.

The next meeting of the commission will be held tonight at the city hall. Several saloon licenses have been advertised and must be acted upon and any other business which seems necessary will be transacted.

"Old" Council Meets.

The last meeting of the "old" council was held Saturday night in the council chambers. The bonds of the commissioners were approved. It was for that purpose that the council adjourned from last Monday night until Saturday night. Several other routine matters were passed upon, but none of them was of importance. Before adjourning the aldermen bade one another farewell, and a number of very pretty good-bye talks were made by the city dads. Each of the sixteen sang swan songs which sparkled with wit and humor. As its last official act "old" council passed the following resolution:

"Be it resolved that the members of this council individually and collectively, do hereby express to all the present city officials and heads of departments their appreciation of their efforts to serve the members of this council and desire to assure each of said officials that the cordial relations that have existed between them and the members of this council will long remain as one of the pleasant memories in connection with their position as aldermen.

"Resolved further, That this council desires to express to the city clerk its appreciation of his uniform courtesy and efficient services."

HANDICAPPED

This Is the Case With Many Duluth People.

Too many Duluth citizens are handicapped with bad backs. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief but cannot reach the cause if the kidneys are weak. To eliminate the pains and aches of kidney backache you must cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys—thousands testify to their merit. Can you doubt Duluth evidence?

Mrs. Frances Bronk, 2118 W. Seventh St., Duluth, Minn., says: "I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be a fine kidney remedy and am willing to recommend them. I had kidney trouble for years and suffered from a dull grinding pain across the small of my back. I had headaches, too. For a long time I have been using Doan's Kidney Pills and they have always strengthened my kidneys and cured the pains."

THE NON-PARTISAN BILL.

There is yet hope that the non-partisan election bill may be passed. It was beaten in the house when there were only a portion of the members present but the motion to reconsider it was carried, and it will now come up Wednesday under that motion.

The bill is eminently meritorious and ought to pass. It provides for the taking of county offices out of partisan rivalry. Which is but a manner of saying that it provides for the substitution of individual efficiency for party prejudice. The principle is not new, and everywhere it has been put into operation it has proved its value.

The bill also puts the legislators on the non-partisan ballot. This was not contemplated in the original draft of the bill, but it is good, nevertheless. There is no reason whatever for electing a man to the legislature on account of his opinion on the tariff or the currency question or any other national issue. When the legislatures had the responsibility of electing United States senators, who must act on national issues, there was some reason for electing legislators on party lines. But the ratification of the seventeenth amendment to the Federal Constitution has changed all that. Legislators should be elected on state issues and because of individual integrity and ability, not because they have been known as adherents of any particular national party.

The non-partisan election bill is a good measure. It ought to pass, and pass by a good margin.

Madame Hen shouldn't get discouraged until they invent an incubator that will also lay the eggs.

WHEN SHALL CONGRESS MEET?

Senator Shafroth has introduced in congress a resolution for a constitutional amendment changing the date of meeting of congress from the second December following an election to the first January following such action. The question has been discussed before, and some such resolution was expected to appear either at this session of congress or the next.

The plan is in every way excellent. There is no reason why a congress should be allowed to wait for more than a year after it is elected before it takes up the work for which its members were chosen. The last two or three elections have been followed by extra sessions called some months before the regular time of meeting, and the call of the president has in each case been approved by the people.

Nor is there any reason now for the holding of a session of the retiring congress after its successor is elected. In the early days of the nation, when communication was slow and distance a factor to be reckoned with, it was found advisable to delay the time of meeting of the newly elected congress until all the members could conveniently reach the capital. It was also found advisable not to allow a long period to elapse between sessions. So the Constitution-makers inserted a provision for the meeting of the retiring congress after the election of the new one, for the transaction of necessary business.

In this day of steam and electricity the need of such an arrangement has disappeared. There is no reason why congress should not meet and the president take his oath of office within sixty days after the election, which would give ample time for canvassing the returns and forwarding the results to Washington. And there is every reason why a congress and administration whose policies have been repudiated by the people should not continue in office any longer than is necessary to wind up the affairs that need attention.

Senator Shafroth's resolution is sound doctrine. It is entitled to consideration, if not at this extra session, then at least at the first regular session of congress. It points the way to an advantageous change in our national affairs, and should be quickly approved by members of congress and by the several states.

The real theory has been hit upon at last! Huntington Wilson was afraid he'd be sent as ambassador to Mexico.

IT WILL HELP ALFONSO.

There can be little question that the attempt on the life of King Alfonso of Spain will react as a decided help to that monarch. It does not appear to have been the result of any preconceived plot, but only the momentary impulse of a guntoter.

The incident could not have occurred at a better time. There is always a spirit of unrest in the Southern European countries when there is any particular movement in the line of military additions. Spain has been looking forward to the swearing in of military recruits, and there have been some instances of unrest.

Now comes this attempt on the life of the king, and Alfonso's courage in the face of the assault. Nothing is so calculated to rouse the popular imagination as concrete evidence of unmistakabe bravery on the part of prominent men. Alfonso's bearing throughout and following the attack made on him in Madrid was such as to catch the popular mind, and it is safe to say that he is more firmly entrenched in the regard of his subjects today than he has ever been.

Alfonso's reign has been notable for increases in popular rights, and has been more free from monarchical oppressions than any other in the country's history. The people are but beginning to realize this, and the new proof of their sovereign's personal bravery will help him to a still higher place with them.

In these days of the supplanting of the horse by the motor we may expect to hear of folks eating corn "on the shaft" instead of "on the cob."

DULUTH IS A COMMISSION CITY.

While extending its congratulations to Duluth on the accomplishment of the long-sought purpose of passing under a commission form of government, and congratulating equally the five men chosen for the first work under that form, The Herald takes the opportunity to address a few words directly to the new mayor and commissioners and also to those in whose interests they are to manage the city's business.

The five new officials take up their duties with the full confidence of the citizens. It will be their part to give Duluth what, in their best judgment, is the best administration the city can possibly have. The possibilities of commission government have been proved in other cities. The people will look to these officials to do as well by Duluth as has been done for other municipal bodies, or to be able to show good reason for not doing so.

That there will be petty criticisms goes without saying. These the commission must be prepared to face and live down. But it is no exaggeration to say that no city government ever took hold of public affairs with more hearty good will and confidence than the people of Duluth today have for their first commissioners. The Herald takes pleasure in assuring them of this, and of its hearty support in all work that will operate for the progress and prosperity of Duluth.

To the people who are to be the beneficiaries of the new government, The Herald has a more extended message.

Today more than at any other time in many years Duluth needs the help of every honest citizen. With the passing of the city government from the old, accustomed form to the new form approved by the voters at the election last December, all municipal affairs are to be managed by five men who will devote their entire time to that task, instead of being scattered among a number of boards and similar agencies.

The Herald believes that the people of Duluth chose five good and able men to do this work. It believes that these five men are honest in their intention to give Duluth the best government it is in their power to give. Four of them are already familiar with certain phases of municipal work and problems; the fifth has become known widely and favorably in his particular line of work.

But these men are only human. While the responsibility of the conduct of city affairs will rest upon them, they must meet that responsibility subject to the same human limitations of knowledge and mental and physical power that would have been the portion of other men in the same positions. The mere fact that they have been elected to manage Duluth's government does not invest them with any superhuman intelligence or ability.

And right here is where your part, Mr. Citizen, comes in. These men are not representatives of any precinct or ward or community. They represent every precinct and ward and community in Duluth. They represent you. And they have the right to expect you to help them in the discharge of the duties to which you and your fellows have elected them. If you see some point at which you believe their efforts can be better directed, it is your privilege and duty to tell them of it. If you believe they are overlooking something that should not be overlooked, it is your privilege and duty to call it to their attention. They are not the owners of the city, they are its managers. And you as a citizen are one of the real owners, and one of those to whom the five officials are responsible.

What would you think of a man who, having hired a man to manage his business, promptly abandoned that business to the care of the manager, and who, if he thought the manager was making a mistake, allowed the mistake to go on without attention from or effort to secure a correction by the owner himself? You would say it was a pretty poor way of doing things. Yet that is exactly the relation between yourself and these new officials. They may get along without a hitch of any kind and with no need for criticism or suggestion. It is to be hoped that they will. But their election does not relieve you of all responsibility for the management of the affairs of your city.

The new charter includes for you the privileges and powers of the initiative, referendum and recall. You may not have occasion to exercise them. But lest the occasion arise and you be caught napping, it is up to you to keep in touch with city affairs; to study the city's needs; to be able to discuss these things intelligently, and to give an intelligent and informed opinion if you are called on to express one, either at the polls or elsewhere.

It never has been claimed that the commission form of government is a cure for every kind of municipal trouble. The advantage of the commission form is that it places responsibility where it can be easily traced and never avoided, so that the finances and conditions in the city may be more readily and completely under the supervision and control of the people who have to pay taxes to raise the money to meet those expenses, and who have to live in the surroundings imposed by those conditions.

Commission government is emphatically and necessarily a government under the supervision of the people. If the people become careless and negligent they are the losers. No man of ordinary common sense will pay another man $4,000 a year to do certain work and then pay no attention to the way that work is done. Here are five men, to each of whom you are paying $4,000 a year to run the city government for you. Are you going to let them work without your paying any attention to what they are doing?

The Herald does not intend to cast any aspersions on the character or intentions of these men. It has every confidence in them, individually and collectively. The point we would emphasize is this—that the new form of government is a government in which every citizen should be actively and intelligently interested. Such interest is bound to be rewarded, either by the ability to correct errors before they become serious, or by the knowledge of warranted confidence in the men in office.

As a commission city, Duluth imposes this duty upon you, and offers you the corresponding privilege. Much rests upon the members of the commission. But it is no less true that the new way of doing things also imposes added responsibility upon you as a citizen.

A FEW COWS VS. TRAINS FOR SHOPPERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Hasn't the News Tribune claimed that it stood for better passenger service to Duluth?

Why is it, then, that the morning paper immediately sets up a roar when the Great Northern road arranges to make it possible for people from the western end of the range to make a trip to Duluth, spend nearly four hours here to shop, and return the same day? It sets up the argument that the people between Virginia and Hibbing will be deprived of service. Nonsense. They have the Missabe road and the traction company. The Great Northern has never sought this passenger traffic very hard, because it had all the ore business it needed, and it never got it anyway. What difference will it make to range people if this service is discontinued? The great point is to properly serve the people in the towns to the west, and the new service will certainly do that. The only possible objection to the change is that one or two farmers who have land near Island will have to milk their cows at a different time to make connections with the Hibbing market, and will have to transfer their shipments of milk headed for Virginia. Will a few cows stand in the way of better shopping trains for Duluth? It seems to me that the patience of Duluth people with the News Tribune methods and the News Tribune policies would be about exhausted by this time.

COMMON SENSE.

Duluth, April 13.

Democrats Are Keeping Promise

From the New York Tribune (Republican.)

The "Administration" tariff bill, made public yesterday, represents on the whole a courageous and intelligent effort to redeem Democratic promises. It is sounder from the point of view of those who believe in a material reduction of tariff rates than anything which Mr. Underwood had previously offered. He had shown inconsistency and irresolution in his treatment of the wool and sugar schedules. He put the cart before the horse in advocating taxed raw wool and free raw sugar. In any tariff for revenue measure a tax on sugar is many times more justifiable than a tax on wool.

President Wilson has set Mr. Underwood right. The Democratic party would have stultified itself by taxing wool for revenue purposes. It has both party precedent and economic reason on its side in making a temporary concession to the sugar growers rather than to sheep raisers.

The Woodrow Wilson bill of 1913 is also much more moderate than the William L. Wilson bill of 1894. In the last nineteen years the conditions of production in this country have greatly changed. Manufacturers are, as a rule, on a firmer basis and do not need as much protection as they did formerly. When William L. Wilson put into his bill free wool, free sugar, free hides, free coal, and free iron ore, many people thought that the walls of Jericho were about to fall. But the high protection Payne bill of 1909 made hides, coal and iron ore free, and the country has now pretty well reconciled itself to free wool and free sugar.

The wool and woolen schedule is "the citadel of protection." An anti-protectionist bill which did not attack the key to the situation would have been an absurdity. To remove the duty on raw wool will open the way to dropping the compensatory duty on woolen goods and to further cuts in the rates on those now to some extent over-protected goods. The sheep-raisers worried through the years from 1894 to 1897, when wool was free. They have a much better chance to get along now, since the price of mutton has rapidly increased and it is becoming worth while to raise sheep for the mutton alone.

Neither the wool growers nor the sugar growers have ever had any hope of enlarging their industry so as to supply home demands. In recent years the ratio of sugar grown at home to home consumption has increased somewhat, due to the development of the beet sugar industry. But it has always been a question, even for stanch protectionists, whether is was advantageous to tax so large a volume of the imporis of a necessary of life in order to sustain a local industry whose capacity to expand was doubtful.

The changes made in the direction of a larger free list in foodstuffs is also a reasonable exemplification of the policy of reduction. Food supplies are growing scarcer in this country and prices are rising. The same situation exists in most other countries, and the farmer has little to fear from an influx of cheap foreign agricultural products. Most of the present agricultural duties mean nothing, and the experiment might well be tried of abolishing them.

In its esesntial features the new Wilson tariff measure at least hews to the line of good faith. It reflects the views of most Democrats and probably those of many who are not Democrats. Whether it will work out smoothly or not remains to be seen. But it is a fair translation into legislation of the promises on which the voters put the Democratic party back into power.

Camels in Argentina.

Consular Reports: The Argentine government has had under consideration the possibility of the importation of camels into the country for use in agriculture. The concrete result of this consideration is a decree, date of Dec. 24, 1912, in which are laid down the inspection and quarantine requirements that must be observed in case camels are imported. It was brought to the attention of the government that camels might well be utilized to advantage for various agricultural labors in certain semi-arid regions of the country, where vegetation and water are scarce, to take the place of the horse and the ox.

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Marc Smith of Arizona is above all things a Democrat. If he were to eat too much Welsh rarebit late some night he would dream that he had scratched a ticket, and then he would wake up in a cold perspiration. Between a Republican or independent ticket headed by Woodrow Wilson and the twelve apostles and a Democratic ticket headed by Bald Jack Rose, he would not hesitate even a fraction of a second. He would cast his ballot for Jack Rose, and do so with a great sense of pride.

All this being true, Marc Smith has long been vexed over the fact that the leading hotels down in Phoenix, Ariz., are managed by Republicans. He regards this circumstance as a serious blot on the honor of his state.

One night Smith came into Phoenix tired and travel-worn and went to the leading hotel. He knew the manager was a Republican, but the other hotels were just as disgraceful in that respect, and he intended to make the best of it.

As he wrote his name on the register a dapper young clerk asked him breezily:

"Something with a bath, Mr. Smith?"

Marc Smith drew himself up and stared at the young man who had hurled the insult.

"No," he roared in a tone that made the clerk shrivel up like dried beef, "I don't want something with a bath or any other of your fancy business. I'm a Democrat."

And speaking of Democrats and baths, what do you suppose the Democrats have gone and done?

Why, they've closed up the palatial Turkish bathrooms in the senate office building. The place was fitted up by the Republicans at a cost of thousands of dollars, in the hope of keeping the senators cheerful and more reconciled to their lot here, and it was, indeed, a great help. All a senator had to do was walk into the marble chambers and he was steamed and washed and rubbed and patted without money and without price.

And now the wicked Democrats have fired the masseurs, locked up the costly bathrooms, and thrown away the key. That isn't all, either. Senator Jim Martine of New Jersey is going to try to get congress to dismantle the lovely bathing plant and yank the whole outfit clear out of the building.

He figured it all out that the baths taken by senators cost the government $10 apiece. Now, back in New Jersey one can walk into almost any barber shop and get just as good a bath as anybody needs for as little as a quarter of a dollar. This disparity led Martine to introduce his resolution before the Democratic caucus to turn the bathrooms over to the second-hand dealers.

The last congress appropriated enough money to keep the baths going nicely clear up until June of next year, and now the money will just lie idle, doing nobody any good. Eventually it will go back into the treasury, and then there is no telling what will become of it.

Meanwhile, dignified senators are going about without a single Turkish bath, looking as sad-eyed and disconsolate as the average bloodhound.

Moreover, they no longer are provided with Apollinaris water in their rooms, and there is even talk of making them pay for their shaves in the senate barber shop.

Secretary of State William J. Bryan was recounting to a little party of friends the other day an incident connected with William J. Bryan's first presidential campaign.

A city in Nebraska thickly peopled with laboring classes seemed certain to go for Bryan, and the Republican leaders saw that something must be done. They conferred with the leading local bankers and told them to think up some scheme to scare everybody into voting for sound money.

The next day, the most prominent banker in town called one of his depositors, a laboring man, aside and told him the situation.

"I have been a lifelong Democrat," said the banker, "but I intend to vote for McKinley, for the good of the country, nd I hope you will do the same. Now, you have some money on deposit here—not a whole lot of money, perhaps, but money that you have worked hard to save. If Bryan's elected, it will be worth just half what it is now."

And the man went away thoughtful. He told his friends what the banker had said, and they all thought it would be too bad to have the value of their deposits cut right in two. The safest thing, they figured, would be to take the money out and put it where it couldn't depreciate. This idea went around and everybody went and drew his money from the bank. And the bank "busted."

Senator Bradley of Kentucky is particular about what he eats, and has a lot of ideas about how things should be cooked. Not long ago he went to a place where they had chicken salad sandwiches. They made a hit with Bradley, and he lost no time in seeking out the manager of the senate restaurant and talking to him earnestly about his discovery.

Now one finds chicken salad sandwiches on the menu there every day.

Affability That Was Not Apropos.

Popular Magazine: Whenever Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson of Alabama, goes campaigning for votes, he puts all his heart and soul into the work. Politeness, affability, and enthusiasm are his long suits. On one occasion during his last political fight he was given a reception at which he was introduced to a middle-aged woman who showed great interest in politics.

"This is a great pleasure, indeed," said the congressman. "I remember your husband so well. He is one of the best friends I have in the county. He did me a great service in the last campaign, and I know he's my friend in this. He always sticks to me."

"Is that so?" asked the woman haughtily. "He died in Georgia fifteen years ago."

Cheaper Fuel for Motor Cars.

According to the Manchester Guardian, a mixture of gasoline and paraffin has been submitted to tests by the British Motor Cab company and been found most satisfactory. The cost works out at 21 cents per gallon, and the fuel has been made practicable for car-running purposes by means of a starting device which the company has just patented. The general manager says that the company now has 1,250 cabs running on the mixture and with the starting device, and that better mileage is obtained than with petrol or gasoline. The reduced cost of the new fuel may pave the way for a settlement of a dispute between the owners and the drivers of taxicabs.

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats from the State Press.

Party Politics.

Alexandria Post News: The Duluth Herald comments on the fact that in city elections held throughout the country last week, the Bull Moose vote for Progressive tickets, where nominated, was not very large and asks, "What does it mean?" implying that the new party lacks coherence when deprived of the leadership of Col. Roosevelt. It means that party politics, in the larger sense, do not govern in municipal elections; that a new party organized on national lines has no local associations to make it a great force in any particular local campaign in which there are only local issues, and that it is not always wise to draw the party line in municipal campaigns. The issues in any great city are not political. They are largely economic and moral; the issues of good government as opposed to boss rule and municipal corruption. National policies have little place in a city election and the city should be divorced from party rule.

Success Is Expected.

Sandstone Courier: Duluth held its first election under the new commission form of government and it is still in doubt as to who will be mayor. Four men ran a very even race, as all were good men, and a recount will be taken to determine the winner. It is hoped that Duluth makes a success of this advanced form of city government.

Not Yet.

Gheen Record: Duluth can now settle down to taking care of the spring trade and the opening of navigation.

Are They Dead?

Grand Marais News-Herald: The greatest slaughter of political innocents in Duluth's history occurred at the election in that city.

Timely Suggestion.

St. Peter Free Press: In the opinion of The Duluth Herald the legislature should appoint a committee for an interim investigation of state expenses and efficiency, especially in view of the fact that the cost of running the state has more than doubled in a single decade. This is a timely suggestion and it is to be hoped that our lawmakers govern themselves accordingly. While it is true that the state's business has increased by leaps and bounds, the various departments, boards and bureaus have multiplied so rapidly and with so little systematical connection with one another that to the average citizen everything seems chaos and sadly in need of a rearrangement.

Primary Suggested.

St. Cloud Journal Press: The first election under the commission form of government at Duluth was remarkably close. There were ten candidates for mayor and the vote for the four leading candidates was 3,132, 3,126, 3,108 and 3,067. It is reported that a recount will be demanded. It might be an improvement of the Duluth plan to have a primary election, and then to have the two leading candidates fight it out at the election.

Place for Them.

Holdingford Advertiser: The Duluth Herald hits the nail on the head when it says the suffragettes should be sent to the insane asylum instead of to jail.

Miracles Caused by Shocks

London Tit-Bits: The recent case of Miss Lily Curl of Ashford, Kent, who, after being deaf and dumb for twenty-one years, is slowly recovering both hearing and speech—the shock of the tragic end of her brother, who drowned himself in the Stour, being regarded as responsible for the miraculous recovery—is by no means an isolated example of shock succeeding where doctors have failed.

Some time ago the narrow escape of a boy from drowning off North Shields fish quay had a remarkable sequel. While efforts were being made to restore the apparently drowned boy to consciousness by means of artificial respiration, a man named Thomas Cummings, who had been deprived of speech two years earlier, as the result of an accident, pushed through the crowd merely out of curiosity. As soon as he saw the prostrate boy, although not in any way related to him, the sight gave him such a shock that his speech suddenly returned, and he fell to the ground in a state of collapse. Upon recovering he continued to speak freely, and has suffered no further impediment since.

One of the most amazing cases was that of Walter Speck, a resident of Gloucester, who eight years ago lost his power of speech through the shock occasioned by the death of his father.

Being a football enthusiast, he one day witnessed a Gloucester versus Cheltenham match, and when the city team scored, Speck, in his excitement, forgot that he had been deprived of his voice, and attempted to cheer with the rest of the crowd. To his amazement and that of his friends, his shout was heard above that of any of those standing near. Since then Speck has been able to converse as well as ever, and there is no likelihood of his speech failing him.

One of the medical journals tells how the fear of an accident was once the means of restoring speech to a dumb man. J. Moore of Gosport, had been dumb for years, when, on returning home one evening, his bicycle skidded. In his alarm he shouted, and was so startled and surprised at hearing his voice that he called out again and again, until he was convinced that his long lost voice had come back to him.

Woman Lumber Boss.

In Harper's Bazar, is a portrait of Mary Gregory, of Damariscotta, Me., who is the first woman to have charge of a gang of lumbermen. Mrs. Gregory is the mother of six children, and until a few months ago did all the work of cooking and caring for a gang of twenty-two woodsmen besides her own family. Finding that she still had too many idle hours on her hands, she applied for a job as woodchopper. She soon proved herself an expert chopper and sawyer. Last spring, in a contest of skill, she pitted herself against the best two men of the camp. She not only did more work than either of them, but more than both of them together. On the strength of this victory, the owner of the lumber camps appointed her boss of one of his largest gangs of lumbermen.

Revision Downward.

Kansas City Times: It looks like real tariff revision at last.

While it is too early to pass final judgment on the bill submitted by Representative Underwood, and while criticism by experts may reveal deficiencies in the measure, the summary printed yesterday seems to indicate a sincere effort to revise the tariff downward.

The cuts in the cotton and woolen schedules are in striking contrast to the treatment of those schedules in the sham revision of four years ago.

On metals and chemicals the reductions are apparently equally drastic, while there are considerable reductions on agricultural products, with sugar to go on the free list in three years.

There are certain obvious inequalities, such, for instance, as the retention of a duty on wheat, a raw material, with flour, a manufactured product, on the free list. But these undoubtedly can be adjusted as the discussion proceeds.

In general, the bill bears the impress of the president's determination to fulfill the election pledges of his party. Four years ago the country unmistakably indorsed tariff revision. Since that time it has emphasized its determination to lop off the special privileges conferred by the tariff.

Mr. Wilson can depend on the support of public sentiment in his efforts to carry out the nation's mandate.

More About Heroin.

Replying to several inquiries about heroin. It is a comparatively new drug, having been first introduced about 12 years ago, to take the place of morphine in various preparations for the relief of coughs. At that time it was thought not to have any of the objectionable features of morphine and the dose necessary to quiet a hacking cough is very small; therefore, none of its habit forming properties were noticed for years. Chemically, it is morphine in which two hydroxyl groups are replaced by acetyl groups of atoms. In doses as usually prescribed by physicians it is perfectly harmless, and would never induce a habit. It does not relieve pain in the way morphine does, but in overdoses produces a drowsy, dopy feeling, which would make it hard to understand how it could be satisfying or enticing to the user. It produces no exhilaration as does cocaine, morphine or alcohol, but rather a feeling of depression. That heroin should be the chief component of any popular "dope" appears almost incredible, but it might be introduced in such dope for its habit forming powers.

Questions and Answers.

Reducing Fat.

Mrs. F. W. writes: Have you ever heard of the following drugs, and if so do you consider them dangerous to take as a fat reducer? Glycole carbolene, 1 ounce; aromatic elixir, 5 ounces.

REPLY.

This illustrates a new way of advertising a proprietary medicine. There is no such chemical or pharmaceutical preparation as Glycol carbolene. Aromatic elixir is an official preparation used as a pleasant vehicle for disagreeable drugs. No person is justified in taking drugs to reduce fat. To decrease the amount eaten is the only safe and rational treatment.

Exopthalmic Goitre.

E. F. R. writes: About two years following an attack of grip, I suffered a nervous breakdown and I was informed by several physicians that it was due to an exopthalmic goitre. The glands of the neck are at times quite hard, my heart beats very fast. I have been using ice packs to keep down the heart palpitation, and I feel very tired at all times. I have a good appetite, however, and sleep fairly well, going out in a wheeled chair each day when the weather is suitable. Is there not some cure for this condition, aside from operation?

REPLY.

Exopthalmic goitre, or Grave's disease, is due to an intoxication of the body with the secretions produced by another active thyroid gland. Sometimes the nervous system becomes somewhat adjusted to this intoxication, and the symptoms then all improve; but every case requires to be studied on its own merits, and if operation seems the only way out, it should be done early, that is, before the nervous system is badly damaged. Dr. Porter's injection method of treatment, of which I write you, would seem to be devoid of great danger, and his reported results are excellent. Ask your attending physician about this treatment, but in the meantime keep resting and controlling the heart with cold.

Nervous Chills.

H. H. inquires: What are the cause of nervous chills? Do they mean anything serious as regards health?

REPLY.

1. The cause may be anything which will produce mental shock or strong emotional reaction. 2. No, not as a general rule. Nervous people are so subject to them that the slightest disturbance will often cause a severe chill. When, however, they occur in a person of strong nervous temperament, there is generally some serious underlying condition responsible and this should be investigated.

Ringing in the Head.

Constant Reader writes: Can anything be done to alleviate head noises, or a ringing in the head? I have had catarrh for years and have had it treated frequently with some benefit, but it only returns in a short time.

REPLY.

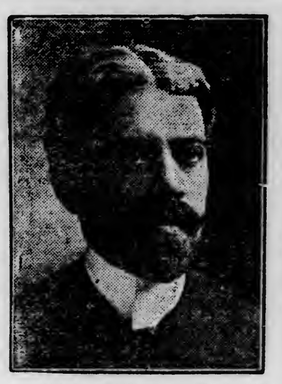

You should consult a reliable and honest throat and nose specialist. Your long continued catarrh has very probably caused the little air tube which connects the middle ear with the pharnyx to become closed. This is the simplest explanation, but may not be correct. Most cases of catarrh which are serious result from some abnormal condition of the nasal passages. Find out what the underlying cause of the catarrhal condition is. Have this remedied and at the same time have the ear drum inflated. Don't waste more time in using douches and sprays, but have a competent physician go to the root of the trouble.

Large Pores in the Face.

Lillian B. writes: I have large pores in my face. What can I do to get rid of them?

REPLY.

Nothing. Keep the skin of the face free from dirt and grease, however.

CITY VISITED BY BULL MOOSE

Duluth was visited by a large bull moose early yesterday morning. The animal came in from the woods without a band to announce his coming and departed without wasting any time on the way. Among the few who saw him was A. H. Rohlf of 1804½ Sixth avenue east. He chanced to poke his head through a window about 4 o'clock a. m. and noticed his majesty parading down the center of the highway.

SAID TO HAVE RECEIVED $25,000 FOR SILENCE.

New York, April 14.—John J. Hartigan, the policeman who would not squeal, went to Sing Sing Saturday to serve three years for perjurying himself to shield higher police authorities punished in connection with the crusade against levying tribute on protected vice.

His trial, sentence, and finally the trip to the prison were delayed in the hope that he would seek to lighten his punishment by a confession.

The district attorney declares the "police system" paid Hartigan $25,000 for his silence.

St. Louis Man End Life.

St. Louis, Mo., April 14.—Roger V. Scudder, the wealthy president of the Wesco Supply company, committed suicide by shooting yesterday afternoon in his Kirkwood residence. Relatives said bad health caused by over work was the cause. He was 45 years old and leaves a widow and 14-year-old son by his first wife.

PRISONERS SENTENCED

William Osborne Protests That He Is Victim of Injustice.

Hugo Pyykko Will Serve From Five to Twenty Years.

William Osborne, convicted of the crime of abusing a 14-year-old girl who had been placed in his home for adoption, protested his innocence when brought before the court for sentence Saturday afternoon.

"Have you anything to say before sentence is passed upon you?" queried Judge Cant.

"I have only this to say. I am not guilty of the crime with which I have been charged. When this girl, my accuser, grows older, she probably will come to the realization that she herself has been guilty of a crime against me."

Judge Cant told Osborne that the girl's story seemed to satisfy a jury of twelve men and that their verdict of "guilty" must govern. The prisoner was questioned as to his past life and family connections. He is 30 years old and a native of Oneida, N. Y.

Osborne was sentenced to the state penitentiary on the indeterminate plan, where he must serve from one to seven years.

Attorney Harry W. Lanners, appearing for Osborne, indicated to the court that Osborne's case would be taken before the state board of pardons.

Pyykko's Sentence.

Hugo Pyykko, who killed Matt Kemp, Midway farmer, on the Thompson road on the night of Oct. 30 last, and who pleaded guilty to first degree manslaughter was sentenced by Judge Cant to Stillwater on the indeterminate plan. He must serve from five to twenty years.

The fact that Pyykko was heavily under the influence of liquor at the time the crime was committed and the probability that had he been in his sober senses Kemp would have not been stabbed, was the reason that the prisoner was allowed to plead guilty to a lesser crime than murder, County Attorney Greene told the court.

Pyykko's attorney, O. J. Larson, was not present at the sentencing. Pyykko's examination as to his past was conducted with difficulty owing to his inability to readily understand and fluently speak English.

He stated that he was drunk on the night of the murder and that he knew nothing of how he happened to stab Kemp. Pyykko also stated that he did not use intoxicants until he came to this country about twenty-one months ago.

Pyykko married about one month before his arrest. He is the father of a child which has been born since he has been in jail.

PRESIDENT WILSON STRONGER THAN EVER

Emerges From First Week of Special Session With Several Victories.

Washington, April 14.—President Wilson emerged from the first week of the special session of congress apparently in a stronger position as the active leader of Democracy than at any time since he assumed the presidency.

Within the brief space of seven days he has won a victory in the caucus of house Democrats for his free sugar program; he has formed a working agreement with the Democratic leaders of the senate, which it is believed will insure general support of his tariff program in that body; and had established precedents of presidential co-operation with congress which, if successful, are expected to greatly influence the entire program of legislation throughout his administration. The president's visit to congress Tuesday to deliver his opinions in an address in person and his visit to the senate precincts to confer with finance committee members upon the tariff plans, overshadowed all other developments of the week in public interest.

The tariff revision fight admittedly is only begun, but the developments of the last week have convinced party leaders that there are likely to be a few changes from the rates favored by the president and little dissension within the Democratic ranks over the final approval of the bill.

HAPPINESS IN UNSELFISHNESS

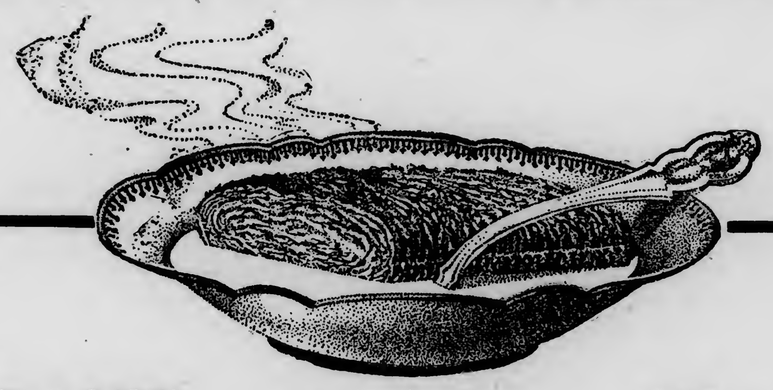

But Moral Man Is Not Happiness Hunter, Says Pastor.

"Self-satisfaction and Selfishness" was the subject of a sermon by Rev. George R. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church yesterday.

"The soul of man is a trinity," he said. "There is his personal self, his moral or social self, and his spiritual self. We call a men selfish, when in all his actions he simply considers his personal welfare and pleasure. We look down upon him, because he neglects his higher self which is at one with a proper regard for the well-being of others. A man may have a perfect right to do as he pleases, to follow his natural inclinations and instincts as long as he is merely an individual, a person unrealted to others, but as soon as he is a member of the larger social body, the will of that body as a whole and in its members must be recognized.

"We are social beings so far as we live in and for others. And in doing so we find our higher or moral satisfaction. But this satisfaction can only be had if we strip ourselves of a selfish personal scheming after such satisfaction. As soon as for instance as we show kindness to others in order to find that higher happiness of the soul, that happiness will not be there. We may give all our goods to feed the poor and give our bodies to be burned, but if we have not love, the quality of selfless regard for others, it profiteth us nothing. That higher happiness comes only into us to the extent that the lower desire for personal gratification leaves us.

"It is therefore absurd to contend that in all things we do, be they high or low, good or bad, we simply seek our personal satisfaction. The moral man never is a happiness hunter, but a seeker after the good. But just because he seeks the good and not happiness, therefore he receives an inner gratification that the happiness hunter does not know. And of ocurse the same is true in regard to the religious life. It is the acme of wrong reasoning to say that men are religious in order to be happy. The man or woman who goes through their prayers and genuflexions in order to be happy, will certainly fail in their endeavor. Indeed so long as they will make their religion a means of self-gratification, their religion is nothing but sounding brass and tinkling cymbal. Their prayers are lip service. No the simple truth of the matter is that the devotee is happy because he is religious, but no man can be truly religious who has not shut the door upon his lower self, his personal gratification and does not look for self, but for God."

JURY ACQUITS PROMOTER FROST

Former President of Alaska Railroad and Four Others Go Free.

Chicago, April 14.—Albert C. Frost, former president and promoter of the Alaska Central railroad and his four co-defendants, all interested in the development of the road, were found not guilty in the Federal court here yesterday of conspiracy to obtain control illegally of millions of dollars worth of coal lands in the Matanuska valley, Alaska.

Disputes over the methods of coal claim locators, caused the coal lands to be withdrawn from entry during President Roosevelt's last administration. Frost and his associates were indicted March 16, 1911, in the United States district court here, charged with conspiracy to obtain control of sixty-four coal locations by means of "dummy entrymen." The government asserted that the railroad promoters caused stenographers and other employes to apply for coal lands with the purpose of turning the entire group over to Frost.

The verdict, while a vindication of the business methods of the defendants, does not open the way for the completion of the railroad, as the coal lands still are withdrawn from entry and will remain so until released by the department of the interior.

Mr. Frost said after the acquittal that the construction of the road depended on the opening of the coal lands and that it was at a standstill while the country was closed to locators.

At no time was the jury more than evenly divided against the defendants. The first ballot stood 6 to 6. The jury deliberated about three hours after taking the case at 5 o'clock Saturday night. The verdict was given at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Judge Kenesaw M. Landis on hearing the verdict demanded that a copy of it be handed him. The court was silent while he examined the paper.

"Counsel for the defense are to be congratulated on having achieved a most extraordinary victory," he said after studying the signatures of the jurymen.

Later, when asked to amplify his statement, Judge Landis said: "I refuse to add anything to that. I will say nothing more concerning this verdict."

"You never can tell what a jury will do," was the comment of Special Attorney General B. D. Townsend, who conducted the prosecution.

FIRST PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

A joint committee from the J. B. Culver and Willis A. Gorman posts of the G. A. R. laid preliminary plans for the 1913 observation of Memorial day at a meeting held at the courthouse Saturday afternoon.

No definite arrangements were made, it being decided to work out the details at later meetings. The name of Rev. Ralph Jones, a Methodist minister of Chisholm, was suggested to the committee as a suitable speaker for the occasion.

The committee will meet again in a few days to make further arrangements for the day.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

Activities of Other Municipalities, Which Might or Might Not Be Copied in Duluth.

THE roller towel, a dispenser of germs, and the bane of the traveling man's existence in many cases, is doomed in Birmingham, Ala. The commissioners have passed an ordinance introduced by Judge A. O. Lane making it a severe penalty to have roller towels in Birmingham. The ordinance was called at the meeting of the commission and was heartily approved and adopted. The ordinance will be advertised and will go into effect soon thereafter. In the city of Birmingham the roller towel will be displaced by the sanitary paper towels or individual napkins.

There has been no legislation banishing the roller towel in the city but it is not unlikely that such an ordinance will be passed by the new commission. The sentiment in the city appears to be similar to that of other cities, where the roller towel has been in small favor.

MEN CANNOT LIVE A LIE AND HIDE IT

Rev. W. F. Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, in his sermon on "The Look of a Lie," yesterday morning, said:

"There is a subtle alchemy working in man's being which makes it impossible to live a lie and keep an honest face. The false face can not long hide what the false heart shows.

"The hypocrite has a hard time trying to exhibit his masks. It may be possible to lie so skilfully as to deceive one's fellows, but never can one deceive the Lord.

"God looks through men's false faces clear down into their hearts, God probes deeply, but when he probes, he probes to heal.

"Lying is a dangerous trade. The liar loses his self-respect. The sense of incongruity between his inner and outer life destroys his peace of mind. When discovered as he is sure to be eventually, his reputation will suffer."

ENJOY FIRST WARM SUNDAY

Duluthians Spend First Real Spring Day Out of Doors.

Vehicles of All Kinds Are Much in Demand.

Vehicles of all sorts, from the baby buggy to the auto, and individuals of as varied an assortment were out yesterday for exercise, superinduced by the excellent brand of weather furnished.

From the time that people of the city got ready for church until the "dewy eve" there was a continuous parade along the streets and avenues of the city. It seemed that everybody in physical condition to qualify for pedestrianism was out. From childhood to hoary age all seemed to feel the exquisite warmth of spring and those who could not afford carriages or autos frankly "hoofed it."

The only things that seemed to be lacking were a baseball game and a chance to sail on the bay. With the waters hereabouts still ice-locked, there was no chance and as it is too long-combed to allow ice-boating, the between-seasons feeling was predominant.

It has been asserted, and is generally believed, that every auto in the city were busy all of yesterday and that practically every horse and carriage available for general hire was out most of the day.

several items it is not thought that much difficulty will be experienced in compromising these.

The recall bill, which passed the senate early in the session, lately passed the house with amendments and is now before the senate for concurrence. A conference committee may be called for, but there will be no trouble in reaching an agreement if it is found necessary to confer.

The non-partisan primary election bill is a special order in the house for Wednesday afternoon, which will be the last stage in the legislative career of a bill that has a history hard to duplicate. Though the house organization still is fighting the proposition of putting legislators on a non-partisan basis, the house has gone on record in favor of it twice, and it is highly improbable that body will fail to repass the bill Wednesday, in which event it will go to the governor.

What makes this even more likely than it has been is that the tone of comment throughout the state is unexpectedly friendly to the experiment of having a non-partisan legislature.

An Interesting History.

No bill at this session, if at any session, has had such an interesting history as this one.

When the session opened there was ample evidence of a widespread demand that county officers be placed on a non-partisan basis, and the senate elections committee prepared a bill for that purpose and introduced it in the senate.

That was all the bill was in the beginning—a straight-out proposal of non-partisan county offices.

When the bill was first taken up in the senate three very important amendments were added to it, as follows:

1. The change of the primary date from September to the third Tuesday in June.

2. The legalization of the Bull Moose party.

3. The provision that there may be no independent candidates for non-partisan offices, and that where but two candidates file at the primaries there shall be no fight between them but both names shall go on the general election ballot.

When the bill came up for final passage, at the last moment an amendment was offered by Senator Frank Clague of Redwood including senators and representatives in the non-partisan list, and the senate adopted it and then passed the bill.

When the measure reached the house it was referred to the committee on elections, where it slumberd for a brif period.

Then one evening the committee met, and with little ado adopted an amendment striking out of the bill the entire non-partisan feature. This feature, mind you, was all there was of the bill in the beginning. All that was left of it when the house committee got through with it was the amendments which the senate had appended to the original bill.

This action of the committee was practically unanimous, and the bill was reported back to the house in that shape.

Before it came up for action, however, the house organization began to perceive that a mistake had been made, and when the measure was considered Representative W. I. Nolan, the organization's floor leador, offered an amendment restoring the non-partisan county office feature.

To that proposal Representative G. W. Brown proposed an amendment including senators and representatives, and the house adopted this proposal by an emphatic vote.

The house rejected a proposal to extend the non-partisan feature to state officers also. This proposal was not made in good faith, though Representative G. B. Bjornson and others supported it in complete good faith.

Passed By the House.

The house then passed the bill by an overwhelming vote.

Before it did so, however, it adopted another amendment changing the primary election date to the first Tuesday in October, an impracticable date.

The senate refused to concur in this amendment, and conference committees were appointed.

Technically, the conference committees were supposed to consider only the single point of difference between the two houses—the primary election date.

However, the house organization was against the feature making legislators non-partisan, and Speaker Rines appointed conferees who wanted to go into this part of the bill and if possible strike out the provision. There was even some evidence of a disposition to jockey the bill to defeat. After a week or more of puzzled delay, the house confereos appealed to the house for instructions as to whether they would be permitted to go beyond the primary election date and strike out the provision for non-partisan legislators.

The house promptly came back with a direct and emphatic instruction to leave this feature as it is, and to consider only the primary election date.

Within half an hour the conference committees had agreed, changing the primary election date to the third Tuesday in June, where the senate put it, and within two hours the senate had received the committee's report and had repassed the bill.

Later in the day the house received the report, but being busy with a special order on workingmen's compensation took no action until Saturday morning.

Then, with an exceedingly light house, the bill was brought up for repassage, and, of course, it failed, getting but forty-eight votes when it needed sixty-one. The friends of the bill promptly instituted a call of the house, and got in enough votes to reconsider the defeat of the bill, which was then made a special order for Wednesday afternoon.

At that time the bill will come squarely up for action one way or another, and as the house has twice approved it, there is little doubt that it will be passed. It is understood that the governor is likely to sign it, in which event at the next election Minnesota will exhibit to the sisterhood of states the progress of an entirely new experiment in government—that of electing county officers and members of the legislature absolutely on a non-partisan basis. In other words, on a basis of personal fitness and not on a party label basis.

Since the legislatures never again will elect United States senators, the single point on which partisan issues need ever rise in a legislature, there is little argument against this experiment.

A minor feature of the bill involves still another experiment in government—that of doing away not only with parties but with primaries.

On one office—that of county surveyor—there will be no primary election and no party labels. Everybody who wishes to run for county surveyor may file for the general election, and the man who gets the most votes will get the job, all in one election.

The situation as to other measures of greater or less importance may be briefly outlined as follows:

The Road House Bill.

This bill, which in its original form prohibited county boards from issuing liquor licenses at all, passed the house and is now before the senate. The purpose of the bill is—or was—to prevent saloons in territory lacking police protection. The senate, however, amended the measure so as to provide that where a town board requests it, the county board may issue a license the county attorney and the sheriff acting with the board in this matter. Advocates of the original bill contend that this amendment ruins it, and if the senate passes it in this form the house will undoubtedly refuse to concur in the amendment. However, the bill has been on the senate calendar without action for several weeks, and unless it is voted upon soon it is likely to die with the end of the session.

Local Option for Fourth Class Cities.

This bill, which extends the local option law to include cities of 10,000 and less, passed the senate, was amended in the house and went to conference. The conference committees have agreed, and the senate has repassed the bill, which is now before the house and will be passed this week. When it becomes a law every political subdivision in the state except cities of the first, second and third classes will be permitted to vote on whether or not liquor licenses shall be issued. Even these cities may do so by home rule charter provisions.

Brewery-Owned Saloons.

The senate has passed the bill by Senators Snagstad, Rustad and Boyle, the special investigating committee appointed two years ago by Lieutenant Governor Sam Y. Gordon, prohibiting wholesale liquor dealers from getting retail licenses in buildings leased by them and from being interested in retail licenses. The lack of opposition to the bill in the senate made the house temperance committee suspicious of the measure, but after carefully examining it the committee has recommended it to pass. It has also sent out a house bill by Representative Klemer prohibiting the issuance of licenses for buildings owned by wholesale dealers, but it is probably too late in the session to get action on this measure.

Public Domain.

There will be a fight on this matter in the house tomorrow, but there is little hope of action at this session. The house committee on public domain put forth a bill abolishing all the bureaus, offices and departments connected with the public domain and putting their functions under a superintendent of public domain. The bill was made a special order and after a fight in which much opposition developed, including that of the house organization, it was re-referred to the committee, which has lately sent the bill out again with a recommendation that it pass.

It will be brought up this week and the fight to pass it will be renewed.

The house early in the session defeated a proposed constitutional amendment taking the state's land business out of the state auditor's office, a proposal which is regarded as essential as a foundation for the creation of an effective public domain department. The senate has passed the same measure and it will shortly come before the house. Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin introduced a bill proposing a constitutional amendment creating the elective office of superintendent of the public domain and the house committee on public domain amended it so as to make it conform to the provisions of the bill, which has passed the senate. There is a bare possibility that the house may perceive its duty and pass this measure.

"Blue Sky" Bill.

"Blue sky" bills modeled after the Kansas plan are before both houses. They are a special order in the senate for Tuesday and the house for Thursday.

Reorganization of State Departments.

So far absolutely nothing has been done toward finding out why state expenses have grown so enormously and how the cost of government can be reduced by a reorganization of the state departments.

Yet this was one of the first duties of this session.

The house committee on public accounts and expenditures has put in a lot of hard work and has introduced a large number of bills consolidating departments and making other changes. None of them have been passed and there is small chance that any will be passed.

It has been clear from the beginning of the investigations that it would be impossible to bring about any reorganization at this session, and that the only thing to do was to create some sort of a commission to investigate the subject during the next two years and report to the session of 1915.

The house has passed a bill creating such a commission, to be composed of four house members to be appointed by the speaker and three senators to be appointed by the lieutenant governor. This commission is equipped with a meager appropriation of $15,000, an amendment adopted by the house having reduced it from $20,000 to this figure. It is generally agreed by those who wish to see a real investigation that no cleverer or surer move to defeat such an investigation could have been made.

A minority of the house has fought consistently for a commission composed of men not connected either with the legislature, which has created every source of expense and appropriated every dollar spent, or the executive department, which actually spends the money.

The first idea was to name in the bill three men of admitted fearlessness, courage and independence. Then, when it became evident that the house organization intended to fight for the right to name the members of the commission and to name them from the present members of the legislature, this plan had to be abandoned. To push it would probably have meant the defeat of the bill and the apparent humiliation of the men named in it.

Then it was proposed to have a commission of three, one to be appointed by the chief justice of the supreme court, who spends no state money; one by the attorney general, who spends very little; and one by the governor.

This plan was defeated, though more than a majority of the house members signed it as joint authors.

It is perfectly safe to predict that the efficiency commission measure passed by the house will not become a law in its present form.

It is now before the senate, and what action that body will take is entirely problematical. It may amend it and return it to the house, and it may defeat it. The chances are that the senate will amend it, but what form the amendments will take nobody can know till the senate threshes it out.

The matter has not been to the front in the senate, and no sentiment of a tangible nature has been developed on it there. It is entirely unlikely, however, that thesenate will approve a measure providing for a commission to undertake this highly important labor and equipping it with about half the money it needs to do the work properly.

Neither is it likely that the senate will approve the idea of a commission entirely composed of members of the legislature.

An agreement may be reached on the basis of a commission partly composed of members of the legislature and partly of outsiders appointed by the governor, the chief justice and the attorney general.

Congressional Reapportionment.

A congressional reapportionment bill has passed the senate and is now before the house committee on reapportionment.

The house shows little disposition to become interested in this subject, and the bill may fail.

The friends of Jim Manahan, congressman-at-large, are of course working actively on this end. They are content to leave the situation as it is, believing that Manahan's chances are best served that way.

But advocates of Jim Manahhan do not constitute a majority of the house by any means, and it is not easy to account for the indifference of that body. It is said that the state administration is willing to let the matter go so as to make it less likely that Manahan will run for governor two years hence.

It is interesting to note, in this connection, that Mr. Manahan has ceased to talk about the difference between the pay he expected as attorney for the house grain investigating committee and the pay provided by the resolution creating the committee. The resolution empowered the committee to hire a lawyer at $10 a day. After he had been work a week or two Mr. Manahan stated, he it said, that he expected $25 a day, and that the committee had agreed to pay him that.

The committee could not pay him this difference without going to the house for its sanction. The house would be very unlikely to grant the increase.

So there is some interest in the parallel facts that the house shows no disposition to bring about congressional reapportionment, and that Manahan appears to have abandoned his claim for $15 more per day than the house authorized the committee to pay.

Woodmen's Secession Bill.

The senate has passed the O'Neill house bill permitting Minnesota members of the Modern Woodmen of America to secede from the parent organization, but with amendments not to the taste of those who sought this legislation. The house has refused to concur in these amendments, and conference committees will be appointed.

Tuberculosis Work.

The bill to provide state aid for county tuberculosis sanitoria is in conference, and it will pass. The omnibus appropriation bill will provide adequately for this work, probably $250,000 a year for the next two years.

Appropriation Bills.

Pretty soon the legislature will be grappling with the problem offered by the appropriation bills, and this will take up a good deal of the time remaining. But one of these bills, that fixing salaries of state officers and employes, has been reported. There will be a bill making appropriations for the state institutions under the board of control, one for educational institutions, one for the state departments and a general bill.

These several bills will involve the expenditure of something like $19,000,000.

"Seven-Senator" Bill.

The bill proposing a constitutional amendment limiting the representation in the state of any one county to seven senators has passed the senate and may or may not pass the house. It is now before the house reapportionment committee. No great interest has been exhibited by the house in this measure, but it will show strength when it comes before that body. Unless it can be made a special order, however, it will probably come too late for passage.

A curious development in this measure is that it was found necessary by its friends in the senate to amend it so that the new doctrine of political inequality it lays down shall not become effective until the next reapportionment. Otherwise, if the bill went through the legislature and should ne ratified by the people, the next legislature would meet with sixty-seven senators when the Constitution forbade a greater number than sixty-three, and with nine senators from Hennepin county when the Constitution forbade more than seven from any one county.

To avoid bringing about an unconstitutional legislature with the legal complications this would involve, the friends of the principle of unequal representation had to put on the amendment that the new idea shall not be effective until the next time the state is reapportioned.

What the adoption of the proposition involves, therefore, is a deadlock under which there would not be another reapportionment for half a century.

Classification Bill.

The senate committee on taxes and tax laws, after wrestling for weeks with the Spooner bill classifying tangible property for purposes of taxation, has agreed upon a different plan, which is now before the senate.

It creates three classes, as follows:

Class 1—Household and strictly personal goods, to be assessed at one-quarter of actual value.

Class 2—Agricultural lands, livestock, poultry, farm products, stocks of merchandise, manufacturers' materials and manufacturers' articles, tools, implements and machinery; to be assessed at one-third of actual value.

Class 3—All other property; to be assessed at 40 per cent of actual value.

This new classification strikes out the admirable provision of the Spooner bill that homestead real estate should be specially favored by assessment at only one-quarter of actual value. It also cuts out the provisions that mineral and city real estate should be assessed at half their actual value.

Classes 1 and 2 were the same in both bills.

The house will probably refuse to concur in these amendments if the senate passes the bill as it stands.

Telephone Regulation.

The house bill putting telephones under the railroad and warehouse commission and requiring each company to connect with the lines of other companies, is a special order in the senate tomorrow afternoon, and it is likely to pass. Its chances have not been improved, however, by the fact that its friends in the house are held mainly responsible for the defeat of a general public utilities bill which would have included telephones as well as all other public utilities.

Minimum Wage Bill.

The minimum wage bill has passed the house and is now on the senate calendar.

The legislature has but eight working days left after today. Wednesday, April 23, at midnight, will be the end of bill passing. The legislature will adjourn sine dio at noon Thursday, April 24.

izing the situation, with lightning rapidity dug his spurs into his horse, which reared. His quickness saved his life, the bullet, instead of burying itself in the king's breast, struck the horse on the neck, and so close was it, that the king's left hand glove was blackened by the powder discharge.

Grabbed by Guard.

Before the assailant was able to pull the trigger again, a secret service man sprang upon him. The two men fell to the ground, locked in each others arms, struggling furiously. The assassin managed to free his revolver arm, and fired two more shots in rapid succession, but the officer knocked his arm aside and the bullets flew harmlessly through the air.

At the sound of the first shot the king's staff forced their horses on the sidewalk and made a ring around the assassin, who fought fiercely in the grip of four policemen before he was overpowered and handcuffed.

King Alfonso, as soon as he saw that the man had been secured, raised himself in the stirrups, turned to the crowd gave a military salute and shouted in a ringing voice: "Long live Spain."

Reassures Staff.

He then dismounted and reassured his staff, saying: "It is nothing gentlemen."

Then there rose a mighty roar from the wildly enthusiastic masses which rolled along in great waves of sound, all the way as the king rode to the palace, cool collected and smiling.

A spectator, a pensioner royal halberdier, pushed forward so impetuously to offer his congratulations to the monarch, that he was mistaken for another assassin and was arrested. He was released as soon as the mistake was discovered. A young Frenchman, who was standing beside Allegro, was also arrested, but it does not appear that he was connected with him.

Would Lynch Assailant.

The crowds made a determined attempt to lynch Allegro, who was rushed into a house and kept there until an automobile ambulance escorted by mounted police, transferred him to police headquarters.

King Alfonso was forced to tell of what he lightly called "the incident" which caused delay to Queen Victoria and the dowager queen, Maria Christina, who were greatly alarmed. The king smilingly allayed their fears.

He had hardly been back in the palace ten minutes when an immense clamor arose. The two squares on which the palace looks, were black with people of all classes, desirous of showing their joy at the king's safety and their admiration of his bravery. The king went to the balcony and acknowledged the cheers.

Is an Anarchist.

The police investigations have established that Allegro was recently expelled from France as an anarchist after which he went to Barcelona. He came to Madrid a month ago and obtained employment in a carpenter shop. He worked there until Friday.

It is said that during his first examination Allegro declared that on seeing the king pass, he was seized with a sudden evil impulse, and having a revolver in his pocket, drew it out. Driven on by an irresistible force, he sprang forward and fired.

A woman said to be associated with Allegro was arrested.

A curious coincidence is found in the fact that the Spanish premier, Count Romanones, last night declared to be absolutely without foundation alarming rumors circulated regarding the possibility of an attempt against the king on the occasion of the swearing in of the recruits and relative to the presence in Madrid of several dangerous anarchists.

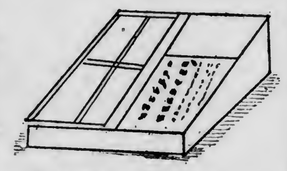

THE HOMECROFTERS' CORNER

Devoted to the Care of Lawns, Shubbery and the Backyard Gardens.

By C. E. ROE.

We have come to the season of the year when every housewife looks longingly at the green vegetables in the grocer's window and wishes that her pocketbook would permit her to add these luxuries to the family table. The system needs them after a long, cold winter in which the chief items of living have been potatoes, bread, dried fruits and meat. Even though she may have a back-yard garden, it will still be many weary weeks before Duluth gardens can offer green lettuce, radishes, onions, spinach, etc.

Yet nearly every Duluth family can grow these things easily and quickly at a very trifling expense at least a month before they are to be had from the gardens.

Storm Window Garden

Using ten or twelve-inch boards, construct a frame, the top of which shall have a slant of about 15 deg. and fit one or two of your storm windows. If you use two windows, run a strip four inches wide through the center of your frame to act as a support for the inner edges of your sash. Select a level spot in your back yard, having a southern exposure — preferably against the side of the house or barn. Excavate five or six inches of the top soil and place your frame over the excavation with slope to the south. Now fill in the space you have excavated with rich, finely pulverized soil. Bank up the outside around the frame with earth or manure and put on your storm windows. After two or three hours' exposure to the sun the soil in your frame will be sufficiently warm to plant your seeds. Take a board slighty shorter than your frame and press one of the sharp edges into the soil so as to make a light, straight furrow for the seeds. Sow and cover about one-half inch for radish or spinach or one-quarter inch for lettuce. When covered, place your board over the row and press down firmly. Seeds will not germinate well unless the earth is firmly packed about them. The rows shoud be from four to six inches apart.

For early onions, use onion sets instead of seed. You can purchase them by the quart from almost any grocer. Let the sets touch each other in the rows, but be careful to pack the earth firmly about them. They will begin to grow almost immediately and will be ready for the table in short order.

Tomato plants, cabbages, pansies, asters and many other garden plants can be started in your storm-window garden and transplanted later to the open ground. It is not only an economic help, but a source of pleasure.

After your garden is planted it should be thoroughly sprinkled with luke warm water, using care not to wash the soil from the seeds. Always do your sprinkling late in the afternoon or in the evening when there is no sun on the glass. Wet foliage burns easily in the close air of your frame.

Every warm, bright day the sash should be pulled down a little from the top to admit air. As the season advances the sash maye be entirely removed during the middle of the day, but the frame should be closed before the chill of evening comes on. If there is danger of a freeze during the night your frame should not only be made as tight as possible, but blankets or straw should be spread over the glass.

If you want early head lettuce, carefully take out some of the young plants and transplant them in your storm-window garden. They should be set about six inches apart and the top soil frequently loosened about them. I start my plants in the house and transfer them to the frames later.

Have a storm-window garden. Do it now!

DEDICATE FIRST FLOOR OF CHURCH

Special Services in Completed Part of First Christian Structure.

At the formal dedication of the first story of the new edifice of the First Christian church, Twelfth avenue east and First street, yesterday morning, the principal address was delivered by evangelist Robert Whiston. Mr. Whiston said in part:

"Christian union is in the very air we breathe. The great and spiritual men of all the churches are preaching and praying and laboring for the unity of the church. The question is not, 'Shall we have a union?' but 'How shall union be brought to pass?'

"There was a time when the Christian church was peculiar in its stand for church unity. We are no longer so. We are peculiar in that we have no peculiarities. We stand for the reproduction of New Testament Christianity in this twentieth century, a reproduction in name, government, doctrine and in practice. Others may be right, they may be wrong. We can't be wrong, we must be right in the stand we take on the New Testament platform.

"Paul saved the church from Judaism; Luther saved the church from ecclesiasticism; Carey and other pioneer missionaries saved the church from selfishness and covetousness, and the time is not far distant when the church will be redeemed from division, and when the churches will get together and save the world."

A response to the sermon was delivered by Evangelist C. B. Osgood. A vocal solo, "Be Merciful," was rendered by Mrs. G. K. Compton. Prayer was led by Rev. Ray E. Hunt, pastor of the church.

A collection was taken for the fund to be used in the completion of the church, and about $3,000 was realized. The first floor, which has been completed, and the lot, cost $15,500. This was nearly the whole expense, however, for a considerable amount of the work on the building was donated by members. The main auditorium of the new building has a seating capacity of 400. The membership of the church now numbers more than 200, and in addition to this, the Sunday school has about 175.

DOCTRINE OF REINCARNATION

Theosophist Lecturer Says It Is Accepted By Great Philosophers.

David S. M. Unger of Chicago, national lecturer for the American section of the Theosophical society, expounded the doctrine of his sect on the subject of reincarnation last evening to a crowded house at the Unitarian church. He said in part:

"Theosophy teaches that every soul emanates from God and will return to Him; that a just God could not place any soul upon earth to be whirled through time, some lives scarcely reaching the door of existence, and others stretching through years of opportunity; some born of criminal parents, and others in circumstances conducive to an exemplary life; some disabled, wretched, desperate, rejected, and others triumphant and accepted by all. But each and everyone has, in the divine order of things, an equal right to salvation. Nothing as regards the soul is accidental, but each has surely passed on to present conditions through birth and rebirth, and each shall surely pass on to other experiences and to a fuller life.

"I wish to call your attention to the ancient Egyptian creed, and in Chaldea and Assyria, 10,000 years before the Christian era, that the idea of reincarnation prevailed. The two religions that comprise more than half the inhabitants of the world—Hinduism and Buddhism—accept the philosophy. In the religion more familar to our time, the Hebrew, the great historian, Josephus, laid down the belief of the Hebrew that every soul that had not reached perfection must return to earth.

"In the time of Christ the doctrine must have been taken for granted, for when he was asked about the man born blind, whether it was caused by his own sin or the sin of his parents, he did not answer, 'How could a man sin before he was born.'

"If we turn to the philosophers and poets, the greatest of them accepted reincarnation—for instance, Pythagoras, Plato, Virgil, Hume, Ovid, Huxley, Emerson, Goethe, Browning, Rossetti and Wordsworth."

BREAKS ANKLE IN EFFORT TO ESCAPE

Prisoner Leaps Over Stone Wall But Is Recaptured.

John Anderson, county jail prisoner serving a 90-day term for petit larceny, escaped from his guards Saturday afternoon and was captured only after an exciting chase in which Anderson jumped over a stone wall and fractured his ankle.

Anderson was working outside the jail carrying garbage. While his guard's back was turned for a moment he took to his heels, running down Seventh avenue east to London road and then over to Ninth avenue east. Looking back he saw the guard in pursuit.

Ahead of Anderson was a stone wall several feet high which overlooks the Duluth & Iron Range railroad tracks. Anderson did not stop to think twice, but leaped. In the fall he broke a bone in his ankle.

In spite of his injury he attempted to go further. He was caught on the lake shore shortly afterwards. The prisoner was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

GOVERNOR IS GRATEFUL

Chief Executive of Ohio Sends His Thanks to Duluthians.

Speaks for the Stricken Citizens of State He Represents.

"To the Editor of The Herald and the People of Duluth: "For the stricken people of Ohio, I want to thank you for your offering. We are touched not more by these substantial generosities than by the largesses of the hearts of those from whom they flow. The elements wrought us a staggering havoc. But this is a great state. She will recover. The lights of love and hope will point the way. Sincerely yours,

"JAMES M. COX,

"Governor, State of Ohio."

The above letter, addressed to The Duluth Herald by Governor Cox of Ohio, and signed by him personally was received today. The letter was in response to the sending of $1,283, collected by The Herald., for the relief of the flood and fire sufferers of Dayton and vicinity.

The total of the fund thus far collected by The Herald amounts now to $1,337.22. It was raised to this sum today by the receipt of a check for $50 from the village of Nashwauk, Minn. The check was accompanied with a letter from M. J. Donovan, clerk of the village, stating that the village had made this donation for the unfortunates.

The full list of contributors and the the balance of the fund will be sent to Governor Cox within a few days.

PONTIFICATE OF PIUS X

Rev. Father Powers of Virginia Speaks to Duluth Knights of Columbus.

Pontiff Attacked Greatest Heresy of All Time, Modernism.

The selection of Pius X as head of the Catholic church after the death of Leo XIII was peculiarly fitting in view of the conditions existing in this age, according to Rev. Father William Powers of Virginia, who gave an illuminating talk at a meeting of Duluth council, Knights of Columbus, last week.

Father Powers' character sketch of Pius X and his review of the progress of the church and religion since the death of Leo XIII are of particular interest now that Pius X is seriously ill at the Vatican. Father Powers said in part:

"The death of Leo XIII occasioned greater uncertainty in the Catholic world than did any previous incident in the life of the church. The election of Leo had been expected, but the election of a successor to him seemed to be a difficult, arduous and almost impossible task. This had been foreseen by Divine Providence. Thus, while the world trembled in its surging uncertainty, the divine hand of God had slowly but surely fashioned an apostolic character for the chair of Peter, whose selection would be positively divine; whose deeds, when our century will have passed into history, will merit for him a primary place among those who have ruled the church, and who have guided the bark of Peter amidst the surging tide of manifold oppression.

"There were thirteen probable candidates for the Papacy at the conclave. Cardinal Rampolla, who had acted as secretary of state under Leo XIII, was considered the most likely to be selected. Cardinal Sarto, on the contrary, seemed to be the least mentioned. Those two men were the extremes of personal character. The two held opposite opinions of what would be required of the new pontiff. Cardinal Rampolla and a vast majority of the cardinals were of the opinion that the new pontiff must follow the policy advocated and fostered by Leo. They believed that he must be an intellectual giant, that he must enter the arena to contend with Socialism and kindred pressing subjects. The minority, who considered Cardinal Sarto as a possible candidate, held an entirely opposite view of the duties that must devolve upon the new pontiff. They thought that he would be called upon to develop entirely new fields; that he must reap what Leo had sown; that he must begin a most necessary work of reconstruction within the church; that he must confine his care to the clergy; that he must continue the work begun by the Vatican council.

Providence of God.

"The Providence of God is clearly manifest in the election of Piux X. The age in which we live is one of great material achievements. Side by side with our material advancement, however, there is everywhere to be noticed a depressing weakening of the cardinal virtues amongst men. We see the evidences of lack of faith, without which, Christ says, it is impossible to please God. This is clearly noticeable in our soundings of doubt, indifference and materialism. Then, again, men have not the proper trust and confidence in the providence of God. Men do not hope. The modern city resembles to a great extent that city of palaces into which St. Peter entered, rich in the possession of material wealth, but poor in the evidences of that saving hope which acts as a soothing balm to the aching heart. Men inquire now, as they did then, whence they have come, why they are here, whither they are going. Their conduct leads one to believe that theirs is a fatal conclusion. They stand at the crossroads, fascinated by that perilous doctrine that chance is their sole origin, that they are here to taste as much sensual pleasure as the brief years allotted to them will allow, and that their sole destiny is the wakeless grave into which they must sink with the brute of creation, with the animal of the earth.

"There is likewise a world of misery everywhere to be seen, because of the absence of practical Christian charity. The poor are universally antagonized by the rich. The weak are being oppressed by the force of might and strength. Capital and labor are engaged in a terrible final death struggle. Everything is now measured in the standard of material exchange. But that great commandment of love, which Christ desired to foster among men, by which we are told to love God above all things, and our neighbor as ourselves, is universally neglected and in certain parts of society, entirely forgotten. How sad it is that the noble intelligence of man, which tends naturally to God, which seeks Him as its natural end, is frustrated in its pursuits. Even as the vine will cling to the tree, and grow heavenward, but when that natural support is taken away it creeps along the barren ground, upon sticks and stones and worthless earthly objects, even so the intelligence of man, when deprived of its natural object, the love of God, will creep along the barren places of earth, grasping the sticks and stones of human life—pleasures, riches, worldly honor—but destined to wither because those things are not the proper sphere for its environment.

"We must recognize then the workings of the providence of God, in the selection to the papacy in this, our age of withering faith, of a man well grounded in that faith which incited the apostles to live and to die in confirmation of it. We must recognize the evidence of Divine Providence in the selection of Piux X because he possesses in an eminent manner those qualities of mind and a knowledge of life which will enable him to revive that hope in the supernatural which is almost banished from the earth. To the apostles and their successors our Divine Lord entrusted the spiritual nourishment of His flock—'Feed my sheep.' 'But how can the Christians of the world be nourished with the Food of Love, if those to whom that office had been confined had forgotten their proper field of labor. Pius X is by training fitted to understand the weaknesses that might arise amongst the clergy. And at the same time his life and knowledge prepare him beyond all others, not only to detect the ailments but to apply remedies suitable to overcome them. We must again recognize the workings of Divine Providence in placing Piux X upon the throne of Peter, when it is considered that in this age of manifest charity towards the poor and oppressed, there is raised to the highest position among men the ruler of the Christian world, the lowly, humble Sarto.

The life of Piux X must convince one that it was a continuous preparation for his exalted office. While he had devoted considerable time to the material welfare of the people, for the most part his experiences were with the priests and those preparing for the priesthood. This provided him with a knowledge of the priestly state, which in turn became the implement in overcoming the great antagonist of church progress, modernism.

Modernism.

"The first act of Pope Piux X was to offset the influences of modernism upon ecclesiatical life. Our Divine Lord has at all times provided men to His church endowed with graces and gifts suitable to overcome the heresies that have arisen. St. Athanasius confounded the Arians; St. Cryil overcame the Nestorians; St. Augustine destroyed the Palegians. To Pius X was given the task of overcoming the greatest of all heresies, or what he calls the synthesis of all heresies, the modernistic one.

"Modernism has no definite origin. In nature it might be compared to those numerous small rivers that come pouring down the mountain side or go meandering through the rocks, unnoticed until they unite to form the river. Since Pius X has pointed it out it has become a topic of universal interest. The Encyclical Pasendigreris was issued in condemnation of it, and not since the declaration of the dogma of papal infallibility has any papal decree produced such universal attention.

"Modernism is at once a tendency and at the same time a definite code of dogmatic teachings. The tendency of modernism is due to the result of an exaggerated love of what is modern and new. It would alter and change the teachings of our Divine Lord to suit modern condition. It would be a complete readjustment of those primitive doctrines upon the changing standards of twentieth century ideas. One of its most prominent students, in fact the one who employed the word for the first time, defines its evil as an ambition to eliminate God from our social life. The unchanging doctrines of the God-man, the tendency of modernism would alter and reconstruct to suit what they term modern needs.

"The advocates see the germs of truth in the religious cults everywhere propagated about us. They distinguish the practical of naturally good virtues in the lives of those who adhere to their limited tendencies. Thus they are constrained to seek a medium whereby the Christian religion might be modernized so as to include those outside of the fold. The mistaken notion contained in this theory is that the church would condemn all those who through no fault of their own remain outside the pale of her membership. On the contrary the church is most emphatic in her teaching that God gives to each man grace sufficient to save his soul. Whether he use that grace properly or not is not for us to determine. At the same time it must be borne in mind that one of the most solemn acts in the life of our Divine Lord was the selection of His apostles, and the confining to them of the keys to His innumerable graces, which are to be found in His church. While it is true that outside of the body of the church men may at times save their souls, still when we ponder upon the many counsels of Christ, it remains a difficult thing for man to save his soul outside of her fold.

Religious Unrest.

"One cannot but realize that there is a universal religious spirit of unrest manifested about us. On all sides men are inquiring for truth, and the very atmosphere seems to contain an argument for the divine foundation of His spiritual kingdom on earth, in the spirit of antagonism and oppression which she has to endure. Cardinal Newman owed his conversion to the study of the Arian heresy in the Fourth century. Previous to that time he was constrained to believe that the Anglican church might have originated with the time of the apostles. But in the study of the conditions of the Fourth century he found the church warring against the Arian heresy the same as it did against the heresies that arose in the Sixteenth century. The same unchanging attitude of the church forces Lord Macauley to hold her before the world as an object of admiration. It forces Chesterton, that brilliant scholar and writer, to preach her unchanging doctrine with as much fervor as monks of ages gone by. Even the man on the street will today tell you that he affiliates himself with no church, but if he should choose one it would be the Catholic. This firmly established argument for the divinity of the Catholic church the modernist either consciously or unconsciously would change in his blind, unthinking reasoning.

"As a distinct mode of dogmatic teaching, the modern tendency would destroy our Catholic notion of revelation; it would distinguish the personality of Christ so as to destroy His divinity entirely; it would rob the sacramental system of its claims as the media through which the grace of God flows into the avenues of human life. In a word it might be said that Modernism is indeed a synthesis of all the heresies that have arisen in the past centuries. An the encyclical of Pius X, which marvelously united them into one compact whole, and showed the fallacy of their tenets, and the dire results that might follow from their propagation, is sufficient in itself to make him one of the greatest popes of history.

Motto of Pontificate.

"The motto of the pontificate of Pius X is: To restore all things to Christ. The idea of restoration impresses one with the knowledge that things had departed from their proper station, and needed readjustment There was truly a strange tendency to irreligion and indifference everywhere manifested. Pius wished to point out the true oath that leads to righteousness among men. Thus a decree of Dec. 2, 1905, advises the faithful to receive holy communion frequently. Another decree of Aug. 15, 1910, requires the pastors of souls to allow the little children to receive Holy Communion just at the age of reason.

"Another department of the church Pius X has taken under his protection. That is the seminary. He overcame the difficulties of many small seminaries by uniting the small institutions with large ones.

"In continuance of his desire that the people be instructed in the fundamentals of their religion, our holy father has caused a department of studies to be formulated with reference to the Bible, under the Jesuit fathers.

"Pope Leo XIII has always been identified with questions of social import. Indeed, so thoroughly had his knowledge become that during the latter years of his life his advice was sought upon the most perplexing questions of the day. His encyclicals have become standards of reference and compendiums of information.

"In this regard Pius X has reaped what Leo has sown. His views upon the social questions of the day were formulated in a mutto proprio of Dec. 18, 1912. They were embodied in a syllabus of nineteen propositions, taken from the encyclicals of Leo XIII. Because of them two great Catholic organizations, which had become permeated with dangerous Socialistic tendencies, were disorganized and on the next day reorganized under the supervision of proper ecclesiastical authority.

"The pontificate of Pius X has been saddened by the separation of church and state in France and Portugal. The sad scenes enacted there whereby the Sisters of Charity were driven from their homes, church property confiscated, and universal evil done to the interest of Christendom, has done much to embitter the years of his reign. However, it has not been without its return of gladness, for in the midst of that universal sorrow he is daily being informed that France is today more Catholic than at any previous time in her history. The separation of church and state has united the clergy and the people upon closer grounds of sentiment and interest so that the country is being fired with that ancient spirit of faith which sent her missionaries to conquer the world to Christ."

REPORT OF WELFARE BOARD

Need for Legal Aid Bureau Proved By Experience---Municipal Lodging House Matron and Probation Officer Report Good Results.

A wide field of activity is covered by the monthly report of the work of the city board of public welfare, which was issued Saturday. The report shows what is being done in the institutions under the supervision of the board and in connection with other special lines of endeavor. The report of the free legal aid bureau's work contains many little tragedies briefly outlined.

The report in part is as follows:

Free Legal Aid Bureau.

"The free legal aid bureau was formally organized by the board of public welfare for those needing legal assistance and unable to pay for it, on Feb. 18. The need of this bureau was confirmed by the list of seventeen applications for assistance during the ten days remaining in February. The results secured have been unusually successful, and have been of much greater importance to those aided than the mere monetary value would indicate. The following is a summary of the first seventeen cases during the latter part of February:

"1. Mortgage interest and taxes due on home. No funds. Secured loan for party and paid same.

"2. Maid's baggage held by former employer. Secured release of baggage and delivered same to maid.

"3. Claim of maid for wages due and unpaid, $8. Collected $8 and delivered same to client.

"4. Woman complained that husband did not support her, and was holding her personal property. Took matter up with husband. No results yet. Divorce proceedings instituted.

"5. Claim for wages due. Man was able to pay attorney's fee, so advised him to secure lawyer and push claim.

"6. Claim for wages due, $15.50. Claim disputed by employer. Compromised by party accepting $6 in settlement.

"7. Lumberjack's claim for wages. Referred same to Mr. Whalen in city attorney's office, who has charge of such matters.

"8. Another party whose claim was same as No. 7.

"9. Maid's claim for wages. Compromised by collecting $11 and turning same over to woman.

"10. Action for divorce. Proceedings instituted, but parties became reconciled and suit was withdrawn.

"11. Woman's tenant refused to pay rent. Collected $8 for one month's rent and adjusted matter.

"12. Sick woman wished to have will drawn. Went to hospital and drew up her will.

"13. Claim for personal injury. Collected $125 in settlement of claim and delivered money to injured party.

"14. Woman whose husband had deserted her asked assistance of bureau in helping her locate him and force him to assist her in supporting their child. Took matter up with man. Negotiations pending to re-establish home.

"15. Woman in trouble over her son. Went to her home and gave her legal advice.

"16. Non-support claim of woman against husband. Called on man and got him to promise to make regular contributions towards support of family.

"17. Advice requested concerning property rights and rights of landlord and tenant. Gave the needed advice.

"In addition to the $158 collected for these seventeen claimants, $719.55 was collected during the month of March. In all twenty-six new cases were handled during March, as follows:

Claims for wages due	11
Settlement of estates	1
Advice as to rights of landlord and tenants	3
Non-support	1
Property rights	8
Personal injury claims	2
Miscellaneous legal advice	4
Application for loan in emergency caused by illness	1
Total	26

"The results secured not only demonstrate the need for a legal aid bureau in a remarkable way, but have made very evident the cordial spirit of cooperation and desire to be of help regardless of remuneration that prevails among the members of Duluth's bar, many of whom have volunteered their services and have been of great assistance.

"A special committee has been appointed by the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, with A. T. Banning as chairman, and the public affairs committee itself has guaranteed incidental expenses which must be advanced for court costs, fees, etc., to the extent of $300 during the year.

Municipal Lodging House.

"A report on the work of the municipal lodging house showed that it is providing a temporary shelter for continuing the useful and necessary function in the city's social work by mothers with children who may be stranded, and other classes of women for whom there is no other appropriate institution.

"The matron of the lodging house has a peculiarly good opportunity to be a friend of those coming under her care, to learn their desires and needs, and to aid in placing them in employment in proper homes, etc.

"The following table shows the volume of work done during March:

Number of persons cared for	22
Number of meals given	426
Number of lodgings given	171
Number of days' aid given	190
Disposition of cases:
Sent to permanent employment	6
Sent to homes	6
Sent to temporary employment	4
Number of inmates on hand April 1	4
Children under 5 years	3
Sources of cases:
Travelers' aid	1
Voluntary	6
Police	4
State free employment bureau	7
Brought over from February	4
Total	22

Probation Work.

"Work of the probation officer in connection with the municipal court has received the hearty indorsement of the judge in charge of criminal cases as meeting an important need that has long existed. The chief features of this work have been the results secured in aiding men to keep steady employment and to provide for their wives and children and, in short, of re-establishing homes that were in danger of being broken up through drink, non-support, etc.

"There were seventeen on probation during March, as follows:

Non-support	2
Petit larceny	1
Assault	1
Drunkenness	1
Number placed on probation prior to March 1	12
Total	17

"In connection with these cases the probation officer made 130 calls and was instrumental in the payment of $60.10 for and on behalf of the families of those placed on probation, with the exception of $2 for court costs, from their wages.

"In addition to those formally placed on probation, the services of the probation officer have been at the disposal of the court in connection with about twenty cases, which have involved a great deal of time and attention and have required several visits to or on behalf of those referred by the court.

"On all days except Saturdays, sessions of the municipal court have been regularly attended, and on Saturday the probation officer has kept his office open from 8:30 a. m. to 8 p. m., receiving probationers who reported. He reports that all those under his charge during the month were engaged in honorable work, with one exception, and all have been prompt in reporting, have been obedient to the law and apparently are actuated by motives tending to better citizenship.

Legislation.

"A report was received to the effect that all legislation proposed or supported by the board of public welfare has either been passed or is well along in the order of passage, except the chattel loan bill, which has met with a good deal of opposition, but may yet be enacted into law in an amended form. The work farm bill, in the preparation of which this board co-operated with the special county attorney, has become a law, and the establishment of a joint city and county work farm can be undertaken as soon as the commission is appointed. The welfare board has secured information from many sources as to the plans for buildings for such a work farm, and has prepared rough sketches for the use of the work farm commission. It is also making some studies of the natural resources of the farm with a view of submitting this information to the commission."

H. JOHNSON, G. P. A.

BARBER IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

F. W. Wanger Wants to Be Chief Executive of Arkansas.

Little Rock, Ark., April 14.—Forced from obscurity by the importunities of friends, Frederick William Wanger, the "cyclone barber" of Little Rock, finds himself suddenly one of the most talked of men of Arkansas. Reluctantly he has entered the race for governor, severely complicating an already complex situation brought about by the death of United States Senator Jeff Davis and the election of Governor Joe T. Robinson to succeed to the senatorship. This left a scramble for the governor's office.

Wanger's friends have about convinced him it is his patriotic duty to cast himself into the vortex. The barber admits he is the strongest man now before the people for the Democratic nomination, and predicts his triumphant election. He says it is strictly a case of the office seeking the man, a rare spectacle, especially in Arkansas. He insists it is his friends that are making it possible for a barber to sit in the governor's chair for the first time.

Quick Shaving Wins Medal.

Wanger has never been prominent, except in a latent way. A few days ago he was unknown outside the little barber shop on West Second street, where he has been amputating hirsute appendages and living up to the record established at the St. Louis world's fair, where he won a medal for being the swiftest barber in captivity.

Then some of his friends urged Wanger to make the race, assuring him that he could win the nomination "by a close shave," but that if nominated there would be no doubt whatever of the election. Wanger is much in earnest, and it is admitted by many that his candidacy is no more humorous than some other political performances Arkansas has witnessed during the last few months.

One of the first of the urgent calls came from the Original Wanger club of Corning Clay county, signed by R. U. Wise, James E. Pepper, Rev. Abe Johnson, pastor of the Methodist church, and thirty other prominent citizens.

The message was to this effect:

"We would like to know how you stand on several propositions, such as the prohibition bill, the anti-tipping bill and anti-treating bill. I hope to see your views published in the press in the next few days. We are all union men and laboring men and can assure you that the union laboring men in the state of Arkansas are for you."

President of University Will Lecture Before the Commercial Club.

The last of a series of lectures at the Duluth Commercial club will be given Thursday evening with President George E. Vincent of the University of Minnesota as the speaker.

President Vincent will talk on "The University and the Future of the State."

It is expected that a large crowd will be out for the lecture. Dr. Vincent is always greeted by a large audience in Duluth, as he is personally popular and he may always be relied upon to say something worth while. Since Dr. Vincent assumed the presidency of the university he has traveled extensively over the state, bringing the university and the people closer together, and he will tell Duluth people Thursday evening some of the results of his policy.

REV. A. W. RYAN TALKS TO MEN AT Y. M. C. A.

"If all persons could become efficient Christians," said Rev. A. W. Ryan, pastor of St. Paul's church, in an address on "Efficient Christianity," delivered at the Y. M. C. A. Men's meeting yesterday afternoon, "it would revolutionize the entire world, morally and commercially. Men and women would be far happier, a keener enjoyment of life would be appreciated by them, and they would unconsciously be leading good, clean lives.

"There are too many inefficient Christians in this world. That fact is responsible for a great portion of the vice and other conditions prevalent almost everywhere."

"STILL ON THE WATER WAGON" WITH A GOOD SET OF TIRES

Tribute Paid to the Neal Treatment by Minnesotan Who Quickly Routed Drink Habit.

"I am still on the water wagon with a good set of tires under me," is what a former patient of the Neal Institute writes from his Minnesota home to the institution for the treatment of alcoholism.

Climbing aboard the water wagon is comparatively easy. Sticking there any length of time is what is hard. The Neal Treatment provides the required "sticking power," for the reason that it quickly knocks out the alcoholic poison found in the systems of all drinkers, which causes so many people of good intentions to topple off the water wagon before they have ridden very far.

The Neal Treatment is a physician's harmless vegetable remedy, taken internally, with no dangerous hydodermic injections. The results are tonic in effect and in three days all desire for liquor is changed to dislike for everything alcoholic.

There is no publicity. Names are never revealed. Your own investigation is not only invited, but urged. Call in person or address for booklet the Neal Institute, Superior, Wis., corner Belknap and West Seventh street.

WILL BUILD WAREHOUSE

Farmers of Crow Wing and Cass Counties, Near Brainerd, Organize.

Form Produce Company to Store and Handle Their Farm Products.

Brainerd, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers of Crow Wing and Cass counties, near Brainerd, have formed the Farmers' Produce company to be incorporated for $10,000 with shares at $10 each. No stockholder will hold over $1,000 worth of stock or be entitled to more than one vote each. The highest indebtedness allowed the company is to be $5,000. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, F. H. Gruenhagen; vice president, T. C. Pointon; secretary-treasurer, Henry Bouck; directors, R. R. Livingston, R. R. Wise, C. H. Kyllo, John Sandgren, Claude Wheeler and Gus King, the latter being from Cass county.

A site is to be acquired for a potato warehouse. The corporation will buy and sell everything a farmer uses and will introduce blooded horses, cattle and sheep. The farmers last week shipped a carload of potatoes to Duluth and this week will ship a car to Minneapolis.

Butchers Fong Large Hogs.

J. W. Porter of Crow Wing Station, marketed four hogs in Brainerd which scaled a total weight of over 1,600 pounds for which he received a check for $161. Two of the porkers weighed 445 and 440 pounds respectively, which goes to show that Crow Wing county is coming to the front as the home of good breakfast bacon.

GENERALLY DRY LAKES ARE FULL

North Dakota Well Supplied With Surface Water This Spring.

Starkweather, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lakes and sloughs of this section which have been either low or practically dry for some years are now all bank full. There is more water than seen for years at this season.

Recent heavy snows practically flooded all the country between here and the International boundary line. While the farmers are somewhat disappointed in starting spring work they are elated over the moisture stored up that indicates a good crop this year.

GREEKS FIGHTING MAD AT IRISHMEN

Two Nationalities Clash in Crookston Yards and Court Does Rest.

Crookston, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—When Greek meets Greek there is generally something doing, but when an Irish switch crew of the Great Northern bumped into three coaches used as sleepers by a crew of 150 Greek laborers, the jar putting out their lanterns and hurling some of them out of bed, there was still more doing. This happened in the Great Northern yards here early in the morning and in about ten seconds Greeks poured out of the cars in various styles of undress, and the Irish switching crew received assaults from front, flank and rear. Several shots were fired and many blows were exchanged the result being a band of pugnacious Greeks being arraigned in Judge Gossman's court.

Both Sides Are Heard.

The county attorney was missing and the Greeks refused to hire an attorney, the spokesman of the Greeks, with wild gesticulations stating the defense while a voluble Irishman stated his case as the complaining witness for the switching crew.

With the assistance of Sheriff Kelley, Chief of Police Eck and some reserves a semblance of the dignity of a courtroom was preserved, but the trial, conducted by Judge Gossman was the most unique ever witnessed in Crookston. The Greeks were fined $22 and took up a collection among themselves to pay it, leaving the vows of vengeance to be wreaked upon the Sons of Erin.

Crookston Girls Tie Him to Post and Douse Him.

Crookston, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three young women living in Jerome's addition inaugurated a new way of getting rid of the attentions of a young man. Charles G. Stewart of Winnipeg is president of the organization and Porter L. A. Ferguson, father of the idea, a Minneapolis man, is vice president.

The colony was determined upon as a means of providing a future for young Scotchmen who are unable to make a good living in their native land, because of unfavorable industrial conditions now prevailing abroad. International Falls, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The authorities are seeking to identify the body of a man, aged about 40, apparently a lumberjack, taken from the Rainy river at Ranier Saturday and brought here.

The body apparently had been in the water for some time, and nothing was found that could shed any light on the man's identity, except a razor that had at one time contained his name and address, but the action of the water left only the word Michigan legible. The man was about six feet in height and weighed probably 190 pounds.

MOUNTRAIL COUNTY CONTRACT AWARDED.

Stanley, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a lively contest between the bidders for the new courthouse for Mountrail county. Three St. Paul firms and a number of North Dakota concerns were unsuccessful, the contract going to Leighland. Kleppe & Co. of Great Falls, Mont. The building is to be completed this summer. On the La Rue farm near here is a well that throws off gas in such quantities, when the pump is in operation, that a lighted match near the running water will produce a high blaze. Mr. La Rue will make an effort to control the gas for lighting and heating his residence. Westhope and many other towns of the state are heated and lighted by natural gas.

BACKACHE A WARNING ALL SHOULD HEED

It Is One of the First Signs of Kidney Troubles, If Neglected, Serious Diseases Follow.

No one can be well and healthy unless the kidneys work properly and keep the blood pure. When they become clogged up and inactive, nature has a way of warning you.

Backache is one of the first symptoms. You may also be troubled with disagreeable, annoying bladder disorders; have attacks of lumbago or rheumatism; become nervous, tired, and feel all worn out; puffy swellings show under the eyes or in the feet and ankles; and many other symptoms are noticed. If they are neglected, dropsy, diabetes, or Bright's disease, which so often prove fatal, may result.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for the prompt cure of all such troubles than this new scientific preparation, because it removes the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the clogged up pores; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter and sift the poison out of the blood and drive it from the system.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to cure the worst backache, relieve rheumatic pains, or overcome urinary disorders.

ROWING

The Herald Sporting Gossip Is Reliable

THIS day rounds the stake of the fourteenth of the present month—upon the twenty-third of this April the Northern league will officially start what those who have been connected with the baseball thing since its inception here, believe is going to prove the best season of all the seasons that have filed their history in the big book of time.

There is a great deal to say about baseball and the mustard of its local application. Yet, perhaps, the great deal can be expressed in a few words. Charity begins at home, but not in the present case. No one connected with the Duluth Baseball association is asking for any money that can't be earned by the team. But if baseball under the auspices of the present association and backed by a league such as the Northern, does not pay, then the old game is indeed in a bad way here.

But no one is looking for a failure here. There is more interest in the game today than there has been for seasons past. We have achieved the long-sought goal of entering St. Paul and Minneapolis. We are in an eight-club league, and glancing over the reports of the players signed by the various teams, one leans to the belief that the new organization is going to produce the fastest and best baseball that has ever been played in this city.

If professional baseball of high class is going to be part of the life of Duluth, it is clearly up to the people of this city to do their part. We are on the eve of the inauguration of the opening of the Northern league, so to speak. In less than ten days the eight teams will have started on the pursuit for the pennant. And pending the opening of the schedule in the new league, it will be the best thing in the world for the boosters to get busy and help do their part toward making this by all odds the best baseball season in the history of the game here.

Duluth is a city and as such should have real baseball. This is just what the directors of the team are out to give the fans here. From the lineup of the Northern league it looks as if we are going to be one of the fastest of the minors. In point of population we outrank any of the leagues outside of the so-called big minors; leagues that are grumbling because they have not been placed upon the same footing as the two majors.

In the past we have yearned for a real league—now it seems that the long standing, the oft-repeated wish, is about to be realized. And with the realization of this wish let us take a new and larger interest in the game, let us support the team and make Duluth one of the live ones of the new league.

Those loyal friends of Joe Tinker who journeyed from Chicago to the opening of Cincinnati at home, surely didn't get much for their money.

SOME fighters are real; the kind who fight with their fists, their hearts and their brains. Out on the coast Young Burns worked the one-two punch on Harlem Murphy and had the Flatbush boy glassy-eyed. One who witnessed the fight told us of it. Murphy swayed and then spread his feet wide apart. His brain was working clear, despite the fact that his will kept him from reeling. Did the little Harlemite back away and look frightened. He did not. "Come on and fight," Murphy hurled at Burns, and instead of following his advantage, which would probably have won him the fight, Burns backed away and played on the defensive until it was too late to take advantage of his opportunity. It might be added that later in the fight Murphy knocked Burns dead. The boy from Harlem is now fighting the best of his division and getting the money. Burns is ranked with the boys who are through. All of which goes to show that as a rule it is the boy with the mentality who is up at the head of his class.

Negotiations are going on to match Johnny Tillman with some boy, the battle to take place here in the near future.

IF RAY TEMPLE makes any kind of a showing against Pal Brown in the Milwaukee go, surely he will be entitled to credit for his physical stamina, if nothing else. For something like a year this Temple fellow has gone the route. Those who witnessed his long and glorious celebration in St. Paul pronounced his case hopeless. And now some have the effrontery to say that he is in the best condition of his career. Those qualified to know pass the opinion that one of the greatest of the lightweights lost his opportunity through his inability to observe even the faintest rules of training. Temple surely could fight once; whether the lad who outpointed Mandot has anything left is a matter of conjecture.

Zbyszko and Le Marin should make one of the best mat battles of seasons. Le Marin showed in his match here strength, speed and what looked like a natural ability for the game. Whether he is ready for Zbyszko as yet, is another matter. Given another season and the right kind of training, this big youngster should make one of the truly great stars of the wrestling pastime.

NORTHWESTERN HOLDS OPENER

First Shoot of the Season Held on Rice Lake Road Grounds.

The Northwestern Gun club held a successful shoot yesterday afternoon on the grounds on the Rice Lake road, about twenty-two shooters particlpating.

Several new men tried their guns on breaking the blue rocks during the course of the afternoon.

The club will hold its formal grand opening about the middle of May, weather permitting. During the summer a tournament will be held and some of the crack target men in the state have informed the club officials of their intention of entering. The present season promises to be a record-breaker in point of targets trapped, interest at the present time running very high among the members. The shoot for trophies will commence on grand opening day, including the Gonska trophy, imported from Germany. John Wahl, the present holder of the Gonska trophy, will this year shoot for possession of the cup from the 20-yard line, and a keen contest is certain to result.

Following were the scores of yesterday's shoot:

ZBYSZKO FEARS THAT GOTCH WILL SIDESTEP

Chicago, April 14.—Zbyszko, the Polish champion who will wrestle Constant Le Marin at the Coliseum under the management of the Globe Athletic club on the night of April 23, is a fatalist. Although suffering from neuralgia and some strained ligaments in the chest, the big Pole says he will rest until next week and then start gymnasium and outdoor training that will put him in good condition to beat the Frenchman.

"Let me say," said Zbyszko at the headquarters of the Globe A. C. yesterday, "that I have about made up my mind that Frank Gotch meant what he said when he told Manager Herman that he would tack the world's championship over his barn door at Humboldt, Iowa. That is equivalent to saying that my great desire to meet him for the title will not be achieved. Le Marin is a strong, clever and resourceful wrestler and I simply have to beat him at the Coliseum or return to Cracow to conduct my hotel and cafe business. My physician says that complete rest for a few days will restore my physical condition to the normal and permit me to begin a siege of training on the mat that never was attempted by any other wrestler anywhere near my weight."

Ready for Opening.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 14.—Magnates of the new Federal league met Saturday afternoon to ratify the playing schedule, appoint umpires, draw up rules and complete all details for the opening of the season May 2. All the club owners arrived in time for the start of the meeting except William T. McCullough of Pittsburg, who was delayed by irregular train service. Samuel D. Long, the new backer of the Covington club, says everything at Covington is ready for the first game. All the owners talked optimistically of the future of the league.

Wasem Throws Wirth.

St. Louis, Mo., April 14.—Al Wasem of St. Louis defeated Henry Wirth of Chicago in straight falls yesterday afternoon in a lightweight wrestling contest. The first fall, by a head scissors, was made in 29 minutes 40 seconds. The second, through a hammer lock, in 49 minutes and 16 seconds.

WHITE SOX CAPTURE TWO CONTESTS FROM TOLEDO

Darby O'Brien's Crew Shows Strong Both in Field and at Bat.

Duluth Pitchers Hold the Opposing Batters Well in Both Games.

Toledo, Ohio, April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth White Sox administered two drubbings to the Toledo Yannigans here Saturday and yesterday, the northern visitors blanking the locals by the score of 3 to 0 in the first contest and copping the matinee of yesterday by the count of 3 to 1.

Darby O'Brien's men showed excellent form in the two games. One of the most satisfactory results of the soirees with the exiles of the regular Toledo team of the American association, was the excellent showing made by the hurling staff of the Irish Duke.

Blancke showed a lot of stuff, mixing curves and speed with rare judgment and excellent results, while Donaldson, a newcomer, but recently acquired by the commander of the White Sox, also pitched in mid-season form.

Blancke worked three rounds against the visitors without allowing a hit, while Donaldson gave but one blow during the time he was on the firing line.

Aside from the work of his two pitchers the Duluth leader was most pleased with the way his men performed in the field. Buckholtz looks like a star, simply judging from the two games here, while Fishel also made great showing in the contest of yesterday. Elmer Miller, the veteran of several seasons, looks awfully good to the local bugs. His fielding in the two games bordered on the sensational, and he made a throw from deep field that scared one of the Yannigans back to third base from a position half way down the line.

Elmer Smith is another of the visitors who proved one of the stars of the visitors. The work of Smith in the outfield was of the first class order and he showed the earmarks of a real fly chaser. In the opening game the Sox played without an error, while but one misplay marked the work of the visitors in the second contest.

The hitting of big Charley Few, the Rising Sun, Ohio, recruit, who is being played in the outfield, Elmer Miller, Smith and Gary was the feature of the second meeting. With the White Sox hitting the pill when hits counted the most, and Bob Worman and Recruit Friendley holding the Yannigans in check, the superiority of the visitors was clearly manifested throughout the game.

In the seventh round of yesterday's pastime Few singled past first with one down. Stacey slammed one to left field and the big Rising Sun youngster scampered to third. Buckholtz hit to short and Few came home when the ball was fumbled.

In the eighth round Schrieber hit for a clean double and went to third on Elmer Smith's line drive for a single. Smith went out attempting to pilfer the second sack, but Fischel hit for one and Schrieber came hurrying home. Ecker whiffed and Gary hit safe, and then Elmer Miller hit to center for two bases, counting Fischel with the final Duluth count.

The score by inning of the two games:

LOCAL SPORT NOTES

Yesterday's balmy weather brought the amateur teams into the field for initial practice work. The Fitwells were out for the first time this year, many of the old candidates being on hand. Manager Sears, who guided the clothiers last season, is to be in command again the present campaign, and he believes that the team will be stronger than ever. There are something like twenty-five candidates for the team, six of the number being out for positions on the infield. Talbot, the star of last season, is out for one of the box positions, with Johnson and Delburn also firing line aspirants. It looks at the present time as if the clothiers will be stronger than last season, and for many seasons this team has been right in the race with the best of the city's teams.

Should the smiles of Old Sol continue as glowing as the beamy one of yesterday, it is very probable that the crews of the boat club will be able to get on the water sometime during next week. Coach Ten Eyck naturally desires to get his men out in the boats as soon as possible. The large number of new men make an early start in the boats something to be most desired. According to the morning contempory, arrangements have been made whereby the men will be enabled to "take warm sponge baths." No doubt this will prove one of the most pleasant innovations that has been tried for years. This sponge bath stunt is something decidedly new and novel and its effect on the men will be observed with interest.

The Quayle-Larsen league will soon be ready for the opening games of the season. A thorough and unqualified success last season, the junior organization should have even a more successful race during the second year of its organization. Several of the teams of the league were out for practice yesterday, and it is expected that all of the teams will be ready for the opening game within the next ten days. Practically the very pick of the junior baseball teams of Duluth are to be in the junior league, and with the experience of last year to guide the officials, it is expected that the success of last season will be more than duplicated during the present season.

There will be a meeting of the candidates of the Adams baseball team at the clubrooms in the West end, this evening. The first practice of the season was held yesterday afternoon, there being over a dozen candidates in the field. From the present indications the Adams are going to have a very strong team. Most of the old stars are out for positions on the team.

Candidates for the Stone baseball team are requested to meet at the Stone Bookstore this evening for the purpose of effecting plans for the organization of the team.

ED WALSH ADMITS THAT JOHNSON HAS MORE STUFF

(By Ed Walsh.)

Headwork is everything in pitching. The arm amounts to nothing. It is only a piece of bone and muscle hanging to your shoulder.

It doesn't make any difference how much strength a man may have in his arm. It is the amount of strength he can get out of it in the shape of pitching talent that counts.

When I am in the box I never think of anything else than the game. Rooting or joshing doesn't bother me any, for I seldom or never hear it.

When I am on the bench I am as much absorbed in the game as if I were taking part in it. In fact, in some ways I think it is harder to sit on the bench and see your teammates making mistakes and know that you can take no part in the game, than it is to be in the scrimmage yourself.

Age is a pitcher that gets us all sooner or later. It will get me some day.

The best batters in the world strike out once in a while.

It never pays to get rattled in baseball. Play the game.

No player has any license to get swell-headed. Baseball is altogether too uncertain a game for that.

I never consider myself a hit batter in any way than the youngest busher-leaguer. For all I know he may be a better man than I am.

The busher has not come yet, but he may have his day as well as the rest of us. We were all bush-leaguers once.

I believe ball players should stick together. We are all on an equality, all human beings.

I was driven to make good in baseball. The shadow of the mines was on me. It was either make good or back to the mines.

Baseball is as dangerous as mining, though in a different way. You don't risk death as you do in the coal shaft, but you do risk disablement, and that may mean the end of your baseball career.

A catcher is everything to a pitcher. In many ways he is the pitcher's brain.

When I started in the majors I had a cast-iron arm, all kinds of speed and a determination to make good.

All that I am or ever will be in baseball I owe to Comiskey.

No one ever had a harder time than I to make good. There were dark days for me when I first went to Chicago, and they lasted for the first two years, or until I had mastered the spitball.

It is not pleasant to hear some one ask your employer why he keeps that big stiff on the staff, referring to yourself. But the wise player merely grits his teeth and plays all the harder.

The spitball has been much criticized. There has talk of legislating it out of baseball. In my opinion such proposals are foolishness.

The spitball delivery is the hardest in the world to hit when it is going right. Even when hit the ball almost invariably strikes the ground and becomes a fast grounder. Hence I have often said that when my spitball was breaking right it is almost impossible to hit a ball out of the infield.

Some people think that a spitball cannot be hit so it will go far. Sam Crawford caught one of my fast spitballs once and drove it over centerfield fence.

Lost His Best Game.

The best game I ever pitched was against Addie Joss. He allowed not a hit. I allowed three scratches and struck out fifteen men. He won, 1 to 0.

The best game I ever pitched I lost. I pitched a no-hit game against the Red Sox once, and was glad to get away with it. You have to pitch some. I admit, to do that, but there is a certain amount of luck in it.

I never worry when I am losing. It takes nine innings to win a game, and the game is never over till the last man is out.

My record hard luck was when I went into the game in the ninth inning, pitched only one ball, had three runs scored on me, and lost the game. I don't know whether or not that is the world's record for hard luck, but if it isn't it ought to be.

There is no secret about pitching the spitball. Many people think there is, but there isn't. It takes speed and practice, that's all.

If you pitch the spitball at all you have to use it all the time, for you get rusty if you don't.

I have pitched two curves in seven years. Somehow or other I haven't missed them.

They say the spitball is hard on the arm. Clark Griffith told me once I wouldn't last long with that delivery. But somehow I seem to still be in the game.

Walter Johnson has more stuff than I have, and I am willing to admit it.

If I had stuck to speed as he has done, I think I could have pitched nearly as fast a ball as he does, though I am willing to admit that he has something on me there.

In my opinion Johnson is the speediest pitcher who ever lived, and he is a mighty fine fellow as well.

I am interested in the newly organized baseball players' fraternity. So far as I know, it will never be able to help me much, but that isn't the question. It is up to those of us who are in a position to do it, to help those who have not been so fortunate.

In my opinion the baseball players' fraternity has a great work to perform, and it can always count upon my support to the best of my ability.

It takes gilt-edged fielding as well as pitching to win a no-hit contest.

The hardest team in the whole world for me to defeat is Cleveland. Why, I don't know, but it is.

You never can tell in baseball.

Fielders may not support a batter right even if they play errorless ball.

Many a pitcher is saved by a great catch.

In a no-hit game there is a big element of luck.

It doesn't make any difference how many men get on bases. It is those who get across who count.

SHOOTERS MAKE A GOOD RECORD

Duluth Central Gun Club Members Show Early Season Form.

The Duluth Central Gun club held the first shoot of the present season yesterday on the Park Point grounds. In point of interest the shoot of yesterday eclipsed all former initial target meets of the past and augurs for the most successful year in the history of the club. There were many new members out yesterday, and the green men in some instances made a very good showing. Officials of the club are going to endeavor to interest the new men in the target work, for at the rate at which novices are coming in, the green shooters will soon outnumber the trap veterans.

Considerable improvement has been made in the club house and traps, and general provision made for the comfort of the shooters.

WEATHER INTERFERES

Opening Week of Baseball Badly Handicaps the Schedules.

Tail End Clubs Take Leading Position in Percentages.

New York, April 14.—Rain and cold caused havoc with major league arrangements for the opening week of the baseball season and not a club in either organization played its schedule. Of thirteen National league games scheduled, only five were played. Of an even dozen dates, American league clubs were able to fill their engagements on but seven occasions. Rarely has so big a crop of double-headers been shown this early for summer harvesting.

The fine showing of last place clubs or near tail-enders of 1912 was a feature of the play of the season's early stages. With Boston in the National and St. Louis in the American league occupying first place positions, the standings of the clubs at the week end resembled last year's tables turned topsy turvy.

A glance over the list of National league games played shows the champion Giants still minus a victory, the lively Boston team under its new manager, George Stallings, having beaten the New Yorkers in the opening game; the weather having prevented another meeting of the clubs. The Giants' showing was disappointing to their followers, but the team has something of a habit of losing opening day encounters, and their speed and general strength are expected to show later.

In the American league, two pitched battles between the world's champions, the Red Sox, and the Philadelphia Athletics resulted in favor of Manager Connie Mack's men. The poor showing of Wood and Bedient, two of the champions' star box men, was a feature of the brief series, which also slowed the Athletics' famous star infield working well, with Eddie Collins as its particularly bright luminary. Neither Coombs nor Bender of the Athletics' box men displayed winning form, however, while Plank was as reliable as ever. The Bostons proved the same hard fighters. This was easily the most notable series of the week.

RITCHIE WATCHED BRITT FIGHT FROM TOP OF POLE

(By Willie Ritchie.)

Just four years and eight months ago was the first time that I took to boxing. At 15 I went to work at various occupations. For quite a while I was employed by my father driving one of his teams. As a teamster, I figured that there was not much of a future to it—my one ambition from my boyhood days was to improve my position; in other words, to make a name for myself.

In 1909, I made up my mind to learn a trade, so applied for a job in an automobile machine shop in San Francisco. For three and one-half years I stuck to it. The last year I acted as a demonstrator and salesman, so when my usefulness as a ring star is on the wane, I will be in a position to turn my attention to a trade and business that will come in handy to me, if necessary to choose as a means of livelihood.

Since youth or my boyhood days, I was athletically inclined. I was very fond of boxing and every spare moment that I had would find me in a gymnasium or, if I could spare the price, would pay or work my way into a club the night one of the big boxing contests was to take place, and believe me, I missed very few of them. Sometimes my admission was gained by acting as an usher, and more than once, as the saying goes, "I beat it." Either a case of going over the fence or through a window.

At that time Jimmy Britt was a great favorite in San Francisco. I used to read of him when in my short pants. He used to get the big write-ups. I envied him. My own thought and wish was that some day I could be the real fellow like Britt. The latter was very clever and I used to go to the gymnasium and practice his best blows. Whenever I would see him on the streets I would follow him and when he fought I was somewhere inside or close to the outer walls of the building.

When Britt met defeat by Nelson for the first time, I was perched on the cross post of a telegraph pole. The arena was out of doors, tickets were high priced, ushers were paying premiums for their jobs and being only 14 years of age then I was too young to ask or secure employment around an arena. So I took to the highways where the view was unobstructed and the price within reach of any good climber. From 1 o'clock until 4:30 I sat there waiting for that great battle. The contest itself lasted one hour and a half. I certainly was stiff and sore from my cramped position in mid-air. Strange to say I was watching my present manager, Billy Nolan, who was Nelson's guiding spirit on that occasion.

For three and one-half years I engaged in close to fifty contests in and around San Francisco. In the beginning it was a case of taking very small purses, with many a good licking. The last year that I was boxing with so-called amateur clubs, I was so clever that I often had to give away chunks of weight.

It was a case of my meeting the best short distance fighters of the country, whom I defeated with ease in the four rounds as prescribed by amateur ruling. Seldom I received less than $500 for one of these battles. Then it was that my attention was turned to becoming a real professional, just eighteen months ago.

After my showings with Welsh, Young Erne, Joe Mandot and others my one ambition was to meet Wolgast for the title. I had met and defeated him in San Francisco in four rounds, received no more for it than I did for fighting an amateur, nor did I get the credit I should.

It began to dawn upon me that I may have been able to handle my own business in the small fights, to get the money and publicity and many other things in the big game. I had to have a manager. I had mostly every manager in the country trying to do business with me.

I wanted just one and secured him; our relations have been very pleasant, our success all that could be wished for, so today the ambition of my life has been attained. I have made that aim during my days of title holder to defend it honorably and if defeat comes my well wishers will have no reason to regret their support of me.

When I do lose, as of course I must some day, then I will turn my attention to business, not a saloon or dance hall, but a real business, where I will be honored and respected. That is the real ambition of my life.

ON THE IRON RANGES

EVELETH BOYS VISIT SAWMILL

Walk to Virginia and Inspect Big Virginia & Rainy Lake Plant.

Eveleth, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the Boys' Study and Recreation Club of the First Presbyterian church went with Rev. Philip A. Schwarz, Jr., their leader, to Virginia on Saturday, where they visited the big sawmill of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company.

This was the second "hike" the club has taken, the first having been out to the lumber camps on the other side of Ely lake, where the boys were shown extensive logging operations. The visit to the largest sawmill in the world on Saturday was also for educational purposes and showed the boys what is done with the logs and just how they are converted into all grades and sizes of lumber. It was a most interesting and instructive experience for them and the boys thoroughly enjoyed the trip. Every courtesy was shown the club by Manager C. H. Rogers, who very kindly granted the permission to inspect the many departments of the big mill under the able guidance of A. D. Heritage. Lunch was served at noon in the basement of the Cleveland Avenue Presbyterian church.

ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO

All Stomach Distress Quickly Ended With "Pape's Diapepsin."

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you musn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

VIRGINIA'S LID FITTING TIGHT

All Places Closed on Sundays and Front Door Screens Drawn.

Virginia, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia's new spring "lid" is reported as fitting very tightly. Saloons are closing at 11 p. m. week days promptly and all day Sundays. Not only are the places closed in accordance with police orders, but the screens on the front doors and front windows have to be drawn all day Sunday so outsiders can see inside. Yesterday was a "dry" Sunday here, but the number who patronized the Missabe Range railway cars for Gilbert leads many to the belief that the lid was not fitting very tightly in that village.

DULUTH WOMEN SAVE MUCH MONEY

Instead of so much meat a great many Duluth housekeepers are now serving "Minnesota" Macaroni twice a week. They say the men folks are not only glad to see them save the meat money, but like the delicious nut-like flavor of "Minnesota" Macaroni much better than meat.

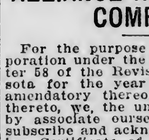

To those who do not know what a big difference there is in macaroni as sold at the stores, the rich, delicious flavor of "Minnesota" Macaroni will be a revelation. It is four times as nutritious as beef-steak, is much easier to digest and costs only about one cent a dish.

Try the handy "Minnesota" Cut Macaroni, which is cut into uniform pieces—it cooks more evenly and is quicker to prepare. Adv.

Many people cannot afford to have weak nerves. It would mean loss of livelihood. To everyone the loss of nervous energy is a serious matter. Every action uses up nervous energy which in health is steadily renewed by the blood.

As soon as the blood, for any reason, loses this power to constantly rebuild the nerves, a nervous breakdown threatens.

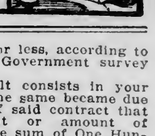

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic for the blood and their tonic action strengthens weak nerves. They are sold by all druggists, fifty cents per box, six boxes for $2.50 or direct by mail. The booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System," will be sent free upon request.

LYCEUM—Alice Lloyd in "The Rose Maid."
ORPHEUM — Vaudeville and "The Talkies."
EMPRESS—"The Sunny Side of Broadway."

"THE TALKIES" HAVE PREMIERE

Edison's Latest Invention Seen and Heard for First Time Here.

Twenty-five years ago you stood breathlessly before a box-like affair, jammed a pair of hard rubber tubes to your ear and heard: "The Blu-e-Dan-u-ube pla-yed by Gilmore's band, Edison record-etc." It was the first phonograph and it was wonderful.

Some fourteen years ago you sat in a dark hall and saw some misty figures dancing and flickering on a white screen. It was a reproduction of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight at Carson City. It left you with blurred, watery, sore eyes, but it was the first motion picture, and it was wonderful.

Yesterday afternoon about 1,600 people crowded the Orpheum theater to the roof, while some 300 more were turned away at the door. After four vaudeville acts were run off, the white screen appeared. For two or three minutes only blurred outlines showed, and the audience grew restless and nervous fearing a "flivver." But suddenly "The Edison Kinetophone" was flashed on the screen. Then the square of light became a theater stage, and a man walked quickly from the rear to the footlight and bowed. He lifted his right hand and spoke: "Ladies and gentlemen—." You saw his lips move, and you heard his voice. The picture of the man on the screen was talking to you. He made a speech telling about what was to follow. The man picks up a china plate and drops it. The crash comes as it strikes the floor. Another man comes in and sits down before the piano. As his hands travel over the keys the music comes, and follow it as closely as you will there is not the fraction of a second between the motion of his hands and the accompanying notes. A young woman appears and plays a violin solo, and another comes and sings. The young woman's bowing on the violin gives a good idea of how perfect the synchronization is. Some dogs run into the room and bark, and a bugler sounds a call. This constitutes the first reel. The second shows the Edison minstrels. The interlocutor says "Gentlemen be seated" and they sit down. Then a short minstrel show is given. It all works so smoothly that it is quite difficult not to accept it as something quite ordinary.

The possibilities are something hard to grasp. Five years from now an audience may be watching and listening to a production of "Hamlet" played by the greatest stars on the stage of this and other countries, at a cost of 5 or 10 cents apiece. It may witness a production of grand opera by Metropolitan stars like Tetrazzini and Caruso for 25 cents apiece. One hundred years from now the historical museums may show President Woodrow Wilson delivering his next message to congress, both his voice, and appearance and speaking characteristics being preserved.

Manager Billings stated after the matinee performance that he was delighted with the smoothness of the pictures. "In other cities they have had trouble for the few performances" he said, 'but we worked most of the night on the apparatus, and it was tested a score of times. I hope that all the remaining performances are as smooth as the first one. The pictures will be a permanent feature of the Orpheum bills for the rest of the season."

The balance of the bill this week is a good, average Orpheum "show." Ida May Chadwick, an eccentric comedienne and dancer of the Sis Hopkins type, assisted by a man and a woman scored the hit of the bill with a rough and ready comedy skit. Mathews and Shayne have an act they call "A Night on the Bowery" which scored. Harry De Coe presents some sensational balancing feats on kitchen tables and chairs. Irene Beressny plays on an instrument called the "Cimbal" which is a cross between a piano and a harp, is played like a xylophone, and sounds like an overgrown mandolin. She is assisted by a violinist, and the act was a popular one, especially when popular music was offered.

Johnny Johnston sings some comic songs acceptably. Clara Ballerini opens the bill with a novel trapeze act, and the Five Hursleys close it with some aerial tumbling.

TABLOIDS BACK AT THE EMPRESS

"The Sunny Side of Broadway" Popular With Audiences.

After two weeks of vaudeville the tabloids returned again yesterday to the Empress for an indefinite stay. And judging from the reception given "The Sunny Side of Broadway" yesterday, the latter form of amusement is the more popular.

"The Sunny Side of Broadway" is different from the other tabloid musical shows in that it stars Max Bloom, who is about the funniest comedian seen here for some time. It is his own style of acting and singing that made him so popular with the audiences yesterday. He has a way of getting his jokes across that is exceptional.

Br. Bloom introduces his comedy horse and the stunts that this animal pulls off are a scream. The horse is sold by its owner and repurchased every few minutes and the comedy of these situations is the hit of the show. Mr. Bloom is a very clever comedian, who makes the present production what it is.

Others in the cast who add to the comedy of the production are Johnnie Gilmore as Hennessy O'Toole and Ned Wilford as Michael O'Brien. They are both a clever comedy pair and they introduce a number of funny incidents throughout the play. Jack McGovern as George Hay has a pleasing voice which he uses to advantage in several numbers. He makes the fourth member of the funny quartet that scores such a hit in the intermission.

One of the more popular features of the production is the song and dance in the last act by Miss Alice Sher, with the assistance of the chorus. She also dances with Edward Van in an encore dance, which scored a hit.

The chorus of ten young women is a well trained one and makes a pleasing asset to the production. Among the more popular numbers introduced during the action of the play are the following: "Meet Me at the Stage Door, Johnny," "Beware of the Garden of Love," "Under the Pazazza Plant," "My Pal From Frisco," "Love is Very Foolish," "On the Mississippi" and "Down in Alabam."

Two reels of motion pictures are run off before and after the production.

"The Sunny Side of Broadway" will continue for the remainder of the week, with a daily matinee.

"THE ROSE MAID."

Alice Lloyd and Big Company at the Lyceum Theater.

"The Rose Maid," Werba & Luescher's spectacular sister opera to "The Spring Maid," with Alice Lloyd, the most charming entertainer sent America from England's shores, in the title role, has been much praised for its beauty, its wealth of lilting melody and the great size of its company, but reviewers have devoted even more praise to its members from a strictly vocal point of view. It is said to be the most important organization of singers that has been gathered for any light opera. Its cast, as it came from the remarkable New York run of the opera, includes, besides Miss Lloyd as its bright particular star, Juliette Lange, the Russian singer, Ida Van Tine, Jeannette Bageard in a typical French role, Arthur Clough, the best known of English light opera tenors, H. Tyler Brooks, the English baritone, Leo Stark, Harry Lester Mason, Edwin Clark and Harley Knoles in the leading comedy parts, besides a chorus for which it is at last claimed that a company of beauty has been gathered whose members can sing as the Viennese composer hoped for.

Alice Lloyd, jolly little English star, has made numberless thousands laugh, but she is an unusual prima donna of merry temperament who seems to enjoy it all herself and laughs so sympathetically with her audience, as to make her sense of good fellowship one of her greatest charms.

No woman player in the world has been so honored by prominent associations as she. She was the first woman to be made an honorary member of the far-reaching Order of Elks, the important Lodge No. 1 of New York city having welcomed her to its fold. From the walls of the New York lodge, Providence, R. I. lodge and that of New Orleans, great pictures of Miss Lloyd look smilingly down upon the members.

It is generally known that Miss Lloyd is the idol of her fellow players in each of her companies, and perhaps no gift that has come to her seems so valuable in her own mind as the immense silver loving cup from her company, with the inscription, "To the Sweetest of Them All."

"The Rose Maid" and Miss Lloyd will be at the Lyceum tonight.

DIGITALIS AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE

There are more cases of Bright's Disease on Digitalis and Basham's Mixture than anything else. One is for the heart and the other is an iron tonic. Yet if the case is chronic the books admit the outcome will be failure.

Then why give them?—Because there is nothing in the parmacopeia to counteract denegeration in the kidneys which is the real trouble and by holding up the heart and giving a tonic the patient may last a little longer.

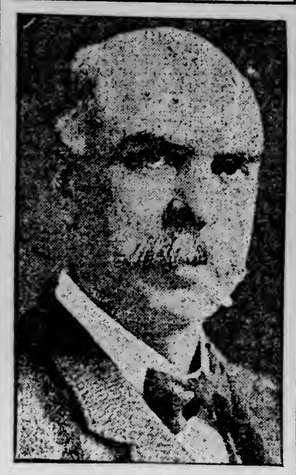

But is it not clear that if an agent has been worked out that counteracts Renal degeneration and thus prevents the escape of albumen that there is hope? That is the motive of Fulton's Renal Compound, a new result not reached by the pharmacopeia. That it gets this result can be proven by chemists with a little Picric and Citric acid.

We know of no chronic cases recovering under Digitalis and Basham's Mixture without Fulton's Renal Compound but thousands are getting results under the Renal Compound without Digitalis or Basham's Mixture. But they can be continued if necessary. There is no conflict.

If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up. It can be had at druggists supplied by Leithhead Drug Co.

Ask for pamphlet on our investigation into the curability of Bright's Disease, or write John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco.

PRINCE NOT AFTER TROYER'S SCALP

Had Planned to Reappoint Him Chief of Police.

Mayor W. I. Prince said today that an injustice was done him by the statement published in the News Tribune this morning to the effect that he wanted the public safety division in order to remove Chief C. H. Troyer of the police department.

"It is true that I wanted the division of public safety, but the removal of Chief Troyer was farthest from my mind," said Mr. Prince. "I have the highest regard for Mr. Troyer as an officer and a man. I believe he has done great work for the city in his present position, and I would certainly not remove him if I were given the division of public safety. Chief Troyer told a reporter for the morning paper just a few days ago that if I were assigned to the division of public safety he expected to be reappointed, and the morning paper had no authentic information to the contrary."

VERDICT FOR THE DEFENDANT

Injured Miner Fails to Recover From His Employers.

A sealed verdict agreed upon Friday night and opened in Judge Fesler's court this morning found in favor of the defendant in the personal injury action brought against the Oliver Iron Mining company by John Pajunen.

Pajunen alleged that through the negligence of the company he received injuries last November at the Norman mine near Virginia. He testified that he had been sent by a foreman into an ore chute with directions to clean it out. While in there, ore was dumped upon him, and he had to be extricated by fellow-workmen. Pajunen claimed that he had been crippled for life and left a nervous wreck as a result of the experience. He asked for $15,000.

John A. Keyes and Bert W. Forbes was his attorney, and Abbott, Merrill & Lewis represented the defendant company.

WANTS SCHOOL NURSE.

Cloquet Mothers' Club Urges School Board to Engage One.

Cloquet, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the regular monthly meeting of the Mothers' club at the Lincoln high school Saturday night a resolution was passed that a petition be presented to the school board at their next meeting asking for a school nurse, to be employed at the beginning of the next school year.

The petition will be presented through the secretary of the club and will be signed by the 105 members of the club. The school board has talked at various times of such an innovation, but as no urgent need arose nothing definite was ever done. Several mothers and teachers discussed the subject at the club meeting Saturday night and there was a very earnest wish manifested by everyone present that the school children be thus far safeguarded. It is very probable that the board will grant the request of the mothers. One hundred and twenty-five women were present at the Saturday night meeting, which was unusually interesting. There will be but one more meeting this year, that of May, the club being discontinued during the school vacation.

"PART TIME" MAN NAMED

H. E. Webster Is Appointed Health Commissioner By W. A. Hicken.

Recommendation of St. Louis County Medical Society Not Followed.

Commissioner William A. Hicken, director of public safety, did not follow the recommendation of the St. Louis County Medical society that a "whole time" man be hired for health commissioner.

Commissioner Hicken today turned in the appointment of Dr. H. E. Webster as director of public health, known heretofore as health commissioner.

It was stated last week that Dr. Webster was a receptive candidate for health commissioner, but that he would not consider the place if he should be obliged to devote his whole time to the office.

At a meeting last week the medical society passed a strong resolution approving the proposal that the health commissioner should devote his entire time to the place. The medical society asserted that in its opinion the best interests of the public health of the city could be better safeguarded in that manner than by the former method of hiring a physician who supervised the work of the department while taking care of his private practice.

Dr. Webster was former health commissioner, holding the position two years during the last administration of Dr. M. B. Cullum. His experience has given him much knowledge of the local situation.

The meeting of the medical society last week was considerably enlivened by the tilt which occurred over the whole time proposition. Dr. E. W. Fahey, present health commissioner, stated that the way the matter was framed it appeared as though the organization were endeavoring to further the interests of Dr. I. J. Murphy, formerly connected with the health department as assistant health commissioner. He declared that the association might as well come out with the declaration that it wanted Dr. Murphy for health commissioner and be done with it. Dr. Boyer is said to have stated that the association did not wish to indorse any man.

The meeting adjourned without indorsing any man for health commissioner.

It is believed that dissention will arise in the future over the question of having the health commissioner devote his whole time to the office. There appears to be a strong sentiment in the city that a young, competent physician could not only make a record for himself, but could do much to further health conditions in Duluth by applying his entire time to the place.

DAUGHTERS BEGIN SESSION WITH FIGHT

Members of D. A. R. Start in as Soon as Congress Congress Opens.

Washington, April 14.—The Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution opened today with a fight almost as soon as President General Scott had finished her address of welcome, asking for "peace and harmony."

The reading of the report of the credentials committee aroused a storm and many objections to rulings of the chair. A substitute motion providing for a new committee on which each of the three contending candidates for president general should have two representatives met with little recognition. The report finally was adopted.

The event of the day, out of a routine way, was President Wilson's address of welcome to the delegates late in the afternoon.

UNDERWOOD IS ORDERED TO BED

Chairman Has Slight Fever and Is in Danger of Breakdown.

Washington, April 14.—Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee was ordered to bed today by his physicians, who declared he had a slight fever and was in danger of a breakdown from hard work on the tariff bill. He may be confined for several days. His illness, however, did not interfere with the house caucus today which will work on.

ANDERSON TO HELP DRAFT SCHEDULE

With Sereno Payne Will Fix Up a Tariff on Wool.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, April 14.—Representative Sydney Anderson of the First Minnesota district, ardent Progressive, and Sereno E. Payne of New York, whose tariff law Mr. Anderson has denounced in unmeasured terms, have been appointed a subcommittee of the Republican membership of the ways and means committee to draft a Republican substitute to the wool schedule in the Underwood bill. Mr. Anderson indicated today that they would probably favor a duty of 18 cents on the scoured wool, which is equal to about 7 cents a pound on raw wool.

STROKE OF APOPLEXY.

Sinclair E. Atkins, Clerk in State Auditor's Office, Is Dying.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Still unconscious as the result of a stroke of apoplexy yesterday, Sinclair E. Atkins, chief clerk in the state auditor's office, is dying at his home here. The family and his physician, Dr. S. M. Kirkwood are constantly at his bedside. Death is believed to be only a matter of a few hours.

Atkins came to the capitol from his home in Elk River, Minn.

Nip Big Check Swindle.

Butte, Mont., April 14.—The keen eye of a local bank teller detected a clever forgery in Anaconda Mining company pay checks cashed in saloons here Saturday, resulting in nipping in the bud one of the biggest check frauds ever attempted. Several thousand dollars' worth of the bogus checks are believed to have been cashed. One suspect has been arrested.

TARIFF BILL MEETS GENERAL APPROVAL

President Thinks So and Does Not Believe It Will Interrupt Business.

Washington, April 14.—President Wilson believes the tariff bill meets the general approval of the country; that no healthy business will be interrupted and that while in most cases the cost of living will not be immediately reduced, the consumer will feel at once the benefit of a reduction in the sugar duty.

These views were expressed today by the president in a talk with newspaper men at the White House. He explained that his main reason for desiring a reduction on sugar was that the consumer deserved it. The president declared that arangements by which prices were fixed surely would be made impossible when a truly competitive situation was created and that the public would get the benefit very promptly in the case of sugar because he knew competitive elements were ready to contest.

Criticisms, he said, had been received from some perfectly legitimate interests, contending that the cuts in their cases were more than they could at present stand. Mr. Wilson said he did not see any ruinous cuts in the bill. He referred to the fact that members of the ways and means committee had heard every person interested and that their judgments were based on those hearings.

In connection with the sugar tariff the president was asked if he thought sugar factories, both beet and cane, could operate under free sugar. He said he certainly thought they could, remarking with a smile that the factories might shut down for effect for a time, but that they would open for business later.

The president said he hoped to open reciprocity negotiations with various countries as soon as the tariff bill was passed.

Smallpox In Alaska.

Washington, April 14.—Smallpox in Alaska has caused the public health service to decree that all travelers from the United States to the territory must be vaccinated or show a certificate not more than five years old.

Bank Fails To Open.

Providence, R. I., April 14.—The Atlantic National bank did not open for business today. A notice on the door said that it had suspended payment.

NAPOLEON HAD A LARGE WARDROBE

Wonderful Campaigner Took Pains to See That He Was Well Provided With Wearing Apparel

Pierre Le Sassier in Neal's Monthly: As the years come and go, along with them come and go the fashions in dress, to be slavishly followed not only by women, but also by the majority of men in easy circumstances who must have the latest thing in ties, the dernier cri in the way of waistcoats. What then would the comfortable man of today think of one of his acquaintances who regardless of the vagaries of style, would order waistcoats to last him for three years to come, and supply of neckties sufficient for the next six years?

Yet the great Napoleon did not hesitate to do this. To be sure no one would ever have accused the wonderful campaigner of being a dandy, or of setting great store by raiment; but, nevertheless, a letter of his to the keeper of the imperial wardrobe is a revelation of the modesty of Bonaparte's desires in the way of dress as well as of his devotion to detail. With the greatest exactness he names the articles to be purchased, their price, number, time of delivery and so on.

Sufficient to Last Six Years.

The letter ordering the emperor's outfit was written in Napoleon's own handwriting in August, 1811, and from the list appended it would seem as if his object had been to supply himself with sufficient apparel to last him anywhere from three to six years, and thus to banish the subject of clothes for a prolonged period from a mind absorbed in schemes of conquest and filled with dreams of limitless dominion. Judging by the generous provision of underwear demanded, it would seem that the laundress was an almost unknown luxury to the great soldier in his campaigns.

With all the minuteness of an auctioneer's inventory Napoleon made out his clothes' list, writing it himself and affixing it to a letter sent by him to Gen. Duroc, Duc de Frioul, grand marshal of the palace. A translation of this letter—the only one out of all those contained in the thirty-two folio volumes of Napoleon's correspondence in which mere clothes find a place—reads in part:

The Best Work Ordered.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 19, 1811.—M. Le Duc De Frioul: You will inform Count Remusat that there is not a single thing to be found in my wardrobe and consequently I withdraw from him the title of master of the wardrobe.. Until I have made provision for the filling of his place you will assume his duties. I am sending you the budget of my wardrobe, which I have just made up. I believe it may be possible still to economize a little on this budget. Take care that the tailor does not do any poor work. * * * On the day that the new articles are to be delivered to me you, personally, will deliver them to me in order to see if they fit properly; and only after that will they be paid for.

The Budget.

NAPOLEON.

Vain and said enough it all seems when one realizes that before the first grenadier's coat had been cast aside the conqueror had abdicated his throne and that long before the six years' supply of cravats had been exhausted the little Corsican's star of empire had set never to rise again.

DEAD STARS

There Are Ten Thousand Million of These Heavenly Bodies Chased About in Space.

Chamber's Journal: Possibly it has never occurred to many people that there are such bodies as dark stars; but so great an authority as Sir Robert Ball has said that the dark stars are to the bright for numbers as the cold horseshoes in existence are to the red-hot ones. In these days of motor vehicles it is evident that horseshoes are less numerous than they were; but doubtless the proportion of cold ones to those at any given moment red upon the blacksmith's anvil remains much as it always was. For every such hot one there must be many hundreds of cold ones; so that if the simile is sound, the heavens must contain an incredible number of these derelicts on the ocean of space, which, having lived their life, have grown cold and dead, but are still racing about at starspeed until in their wanderings they meet some other heavenly body in terrific collision.

If Suns Collided.

Such a gigantic catastrophe as the clash of two suns, each perhaps millions of miles in diameter, rushing at each other at the rate of twenty or thirty or even more miles per second would result, so the mathematicians tell us, in a world-splitting explosion exactly as if each were composed of billions of tons of gunpowder; and as when gunpowder explodes nothing is left but gas and smoke, so in the clash of stars nothing would be left of the two great solid bodies which had collided but an immense whirling mass of incandescent gas called a nebula, of which, as most people know, there are quite a number dotted over the heavens. This maelstrom of gas would sail about among the stars for ages, in the course of which it would naturally cool down and condense into a star-system much like our own, with probably a central sun, planets and moon.

Some of these would sooner or later arrive at a condition of temperature suitable for the support of life, and as the centuries passed would become peopled with sentiment beings. Gradually they would grow too cold for life to exist, and finally become frigid, cold, dark, stars once more. The number of stars visible to the naked eye is only a few thousands. With the best telescopic and other instruments it is calculated we can detect about a hundred millions—not a large number (there are fifteen times as many people as that living on this globe); but, judgment by Sir Robert Ball's horseshoe simile, and reckoning only one hundred dark ones to every bright one, we may take it that there must be at least 10,000,000,000 dark stars chasing about in space, most of which we have never seen and probably never will see.

Earth a Dark Star.

I say most of which, for perhaps it may come as a surprise to some that the earth we live in is a dark star; so are all the other planets and planetoids of our solar system, which with their moons, of which bodies, shining only by the reflected light of the sun, there are at least six hundred known to astronomers. Nor must we forget to mention those bodies called shooting stars which may be seen almost any clear night if patiently watched for. These, though they look like stars, are hardly, as every one knows, to be dignified by the name, being mostly but very small masses of matter flying about in space. They are quite cold and dark until they enter our atmosphere, which they do at such a speed as raises them at once to a white heat by friction of their passage through it, and thus they are revealed to us. For every one we see there must be many thousands whose paths miss us entirely, ships that pass in the night, silently and unknown. These, too, we must class as dark stars, though very humble ones. All these are cold and dead compared with our sun or any of the stars we see. From the nearest they would be quite invisible; and, vice versa, we cannot see the planets which revolve around the stars, if such there be, as is likely enough; for it is hardly to be supposed that our sun alone, among a hundred million others, possesses such attendants.

But we have one or two other reasons for thinking that there are dark stars much larger than any of these. Here and there are bright ones which are found to vary in magnitude at regular intervals. One, Algol in Perseus, not far from Cassiopeia, varies every three days froma star of the second magnitude to one of the third, and gives us only one-third as much light at its dullest as it does at its brightest. It seems probable that Algol is really two stars revolving about each other much as the two ends of a dumb-bell would revolve were it set spinning. One of these is supposed to be dark and cold, or comparatively so, and the other bright; it is easy to see how at each revolution the dark one might come between us and its brighter companion, and cut off part of the light, thus causing the changes we see.

About thirty of these variables have been discovered. It seems a small number, but it is plain enough that for one of such a pair to eclipse the other its path would have to lie exactly between us and its partner. Probably there are many whose paths do not fulfill this condition, and therefore cause no variation of light coming to us. Others are doubtless flying about the heavens on haphazard paths, and it is conceivable that one might come along and collide with us or our sun. The result of such a collision would undoubtedly be the end of this earth and its inhabitants.

Would Fulfill Prophecy.

If the intruder were of any respectable size, a collision with any of the larger members of the solar system would produce such a conflagration as would raise the temperature of all the rest above the point at which life as we know it could exist. "The earth and all the inhabitants thereof would be burnt up, and the elements would melt with fervent heat." Even if such a star did not collide, but merely passed through our sytem, the effect of its attraction would altogether upset present conditions, and almost certainly bring about the cessation of life on the earth.

Neither can we encourage ourselves with the hope that the collision would be too sudden for us to know much about it. No such thing. Our astronomers would see the star directly it got near enough for the sun to light it up, probably fifteen or twenty years before it arrived, according to its size and speed. They would be able to calculate its path and foretell to a few minutes the precise moment of the catastrophe, and we should have the added horror of the anticipation of our slowly advancing doom. Indeed, the passage of even a small star quite outside our system by many millions of miles would still have a sufficiently disturbing effect on us to draw us out of our path and alter entirely our climate and temperature.

The organic life of our globe requires for its continuance a temperature range of about 100 deg. Fahrenheit, an exceedingly narrow one when we consider the possible range of heat and cold. Outside of this nothing can live and grow, and it is one of the marvels of creation that the earth has for many millions of years maintained an average temperature over some part of its surface within this limit, and goes far to prove the existence of a mighty Mind at the back of it all who planned it with infinite skill and foresight apparently for the very purpose of evolving the human race as we know it. And who shall say to what heights of intellectual and moral perfection man is destined to climb? It may be that the end of all things is at hand, and that some one of these dark bodies is even now swinging along toward us from the depths of space, but seeing the many millions of years the solar system has continued in 'splendid isolation,' we may take courage for the future, and believe that the Mind that has by unchangeable laws brought man to his present state will carry him on to such perfection as he may be capable of. Judging by appearances this will take many aeons yet, so let us sleep peacefully in our beds for the present.

Melon seeds are to be found on almost every Chinese table.

WASHINGTON NOT IN NAPOLEON'S CLASS

Historians Assert That the Immortal George Was Far From Being a Great General---Fortunate in Being Opposed By Weaklings.

There has been much controversy over Washington's ability as a general. The message that Frederick the Great was once supposed to have sent, referring to him as "the greatest general in the world," has been proved to be a myth. The following passage from Charles Francis Adams' "Studies, Military and Diplomatic," shows what the hostile critics are saying. Mr. Adams, who is a grandson of John Quincy Adams and a great-grandson of John Adams, was himself a soldier in the Civil war, and so has a practical knowledge of military operations.

Kansas City Star: Washington impresses one throughout as being a clear headed, self centered Virginia planter and gentleman of the Colonial period, noble minded, serene and courageous, upon whom, at the mature age of 43, had been imposed the conduct of a cause through the command of the simulacrum of an army.

A man of dignified presence and the purest morals, his courage, both moral and physical, was unquestioned; but, frequently puzzled and hesitating, he showed a proneness to councils of war in no way characteristic of the born commander of men. As a strategist, he was scarcely superior to Howe; while as a tactician, Howe, mediocre as in this respect he indisputably was, distinctly and invariably outclassed him.

Too Ready to Fight.

Washington fought two pitched battles in the 1777 campaign, neither of which can be justified under the circumstances, and both of which he lost. His strategy was at the time and has since been characterized as Fabian, yet in every one of his campaigns he evinced a most un-Fabian reluctance to abandoning any position, even though of no strategic importance, or perhaps incapable of successful defense. It was so at Brooklyn and on Manhattan Island in 1776; and, again, on the Delaware in 1777. In both cases he was, in fact, altogether too ready to fight. To characterize such a strategy and tactics as Fabian is indicative of complete misconception both of terms and operations; they were the reverse of Fabian.

That the tools with which he had to work were poor, unwieldy and altogether too often unreliable does not admit of question; but it is the part of great commanders to make good such deficiencies in unexpected ways. This Washington failed to do. What he lacked is obvious, though then it could not have been forthcoming—a trained and experienced chief of staff, a man who would have been to him what Gneisenau was to Blucher in 1815, and what A. A. Mumphreys was to Gen. Meade during the sixteen months of the Army of the Potomac.

Greene Best Fitted.

Among the Revolutionary officers Greene unquestionably would most nearly have met the requirements of the place; but Greene, though naturally a soldier, was self-taught and lacked experience. It is doubtful if he had any correct idea of the functions of a staff, and he certainly was not familiar with the details of a complete military organization, even to the degree that organization had attained prior to the wars of Napoleon. But, probably, it is fortunate no such position then existed; for, had it existed, some foreigner would almost certainly have been selected to fill it; and it would be difficult to name any foreigner, adventurer or otherwise, who in the American service has ever yet really understood either American conditions or the American as a soldier. Almost invariably such bring to their task European notions and formulas; and such do not apply.

Essentially a volunteer, a ranger and a rifleman, the American soldier has an instinctive dislike for the European martinet; and, curiously enough, Washington himself neither understood nor used the American soldier as did Greene and Morgan in the Revolution, Jackson in the War of 1812, or Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, on the one side, and Lee, Jackson and Forrest on the other side in the war of secession.

In one respect, however, and a most important respect, Washington was supremely and uniformly fortunate—his luck as respects those opposed to him in the game of war was notable and uniform. Gage, Howe, Clinton, fairly vied with each other in their low level of the British commonplace—what Stedman most happily terms "monotonous mediocrity." Finally, as has elsewhere been said, Washington, courageous and enduring, confident himself and inspiring confidence in others, great in saving common sense, was unequaled in the possession of those qualities which go to make up what men know, and bend before, as character.

Fortunate in His Opponents.

Not only in this respect, but in his other limitations as well as attributes, a study of Washington is suggestive of William of Orange. Each evinced throughout life and under most trying conditions the same overruling sense of duty and obligation—the same steadfastness and serenity in presence of adversity and equal saneness of judgment and patient confidence in the cause to which Fate had devoted him. As a soldier, William did not excel. Confronted in Alva with a really capable military opponent, he never won a battle and his campaigns were utter failures. The Spaniard, in fact, did with him almost as he pleased, yet the Dutchman was indomitable. Though between the duke of Alva and Lieut. Gen. Sir William Howe no comparison can, of course, be instituted, it was much the same in this respect with Washington.

Neither William nor Washington evinced in his career the possession of any highly developed military or strategic instinct. In both also there was a noticeable absence of aggressive will power, and, moreover, be it added of that dangerous and ill boding arbitrariness of disposition almost invariably the concomitant of an excess of will power. In Washington, as in William, there was likewise noticeable a certain lack of intellectual alertness, amounting at times almost to slowness of apprehension.

By universal admission there is no more considerable, as well as admirable, figure in all modern history than William the Silent, and, while he stands forth as the great historical prototype of Washington, it may not unfairly be asserted the latter suffers nothing in a comparison with him.

HARDLY WORTH WHILE.

Life: First theatrical manager: "This play is by an American."

Second theatrical manager: "Better not read it then. It might be good and it would only be a disappointment to turn it down, when we can get so many of them from Europe for nothing."

THE PROPER FORM OF INTRODUCTION.

Boston Post: Such a usual thing as introducing one person to another is so often done in a bungling, unsuccessful, wrong way that its importance cannot be emphasized too often.

There are two or three points which should be emphasized. First, remember that the simplest, most straightforward introduction is the best. Second, do not mumble your words; make clear the names of the persons introduced by saying them slowly and distinctly. Do not rush through an introduction as if you disliked it or were ashamed of it.

A man always asks permission of a woman to bring a stranger to be presented. After obtaining this, he presents the man to the woman, mentioning the woman's name first. This order is the general rule. The woman's name is used first except in the case of a very elderly person or one of note, in which case the order is reversed. Keep the first rule in mind, as it will be applied more frequently in your social experience.

The accepted form is this: "Miss Blank, may I present Mr. Wood?" or, "Miss Blank, I wish to introduce my friend, Mr. Wood, who is very eager to meet you."

Never make a mistake of leading a woman around a room and introducing her. Bring the ones already present to her in twos or threes and gradually make her acquainted. Needless to say, a man is always taken around to the women in a party and presented to them.

A younger woman is introduced to an older one. An unmarried one is always presented to a matron. The one to whom an introduction is made has the name mentioned first, the one introduced coming next.

The distinctions are not so finely drawn in the introducing of men to each other. Of course, any well-known man is considered first. It is deemed an honor to be introduced to him.

When you introduce your relations, be sure to remember that everyone does not know that your aunt is married. The words, "my aunt," are not sufficient. Supplement them with the name by which strangers should know and address her. If your mother has been married twice, or if your married name is different from hers, give it, so that no embarrassing mistakes will be made.

So much for the introduction of persons. Be sure to speak so that there will be absolutely no misinterpretation on the part of strangers who meet each other for the first time.

The graceful introduction is a test of social poise. There is really no reason for the awkward attempts at it that we encounter every day. Indeed, the successful introduction is the unusual thing. Why this condition exists is attributable to the ease with which an introduction is made. It seems so simple that you do not give it a thought until circumstances force the role of introducer on you.

POWER OF PUBLICITY.

Continent: Teacher—"And now, who can tell me why we should always be neat and clean?"

Little Lizzie: "In case of accident, ma'am."

There are at present 43,000 passenger cars, 7,000 motor trucks and 20,000 motorcycles running on German roads. This is considerably less than in half a dozen American states, and barely half the number in use in New York state alone.

FINE WEATHER BEARS WHEAT

Farmers Getting Well at Work With Seeding the Spring Grain.

Warm, Dry Breezes Also Favorable to Downward Trend of Flax.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 14.—Wheat worked lower on the North American markets this morning by reason of the fine weather for seeding. Duluth May wheat closed ¼c to ⅜c lower. Durum closed ⅛c off. Cash wheat closed 1c to ½c under the May price.

Wheat worked still lower on the markets of North America today. There was a big decrease in the American visible supply, but this is a thing that is to be expected at this time of the year. Weather was such as to allow farmers to get at their seeding and other spring work. Reports from the winter wheat region were exceedingly favorable. The cables from Europe were generally bearish.

Duluth May wheat, which closed Saturday at 87⅜@87½c asked, opened today at 87⅛c bid and at noon was quoted at the same figure bid. There were lower quotations also from Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Liverpool wheat at 3:18 p. m. was unchanged to ⅜d lower. The market was beared by the larger world shipments than had been expected and by Saturday's weakness in America and Canada. The prices were steadied, however, by the reported decrease in the Liverpool stocks, light Plata offers and a better demand for cargoes.

Flaxseed Is Weak.

The flaxseed market was bearish this morning by reason of better weather for seeding in the country and for drying the roads, so that hauling might be done; and also by the expectation that drier and warmer weather will enable farmers of North Dakota, who still have a great deal of flaxseed in their fields, to get it thrashed.

The demand was quite dull, buyers maintaining a waiting attitude. Duluth May flaxseed at noon today showed a decline of ⅝@½c and July was ⅝c off. Minneapolis cash seed was a shade over the Duluth May price. Winnipeg May at noon today was ½c off at $1.11⅞, being 14¼@14⅜c under the Duluth May price. Buenos Ayres May seed Saturday closed ⅜c off at $1.22¼. London-Calcutta April-June today closed unchanged at $1.53⅞.

FLAXSEED.

Little business took place on the Duluth flaxseed market last week and changes in price were of small moment. Duluth May seed closed last Saturday ⅝c off compared with the close of the Saturday before and Duluth cash seed for the week before showed a falling off of just ⅛c. Winnipeg May seed for the same week showed a decline of ⅞c. Buenos Ayres May during the same period advanced 1c and London-Calcutta April-June seed advanced ⅞c.

The Minneapolis market has been considerably stronger than that of Duluth and Minneapolis has been getting most of the Northwestern seed. For some days Minneapolis crushers have been bidding the Duluth May price for cash seed. Another reason why Duluth has not received much of the Northwestern seed is that there has been very little room for it in the elevators and its shipment to Duluth has not been encouraged. During the past week Duluth received only 36 cars of American seed against 79 cars the week before, while Minneapolis received 168 cars against 125 the week before.

Bonded seed from Northern Canada has been arriving in large quantities, as the tables below show. This seed for the most part is filling room for which the shippers contracted long before there was any indication of the present congestion.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, April 14.—Continued good weather depressed wheat prices today. Lower Liverpool cables also helped the downward trend. Excellent crop outlook reports added to bear sentiment. Opening figures were ⅛c to ¼@⅜c lower. May was a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 90¾@90⅞c to 90⅞@91c. A drop to 90½c quickly followed.

Shorts, covering freely, caused a slight rally. The closing was nervous with May at 90⅝@90¾c, a net loss of ¼@⅜c.

Generally clear and mild weather caused a dip in corn prices. Cash demand was moderate. May opened ⅛c to ¼@⅜c lower at 55¼@55⅜c to 55½c and went down to 55⅛c.

Selling by important houses brought about still lower prices. A fair reaction followed. The close was easy, with May at 55⅛c, a net loss of ½c.

Oats followed other grains downward. May started unchanged to ⅛c lower at 34⅞@35c and eased off to 34½c.

Provisions were higher, good buying of lard lending strength to almost the entire list. First figures were unchanged to 5c higher with May quotations showing $19.97½ for pork, $10.97½ for lard and $11.35 for ribs.

Duluth Hay Market.

The movement of hay in the Duluth market during the last two weeks has been very slow. The total number of cars of hay inspected at Duluth during the two weeks closing today has been 48; during the previous two weeks 46 cars were inspected, and during the two weeks closing a year ago today the total number of cars inspected was 80. The roads are very bad now and farmers are not doing much hauling on that account, and also on account of their other spring work, which keeps them busy. Last spring the roads were not nearly so bad as they are now, as there had not been so much snow. Moreover, the prices at Minneapolis are much more attractive than those at Duluth, and therefore hay that might otherwise come to Duluth is being diverted to that market.

Good hay is scarce, though there is plenty of lower grade hay. The market has stiffened up a little during the past two weeks on the good grades. No. 1 timothy, which two weeks ago was bringing $12.50 to $13 per ton, now rules at $13 to $14; No. 2, two weeks ago, $10 to $11, now $10.50 to $12.50; No. 1 mixed timothy, two weeks ago, $10 to $11, now $10 to $12; No. 2, two weeks ago, $7 to $8; now $7 to $9; No. 1 upland, two weeks ago, $10.50 to $11.50, now $11 to $12.

STOCKS HAVE FALLING OFF

Calling of Loans Responsible for Weakness of Specialties.

Prices Tend to Lower Level Throughout the Final Hour.

New York, April 14.—Prices moved irregularly when the stock market opened today, two hours after the usual time. There was active selling of Reading and Steel, which were heavy. Amalgamated, Canadian Pacific, and Smelting were fractionally higher. Union Pacific opened at Saturday's close but shaded off on the first few transactions.

Bidding up of several of the recognized leaders was resorted to in an endeavor to promote buying of the general list. The effort proved futile and the list sagged again. Minor specialties exhibited persistent weakness, particularly Rumley and the petroleum shares, which established new low records.

Increased heaviness developed and active stocks sold from a half point to a point below Saturday's closing. Reading, Lehigh Valley, Chesapeake & Ohio and Interborough Metropolitan preferred were under notable pressure.

The market closed heavy. It was asserted that calling of loans by banks, in which certain industrial collateral figured was responsible for the weakness of various specialties. Prices gravitated toward a lower level throughout the final hour. Offerings were light but the absorptive capacity of the market was not sufficient to take stocks without concessions.

Cotton Market.

New York, April 14.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 5 to 8 points in response to lower cables, a fairly good weather map and reports unfavorable from the drygoods trade, which is supposed to reflect uncertainty in regard to the tariff. Trading was active and the market appeared to be very much unsettled but prices held within a point or two of the opening figures during the early session.

Trading reflected heavy liquidation under bear pressure, while the decline was held in check by the profit-taking of old shorts and scattered Southern buying orders.

COPPER STOCKS SAG A LITTLE

This was a dull day on the copper stock market, as it was in stocks in general. No great changes took place in the coppers. Such changes as did take place were mostly to lower levels. There were declines in Amalgamated, but the loss in every case was less than $1. The general stock market of New York was rather weak and gave copper stocks no encouragement. The most striking feature of the situation in regard to copper stocks was the bullishness of the copper metal market of London, which closed with spot copper 15s higher and futures 17s 6d higher, as a result of the day's trading.

Gay & Sturgis received the following statement from D. C. Jackling, the copper mining expert, concerning copper metal:

"I regard the outlook for copper as very bright but I have so considered it for the last two years. Disregarding the month-to-month fluctuations, it now seems to me that we are close to present production capacity of the existing mines, and if there is to be any considerable gain in output during the next few years, I fail to see whence it is coming.

"The so-called 'porphyry' copper mines now produce, roughly, between 25 per cent or 30 per cent of the copper mined in this country. It is interesting to consider where copper might now be selling, if the porphyries had not been discovered. It takes two or three years to develop and bring a copper mine to the production stage, and even if there were now a number of new and big mines being opened, they would not be shipping until, say, about 1916. During that time the normal increase in demand, that is to say, the average increase per year for the last decade, would be sufficient to take care of the increased supply."

FORMER TREASURER SUED BY THE STATE

Dr. Fullerton of Medical Examiners Is Charged With Spending Money Illegally.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. William S. Fullerton, St. Paul, former treasurer of the state board of medical examiners, today was made defendant in a suit brought by Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith to recover $18,372.75 in fees collected by the board and, it is alleged, not turned into the state treasury.

The fees collected, it is said, were used by the board in the belief that it was entitled to them, although Mr. Smith had ruled that the fees should have been turned in to the state. The suit covers a period from Jan. 15, 1906, to Feb. 10, 1912.

District Court Jury Returns Verdict of Not Guilty.

Virginia, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—After deliberating from 10:30 a. m. till 2:10 p. m. today, the district court jury that heard the evidence in the case of the state vs. Carmen de Vito and Joe Vetromi, charged with robbing Mike Perubic here last December of $250, returned a verdict of not guilty.

CHICAGO TAILOR FOUND MURDERED IN HOME.

Chicago, April 14.—George Dietz, owner of a woman's tailoring establishment, was found murdered in his home at 733 Aldine avenue early today.

His head had been crushed and he is believed to have been beaten to death with a hammer which was found in the room. A letter was found in the room indicating that revenge was the motive of the crime.

Dietz was wealthly and lived alone with his wife who discovered the crime. The slayer escaped without awakening the woman.

AN ANTARCTIC COAL FIELD.

Consular Reports: Concerning the discovery of coal in the Antarctic region visited by the Shackleton and Scott expeditions, Prof. D. W. Edgeworth David, professor of geology and physical geography in the University of Sydney, is quoted in the Australian press as saying:

"In reference to the scientific discoveries of Scott's party there can be no doubt they will prove of immense interest and importance. In the first place, it is stated that a good collection has been obtained of fossil plants associated with the seams of coal discovered by Shackleton at Buckley's island, at the head of the Beardmore glacier. Frank Wild, of Shackleton's party, was the actual discoverer of seven seams of coal outcropping in a great cliff face of sandstone and shale. The thickness of these seams was seven feet, inclusive of a few clay bands, and Wild chopped small specimens of the coal out with his ice ax. These have been analyzed in Sydney, and show the coal to be of workable quality. It is almost certain that this coal field will prove to be perhaps one of the largest of the unworked coal fields of the world, as it has been traced now through the further researches of Capt. Scott's geologists, Messrs. Griffith, Taylor and F. Debenham, to a point about 650 miles north of the head of the Beardmore glacier.

Notice is hereby given that on May 21, 1913, at 10 o'clock A. M., in the office of the County Auditor at Duluth, St. Louis County, in the state of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from date of sale to June 1st, 1914, must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale; the rate of interest on the unpaid balance is four per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1st of each year: provided, the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid within ten years from date of sale, the rate of interest will be computed at five per cent per annum.

Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at time of sale.

Lands on which the interest is delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale, or before resale to an actual purchaser.

All mineral rights are reserved by the laws of the state.

Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser.

Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority. Appraisers' reports, showing quality and kind of soil, are on file in this office.

Lists of lands to be offered may be obtained of the state auditor or the state commissioner of immigration at St Paul, and of the county auditor at above address.
